CHINA'S CRACKDOWN

Reign of Terror

Continuing hostilities: Beijing residents seek safety as an Army vehicle burns

China's Reign of Terror

The protesters were not through counting their dead from the Tiananmen Square massacre when the government began rounding up what it called "rioters." NEWSWEEK correspondents Melinda Liu, Carroll Bogert, Tony Clifton and Rod Nordland file from Beijing on the further damage to China's modernization hopes, with reports from Hong Kong, Washington and other cities in America and abroad. Special Report: Page 14

Solidarity's Stunning Win

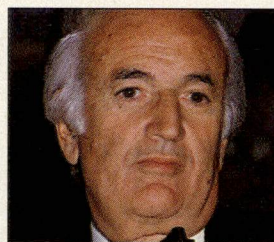

The East bloc's first contested elections in 40 years ended in humiliating defeat for Poland's Communist Party. Now party officials must work with the leaders of the movement they tried to crush. Solidarity's win may splinter both the union and the Communist Party. International: Page 42

Now It's Just 'War'

Wags called the planned merger between media giants Time and Warner Communications "WarTime." Now it's just "War" as Paramount makes a hostile offer—and odds mount of a bidding frenzy. Business: Page 48
