Overview

Sections 544 and 548 of the Bankruptcy Code establish the rules for bringing fraudulent conveyance actions in a bankruptcy proceeding. Section 548 sets forth the criteria for bringing fraudulent conveyance actions under the Bankruptcy Code. Section 544\(b\) of the Bankruptcy Code gives the trustee the rights under state law to avoid fraudulent transfers.

Most state laws are modeled after either the Uniform Fraudulent Conveyance Act (UFCA), the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act (UFTA), or the Uniform Voidable Transactions Act (UVTA). These statutes generally provide that a transfer is avoidable if it is either actually fraudulent or constructively fraudulent. The UFTA, drafted in 1984, replaced the UFCA in most states, and the UVTA amended and updated the UFTA. Determining which applicable law might apply is essential, because each state's fraudulent transfer law may present different elements that must be proven, different burdens of proof, and different statutes of limitation. Note that a handful of states use a codified version of the Statute of Elizabeth of 1571. Collier on Bankruptcy 548.01.

Comparison of Major Provisions of Different Fraudulent Transfer Laws

This chart compares the requirements under the various fraudulent conveyance laws.

Feature of Law	Bankruptcy Code	UFTA/UVTA	UFCA
Actual intent	Must be intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. 11 U.S.C. § 548(a)(1)(A) .	Standard is intent to hinder, delay, or defraud. UFTA § 4(a)(1). Statute lists 11 badges of fraud to which "consideration may be given." UFTA § 4(b)(1)-(11).	Must be intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. UFCA § 7.
Constructive intent—quantum of consideration	Reasonably equivalent value. 11 U.S.C. § 548(a)(2)(B)(i) . BFP v. Resolution Trust Co., 511 U.S. 531 (1994) , holds that reasonably equivalent value is given presumptively in any non-collusive, properly conducted foreclosure under non-bankruptcy law.	Reasonably equivalent value. UFTA §§ 4(a)(2); 5(a). Section 3(b) states that "person gives a reasonably equivalent value if the person acquires an interest of the debtor in an asset pursuant to a regularly conducted, noncollusive foreclosure sale . . ." UFTA § 3(b).	Fair consideration. UFCA §§ 4-6. Section 3(a) requires both an exchange of a "fair equivalent" and good faith. UFCA § 3(a). Also note that Section 3(b) requires, in the context of the grant of security, good faith and that the debt secured not be in an "amount not disproportionately small as compared with the value of the property [transferred] . . ." UFCA § 3(b).
Constructive intent—financial condition	Insolvency. 11 U.S.C. § 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(I) . Insolvency is defined in Section 101(32) of the Bankruptcy Code essentially	Insolvency. UFTA § 5(a). Insolvency is defined in Section 2 as a balance sheet test similar to that used in the Bankruptcy Code, but	Insolvency. UFCA § 4. Insolvency is defined in Section 2(1) as the state in which the "present fair salable value of . . . assets is less than the amount
