Dear Mr. President,

Ever since the phone companies were broken up, we have selected AT&T as our carrier.

5. Kelly In Jan. we received a bill for our long distance calls from MCI. We called them and said we did not want their service. Asked how we got on their billing. They said "someone" had requested it. We also called AT&T and US West Communications, ~~saying~~ saying we only wanted AT&T.

In Feb. we received another bill from MCI for Jan. long distance calls. A man who answered from MCI said his company could take over any phone & charge for it. If we didn't pay they (MCI) would turn us over to a collection agency. We already pay AT&T for an hour of long distance calls and don't want MCI.

This is a scam and we don't want to pay for what we don't order. How can we get this stopped? Have heard we are not the only phone that MCI has taken over unauthorized.

Mr & Mrs James F. Brown

Longmont, Co. 80501

Dear Commander Brown:

Thank you for your message. I agree with you and the officers and members of Martin A. Kessler Post 2912 who joined with you on the need to protect our flag.

While I have the highest respect for the Supreme Court and an individual's right to protest government action, I am nevertheless deeply disturbed by the Court's decision, which, for the first time, recognizes an individual's right to burn the flag. To burn the flag is to dishonor it, and this is simply wrong. In allowing such conduct, we turn our backs on our history; on the ideals of honor, freedom, and justice; and on all those who fought and died to protect our democracy.

I believe that the surest way to preserve these ideals is to support a Constitutional amendment to protect the flag. I have worked closely with Congressional leaders to draft an amendment that gives the Congress and the States a narrow power to prohibit physical desecration of the flag. In my opinion, this proposed amendment also preserves the widest possible range of freedom of expression.

Be assured I understand the sentiments that prompted you to write, and I appreciate having your views on this issue.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

GEORGE BUSH A

RE: Crystal Alexandria Brown

Dear Mr. President,

I am writing this letter in hopes that you will take a moment to respond, not to my letter, but to my daughter, Crystal A. Brown's letter. She wrote you a letter, May 5, 1989, in hopes that you might be able to attend her program, "America, From George To George", George Washington to George Bush, May 25, 1989, T. G. Field Auditorium, Longview, Texas, at 6:30 p.m.

Crystal is one of two children chosen out of all of the first graders for a speaking part. Of course, every child at Hudson who wishes to participate will do so, but there are only 12 speaking parts. Crystal will play a child of the future.

Crystal is in Mrs. Jackson's 1st grade class at Hudson PEP. PEP stands for Planned Enrichment Program. Crystal is a straight "A" student and has never been absent. As you probably can tell, we as parents are very proud of her. My only request is that you atleast respond back somehow. I know you are very busy, but to a 7 year old child that in itself is hard to explain.

My husband and I are what you might call the middle class family. He is a Captain in the Army and works as the Battalion Training Officer, in Marshall, Texas and I am a secretary/receptionist for a Law Firm here in Longview. We own a three bedroom/two bath home and are very proud of it. Like most people who buy a home, always plan to remodel, we are still remodeling. Crystal is our little helper in the garden, she likes planting the flowers.

In short Mr. President, we are proud of our country, our family, our home, our church and our schools. We are very proud to call you our President. We do hope that you will attempt to respond to Crystal's letter.

Sincerely,

Jane Marie Brown

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Brown:

Barbara and I were deeply saddened to learn of the death of your daughter, Janet, in the aftermath of the earthquake in San Francisco last month. Although you have suffered a great loss, we hope you will find some consolation in the support you are receiving from your loving family and your many friends.

Please know that we will be keeping you, your son-in-law, and the Brown and Ray families in our prayers during the days ahead. God bless you.

Sincerely,

A

In recognition of National Volunteer Appreciation Week, we are planning an Appreciation Program and inviting local officials and members of the community to assist us in recognizing our many volunteers for the great job they have done for our nursing home residents and our facility as a whole.

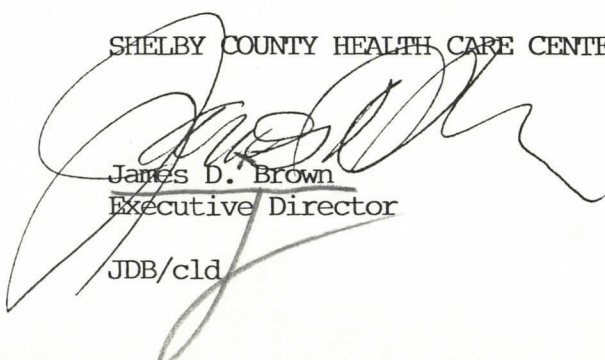

As part of our program, we would like to extend an invitation to you to be our Keynote Speaker. We feel that as the First Lady of our country and an advocate for volunteerism, you would be able to provide some insight to our community for the increased need for volunteerism in our communities.

National Volunteer Week is being celebrated April 22-28, 1990, and we hope that your schedule will permit you to be with us on one of those dates.

Please contact us at your earliest convenience to inform us whether you can be with us.

Dear Mrs. Bush,

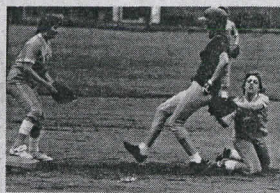

This article on your visit to the Southeast Community College at Cumberland, Kentucky was given to me by Gayle Lawson of Harlan, Kentucky to give to you at the First Ladies Luncheon last Wednesday, May 16.

As you know, we were seated before you came in and also when you left so I had no chance to hand it to you.

It was such a pleasure for me to attend the luncheon, courtesy of my daughter, Mrs. Carroll Hubbard, and to see and hear you speak. You are greatly admired by all for your "down to earthness" and your friendliness to everyone you meet — a real asset to the President. We all have a very warm feeling for you.

Barbara Bush Calls SECC A Community Cornerstone

By MARK BELL
Of The Enterprise Staff

Rain disrupted the ceremony but could not dampen the spirit of 127 graduates of Southeast Community College or First Lady Barbara Bush who delivered the main address during the school's 25th annual commencement Friday.

"I like anniversaries and Southeast's silver, 25th, is a significant one," she noted during her speech. "It means you've got staying power, that you have put down roots and you have established traditions."

Kentucky's tradition had been in producing American leaders, she said.

"If the work you are doing here at Southeast is any indication that tradition of leadership will not soon change," she added.

The most eagerly anticipated and most meticulously planned graduation in Harlan County's history was plagued by the one circumstance that could not be controlled. The weather caused havoc with the event right from the start.

Graduation exercises were delayed from a scheduled 6 p.m. start by about 30 minutes when Mrs. Bush's helicopter was unable to fly directly into Cumberland due to strong and gusting winds.

Instead, she landed in Wise, Va., and rode in a motorcade to Pennington Gap, Harlan and then up U.S. 119 into Cumberland. A public reception for Mrs. Bush prior to graduation was held in her absence.

Despite this delay and the threatening clouds, a crowd estimated at 2,000 filled the college's lower parking lot anticipating her arrival.

Then just prior to Mrs. Bush's formal introduction, while the Harlan Boys Choir was singing

"I Love America," the sky opened up, robbing parents, family members and friends of the graduates the opportunity to hear the President's wife speak.

Mrs. Bush was escorted from the stage under umbrella and the ceremony was then hurriedly staged in the Little Theater in Falkenstine Hall, adjacent to the lower parking lot.

"We are disappointed in the rain, but this is sure one graduation you will all remember," college president Dr. W. Bruce Ayers told the rain-soaked faculty and prospective graduates as they squeezed into the room that had been set up for a post-commencement reception for their families and friends.

Before the rain spoiled the organizers' plans, two guest speakers did briefly address the audience.

Security Tight For Bush Visit

Officers were posted on the top of the college buildings, on a railroad bridge near the campus and on hills and ridges surrounding the stage built especially for the address.

Barbara Bush arrived on the grounds of the college campus encircled by an entourage of U.S. Secret Service agents and Kentucky State Police officers and was immediately led into Falkenstein Hall to change into her cap and gown for the graduation ceremony.

The ceremony being outdoors led to greater protection measures on behalf of everyone involved in the security effort, said David F. Ray, Secret Service Special Agent in Charge.

Ray, who is assigned to the Secret Service Louisville office, said "anytime you have an outdoor event to contend with, it will involve more of us and more of your local police officers."

The special agent claimed the mountainous terrain of Harlan instance."

In addition to the Secret Service, Ray said the first lady's security for Friday's visit was being provided by the KSP, Cumberland City Police and Harlan County Sheriff's Department. He added her motorcade had received assistance from the Harlan City Police Department as it traveled through the city limits.

The special agent would not confirm the number of Secret Service agents actually involved in protecting Mrs. Bush, noting such information would reveal too much about the agency's operation or protection methods.

Secret Service agents and police could be spotted in several locations from the seating area which was located in the lower parking lot of the SECC campus.

Mrs. George Bush Meets George Bush

By JEFF PHILLIPS
Executive Editor

First Lady Barbara Bush said she made a new friend during her visit to Southeast Community College Friday.

"I have a grandson named George Bush, a son named George Bush, a husband named George Bush and now I have a friend named George Bush," said the first lady during a brief press conference following her address at SECC's 25th annual commencement.

GEORGE BUSH

Mrs. Bush's new friend is an eight-year old student at Cumberland Elementary School who is battling an undiagnosed illness. He happens to have the same name as the first lady's husband, George Bush.

Cumberland teachers Deronda Garland and Rita Hamlin contacted SECC officials about the child. College officials then worked with Mrs. Bush's Deputy Press Secretary Jean Becker to arrange for the youngster to meet the first lady at a reception prior to the graduation ceremony.

Weather conditions forced the cancellation of the reception, but Becker encouraged the teachers and the boy to remain on campus.

When the first lady's motorcade arrived, the child was taken to an area in Falkenstein Hall

Kentucky National Guard Military Police from the Murray Armory, airlifted here by the Air National Guard, were posted at the perimeters of the seating area as well as throughout the campus. Plain clothes detectives and agents walked through the crowd fully equipped with radio and communications equipment.

A dog specially trained to detect explosives was used to check the stage area including flower arrangements and the public address system. The dog was also used to check equipment brought in by members of the press attending the event.

Secret Service agents provided additional and unnoticed protection for Mrs. Bush by donning caps and gowns and posing as where Mrs. Bush was readying for her commencement address.

The first lady met and talked with the child. She walked him down a hallway, gave him a hug and a handshake.

"I just had a little visit with him... As you know he has a sickness. He looked great," said Mrs. Bush.

The child's mother, Ellen Bush, of Cumberland, said her son underwent surgery in August 1987 for a malignant brain tumor. Chemotherapy and radiation treatments followed surgery. Today, she said, he is suffering from an undiagnosed illness that includes excessive vomiting which has led to weight loss.

Ellen Bush, who was unable to accompany her son to the graduation ceremony, said he returned home "very excited. When he came home he couldn't stop talking about it. He told us she 'was the prettiest, the nicest

Local Water Project Funds Confirmed

By LISA FEE

Almost $2 million in federal funding for the Catrons Creek Water Project was confirmed Friday.

The project will serve an additional 650 customers along Martins Fork and Catrons Creek by expanding the Cawood water system.

Fifth District Congressman Harold Rogers and Senator Mitch McConnell made the announcement Friday that confirmed the federal money had been released.

Local officials announced the project's funding several months ago, but Friday's release from Rogers and McConnell confirmed the money from the Farmers Home Administration.

According to Rogers the most recent FmHA funding is a low-interest loan of $343,000 and a grant of $1,532,000. This is in addition to Farmers Home funding of $1,395,000 in 1983 and $1,911,000 in 1989, according to the

Falling Tree Knocks Power Out In City

An Enterprise Staff Report

A tree which was blown down by strong winds about 3:30 a.m. Friday was blamed for the disruption of electrical service to a large area in Harlan.

Kentucky Utilities Field Superintendent Mike Daukas said the power interruption was the result of a short circuit in a power line leading to a breaker on the hill above the site of the old Tway tipple.

He said the area from the Sunshine Bridge south to Village Mall including areas of Catrons Creek and Woodland Hills were without power from 3:30 a.m. until about 5:25 a.m.

"The tree blew across the line that serves the circuit breaker, knocking it out. We had to clear away the tree and had to replace the line.

"With the remoteness of the circuit breaker, our people had to carry all the repair materials to the site and that caused some delay in getting the last three or four customers back in service," Daukas said.

All power was expected to have been restored by 12 noon Friday.

Man Jailed Who Planned To Shoot At Derby Crowd

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Police said no changes in security were planned for Saturday's Kentucky Derby after a Louisville man who reportedly threatened to open fire on the crowd was jailed.

A complaint filed in U.S. District Court Friday charged Richard Kellej, 32, with possession of ammunition by a felon.

"The man has indicated an intention to kill people and we did find military rounds in his possession and his home, and we had been told he had an AK-47 as of yesterday," Assistant U.S. Attorney Cleve Gambill said.

Gambill said authorities had been unable to find the reported assault rifle, but were still searching.

A federal judge revoked Keller's bond Thursday. He had been free while awaiting sentencing for a federal civil rights charge of burning a cross in front of a black family's home in January. Keller pleaded guilty to that charge in March.

Churchill Downs officials said the track's security department had been informed of the situation but refused to comment on security plans.

"Security at the track is always tight," said Lt. Col. Ken Lampe, county assistant chief of police. "This only goes toward heightening the intensity."

Capt. Fred Rogers, commander of the Louisville police detail, said his officers already had "planned for any emergency, including nuts with guns, terrorists with bombs, and people in airplanes."

U.S. District Judge Edward H. Johnstone on Thursday ruled that Keller had violated a prohibition against possessing ammunition while free on bond. Johnstone also found Keller posed a probable risk to the community.

Keller will be jailed in Jefferson County until May 16, when sentencing has been set for the cross-burning, Gambill said. He could receive up to 10 years in prison but is expected to receive about two years under federal sentencing guidelines that set fixed sentences with no parole.

The possession of ammunitions charge carries a maximum of 10 years and prison and a fine of up to $250,000, Gambill said.

Two people — one of them not named in court and the other identified only as Keller's sister — said Keller told them he did not intend to go to prison for the cross-burning and was going to go to Churchill Downs Friday or Saturday to "take out a number of people and then take out himself," FBI Agent Allen M. Bond III testified at the hearing Thursday.

Bond also testified that Keller had been seen wearing what appeared to be a bandolier of ammunition last Saturday at a local gun show. Bond said a source told the FBI that Keller had an AK-47 in his home just hours before authorities searched it about 8 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Deputy U.S. Marshal Tim Moseley said at the hearing that no gun was found in a search of Keller's home and pickup truck. But, Moseley said, the FBI and county police seized a bolt from his truck that they said is used to fire an AK-47 assault rifle. The bolt had been altered so that the semi-automatic weapon could be used as a fully automatic weapon, he said.

It is illegal to alter the bolt in that manner, said Jim Vaughn, resident agent-in-charge of the Louisville office of the federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau. The weapon cannot be fired without the bolt, he said.

When police heard about the alleged threats by Keller, who had been free on bond in the cross-burning case, they began distributing about 150 photos of him to their officers, Rogers said.

Security Tight For Bush Visit

graduates. At least one agent dressed in commencement attire accompanied the first lady on stage.

Five agents and two of Mrs. Bush's press personnel arrived at SECC on Tuesday and stayed in the Cumberland area throughout the week.

White House officials met with planners of the graduation ceremony on several occasions during this time and thoroughly checked the sites proposed for the event. In addition to examining the parking lot where the outdoor ceremony was actually held, an alternate site of Cumberland High School was also checked by the Secret Service.

During this final week of safety preparations, meetings were also held with local police agency representatives in order to coordinate the joint security effort.

Secret Service agents reportedly checked the county and surrounding areas thoroughly for any persons deemed to be a threat to Mrs. Bush's safety.

According to reports, the original intention was to fly Mrs. Bush into Cumberland by helicopter, but bad weather forced a change in plans.

The first lady was flown from Washington, D.C., to Wise, Va., in a C-120, a 12-seat plane Mrs. Bush has nicknamed "Bright Star," according to Deputy Press Secretary Jean Becker.

The first lady's Secret Service vehicles were escorted from the Lonesome Pine Airport by Virginia State Police to the Virginia-Kentucky state line.

Wise City police officers and the Wise County Sheriff's Department were also called on for protection in and around the airport. From the Kentucky state line to the SECC campus, Mrs. Bush was escorted by KSP officers.

Ray said the Secret Service was "familiar" with eastern Kentucky with agents out of the Louisville and Lexington offices working in this area on numerous occasions.

"We work in this area investigating such things as credit card fraud and counterfeit money reports," Ray explained, adding he was in charge of the SECC visit. "We have one agent assigned to this detail who is from Hazard, so he's very familiar with this region."

Ray said after the commencement exercise, the rain which dampened the graduation ceremony was the only problem.

"We plan for this type of thing," he said. "We have a contingency plan in the event something like this happens."

"The weather threw us off and made us behind, but everything went as scheduled from the motorcade on. There was nothing unanticipated from that point on that hit us... even the rain was anticipated."

Ray confirmed the first lady's departure from Cumberland would be the same as her entry. Wise, Va., police said Mrs. Bush's plane took off from the Lonesome Pine Airport at approximately 10:45 p.m.

lady I've ever met."

The weather curtailed some of the planned activities, but enthusiasm remained high for those attending.

Jonathan Philpot, a 13-year-old student at Capital Day School in Frankfort, was on campus about two hours before the ceremony began in hopes of gaining a glimpse of the president's wife. "We're pretty excited about it," he said.

Bruce Warf, a 10-year-old Cumberland Elementary School, said "I'm excited. She's the president's wife."

Warf said he felt Mrs. Bush is the most famous person he had ever seen and was in hopes of obtaining her autograph.

Eugene Stagnolia, principal of Cumberland High School, said the first lady's visit to the area "was one of those points of light the president refers to... This is a great honor for this community."

Stagnolia said he felt the visit would boost community pride at a time it is badly needed due to poor economic conditions.

Donna Steinbach, a graduating dental hygiene student and resident of Benham, said Mrs. Bush's visit is "kind of special." Steinbach noted she felt the first lady's visit "tops by far" other graduation speakers she has seen at campuses in past years.

Her son, Aron Steinbach of Tillamook, Ore., had plans to present a request to Mrs. Bush for 20 autographs for classmates. He also had one question he would have liked to ask, "Does she like broccoli?"

Lorine Jones, a Harlan resident and member of the 1990 graduating class, said, "I think it is awful nice of her to take the time" to deliver the commencement address last night.

Jeff Harrison, a Cumberland resident graduating with a degree in business management, said he felt the visit by Mrs. Bush showed "recognition of the achievements we have here and the progress we've made."

SECC Associate Professor and Business Technology Program Coordinator Elijah Buell Jr., who received the outstanding faculty award last night, said the days leading up to graduation had been "a lot more intense" this year. "There have been a lot of things happening," he said, referring to efforts by students, faculty and many others to prepare for the first lady's visit.

"It's the first time a dignitary of this stature has been in this county or on the campus," said Buell, noting it is a visit he will remember all his life.

"The atmosphere here is enough to get you real excited," he said.

Allen Evans, a Cumberland resident, said the visit "is just wonderful... She (Mrs. Bush) is probably the most famous person that has ever been here."

Man Says Clopton Framed Him

HODGENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — James Ray Cable says Phillip Clopton pointed a shotgun in his face and vowed to get him back when he learned Cable had warned one of Clopton's intended victims.

"He said, 'Man, you told on me,'" Cable said. "He said, 'Man, I'm going to set you up real good.'"

Cable said the warning was the reason Clopton falsely implicated him in the apparent deaths of two teen-agers and a woman from Louisville. Cable's story has been corroborated at least in part by a woman who said Thursday that Cable tipped her off about Clopton's intentions.

Both men have been implicated in a grisly list of crimes.

A 15-year-old girl told police late last month that she killed Clopton, 39, after he kidnapped her, chained her to a tree for three weeks remote campsite in LaRue County and raped repeatedly.

Since then, police have found a notebook a campsite containing statements, apparently written by Clopton, that link him and Cable to the apparent deaths of Sherry Wilson and gett Allen, both 14, and to the death of Hel Booth, 24.

Booth's body was found last May in southern Jefferson County.

Cable said that Clopton told him he planned to kidnap the woman and hurt her and that he subsequently warned her. Cable, 41, made comments in an interview this week at a LaRue County Jail, where he is being held on charges of raping the teen-ager who allegedly killed Clopton.

Bell County Chairmaker's Work Headed For The White House

By WAYNE KNUCKLES
NYT Regional Newspapers

COLMAR — First Lady Barbara Bush received a little bit of Southeastern Kentucky Friday night to take to Washington, D.C. with her.

Officials of Southeast Community College's Cumberland campus presented the first lady with a handmade-rocking chair when she came to the campus as the featured speaker for the school's 25th annual commencement exercises.

For James Miracle, who painstakingly crafted the chair from hard maple wood gathered near his home on U.S. 25-E near Ward Chapel school in Bell County, the making of the chair was a labor of love as well as an honor he says he won't soon forget.

"It's for the wife of the president," Miracle said. "That's about as high as you can go in this country."

Miracle's reputation as a master woodworker who fashions all his products by hand using old-time tools and methods led school representatives to seek him out, he said.

"They were looking for something special for her," Miracle added. "They heard somewhere I was a real good chair maker. It made me feel good that they thought I was good enough to make something she would appreciate." Ordinarily booked solid with back orders for dulcimers, stools and other hand-crafted items, Miracle said he dropped everything for the chance to make the chair for Mrs. Bush.

"I quit doing most everything else," he said. "It was just by accident that I was able to do it. I already had some of the wood prepared, or I wouldn't have been able to."

Miracle said each chair is crafted in the same style used by the pioneers who first came through Cumberland Gap, which means most of the wood that goes into a chair must be well-seasoned.

"We don't go in for the modern shortcuts or anything like that," added Miracle's mother, Hazel, who helps her son with his various projects. "We use the old-time methods."

"I use some of the same tools my grandfather used," Miracle said. "Chairmaking is something that's handed down from one generation to the next."

Miracle is in turn passing the craft along to his nephew, Matthew Miracle, who helped him make the chair for the first lady.

Although he has been making crafts all his life, he didn't start commercial work until 1965.

He recalls he was working at the family gas station one day when a traveler stopped a flat tire fixed on his. The stranger came inside the work was being done. The items Miracle donated had made.

"He bought everything," he recalled.

The traveler turned out to be a buyer for the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C. later called Miracle and him to take part in the festival in the capital same year.

"From that time on, we've been behind in our ways behind in our life," he said. "We've never been able to keep up with our own life."

Miracle said a rock such as the one he made sells for $200, but the more important than that.

"I do the best I can on my own," he added. "I make something try to do a little better last time."

Although he wasn't attending Friday's ceremony his chair was presented to the first lady ("I outgrew it and I didn't feel right in it over time," he joked). Miracle said he is a long-time fan of Bush.

"We really admire her," he said. "Even though she's from a different family with a lot of really comes across person."

At Commencement Exercise

chancellor of the University of Kentucky Community College System and a Harlan County native, congratulated the graduating students on their achievement.

Helen Smith, chairman of the SECC Advisory Board, told the crowd she considered the visit by Mrs. Bush to be one of the most memorable events in the county's history.

While she was stating her intention to one day tell her grandchild the story of the first lady's visit, the first thunderclap boomed overhead and the crowd heaved a collective, "Oh no!"

Candace Cornett, student council president, hurried through her prepared remarks as the first raindrops began to fall. As the boys choir began to sing, the rain grew heavier, forcing the event to move indoors.

Once there, Mrs. Bush was introduced by Rep. Harold Rogers, who said her acceptance of the invitation to speak at SECC was "a special honor for us and for all of Kentucky."

As she reached the podium, her first action was to put the audience at ease. She directed an outside door be opened to allow for cool air. As she removed her damp mortarboard and gown, she encouraged the students and faculty to do the same.

In her address she emphasized the conservative principles of taking pride in one's work, building small victories into large ones, and being loyal to family and home.

"Cumberland," she said, "is one of the most beautiful and historic areas in the United States. Roots and tradition are a vital part of community here where so many people are descended from families that followed Daniel Boone through Cumberland Gap and settled this area more than 150 years ago."

She noted that many of the leaders of SECC are graduates of the school and have strong personal ties to the area.

"I have to believe their leadership and vision is part of the reason that Southeast's enrollment has doubled in the last five years and that you're ACT scores are rising as well," she said.

It is the community colleges which will lead the educational future in this nation, the first lady said, because they will have closer ties to the communities they serve.

"Some of you are the first in your families to ever attend college," she said. "And like the president (Dr. Ayers), more than 60 percent of you did not come straight from high school. You've been out in the real world for a while and I suspect you're all the better for it."

"And like your president, most of you are likely to stay right here and put your skills and knowledge to work at home."

SECC is a model for the kind of institution that can fully serve the educational needs of its community, she said.

"The relationship between this community and this college reflects the high priority all of you have put on education," she said. "Like so many community colleges around the country, Southeast is one of the hearts of this community."

From assisting in the creation of small businesses to the community service of the faculty through programs of continuing education, the college that serves the community is supported by its people, she said.

"You have tailored your programs to meet the needs of the people. The result, an outpouring of support from the community you so ably serve," Mrs. Bush said.

As an example of that support, she noted the efforts of a citizens group in Letcher County to buy an old Coca-Cola building for classroom space. And Bell counties lobbied the general assembly for funds to build a center in Middlesboro.

"It is clear that no one values education, that no one knows better the importance of lifelong learning than you people of Southeast Community College and the people of Cumberland," she said.

She also encouraged the graduates to cherish the small victories in life and not waste time waiting around to make good in a "big moment" that may never come.

"That big hour of decision, the turning point in your life — the someday you counted on when you'd suddenly wipe out your past mistakes, do the work you've never done, think the way you've never thought, have what you've never had — it just doesn't come suddenly," she said.

"You have trained yourself for it while you waited or you let it all run past you and frittered yourself away."

By "doing your best" at every moment, the big victories in life take care of themselves, she said.

"Woody Allen said that 90 percent of life is just showing up," she recalled. "Well I would add, showing up prepared. And today you've all begun to prepare for a life full of wonderful opportunities."

Not all may reach positions of far-reaching influence, she said, "but all of us have important jobs to do and we must do our absolute best."

The people of southeastern Kentucky have long understood the importance of having pride in doing one's best and being loyal to family and home, she said. "The most important job that we must all do our best at is one that begins at home. Parenting — and I do mean both parents," she said.

She said her father taught her the three things parents can really give their children: The importance of setting a good example. Provide them with the best education possible and "give them all the love in the world."

"That's what's so wonderful about today. You have let your children — those that are here and those yet to come — see how important your college degree is to you and you have done your very best," the first lady said.

"Keep on doing it," she added. "You've just begun. Go out. Use this great gift. Give it to others. Build on it. Pass it on."

"Tackle each job by giving it your best and when your big moment comes, you will be ready."

Dear Mr. Brown:

Your letter to Mrs. Bush was referred to me for reply. I appreciate the confidence you have shown by sharing your story with us.

While the Federal government provides funds to States for child welfare services, the statutes governing these programs do not permit the government to make decisions regarding specific cases. These decisions are the responsibility of State and local agency and court officials.

However, in order to make sure that your concerns are communicated to the proper agency, a member of my staff discussed your letter with:

Dear Linda:

Brenda Larsen has sent me a letter from James Brown, VP of Marketing Services, concerning a request for a letter of support from President Bush. I spoke with Linda Watson in October about this matter and she said that a letter can't be written for a company that is considered competitive - i.e. health insurance companies.

I then spoke again with Blue Cross (Brenda Larsen) and she informed me that Alabama Child Caring Foundation is not competitive.

Please review this request again and let me know what can be done for this group. President Reagan's letter to this group is attached and Brenda Larsen, who is a $5000 donor to the Senatorial Committee (PAC money) is available for any answers you may be looking for. Dear Mrs. Bush

Pursuant to my conversation with your secretary on Monday, September 24, 1990 at 10:30 A.m. I am writing this letter and enclosing my Affidavit submitted to the Southern District Court for the Southern District of New York, which will explain my position in this matter.

On Wednesday, September 19, 1990, Judge John Sprizzo of the United States District Court, Southern District of New York, ruled in favor of S.U.N.Y. Maritime College. We plan on reopening the suit with new evidence, (a tape recording of the January 8, 1990 meeting) that would put Maritimes previous testimony in question. The Judge did not appear to have the proper knowledge about dyslexia or its effects.

Your prompted attention to this matter would be deeply appreciated. Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Yours truly

Affidavit: James K. Brown, June 7, 1990

MEMO:

Some of the evidence that was produced, involved an alleged cheating incident which may have affected my credibility as a witness. I would like to explain the circumstances in this allegation.

Part of the testimony which seems to have influence the judge's decision was alleged crib notes which had no identifying dates or identifying marks except notes marked by the teacher stating: "crib notes 1,2,3", and which were according to testimony found only a few days before the rendering of the testimony, (September 10, 1990).

Even though Dr. Stanton's affidavit of June 21, 1990 makes no mention of these notes, they conveniently showed up a few days before the testimony.

I was completely unaware of being accused of cheating until the attorney for the defendant made mention of this accusation, and I categorically deny cheating, nor have I ever been accused of cheating.

The notes do appear to be in my handwriting but I have no idea of the origin or use of these notes.

It is very important that I hear from someone from your office as soon as possible to further discuss this matter in greater detail.

Again thank you for your time and attention to this very important matter.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

JAMES K. BROWN,

90 Civ 3420 (JES)

Plaintiff,

-against-

MARITIME COLLEGE OF THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK,AFFIDAVIT OF PLAINTIFF

Defendant.

STATE OF NEW YORK)
: ss:
COUNTY OF NASSAU)

JAMES K. BROWN, the plaintiff herein, being duly sworn, says and deposes as follows:

1. I submit this affidavit in support of my application for a preliminary injunction enjoining the defendant from dismissing plaintiff as a student from the Maritime College on the grounds that said college has discriminated against the plaintiff because of my handicapping condition (dyslexia) in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

2. I initially applied for enrollment at the MARITIME COLLEGE OF THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK ("Maritime") on November 11, 1983. I delivered the application to Commander R. Thomas Cerny, the Director of Admissions, personally, because I had a question regarding the personal data form (Exhibit A), which accompanied the application. I am a dyslectic, but I was unsure how to phrase it on the form. Commander Cerny recommended that I leave the question as to whether I had any physical or learning disability blank. He said that he was not sure if the Coast Guard would accept a dyslectic for licensing.

3. At that time, I gave Commander Cerny a copy of a letter from Dr. Harold N. Levinson (Exhibit B), who had examined my twin brother and me and found us both to be dyslexic. Commander Cerny informed me that he would enter the letter in my file and that he would informally inform the Board of my condition. This application to Maritime was denied.

4. In September 1982, I started taking courses at Nassau Community College ("NCC"). NCC had a Disabled Student Program which intervened for me and ensured that I received reasonable accommodations for my handicap without, in any way, altering the course content or the criteria for grading. As a result, I was able to maintain a C average.

5. In January 1986, I reapplied to Maritime while attending NCC. I again met with Commander Cerny who reiterated his advice that I leave the question on disabilities blank and I did so (Exhibit C). When I told him of the accommodations afforded me at NCC, he indicated that Maritime would do something similar, but he provided no specifics. And in April 1986, I was admitted as a transfer student and started classes at Maritime in August 1986. Nevertheless, no accommodations were made for my handicap and I failed to maintain academic standing and was disenrolled in January 1987.

6. I then returned to NCC, where I took courses that I would need at Maritime. As before, NCC accommodated my dyslexia by granting me extra time for exams, projects and papers.

7. In August 1987, I was readmitted to Maritime. Again, no of Dr. Levinson's letter for his personal files. I was then readmitted to Maritime for the Spring 1989.

10. I then completed the Spring, Cruise and Summer sessions at Maritime, at the end of which I had an overall cumulative average of 2.0 at the college. I should note that I told my professor in Physics IV of my handicap, and he gave me as much time as needed for exams, and consequently I received an A for the course.

11. In the Fall '89 semester, my grades plummeted again as my professors refused to accommodate my handicap. I was, once more, "academically disenrolled". This time, however, I retained counsel who arranged a conference on January 8, 1990, with Drs. Porter, English and Haines of the college. I^{was} then informed, for the first time, that Dr. Haines was responsible for Maritime's program to accommodate handicapped students. I gave Dr. Porter another copy of Dr. Levinson's letter (Exhibit B) and specifically disputed his claim that it was the first time such letter was submitted to the college. It was then agreed that I would not be dismissed and that specific accommodations would be afforded me in the upcoming semester. An agreement to that effect was also signed by the attendees, but a copy was never provided to me or my attorney.

12. To the best of my recall, the agreement directed that (1) I be permitted to retake my physics examination with Dr. Stanton's permission; (2) that I permitted to take a reduced program without loss of financial assistance; (3) I repeat any courses failed, and (4) the medical department would make arrangements for providing the necessary accommodating for my handicap. In addition, because Dr. Porter thought that dyslexia could be "outgrown" I had agreed to have a re-evaluation of said condition. Lastly, I had to expedite my registration for the new semester.

13. Specific accommodations, like an extra hour for each hour exam, were not honored from the start of the new semester. Indeed, when I repeated the physics examination, Prof. Longobardi only provided me with an additional 25 minutes for the 3-hour accommodations were afforded me and I was dismissed from the college. This time, I contested the discharge on the grounds that I had been discriminated against. My appeal was denied. I was informed, however, that if I received a C average or better at NCC, I would be readmitted.

8. In November 1988, I informed the Readmission Board that I was maintaining a 3.12 grade point average at mid-term at NCC and requested readmission to Maritime. I followed this up with evaluation letters from my professors at NCC (Exhibit D).

9. After the Board met, Dr. Porter informed me that my application had been denied. I asked why, but he would not say. I then said to him: "I hope that the Board did^{not} turn my application down because of my handicap." Dr. Porter replied that he didn't think so. He then directed me to the members of the Board; Dr. Boller, Science Dept.; Dr. Bolson, Humanities; and Prof. Feminia, Engineering; to discuss reconsideration. After I met with each of the department chairmen, they agreed to change their vote. However, Dr. Boller asked for, and received, a copy of Dr. Levinson's letter for his personal files. I was then readmitted to Maritime for the Spring 1989.

10. I then completed the Spring, Cruise and Summer sessions at Maritime, at the end of which I had an overall cumulative average of 2.0 at the college. I should note that I told my professor in Physics IV of my handicap, and he gave me as much time as needed for exams, and consequently I received an A for the course.

11. In the Fall '89 semester, my grades plummeted again as test, and then wrote on it: "Jim - you really had too much time for this exam." Exhibit E. Prof. Longobardi also refused to permit me to tape his lectures.

14. In Electrical Engineering, Prof. Korn extended me unlimited time to everyone on our first test and I achieved an 84; I needed only 1-1/2 hours to do this one hour exam. However, another teacher proctored the second test and he declared, although aware of my disability, that only an hour would be afforded for the test. My score on this exam was a 65. On the final, we were also permitted only the three hours allotted. I received a C for this course.

15. My "restricted program" consisted of 14 hours of core engineering subjects. Instead of reasonable accommodations directed at my dyslexia, I was referred to other students for tutoring. Maritime refused to understand that my problem was not in understanding the material, but in taking notes, rapid reading and comprehension of the text, and responding to questions within a fixed period of time. When I asked assistance of the medical department counselor, I received none.

16. Consequently, I was discharged again on May 14, 1990. On May 15, 1990, I was informed that I would not be permitted to take the Summer Training Cruise. Being barred from the cruise was very unfair. First, because I am fully qualified to be on board; indeed, on May 14, 1990, I passed the oral qualification exam for the sea term. My dyslexia does not interfere with "hands-on" duties or judgment. Further, I passed last year's program, as well as the Coast Guard's power boating course (Exhibit F) in November 1988. Lastly, the college's refusal to permit me to participate in the cruise on the grounds of my grades was an abuse of discretion; Maritime affords its administrators broad discretion as to whether a cadet with less than a 2.0 average may participate (Exhibit G). Thus, its claim that grades were an absolute bar is fallacious and discriminatory.

17. Indeed, wherever I have been afforded appropriate and reasonable accommodations, I have performed satisfactorily. And, by reasonable accommodations, I do not mean that the college should lower its academic standards in any way. I only ask for the accommodations recognized as appropriate in the regulations of the Department of Education: (a) additional time to perform tests, reports and papers; (b) permission to tape lectures for my personal academic use; and (c) a reduced courseload each semester without loss of accreditation or financial assistance.

18. Finally, the Court, on May 25, 1990, expressed some doubts that a dyslexic person could satisfy the scholastic requirements of the college and/or perform the duties required at sea. I respectfully refer the Court to a lecture by the Hon. Jeffery Gallet of the Family Court of the City of New York (37 Buffalo L. Rev. 739), which is attached hereto as Exhibit H. In it, Judge Gallet indicates that dyslexia does not diminish a person's capability to think or act, but only limits certain specific abilities which can be overcome. As he overcame his limitations with a computerized speller and a calculator, I can overcome mine with accommodations in scheduling and the use of a tape recorder.

19. I have no adequate remedy at law. To date, I have earned 91 credits toward the 161 needed to graduate. Money damages will not restore my property rights in my education, particularly since Maritime offers a unique education leading to licensure by a federal agency, the United States Coast Guard. Thus, I am being denied participation, on the basis of my handicap, not only of a program receiving financial assistance from the federal government, but by a program overlaid with federal participation.

Dear Sirs:

Jim Brown has asked that I write this letter to describe his work in my FORTRAN class during the Spring 1988 semester.

Jim was an extremely diligent student. He was determined to understand any logical problems that occurred in his programs and to correct them without assistance. Furthermore, he completed his programs with additional error-trapping and documentation beyond what was expected for the assignment.

When his lack of programming experience made it difficult to understand the concept taught in the lecture, Jim sought help through additional readings and lab-assistance.

Personally, Jim was well-liked and sociable. He was willing to share his knowledge with others and contribute to the class discussion.

I feel that Jim's persistence will make him a good candidate for further education as well as employment.

Should you have any further questions about Jim that I could entertain, feel free to contact me at any time.

Sincerely,

Barbran Smith, Professor

To whom it may concern:

James Brown has been employed by Nassau Community College as a Student Aide from the Fall 1987 semester through the present.

His main duty is assisting students who use our micro/mainframe computer facilities. Due to sheer numbers, this can often be a demanding and stressful situation yet Jim takes it in stride and is a real asset to our operation. He is a quick learner and has demonstrated extensive knowledge of the software used by the students. Jim will stay late at a moment's notice to pitch in when necessary.

On a more personal note, Jim is as pleasant, cooperative, punctual and bright as anyone I've had the pleasure of working with.

I recommend him for any position you may have available.

Dear Sir:

I have spoken with Mr. James K. Brown (S.S. #054-56-4511) regarding his interest in attending SUNY Maritime College to study Computer Science Engineering.

Jim is currently a student in my Engineering Physics I (PHY 122) course where he is maintaining a B average. I have found Jim to be a serious and attentive student. His assignments are always neatly prepared and submitted on time. This is reflective of his respectful manner and refreshingly conscientious approach to learning. He is an amiable young man well-liked by his peers.

I believe that Jim Brown possesses both the temperament and ability to succeed at Maritime and hope that you will give his application your most serious consideration.

Dear Mrs Bush -

1/2/91

Thank you so much for fulfilling my request to send a card to my friend's daughter, Lynn Jakubowski, who was dying of leukemia. I wanted to let you know how much it meant to the family. Lynn, unfortunately, didn't meet her goal of living through Christmas. She died Dec 22. Your card arrived Dec. 24 - too late for Lynn, but a definite positive occurrence for this very traditional family on Christmas Eve. Again, your true concern and effort have strengthened my way to call you friend. Thank you! Sincerely, Jane Brown

Thank you for your recent letter regarding duty rates for GORE-TEX.

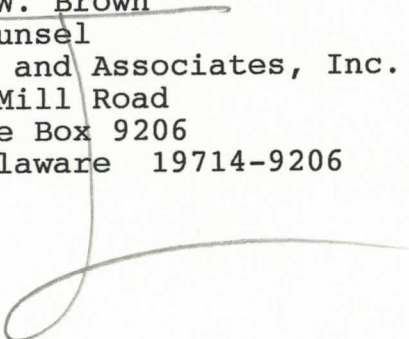

I appreciate your sharing your thoughts with me and have taken the liberty of forwarding your concerns to others on our staff who are coordinating the President's efforts in this area.

Your input is very helpful.

The Honorable John H. Sununu
Chief of Staff to the President
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Governor Sununu:

We at W. L. Gore & Associates, Inc., an American manufacturing company with 5,000 employees, are very concerned that the Customs Service proposes to triple the duty rate on hiking boots containing GORE-TEX® membrane which we produce in Elkton, Maryland where we are the largest employer in rural Cecil County. Such a decision will shut us out of the U.S. domestic hiking and backpacking footwear market, an area of significant importance for our company and the U.S. economy. We are seeking your assistance in insuring that this economic nightmare does not occur.

Our GORE-TEX membrane is made in the U.S.A. and shipped overseas for insertion into footwear as a lining material. (When imported into Italy, our membrane is subject to a 50% duty.) The duty is imposed when the completed footwear re-enters the U.S. Thus the proposed increase in the duty rate will harm a U.S. manufacturer and its U.S. employees--while lower quality foreign footwear will continue to be imported into the U.S. at a favorable duty rate. This doesn't make sense to us, and that's why we're seeking your help.

Simply put, it appears to be the tentative position of the Customs Service that a hiking boot without GORE-TEX membrane is subject to a 10.5 percent duty rate while the same boot with GORE-TEX membrane is dutiable at 37.5 percent. Customs is now proposing to rule that hiking boots with GORE-TEX membrane are footwear designed to be used as protection against water, oil, grease or chemicals or cold or inclement weather, heading 6404.10.20, which takes a 37.5 percent duty rate. The identical boot without the GORE-TEX membrane will continue to enjoy the lower 10.5 percent duty rate provided for in heading 6404.19.15.

The hiking and backpacking boots at issue are not principally used as a protection against water, oil, grease or chemicals or cold or inclement weather. Rather, they are by design specially adapted for use in hiking and backpacking. Each component of the boot performs a specific design function which enhances the ability of the wearer to safely and comfortably hike and backpack. While it is true that the GORE-TEX membrane found in the boots acts as a barrier to the penetration of rain or snow, the function of the membrane merely enhances the ability of the hiker-backpacker to comfortably continue his hiking should the weather turn inclement. Clearly, hiking and backpacking boots are not primarily designed for use as protective footwear--protection against water, oil, grease or chemicals or cold or inclement weather--and their classification should not be governed by a secondary or ancillary design feature. Our GORE-TEX membrane is also used as a lining in fashion footwear, like women's pumps, to provide the same ancillary benefits as in hiking boots, yet ladies' fashion footwear is not being assessed the additional duty. Clearly, this illustrates the fallacy of categorizing footwear as "protective" simply because it contains a GORE-TEX membrane lining.

If Customs determines that hiking boots with GORE-TEX membrane are dutiable at 37.5 percent, thus tripling the duty rate, we and our U.S. customers will be effectively shut out of the marketplace.

We urge you to contact Commissioner Hallett to voice your concern that Customs is attempting to impose a limitation, where none is required, on the classification of hiking boots with a GORE-TEX membrane lining.

We stand ready to meet with you at your convenience to discuss this matter and provide any additional information you may require.

Very truly yours,

James W. Brown
General Counsel

President George Bush
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20500

Dear President Bush:

In your 1988 campaign you spoke of a "thousand points of light" shining in America. I would like to bring your attention to one of them.

James Robert (Bob) Brown is a science at Chouteau-Mazie High School, Chouteau, Oklahoma. About four years ago he took a personal interest in geology and began offering a high school course in that subject. Often using his own money and his Saturdays off he began taking his class on field trips to give his students something more than textbook experience. His enthusiasm for geology was infectious.

To further motivate his students he entered them in an Earth Science competition at Oklahoma State University. In this first competition his students took first, second, fourth, and fifth places. In fact, for the past four years his students have taken first and second every time. In this competition Chouteau-Mazie (a small 2-A school) is competing against 3-A, 4-A, and 5-A schools including Tulsa's Booker T. Washington, a magnet school for the academically gifted.

The next year he began entering his students in other science categories with similar results. Each year his academic teams bring home more trophies than do all the other county schools put together and more than the entire sports programs at those schools. Since taking a second place team trophy at that first OSU competition, his academic team has taken 8 first place trophies, 1 second place trophies, and 2 third place trophies competing at seven different universities.

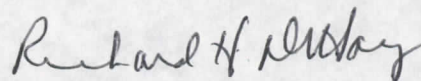

Bob Brown practices the kids on his own time after school often having to take them home afterwards if they do not have rides. If they have an interest in a particular subject, he finds as much material on that subject as he can and develops trivia questions for the student to study. His academic team now enters a wide variety of subjects including Computers, English, and World History to name a few. He plans his competitions in the summer, starts grooming his students in the fall, and like a good wrestling coach places them in the competitions in which he feels they are strongest. He has also begun a Junior High Quiz Bowl Team which only lost one time this year.

With an increased emphasis on America's need to compete globally in science and mathematics, Bob Brown is a leader and an innovator in motivating the youth of our community to study the sciences. As stated earlier, he began these projects on his own. Only recently have the school board and the administration come behind him with their full support.

I believe this effort should not go unnoticed or unrewarded. I am writing to you in the hope that you will see Bob Brown as one of the "points of light" of which you spoke. I hope you will be able to recognize this man's contribution in a special way. Graduation is May 21. If possible, perhaps he could receive some special citation then. This recognition is long overdue.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Brown:

On behalf of President Bush, my belated thanks for your message regarding Admiral John Poindexter. The President ^{also} appreciates your support for our Armed Forces success in the Persian Gulf.

As you are no doubt aware, on April 7, 1990, a Federal court jury found Admiral Poindexter guilty on five counts for his role in the Iran-Contra affair. Even though Admiral Poindexter has been convicted, he is entitled to seek relief from that verdict in the Court of Appeals. It is our understanding that he intends to avail himself of that remedy.

Accordingly, President Bush believes that the legal process should be allowed to go forward. Among other things, a pardon would cut short the usual opportunity for Admiral Poindexter to challenge the validity of the charges of which he was convicted and the sufficiency of the evidence to prove these charges. Therefore, the President believes it is not appropriate to engage in discussion of a pardon at this time.

The President was pleased to learn about your visit to the Grand Canyon and he appreciates the interest that prompted you to write.

Sincerely,

Dear Pres. Bush,

JUN 11 1991

~~GR~~ I am writing to you because of my concern for railroading that Admiral Poindexter is receiving, fundamentally at the hands of congress. He is getting a bum rap.

YOU know, as I do, having been in the NAVY that members of congress could NOT be trusted with any important information! Leaks would always occur. In addition I'm positive that the Admiral was simply doing what he perceived his boss wanted and for that matter, many others.

Adm. Poindexter has been a great servant of the nation. What a lousy way to treat him.

Can't you do ~~the~~ something? Please?

Sincerely,

James D Brown

P.S. Congrats on the handling of the Gulf area war.

A great job!
