You Labor Here is Done

Early in the morning, you took your morning rise
And looked towards the heavens with tender loving eyes.
You always worked hard for your family, without any grumbling or complaints,
Never tiring in your efforts or becoming remotely faint.
Throughout your days of labor you took time to make many friends
And shared many words of wisdom, a true friend until the end.
Providing a home of discipline, laughter, hope, and love
You were more than just a husband or father, but our angel from above.
And now the morning sun has set and your time has truly come,
Don't worry because we understand your labor here is done
