No Iraq Move Seen Until Attack Near

CIA Expects Saddam to Extend Crisis

By George Lardner Jr., M.A.
Washington Post Staff Writer

U.S. intelligence experts have concluded that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein will not withdraw his troops from Kuwait until convinced he is in peril of imminent military attack, CIA Director William H. Webster said yesterday.

Until then, Webster said, Saddam is expected to try to stretch out the Persian Gulf crisis, possibly by staging a partial pullout or some other move short of the U.N. demand for a full withdrawal by Jan. 15. The danger in this, Webster added, is that the Iraqi leader will continue to believe he can succeed until the first shell is lobbed over him.

If war breaks out, Webster said in an interview with editors and reporters of The Washington Post, it would likely be a bloody, drawn-out conflict.

"I don't believe the military assessments contemplate a quick buckle," Webster said. "Saddam is positioned for a very tough, defensive land position so that much would depend on the effectiveness of an air assault... but we know they're pretty well dug in and shielded." Saddam's strategy is to defend Kuwait with maximum intensity and to try to draw us into the desert where he can inflict an unacceptable number of casualties.

Meanwhile, President Bush expressed frustration yesterday at Iraq's refusal so far to see Secretary of State James A. Baker III before Jan. 12. He appealed to the Iraqi leader to set an earlier date for Baker's visit, suggesting that Saddam is attempting to manipulate the U.S. invitation for direct talks to gain time and political sympathy.

"We've offered 15 days, and he ought to get moving and do something reasonable if he really wants to move for peace," Bush said as he was departing the White House for a weekend at the presidential retreat at Camp David. But the president stopped short of issuing Saddam an ultimatum on the timing of the talks.

Webster disclosed that Iraqi military forces have a stockpile of roughly 1,000 tons of deadly chemical agents on hand, much of it loaded in almost every type of weapon. He said this stockpile included a "persistent" nerve agent, providing the first public confirmation of this Iraqi capability.

Wait Worse For Kin Left In Germany

Gulf Shift Hits U.S. Families Hard

By Marc Fisher
Washington Post Foreign Service

BONAMES, Germany—The kids wake up in the middle of the night calling out for their father, the nearest relatives are 4,000 miles away. Christmas is around the corner, and Charlotte Duncan has just about had it.

"I'm tired of watching the 'Today Show' on 'Armed Forces TV' and seeing all those women standing in front of a nice mall complaining about their husbands being shipped to the [Persian] Gulf," said Duncan, who was left behind at the U.S. Army's Drake Barracks here when her husband's unit was sent to Saudi Arabia a few weeks ago. "We don't have any malls. We can't go home for Christmas. Nobody puts us on the 'Today Show'."

Duncan and her two sons are among the more than 100,000 Americans left behind in Germany as a like number of their spouses and parents join the mass movement to the gulf by more than one-third of the U.S. forces in Europe.

The long-expected reduction of the American military presence in Germany is happening much more suddenly and dramatically than anyone had expected, and many families are scared.

At Hanau High School near Frankfurt, nearly 70 percent of the 900 students have one or both parents heading to the gulf. Children whose parents are both service members bound for Saudi Arabia must be sent across the ocean to relatives or taken in by friends in Germany.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

From: Chase Untermeyer CGU
14 Dec

Subj: Ambassador to Belgium

Yesterday, JAB and I met to put together this list of candidates for the ambassadorship to Belgium, one of only three posts in the 1991 round reserved for non-career appointees. The three-year tour of the incumbent, Maynard (Mike) Glitman, ends in July. When we discussed the 1991 appointments in the Oval Office last summer, you indicated that you were inclined toward Tim Towell. This list is in the order JAB and I agreed to present it:

* Bruce Gelb (check with Jim or me for our thoughts on this)

The following is a list of other possible candidates:
