AARP's Village Volunteer Driver Training Draws Broad Audience

collaboration with other Washington Villages. The curriculum covered a wide array of topics important for older drivers, from flexibility and strength exercises that make driving easier to changes in contemporary road design that reduce automobile speed and crash frequency. Learn More.

Andy Peers: Thankful to be Back in the Neighborhood

This month's Waterfront Village profile turns from our volunteer team to our generous donor base as we introduce our readers to Andy Peers.

Andy Peers is one of those rare birds called a Washingtonian. He was born in Puerto Rico and moved to Bethesda when he was four, and he's called Montgomery County and the District home ever since.

As a realtor at Compass Real Estate, he knows a lot about Washington's neighborhoods, but Southwest is his favorite. In 2005, he bought a condo in The Carrollsburg with a hunch that development along the waterfront might be around the corner. This Spring, he and his girlfriend, Danielle, jumped at the chance to put an offer on one of the townhomes near Fourth and G Streets, just a short walk from the Wharf development he imagined twelve years ago.

The Task Force, led by chairman and Village Founding Member Bob Rudney, will be distributing a brief online survey later this month to help the group plan 2018 events. Interested participants should email the Village or call 202-656-1834 to receive updates.
