Polar Bear Regatta

October 5-6, 1991, Lake Davenport, IA

After weeks of mostly beautiful, warm, dry days, the weather suddenly turned bad---cold, wet and windy--just what you would expect for a Polar Bear Regatta. Weather forecasters made it sound worse than it was (or did they?).

After a brief skippers' meeting on how to contend with Mississippi current and barges, a first race was sailed in 10-20 with gusts to 25 mph plus big chop. Further deterioration of the weather cancelled further races on Saturday. Two races Sunday morning completed the regatta with the following results.
