

This End User License Agreement (EULA), accepted by Client's deployment of the IBM Program, governs the license of the following IBM Program:

IBM Maximo Application Suite

The following terms apply, and Client accepts these terms by deploying the IBM Program via the Amazon Web Services (AWS) Marketplace. Any referenced document that requires a signature is deemed to be signed and agreed to by acceptance of this EULA.

IBM International Passport Advantage Express Agreement and Attachment for Subscription License (if applicable) each available from the Passport Advantage Agreements section of this page:

IBM Program License Information (LI) document and terms for Separately License Code, if applicable

<https://www.ibm.com/software/sla/slabdb.nsf/search>

To find the terms applicable to the version of the IBM Program the Client is downloading and installing, search for the name of IBM Program at the above URL for the IBM Program License Information (LI) document. In the resulting list, scroll to find the version level of the code being deployed, and review all IBM Program terms associated with that version. The License Information file and terms for Separately Licensed Code, if applicable, are also contained in the deployed IBM Program. Client agrees that the applicable and binding license terms are those that are available at the web site above that are specific to the version of the Program that Client deploys, and that this applies to new versions of the IBM Program made available to Client via the AWS Marketplace.

IBM may update the terms of this EULA, and such updated terms will apply when published.
