Why Do I Belong?

Occasionally someone asks me why I belong to the Association for Facilities Engineering. I tell them I belong because:

- I do not think that I know all that there is to know about the facilities engineering and maintenance profession.
- I want to keep up with the ever changing developments in the facilities engineering, maintenance and operations field.
- I want to attend meetings where I can network with other facility professionals and learn from their experiences.
- I need the best technical information available in every area of facilities engineering and management, and only AFE can provide this service through its publications, monthly webinars and web site.
- I belong to AFE to show my employer, my peers, & other professionals in facilities engineering that I take my profession seriously
- I can earn certification in the Certified Plant Engineer (CPE), the Certified Professional Maintenance Manager (CPMM) and the Certified Professional Supervisor Programs
- I can find interesting and informative articles in the Facilities Engineering Journal

Early in my professional career, I am in the LEARNING phase whereby AFE is a huge resource to help me progress to the LEADING phase

where AFE affords me many opportunities to lead;

utilizing this learning/leadership experience and knowledge, I move to the place where I now INFLUENCE company and industry policy

Learn...

Influence

I have the opportunity to Learn, Lead and Influence through networking with other industry professionals
