Reflections

Carolyn Jackson, affectionately known as “Cooki & G-Mama” was born August 19, 1957 in Rockwall, Texas to “Big Daddy” Emerson Sr. and Willie Strange.

Carolyn transitioned March 29, 2021. She was proceeded in death by her late husband, Jay Jackson; grandparents, grandson, Raekwon; and niece, Chelsea. Carolyn leaves precious memories with her sons, Michael Sr. and Patrick Ward; grandson, Michael Jr.; granddaughters, Amaya and Sabrina; four brothers, Bobby, Emerson, Fredrick, and Michael; four sisters, Jean, Brenda, Patricia, and Phyllis.

Carolyn loved her friends, extended church family and accepted everyone right where they were. She modeled humility and kindness; she wore love like a beautiful garment. Carolyn encountered Jesus Christ at the innocent age of 17 and was filled with the Baptism of the Holy Spirit. Carolyn’s self-less character shared this experience with many. She left an in-delible impression that was noticed; but untold. My sissy is gone too soon and will be missed; but not forgotten. Together, “We will tell it!” as we celebrate her life & legacy.

“Let Life Live”

Life is a double screen picture when you venture off into your own understanding. Trying make sense of non-sense, you always miss the main objective. Focused on the un-known; but yet blind to the obvious. The problem is we find blame else-where, instead of placing ourselves there. We might not always be guilty; but are not totally innocent. We all play a part in life, have a point of view, instead of pointing fingers, come up with a solution not confusion. For every cause there is an effect, neglect is turning the other way, ignorance is not knowing, stupidity is not wanting to know. See, the world is ours; we don’t belong to it. God created the earth for us to nourish & cultivate, it’s not too late. Community is unity, separation is deprivation. Don’t deprive living!
