

National Hydrologic Warning Council 2011 Awards Program

Nomination Submittal Instructions

Nomination Deadline: April 1, 2011

About the NHWC awards

The mission of the National Hydrologic Warning Council (NHWC) is to promote the acquisition, dissemination and utilization of hydrologic and meteorological data in real-time for the protection of lives, property, infrastructure and resources, and to support the subsequent uses of the data to improve knowledge and management of the environment.

In 2007, NHWC initiated an awards program to highlight exceptional work and innovation in the field of hydrologic warning. The third biennial awards will be presented at the 9th NHWC Conference in San Diego, California being held from May 9-12, 2011.

Award Categories

Outstanding Service Award – Awarded to an individual whose work has exceptionally benefited an individual organization and/or the hydrologic warning profession.

Operational Excellence Award – Awarded to an organization that has developed and/or maintained an exceptional hydrologic warning system.

Hydrologic Warning Innovation Award – Awarded to an individual or organization that has developed an innovative product or program improvement that has exceptionally benefited the hydrologic warning profession.

Outstanding 2009-11 NHWC Transmission Article Award– Awarded to an individual who prepared an outstanding article for publication in NHWC Transmission during 2009-11.

Subject line: Question: 2011 CASQA Award Nomination
Content: Include your name, your question, reply email, and telephone number.

Submittal Acknowledgement – Receipt of e-mail nominations will be acknowledged within five business days via a reply to the sender. If you do not receive an acknowledgment within five business days, please seek clarification as a “Question” (see above).

Duplicate Submittals – In the event that two or more nominations are received for the same individual or organization, each nomination will be treated individually.

Limit On Awards – There is no limit on the number of awards that may be awarded to any individual or organization. NHWC reserves the right to determine the number of awards to be made in any category, ranging from zero to one or more awards per category.

Nomination Coordination – Nominators are encouraged to coordinate with their nominees regarding the nomination process. NHWC will require that nominees selected to receive awards grant permission to display examples of the winning work on the NHWC website for up to 18 months following the date of presentation of the awards.

Winning Awards – Nominators submitting proposals selected for an award will be required to assist in the development of a short presentation for use during the award presentation ceremony.

Content of Nomination Proposals –The content of a nomination proposal will vary by category of award. Two categories of content have been established: mandatory content and optional content.

Mandatory content is essential to the operation and management of the 2011 NHWC Awards Program and must be clearly and fully provided by the nominator. Nomination proposals lacking mandatory content may be rejected during the evaluation process.

Optional content is available to the nominator for highlighting the attributes of the individual or organization being nominated. The extent of optional content to include in the nomination proposal is determined by the nominator. The optional content is the nominator’s opportunity to “make the case” for this nomination proposal being selected for a NHWC Award.

Review of Nominations – Review of nominations will be conducted by the NHWC Awards Committee. For both mandatory and optional content, the NHWC Awards Committee reserves the right to validate the content of any nomination proposal, to request supplemental information from the nominator, or independently seek supplemental information it deems necessary for the operation and management of the 2011 NHWC Awards Program.
