Lobby Days in Tallahassee

Since 2018 is an election year, the legislative session was early and LWVF held our state League’s annual Florida Legislative Summit mid-session, February 6-7. Five members of the LWVSC were able to attend this year including myself. I am so happy I was able to make the trip because our local League was recognized 3 times at the awards ceremony and it was quite an honor to be on stage 3 times in recognition of the accomplishments of LWVSC.

The state League had a large response to their requests for Advocacy in Action nominations for above and beyond advocacy efforts in the community. Cecile Scoon, Health Care & Rights Restoration Liaison, as well as 2d V. Pres. LWVFlorida, gave “Light the Fire” awards Restoration of Rights efforts. Many in our League supported efforts to collect petitions and Justice committee members, Alberta Wilson (chair), Tony Dutton, and Kathy Freeman went above and beyond in their efforts to collect, track, and turn-in petitions. Unfortunately, we did not make our quota but the Justice committee’s Timely Topic, and Tony Dutton’s advocacy persistence through an editorial column and a public proposal submission to the CRC got us a recognition award for our advocacy effort. Thank you to all who participated in petition collection.

There were 3 Advocacy in Action awards and 3 honorable mentions. All were awesome efforts. Our League received an honorable mention for our efforts to promote sustainability in the municipalities. Lorraine Koss’s persistence with the Cocoa Mayor and City Manager and organizing the Cocoa community to get a Sustainability Advisory Council were specific to our successful community advocacy leading to the award but we can congratulate many in our League for pushing sustainability throughout Brevard. Terry Mott and Terry LaPlante have kept a focus on the movement in the county and many of our members actively support Satellite Beach and Cocoa Beach sustainability boards. I believe our members will continue to be advocacy leaders in this area.

Deirdre McNabb, past LWVF president and current SOLAR Leader for the League, recognized all Leagues who have had a Solar Co-op. Yes, that included LWVSC! We hope to get another co-op started but the popularity of the program throughout the state has pushed the date out a bit later than we hoped but stay tuned!

Reproductive Rights by Jo Shim

Did you know that –

- Termination of a pregnancy was legal in the US until the mid-nineteenth century. A campaign to restrict abortion was initiated in the 1850’s by the newly formed American Medical Association (AMA). By the end of the century contraceptives and abortion were illegal throughout the nation.
- According to the 1.Guttmacher Institute 30% of women in the US will have an abortion before the age of 45 years.
- Access to safe and legal abortion is a public health issue.

The US League of Women Voters position on health care states that “Every US resident should have access to a basic level of care that includes the prevention of disease, health promotion and education, primary care (including prenatal and reproductive health), acute care, long-term care and mental health care.” Reproductive Rights and Justice is a new area of advocacy and study for the Space Coast Health Care Committee. Although much of the focus continues to revolve around protecting the right to choose and abortion rights, other topics such as access to prenatal care, appropriate sex education, access to contraceptives and reproductive justice for women of color and marginalized women are also crucial areas of advocacy.

The Supreme Court’s 1973 Roe v. Wade decision ruled that women have the right to terminate pregnancy based on the constitutional right to privacy. However, since that time there has been a continued effort to restrict a women’s right to choose in many states and Florida is no exception. Members of the Health Care Committee are working with the LWV of Florida to follow bills going through the state legislature during the current session. In most cases the results are not encouraging. Bills that promote and fund the activities of Crisis Pregnancy Centers (HB41/SB444) and ban one commonly used abortion method, therefore, reducing options for women (HB 1429/SB 1890) are very close to being passed. These bills continue to erode the rights of women to obtain safe abortion services. In addition, the Florida Constitution Review Commission (CRC) seeks to further curtail a woman’s ability to control her reproductive decisions through changes to the privacy clause. GET INVOLVED IN VOTER SERVICES!

Activities for the 2018 elections are gearing up. The LWV-SC received a $900 grant from LWVUS to provide voter registration for youth in Brevard County. Diane Conaway is the project director and is working with Fran Baer and the Education Committee to hold voter registration drives in several local high schools. The project will be completed by June 30, 2018. An important next step is to encourage all members to go to the LWVFL website: <http://www.lwvfl.org/wp-content/uploads/2017/08/2017-August-Voter-Registration-Training.pdf>, take the training provided and then the brief test so that they are certified to register voters. We will need many volunteers to register youth in the schools in order to meet our obligations under the grant

Barbara Williams accompanied Susan Webb and Diane Conaway to a meeting with Florida TODAY and the League of Women Voters of the Space Coast. We are working together to provide candidate forums for the state house and senate races as well as the local school board and county commission seats. The forums will be moderated by Isadora Rangel, Public Affairs and Engagement Editor with Florida TODAY and will be broadcast from the studios of Eastern Florida State College in Cocoa. Florida TODAY, SCLoC, and LWV-SC will develop the questions. We expect the forums to begin in early July so that most will be broadcast before ballots are mailed.

Thanks to the diligent work of Lucia Watson, Tony Dutton, Doreen Archer, and Brigitte Sinton, we have completed our work on revisions to LWV-SC Bylaws. They can be reviewed on the LWV-SC website in the Voter Services documents library: https://lwvsc.clubexpress.com/content.aspx?page\_id=86&club\_id=992157&item\_id=49350

First Vice President/Voter Services Chair Susan Webb, along with President Barbara Williams and FLSUN and IRL Committee Chair Lorraine Koss, attended the LWVFL Advocacy Summit February 6-7. We picked up a great deal of useful information from League experts, met with Legislators and attended Legislative Committee Hearings. It is a great experience. Go if you have the chance.

National Popular Vote Interstate Compact: What Voters Think
by Sharon Reynolds-Mixon

Results are in from a recent survey of 1,000 registered Florida voters regarding our league priority to support the National Popular Vote Interstate Compact (NPVIC). The poll results-conducted by Florida Atlantic University's Business and Economic Polling Initiative-show that 68% of those polled agree that the presidential candidate who gets the most total votes in all 50 states and Washington, D.C. should win the election. This finding is consistent with other polls of Americans around the country.

Our present Electoral College reflects the practice of "winner-take-all" in 48 states. This opens the door for presidential and vice presidential candidates to win by slim margins in so-called "swing states". Twice since the year 2000 the current system has allowed candidates with fewer popular votes nationwide to win the election.

Currently, bills are under consideration in both the Florida House of Representatives (HB 367) and in the Florida Senate (SB 1374) to support the NPVIC. Currently, 11 states (including the District of Columbia) have signed on to the compact, which gives the states the power to award all of their electoral votes to the winner of the national popular vote. These states account for a total of 165 electoral votes. In addition, 10 states are considering legislation to join the NPVIC. Should they all choose to join this compact, they would bring 139 more Electoral College votes to NPVIC. Two hundred and seventy electoral votes are needed to elect the president and vice president.

I urge you to add your voice to this growing bipartisan movement, which would allow every individual vote to be counted. Please contact your Florida legislators and let them know your stance regarding NPVIC. Tell your neighbors and friends about this issue and, if you are a member of a group that would be interested in a presentation on the topic, encourage contact with me at sarmixon2407@yahoo.com to help our league spread the word.

Fertilizer vs. Indian River Algae Blooms

–by Maureen Rupe

Treasure Coast’s TCPalm.com February 2nd story by Tyler Treadway titled “Study: Fertilizer bans cut nutrients in Indian River Lagoon, but don't stop algae blooms,” talks like the fertilizer ban is doing what it was supposed to, stopping fertilizer in the summer, but it’s not stopping algae blooms in the Indian River Lagoon. The first sentence of the story states: “Fertilizer bans are doing a good job keeping nutrients out of the Indian River Lagoon, but not the type of nutrients that feed algae blooms.” The story references Brian Lapointe, a research professor at Florida Atlantic University's Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institute. A research report by Lapointe “states the amount of nitrogen in fertilizer sold along the lagoon dropped 45,896 pounds between fiscal year 2013-14 and 2014-15.”

Great, but what’s wrong? “There may be less nitrogen in the water from fertilizer,” Lapointe said, “but the effect isn't evident. That's because the nitrogen we're finding in the lagoon isn't the type you find in fertilizers, but it is the type that feeds algae blooms.” Algae blooms, Lapointe said, are bolstered by ammonia, “the reactive forms of nitrogen. To support an algae bloom, that's what you want.”

The story went on to blame sewage and septic leakage for a lot of the issue. “Looking at all the data in the northern lagoon,” Lapointe said, “we concluded that wastewater, in the form of septic leakage and antiquated sewage treatment facilities, are the big problems.” The article also stated “Ed Philips, an algae expert at the University of Florida, agreed all kinds of algae “feed” on ammonia – and the brown algae that blooms in the northern lagoon “feeds” almost exclusively on it. But other algae species, Philips said, including the blue-green algae that blanketed the St. Lucie River in 2016, grow on the nitrogen found in fertilizer.”

Unfortunately, this article seems to forget the 1200-pound gorilla in the middle of the room and everyone seems to be ignoring...“Bio-solids.” I’ve talked to knowledgeable people, and when asked what do most cities do with their bio-solids and their reclaimed water during the banned fertilizer season, and I was told they do not stop. They couldn’t stop using reclaimed water or spreading their bio-solids, or they would not be able to process sewage during that time. I assume that means that reclaimed water that has nitrogen and phosphorus is still being used throughout the cities, and bio-solids are continually being spread over land where allowed for the class the city is certified.

I searched for a relationship between ammonia and bio-solids, as I know there is already a connection between bio-solids and fertilizer as bio-solids are now being used for fertilizer. I found a study titled “Land Application of Biosolids in the USA: A Review, by Qin Lu, Zhenhici L. He, and Peter J. Stoffella, at the Indian River Research and Education Center, University of Florida, Fort Pierce, stated “ammonium dominates the inorganic N in dewatered biosolids.” “Besides application rate, placement methods can have large effects on nutrient availability and water quality. Redeposition of ammonia volatilized from surface applied biosolids may contaminate surface water and sandy soils. Surface-applying biosolids without incorporation will maximize ammonia volatilization, whereas soil incorporation immediately after application can minimize N losses. Dewatered biosolids are more persistent but slower in nutrient release, while liquid biosolids are faster in providing nutrients for plant uptake.”

What does the above mean? The wetter a bio-solid is, the more it acts like fertilizer, and if you apply a dried version of bio-solid without incorporation (plowing the bio-solid into the soil), it’s more likely to maximize ammonia volatilization.

Lisa Rinaman, chief advocate and public's voice for the St. John’s River Keeper stated they are starting a study on bio-solids. We need to understand the true implications of this widely implemented practice to ensure we truly address the problem causing our algae blooms. There are a lot of problems causing algae blooms and all of them need to be addressed, not just the low-hanging fruit. If we don’t fix it all, we just as well stay home as the Indian River Lagoon continues to die.

How Bright is the Future for Our Children?

On January 11, 2018 the Florida Senate sent to the Florida House Senate Bill 4, unanimously passed in the Senate. It seeks to enhance Florida Bright Futures Scholarship Program initiated in 1997 by making permanent provisions for Florida Academic Scholars, students with a Grade Point Average of 3.5, 100% coverage of tuition and fees, provide $300 for books for fall and spring semesters, and for use during the summer terms.

Senate Bill 4 further provides for Medallion Scholars, students with a GPA of 3.0, coverage expanded from $77 to $159 per credit hour and allows provisions for summer term.

All recipients would continue to be required to complete high school coursework and meet test score standards and perform community service.

This Bill could have a very positive impact for Florida’s students since there has been a declining percentage of recipients over the past few years due to increases in tuition expenses and more difficult academic requirements particularly in the SAT and ACT exams.

To date, a companion bill in the Florida House has not been filed. It will be important to see, if and when such a bill is filed in the House, that it not be combined with less positive provisions for our children’s future.

Locally there are many issues to work on. Members of the Health Care Committee are collaborating with Brevard 2-1-1 to ensure that women who call or access the website with questions on pregnancy and/ or abortion receive appropriate information not just referrals to Crisis Pregnancy Centers. With the nearest Planned Parenthood clinic located in Orlando access and transport are often issues for women living in Brevard. Another local concern is access to sex education in Brevard’s Public Schools and a state-wide taskforce is now working on this matter.

Monthly Reproductive Health and Justice conference calls are open to all League members that are interested, and details are posted on the LWV of the Space Coast calendar. Volunteers are also needed to participate in the monthly sex education calls. If you would like to work on any of these issues, please contact Diane Conaway and Susan Webb Health Care Committee Co-Chairs, Jacqueline Chandler Chair of the Women’s Issues Committee and Jo Shim Health Committee member – contact information can be found on the Space Coast League’s website.

1.The Guttmacher Institute is a leading research and policy organization committed to advancing sexual and reproductive health and rights in the United States and globally.
