CONGRESSIONAL MONITOR

Volume 26, Number 34

Today in Congress

Floor Action: The House will take up three bills under suspension of the rules, including HR 1347, which would raise the salaries of the Panama Canal Commission's board of directors.

The Senate is not in session this week.

Energy Markup: Among the bills slated for markup by the House Energy and Commerce Committee is legislation (HR 3386) that would bar garbage "backhauling" — transporting garbage or hazardous materials in the same trucks that are used to ship food.

The committee will take up a substitute amendment that would prohibit back hauling by railroad cars as well and require that extremely hazardous materials, such as asbestos or infectious wastes, be shipped only in vehicles or railroad cars specifically designated for that purpose.

The committee is also scheduled to mark up clean air legislation (HR 3030) this week but will probably not take up the bill until the Energy and Power Subcommittee marks up an acid rain proposal. That markup is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday.

Other bills the committee will consider include:

- HR 2273, which would bar discrimination against the disabled in employment and access to public transportation and public buildings.

- HR 3657, which would give the Securities and Exchange Commission authority to halt stock trading during a market emergency, require large traders to report their transactions and restrict program trading.

- HR 3155, which would boost the federal government's role in fish inspection, including establishing federal contamination standards.

- HR 3520, which would authorize funding for an increased federal government role in regulating shipments of hazardous waste.

- HR 2921, which would prohibit telemarketers from soliciting consumers who have indicated they do not want to receive unsolicited advertising.

HUD Investigation: Congress will open a new chapter in its probe of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) scandal today, if a Government Operations subcommittee approves, as expected, a motion granting a key witness immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony.

Employment and Housing Subcommittee Chairman Tom Lantos, D-Calif., announced last week that Dubois Gilliam, who was a top aide to former HUD Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr., has agreed to tell panel members about influence-peddling at the housing agency. Gilliam is currently serving a prison term for accepting bribes while at HUD.

Under the agreement, Gilliam would answer questions from panel members and could not invoke his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination. In return, he would get a pledge that neither his statements nor leads derived from his testimony could be used against him in court.

If the subcommittee approves the motion, the full committee will take up the proposal at its business meeting today. A Democratic aide at the Employment and Housing Subcommittee predicted that the motion will encounter little opposition at either session.

EPA, OIRA: The House Government Operations panel is expected to approve a bill (HR 3847) to elevate the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to a Cabinet-level Department of the Environment.

Proponents of the bill say it would give the environmental agency more clout within the administration and better leverage in policy-making. The Senate

Hill News

ROSTENKOWSKI WINS plaudits for budget plan.

The White House joined congressional Democrats and Republicans yesterday in praising House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., for offering a strong prescription to reduce the federal budget deficit. But administration officials refrained from endorsing the details of his plan to freeze spending and raise taxes.

Rostenkowski's deficit-reduction package — first revealed in an article he wrote for last Sunday's Washington Post — includes a one-year freeze on Social Security cost-of-living increases, no tax cuts, including for capital gains, and new taxes on high-income Americans and also on gasoline, liquor and tobacco.

The Ways and Means chairman said his plan would wipe out the federal deficit — projected at $161 billion by the Congressional Budget Office for fiscal 1991 — and produce a $34 billion surplus by 1995.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater yesterday emphasized Bush's opposition to tax increases and said the plan had significant weaknesses, but he left the door open to negotiations.

"We don't want to pour too much cold water on a plan that maybe we want to swim around in for a while," Fitzwater said.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said Rostenkowski "has correctly challenged Congress, the administration and the American people to face up to public enemy No. 1: the federal deficit. His proposal could be the wake-up call we've been waiting for — we'll see who answers it."

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, lauded his House counterpart for a "bold proposal that marks a good starting point for debate on deficit reduction. Danny is showing real leadership in making the proposal he does and for that my hat is off to him."

Some voices on Capitol Hill did not join the chorus of praise. "The Democrats want to go from 'tax and spend' to 'tax and tax and tax,'" said Sen. Bob Kasten, R-Wis. He said the proposal "would saddle working families with the greatest tax increases we've seen in decades."

CENSUS ADJUSTMENT guidelines: Critics quick to respond.

The Commerce Department yesterday left open the door to adjusting the 1990 census for an anticipated undercount of the nation's minorities, but some proponents of such an adjustment blasted the agency for apparently abandoning the idea.

The Commerce Department, which includes the U.S. Census Bureau, issued final guidelines for how it will determine whether to make a statistical adjustment for estimated undercounts or overcounts in this year's decennial census of the nation's population.

"If an adjustment will clearly improve the census, then the entire nation will benefit. If it is not clear that an adjustment would improve the census, then we should not adjust," said Michael R. Darby, under secretary of commerce for economic affairs.

Rep. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y., complained that the guidelines all but assure that no adjustment will be made.

FCC BUDGET woes imperil industry, chairman warns.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) — pushing for wider business activities for "Baby Bell" phone companies and new rules governing network television finances — faces a funding shortfall that could damage U.S. competitiveness in the communications industry, its chairman said yesterday.

"If the FCC lacks adequate funding, quality will suffer and timely decisions will become a memory. In the communications and information services sector, such a result is intolerable," FCC Chairman Alfred C. Sikes told the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Commerce, Justice, State and the Judiciary.

Subcommittee Chairman Neal Smith, D-Iowa, agreed.

Fiscal 1991 funding shortfalls could affect handling of consumer complaints, processing of broadcast applications and monitoring misuses of the radio spectrum, Sikes said. The agency wanted 66 new positions in fiscal 1991 but the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approved only 28, he said, adding that the FCC will seek the full 66 again next year.

The FCC's OMB-approved budget request, largely formulated by the previous FCC chairman, is nearly $118 million, a 9.7 percent increase over the current appropriation, Sikes said.

The FCC's duties would increase if various proposals it is pushing come to fruition. It is working with lawmakers on legislation to lift court restrictions prohibiting the seven regional Baby Bell phone companies from manufacturing telecommunications equipment and providing computer information services.

The agency also wants additional personnel to develop standards and rules for high-definition television.

AIDS RESEARCH still top NIH priority, director tells panel.

The acting director of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) told a House subcommittee yesterday that the Bush administration's budget proposals will enable researchers to continue a "strong assault on AIDS." But at least one member said the administration should have asked for more money.

Speaking before the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, William F. Raub said the additional $56.6 million requested for AIDS research in fiscal 1991 would push NIH's budget to combat the disease to more than $800 million.

But subcommittee member Joseph D. Early, D-Mass., criticized Raub and other NIH officials for not waging a tougher battle with the Office of Management and Budget to win a bigger budget request from the administration.

"You come in here like you got a pretty good budget. You got a disastrous budget for science," Early told Raub. "We're not funding you to progress. We're funding you to stay in business."

Raub acknowledged that NIH has problems with recruitment and retention of world-class researchers because of low salaries and, in some cases, outdated facilities.

The administration's total budget request for NIH is slightly more than $7.9 billion, a 4.7 percent increase over fiscal 1990.

No Contest for 29 House Incumbents

At least 29 House members have drawn no opposition in their 1990 re-election races, a number that is sure to rise with final rosters still to be completed in 41 states.

The filing deadline in California was last week, but a complete list of candidates has yet to be compiled in Sacramento. Ohio's filing deadline came last month, but the roster of congressional candidates also is not complete.

Of the 29 unopposed candidates thus far, 12 are running in today's Texas primary, which is also featuring heated races in both parties for governor.

The big news in California last week was the announcement by Ron Kovic that he would not challenge incumbent Republican Rep. Robert K. Dornan in the 38th District. Kovic, a disabled Vietnam War veteran, gained national attention with a movie about his experiences, "Born on the Fourth of July."

Dornan, however, is expected to draw a little-known Democratic opponent, Barbara Jackson.

Here is the incomplete list of incumbents who face no major party opposition in November:

Illinois:

Marty Russo, D-3
Dan Rostenkowski, D-8
Glenn Poshard, D-22

Governmental Affairs Committee reported out a similar measure (S 2006) on Feb. 28. Key players on both sides of the Hill are pushing to clear the legislation by late April.

Also slated for markup today is a bill (HR 3695) to reauthorize the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA), a division of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) set up by the 1986 Paperwork Reduction Act to review draft rules issued by federal agencies.

Democrats have criticized OIRA, contending that the bureau routinely subjects agency regulations to political litmus tests.

Although HR 3695 places only mild restrictions on OIRA, bill sponsor John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., has elicited a pledge from OMB Director Richard G. Darman that the bureau will cut back on its oversight activities.

Both bills will be marked up by the panel's Legislation Subcommittee first.

Unemployment Markup: The House Ways and Means Subcommittee on Human Resources will mark up legislation (HR 3896) to revise provisions in the unemployment insurance law that have the effect of denying extended benefits to jobless individuals in some areas of high unemployment.

Under current law, 13 weeks of extra benefits are available to help ease economic problems in areas with faltering local economies or plant closings. But, eligibility for these extra benefits is based on the unemployment rate of the state as a whole, which may fall below the level that triggers extended payments. HR 3896 would change the system to make smaller "sub-state" areas eligible.

Economic Stabilization: Legislation to provide development assistance to economically depressed areas will be marked up by the House Banking Subcommittee on Economic Stabilization.

The measure (HR 2015), which was reported out of the Public Works Committee last year, would authorize $276 million annually over the next three years for the Economic Development Administration (EDA) and $185 million annually for the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC).

State and local governments, universities and development organizations would qualify for EDA matching grants if they were located in "severely depressed" areas — defined as areas with per capita income of 80 percent or less of the national average or an unemployment rate higher than the national average.

ARC funds would be used for road improvements, infrastructure projects and employee training. ■

Legislation (HR 1767) pending before the subcommittees would lift these restrictions and remove the president's authority to prohibit travel because of trade embargos. In countries where traveling could be dangerous for U.S. citizens (such as Lebanon) the president's authority to prohibit travel would be expanded.

TO: Speaker Tom Foley
Representative Bob Michel
Senator Bob Dole
Senator George Mitchell

DATE: March 12, 1990

RECOMMENDED BY: Frederick D. McClure FM

PURPOSE: To apprise the Congressional leadership of your request for a major assistance package for Nicaragua.

BACKGROUND: Although the media began running stories tonight regarding your decision to seek Nicaragua assistance, you will not be making the official announcement until tomorrow morning. At that time you will announce your request for a Supplemental Appropriations bill that provides major economic assistance for Nicaragua. At the same time you are making calls, Secretary of State Jim Baker, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, OMB Director Dick Darman, and Deputy National Security Advisor Bob Gates will be making appropriate notification calls.

The package requests $300 million for Nicaragua and asks that it be added to the supplemental appropriations bill currently pending in Congress -- $500 million for Panama and $70 million for refugee assistance. This effort will be financed by offsets from the FY 90 Department of Defense budget, to be negotiated with Congress. In addition, you will be calling on Congress to act on this assistance package by March 27, particularly given President Chamorro's efforts to demilitarize Nicaragua.

KEY POINTS: See Attachment.

POINTS TO BE MADE FOR TELEPHONE CALLS TO CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS

- I am calling to tell you that tomorrow I will ask Congress to create a democracy fund for Nicaragua and Panama. I am also going to announce the end of the embargo against Nicaragua.
- I talked to Violeta Chamorro today. She knows what I intend to propose and agrees. She told me she needs help quickly, to assure the Nicaraguan people that their faith in democracy is justified.
- We also need to consolidate the peace process and promote demobilization and demilitarization on both sides. With rapid bipartisan action, we can do this.
- The shelves are bare in Nicaragua already, and the Sandinistas are taking actions that will make the economic situation even worse when Mrs. Chamorro comes in.
- This is what I am proposing: to tie my previous request for $570 million for (Panama and refugees) with an additional $300 million in FY 90 aid for Nicaragua. All of this will be financed by offsets from the Defense budget, negotiated with Congress.
- I also plan to send up in the future an additional request of approximately $200 million in FY 91 for Nicaragua.
- The Panamanian and Nicaraguan economies desperately need the jump start that our aid can provide.
- I am asking the Congress to move quickly on this package. I have instructed Dick Cheney and Dick Darman to begin negotiations immediately with the Congress on the offsets.
- If we can't reach agreement by March 27, I suggest two alternatives: that the Congress authorize me to make the

-- If we can't reach agreement by March 27, I suggest two alternatives: that the Congress authorize me to make the offsets myself; or that Congress pass a waiver of the Budget Act so that I can carry out this critical program quickly.

-- We accomplished a great deal working together so closely on the Bipartisan Accord. We need to work closely now to consolidate the gains we have made in Nicaragua and Panama. /

Interest Rates Peril Fed Chief's Job Sources Say

Monday, March 12, 1990 -- A-7

FED HAS LOST MUCH OF ITS POWER TO SWAY U.S. INTEREST RATES

The Fed has lost much of its control over U.S. interest rates. Gradually, its power is slipping away to markets in Tokyo and Frankfurt. As the Fed loses leverage, the U.S. is losing some of its control over its economic destiny.

Struggling to deal with global economic disorder, finance ministers and central bankers of the world's seven industrial nations agreed last week to meet in Paris April 7. The White House, in particular, sees an urgent need to revive languishing international economic coordination....

Even Mr. Greenspan asked at a recent congressional hearing: "To what extent have we lost control over our economic destiny?" His answer: The Fed can still do its job, but it's "more difficult."

It's more difficult mostly because of the ever-growing globalization of financial markets.... America's budget deficit and low savings rates have addicted the U.S. to foreign capital, so foreign investors increasingly dictate the terms.

(David Wessel & Constance Mitchell, Wall Street Journal, A1)

WHITE HOUSE DENIES REPORT ON GREENSPAN'S FUTURE AS FED CHIEF

The White House denied a report that President Bush is unlikely to reappoint Alan Greenspan as Federal Reserve Board chairman.

Presidential aides acknowledged that they think Mr. Greenspan should do more to drive down interest rates, but the aides say the Fed chairman's reputation and relationship with top Administration officials make it unlikely he will be asked to leave.

With international financial markets already unsettled by world events, the Bush Administration moved quickly to damp speculation about the Fed chairmanship. Michael Boskin, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, described the Los Angeles Times story as "out of left field." A spokesman for Treasury Secretary Brady called it "totally unfounded."

(Wall Street Journal, A12)

ENVIRONMENT/U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT SURVEY

President Bush said he wanted to be the environmental president, but so far his work is not earning high marks. He was graded by environmental and business groups in a survey for U.S. News & World Report.

Conservation groups gave Mr. Bush a 'C' in clean water and law enforcement, but flunked him in marine environments.

He fared better with business groups, earning a 'B-' in public lands, marine environments, conservation and law enforcement.

White House Denies Report on Greenspan's Future as Fed Chief

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter

WASHINGTON—The White House denied a report that President Bush is unlikely to reappoint Alan Greenspan as Federal Reserve Board chairman.

Presidential aides acknowledge that they think Mr. Greenspan should do more to drive down interest rates, but the aides say the Fed chairman's reputation and relationship with top administration officials make it unlikely he will be asked to leave.

The Los Angeles Times reported Friday that Mr. Bush is so unhappy with the Fed chairman's policies that the president is unlikely to reappoint him when his term as chairman expires in August 1991.

With international financial markets already unsettled by world events, the Bush administration moved quickly to damp speculation about the Fed chairmanship. Michael Boskin, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, described the newspaper story as "out of left field." A spokesman for Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady called it "totally unfounded."

The report of Mr. Bush's unhappiness with Mr. Greenspan occurred at a time of increased tension between the Treasury and Fed over intervention in foreign-exchange markets. Central banks in Europe and Japan intervened heavily last week to try to hold back a surging dollar. The Treasury and the Fed disagreed strongly about the extent to which the U.S. should intervene. The Treasury was eager for action to try to push the dollar down. The Fed—more concerned about inflation—argued against that action.

Mr. Boskin and other administration officials said the White House hasn't yet begun to consider the question of Mr. Greenspan's reappointment. Officials say they haven't even begun to decide whether to reappoint Manuel Johnson, whose term expires in August.

PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENT: AID TO NICARAGUA AND PANAMA

We began this Administration by saying that the day of the dictator is over. Now restless millions have spoken, and have elected or prepare to elect new governments -- their governments.

As long as we live, the images of this revolution, the Revolution of '89, will always be with us -- a playwright President in Prague, the tumbling of the Berlin Wall and the crumbling of a Romanian dictatorship. But this Revolution leaves us with a new challenge: how to best support new-born democracies?

This challenge is utterly unlike the task of rebuilding Europe after the Second World War, for no single great plan will do. We need a flexible approach -- one that will meet the needs of each country we seek to help. Today I want to speak about how we can best help two new democracies in our hemisphere: Panama and Nicaragua.

We should take great pride in the way in which our leadership helped the democratic spirit take hold in these two countries. But this is no time for America to bask in self-praise. These nations need our help to heal deep wounds inflicted by years of strife and oppression, years of loss and deprivation. We must act -- and act soon -- to help the peoples of these new democracies in two great and historic tasks:

Reconstruction and reconciliation.

I've taken an important step today. As a demonstration of our resolve to be part of the process of reconciliation, I just signed an executive order to end the economic embargo against Nicaragua. Americans are determined to help the people of Nicaragua.

Next, I am asking the Congress and the American people to join me in crafting a bipartisan agreement to help both countries. After all, bipartisanship worked well last year to put the focus on free elections and end the fighting in Nicaragua. Bipartisanship also helped bring an end to tyranny in Panama. We need to work again in that same spirit to put together an assistance program for both countries.

I am proposing the creation of a fund for democracy, to assist in the reconstruction and development of these two countries. I am requesting the Congress to approve, by April 5, a package of assistance of eight hundred million dollars for these two countries, using funds from the Department of Defense budget. This package consists of $500 million for Panama (already requested in my January 25 proposal to Congress along with $70 million for refugees), and an additional $300 million for Nicaragua. I am asking the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury to work together on the economic assistance aspects of these packages and to consult with the Congress. In addition under existing authorities, I am initiating immediate action to provide $21 million of previously appropriated economic aid, principally for food and humanitarian assistance. I also will be sending to the Congress in the future a request for an additional $200 million in Fiscal Year '91 for Nicaragua, consistent with the approach we have taken this year.

Moreover, I have instructed the Secretary of Defense and the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, to begin negotiations immediately with the Congress on mutually acceptable offsets from the Defense Budget that can be used for this democracy fund, without having an unacceptable impact on national security. I further propose that, in the event that an agreement on offsets cannot be reached by March 27, the Congress authorize me to select offsets from the Defense Budget. Should neither of these alternatives prove to be workable, I am prepared, because of the dire need for these funds, to ask for a waiver of the Budget Act to allow this critical program to proceed on the required timetable.

I urge the Congress to move quickly, and also urge in the strongest terms that it not add any extraneous items to this request. It is urgent to advance the prospects for democracy and reconciliation in Nicaragua and Panama. Damage to both economies has been great. We must help and we want to help. Our help is needed swiftly to bring about demilitarization and advance the Central American peace process. If bipartisanship prevails, we will be able to meet this goal, and respond to the expectations of our neighbors.

Let me save the details for Congressional committee briefings, and give you the three broad categories of assistance: aid for democracy, for development and for demilitarization.

We want to help democratic institutions take root in each country. But democracy begins with the rule of law and respect for human rights. It needs the support of courts that are fair and free of every influence but the law. It needs the support of police forces that are upright and honest. And it needs our support.

Development and demilitarization go hand in hand. They start when we provide textbooks for children; when we create thousands of new jobs; when the hand that held a gun guides a plow. In short, as we demobilize the military, we must mobilize the market.

This is a great and historic task. But we are inspired by the courage of our neighbors. We are close, so very close, to a hemisphere that is completely democratic -- a compass of freedom that spans half the world, from Alaska to Argentina.

In facing this enormous challenge, we are not alone. Other nations can and must help. But only America can take the lead. I stand prepared to work with the Congress to do our part for reconstruction and reconciliation -- for democracy.

And now, I would delighted to take your questions.

Doug Sanders called 713- 864-3684

1. Asking if the President would be interested in playing golf on Memorial Day Weekend with Clint Eastwood, Willie Nelson, and possibly John Denver. They could come to Maine anytime that 3 day weekend.

2. Asking if the President could participate in his tournament in Houston (Kingwood) on the weekend of May 18, 19, and 20. Said he had mentioned this to the President and the President said he needed a "reason" to be in Houston. Sanders is proposing to bring together

1. Alan Shephard - first man in Space
2. Gene Cernan - last man to take steps on the moon.
3. Neil Armstrong - first man on the moon.

Sanders said this could take place at NASA -- said this is just "an idea" but thought it could be a good reason to bring the President to Houston (????) He was also aware that the President would be in Austin on Saturday, the 19th, for UT's commencement.

3. Asked if he could talk to someone on the President's staff about "fundraising for the President." I can ask Jim Wray to call Sanders, but wanted to run it by you first.

RE: ROSTY PLAN

- (1) It is well known that the Administration does not support some elements of this plan. [Don't elaborate. Just assert it's "well known."]
- (2) BUT: Chairman Rostenkowski deserves credit for advancing a deficit-reduction plan that is serious and comprehensive.
- (3) The Rostenkowski plan represents an interesting contrast with other Democratic approaches:
 - Senator Moynihan's, which would increase the deficit by $55 billion in the first year;
 - Representative Gephardt's, which would give the "peace dividend" to the Soviets, not to deficit-reduction;
 - the Democratically-controlled budget committees', which have produced no plan at all.
- (4) The principal substantive weaknesses of the Rosty plan are:
 - It is not satisfactorily designed to increase economic growth. It is not enough to reduce the deficit. It is essential that the way in which this is done must increase economic growth.
 - It eliminates [sequester] the back-up discipline of across-the-board spending reduction [under Gramm-Rudman]. Any deficit plan must preserve an effective back-up discipline. If a deficit-reduction plan works, we won't need the back-up. But if it doesn't, we will. [Indeed, if there is no back-up discipline, Congress will return to the spend-and-tax policies that got us in trouble in the seventies.]

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

The United States has never recognized the forcible incorporation of the independent states of Estonia, Latvia, or Lithuania into the USSR. We have consistently supported the Baltic peoples' inalienable right to peaceful self-determination.

The new Parliament has declared its intention to restore Lithuanian independence. The United States would urge the Soviet government to respect the will of the citizens of Lithuania as expressed through their freely elected representatives and expects the government of Lithuania to consider the rights of its minority population.

The United States believes it is in the mutual interest of Lithuania, the Soviet Union, and all CSCE countries to resolve this issue peacefully.

We call upon the Soviet government to address its concerns and interests through immediate constructive negotiations with the government of Lithuania.

We hope that all parties will continue to avoid any initiation or encouragement of violence.

LITHUANIAN INDEPENDENCE

Q: WILL THE USG RECOGNIZE THE NEW GOVERNMENT FORMED AFTER THE ELECTIONS AS THE LAWFUL GOVERNMENT OF AN INDEPENDENT LITHUANIA?

A: -- WE RECOGNIZED THE INDEPENDENT STATE OF LITHUANIA IN 1922 AND NEVER RECOGNIZED ITS SUBSEQUENT ILLEGAL INCORPORATION INTO THE USSR.

-- U.S. PRACTICE HAS BEEN TO ESTABLISH FORMAL RELATIONS WITH THE LAWFUL GOVERNMENT OF ANY STATE ONCE THAT GOVERNMENT IS IN EFFECTIVE CONTROL OF ITS TERRITORY AND CAPABLE OF ENTERING INTO AND FULFILLING INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS.

-- WHEN WE ARE SATISFIED THAT THE LITHUANIAN GOVERNMENT CAN MEET THESE REQUIREMENTS WE WILL ESTABLISH FORMAL DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

Q: THE SOVIETS HAVE SAID THEY ARE PREPARING A LAW REGULATING THE RIGHT TO SECESSION. DOESN'T THE LITHUANIAN DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE PREEMPT THIS LEGAL PROCEDURE?

A: -- THE BALTIC STATES DO NOT RECOGNIZE THEIR INCORPORATION INTO THE USSR.

-- HOW THE LITHUANIAN PEOPLE PURSUE THEIR RIGHT TO SELF-DETERMINATION IS A MATTER FOR THEM TO DECIDE.

Q: ARE YOU DISCUSSING THIS WITH THE SOVIETS? WITH THE LITHUANIAN GOVERNMENT IN VILNIUS?

A: -- SECRETARY BAKER DISCUSSED US POLICY TOWARD THE BALTICS WHEN HE MET WITH MEMBERS OF THE SUPREME SOVIET DURING HIS LAST MINISTERIAL-LEVEL TALKS IN MOSCOW. WE ARE ALSO IN TOUCH WITH LITHUANIAN CHARGE LOZORAITIS, WHO REPRESENTS THE LAST FREE GOVERNMENT OF LITHUANIA, AND WE ARE IN TOUCH WITH A RANGE OF PEOPLE IN LITHUANIA.

Q: DO YOU CONSIDER THAT THE RECENT ELECTIONS IN LITHUANIA WERE FREE AND FAIR?

A: -- U.S. OFFICIALS FROM OUR CONSULATE IN LENINGRAD WHO OBSERVED THE ELECTIONS JUDGED THEM TO BE GENERALLY FREE AND FAIR.

Q: NOW THAT THE LEADERS OF LITHUANIA ARE FREELY ELECTED, WILL THE U.S. GOVERNMENT REVISE ITS POLICY OF HIGH-LEVEL CONTACTS WITH THE AUTHORITIES THERE?

A: -- WE ARE REVIEWING THIS POLICY IN THE LIGHT OF RECENT AND ONGOING DEVELOPMENTS. WE WILL EXPAND THE RANGE OF OUR CONTACTS WITH FREELY ELECTED REPRESENTATIVES AND OFFICIALS OF THE BALTIC STATES, AS APPROPRIATE.

Q: DOES THE U.S. SUPPORT INDEPENDENCE MOVEMENTS IN SOVIET REPUBLICS OTHER THAN THE BALTIC STATES?

A: -- WHILE THE UNITED STATES SUPPORTS THE GENERAL PRINCIPLE OF SELF-DETERMINATION, IT HAS RECOGNIZED ONLY ESTONIA, LATVIA, AND LITHUANIA AS DE JURE STATES SEPARATE FROM THE USSR. THEIR SOVEREIGNTY AND TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY WAS FORCIBLY VIOLATED IN 1940 AFTER AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN STALIN AND HITLER ALLOWED STALIN TO COERCE THEIR GOVERNMENTS INTO JOINING THE USSR.

Q: DO YOU RECOGNIZE THE PRESENT LITHUANIAN BORDERS OR THE PREWAR TERRITORY WHICH INCLUDED PARTS OF WHAT IS NOW THE USSR? WASN'T THE CAPITAL, VILNIUS, FORMERLY IN POLAND?

A: -- IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PRINCIPLES OF THE HELSINKI FINAL ACT, THE UNITED STATES RECOGNIZES THE EXISTING BORDERS AS THE LEGAL BORDERS OF THE LITHUANIAN STATE.

Q: NOW THAT LITHUANIA HAS DECLARED ITS INDEPENDENCE, DON'T YOU EXPECT THAT ESTONIA AND LATVIA WILL SOON FOLLOW?

A: -- THAT IS UP TO THE PEOPLE OF ESTONIA AND LATVIA TO DECIDE.

Q: What is the Department's reaction to the television statement by Lithuanian party secretary Brazauskas that Gorbachev told him that Lithuania must pay, in hard currency, some $33 billion dollars to get out of the Soviet Union and must cede the port of Klaipeda?

A: -- WE HAVE READ THE PRESS REPORTS FROM MOSCOW ABOUT THE GORBACHEV-LITHUANIAN DISCUSSIONS.

-- FOR THE RECORD, THE UNITED STATES DOES NOT RECOGNIZE THE FORCIBLE INCORPORATION OF ESTONIA, LATVIA, AND LITHUANIA INTO THE SOVIET UNION. WE BELIEVE THAT ALL PARTIES TO THESE DISPUTES SHOULD SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES PEACEFULLY.

Quayle Buys a (Blush) Souvenir

Purchase of Off-Color Doll in Chile Amazes Marilyn, Onlookers

By Ann Devroy,
Washington Post Staff Writer

VALPARAISO, Chile, March 11— Question: Which major political figure who suffers from an image problem would buy a risqué, if not obscene, gag doll in full view of hundreds of onlookers, including his horrified wife and a gaggle of reporters?

Answer: Vice President Dan Quayle.

Even advance men, who are paid to think of the absolutely worst things that could possibly happen to foul up a picturesque photo opportunity, could not have dreamt this nightmare.

Returning to Santiago from the inauguration of Chile's new president, Quayle and his entourage stopped at a scenic coastal village for a bite to eat and what his aides called a "shop-op," an opportunity for the Quayles to buy some souvenirs and mix and mingle with the locals. This is supposed to make good pictures of the friendly vice president meeting with regular folks and acting like a regular person.

The Quayles ambled down a row of open-air shops

See QUAYLE C2, Col. 4

Quayle

offering T-shirts, rugs, copper vases, trinkets and dolls.

Not just any dolls.

These dolls, at first glance, are wooden South American Indians, sporting wide grins and headdresses. When lifted, the male dolls become, ah, anatomically correct. You might say anatomically generous.

Quayle picked up the doll, turned bright red and laughed out loud.

For most politicians, this is a moment of truth. Most would drop the trinket and run. But not Dan Quayle.

He bought it.

With stunned reporters watching the whole exchange, Quayle turned to wife Marilyn, displaying the doll and said, "I could take this home, Marilyn, this is something teenage boys might find of interest."

Replied Marilyn Quayle, "Dan, you're not getting that. Oh, no. How about this?" She showed him a tasteful copper vase. But the vice president was not interested in tasteful copper vases.

"I didn't buy it," the vice president said to his wife with an expression of total innocence. Mother of three she would have none of that. "I just saw you give him the money," she shot back.

The reporters were witnesses, in fact, as Quayle slipped $4 to an agent and instructed him to buy the doll. The agent instructed the shopkeeper to "wrap it up."

"You're so sick," Marilyn Quayle said to the vice president. But she was smiling at the time.

The vice president's press secretary, David Beckwith, who has managed to explain in the most positive light every unfortunate moment in Quayle's vice presidential career, was officially speechless.

Bush Plays for Keeps in Middle East

The origin of sharp new tension between Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and President Bush lies in what the prime minister had hoped would be a cozy fence-mending phone call to Bush the evening of Feb. 22. It backfired on Shamir and moved Bush to state a truth that could have far-reaching political impact in Israel in view of the cabinet's continued deadlock yesterday.

The call angered Bush when Shamir again stonewalled him over ending West Bank settlements. Shamir got a good dose of genteel pique when Bush contradicted his statement that Israel does not induce Jews to move to the West Bank. Bush has a complete dossier on financial and other inducements that are not only available but eagerly pressed upon possible settlers. He told Shamir it was time to come clean.

Immediately thereafter, Bush and Secretary of State James Baker began publicly stating the truth that could result in the overthrow of Shamir's Likud: that ending new settlements is rock-bottom U.S. policy, because the settlements block progress toward peace (in addition to their probable illegality under international law). Bush also knows that Jimmy Carter believed Menachem Begin made and then reneged on a pledge at Camp David to stop new settlements.

Although Israel's political crisis goes way beyond West Bank settlements, the settlements issue is a catalyst for far more trouble inside Shamir's Likud Party than it is for the Labor Party of Shimon Peres and Yitzhak Rabin, Likud's coalition partner. On settlements, Labor has been fighting Shamir and the "great Israel" crowd of Likud hardliners who want to absorb the West bank and Gaza almost as hard as Bush and Baker have.

There is no doubt that Bush's prickly phone conversation with Shamir made settlements the keystone in the shaky U.S.-Israeli arch. The bridge between Washington and Jerusalem has been taking a pounding ever since Shamir's Likud Party was forced to confront the determination of Bush and Baker to get an Arab-Israeli peace. Indeed, pressures from Washington have been the major factor in the break-up of Shamir's Likud Party, which in turn has opened the door to a possible Labor Party takeover of the government.

Administration insiders say privately that these pressures, far from easing, may get tougher as the president hardens his insistence on starting peace talks and moving quickly to Palestine elections. As the pressures increase, so does the prospect—perhaps immediately, perhaps not for months—that the Israeli government will shift from no-negotiation Likud to pro-negotiation Labor.

It took Bush's explosive words "East Jerusalem," uttered intentionally at Palm Springs on March 3, to get the full blast of his message into Shamir's Likud. He tied East Jerusalem to the West Bank and Gaza as places where new settlements should not be built. Such linkage is anathema to Israel, but it was a stark reminder that although the United States insists on Jerusalem remaining undivided, Israel's annexation of East Jerusalem has never been accepted by Washington or most of the world. Bush was saying in effect: a free ride requires a little something back.

Here is the portrait of a George Bush who can be rougher and meaner when he thinks his country is short-changed by an ally sometimes described as America's best friend. But what politicians here and in Israel can only guess is whether the president is consciously planning moves that will help Labor topple Likud.

If so, he could never acknowledge it and would strenuously deny it. But the record of eight years of a benign Reagan administration, with Israel given strong influence over U.S. Middle East policy, plus 14 months of a tougher Bush administration, suggests that with Likud holding power, the "peace process" will not move, despite the triumph of Likudnik Begin at Camp David.

Bush and Baker, having been at or near the center of Arab-Israeli action the entire period, are deeply aware of this truth. Whether intentional or not, their growing campaign against Jewish settlements has the effect of undercutting Likud and elevating Labor. The louder they insist that the key to peace will remain hidden until Israel ends new settlements, the more they will advance Labor.

If Labor did gain power and moved

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: BRENT SCOWCROFT RG for
SUBJECT: Telephone Call from President-Elect Violeta Chamorro of Nicaragua

Purpose

To let Mrs. Chamorro know that you intend to announce our economic assistance package to Nicaragua on Tuesday.

Background

In her letter to you of March 3, Mrs. Chamorro said she would call you on Monday. Your last telephone conversation with her, the day after her electoral victory, was short, as her English is limited and she was in the midst of a noisy victory celebration at home.

The points to be made at Tab A cover our assistance program to Nicaragua, demobilization of the Resistance, and Sandinista obstacles to a smooth transition.

RECOMMENDATION

That you use the Points to be Made at Tab A.

POINTS TO BE MADE FOR PHONE CALL WITH NICARAGUAN PRESIDENT-ELECT CHAMORRO

-- I hope your knee is coming along fine. I am amazed that you were able to campaign all over Nicaragua with your leg in a brace, and I certainly admire your courage.

-- I want to thank you again for inviting me to your inauguration. In my response to your very kind letter, I mention that prior to receiving it I had asked Dan Quayle to represent me, but I look forward to visiting Nicaragua at a later date.

-- We held many productive meetings last week with your economic team. We will do everything we can to assist in Nicaragua's economic recovery.

-- As a first step, I plan announce on Tuesday the lifting of the embargo and a request for a $300 million immediate aid package. (and $200 million more ⁱⁿ ~~for~~ Fiscal Year 1991).

-- I have spoken to Japanese Prime Minister Kaifu and Italian Prime Minister Andreotti to encourage them to help as much as they can. I also will speak with other European leaders and Dan Quayle is giving this same message to the European and Latin leaders he is seeing on his current visit to Latin America.

-- I applaud your emphasis on national reconciliation and peace. I understand that your representatives and the Church have been in contact with the Resistance.

-- We will work with you to bring about an orderly demobilization. We agree with you that reintegration of the Resistance must take into account their security concerns.

I am concerned about Sandinista attacks on UNO members, handing out of weapons, and economic sabotage. These actions contradict earlier Sandinista assurances about a smooth transition. What do you think their intentions are? You know that you have my full support in asserting your authority and insisting on a complete transfer of power.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: CHRISS WINSTON CW
FROM: MARY KATE GRANT MKG
SUBJECT: COUNTRY AMERICA MAGAZINE

Country America has asked for a column under your by-line on what country music means to you, which has been assigned to me. (Attached is a copy of Country America, with a picture of you and Lee Greenwood on page 33.) While I am familiar with the country singers you listen to, I was hoping you would have the time to answer a few questions for the piece:

Why do you like country music over other types of music?

I love the beat and I particularly like the lyrics. There's a reality to the lyrics. "Life its ownself" as author Dan Jenkins would say. I also like the patriotic themes and the religious themes.

At what point in your life did you become a fan?

I became a country fan 10-15 years ago.

Any particular songs mean a lot to you? Any memories of a certain song?

I think of Lee Greenwood's "Proud to be an American" and Reba's song about "Any Good News Today" because it reflects America's view that all they hear is bad news. I love "Mo" Bandy singing "Americana." I love the Oak's song about an "American Family" - it accurately reflects our love of family values. I hate to single out 3 because so many of my favorites singers have great songs.

Of the following values, which do you think country music promotes the most (ranking):

Patriotism ALL THREE ABOUT THE SAME - THAT'S WHY I LOVE IT.

Family _____

Faith in God _____

Any other values? _____

If you had to name three or four country music "greats," who would you pick? Any current favorites -- either performers or hit songs?

Impossible, but Roy Acuff and Jimmy Dean. Now, Randy Travis, George Strait, Ricky Van Shelton, Oak Ridge Boys, Alabama, Larry Gatlin, Loretta Lynn, Crystal Gayle, Lee Greenwood, Mo Bandy, Johnny Cash, Dolly Parton

Any anecdotes about your travels with Loretta Lynn, Crystal Gayle, Lee Greenwood or other stars?

Travelling with Loretta, Crystal and Peggy Sue was great. They'd sing on the bus.- they'd wave to the passers by, they'd perform - never complaining. They were down to earth -- real people. Mo Bandy did the same, a sensitive guy. He campaigned tirelessly. I'll never forget it. Lee Greenwood didn't tour, but he appeared a lot. The Oaks were at the Convention. Larry Gatlin and brothers appeared with me in Kansas City and elsewhere. None were "big shots." All were there because they believed and generally wanted to help.

Thank you very much.

POTUS met w/
Lee today

Document Originally

Lee's doctors and all the literature strongly agree that the single most important factor in Lee's recovery is Lee himself; not surprisingly his attitude, though improving is not good at this point. In fact, the very trait which accounts for his great successes in the political arena is the most counterproductive, indeed destructive i.e., his propensity to consider the worst possible scenario as the basis for his future plans.

If he does not approach this situation in an exact opposite manner, he will negatively counteract his medical treatment. His doctors keep stressing that the power of positive thinking cannot be overstated in its reuperative and curative effect. There is a plethora of medical data which supports this approach: brain chemistry is substantively altered by attitude.

Lee is having difficulty in accepting/contemplating a higher faith. He is, understandably, questioning his lifelong and singular faith in himself. Given Sally's condition, as well as his father's condition, he is resisting drawing faith from his wife or mother.

There is no greater "faith" or higher belief in Lee's life than George Bush. The President can make an unmatched contribution to Lee's attitude and ultimate recovery by discussing the following topics:

- 1) The value of family and true friends
- 2) The restorative and curative medically proven impact of:
 - (a) belief in oneself
 - (b) confronting fear
 - (c) rejecting defeat
- 3) the President's personal faith in Lee
- 4) the President's faith in positive thinking

1. Family and Friends. George Bush is the best example of the positive power of a loving family and caring friends. His recent emphasis on his new grandchild will help Lee focus on a true value in life: the imminent birth of his daughter.

2. The importance of Lee's attitude.

- (a) Belief in himself. Lee's entire career has been based on believing he could/would win; that he would rise to the occasion; that his inner strength would show him the way. While he has come a long way in a week, his self-confidence is obviously shaken to its roots.

Again, George Bush's life, as well as ascension to the highest office in the land is the quintessential example of believing in oneself, through the worst adversities.

- (b) Confronting fear. This has been the roughest for Lee. His personality tends to reject without really considering fear factors. The literature suggests if he does not confront his fears and attempts to dismiss them, they will manifest themselves in other systems, i.e. physical weakness, dizziness, tremors, headaches, immunological blocks.
 - (c) Rejecting defeat. Before Lee can "make room in his mind" for recuperative thoughts, he must eradicate any notion of this cancer beating him. This is an easier concept for Lee. In all of his endeavors, the thought that he might be defeated is never present. Predictably, this characteristic wanes periodically and needs to be reinforced. His favorite and oft cited example of the President's ability to reject defeat is his attitude coming out of Iowa; and convincing everyone in New Hampshire George Bush For President was going to win.
3. The President's personal faith. Lee keeps trying to sort through his feelings about his personal faith. He is beginning to believe that God can "get this tumor out of his head", but he does not know how he defines God. Obviously, this will take months of reflection and introspection to sort through, but the President could help by reinforcing the notion of the power of a higher power.
 4. The President's belief in the Power of Positive Thinking. Once more, Lee has the best doctors and treatment available. He needs the President to exhibit confidence in the care Lee's receiving and to emphasize that only Lee himself can affect his mental attitude.

Dr. Laws' nurse, Margaret Fiore, stayed with us until 9:30 last night. She reiterated all these points and believes that President Bush can do more to strengthen Lee's resolve than anyone else.

Fiore also noted that Lee's physical condition is excellent, under the circumstances. After administering a few tests, she concluded the sensory deprivation on his left side is improving. She strongly recommended, however, that he not try to resume any kind of normal schedule or stress himself mentally.
