Abstract: Over the past few years, various optics education and outreach programs have been developed and implemented in Southern California. These include after-school and extracurricular classes for K-12 students, science and engineering fairs and special events, college and university courses and building links between academia and industry in the form of career paths. Bo Wang will serve as the facilitator for the presentations; with Donn Silberman starting off with an overview of OISC programs including K-12 & UC Irvine Optical Engineering & Instrument Design programs. Nicolaus Lambert will discuss The Ensign-Lambert Optics Education Program (ELOEP) which provides field trips to inspire the next generation of problem solvers in applied physics and mathematics and the Photonics program at Irvine Valley College. Julia Majors will review outreach activities of the UC Irvine Photonics Society and their connections with other OSA / SPIE Student Chapters in Southern California and beyond. The goal of these presentations is to provide our members with a perspective of the breadth and depth of these efforts that fulfill in part the related Aim & Purpose of the OSSC as described in our Articles of Incorporation.
