

BECOMING A YOUTUBE PARTNER

GLUTUBE

YOUTUBE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

In order to be invited to become a YouTube partner, you'll need to be quite active on YouTube.

Expect to be uploading videos very regularly; think at least one per week. YouTube wants to see that you're an active participant on their site.

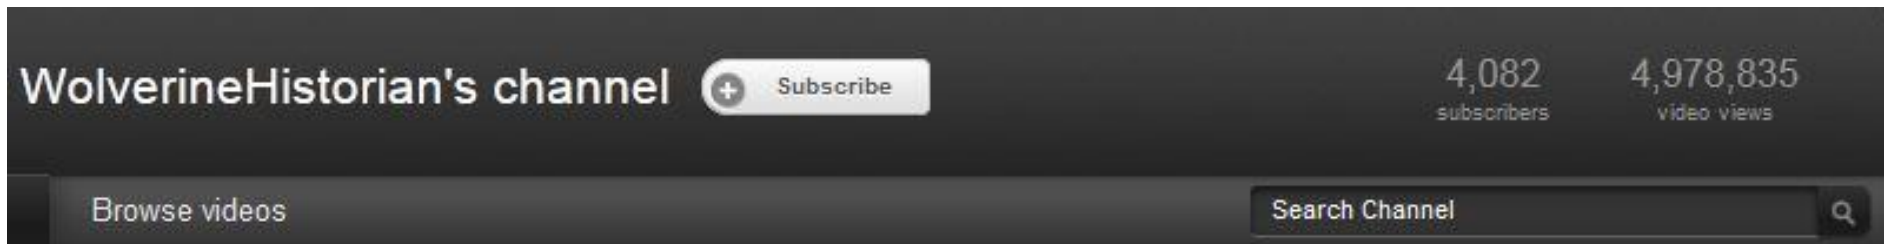

YOUTUBE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

After you're regularly uploading videos to YouTube, your next step is to become successful on the site. Your videos need to be getting views.

There isn't a set benchmark for it all, but you should consider getting around 100,000 upload views and around 1,000 subscribers to your channel.

You need to have a solid, steady fan base before you can plan on applying to the YouTube partnership Program.

YOUTUBE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

Interact with your subscribers. YouTube wants to see that you are talking and commenting on your own videos, going back and forth with your viewers.

Talk to them and answer their questions. Example:

Wasn't Keith Jackson wrong @7:25 when he said "...trying to get that two points". That would've been a touchdown if he had returned it

Yeah, Bob Griese corrected him later. You have to return a blocked extra point all the way to get 2 points. A blocked field goal all the way will give you the 6.

YOUTUBE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

It's important that you answer their questions honestly and truthfully as you possibly can.

Be thorough and put yourself in a good light. You have to understand that this is a selective process...

Even if you are denied, you can still apply again.

The final decision can take anywhere from one month to one day...it depends on your availability

YOUTUBE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

Are the videos that you're uploading complying with the YouTube Terms of Service? Is this video a good one worth uploading?

Again, if you don't make it, do not be discouraged. Keep applying until you're accepted!

It's best to have around 100,000 overall video views before you try to apply. You are only allowed to apply to the YouTube Partnership Program once every two months.

YOUTUBE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

If you have a few videos with a lot of views, that's a good channel to apply with.

If, on the other hand, you have a lot of videos with a few views, you aren't getting to many people (and you won't be eligible)

Make sure that you avoid uploading videos with copyrighted music or content that you didn't create yourself! Use royalty-free music if you need it.

Also, not all countries can apply to be YouTube partner.
