HISTORIAN

Important examples of vernacular structures embody characteristics of ~~wood~~ wood technology for ~~covered~~ bridge ~~construction~~ construction. Once a common ~~type~~ type in Pennsylvania (which played a special role in the development of this type), there is a comparatively high survival rate for these structures in these rural counties. The bridges in these counties ~~illustrate~~ both illustrate the ~~type~~ type / construction technology and attest to the special character of these rural counties in terms of the simplicity of the types and certain local features in the design. (Lippincott (1940s) is well justified.

ARCHEOLOGIST

Two ~~wood~~ bridges were moved due to demolition threat + are situated in functionally ~~appropriate~~ appropriate setting.)
