INTRODUCTION

On the 187 rolls of this microfilm publication is reproduced the name and subject index to the general correspondence of the Office of the Secretary of the Navy, February 1930-June 1942. Also included is the correspondence of the Office of the Judge Advocate General (Navy) and the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations. This index and the correspondence to which it pertains are part of General Records of the Department of the Navy, 1798-1947, Record Group 80.

The Department of the Navy was established by an act of April 30, 1798 (1 Stat. 553). That act also provided for the appointment by the President of a Secretary of the Navy, who would be directly responsible for matters of naval policy; procurement of naval stores and materials; and construction, armament, equipment, and deployment of war vessels. During the 19th century the establishment of eight bureaus and several offices within the Department gradually reduced the Secretary's direct role in routine administration and naval operations. The growing complexity of naval warfare necessitated the establishment of the General Board in 1900 and the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in March 1915 (38 Stat. 929), to advise the Secretary on naval strategy and policy. In addition, the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics was established July 19, 1926, to coordinate naval aviation policy with other branches of Government.

In 1930 the Navy Department, headquarters of the Naval Establishment, consisted of the Secretary and his principal civilian executive assistants (Assistant Secretary and Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics); the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations; the Office of the Judge Advocate General (Navy); several offices, boards, and divisions; and eight bureaus. These eight bureaus, the core of the naval administration system, were based on the concept of the functional distribution of work and consisted of the Bureaus of Aeronautics, Construction and Repair, Engineering, Medicine and Surgery, Navigation, Ordnance, Supplies and Accounts, and Yards and Docks. After 1930, significant bureau changes included the establishment of the Bureau of Ships on June 20, 1940 (54 Stat. 492), resulting from a merger of the Bureaus of Construction and Repair and of Engineering, and the redesignation of the Bureau of Navigation to the Bureau of Naval Personnel in May 1942 (56 Stat. 276).

Important offices, boards, and divisions immediately under the Secretary and Assistant Secretary in 1930 were the Office of Naval Petroleum Reserves, which formulated policy for future naval fuel-oil supplies, and the Office of the Technical Aide, which coordinated policy for naval research and development; the General Board, mentioned earlier, the Joint Army-Navy Board, which advised the Secretaries of War and Navy on matters jointly affecting the two services, and the Compensation Board, which administered and determined the cost of building vessels for the Navy at private shipyards; and the Navy Yard Division, under the direction of the Assistant Secretary, which was responsible for administrative matters concerning navy yards. In 1934 the Navy Yard Division was renamed the Shore Establishments Division.

The organizational structure of the Office of the Secretary of the Navy remained basically unchanged before 1940, except for the elimination of the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics in May 1932 for economy reasons.

The tense international situation after 1940 necessitated major departmental reorganizations in four areas: policy control, naval command, logistics control, and business administration. Two new offices that were created to assist the Secretary in policy control were the Office of Budget and Planning, January 1941, to coordinate and centralize budgetary planning and control, and the Office of Coordinator of Research and Development, July 1941, which replaced the Technical Aide's Office and unified the Navy's research activities. The Office of the Under Secretary, established July 1, 1941, was responsibile for the general business and administrative management of the Department. The Under Secretary supervised the Office of Procurement and Material, organized in January 1942 to coordinate the production and procurement activities of all Navy branches. The Assistant Secretary, who continued to oversee the Shore Establishments Division, assumed the management of the Incentive Division, organized in May 1942, which was charged with the operation of the Department's industrial incentive plans. The Office of the Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics, reestablished in September 1941, resumed its former duties. For a list of the Secretaries of the Navy and their principal civilian executive assistants for the period 1929-45, see page 7.

The general correspondence of the Office of the Secretary of the Navy for 1930-42 reflects the diminishing size of the Department in the 1930's due to disarmament and the Great Depression, and its tremendous growth during the early years of World War II. The reduction of ships to scrap, the cuts in congressional appropriations for the Navy, and the shortage of fleet personnel are recurring topics in the correspondence for the early and mid-1930's. After 1938, most of the correspondence concerns the expansion of shore facilities; the overhaul, alteration, and repair of the fleet; the charter and hire of vessels; the arming of U.S. merchant ships; and the internment of belligerent ships and crews in American waters during the early years of the war in Europe. Also documented are such administrative matters as the negotiation of contracts with private companies, the settlement of claims for damages or injury, the investigation of accidents, and the recording of major personnel actions affecting officers and enlisted men.

According to Navy recordkeeping practices of the time, each item of correspondence sent or received by the Office of the Secretary of the Navy was assigned a file number according to a complex subject-numeric system prescribed in the Navy Filing Manual, first issued in 1923. The manual provides for the filing of correspondence by subject and name-title groups. The seven subject groups are:

A Administration
F Aircraft material
H Hydrography, meteorology, navigation, and astronomy
L Logistics
N Shore establishments' materials
P Personnel
S Ships' material

Each subject group is divided into letter-number subgroups; for example, the letter "P," for personnel, is divided as follows:

P1 Genealogy and identification
P2 Preventive medicine
P3 Medicine
P4 Surgery
P5 Dentistry
P6 Death and casualties
P7 Domestic relations
P8 Social relations
P9 Politicial relations
P10 Amusement and recreation
P11 Education
P12 Religion
P13 Misconduct and discipline
P14 Appointment
P15 Commendations, citations, and medals
P16 Assignment and detail
P17 Rank, precedence, and promotion
P18 Attendance and absence
P19 Separation
P20 Performance
P21 Morale

These 21 subgroups are further subdivided into smaller units; P17, rank, precedence, and promotion, for example, has three subdivisions as follows:

P17-1 Rank and precedence
P17-2 Promotion and demotion
P17-3 Official registers

The name-title groups, consisting of 24 categories of letter symbols, afford a designation for each ship, organization, and installation in the Navy. The 24 categories listed in the fourth edition (1941) of the manual are as follows:

AB-AZ	Auxiliary ships
BB	Battleships
CA-CL	Cruisers
CM	Minelayers
CV	Aircraft carriers
DD-DM	Destroyers and light minelayers
DMS	Minesweepers
EA-EZ	U.S. Government executive departments and foreign governments
FA-FV	Fleets
GA-HZ	Government establishments, independent, etc.
IX	Unclassified vessels, naval
JC-JS	Materials
KA-KW	Marine Corps organizations
LA-LV	Civilian personnel
MA-MZ	Enlisted personnel
NA-NZ	Shore establishments
OA-OZ	Officer personnel
PC-PYc	Patrol vessels
QA-QZ	Miscellaneous name titles
SM	Minelaying submarines
SS	Submarines
VB-VT	Heavier-than-air aircraft
YA-YY	District craft
ZK-ZZ	Lighter-than-air aircraft

The name-title groups are further subdivided into subgroups. For example, the name-title group for officer personnel, OA-OZ, is subdivided as follows:

OA	Marine Corps (officers)
OB	Reserve Corps
OC	Naval Constructor Corps
OD	Dental Corps
OE	Civil Engineer Corps
OF	Administrative and/or tactical officers afloat
OG	Nurse Corps
OH	Chaplain Corps
OK	Staff officers
OL	Line officers
OM	Medical Corps
ON	Administrative officers ashore
OO	Officer personnel
OP	Professors of mathematics
OQ	Foreign officers (other than attaches)
OR	Retired officers
OS	Supply Corps

OT Merchant Marine officers
OV Aviation officers
OW Warrant officers
OZ Naval Militia officers

Further subdivisions of the name-title groups are indicated in the manual by the addition of numbers after the letters.

File citations often consist of a combination of subject and name-title group letters and numbers; for example, file designation OL11/P17-1 (310131) was assigned to a letter received by the Judge Advocate General (Navy) from the County Counsel of Los Angeles, Calif. This January 31, 1931, letter requested a legal opinion on whether midshipmen in the Naval Academy had military status or were students at school who might later graduate into military service. The name-title group designation OL indicates a line officer; the number 11 indicates a midshipman. The subject-group designation P17-1 following the slash is the letter-number symbol for rank and precedence. The six-digit number in parentheses (310131) indicates the date of the communication; the first two digits refer to the year (1931), the next two digits refer to the month of the year (January), and the final two digits refer to the day of the month (31). A more detailed list of subject and name-title groups from the Navy Filing Manual begins on page 8.

As a finding aid to the correspondence, brief abstracts of the communications were recorded on cards (history cards) that were given the same file designations as the correspondence and arranged in the same manner. In addition, a card index to the correspondence and the history cards was also prepared.

The 8 1/2- by 7-inch index cards reproduced in this publication contain, in addition to the name or subject entry, a brief synopsis and the date of the correspondence and the file designation assigned to the correspondence. The index cards for naval or military personnel often include rank and arm or branch of the service. Nicknames, initials, and abbreviations were also written on some cards. Other cards are cross-referenced to related names or subjects. The cards, in general, are arranged in alphabetical order. Whenever there is more than one card with the identical first word, the cards are arranged in the following order: persons, ships, places, and other; for example, four cards with the name "Everett" as the first word are arranged as follows: Everett, Robert (person); Everett, S.S. (ship); Everett, Mass. (place); and Everett Marine Ways, Inc. (other). Cards bearing surnames without first names are filed before those with first names. For example, "Smith, Dr." is filed before "Smith" whose first name begins with "A."

Other alphabetizing procedures include placing cards with "Mc" entries before those with "Mac" entries and disregarding the prefix "U.S." in the many naval attache entries and arranging the cards alphabetically by place of duty. Some multicard entries have singular and plural headings mixed together; for example "allocation" (card 1) and "allocations" (cards 2-5). In such cases, all the cards are filed wherever card 1 is placed, whether it indexes the singular or plural word.

The index originally consisted of two segments: the first and larger segment, covering the period February 1, 1930-March 1, 1942; the second segment, March 1-June 30, 1942. The two segments were consolidated by the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) staff using the alphabetical rules already described; a second-segment card bearing the same name or subject as a card in the first segment is filed immediately after the first-segment card. Originally, multicard entries with the same heading were numbered consecutively within each segment in the upper right corner of the cards. For example, in the first segment, there were 14 cards with the heading "Bendix Aviation Corp." numbered consecutively; in the second segment, cards with the same heading also were numbered consecutively, again beginning with one. Because of the consolidation, the numbers in the upper right corner of the cards are no longer significant and should be disregarded.
