I HAVE BEEN FOLLOWING THE SITUATION IN LITHUANIA AND THE OTHER BALTIC STATES CLOSELY. THE TURN OF EVENTS THERE IS DEEPLY DISTURBING. THERE IS NO JUSTIFICATION FOR THE USE OF FORCE AGAINST PEACEFUL AND DEMOCRATICALLY ELECTED GOVERNMENTS. THE BRAVE PEOPLE AND LEADERS OF THE BALTIC STATES HAVE ACTED WITH DIGNITY AND RESTRAINT. THE THOUGHTS AND PRAYERS OF THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES ARE WITH THEM -- AND PARTICULARLY WITH THE LITHUANIAN PEOPLE WHO HAVE EXPERIENCED A GREAT TRAGEDY.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS NOW, THE SOVIET UNION HAS BEEN ON A COURSE OF DEMOCRATIC AND PEACEFUL CHANGE. WE HAVE SUPPORTED THAT EFFORT AND STATED REPEATEDLY HOW MUCH WE ADMIRE THE SOVIET LEADERS WHO CHOSE THAT PATH. INDEED, CHANGE IN THE SOVIET UNION HAS HELPED TO CREATE A BASIS FOR UNPRECEDENTED COOPERATION AND PARTNERSHIP BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE SOVIET UNION.

THE EVENTS THAT WE ARE WITNESSING NOW ARE COMPLETELY INCONSISTENT WITH THAT COURSE. THE PROGRESS OF REFORM IN THE USSR HAS BEEN AN ESSENTIAL ELEMENT IN THE IMPROVEMENT OF U.S.-SOVIET RELATIONS. EVENTS LIKE THOSE NOW TAKING PLACE IN THE BALTIC STATES THREATEN TO SET BACK OR PERHAPS EVEN REVERSE THE PROCESS OF REFORM WHICH IS SO IMPORTANT FOR PEACE IN THE WORLD AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF

THE NEW INTERNATIONAL ORDER. WE CONDEMN THESE ACTS WHICH COULD NOT HELP BUT AFFECT OUR RELATIONSHIP. AT THIS HOUR, THE UNITED STATES AND THE WEST WILL REDOUBLE OUR EFFORTS TO STRENGTHEN AND ENCOURAGE PEACEFUL CHANGE IN THE SOVIET UNION.

LEGITIMACY IS NOT BUILT BY FORCE--IT IS EARNED BY THE CONSENSUS OF THE PEOPLE, BY OPENNESS AND BY THE PROTECTION OF BASIC HUMAN AND POLITICAL RIGHTS.

^{SON LEADER}
I ASK PRESIDENT GORBACHEV TO REFRAIN FROM FURTHER ACTS
THAT MIGHT LEAD TO MORE VIOLENCE AND LOSS OF LIFE. I URGE THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT TO RETURN TO A PEACEFUL COURSE
OF NEGOTIATIONS AND DIALOGUE WITH THE LEGITIMATE
GOVERNMENTS OF THE BALTIC STATES.

Wounded Sharpton Seeks Calm

Civil Rights Activist Still In Hospital; Supporters Rally In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — From his hospital bed, Al Sharpton urged a white mob to stop the killing. He said he was "cornered by a white mob and fatally shot" in August 1989. Sharpton had called Saturday's march to protest what he called the lenient sentences given Friday to two men involved in the killing.

On Sunday, Jesse Jackson visited Sharpton at Coney Island Hospital. Jackson first worked with Sharpton in the 1970s, leading boycotts and protests.

"both prayerful and jubilant" and praised his appeal for calm, noting that this was the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday weekend.

Sharpton said of Sunday's rally: "It is important we have one today to show we will not be intimidated into staying in one neighborhood."

Despite his calls for calm, some of the 500 marchers who returned to Bensonhurst, guarded by 300 police officers, remained angry. That day, the air was at the height of the summer.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: REAGAN VIDEO
FEBRUARY 6, 1991

Ladies and gentlemen, ~~my fellow Americans~~^{And}. Most of all, my dear friend and mentor who loved his country and served her well -- Ronald Reagan. /

From the life of Nations emerge great, even mythic, figures. Churchill. / Sadat. / Dwight Eisenhower. / Margaret Thatcher. / All were -- as was said of Charles DeGaulle -- "a person of the day before yesterday and the day after tomorrow." Each changed the course not only of their country but of history. //

So it was, and is, of the fortieth President of the United States. Some men reflect their times. Mr. President, you helped change your times. You were a visionary, a crusader, an evangelist for good. Which is why I say: ^{They} ~~We~~ ll get you on Mt. Rushmore yet. //

Today, Ronald Reagan is eighty years old -- yet as young as the American spirit -- for America will never grow old. You often spoke of America as a "shining city on a hill" -- and helped make it so. Embodying what you described as the American song: "Hopeful, big-hearted, idealistic, daring, decent, and fair." //

Think of America. / You helped restore faith in our Nation -- and in ourselves. / Think of the world. You knew that human dignity forms the essence of democracy. So you spoke loudly, and eloquently, for freedom's values and ideals. // From Korea to Normandy, you lit the "morning star of liberty." Mr. President, you not only made ours a safer world in which to live. You made ours a far better world in which to live. //

For that, Mr. President, future generations will revere you. But if you'll forgive me, I would like to close on a personal note. I have known many individuals in my career of public service. I have never known a better friend, or inspiration. No man could have been kinder -- no loyalty more abiding. No one could have taught me more about the idea we call America. //

When your favorite President died in 1945, the New York Times wrote, "A hundred years from now men will get down on their knees and thank God that Franklin Roosevelt was President of the United States." It will not take 100 years -- millions do so today -- for us to thank God that you were a President who truly blessed America. //

You often talked of "winning one for the Gipper." Mr. President -- ~~my dear friend~~ -- you helped win one for freedom around the world. // God bless you and Mrs. Reagan. And God bless these United States of America.

Close on personal note

I want to thank you for you many kindnesses to Barbara and me. I want to thank you for your confidence.

*I know full well I would not be

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

January 13, 1991

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
UPON RETURNING FROM CAMP DAVID
IN QUESTION AND ANSWER SESSION WITH THE PRESS

The South Grounds

4:05 P.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I've been following the situation in Lithuania and the other Baltic States closely. The turn of events there is deeply disturbing. There is no justification for the use of force against peaceful and democratically-elected governments. And the brave people and the leaders of the Baltic States have, indeed, acted with dignity and restraint. The thoughts and prayers of the people of the United States are with them, and particularly with the Lithuanian people who have experienced a great tragedy.

For several years now, the Soviet Union has been on a course of democratic and peaceful change. And we've supported that effort and stated repeatedly how much we admire the Soviet leaders who chose that path. Indeed, change in the Soviet Union has helped to create a basis for unprecedented cooperation and partnership between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The events that we're witnessing now are completely inconsistent with that course. The progress of reform in the USSR has been an essential element in the improvement of U.S.-Soviet relations. Events like those now taking place in the Baltic States threaten to set back or perhaps even reverse the process of reform which is so important in the world and the development of the new international order.

We condemn these acts, which could not help but affect our relationship. At this hour, the United States and the West will redouble our efforts to strengthen and encourage peaceful change in the Soviet Union. Legitimacy is not built by force; it's earned by the consensus of the people, by openness, and by the protection of basic human and political rights. So I ask the Soviet leaders to refrain from further acts that might lead to more violence and loss of life. I urge the Soviet government to return to a peaceful course of negotiations and dialogue with the legitimate governments of the Baltic States.

And I did have an opportunity when I talked to President Gorbachev not so many hours ago to encourage the peaceful change there and not the use of force.

Q Mr. President, was Gorbachev directly behind this military crackdown? Is there any reason to believe the military acted without complete presidential decree on this?

THE PRESIDENT: I cannot answer that question. I just don't know the facts of --

Q Is there any official explanation for what happened in Lithuania?

THE PRESIDENT: Not an official explanation, but we have a good deal of information on it.

Q And what about the fallout here? Is the summit off at this point?

MORE

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I've just expressed this statement here, and I just expressed my sentiments in this statement I made, so I can't go beyond that.

Q And consideration of export credit guarantees or any other --

THE PRESIDENT: I'm just not going to go further than what I've said here. I've just laid it out, and people can interpret it any way they want.

Q Mr. President, if the crackdown continues --

Q Mr. President, what about the Persian Gulf situation?

Q Mr. President, if the crackdown continues in the Baltics, will you go to Moscow on February 11th?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I would simply -- that's too hypothetical. What I'm saying is I hope the crackdown will not continue.

Q Sir, did you get assurances from Mr. Gorbachev about whether he will continue or halt the -- assurances about what he will do next?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I heard a statement I was just asking our Soviet experts about in here where he was talking about curtailing the use of force. I hope that's true, but I did not get direct affirmation from them.

Q Mr. President, what do you hear, sir, about the results of the de Cuellar mission?

THE PRESIDENT: We have not had a direct report from Perez de Cuellar, and there is a report -- all I saw as to what he said at the airport. But I have not had contact with him. He told me he would call me, so I expect to hear from him when he returns.

Q What effect, sir, do you think the Soviet actions --

THE PRESIDENT: I can't hear. John, what --

Q -- Mr. Gorbachev may now -- (inaudible) -- to Baghdad --

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I don't know.

Q Is that something Gorbachev had mentioned --

THE PRESIDENT: I don't know what he'd do, and I know there was some thinking of that, but people are very concerned, obviously -- time drawing close. And I just don't know how to answer that. I just don't know what he plans to --

Q -- has read a statement that they will keep Kuwait, will not withdraw.

THE PRESIDENT: It doesn't surprise me, but they're making a tremendous mistake.

Q Mr. President, do you think that the Soviet Union is striking out on Lithuania at this moment because they think our attention and the attention of the world has been diverted by the Persian Gulf crisis?

THE PRESIDENT: No.

Q Are you concerned that by speaking out now that you may jeopardize your support from Mr. Gorbachev in the Persian Gulf crisis?

MORE

THE PRESIDENT: No, I believe the Soviet support for the United Nations' approach is solid and firm. And President Gorbachev told me that not so long ago -- just when I had the last conversation.

Q Are you talking about the Friday phone call? Just to clarify --

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, yes.

Q Mr. President, what is your message to the seemingly millions of Americans who have been contacting Congress and apparently contacting you, pleading with you not to go to war in the Gulf?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think that matter was resolved when the Congress acted yesterday, and I'd tell them the same thing I've told the American people over and over again.

Q But to the American people, what is your response to the Americans who are asking you now not to go to war?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I say we've got to do what we have to do. And the Congress has affirmed that position. And I think that is -- you know, one of the arguments that some made is, well, please get Congress engaged; why are you not willing to go to Congress? We went to Congress; Congress, both Houses of the Congress affirmed the policies of this government.

Q Mr. President, you remonstrated with Gorbachev last week not to use force in the Baltics, and just yesterday Gorbachev said he was sending emissaries from his Federation Council to mediate. A few hours later the tank were rolling. Are you afraid that he has lost control in the Soviet Union?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I am concerned about the internal affairs there and he, himself, is very much concerned about that. But let's hope that there will be a peaceful -- a return to peace, no more use of force, and that they can peacefully negotiate their differences. That's what I hope for. I think that's what President Gorbachev -- I know that's what he told me he wanted before, and I hope that still holds, and I hope that will obtain. But I am very much concerned about the loss of life there.

Kathy, and then I've got to go inside.

Q Mr. President, do you plan on trying to contact him directly?

THE PRESIDENT: I always have that option. Our phone lines are open, and I have no immediate plans of that, but I wouldn't rule that out.

Thank you all very much.

Q What about Perez de Cuellar, s.r?

Q How long do you give the Soviet Union before --

THE PRESIDENT: I'm not setting time lines.

Q What's topic A tonight at the NSC meeting -- the Gulf or the Lithuanian crisis?

THE PRESIDENT: More of the same.

THE PRESS: Thank you.

MRS. BUSH'S PRESS OFFICE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Jan. 13, 1991

UPDATE ON MRS. BUSH'S CONDITION

Mrs. Bush sustained a non-displaced fracture of the left fibula bone in her leg, some bruises and slight scrapes as the result of a minor sledding accident this morning at Camp David. Following an initial examination by White House physician Dr. Lawrence Mohr, Mrs. Bush was taken to Washington County Regional Hospital in Hagerstown, Maryland, where x-rays revealed the fracture. Mrs. Bush returned to Camp David at approximately 12:00 p.m. EST.

Mrs. Bush cannot put any weight on her left leg for several days. The injury, however, will not require a cast. Treatment will include walking with the aid of crutches, but no medication has been prescribed. Mrs. Bush is in good spirits and her complete recovery is expected within five to six weeks.
