

PATAGONIA – SOUTH AMERICA

Dec. 28, 2020 – Jan. 10, 2021

Patagonia is the semiarid scrub plateau that covers nearly the entire southern portion of mainland Argentina. With an area of about 260,000 square miles, it constitutes a vast area of steppe and desert that extends nearly the entire southern half of Argentina. It is bounded, approximately, by the Patagonian Andes to the west, the Colorado River to the north (except where the region extends north of the river into the Andean borderlands), the Atlantic Ocean, to the east, and the Strait of Magellan to the south; the region south of the strait—Tierra del Fuego, which is divided between Argentina and Chile—also is often included in Patagonia.
