BICEPP’s Business Resilience Webinar Series presents:
Anticipating the Behavioral Challenges of COVID-19 & Civil Unrest

Live Zoom Webinar

Date: Wednesday, December 9, 2020
Time: 10:00 am - 11:00 am Pacific Time

Subject:

It is tough living with record wildfires, hurricanes, floods, violent protests, rising COVID-19 deaths and our current intense political and economic turmoil. All causing tremendous stress to individuals, families, communities and organizations. For instance, the Kaiser Family Foundation found a growing number of U.S. adults are struggling with mental health issues linked to worry and stress, as many as 53 percent of us in July, 2020. The emotional and behavioral consequences are becoming increasingly disruptive and damaging. The true cost to society may not be fully realized for years.

This webinar will help professionals working in emergency management, business continuity, security and public safety roles better manage the consequences of the current threat landscape. Steve will address the unique behavioral elements of COVID-19 and civil unrest, as well as providing approaches to anticipating and responding to the human impacts of these events.

Program Highlights:

- Applying a tactical psychology approach: Using clinical information for its operational value
- Typical and atypical reactions to disasters and public health emergencies
- Exploring COVID-specific behavioral challenges
- Understanding group, crowd and mob behavior (including civil unrest)
- Integrating human factors into policies, plans and exercises
- Crafting behaviorally accurate drills and exercises
