RE: An Unnecessary Injury to President Bush in the Greek-American Community

DATE: April 8, 1992

I feel it is necessary, because of my official capacity with the reelection campaign, to bring the following information to your attention. As you know, not since the invasion of Cyprus in 1974 have so many thousands of Greek-Americans across the country so spontaneously reacted to an issue as they have to the recent question of the recognition of Macedonia. The president of the Pan-Macedonian Association, who produced, in just ten planning days, a demonstration of 12,000 people in New York, is planning to bring 100,000 to Washington, D.C., from around the country.

President Bush was being justifiably lauded by Greek-Americans across the country for intervening to stop the executive branch bureaucracy, which was on the verge of recognizing the so-called Republic of Macedonia with the other three Yugoslavian republics. The community was very pleased to see the president putting this issue involving Macedonia on a separate timetable.

The president's actions on March 21 were further appreciated by the community for its contribution to the Congress' similar action, in executive session on April 1 and in formal subcommittee markup on April 7, striking from a resolution regarding Yugoslavian republics any reference to the so-called Republic of Macedonia.

Amid this skyrocketing public opinion for President Bush within the Greek-American community came an April 7 statement, regarding the recognition of Yugoslavian republics, which has caused the president problems. The statement strongly suggests to the Greek-American community that the issue of American recognition of the exact words "the Republic of Macedonia" is a decided issue by the president. It implies that the president is removing from consideration the possible alteration of the name. The actual language of the April 7 statement by the president says, "we will continue to work intensively with the European Community and its member-states to resolve expeditiously the outstanding issues between Greece and the Republic of Macedonia, thus enabling the U.S. to recognize formally the independence of that republic as well."

If the words "The Republic of Macedonia" were replaced with the words "The remaining Yugoslavian Republic" the same position could have been taken by the president. Such language would not lead the Greek-American community to believe that the president has closed his mind on the question of a negotiation between Greece and the Yugoslavian republic to its north, which could result in an alteration of the title "Macedonia."

The Greek-American community is well aware that the political party with the largest number of seats in Skopje's parliament said in its platform in 1990, "elements of the Macedonian nation which live under occupational rule in Greece, Bulgaria and Albania, are not an ethnic minority, but just occupied and enslaved parts of the Macedonian nation..." For this and other reasons, it is important to the Greek-American community that the president retain an open mind on the title "Macedonia," a title described by an American Secretary of State at the time of its creation as a "cloak for aggressive intentions against Greece."

Please help assure that the future statements prepared for President Bush on this matter do not give this injurious and, I think, inaccurate impression about the president's open-mindedness regarding the possible adjustments of the republic's title as an option for the solution of this problem.

I still can't tie the fly onto the tippet too well, but I'm better at it given How to Fool Fish With Feathers.

I have wondered if our relations with Canada will be secure, but when Teeley demonstrated that he can follow instructions by getting your neat little book over here my doubts were eased. Maybe we can get the man to take us fly fishing up there in Canada if he can fool the Senate.

Thanks so very much. I love fly fishing, but I have much to learn. Most of my fishing has been with the "Hardware" as you call it.

This is some ugly year, but fishing- doing it, thinking about it, talking about it- restores a sense of balance to things. RADIO ADDRESS
BY THE PRESIDENT TO THE NATION

THE PRESIDENT: The American people have always been a people constantly searching for improvement; impatient for change when things need changing. Last week I spoke about the need for a change here in Washington for government reform -- especially congressional reform. Today I want to focus on reforming our welfare system, especially on our government's role in that reform process.

After years of trying to help those who are in need, we have found that too often our assistance does not help people out of poverty, it traps them there. It's not that people stop caring, it's that the system stopped working.

We want a welfare system that breaks the cycle of dependency before dignity is destroyed, and before poverty becomes a family legacy. But today we must face this fact: Our system has failed. I have repeatedly called for the forging of federal-state partnerships that would make welfare reform a powerful, effective reality.

Yesterday, at my direction, the federal government waved outdated rules to allow Wisconsin to try a new kind of welfare reform. The Wisconsin plan replaces some of the old assumptions of the welfare state and recognizes the importance of personal responsibility, self-respect, independence, and self-sufficiency.

In my State of the Union Address, I made a commitment to make it quicker and easier for states with welfare reform ideas to get the federal waivers they need. By approving Wisconsin's waivers 24 days after we received their request, that commitment now has the force of action. I want to commend Wisconsin Governor Tommy Thompson, and I want to challenge other states to propose their own reforms.

We must balance America's generous heart with our responsibility to the taxpayers who underwrite governmental assistance. Our assistance should in no way encourage dependency or undermine our nation's economic competitiveness. We pay twice for those who make welfare a way of life, once for the initial benefits, but even more because the nation loses their contribution to the nation's economic well-being.

Those who receive government assistance have certain responsibilities: the responsibility to seek work, or get education and training that will help them get a job; and the responsibility to get their lives in order. That means establishing lifestyles that will enable them to fulfill their potential, not destroy it.

We have responsibilities, too. We must structure our welfare programs so that they reverse policies which lock in a lifestyle of dependency and subtly destroy self-esteem. We must encourage family formation and family stability. Too often our welfare programs have encouraged exactly the opposite.

We must incorporate incentives for recipients to stay in school. For instance, in Wisconsin teen parents are required by the Learnfare program to stay in school to obtain full benefits. They recognize that in many respects opportunity is equated with education. And I'll have more to say about the urgent need for educational reform next week as we mark the first anniversary of the crusade that I call America 2000.

My approach to welfare reform should not only open the doors of opportunity for our citizens who are on public assistance, but also prepare them to walk proudly and competently through those doors. Our goal is to build a system of welfare that will encourage self-respect, build strength of character, and develop to the fullest each individual's potential for a productive, meaningful life.

Thank you for listening. And may God bless the United States of America.

Dear Mr. President,

It would be impossible for me to adequately express my thanks for all of the wonderful opportunities you have given me these past years. I have many treasured memories from my time at the White House, but what will stand out most is the caring example you show friends and others. I truly appreciate all the love and the kindnesses you have especially shown me. It has been a real honor and privilege to serve you and your great family.

It's not easy to leave this position, but I am happy to continue to serve in your Administration. I will always be there to serve you any way I can.

Dear Gordy,

It was good seeing you at the festival yesterday -- some lovely day. Bar and I only regret that we did not get to see more of the fair.

You looked good back there standing in front of the T.V. cameras with that welcoming wave.

I have asked Brent and Jim to give real close scrutiny to your papers dated April 10. There are some very positive suggestions in it.

I am thinking of a statement before June 23rd, perhaps a White House speech outlining the true facts on our U.S./Israel relationship.

In any event, thanks for those constructive thoughts.

Dear Mr. President,

As you requested, I am enclosing position papers on the three ideas that we discussed on Tuesday. If you approve them, I feel confident you will strengthen the U.S./Israel relationship and restore confidence and support within the American Jewish community for the peace process and for your policies toward Israel. Even more important, you will make a major contribution to rescuing Jews from the former Soviet Union without compromising American policy.

If I can help with any of this, just let me know.

Best regards to Bar.

SUBJECT:

Israel Free Enterprise Zones Loan Guarantee Fund

OBJECTIVE:

To assist in the life saving rescue of Soviet Jews without violating U.S. policy

PRESENT:

1. Jews are in grave peril in former USSR if:
 - a) Unemployment rises above 15%
 - b) Civil war breaks out
 - c) Right wing Nationalists take over in any of the Republics

Then anti-Semitism could become overt, violent, vicious.

2. Jews should get out while they can
3. 1,000,000 have signed up to leave, but only 6,000 came to Israel last month. Why?
4. NO JOBS in Israel
 - a) Unemployment 11%, expected to rise to 16%
 - b) Under-employment among highly skilled scientists/professional immigrants.

PROPOSAL:

1. After June 23, announce intention to make U.S. government loan guarantees available through an appropriate entity for the purpose of encouraging job creating investments by U.S. private sector companies including U.S./Israeli joint venture companies.
2. These loans/investments could be used only in Free Enterprise Zones in Israel.

Free Enterprise Zones are identifiable, zoned geographic areas inside the green line mutually agreed upon by the government of Israel and the U.S.

Investment directed to Free Enterprise Zones could not be used in other areas.

4/10/92

Israel Free Enterprise Zones Loan Guarantee Fund

- ADVANTAGES:
1. These funds would not be fungible. They would not pass through the government of Israel's budget, nor would the government of Israel otherwise create such a program.
 2. This would allow U.S. companies to take advantage of Israel's unique, innovative high-tech scientific research and development capabilities and give U.S. companies Israel's duty free access to European markets.
 3. By creating program that would enhance Israeli exports, and therefore foreign exchange earnings, with little government involvement, this would promote economic reform in Israel.
 4. Little or no U.S. taxpayer money required - all money would be provided from commercial lenders.

DISADVANTAGES: 1. Contingent liability to U.S. government.

- ACTION:
1. Direct Treasury, State or OPIC to develop this concept into a workable program and report their recommendations back to you before June 23, 1992.

4/10/92

SUBJECT:

Meeting of Jewish Leadership with President Bush

4/10/92

OBJECTIVE:

To rebuild support for President Bush in the Jewish community.

PRESENT:

Great anger in the pro-Israel community over:

1. Loan guarantee/settlement issue
2. Patriot transfer allegations
3. Baker alleged statement. The support in the community for President Bush is dropping rapidly; the gains made in recruiting young professional Jews to the Republican Party are rapidly eroding.

PROPOSAL:

President Bush to host a meeting with:

1. The Presidents of the top 50 federated communities in the U.S.
2. The President's Conference
3. The leadership of the National Jewish Coalition
4. The leadership of AIPAC
5. The non-affiliated Jewish friends of the President - Jack Stein/Jerry Weintraub/Gordy Zacks, etc.

Dear Jon,

I still can't tie the fly onto the tippet too well, but I'm better at it given How to Fool Fish With Feathers.

I have wondered if our relations with Canada will be secure, but when Teeley demonstrated that he can follow instructions by getting your neat little book over here my doubts were eased. Maybe we can get the man to take us fly fishing up there in Canada if he can fool the Senate.

Thanks so very much. I love fly fishing, but I have much to learn. Most of my fishing has been with the "Hardware" as you call it.

This is some ugly year, but fishing- doing it, thinking about it, talking about it- restores a sense of balance to things. I think I am going to win; but should fate decree otherwise I contemplate a future of hooks in the water be they crank baited, spinner baited, or ,yes, the creme de la creme  FEATHERED *****.

Please tell Jeff I love that book.
