LOWLINC Speaker Series

Madeline Salustri, Seussical for Grown Ups. Tuesday, June 5. 1:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. Community Center.

Come spend an afternoon with Theodor Geisell. He's famous for his words, his rhyme, his outrageous illustrations and his fun! He's not so famous for his politics, his shyness and his obsessive work ethic. Madeline Salustri will present Dr. Seuss for Grownups. The program will give a glimpse into the life and works of the legendary author, Geisell, known to the world as Dr. Seuss. We've read Dr. Seuss' wonderful books to our kids and grandkids. This is a Seussical for Grown Ups.

Madeline Salustri, a resident of Lake of the Woods and a member of LOWLINC, is a retired educator, whose working years were in New York State. Among her jobs, she counts English teacher, curriculum coordinator and administrator of ten school libraries. Her first retirement, 27 years ago, did not work, and so she taught creative writing and public speaking. She also did some acting, dramatic readings and lecturing across the state of Connecticut until she and husband Alex moved to the Lake in 2011. This second retirement is working, and she is simply having fun sharing programs like this one.
