WASHINGTON, D.C.

THROUGH: SHERRIE ROLLINS

FROM: BOBBIE KILBERG
JEFF VOGT

I. PURPOSE:

To participate in a brief photo-op with the Executive Committee of the 1992 Public Affairs Assembly.

II. BACKGROUND:

The 1992 Public Affairs Assembly is the preeminent public policy-oriented meeting in the food industry. It is jointly sponsored by the Food Marketing Institute (FMI), the National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association (NAWGA), and its foodservice division, the International Foodservice Distributors Association (IFDA), and the National Association of Convenience Stores (NACS).

Prior to your remarks, you will participate in a brief photo-op with the heads of the associations that are co-hosting the event.

The groups represented have been very supportive of your initiatives. NAWGA, in particular, has been a key supporter of many of your legislative programs, including the Gulf vote and your economic growth package. NAWGA also led the Agriculture Coalition in the fight for Fast Track legislation.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MARCH 23, 1992

ADDRESS TO THE 1992 PUBLIC AFFAIRS ASSEMBLY

DATE: MARCH 24, 1992
TIME: 11:10 A.M.
LOCATION: HYATT REGENCY
WASHINGTON, D.C.
THROUGH: SHERRIE ROLLINS
FROM: BOBBIE KILBERG
JEFF VOGT

I. PURPOSE:

To underscore the Administration's agenda to make America more competitive and to spur economic growth. To demonstrate your resolve in dealing with the systemic, Congressional status-quo that holds back your agenda for necessary change.

II. BACKGROUND:

The 1992 Public Affairs Assembly is the major public policy-oriented meeting in the food industry. Held annually, it is jointly sponsored by the Food Marketing Institute (FMI), the National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association (NAWGA), and its foodservice division, the International Foodservice Distributors Association (IFDA) and the National Association of Convenience Stores (NACS).

The associations represent all facets of the food industry, including: food retailers, wholesalers and distributors, convenience and family owned grocery stores as well as major supermarket chains. Together, this group of food industry associations represents over 4,500 member companies and thousands more stores and food chain facilities.

The audience of approximately 500 people includes leading executives from member companies, and represents a potent, grass roots force. The majority of participants hail from small, family-owned businesses.

While each of the associations is very supportive of the Administration, NAWGA has been most active on the Hill in support of Administration initiatives. NAWGA's efforts on the Hill have supported Administration initiatives such as fast track, the Gulf vote, capital gains, the budget agreement and regulatory reform initiatives.

BACKGROUND: (continued)

The speech provides you with a post-March 20 forum in which you call on food industry leaders to help you transform a status quo Congress. Your remarks also outline the Administration initiatives proposed to address Congressional grid-lock and will highlight your comprehensive agenda to build on America's long term competitiveness.

Before your address, you will participate in a brief photo-op with food industry association officials.

III. PARTICIPANTS:

The President

Mr. Boyd George, Chairman and CEO, Merchants Distributors
Chairman, NAWGA

In audience: Approximately 500 food industry executives.

IV. PRESS PLAN:

Open press.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS:

See Advance Scenario.

VI. REMARKS:

THE 1992 MARCH OF DIMES NATIONAL AMBASSADOR (POSTER CHILD)

DATE: TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1992
TIME: 2:00-2:05 P.M.
LOCATION: OVAL OFFICE
THROUGH: SHERRIE ROLLINS
FROM: SICHAN SIV
BILL CALDWELL

I. PURPOSE:

To demonstrate the President's continuing concern for the battle against birth defects.

II. BACKGROUND:

The March of Dimes is the nation's third largest voluntary health agency whose mission is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality through community services, advocacy, research, and education.

The March of Dimes is a member of the coalition supporting Healthy Start, an initiative of this Administration aimed at reducing infant mortality by 50 percent in 15 areas within five years.

This is the second year that the March of Dimes has selected a child who is now healthy, but whose survival at birth was at risk. When the foundation was at work seeking a cure for polio, its "poster child" was a polio victim. Today, as the March of Dimes works toward its goal of a healthy birth for every baby, the foundation is represented by a youngster who is healthy as a result of March of Dimes funded programs and research.

Michael Eissey III of Palm Beach Gardens, Florida, was born 13 weeks premature. At only one pound 11 ounces, he was the size of a grown man's hand. Michael spent more than two months in a neonatal intensive care unit (NICU). Michael's success in struggling against the health problems associated with low birthweight is representative of thousands of miracle children across the country.

CONGRESSIONAL MONITOR

Monday, March 23, 1992

Volume 28, Number 44

This Week in Congress

Members of the House and Senate will be asked once again this week to authorize additional money for the savings and loan bailout.

The politically unpopular S&L vote could prove particularly painful for House members, who are already feeling the heat over the check-kiting scandal.

Bills to provide the added funds are slated for action on both sides of Capitol Hill.

House lawmakers will also take up a bill to reauthorize federal higher education programs that has been reworked to hold down costs and win additional support.

House Floor Action

The House will not be in session today.

RTC Funding. The House, possibly on Thursday, will consider legislation (HR 4241) that would provide an additional $25 billion to close down failing savings and loans.

Congress is under pressure to clear a bill by the end of the month, when funding authority for the S&L bailout agency — the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) — is set to expire. The $25 billion would supplement the $105 billion Congress has already provided.

• On Tuesday, the Senate Banking Committee plans to work on a draft S&L bill, which may include more money than the House measure.

Higher Education. The House will take up legislation (HR 3553) that would reauthorize the Higher Education Act of 1965 and expand programs that provide federal financial aid to college students.

To bring the bill's costs down, Education and Labor Chairman William D. Ford, D-Mich., will offer a substitute amendment that would delete from the bill a proposal to make the Pell Grant program an entitlement, available to all who qualify.

The substitute would also impose a 5 percent origination fee on the Supplemental Loans for Students and Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students programs.

Budget Rules. Also on the House schedule is legislation (HR 3732) that would allow Congress to shift funds earmarked for the fiscal 1993 defense budget to domestic needs.

The 1990 budget deal prohibits the shifting of funds among the defense, domestic and international aid categories — blocking Democratic efforts to use money saved from defense cuts for domestic programs.

But lack of support has forced the House Democratic leadership to pull the bill off the schedule the past two weeks, and that could happen again this week.

Committee Funding. The House will also take up a measure (H Res 379) that would set 1992 funding levels for 25 House committees.

The $57.7 million resolution would amount to a 4.9 percent increase over 1991, "one of the most frugal budgets in years," said Joseph M. Gaydos, chairman of the House Administration panel's Accounts Subcommittee.

Substance Abuse. House members on Tuesday will consider a number of non-controversial measures, including a bill (HR 3698) designed to improve federal oversight of states' administration of federal block grants for mental health and substance abuse.

The bill, which would reauthorize federal mental health and substance abuse programs through 1994, would split the programs in two. It would authorize $303 million for the Community Mental Health Services Block Grant and $1.1 billion for alcohol and drug abuse programs.

Senate Floor Action

The Senate will not be in session today. Possibilities for floor action this week include:

Caller-ID. The Senate may turn to legislation (S 652) designed to protect the

Last Week

A rush to clear tax legislation designed to stimulate the ailing economy capped a busy week on Capitol Hill.

Moving quickly to place the tax bill (HR 4210) on President Bush's desk by the end of the week, Congress cleared the measure Friday afternoon. President Bush signed a veto message before the measure even reached the White House.

While the tax measure, which features middle class tax breaks and increased levies on the wealthy, commanded the floor agendas in the latter part of the week, other significant actions were taken, including a showdown in the Senate over crime legislation that was effectively blocked by a Republican filibuster.

The Senate sustained the president's veto of legislation that would apply strict conditions on continued trade with China, bringing to 26 the number of bills successfully vetoed by President Bush.

Lawmakers were also jarred by ominous news from the home front when challengers ousted three incumbent Democrats in the Illinois congressional primary. Sen. Alan J. Dixon and Reps. Charles A. Hayes and Gus Savage went down to defeat on Tuesday. Two other House Democrats — Terry L. Bruce and Marty Russo — lost in incumbent vs. incumbent matchups.

Many observers viewed the challengers' victories as further proof that incumbents should be wary of an anti-incumbent mood across the nation. Exacerbating that trend was the ongoing fallout from the House banking scandal, in which 355 current and former members wrote checks for more money than was in their accounts.

On Friday, Attorney General William Barr announced that retired federal Judge Malcolm Wilkey would investigate whether any banking laws were broken.

Waste Disposal Bills Emphasize Recycling

Today, Congress begins work on a rewrite of the nation's principal law regulating the disposal of hazardous waste and trash.

The House Energy subcommittee markup of an expansion of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) comes as the nation's landfills are rapidly filling up. Faced with the crush, much of the focus of this year's bill (HR 3865) will be on efforts to promote recycling.

But the politically charged issues of the shipment of unwanted garbage from one state to another and the regulation of trash incineration are also nettlesome and have yet to be resolved.

For the bill's principal author, Al Swift, D-Wash., it is his first big test as chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Transportation and Hazardous Materials. Swift has scheduled four markup sessions on his bill and hopes to finish by the end of the week.

The Senate Environment Committee plans to begin marking up a similar bill (S 976), crafted by Max Baucus, D-Mont., next month. Both Swift and Baucus have vowed to clear a bill by the end of the session.

Recycling. HR 3865 aims to boost recycling efforts by requiring manufacturers to use materials that are more easily recycled or reused. The measure also seeks to encourage less wasteful packaging and sets a goal of recycling 50 percent of all packaging by 2000.

But the recycling section of the bill has drawn fire from both industry and environmentalists, who say it does not do enough to create demand for recyclable materials. Prices for many recyclables have been driven down by an oversupply of such items as newspapers, glass and plastics, and the low prices have hurt recycling efforts.

Garbage Exports. The measure would also put heavy pressure on states that export garbage to other states to adopt management plans to deal with their waste problems. The bill would give states that do not want to accept trash the power to effectively block such imports by levying a 1,000 percent surcharge on trash from a state without a management plan.

Hazardous Waste. As drafted, the bill would allow the disposal of ash from municipal incinerators in landfills along with other garbage unless regulators determined that it would leach into ground water.

At issue is whether to classify the ash as hazardous as sought by environmentalists. Such a classification would set stricter — and more expensive — disposal procedures.

Key Amendments

Committee members have prepared a host of amendments, including some sweeping ones.

Peter H. Kostmayer, D-Pa., is expected to offer an amendment that would crack down on municipal waste incineration. The amendment, which has also been introduced as a bill (HR 3253), would greatly limit new construction of waste incinerators and would classify ash as hazardous waste. His amendment is opposed by cities, which would have to spend a lot more to dispose of their ash.

Rick Boucher, D-Va., plans to offer an amendment that would keep the door open for localities that want to build large, carefully designed regional landfills as a means of easing the garbage crisis — and filling local government coffers. His plan puts him at odds with members trying to limit garbage imports.

While the effort to rewrite RCRA would be difficult under any circumstances, the lack of administration support has made it even more troublesome. The administration says that congressional efforts are unworkable and that enforcement of proposed new RCRA regulations would siphon Environmental Protection Agency resources from more pressing needs. The administration also says that the bill would be too burdensome on industry and state and local governments by directing them to develop recycling programs.

But the RCRA effort is getting a big push from members who want to clear the way for the rewrite of the "superfund" hazardous waste law during the next Congress. Swift says that there is no way that Energy and Commerce can handle RCRA and superfund at the same time.

privacy of telephone users by enabling them to block the display of their phone numbers from Caller ID subscribers.

Montana Wilderness. Members may also consider a bill (S 1696) that would designate about 1 million acres in Montana as wilderness and create thousands of acres of special land management and environmental study areas in the state.

Other Measures. Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, on Friday said that other possibilities for floor action this week include measures to provide additional funding for the RTC bailout and to allow Congress to shift funds from defense to domestic needs. The latter bill is scheduled for House floor action this week.

Committee Action

Waste Disposal. Legislation (HR 3865) that would expand on the Resource

Conservation and Recovery Act, the nation's solid and hazardous waste disposal law, is slated for consideration by the House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Transportation and Hazardous Materials. (Details, above)

D.C. Statehood. On Thursday, the House District of Columbia Subcommittee on Judiciary and Education will mark up legislation (HR 2482) that would grant statehood for the District of Columbia.

Bill supporters say that the District suffers because it lacks full representation in Congress. The District has a House delegate Eleanor Holmes Norton, D, who can vote in committee but not on the floor. The measure would grant D.C. all the rights of a state, including two senators and full House representation.

Republican opponents say the measure would violate the U.S. Constitution, which established the District of Columbia as a federal enclave so that it could not be influenced by a state government.

Historic Sites. On Wednesday, the House Interior Committee will take up a bill (HR 4276) that would prohibit federal funds from being spent on National Park Service historic projects that have not been authorized.

Some lawmakers have long been critical of appropriators funding projects that have not received the approval of the authorizing committees.

Credit Reporting. Legislation designed to stop employers from looking into a job applicant's credit history will be marked up by the House Banking Committee on Wednesday.

The bill (HR 3596) would amend the 1970 Fair Credit Reporting Act to include specifics on the use of credit data by employers, bolster provisions on consumer privacy and speed up the correction process for credit report inaccuracies.

• The panel will also consider a bill (HR 3428) that would authorize U.S. contributions to international financial organizations, such as the International Monetary Fund.

LAST WEEK from p. 1

Rota resigned after 20 years on the job as charges grew that management of the House Post Office was lacking and that members may have used the Post Office to cash personal and campaign checks.

Details on major floor and committee action follow:

Tax Package

The Democratic leadership rounded up little more than the bare minimum of votes to clear the compromise version of the tax bill Friday afternoon.

The Senate approved the measure, 50-44, about an hour after the House had given its approval, 211-189. Only one Republican on Capitol Hill — Olympia J. Snowe of Maine — voted in favor of the package.

The final version of the measure was largely drafted by House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., and Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who were given broad authority by other congressional negotiators to hammer out a compromise between the House- and Senate-passed versions of the measure. Republicans, knowing that President Bush would veto the measure, took little part in the process. (Details, on this page)

Besides lambasting the Democratic-backed tax bill (HR 4210), President Bush issued another challenge to Congress on Friday, calling on lawmakers to rescind $3.6 billion in funds appropriated for fiscal 1992 for projects he called wasteful "pork."

"The examples would be funny if the effect weren't so serious. This kind of wasteful spending destroys public confidence in the integrity of the government," said Bush.

The administration plans to invoke a little-known law that could force Congress to vote within 45 days on the 68 spending rescissions that Bush is proposing.

Senate Floor Action

China Trade Veto. The Senate sustained the president's veto of legislation (HR 2212) that would impose strict conditions on renewal of normal trade ties with China. The vote to override was 60-38, well short of the two-thirds needed to override.

The House on March 11 easily voted to override the veto, 357-61.

The measure would have required the president to certify that China had made significant progress in its human rights record and in its trade and weapons sales practices before most-favored-nation trading status — low normal tariffs — could continue beyond midyear.

Opponents said that the many conditions in the bill would not influence the

Tax Bill Gets Thumbs Down From Bush

The tax bill (HR 4210) that Congress approved on Friday was destined to suffer a very quick demise. President Bush was so eager to reject the Democratic-written measure that he signed the veto message before the measure reached the White House. "Democrats in Congress could not resist their natural impulse to raise taxes," Bush said in a scathing attack just a few minutes after Congress cleared the bill.

Democrats immediately fought back, condemning Bush's speech as election-year politics and a desperate attempt by the president to shift blame for the country's economic woes from the White House to Congress.

"We didn't hear, as we should have heard, a statement by President Bush. We heard a statement by candidate George Bush, using the White House as a background for a campaign speech," said House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash.

Lawmakers approved the $77.5 billion measure after a long round of negotiations between Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the chairmen of the House and Senate tax-writing committees. The two began negotiating on Thursday morning, worked through the night and announced a deal on Friday morning.

Once the conference agreement was reached, Democratic leaders had to work to round up support in each chamber in order to clear the bill by Friday — the deadline Bush set during his Jan. 28 State of the Union address for congressional approval of an economic growth plan.

They received the support they needed, but not by much. The House vote to approve the conference agreement was 211-189; the Senate cleared the bill on a 50-44 vote.

Democrats conceded they do not have the votes to override the veto.

The heart of the $77.5 billion tax package is a permanent tax cut for millions of families, paid for by a tax increase on upper-income Americans.

Here are some of the key provisions of the measure as cleared:

Tax Cuts. Workers making less than $50,000 a year ($70,000 for couples) would receive a $150 tax credit annually in fiscal 1992 and 1993. Starting in fiscal 1994, a permanent $300-per-child tax credit would be offered to families making less than $50,000; families making between $50,000 and $70,000 would receive a portion of the tax break.

Lawmakers said that almost 78 million families would benefit from the short-term tax credit, while about 20 million families would be eligible for the permanent credit.

In addition, families making less than $21,250 would be eligible for an earned-income tax credit. The tax deduction for interest on student loans would also be restored.

IRAs. Contributions to Individual Retirement Accounts up to $2,000 would be fully deductible and money could be withdrawn without penalty to buy a first home and cover medical and education expenses.

The measure would also establish a new type of retirement account for which contributions would not be deductible, but after five years funds could be withdrawn tax free. Taxpayers who already have IRAs could convert them to the new type of IRA through Jan. 1, 1994.

Tax Increases. The tax rate for individuals with taxable income of more than $115,000 ($140,000 for couples) would be raised from 31 percent to 36 percent. In addition, a 10 percent surtax would be assessed on those with taxable income exceeding $1 million.

Capital Gains. Individuals would not have to pay capital gains taxes on half of the profits on the sale of small business stock held more than five years. In addition, a new graduated capital gains tax rate would be put in place that would effectively lower the rate low- and middle-income Americans pay on investment profits.

Luxury Taxes. The measure would repeal the luxury taxes included in the 1990 budget law on yachts, planes, furs and jewels. The luxury tax on automobiles would be retained, although the $30,000 threshold for imposing the tax would be indexed for inflation.

Businesses. Businesses would be permitted a 10 percent writeoff of the cost of property purchased over the next two years. Small businesses would be allowed to write off up to $20,000 in machinery.

Intangible assets, such as goodwill, could be written off over 14 years.

Real estate developers would be allowed to write off losses on existing rental properties.

hardline government in China but would hinder U.S. exports to that country.

Crime Bill Blocked. Republicans managed once again to block consideration of the conference report on Democratic crime legislation (HR 3371).

A vote to limit debate on the conference report was 54-43, short of the 60 votes needed to invoke cloture and bring the bill to a final vote.

The measure would boost federal assistance to state and local police forces, expand application of the federal death penalty and establish a five-day waiting period for the purchase of a handgun.

Republicans have argued that the bill is weak in restricting habeas corpus appeals filed by death row inmates and does not go far enough to combat violent crime.

GOP opponents blocked consideration of the conference report in a similar manner last Nov. 27.

Rail Safety. Senators passed legislation (HR 2607) that would reauthorize federal railroad safety programs.

The measure would also increase minimum fines for safety violations and require the Federal Railroad Administration to beef up enforcement of railroad safety regulations.

House Floor Action

Housing Grants. Lawmakers passed legislation (HR 4449) that would give state and local governments more flexibility in how they spend federal housing grants.

Currently, state and local governments are required to use at least 15 percent of federal housing aid for construction of new housing.

The legislation would remove that requirement and allow the grants to be used for renovation of existing structures and rental assistance.

Reservists' Pay. The House passed, 354-57, legislation (HR 3209) that would give a one-time payment to federal employees and postal workers who were called to serve in the Persian Gulf War.

Many of the 17,000 reservists affected by the legislation took pay cuts when they left their regular jobs and entered active duty. The bill would make up for the lost income.

Committee Action

Water Projects. The Senate Energy Committee approved legislation (HR 429) that would authorize funding of many federal water projects overseen by the Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation.

The panel did not include a major re-allocation of water from California's Central Valley Project that had been proposed by Bill Bradley, D-N.J.

In acknowledgment that the plan did not have the support of the committee, Bradley did not offer the proposal to shift up to 20 percent of the water from agricultural use to fish and waterfowl protection. Bradley said he may try to offer the proposal during floor consideration or during a House-Senate conference on the bill.

As approved, the bill would allow the sale of Central Valley water to consumers outside the project as long as the water is excess and as long as the sale would not damage the water table in the area.

Hatch Act. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee approved, 8-4, legislation (S 914) to change the rules governing political activities of federal employees.

The measure would amend the 1939 Hatch Act to allow federal employees to engage in political activities in their in spare time, but not at work.

Panel Republicans opposed the bill, arguing that it would lead to politicization of federal offices, something the Hatch Act was designed to prevent.

Education Research. The Senate Labor Committee approved, 17-0, a measure that would reauthorize for seven years the Department of Education's research arm, the Office of Educational Research and Development.

The bill (S 1275) would restructure the office by creating a board of governors to advise its director on educational research. The nine members of the board would be selected by the president.

The measure would authorize $381 million for fiscal 1993.

Bankruptcy Code. The Senate Judiciary Committee approved legislation (S 1985) that would set up an independent commission to review the federal bankruptcy code and make recommendations to Congress on ways to improve it.

The measure also would allow debtors who file under Chapter 13 of the bankruptcy code to keep most of their income-producing assets while they prepare a plan to pay their debts.

The legislation includes a provision that would clarify that retired workers would continue to receive health and pension benefits after companies file for bankruptcy.

Arkansas, Delaware Rivers. The House Interior Committee approved legislation (S 1743) that would protect from development more than 200 miles along eight rivers in Arkansas.

The panel also approved a bill (HR 3457) to shield from development segments totaling 32 miles of the Delaware River. ■

--- THE DAILY BRIEFING ON AMERICAN POLITICS ---

Updated Each Morning At 11:50

(c) The American Political Network, Inc.

282 North Washington Street, Falls Church, VA (703) 237-5130

CONNECTICUT WRAP-UP

CLINTON: Works expectations in two-man race; worries low turnout, possible protest vote could produce "upset." (#1) Calls story on bond contract "old news," as story completes full day in news cycle. (#4)

BROWN: Swamps airwaves in media blitz; nabs union, Hartford mayor nods; warns of "those who would shut down the election." (#1, #5)

THAT FELLOW FROM IOWA: Harkin to endorse Clinton? (#4)

ROSS-N-JESS: Speculation grows on Perot-Jackson ticket; more nat'l exposure today. (#7)

SENATE WATCH: SEND IN THE GOVS

NH: Rudman finally says no-go. GOP chain reaction back home? Gov. Gregg now likely in for Senate, ex-Sen. Humphrey good bet for gov. race. (#10)

WA: Lowry opts out of Adams succession scramble, looks to gov. race. Pressure upped on Gardner to make Sen. run. (#12)

HOUSE: MORE BOING QUESTIONS

WASH. TIMES cites 12/89 GAO warning letter to Foley. (#13)

SPOTLIGHT

CONFIDENCE IN ECONOMY UP,
BUT ...

Gallup (USA TODAY/CNN) shows jump from 22% to 37% in those thinking economy is getting better. BUT the "way things are going" question draws the worst satisfied/dissatisfied numbers yet (19-80%).

Bush leads Clinton in trial heat 52-43% (and in many personal quality head-to-heads). BUT neither is seen as likely to bring "the changes the country needs" and both are seen likely to "do anything to get elected."

Are there alternatives? Brown leads Clinton in CA by only one point, with pollster Field seeing both as "highly flawed." (#2) And Gallup finds 55% have to ask "H. Ross Who?" (See Poll Update, #14)

===== QUOTE OF THE DAY =====

"There comes a time when everyone should come home.
This is my time."

-- Sen. Warren Rudman (R-NH), AP, 3/24.

THE APN BULLETIN BOARD

FROM TODAY'S GREENWIRE: Bush's environmental message to Congress will list climate treaty as a top UNCED priority.
FROM TODAY'S DAILY REPORT CARD: AFT pres. Albert Shanker gives an "F" to the Bush admin.'s plan for break-the-mold experimental schools.
FROM TODAY'S ABORTION REPORT: 63% of CO GOPers for abortion thru 1st trimester - Considine (R)/Wirth (D) battle begins.

HOTLINE/DATABASE INDEX

WHITE HOUSE '92

CONNECTICUT: Clinton "concerned" about today's outcome. (#1)
CALIFORNIA: Dems tied in Brown's home state. (#2)
UPCOMING STATES: NY, NC. (#3)
CLINTON: Denies impropriety in awarding of bond contract. (#4)
BROWN: Banks on enthusiastic CT turnout. (#5)
BUSH: Frohnmeyer lays into Bush admin. (#6)
PEROT: No consensus on partisan effect. (#7)
PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE SCHEDULES (#8)

SENATE WATCH

LOUISIANA: I hate running unopposed. (#9)
NEW HAMPSHIRE: Rudman won't run for re-election. (#10)
PENNSYLVANIA: The woman thing and "Specterslayer." (#11)
WASHINGTON: Lowry abandons race for governor bid. (#12)

ON THE HOUSE

BOING: '89 letter warned Fed of bad checks. (#13)

POLL UPDATE

USA TODAY/CNN/GALLUP: Confidence in economy up, but ... (#14)

TV MONITOR (#15)

According to the NEWSWEEK poll, H. Ross Perot pulls the same amount (9%) from Bush voters as from Clinton voters.

*1 CONNECTICUT: CLINTON "CONCERNED" ABOUT TODAY'S OUTCOME

Polls are open today from 6:00a to 8:00p. 53 delegates are at stake on the Dem side, 35 for the GOP. Officials expect low turnouts "because most people seem to believe the ... nominees have been all but chosen." But there is a "surging anti-incumbent sentiment sweeping [CT], caused mainly by the imposition of the state's first income tax late last year. So most observers agree almost anything could happen" (Pertman, BOSTON GLOBE, 3/24). Clinton spent yesterday "privately worrying" about Brown "sneaking an upset" today. His camp "expressed concern that an anti-politician protest vote, combined with a low voter turnout, could make for a close race with Brown." Clinton: "There's going to be a lot of people who'll say, 'I don't want this to be over. I'm going to vote against Clinton to keep this going.'" Brown accused Clinton of "panicking" by running a large number of anti-Brown ads: "[Clinton] knows we're winning. This man is the greatest bluffer I've seen in American politics in my lifetime" (Clifford/Kasindorf, N.Y. NEWSDAY, 3/24). Brown has also "sharply increased" his TV ads, even outspending Clinton by several thousands in the Hartford market (N.Y. TIMES, 3/24). Brown campaigned throughout CT 3/23, attempting to "galvanize voter anger" in a state where unemployment is higher than the nat'l average (Lightman, HARTFORD COURANT, 3/24). Clinton spent the day attacking Bush for advocating a "do nothing" policy on the economy. He was accompanied by CT Sen. Joseph Lieberman, CO Gov. Roy Romer, and PA Sen. Harris Wofford, who have all endorsed him (Stewart, L.A. TIMES, 3/24). He picked up the endorsements of the Electric Boat shipyard's 8,500-member Metal Trades Council, and held a $-raiser that is expected to raise $12,000 to $150,000. Brown was endorsed by Hartford Mayor Carrie Saxon Perry, UAW leaders and CT Citizen Action (COURANT, 3/24). CT's vote "will measure how much Brown's nonstop barbs reduce Clinton's margins, as Buchanan's did Bush's in earlier primaries" (Pertman, BOSTON GLOBE, 3/24). N.Y. DAILY NEWS header: "Character raps dog Bill in Conn." (3/24). N.Y. TIMES' Kirk Johnson: "[A] primary that was not supposed to count for much has become a fought-over prize in the last few days" (3/24). Tsongas campaign coordinators from CT, NY, NJ, MA, VT, WA, MD and NH met in Hartford yesterday to form a "Tcitizens to Draft Tsongas" Cmte (COURANT, 3/24). Ex-Sen. Gene McCarthy, who is on the CT ballot, also campaigned in CT yesterday. He questioned Brown and Clinton's foreign policy experience (Cockerham, COURANT, 3/24).

SUBMARINE RACES: Clinton and Bush "engaged in early campaign crossfire," with Clinton hitting Bush on the economy and Bush accusing Clinton of "pandering to workers" of the Seawolf nuclear submarine factory (Frisby, BOSTON GLOBE, 3/24). Stumping outside Groton's Electric Boat submarine plant, Clinton "triumphantly held aloft a Boston Globe story" with the header: "'Do nothing' on economy, Bush advises lawmakers." Clinton: "Bush summed up his economic policy in two words: Do nothing" (Stewart, L.A. TIMES, 3/24). In an interview with New Haven's WTNH-TV, Bush attacked "the other side," rather than Clinton by name, "for advocating a $100 billion cut in the defense budget." Bush: "I want to cut the defense budget by $50 billion, and that's based on recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of Defense. And yet what you are receiving from the other side is, 'Well 50's not enough; let's cut it 100.' Bush warned the public against those who seek cuts in defense spending, but "keep open projects in specific districts": "That's the oldest most crass political game in the world." Clinton, asked if he's pandering: "No, because that's my position." Clinton contends keeping the Seawolf in production would make it "easier to convert the facility into producing a new, shallow water submarine that will be needed in the future" (GLOBE, 3/24). N.Y. TIMES editorial criticizes Clinton for his Seawolf position (3/24). NBC's Andrea Mitchell: "The cold war may be over, but not the political wars over defense spending. Not when cancelling weapons means losing jobs" (NBC, 3/23). CNN noted the efforts of CT's "Tcitizen Tsoldiers for Tsongas." Radio ads are running in CT and there was a rally in Hartford. The group also has an 800 telephone number ("Inside Politics," CNN, 3/23). NBC's Faith Daniels: "Brown is scoffing at the idea that Clinton has sewn up the nomination" (3/24). CBS' Scott Pelley: "Voters casting ballots this morning have been subject to the most negative campaigning yet this season with Jerry Brown fighting to keep his name in the headlines. In some ways [CT] is ideal for Brown. It is a small state where the candidate can meet the voters. ... Many Democrats worry this lacerating campaign will only cripple the party in November. ... [In CT] Brown could make a good showing. He appears to be attracting the voters that were behind Tsongas ... but he is still far out-financed and far out-organized by the Clinton campaign" (3/23). NBC's Andrea Mitchell reported on Clinton's and Brown's support for the CT's Seawolf submarine despite Bush's position that the sub is "pork" and wants it cut from the budget. "The Democrats say their positions on the submarine have nothing to do with today's primary" (3/24). ABC's Mike von Fremd: "The candidates seemed to take a page from each other's playbook" as Clinton sported the Union jacket while campaigning among Union workers and Brown "opted for the dapper, button-down look. ... Though he looks like a hopeless second in the delegate count, Brown is doing a masterful job of keeping his message alive in the media" (ABC, 3/24).

GOP: Bush supporters seemed "more worried" about turnout than Buchanan's challenge. Buchanan, who has pulled back from his attacks on Bush, has devoted little time or resources to CT (HARTFORD COURANT, 3/24). Bush granted interviews to three of CT's network affiliates (N.Y. TIMES, 3/24).

*2 CALIFORNIA: DEMS TIED IN BROWN'S HOME STATE

The CA Poll, conducted 3-16-21 by the Field Institute, surveyed 482 registered Dems margin of error +/- 4.5% (S.F. CHRONICLE, 3/24).

	ALL	MEN	WOMEN	WHITE	HISP	BLACK

Not incl.	46	47	53	42	24	23

Pollster Mervin Field: "Both candidates appear to be highly flawed. ... It's unusual to have two candidates with such a high disinclination to vote for either one." In the last Field Poll in 1/92, Brown led the full Dem field with 34% and Clinton was 2nd with 19% (CHRONICLE, 3/24). Brown: "Given all the national coverage Clinton has had and given that he's been anointed the front-runner, these numbers are great." Clinton consultant James Carville: "If a poll came back in Arkansas and it was a tie, that would not be good news for Clinton. ... We haven't run a [TV] spot out there yet and Brown's part of a dynasty his father, his sister -- he's the biggest name in Democratic politics out there" (SAN JOSE MERCURY NEWS, 3/24). Analyst Joe Scott writes, "Clinton's consistently overwhelming margins among blue collar and black voters, once Brown's in [CA], raise serious questions about how viable [Brown] will be this time around." With Rep. Maxine Waters (D-29), "a longtime confidante of Jesse Jackson in Clinton's corner early, it's a bad omen for Brown." On the GOP side, Buchanan's "implied concession" to Bush "seems likely to diminish voter interest in the winner-take-all primary which Bush will win." Buchanan may spend two months in CA "in a sort of 'government-in-exile' mode to laboratory-test conservative themes for 1996, and keep his lucrative direct-mail fund-raising operation in high gear." Also of interest in the interplay between Gov. Pete Wilson (R) and Buchanan. After Buchanan said Wilson "walked away from conservative values," Wilson launched the "sharpest attack ... by any [GOP] leader in the nation" against Buchanan, accusing him of "downright racist, anti-Semitic" statements" ("CALIFORNIA EYE," 3/23 issue).

*3 UPCOMING STATES: NY, NC

NY (4/7): Clinton NY chief Harold Ickes "is pressing to avoid any one-on-one debates" between Clinton and Brown in NY: "It would be exclusionary not to have all the candidates who are on the ballot" (Lombardi, N.Y. DAILY NEWS). Ickes wants Agran and McCarthy, who were in the 3/21 Buffalo debate, to attend a 3/31 debate in the Bronx and a 4/5 debate on WNBC-TV. Currently, only Clinton and Brown are scheduled for both (3/24). N.Y. TIMES' Specter profiles Brown volunteers under header, "Brown Campaign Finds Strength in Naivete and Enthusiasm of Staff" (3/24). W.S. JOURNAL header: "In [NY] Primary Race, the Interest Groups Won't Be Asking What They Can Do for America." David Shribman writes, "Let the pandering begin." For Clinton, there's "no one here but ... Brown to share the burden of the furious lobbying by ethnic groups, labor unions, business associations, and more." Dem strategist John Sasso said, "Even if you're Clinton, with the nomination in your sights, you have to be alert in [NY]." Clinton "could still get mugged" (3/24).

NC (5/5): Buchanan has tapped ECU sr. Noel Garrett, who was Charlotte field dir. for Sen. Jesse Helms (R) '90, as his NC coordinator. Buchanan pol. dir. Paul Erickson says Buchanan will make "a few" NC visits in early April, "with a heavier campaign schedule later in the month" (Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER, 3/21).

*4 CLINTON: DENIES IMPROPRIETY IN AWARDING OF BOND CONTRACT

He "dismissed as 'old news'" the 3/23 L.A. TIMES report that he had lobbied AR legislators on behalf of a multimillion-dollar contract for a state police communications system that "benefitted" Dan Lasater, a "wealthy Clinton supporter who was publicly known to be the target of a cocaine investigation." Clinton "said he did not intervene to steer the bond contract to Lasater and his associates but that his administration had adopted a policy opening state bond work to a wider range of firms." Clinton called Lasater "an active supporter of mine and other Democrats. He gave money and raised money for Sen. [Dale] Bumpers, for Sen. [David] Pryor, for me and for other Democrats.

... He did state business, but so did a lot of other bond firms [that] never did it before I got elected. ... I just thought there weren't enough people who had a chance to make presentations to the various state agencies. ... Our policy was to let more people do business than had been done before."

Clinton's former CoS Betsey Wright released a statement saying Clinton "never lobbied anyone concerning the award recipient," but rather did on the merits of the program itself. Wright also noted only one of the four State Police Commis. votes to award the contract to Lasater was cast by a Clinton appointee; the two votes in opposition were cast by Clinton appointees (Stewart, L.A. TIMES, 3/24). Clinton began lobbying legislators on behalf of the bond issue when several members of the AR Leg. Council, which acts as the state's legislative body when the Legis. is not in session, began to question the use of a bond issue to finance the project. ARK. DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE reports three legislators who initially voted against the project at a 5/17/85 Council meeting, said "that Clinton did discuss the contract with them. They said Lasater's name was never mentioned and that their concern was not who was selling the bonds but the cost and financing of the contract, concerns that were reflected in the minutes of the meeting." Those three, state Reps. George, Newman and Ramsey, all voted for the proposal 6/25/85 (Johnson/Oman, 3/24).

LASATER'S DRUG CHARGES: Charges that Clinton had steered business to Lasater's firm first arose during Clinton's '86 re-election campaign against ex-Gov. Frank White, a time when Lasater and his former chauffeur had plead guilty to conspiracy to distribute cocaine among their friends. In addition, Clinton's half-brother, Roger, had testified 2/85, three months before the contract was awarded, that Lasater had loaned him $8,000 to cover debts to a NYC-based Colombian drug dealer. AR State Police Chief Col. Tommy Goodwin confirmed "there were 'widespread rumors' and unconfirmed intelligence reports about Lasater's involvement in cocaine at the time his group was selected. But Goodwin said the allegations were unsubstantiated and did not justify opening a State Police probe" of Lasater. Clinton spokesman Jeff Eller "said that, because there were no charges pending against Lasater in May 1985, 'it would be improper to deny someone the right to participate in state competitive bidding process based on rumors and allegations'" (Isikoff, W. POST, 3/24). N.Y. POST's Mike McAlary, who writes his paper's research mirrors the L.A. TIMES story, notes the testimony in the Roger Clinton trial was front-page news in Little Rock papers: "It is difficult to believe Clinton wasn't interested in reading a story about his stepbrother, a star witness, and relatives of other politicians known to him -- if only because Bill Clinton keeps telling us what a small town he lives in" (3/24). DEM-GAZETTE reports state police files show Lana Crews, a friend of Roger Clinton's, stated in a 8/84 interview that she shared cocaine with Lasater at a party in a Hot Springs hotel suite. Gov. Clinton had attended a party held earlier that day in the hotel lobby. Clinton spokesperson Jeff Eller called the lobby party a "public" event, and said, "There should be no inference drawn" between Clinton's earlier appearance and "what transpired later." While Col. Goodwin reiterated that Crews' interview and testimony didn't warrant a state police probe of Lasater, Goodwin did admit he hadn't seen the Crews interview until a reporter showed it to him last week. DEM-GAZETTE also reports the DEA and local police were "trading information about Lasater and his associates as early as 1983" (3/24). N.Y. POST's McAlary also asks Clinton, "have you ever partied with Dan Lasater?" (3/24).

LASATER'S PARDON: Clinton granted Lasater a conditional pardon in 11/90 after Lasater's application was recommended by the Parole Board by a 4-0 vote. While Clinton spokesperson Mike Gauldin and board member Carol Bohannon said "such a pardon was not uncommon and that no one has been denied one, only 25 or so have been granted since the practice began in 1987," according to Betsey Wright (DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 3/24). The pardon restored some of Lasater's state rights, but no federal rights. Clinton: "I would have had to have had some reason not to do it. ... I thought I literally shouldn't treat him any different one way or the other than I would treat anybody else" (L.A. TIMES, 3/24).

REAX: Brown said he hadn't read the articles yet: "I can't even keep up with the scandals" (AP/PHILA. INQUIRER, 3/24).

HARKIN ENDORSEMENT EXPECTED: Harkin is expected to endorse Clinton this week, which "should enhance" Clinton's support with labor unions. Harkin, who "criticized Clinton sharply" during his campaign, reportedly "would like the opportunity to discuss certain issues" including the disabled, children, labor and trade. While Clinton dep. manager George Stephanopoulos wouldn't confirm the report, he did say: "The party is coming together" (Frisby, BOSTON GLOBE, 3/24).

TV: CNN's Catherine Crier reported on Clinton camp's response to the L.A. TIMES story ("Inside Politics," CNN, 3/23). CBS' Richard Threlkeld called the story "new ammunition" for Brown (3/23). CNN and ABC showed Clinton holding up the BOSTON GLOBE headline (3/23).

*5 BROWN: BANKS ON ENTHUSIASTIC CT TURNOUT

Brown at a rally that drew about 1,000: "The whole effort to close down this election by the media and the Clinton campaign will be resisted. ... I view with alarm this effort to curtail the campaign before half of the votes have been cast. ... There are those who would shut down the election and give you no choice." CT turnout is "expected to be low, and Brown hopes the enthusiasm he has generated will bring his supporters out while Clinton voters will stay home, thinking the [AR] governor has so much support the race is over." On a trip to New Haven, "directions were so bad that the campaign's 40-passenger charter bus got temporarily lost." Brown advisor Jacques Barzaghi: "We're not disorganized ... Our organization transcends understanding." Brown CT endorsements: CT UAW, "progressive" Caucus of CT Dems and a group of "black New Haven religious leaders" (Milne, BOSTON GLOBE, 2/24). Brown CT organizer Bill Garrett said, Tsongas dropping out has "has created a large block of undecided voters so there's an opportunity for Brown's

'granola guerrillas' to contact as many people or more as Clinton can through his slick media campaign." Clinton may "benefit from the race if former Tsongas voters decide not to vote and turnout is low. But observers say Brown may well be able to attract this state's large portion of upper middle-class voters who would normally go for Tsongas. Some voters are suddenly finding Brown an attractive alternative" (Ross, C.S. MONITOR, 3/24).

BEST THINGS IN LIFE ARE FREE: Brown has based his campaign on attacking the "corruption" of money in politics and "flaying" large donors' influence, but analyst Joe Scott, in his CALIFORNIA EYE, notes Brown's fund-raising history as CA Dem chair "raises anew complex questions about his consistency and opportunism." In his announcement speech, Brown stated, "If the corruption of political money is the issue, then the answer is don't accept it." Yet, in a memo Brown wrote on his resignation as CA chair, Brown listed among his achievements raising over $8M, and "tripling" the small-donor list, making it even larger than the DNC's. While Brown declared in TX that his CA Dem experience taught him how "disgusting politics had become," in '89 he signed a 6-page letter that "urged" potential major contributors to help change CA's political landscape. CA pollster Mervin Field: "What he's doing and saying now is diametrically opposed. ... He is a political chameleon" (3/23 issue). BOSTON GLOBE's Bob Kuttner assesses the 13% flat tax: "It is characteristic of the man and his opportunism that he now offers a bogus plan to champion the oppressed taxpayer" (3/23).

TV: CNN reported on the low-budget campaign of Brown making use of supporters' and strangers' homes for overnight accommodations, commercial airlines and single vans in his motorcades and the overwhelming use of volunteers (3/23). CBS' Scott Pelley: "Democratic leaders are quietly urging Brown to tone down his attacks and consider leaving the race ... The party would clearly like to end this fight. ... If the Brown campaign stays alive after [CT] the going only gets tougher" (3/24).

6 BUSH: FROHNMEYER LAYS INTO BUSH ADMIN.

Departing NEA chair John Frohnmayer "broke weeks of silence [3/23] and bluntly accused President Bush of lacking the courage to stand up to ... Buchanan's assault on the federal arts agency" (Spears/Karaim, KNIGHT-RIDDER). Frohnmayer called Buchanan "a Frankenstein monster that George Bush helped to create," and said Bush is getting "incredibly bad advice" on the art-funding controversy. Frohnmayer says was essentially fired 2 days after Buchanan's surprise showing in NH, just before Buchanan started airing his infamous anti-NEA ad in GA: "Sam Skinner called me in and handed me my hat." He said Bush "succumbed to panic in asking for his resignation." On RNC chair Rich Bond's suggestion that the NEA be abolished: "How cowardly, how ignorant, what a craven example to the rest of the world. I fervently hope the President will reject such rubbish" (PHILA. INQUIRER, 3/24). W. POST's Masters notes Frohnmayer's speech, which compared the "cultural war" over arts funding to Nazi aggression, also "included an apparent impersonation" of Sen. Jesse Helms (R-NC). RNC chair Bond released a statement saying his NEA views were personal, but are, he believes, shared by "millions of Americans" (3/24).

MORE: W. POST's McGrory, mocking Bush's call for "change," notes "as much fun as it is, Congress-trashing has its limitations. Repeated references to over-long tenancy and the need for term limitations can remind voters that another incumbent is seeking to return to the trough" (3/24). W. TIMES' Colp profiles the "troika": Teeter, Malek, and Mosbacher (3/24). The campaign announced retiring Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt (R-AR) will chair the AR campaign (Release, 3/23). ABC's Ann Compton: "Bush is not competing directly with Gov. Clinton in CT ... but this week the whole political climate has changed. ... From now on every attack in effect becomes an attack on the likely opponent this fall" (3/24).

*7 PEROT: NO CONSENSUS ON PARTISAN EFFECT

BOSTON GLOBE's John Mashek examines his potential run, quoting "one source close to Perot" saying he expects a final decision "within the next week or so." The source also confirmed Perot's interest in Jesse Jackson as a possible running mate. Ex-Jackson adviser Bert Lance: "With Perot's resources and Jesse's energy, you would have a formidable combination. And it would hurt the Democrats more than the Republicans." A "key Bush adviser said Perot had to be reckoned with if he ran 'because he could spend more than Bush or the Democrat and have as much paid media as both of them put together.'" Ex-Bush press sec. Peter Teeley said the CW that "Perot would hurt Bush could be wrong": "His appeal will be largely to disaffected voters who won't be disposed to vote for Bush as the incumbent. He'll hurt Clinton or whomever the Democrats pick" (3/24). ARIZONA REPUBLIC's Keven Willey writes, "It's easy to see Perot's appeal. Compared with George Bush and Bill Clinton, who sometimes seem about as exciting as watching ice cream melt, Perot looks like a real, old-fashioned, rags-to-riches American folk hero." But in AZ, qualifying for the ballot "is especially difficult. Perot's backers will have just nine days after the [9/8] primary to collect nearly 11,000 valid signatures" of non-primary voters. AZ Perot backer Ernest Hancock: "We're one of the last states in the process. If Perot succeeds [elsewhere] ... there's going to be a lot of focus on Arizona. Again" (3/24). In NY, Perot backer Kurt Koenig says he has "500 volunteers ready to go" (Wadman, N.Y. NEWSDAY, 3/24). NBC's Lisa Myers: "If Perot runs he is likely to take more votes from Bush than Clinton which is why all this makes the White House very nervous" (NBC, 3/23). Perot appears on "Donahue" this afternoon (3/25 in some markets).

*9 LOUISIANA: I HATE RUNNING UNOPPOSED

LA GOP chair Wm Nungesser "is looking for someone to challenge" Sen. John Breaux (D) because "a challenge would be a good idea just to keep Breaux busy so he won't 'meddle in other races.'" Breaux has raised "nearly $2 million and is ready to begin campaigning for re-election." Nungesser said Rep. Richard Baker (R-06) or Rep. Clyde Holloway (R-08) could run as both "could be hurt by reapportionment." Holloway spokesperson Steve LeBlanc said Holloway will probably find CD to run in. Ex-Gov. Buddy Roemer (R) is "leaving his options open": "I will get with others who are interested and see what the responsible thing to do is." Breaux "strangely seems upset by the possibility he won't draw a [GOP] opponent": "I love running for office" (AP/Monroe NEWS-STAR, 3/23).

*10 NEW HAMPSHIRE: RUDMAN SAYS HE WON'T RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Sen. Warren Rudman (R) announced today he will not seek a third term. Saying, "I feel confident the people of this state would have elected me," Rudman added after nearly 25 years in public service he decided "that was enough. ... there comes a time when everyone should come home. This is my time. ... I have no pending huge financial offers. I'm not leaving because I need to make huge amounts of money. I'm leaving because I think I've been there long enough. I just don't think I'd enjoy it for six more years." Rudman added he is "terribly frustrated" by Congress and "took the occasion to reprimand Congress for not addressing the rising costs of entitlement programs such as Social Security and Medicare, and called it far more important than his announcement: "I do not see this Congress doing what has to be done while we have time to do it" (AP, 3/24).

RIGHT ON: BOSTON GLOBE's Adam Pertman reported the likeliness of Rudman's departure, writing the move "would radically alter the political landscape of the state and could appreciably diminish its clout in Washington." In fact, friends and colleagues of Rudman said "that his concern about the state's clout in Washington was a major reason for his indecision about running again. Another, they added, was the domino effect he realized his departure would have back home." Sources said the odds were "80-20" that Gov. Judd Gregg (R), who has not yet announced for re-election, would run for the Senate if Rudman did not. Rudman "is less doctrinaire than Gregg, and the two men are not considered to be close either ideologically or personally." Rudman "probably would prefer" ex-NH AG Tom Rath, a "longtime friend and adviser," succeed him, but Rath said "that he would only run if Gregg did not." Given NH's "conservative bent and Gregg's wide name recognition," Gregg is considered an "early favorite" for the Senate seat, but numerous potential candidates have been awaiting Rudman's announcement, and now "presumably" will enter the race (3/24). Businessman John Rauh, who ran unsuccessfully in '90 for the seat vacated by ex-Sen./state Sen. Gordon Humphrey (R), announced his candidacy immediately after Rudman's announcement (AP, 3/24). Other GOPers: Atty Rob Rabuck, ex-Rep. Chuck Douglas (R-02), ex-House candidate Larry Brady. Other Dems considering: ex-Nashua mayor Jim Donchess, Dr. Terry Bennett, who switched from GOP in 11/91.

RIPPLE EFFECT: Should Gregg run, he would have to retire as Gov. Those considering running for Gov. include: Humphrey, state Sen. Pres. Edward Dupont (R), and House Appropriations CMte chair Elizabeth Hager (R). Ex-NH Dem chair Ned Helms has already announced his candidacy and state Rep. Deborah "Arnie" Arnesen is expected to announce soon (Pertman, GLOBE, 3/24).

11 PENNSYLVANIA: THE WOMAN THING AND "SPECTERSLAYER"

A PHILA. INQUIRER editorial on the 4/28 primary compares Dem hopeful Lynn Yeakel to IL's Carol Moseley Braun: "After that shocker in [IL] we have to mention ... Yeakel [who] is seeking ... to oppose Sen. Arlen Specter [R], a leading player in the Thomas hearings." Calling Braun her "counterpart," the paper describes Yeakel's candidacy against a "well-known, well-financed" Dem "with party backing" in LG Mark Singel (D) "plus another guy," Allegheny Co. D.A. Robert Colville. "The so-called experts better not count Ms. Yeakel out" (3/23). Yeakel "as untested as she is -- could be a 'wild card.'" Singel "slammed" Yeakel for "arguing the Senate needs more women while simultaneously trying to knock another female candidate, Frederica Mann Friedman, off the primary ballot." Yeakel contended Friedman's petitions did not meet legal signature requirements. Singel's original "plan was to pick up the [Dem] nomination ... unopposed. Instead he finds himself with two serious challengers." Singel "plotted" his own campaign for more than a year and is "dismayed" the other candidates would "reach for the brass ring of the U.S. Senate simply because it suits their political timing." Dem fund-raiser Bill Batoff "warns" Singel, 38, a professional pol since age 22, has to "watch out for the anti-establishment vote." Penn State's Michael Young agrees: "[Voters] don't care whether someone has paid their dues. He's the incumbent in the race." Singel consultant Joe Trippi: "You're not talking about someone with gray hair who has been in office for 30 years ... the rage is directed at Washington" (Gorenstein, INQUIRER, 3/22). PHILA. DAILY NEWS' Baer & Weisensoe look at the GOP primary, pitting "Arlen the Invincible" Specter against state Rep. "Steve the Specterslayer" Freind. Freind is "looking to wield the anti-incumbent anger sweeping the nation into a mighty weapon to bring down the giant." Although Specter's 12 years in the Senate "were spent inoculating himself against every possible political disease" Baer and Weisensoe outline 5 "lines of attack" Freind will likely take and Specter's 5 probable defenses: 1. "He's a Washington insider." Defense: He made 1,658 trips to PA during his Senate tenure. 2. "He's too liberal." Defense: He supports SDI, capital punishment and Clarence Thomas. 3. "Women hate him." Defense: He's pro-choice and has a "page and half list of 'Women's and Family Issues'" he supports. 4. "He covered up a conspiracy to kill JFK." Defense: He defended his single-bullet theory in state papers and called for files to be released. 5. "He's too wishy-washy." Defense: Specter: "You ask me why I voted a certain way on any individual vote and I'll tell you" (3/24).

12 WASHINGTON: LOWRY ABANDONS RACE FOR GOV. RUN

Ex-Rep. Mike Lowry (D), who had begun a Senate campaign prior to Sen. Brock Adams' (D) decision to abandon his re-election campaign, has decided to switch to the governor's race. Lowry: "The opportunity to do things for the state I love is greater for the governor than for a freshman senator." Lowry said he would formally announce in mid-April. The switch "increased Democratic pressure" on outgoing Gov. Booth Gardner (D) to run. Gardner spokesperson Sheryl Hutchison "said that Gardner intended to finish dealing with bills passed by the just-completed session of the Legislature, then sit down with his family and friends to decide whether to run." The only Dem currently in the race is state Sen. Patty Murray. Seattle Mayor Norm Rice (D), "who has been eyeing a 1994 Senate bid, is one possible entry who did not respond to a request for comment last night." Gov. candidate/Rep. Sid Morrison (R-04): "If Mike's getting out of the Senate race, it means someone else is getting in. I think the strongest implication is that Booth must be" (Boren, SEATTLE POST-INTELLIGENCER, 3/24). GOP candidates: Rep. Rod Chandler (R-08), state Sen. Leo Thorsness, King Co. Exec. Tim Hill, Land Commis. Brian Boyle.

EFFECT ON THE GOV. RACE: House Speaker Joe King (D) had been the only Dem in the race, while Rep. Sid Morrison (R-04), AG Ken Eikenberry, state Sen. Dan MacDonald and state Sen. Jack Metcalf. King "discounted" Lowry's "semi-announcement," noting Lowry had considered a gov. run when Gardner declared he would not seek another term. King: "I'll welcome Mike into the race when he files. I'm a little surprised, for a person who wants a job either as King County Executive, as U.S. Senator, or as governor, which I assume take some decision-making ability, that Mike has such a hard time making up his mind." State Rep. Gary Locke (D) had been set to announce for gov., but Lowry's entry nixed his plans. Since Adams' withdrawal from the Senate campaign, Lowry "had been under enormous pressure from [Dem] activists, and even some office-holders, to enter the governor's race. They have been looking to an alternative to King, who has been struggling to raise money and support" (Boren, P-I, 3/24).

*13 BOING: '89 LETTER WARNED FOLEY OF BAD CHECKS

W. TIMES' Paul Rodriguez reports Speaker Tom Foley (D-WA) was "warned about the severity of the bad-check problem at the House bank nearly two years earlier than he or the House ethics committee have suggested in public statements." In a Dec. 19, 1989 letter, GAO Comptroller Charles Bowsher wrote Foley, "[f]or the four six-month periods ending June 30, 1989, our reviews showed numerous and repeated instances of checks being returned to the House Bank because of insufficient funds." The letter noted "at least 257 individuals or organizations" wrote 600+ checks totaling $462,000+ returned to the House Bank. Although the '89 GAO letter was cited in the 3/10 ethics cmte. Bank report, the "report downplayed the extent to which Mr. Foley was alerted to misuse of the bank by House members, staff and even those operating the banking facility." Foley "has repeatedly stated publicly that he was alerted to the seriousness of the bank's problems only when the GAO published an audit in September." A Foley aide said "he could not discuss the apparent discrepancy between the GAO letter and the speaker's public comments" (3/24). Ex-House Sgt.-at-Arms Jack Russ bounced 31 personal checks totaling $104,825 at the Bank in '88-'89 and "ignored auditors warnings to stop abusing his check cashing privileges." Though Russ did not have an account at the Bank, ethics cmte. member/Rep. John Kyl (R-AZ) said, "[h]e was cashing checks that were drawn on insufficient funds in other banks and getting the money from the House Bank. ... I don't know whether there are potential crimes in his conduct" (Cooper/Gugliotta, W. POST, 3/24). Michael Kinsley notes GAO reports on the House bank have been public since 1977. "These reports show that more bad checks were written in the 1960s and 1970s than in recent years." Kinsley: "Its a funny kind 'scandal' that has been public knowledge for years if not decades. The shock the politicians and propagandists claim to feel is strictly of the Captain Renault variety" (N.Y. POST, 3/24).

ARKANSANS APPEAL DISCLOSURE: Dem Reps. Bill Alexander (AR-01) and Beryl Anthony (AR-04) are "among those who applied for an appeal to the House ethics committee on releasing information about checks overdrafted through the House bank." They are "questioning leaked information, reportedly coming from ethics committee sources, on the number of overdrafts" (Lilleston/O'Neil, DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 3/23). A spokesperson for acting ethics cmte. chair Rep. Matt McHugh (D-NY) "said the list [of the top 24 'abusers'] would be released Friday at the earliest" (Bowman, Balto. SUN, 3/24).

NOT IN CA: ABC reported on a CA program which offers a personal finance class to first-time check bouncers. Participants in the class were angered that House members are above the law (ABC, 3/23).

SENATORS PRESS BUSH ON RUBLE STABILIZATION FUND

President Bush discussed Western economic aid with Russian President Yeltsin on Monday and pledged continued humanitarian and technical aid, the White House said.

Key senators said they believed Bush would move quicker on a fund to stabilize the ruble in former Soviet republics, a proposal that would help their economies....

Senators who met with Bush Monday said the Administration was examining a legislative package that would provide for American participation in a ruble stabilization fund. Sen. Warner, emerged from a meeting with Bush and said Secretary Baker reported that "a legislative package is now being examined" for U.S. participation in such a fund. (Reuter)

Bush Shifts Gears, May Up Russia Aid

The Bush Administration is preparing a "legislative package" of increased aid to the former Soviet Union, Sens. Nunn, Lugar, Warner and Bingaman said late Monday.

"I'm cautiously optimistic the President is going to be more assertive," Sen Nunn said after the hour meeting with Bush, Secretary Baker and national security adviser Scowcroft....

Nunn said Bush's leadership is essential: "Only the President can explain to the American people why this is in our national security interest." (Marilyn Greene, USA Today, 4A)

U.S. And Germany Will Urge Support Of Russian Economic Reforms

President Bush conferred by telephone Monday with Russian President Yeltsin and heard a plea from a bipartisan group of senators to step up aid to the struggling former Soviet republics....

The senators and Bush agreed that a new aid package will be a hard sell in Congress.... Sen. Lugar said Bush welcomed the senators' ideas. But he added, "it's a very difficult vote-getting operation." (Christopher Connel, AP)

YELTSIN EXPECTED AT ECONOMIC TALKS

BONN -- Russian President Yeltsin is expected to take part in this summer's G-7 economic summit in Munich, German Chancellor Kohl said Monday. "So far I don't know in what form, but I assume Boris Yeltsin will participate in the world economic summit," Kohl said, speaking at a news conference here. But Kohl said "there is no definite answer yet" on how other republics of the CIS will participate in the summit.

LAWMAKERS BASH BUSH OVER HANDLING OF SPOTTED OWL

Democratic members of the House Interior subcommittee on national parks and public lands, and the House Agriculture subcommittee on forests and family farms Monday condemned President Bush's handling of the northern spotted owl controversy, blaming illegal government logging for the demise of the threatened bird and the Northwest's oldest forests.... "If the Bush Administration had followed the nation's environmental laws four years ago, there would be no so-called 'spotted owl crisis' today," said Rep. Vento. "We need a solution that follows the nation's environmental laws instead of suspending them or, worse, gutting them," he said in testimony prepared for the hearing....

"We're not here today because of some action the Bush Administration has taken, God forbid," said Rep. AuCoin. "We're here today because of the Bush Administration's resounding failure to act" in accordance with environmental laws, he said.

Rep. Morrison said, "This one leaves lots of room for concern about the lack of coordination within the Administration. I'd like to find out if we will get some direction or continue to be whipsawed back and forth between the federal courts and different branches of the Administration," he said.

Rep. Smith defended the Administration, saying the only thing Bush is guilty of "is attempting to find some balance with respect to jobs and community stability." (Scott Sonner, AP)

FROHNMAYER DECRIES CULTURAL 'WAR'

John Frohnmayer, the departing chairman of the NEA, bashed presidential candidate Patrick Buchanan and other endowment critics Monday, calling Buchanan "a Frankenstein monster that George Bush helped to create." Frohnmayer, speaking at a conference on free expression at the National Press Club, warned that the political battle over the NEA is part of a broader cultural war and invoked the specter of the Nazis' take-over of Europe to underscore his point. "If the National Endowment for the Arts gets picked off, public broadcasting is next, and after that research funds for universities, and after that research funds for science," he said. "There will be no end to it. It's the Sudetenland now, Czechoslovakia next week, and after that Poland."

The speech, which included an apparent impersonation of Sen. Helms and ended with Frohnmayer singing a shaker hymn, contained harsh words for Congress, the Administration and religious leaders who remained silent while "fundamentalist religious groups" attacked the NEA....

Frohnmayer did not mount a direct attack on President Bush, although he implied that Bush should have taken a strong stand early in his presidency. While Bush "attempted to support me in the endeavor of supporting the arts," Frohnmayer said, "he has received some incredibly bad advice." The White House declined to comment.

Turning to RNC Chairman Richard Bond, Frohnmayer said: "How cowardly; how ignorant; what a craven example to the rest of the world. I fervently hope the President will reject such rubbish. Leadership is confronting and wrestling with our problems, not surrendering to what is easiest."

CLINTON VIEWS PRIMARY TODAY WITH CONCERN

HARTFORD -- Facing his first test since he became the presumptive Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Clinton Monday expressed uneasiness about Tuesday's Connecticut primary and said a low turnout could cause him trouble.

To avert that prospect, Clinton raced through a dawn-to-evening campaign schedule.... In the process, he mounted a new assault on President Bush as a "do nothing" chief executive, tried to fend off new questions about his stewardship as Arkansas' governor and criticized Jerry Brown for engaging in "violent personal attacks."...

A senior Connecticut Democrat backing Clinton expressed concern that if the governor fails to beat Brown by at least a 3-2 ratio, it will be taken as a sign of weakness in his campaign....

Bush is expected to overwhelm Patrick Buchanan in the Republican primary. Buchanan has appeared here only one day and has run virtually no campaign. But Bush's supporters are concerned about a low turnout in a state where voters are angry about economic conditions and in revolt against recent state tax increases.

Clinton's goal Monday was to cast himself as the real voice of protest and he waved a headline from Monday's Boston Globe as Exhibit A in his case against Bush. The headline read: "'Do Nothing' on economy, Bush advises lawmakers."... "Do nothing!" Clinton thundered at an impromptu news conference on a sidewalk across from the Electric Boat Division factory. "Those are the President's words: Do nothing while American businesses, large, medium and small, are getting their brains beaten out because we're the only country in the world without an economic strategy."

(E.J. Dionne, Washington Post, A4)

BUSH DEFENDS PLAN TO CUT SEAWOLF PROJECT IN CONNECTICUT

President Bush on Monday defended his call for cutting two Seawolf submarines from the budget and accused his opponents of playing "the oldest, most crass political game in the world" by promising defense cuts everywhere but at the plant gates....

Hours earlier, Gov. Clinton campaigned at the gates of the Electric Boat shipyard. Clinton supports the Seawolf and Centurion submarine programs and has slammed Bush for not having a plan to help industries affected by defense cuts.

CLINTON, BROWN SCRAMBLE FOR VOTES IN BUSH'S BIRTH STATE

NEW HAVEN -- Gov. Clinton Monday battled another story critical of his Arkansas governorship and Jerry Brown tried to energize union loyalists and students on the eve of Connecticut's presidential primary.... Patrick Buchanan made a last-minute appearance, though his campaign has conceded a big victory to Bush. (Major Garrett, Washington Times, A4)

Re: Advance Durable Goods Orders and Other Economic Data

Mixed news. First, the advance estimate of new orders for durable goods for February declined 0.1 percent in January (private analysts had expected an increase of just under 2 percent). The closely watched nondefense capital goods category declined 2.4 percent in February.

Combined with the disappointing mid-March auto sales, these figures will generate a bit of skepticism on the recovery. I believe, however, that new orders will be improving for March.

Tomorrow morning, the National Association of Realtors will report a further improvement in sales of existing homes.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: MICHAEL J. BOSKIN mgB

SUBJECT: Advance Durable Goods in February, Commerce
Department Release, Tomorrow Morning, 8:30 a.m.

New orders for durable goods were essentially unchanged in February, falling a slight 0.1 percent from January. The flat orders in February followed a 2.4 percent rise in January and a 5 percent fall in December. Private analysts had expected orders to increase 1.8 percent in February. The closely watched new orders for nondefense capital goods fell 2.4 percent.

Shipments of durable goods rose 2.9 percent in February, after rising 1.5 percent in January and falling 5.3 percent in December. The December decline was the largest monthly decline in over 20 years. Shipments of nondefense capital goods--a key measure of producer durable equipment investment--rose 2.3 percent in February following a 2.5 percent increase in January.

The graph below shows that new orders for durable goods have been volatile over the past year and in February were only slightly above their levels of last spring. Shipments of durable goods rose steadily from their March trough through November before giving back about half of the gain in December. Shipments resumed their upward trend in the first 2 months of this year.

While talking to Jack Stein today he told me he had called Eli Rubenstein in Israel asking Eli to tell Shamir that he hoped the story in today's paper was wrong. He was referring to a story that said Shamir was going to run against the bush administration in the Israeli elections.

Stein called me back and left this message:

"Eli Rubenstein called Jack back to say the PM denied absolutely any intention of involving the Bush election in the P>M>'s campaign. Furthermore the PM advocated strongly against bringing any American politics into theirs."

I'm a little unclear what the last part means)

RECOMMENDED TELEPHONE CALL

TO: General Tom Kelly (U.S. Army, ret.)

DATE: At earliest convenience

RECOMMENDED BY: Fred Malek FM

PURPOSE: For the President to thank General Kelly for campaigning for Bush-Quayle '92.

BACKGROUND: On March 5 and 6, the General visited five cities: Tulsa, Oklahoma; Austin, Texas; and Pensacola, Cocoa and Stuart, Florida. He held news conferences in each city, all of which were heavily covered by local media. He stressed that the President will use the same type of proven leadership shown in Desert Storm to turn around the economy.

On February 1, the General accompanied Vice President Quayle to New Hampshire. He appeared with the Vice President at a Bush-Quayle rally, and then attended the state American Legion Convention with Senator John McCain. He spoke of the President's commitment to national defense and the preservation of freedom.

TOPICS OF DISCUSSION: 1. General Kelly should be commended for hitting the campaign trail on behalf of the President.

2. The President is very aware of the favorable press coverage generated by General Kelly's positive message to the voters.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 23, 1992

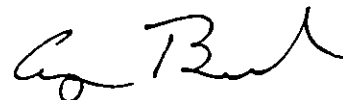

Congratulations to the men and women of the White House Communications Agency as you celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Since the Second World War, when a detachment of the Army Signal Corps was assigned to the White House, you and your predecessors have ably served a succession of Presidents and their staffs, sending our communications to United States facilities around the world with speed and skill. Your telecommunications support has been invaluable to the conduct of the Presidency, and I am deeply grateful for your outstanding efforts.

Today WHCA is recognized around the world for its excellence, and I congratulate those of you who are being honored on this occasion as the "best of the best." That is quite a testament to your skill and hard work.

Yours is very hard work indeed -- from pre-dawn trip departures to late nights that are spent winding up the day's activities or planning for the next. I join with you in saluting the families who stand behind you, and I thank them for their patience and understanding.

All of you have my best wishes for a memorable celebration and for continuing success.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Jim Baker,

Here's a good letter from a very loyal friend, Jack Stein. He is out there trying to be helpful. I talked to him today. He really wants to help.

Just FYI... Oh, yes, he thinks we have not ever clearly made the case why settlements are an obstacle to peace. He think you and I should say exactly why they are counterproductive.

Dear Mr. President,

Dear George,

I write this anguished over the loss of support I am finding in the Jewish Community. The anger is centered on the issue of Loan Guarantees, but it reflects a series of events starting with the Bush news conference on September 12 of last year, to the remarks allegedly made by Jim Baker, to the series of suddenly appearing reports of illegal arms transfers, and to a negative reference to Israel's credit, indicating Israel might be unable to repay the Loans which they requested we guarantee.

Much of the community anger is directed against Jim Baker, but it is increasingly being transferred to George Bush.

The many positives of the last few years are lost in the concerns of the moment. The admirable and thus far successful efforts to bring the Arabs into negotiations with Israel; the major role of this administration in causing a change in the Soviet emigration law thus allowing Jews to freely leave for Israel; the more than 4 billion dollars in grants this past year; the continuing high level of military and political aid; your repeated affirmation of our commitment to Israel's security, and the leadership which you provided in bringing about the rescission of the Zionism is Racism U.N. resolution.

It has not yet been made clear to the community why the issue of a halt to settlements is so important. Six administrations have not gone beyond calling settlements either "illegal," or "an obstacle to peace." It remains to be made clear why the settlements are linked to the Loan Guarantee question. The linkage between a halt to settlements and the peace process remains ill-defined, and it urgently requires explanation.

A few suggestions:

1-Passover starts the night of April 17th. You annually issue a Passover message. This year it should reflect your commitment to Israel and the resettlement of Jewish refugees. It should be issued early enough to receive full coverage in the Anglo-Jewish press.

Jacob Stein

2-The Republican Platform committee should pay very careful attention to its planks on the Middle East. While calling for peace negotiations to continue, the Platform should contain strong and unequivocal language about our commitment to Israel's security, and to lasting American-Israel friendship. W

3-Be sensitive to the Jewish reaction when Jerusalem is referred to as "occupied territory." While the community may have differing opinions on settlements as an obstacle to peace, there is near unanimity of support for a united Jerusalem under Israeli sovereignty. There should be a clear division between the West Bank and Gaza, and Jerusalem. W

4-An effort should be made to take the "edge" off the strong anti-Baker feeling. I can't suggest an easy answer to this, but it warrants thought, and then action. W

5-Be aware of the community's concern over the racist remarks and the isolationist positions of Pat Buchanan, and concerns that he is forcing the party to move closer to his nativist positions. Stress as often as possible your opposition to anti-semitism, and isolationism. W

6-George Bush is seen as hostile towards Israel and indifferent to Jewish Americans. I need help in my efforts to dispel this. W

George, this has been a difficult letter to write, but know that it comes from a sincere friend, who will be with you in your campaign across the country, a friend who will set forth the positives of your administration and explain, and seek understanding and support for your positions.

With affection and friendship

Jacob

RECOMMENDED TELEPHONE CALL

TO: Buffalo Mayor Jim Griffin
phone: (716) 851-4841

One of the few big city Democratic mayors to publically support you in 1988.

DATE: At your convenience.

RECOMMENDED
BY: Sherrie Rollins
Deb Anderson
Jim Snyder

PURPOSE: You are returning Mayor Griffin's call.

BACKGROUND: Mayor Griffin attempted to call you on March 6th, wishing to speak with you on some thoughts he had on how you could help cities. Rose Zamaria asked me to call the mayor back, which I did, twice.

Although Mayor Griffin did not tell me he was going to publicly endorse you at this time, I believe there is a good possibility that he will do so the closer we get to November.

- TOPICS OF DISCUSSION:
- (1) Your commitment to the right-to-life movement (the mayor has a strong right-to-life position).
 - (2) Unfunded Federal mandates which are financially hurting the city of Buffalo.
 - (3) The new Commission on Urban Families.
