Saturday was a wonderful fall day. The sun was out, good friends were around, this was a great day for anything other than sailing. There was not a breath of air all day. We had a great dinner and spent allot of time socializing, and enjoying the fall colors. Sunday morning did not look much better, but some wind did come up. We were able to get in three races in light air that morning. James Taylor pulled out the win in a tie breaker over Kurt Andrews.
