In our first video, we looked at why instant commissions are the way to go.

The most beneficial affiliate marketing programs provide immediate payments for every sale.

The benefits to the affiliate are clearly tremendous; getting paid instantly is really nice indeed. And, depending upon how you pay for advertising or promotion, you might get your commissions before you have even paid for the method that made you the sales!

Cash flow is the number 1 thing in all businesses, particularly when just beginning. Having access to cash helps you to grow more quickly.

What's in it for the web site/product owners? They get more sales, as the affiliates are more inclined to sign on. Getting paid immediately really grabs the affiliate's attention!

Looking into instant commission programs is extremely recommended if you're an active affiliate. And if you're fresh to the affiliate game, it's the best place to begin.

Let's do a quick over view of a few.

When you're an affiliate for a product, your commission is paid automatically, immediately upon a successful purchase from the buyer.

Before you get your commission, though, the fee is paid by the seller. This means if you were getting a 100% commission, you'd get 100% of the cash left over after the fees.

For a refund, the customer requests it from the vendor and the vendor does the refund. When this gets sent to PayPal, the commission you got gets refunded to the seller.

All of this happens automatically. It's a great idea to keep the commission in your account for 60 days to ensure that the buyer doesn't request a refund.

The only e-mail address the buyer ever sees is the vendor's.
