

Going Home

I watched as the angels were coming for me,
And thought in amazement, "How can this be?
My life should be long, there's so much to do!
How can I leave when my days have been few?"
Yet, as they come, there's no feeling of dread.
I see death's a doorway to step through instead.
Looking through, into the mists, I can see,
The friends and the family who preceded me,
All of them waiting to welcome me home.
Now, suddenly, here I feel almost alone.
The pull is so strong, yet something says, "No,
Your loved ones on earth don't want you to go."
But if only they knew the things I can see,
They'd not be sad, they'd be happy for me.
There's so much to do, there's so much to learn,
I'm eager to be there. Now my soul yearns
To be there helping, worlds without end,
Blessed to be meeting my Lord, and my Friend.
I've cherished each moment of life we have known,
Yet, though I will miss you, I've got to go home.
