

FDA APPROVED ANIMAL DRUG PRODUCTS

Listed Alphabetically and by Active Ingredient

Food and Drug Administration
Center for Veterinary Medicine
January 15, 1989

THE HECKMAN BINDERY, INC. N. MANCHESTER, INDIANA

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act requires that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products.

The new law also provides that within 60 days of enactment (January 15, 1989), FDA must make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. This publication provides that list.

The Agency must update the list every 30 days to include each new animal drug approved for safety and effectiveness during the 30 day period. Patent information made available through provisions of the law will also be included in future revisions.

This first publication has two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1969. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center is unable to provide assurance that this first list is accurate in all respects. The list is being carefully reviewed and any corrections necessary will be made in future publications. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

Comments or questions concerning this list or the procedures to be used in complying with the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term Restoration Act should be addressed in writing to:

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act requires that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products.

The new law also provides that within 60 days of enactment, FDA must make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The Agency must update the list every 30 days to include each new animal drug approved for safety and effectiveness during the 30 day period.

The first publication has two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center is unable to provide assurance that this first list is accurate in all respects. The list is being carefully reviewed and corrections will be made in future publications. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

This supplement (89-1) contains the patent information received as of this date from the sponsors of approved NADA's. The information is published as received. The Center recognizes certain discrepancies in the data and is working with the sponsors to resolve these for future publications.

Comments or questions concerning this list or the procedures to be used in complying with the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term Restoration Act should be addressed in writing to:

FDA APPROVED
ANIMAL DRUG PRODUCTS

Monthly Supplement 89-2

US Depart of Health and Human Services
Food and Drug Administration
Center for Veterinary Medicine
March 15, 1989

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act requires that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products.

The new law also mandated that within 60 days of enactment, FDA make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The Agency must update the list every 30 days to include each new animal drug approved for safety and effectiveness during the 30 day period.

The first publication has two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center was unable to provide assurance that this first list was accurate in all respects. The list is being continually reviewed and corrections made in the monthly supplements. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

The first supplement (89-1) contained patent information received as of February 15, 1989 from the sponsors of approved NADA's. The information was published as received. The Center recognized certain discrepancies in the data and is working with the sponsors to resolve these for future publications. This supplement (89-2) contains additions and corrections to the two previous publications.

Comments or questions concerning this list or the procedures to be used in complying with the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term Restoration Act should be addressed in writing to:

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act required that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products.

The new law also mandated that within 60 days of enactment, FDA make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The Agency must update the list every 30 days to include each new animal drug approved for safety and effectiveness during the 30 day period.

The first publication has two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center was unable to provide assurance that this first list was accurate in all respects. The list is being continually reviewed and corrections made in the monthly supplements. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

The first supplement (89-1) contained patent information received as of February 15, 1989 from the sponsors of approved NADA's. The information was published as received. The Center recognized certain discrepancies in the data and is working with the sponsors to resolve these for future publications. This supplement (89-3) contains additions and corrections to the previous publications.

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act required that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products.

The new law also mandated that within 60 days of enactment, FDA make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The first publication had two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center was unable to provide assurance that this first list was accurate in all respects. The list is being continually reviewed and corrections made in the monthly supplements. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

The first supplement (89-1) contained patent information received as of February 15, 1989 from the sponsors of approved NADA's. The information was published as received. The Center recognized certain discrepancies in the data and is working with the sponsors to resolve these for future publications. Supplements 89-2 and 89-3 contained additions and corrections. This supplement (89-4) contains additions and corrections to the previous publications and an updated patent list. The latter also contains the drug labeler code for the sponsor of the approved drug. Readers can refer to 21CFR 510.600 for the names and addresses of these sponsors.

FDA APPROVED ANIMAL DRUG PRODUCTS

Monthly Supplement 89-5

US Department of Health and Human Services

Food and Drug Administration

Center for Veterinary Medicine

June 15, 1989

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act required that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products.

The new law also mandated that within 60 days of enactment, FDA make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The first publication had two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center was unable to provide assurance that this first list was accurate in all respects. The list is being continually reviewed and corrections made in the monthly supplements. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

The first supplement (89-1) contained patent information received as of February 15, 1989 from the sponsors of approved NADA's. The information was published as received. The Center recognized certain discrepancies in the data and is working with the sponsors to resolve these for future publications. Supplements 89-2 and 89-3 contained additions and corrections. Supplement (89-4) contained additions and corrections and an updated patent list. The latter also contained the drug labeler code for the sponsor of the approved drug. Readers can refer to 21CFR 510.600 for the names and addresses of these sponsors. This supplement contains an updated list of all approved NADAs with their tradename, drug labeler code and other information.

Comments or questions concerning this list or the procedures to be used in complying with the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term Restoration Act should be addressed in writing to:

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act required that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products. The new law also mandated that within 60 days of enactment, FDA make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The first publication had two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center was unable to provide assurance that this first list was accurate in all respects. The list is being continually reviewed and corrections made in monthly supplements. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

This supplement (89-4) contains additions and corrections to the previous publications and the first action by the Agency regarding a suitability petition for an Abbreviated New Animal Drug Application

SUITABILITY PETITION ACTIONS

A petition by Fermenta Animal Health Company to file an ANADA for a Type A Medicated Article containing chlortetracycline and sulfathiazole for use in feed for beef cattle was denied. The denial was based on the fact that sulfathiazole is not approved as a feed additive for production claims in cattle and therefore, studies to address efficacy and safety in the target animal species and for human food safety considerations would be required. Because investigations beyond bioequivalence and tissue residue determinations would be required, the product would be ineligible for consideration under an ANADA. A New Animal Drug Application would be required.

FDA APPROVED
ANIMAL DRUG PRODUCTS

Monthly Supplement 89-10

US Department of Health and Human Services
Food and Drug Administration
Center for Veterinary Medicine
December 15, 1989

INTRODUCTION

On November 16, 1988, the President signed the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Restoration Act. Among other things, it extends eligibility for the submission of Abbreviated New Animal Drug Applications (ANADAs) to drug products first approved as New Animal Drug Applications (NADAs) after the 1962 Amendments to the Federal Food, Drug And Cosmetic Act (the Act). Sponsors may submit ANADAs starting 60 days after enactment of the new law (January 15, 1989). The Agency cannot, according to the Act, approve an ANADA prior to January 1, 1991.

The Act required that prior to December 16, 1988 each sponsor of a currently approved NADA submit to the Agency patent and exclusivity information on the currently approved products. The new law also mandated that within 60 days of enactment, FDA make publicly available a list of all currently approved drugs which were approved for safety and effectiveness before November 16, 1988. That list was published on January 15, 1989.

The first publication had two sections. The first lists in alphabetical order the proprietary name (tradename) of each currently approved new animal drug approved prior to January 15, 1989. Also included in this list are the NADA number and the name of the sponsor holding the approval for that approved drug product. The second list is arranged alphabetically by active ingredient with the tradename, NADA number and sponsor name of each approved product containing the ingredient. Because of the limitations of time, the Center was unable to provide assurance that this first list was accurate in all respects. The list is being continually reviewed and corrections made in monthly supplements. Readers are invited to let us know of any errors or omissions.

This supplement (89-10) contains additions and corrections to the previous publications, additional information on exclusivity periods granted for products approved after November 16, 1988 and additional patent information.

A new volume of this publication will start in January, 1990 with a complete listing of the approved products and related patent information.

Comments or questions concerning this list or the procedures to be used in complying with the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term Restoration Act should be addressed in writing to:
