Recessional

Wilma Butler was born on April 16, 1956 to Gaynell and the late Ferman Butler. Wilma attended school and worked at Kaz Inc. in New York. She was a member at Shiloh Baptist Church. She later relocated back to North Carolina and worked at the hotel. She then joined Running Branch Disciples of Christ Church where she enjoyed going until her health declined. She loved her grandkids, playing bingo, scratch tickets, going to Carlie C's everyday, "yelling", and please do not touch her "Pepsi". Porky was loved by everyone she came across.

She leaves to mourn her passing: her mother, Gaynell Butler of North Carolina, her daughters, Lyntavia Hughes of New York and Shaquala Smith of North Carolina, her sisters Donnie Butler and Anita Lane of North Carolina, her brothers, Michael Butler and Joe Bryant of North Carolina and Charles Butler of New York, four grandchildren, Andre Perry Jr. of New York, Ya-Zysha "Noot" Sutton, Tyion Siermons and Kyion Siermons of North Carolina, two great grand kids, Amarion Perry and Amilah Perry of New York. She also leaves three aunts, Emma Sanders of Massachusetts, Geraldine and Bessie Royal of New York, Bernice and Mildred Royal of North Carolina, her uncle Robert Earl of North Carolina, a niece, Laquasha Bowels of New York and a special nephew Jasheem Butler.
