

Success in Teaching Writing: A Special Education Writing Conference from IEW®

---

January 16, 2021

10:00AM–3:30PM CT

---

A Free, Online Writing Conference
for Teachers, Parents, and Students

Listen. Speak. Read. Write. Think!

Andrew Pudewa
IEW's Founder and Director

IEW.com/SPED-conference

Schedule

10:00 AM. Overcoming Obstacles in Reading and Writing

In this talk Andrew Pudewa combines his knowledge of child brain development with the real-life experience of teaching his dyslexic son. Find hope in Andrew's story while examining practical tools that you can use with your own students.

---

11:30 AM. Teaching Writing to Students with Special Learning Needs

In this workshop you'll learn how the Structure and Style® writing method adapts to any type of special learning need. Discover how to accommodate each student's particular needs, how to build a young writer's confidence (and yours!), and how to implement practical tips for each of the nine IEW units.

---

1:00 PM. Student Writing Workshop

Gather your students online, and join in this live writing class with Mr. Pudewa. All who register will receive a link to download the student materials needed to participate in this interactive session. Prepare to have fun!
(Students of all ages are welcome to attend.)

---

2:30 PM. Putting It All Together: Questions and Answers with Andrew Pudewa and Julie Walker

As participants register for the event, they have the opportunity to submit a specific question regarding teaching students with special learning needs. In this session Andrew and Julie will share the submitted questions and offer helpful suggestions. If you are teaching students with special learning needs, this session will help equip you for success.

Listen. Speak. Read. Write. Think!

IEW.com/SPED-conference