HOUSTON (UPI) — First lady Barbara Bush will speak during prime time Aug. 19, the night reserved for family values themes at the Republican National Convention, party officials said Wednesday.

Aug. 19 is the third night of the convention and the same night President George Bush will win renomination. Republicans typically designate daily themes during their conventions.

Convention spokesmen declined comment on the possibility of Mrs. Bush speaking, but a spokesman with the campaign said the first lady's role in the election should not be underestimated.

"There is no question that Mrs. Bush will be a key figure in this campaign," said Bush/Quayle '92 spokesman Tony Mitchell.

"She is extremely popular with the American people. She is an asset to the effort."

Two other first ladies have addressed national political conventions.

Eleanor Roosevelt in 1940 addressed the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in a bid to quiet unrest among conservatives over the decision of Franklin D. Roosevelt to dump John Nance Garner of Texas as vice president for liberal Henry A. Wallace.

— In 1984, Nancy Reagan delivered a paean to Ronald Reagan at the Republican National Convention in Dallas. At the end of her remarks, the president, appearing by closed circuit television in the convention hall on a large screen, was shown beaming in his hotel suite, and Mrs. Reagan gave him a wave.

Reagan himself will speak on the opening night of this year's Republican meeting, which is planned as a salute to the collapse of Marxist rule in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

The second night will focus on domestic issues and feature the keynote address of Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

The closing night will feature the acceptance speeches of Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Bush, still popular despite the plunge in her husband's approval ratings, will deliver a prime-time address at the Republican National Convention next month, Republicans said Wednesday.

"It's going to be a big night for her," an administration official said. The official said she would speak at the Houston convention on Aug. 19, the night President Bush will be renominated.

The 67-year-old first lady will be surrounded on the podium at the Astrodome by her five children and 12 grandchildren and the remarks will stress the importance of family life.

Although she gave a brief talk at the 1988 Republican convention in New Orleans, this speech will be her first major, televised address since her widely watched commencement remarks at Wellesley College in 1990.

Mrs. Bush also extolled the importance of family life to the Wellesley graduates, some of whom griped beforehand about their college's honoring a political wife who never worked outside the home.

Hillary Clinton, the wife of Democratic nominee Bill Clinton, is a corporate lawyer who stirred a controversy last March when she said, "I suppose I could have stayed home, baked cookies and had teas, but what I decided to do was fulfill my profession."

Mrs. Bush has been a crusader for literacy and charitable causes, and has penned a best-seller, "Millie's Book," about life in the White House as seen by her dog.

She also has been the star attraction at scores of political fund-raising events, both for her husband and other Republicans, and is gearing up for a hectic campaign schedule this fall.

Nancy Reagan delivered a tribute to Ronald Reagan at the 1984 GOP convention in Dallas. The then-president was shown in his hotel room applauding his wife's remarks.

Eleanor Roosevelt took the stage at the 1940 Democratic National Convention in Chicago to help pressure delegates to ratify Franklin D. Roosevelt's choice of Henry A. Wallace as a running mate in place of John Nance Garner.

The plan for Mrs. Bush to speak at the convention was first reported Wednesday by the Houston Chronicle and the Houston Post.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Bush, surrounded by her five children and 12 grandchildren, will help her husband's party trumpet its family values theme in a prime-time speech to the Republican National Convention, sources say.

The popular first lady, who still boasts sky-high approval ratings despite her husband's political troubles, is expected to address the convention at Houston's Astrodome on Wednesday night, Aug. 19.

"It's going to be a big night for her," said an administration official.

Mrs. Bush had a cameo speaking role at the 1988 Republican convention in New Orleans, but this will be her first major televised address since her headline-grabbing speech to Wellesley College graduates in June 1990.

Before that speech, some graduates had objected to the college's honoring a politician's wife who never held a paid job.

-- But Mrs. Bush drew cheers with a warm, witty speech advising the graduates that "your success as a family — our success as a society — depends not on what happens in the White House, but on what happens inside your house."

She also urged them "to get involved in some of the big ideas of our time."

Republican strategists view the first lady as one of Bush's biggest assets as he tries to overtake Democratic nominee Bill Clinton's huge lead in the polls.

Hillary Clinton, like her husband a Yale-trained lawyer, offended homemakers, political wives and other women last March when she defended her career in a Little Rock law firm by saying,

"I suppose I could have stayed home, baked cookies and had teas, but what I decided to do was fulfill my profession."

Mrs. Bush has been a crusader for literacy and charitable causes, and has written a best-seller, "Millie's Book," about life in the White House, as seen by her dog.

She also has been the star attraction at scores of Republican fund-raising events and is gearing up for a hectic campaign schedule this fall.

She spent Wednesday traveling to Baltimore and Columbus, Ohio, raising thousands of dollars for the GOP, and was in Tallahassee, Fla., today for another party fund-raiser.

Nancy Reagan delivered a tribute to Ronald Reagan at the 1984 GOP convention in Dallas. The then-president was shown in his hotel room applauding his wife's remarks.

Eleanor Roosevelt took the stage at the 1940 Democratic National Convention in Chicago to help pressure delegates to ratify Franklin D. Roosevelt's choice of Henry A. Wallace as a running mate in place of John Nance Garner.

First lady's family values find home at convention

By Jessica Lee
USA TODAY

The Bush campaign is bringing out the big gun.

First lady Barbara Bush will give a prime-time convention speech on this year's buzzword — family values.

"She's still working on exactly how she wants to do it," says Craig Fuller, the campaign's convention planner. "She has some good ideas."

He says her presentation is likely to last about 20 minutes and may include a video and comments by Bush children or grandchildren.

She's scheduled to take the stage Aug. 19, the convention's third night.

"It's a very positive opportunity to highlight one of the strongest features of the Bush presidency — Mrs. Bush," says Fuller.

Democrats spotlighted nominees Bill Clinton, Al Gore and their families in a climactic convention closing.

BUSH: Prime-time speaker

When Bush is criticized as uncaring of domestic problems, he often points to his wife's work with AIDS sufferers, literacy programs and more.

The first lady's approval ratings routinely dwarf those of the president and others.

Says campaign spokesman Tony Mitchell: "She's an asset to the effort."

Barbara Bush to deliver convention address

Barbara Bush, still popular despite the plunge in her husband's approval ratings, will deliver a prime-time address at the Republican National Convention next month, Republicans said yesterday.

The 67-year-old first lady will be surrounded on the podium at the Astrodome by her five children and 12 grandchildren and the remarks will stress the importance of family life.

LAUGHING UNTIL THEY CRY AT BUSH COMEDY CENTRAL

LORD knows any Republican working for George Bush's re-election campaign these days has plenty to scream about.

Like the never-say-die push to dump Dan Quayle. Or yesterday's California poll showing Bush trailing by a huge 34 points. Or yesterday's George Will column in The Washington Post telling Bush to retire from office.

So Bush campaign insiders say they weren't surprised when a 4-foot inflatable object recently showed up plopped in the seat of Bush campaign chairman Bob Teeter, looking like a puffy 3-D version of Norwegian artist Edvard Munch's famous image of horror, "The Scream."

"We have no idea where it came from, I guess somebody else around here has a certain sense of gallows humor," giggled Bush campaign spokeswoman Torie Clarke.

"I don't think there's any panic going on around here, although maybe there should be," she added — then quickly footnoted: "Make sure people know that was a joke."

For amid the kind of political times that are trying men's souls, the Bush campaign's two top women — Clarke, 33, and deputy campaign manager Mary Matalin, 38 — seem to play a key role in using irreverent and insouciant wisecracks to keep things at Bush Central on an even keel.

"But don't you dare make anyone think the campaign is in trouble and these two twisted sisters are auditioning for Jay Leno," said Matalin, who beside her male colleagues are still just as funny (at least in private).

"All of us inmates do funny things — we fall back on humor as a way to cope."

Hence, the nickname of one Matalin aide — "Studmuffin." Studious David Tell, head of the GOP's opposition-research effort, is known as "Woody Allen." And every time campaign chairman Teeter does something "nerdy," someone drags out the galoshes he brought to work but never wears.

The staff regularly hobbles on its knees into the budget office to make the point that they're pleading for more dough. For a while, T-shirts ribbing Clinton — "He didn't inhale — NOT" — were a hit.

And, of course, Matalin — the political protege of the late Lee Atwater, Bush's 1988 strategist — gets teased about her "on hold" romance with Clinton's master political strategist, James Carville.

Yesterday was yet another bad day in the hell month of July for Bush Central. Rightwingers like ex-drug czar Bill Bennett were complaining in print about what's wrong with the campaign and whether it wouldn't be better if Bush just lost.

And Will — the conservative columnist who once ridiculed Bush as a "lapdog" with a tinny arf — was writing that if the president would just retire and go fishing with his grandchildren, maybe the GOP could win.

BARBARA BUSH
Convention-al wisdom.

"There's a bitter joke making the rounds among Republicans," Will wrote. "What is the difference between John Gotti and George Bush? Answer: Gotti has at least one conviction."

Matalin shrugged. "It's not like George Will has ever been a friend of George Bush," she remarked drily.

"As the other side likes to say, these polls [with Bill Clinton way ahead of Bush] are soufflé. Anybody who is reacting off these polls is nuts. You have to just buckle your seat belt."

DEBORAH ORIN

INSIDE WASHINGTON

But what about all those fair-weather Bush friends in the GOP who are now fretting aloud — to reporters — about whether he should run and what's wrong with the guy who once stood at 90 percent in polls?

"I get so ragged out when I see these people whining," Matalin said. "Those people who have time to sit on the phone and bitch [to the press] are not doing their part."

What about Sen. Alfonse D'Amato (R-N.Y.) and his speculation that perhaps Bush won't run or Quayle will be replaced?

"[D'Amato] has a very stiff, competitive election, and he may be in this mind warp that leads him to jump on this ephemeral bandwagon, but that's not how elections are won," Matalin said.

And yet, she admits, at times the pressures get to her, too.

"I've ground my teeth to the gums. I've lost 15 pounds. Do I get up in the morning and say my prayers? Yes. Do I get home every night and not feel like eating? Yes."

One complaint that does come out loud from within Bush Central, though, is that the campaign lacks discipline, what with its leadership divided among the triumvirate of Teeter, adviser Charley Black and campaign chairman Fred Malek.

"Every day there's a new bright idea here, but the fact is, a winning campaign turns on just a few issues, and you need the discipline to stay bored in on them," sighs one (male) Bush campaign strategist.

"There are no silver bullets. You dig yourself out one day at a time. And a successful campaign has to be an enlightened dictatorship."

The long-awaited dictator — some Republicans dub the current on-hold campaign mode as "Waiting for Godot" — is, of course, Secretary of State James Baker.

Meanwhile, Lord is that another strong woman in the Bush camp — first lady Barbara Bush — will be a star player at next month's GOP convention, giving a prime-time speech surrounded by her five kids and 12 grandchildren.

Mrs. Bush is said to plan to talk about family values — no doubt pointing up the contrast with Hillary Clinton, who made headlines by complaining she could "have stayed home, baked cookies and had teas."

Good polls or bad, you can always count on George Bush to get goofy. Take this sidelight from a Michigan cookie-plant speech where Bush was painting himself as the only guy who can be trusted to have "the guts" to stand up to bullies:

"Starting today, I will not only argue passionately that broccoli's benefits are overblown but that sugar waters should be one of the four essential ingredients in a healthy diet."

Wed 29-July-92 19:47 EDT

By Irwin Arief

WASHINGTON, July 29, Reuter - Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton travelled to the site of President George Bush's 1988 "Read my lips. No new taxes" pledge on Wednesday to pitch a plan for economic revitalisation as Bush began an advertising blitz with an appeal to Ross Perot backers.

"Don't read my lips. Read my plan," Clinton told a rally at the Superdome sports arena in New Orleans, where he said Bush's "trail of broken promises and violated trust began" four years ago.

Bush opened a two-week multi-million dollar advertising campaign with an open letter to former supporters of Perot, the Texas billionaire who ran an independent campaign for president until dropping out of the race two weeks ago.

Perot's "recent decision not to run has left a void. That's why in these days following his withdrawal, I'm asking for your vote," Bush says in the full-page advertisement published in five major U.S. daily newspapers.

Since Perot's withdrawal, most of his voters seem to have gone over to Clinton's column, giving the Democratic ticket a huge lead in the polls less than three weeks before the Republican National Convention opens in Houston on August 17.

A pair of polls on Wednesday had some more glum news for the president in the most populous U.S. state.

The prestigious Field Poll gave Clinton 62 per cent of the vote in California to 28 per cent for Bush and 10 per cent undecided, giving the Democrat a 34 percentage point lead.

Former Perot backers supported Clinton over Bush by 68 per cent to 17 per cent -- a four-to-one margin.

A second poll in the state by Fairbank, Maullin & Associates gave Clinton 52 per cent to 26 per cent for Bush and 21 per cent undecided.

Raising the rhetoric level, Bush deputy campaign manager Mary Matalin called Clinton "the Pinocchio of this political season," saying he was obfuscating his record as Arkansas governor.

"Bill Clinton got the name 'Slick Willie' from the people of Arkansas the old-fashioned way -- he earned it," Matalin said in the first of what the campaign promised would be a daily report on the Clinton record.

In an interview, Matalin also accused the Democratic Party of engineering "a whisper campaign of vicious rumours" about the health of the president and people close to him.

"It is our educated belief that it was too high of a coincidence that all the calls about Bush's health -- and most disgustingly, Mrs Quayle's health, Mrs. Bush's health and (Vice President Dan) Quayle getting off the ticket -- from reporters out of New York during the week of the Democratic convention week," Matalin said.

"Of course, there's no hard data on this but it all started out of the same place and came out at the same time," she said.

The Democrats promptly denied the accusation as "completely absurd."

Bush himself had brought up the rumours last Wednesday, noting at the opening of a Cabinet meeting that there were "a lot of crazy rumours floating around, aren't there?"

"We get phone calls: Barbara's sick, Marilyn Quayle's sick, I'm not feeling well. I don't know what's going on out there," he said, adding that his health was "pretty good."

Clinton and running mate Al Gore were preparing, meanwhile, for a second bus caravan following their successful first bus-bound campaign swing which began immediately following the close of the Democratic Convention.

Campaign aides said the second trip would start next Tuesday where the first one left off -- in St. Louis, Missouri -- and pass through small towns in Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota before ending next Thursday or Friday.

So successful was the caravan that even Vice President Quayle is considering a bus tour, spokesman David Beckwith said.

But Beckwith denied it would be a copycat act, saying Quayle had conducted campaign bus trips in the past.

Names & Faces

Palace Coup?

■ Looks as though the Queen of Mean's crown jewel is going to be yanked away. The luxury Helmsley Palace hotel in New York, where Leona Helmsley once struck fear in her subjects, has been assigned a receiver to oversee its management and sale by an arbitration panel. The 1,050-room hotel has been at the center of a two-year legal battle involving a group of limited partners—including Paul Newman—that had invested $16.8 million when the hotel was opened in 1981. The investors claim that Helmsley, who is serving a four-year federal prison sentence for fraud and tax evasion, and her husband, Harry, engaged in fraud and mismanagement. A Helmsley lawyer said the action did not deprive the couple of control, but meant the hotel was for sale unless the parties resolved their dispute. Reconciliation was unlikely, he said.

Mrs. Bush: Vanity Unfair

■ Barbara Bush apparently didn't appreciate her profile in the August Vanity Fair magazine, and said so in an interview with C-SPAN to be aired next month. "I thought it was very hurtful," she said. "It was very mean." The First Lady, however, sees a motive behind the story by Washington writer Marjorie Williams. "I'm going to tell you the honest truth. I really think it was to pull George Bush down. Not me."

Leona's premier property is slipping from her grasp, but she still has a roof over her head.

Herpes Case Squelched

■ Actor Robin Williams this week settled a $6 million lawsuit filed by a former cocktail waitress who said he gave her herpes, according to the San Francisco Daily

Journal. The suit, in which the plaintiff, Michelle Tish Carter, said Williams didn't disclose that he had the disease until she had contracted it, was settled confidentially a week before it was to go to trial. Williams had filed a cross-complaint against his former lover, saying her claim was a ruse to extort money from him. His attorneys argued unsuccessfully that even if she did get herpes from him, she assumed the risk by entering into a relationship with the comedian. Orkan logic?

End Notes

■ Rep. Craig James (R-Fla.) is the first member of Congress to donate bone marrow to an unrelated patient as part of the National Marrow Donor Program . . . If you're looking to buy Ice-T's "Body Count" album before the song "Cop Killer" is removed, you may have some problems getting it. “(The GOP) is where I have the ability to change minds. So this is where I’m working.”

— Mary Fisher, artist and Republican advocate for AIDS research

AIDS and the Republican family

Woman will tell her story at convention

By Patricia Edmonds
USA TODAY

BOCA RATON, Fla. — In the months after Mary Fisher learned she has the virus that causes AIDS, she ricocheted between numbness and rage, serenity and panic, between sobbing that her sons would be orphans and hoping some greater good could come from her crisis.

Then she set about finding it.

She sought support from dear family friends: George and Barbara Bush, Gerald and Betty Ford.

When Fisher speaks of AIDS as “a family disease,” she means it will invade countless homes as safe as the one she thought she had made for sons Max, 4, and Zachary, 2.

She also means AIDS must matter to her political family, the Republican fold, of which she’s a proud member: a former presidential aide in the Ford White House, a daughter of the Bush-Quayle campaign’s honorary finance chairman.

Now, by casting this epidemic in terms of her own life — her family, her mortality — Fisher hopes to draw more Republicans into her fierce battle against the disease she got from her ex-husband.

She’ll take that fight to Houston Aug. 19: Party leaders have granted her request to address the GOP convention.

When Fisher ascends the podium, she wants party mates to hear her plea for more education, more research, more compassion. And she wants them to see her — still healthy and vital — as “the future of HIV and AIDS,” once most common among intravenous drug users and gay men, but now spreading fastest among children, adolescents and women.

The Republican Party “is where I have access, and this is where I have the ability to change minds,” says Fisher, 44. “So this is where I’m working.”

Mary Fisher was born Republican. Her mother, Marjorie, was prominent in Detroit civic and social circles; father Max was a financier and philanthropist, counselor to three decades of presidents.

After college, she tried a few jobs: TV producer, off-Broadway producer, “advance man” in the White House. They left her without purpose.

In 1937, Fisher married a New York artist named Brian Campbell. She knew he had tried drugs; she did not know he had shared drug needles.

Within a year of the marriage, son Max was born; Zachary was adopted two years later. The family moved to Florida, and Mary indulged her artistic streak, working in handmade papers.

The career thrived, the marriage did

By Tom Sawyer, AP

ARTIST WITH AIDS VIRUS: Republican Mary Fisher will use the GOP convention podium to plea for more education, more research and more compassion.

not: She and Campbell divorced in 1990. On July 3, 1991, he called to say he had tested positive for HIV.

Two weeks later, so did she.

To her unspeakable relief, Max tested negative. The boys didn’t know why Mom kept crying, but Max clung to her and Zach tried to console her with his “night-night” — a cherished white baby blanket.

Her parents, four siblings and close friends were sick at her misfortune.

“When I went to tell President and Mrs. Ford, Betty and I sat and cried and hugged each other.” But after that, says Fisher, though she knew there would be more tears, it was time to act.

Since February, she has had meetings at the White House. She has urged GOP platform architects to include more than “a sliver” on AIDS, though the party still won’t reveal its position on the issue.

She has founded the Family AIDS Network, a national organization for people with HIV and AIDS and their loved ones. And she has addressed the a recent international conference.

Next month, she will address her party — much as her friend Elizabeth Glaser, also a mother with HIV, addressed last month’s Democratic Convention.

There are still hard spots: “When someone doesn’t know I’m infected, and talks to me about ‘Those kinds of people’” who get AIDS. But, says Fisher, she no longer searches to fill her days.

In the two weeks in 1991 between Campbell’s call and her own positive HIV test, Fisher worked feverishly on a series of paper-and-paint collages — whorls of grey and silver, red, abundant black. The art of despair, one could guess — but Fisher says just the opposite.

“To me,” she says, “this looks like a lot of life. An effort to make life happen.”

Contrasting AIDS views

The Democrats spotlighted AIDS at their convention in New York by inviting prominent AIDS patients to speak.

Now, the Republicans have agreed to let one of their own — longtime party stalwart Mary Fisher — speak at their convention in Houston.

But the party’s candidates differ sharply on some AIDS issues likely to be debated during the presidential campaign.

BILL CLINTON

► Would implement the 30 recommendations of National Commission on AIDS, including national plan to fight AIDS, national prevention plan and expansion of health insurance.

► Supports local school education/prevention programs that include making condoms available and discussion of safe sex as well as abstinence.

► Would increase funding for AIDS research.

► Supports speeding up AIDS drug-approval process.

► Would consider a needle exchange program.

PRESIDENT BUSH

► Has not implemented AIDS panel recommendations.

► Commission criticized him for lack of leadership; Bush says commission is creature of Democratic Congress.

► Increased research funding from $635 million in 1988 to $1.2 billion in 1992.

► Allowed funding for prevention programs to drop slightly in 1992.

► Thinks school prevention programs should stress abstinence; local officials should decide condom availability.

► Has greatly expedited approval of AIDS drugs.

► Opposes needle exchange.

► Backed addition of people with AIDS/HIV to Americans with Disabilities Act.

► Has said AIDS patients should be treated with dignity and compassion.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

July 28, 1992

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST DD

FROM: BOBBIE KILBERG BK
MARK FRANTZ MF

SUBJECT: TEXAS

I. Correspondence

State Representative Kent Grusendorf (R-Arlington) expressed his concern over Secretary Cheney's reluctance to continue with the V-22 Osprey program.

State Senator Teel Bivens (R-Amarillo) and Calhoun County Judge Howard Hartzog asked you to declare Carson, Hutchinson, and Calhoun counties disaster areas as a result of several devastating tornadoes (you declared them disaster areas on July 2nd).

Groves Mayor Sylvester Moore forwarded a copy of a resolution addressing unfunded environmental mandates forced upon municipal governments.

Laredo City Secretary Gustavo Guevara forwarded copies of City Council resolutions which support and endorse the six education goals of America 2000 and the White House Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanic Americans.

El Paso Mayor William Tilney asked that the condition of the environment along the U.S.-Mexican border be made a top funding priority.

Dawson Mayor Wayne S. Smith forwarded a list of 100 questions about the Texas High Speed Rail Authority.

II. Discussion

A. Texas State Government

As you are well aware, the state operates on a two year budget cycle and the legislature meets bi-annually. The legislature did not sit in regular session this year and thus Governor Richards did not deliver a State of the State address. The legislature did hold a special session in January to finish the redistricting process.

Please note that early projections estimate that the shortfall for the next budget cycle, 1994-6, will total approximately $5 billion.

B. Unemployment Rates

For June 1992, Texas' unemployment rate was 8.2 percent, up 2.4 percent from a year before. In the City of Dallas, the rate for May of 1992 was 7.0 percent, an increase of 1.2 percent from May of 1991.

C. Superconducting Super Collider (SSC)

On this trip to Texas, you will be visiting the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) site located in Waxahachie.

As you know, Congressman Dennis Eckert (D-OH) introduced an amendment to the Energy and Water Development Appropriations bill for FY 1993, to strike the funding for the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC). The amendment was carried by a vote of 232 to 181.

Also please note that the Senate Appropriation Committee appropriated $550 million for the SSC in FY 1993, last week. The bill now awaits full floor action.

D. Exports/NAFTA

Texas exports reached $41 billion in 1990 (the latest year figures are available). This figure represents a 63 percent increase above 1987 levels and it ranks Texas second nationwide, in total value of exports, behind only California.

The state's two largest trading partners are Mexico and Canada. From 1987 to 1990, trade with Mexico doubled to $13.3 billion, while trade with Canada increased from $2.1 billion to $3.4 billion.

Texas' leading exports are chemicals, computers and industrial machinery, electric and electronic equipment, transportation equipment, and refined petroleum products.

The state's agricultural industry generally supports the North America Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Gains in the trade of grains and meat products should be significant. However, those gains will have to offset anticipated losses in the citrus and winter vegetable industries. These two industries are extremely concerned about NAFTA, specifically the phase-out of U.S. import tariffs with Mexico.

To address their concerns, the Department of Agriculture is seeking to include in NAFTA a special safeguard provision for agriculture which would enable the U.S. to react quickly to sudden increases in imports of sensitive products, such as citrus and winter vegetables, during a transition period.

Please note that Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry (R) has already formed a Select Committee on NAFTA, made up of members of the Texas agricultural industry.

E. Summer Youth Employment and Training Funds

On June 19, 1992, Secretary Martin announced that the state of Texas would receive over $40 million (from the $400 million total appropriated for the 50 states) for Summer Youth Employment and Job Training Programs.

From the $100 million available to the nation's 75 largest cities, Texas cities received:

Houston -- $3.48 million	Dallas -- $2.39 million
San Antonio -- $1.94 million	El Paso -- $1.62 million
Fort Worth -- $1.23 million	Austin -- $673,530
Corpus Christi -- $575,180	Arlington -- $290,934

F. Dallas Housing Authority

The Dallas Housing Authority's Executive Director is Mr. Alphonso Jackson, whom you have appointed to your Commission on America's Urban Families and who also served on Secretary Kemp's National Commission on Severely Distressed Housing in 1989. The Dallas Housing Authority manages 6,958 units of public housing.

The Walker vs. HUD civil rights case, which challenged the alleged discriminatory practices of the City of Dallas and the Dallas Housing Authority during the last half century, has been in litigation since 1985. Under a series of consent decrees, more than 2,600 units of public housing were to be leveled in the West Dallas area.

However, Secretary Kemp has worked out an agreement (called the Sextant Plan) in order to save 2,000 of those units for renovation. Under the plan, the Dallas Housing Authority will set aside monies from its Grant Rehabilitation funds for the specific purpose of renovating the 2,000 saved units.

Please note that this proposed agreement must be brought before the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals. The Justice Department intends to present the plan to the court within the next two months. If the plaintiffs formally consent to the plan, the issue will be resolved.

G. Lead Contamination in West Dallas

The West Dallas Lead Superfund Site has been contaminated for years by a lead smelter. Clean-up of the site has been stymied by disposal of the contaminated soil. The hazardous soil has been transported to a licensed facility in Peoria, Illinois. Until April 21st of this year, the non-hazardous soil had been shipped to a landfill in Monroe, Louisiana.

On that date, a Louisiana judge issued a temporary restraining order which blocked further shipments to the Monroe landfill. An alternative site was then subcontracted in Avalon, Texas but Ellis County and the cities of Italy and Ennis opposed shipment of the non-hazardous material to the Avalon site. They sought, and were granted, temporary restraining orders denying transportation through their jurisdictions [please note that the Waxahachie site you are visiting today is located in the heart of Ellis County].

On May 28, a Federal Judge in Dallas issued a temporary restraining order against the three Texas communities, thereby allowing access through the communities on route to the Avalon site. The temporary restraining order was extended indefinitely on June 15.

Please note that no hearing date has been set on the use of the Louisiana site.

H. Dallas County Commissioner John Wiley Price

Dallas community and civic leaders had expressed deep concern that a guilty verdict in the misdemeanor assault trial of African-American Dallas County Commissioner John Wiley Price would result in violence. Commissioner Price had been charged with misdemeanor assault for allegedly breaking the ankle of a carpenter on the set of the film Ruby, during a scuffle last August.

On May 11th, the jury in the case rendered a verdict of not guilty. The next day, a group of Price supporters marched on the county court building to protest against Dallas District Attorney John Vance for prosecuting Price. Vance was accused by the group of being racist and of having a personal vendetta against Price.

Please note that Commissioner Price still faces two felony charges on allegations of rape and assault, two misdemeanor assault charges, and a charge of criminal trespass from separate incidents.

I. Department of Labor Grants

On June 30th, the Texas Department of Aging and the Senior Texans Employment Program received approximately $4.4 million in grants from the Older Americans Act to employ individuals in part-time jobs at senior citizen centers, schools, hospitals, and centers for the handicapped.

J. Surface Transportation Funding

Texas's FY 1992 apportionment is estimated at just over $1 billion, which is up from $772 million the year before. Through June, Texas had obligated 83 percent of its Federal-aid highway funds.

Under last year's Inter-modal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA), Texas will receive over $6.88 billion from FY 1992 through FY 1997.

K. Drugs/"Weed & Seed"

In the Dallas area, crack cocaine is the drug of choice and its abuse is increasing at an alarming rate. Problems in Dallas are compounded by the fact that there is no identified county or city official tasked with the responsibility of coordinating supply and demand control activities in the Dallas area.

PAGE SIX

There are two designated Weed and Seed sites in Texas: one in the City of San Antonio and the other in Ft. Worth. Awards for Phase I funding have already been made, and the applicants are now able to draw upon the funding. Full-fledged "weeding" activities have already begun at both locations, as well as preliminary "seeding" activities.

L. Education/Dallas 2000

The Dallas Superintendent of Schools, Marvin Edwards, oversees a total of 190 public schools, which enroll approximately 130,000 students. Currently, there is no statewide choice plan available in Texas, although several districts have magnet or alternative schools.

On April 29, 1992 Deputy Secretary David Kearns travelled to Dallas to participate in the official announcement of Dallas 2000 with Mayor Steve Bartlett and Mr. Edwards.

Please note that the head of the State Board of Education, Carolyn Crawford, has recently suggested a rollback of the state's eight-year-old "no-pass, no-play" rule, which was championed by Ross Perot during the statewide education reform drive he chaired in 1984. Ms. Crawford proposed allowing students who fail classes to participate in extra-curricular activities and practices but not in competitions. It is her belief that this will help keep students out of trouble.

M. Public School Finance

The public school finance situation is so tenuous that Governor Richards had contemplated calling the legislature into special session last month. Instead, she chose to postpone the session until after the November elections. The exact date is undetermined at this time but it will have to be before January of 1993, when the legislature will convene for its regularly scheduled session.

The funding question began with the Edgewood vs. Kirby lawsuit which culminated in the current plan being ruled unconstitutional by both the Texas State Supreme Court and by a Federal judge because it discriminated against property-poor school districts. In response, the legislature approved a plan in 1991 which redirected funds from rich to poor districts. Shortly after the bill became law, wealthy districts protested, filed suit and the state supreme court ruled in their favor, giving the legislature until June of 1993 to develop an appropriate constitutional solution. There are at least ten different legislative solutions that have been proposed, none of which have enough votes for passage. The Governor's latest proposal to even the disbursement is to consolidate local business property taxes into a central pool that would be used for state-wide distribution, while continuing district taxation on residential and agricultural properties. Her plan has modest support in the legislature.

N. Head Start

In the Dallas area, Head Start programs serve approximately 1,655 children and families. Total Federal funding is roughly $6.5 million.

O. Texas Department of Regulatory Services

On September 1st, the Texas Department of Regulatory Services (which was created by the Texas Legislature) will begin operating. This new State agency is designed to improve care for children, the elderly and the disabled.

The Child Protective Service Division of the Texas Department of Human Service (TDHS), which was responsible for oversight of child abuse and neglect cases, will be transferred to this new agency. Due to some cases of child fatalities, the TDHS has received negative publicity. It is anticipated that with the creation of the new agency, greater emphasis will be placed on children and families within Texas.

P. Edwards Aquifer

On April 15, 1992 the Texas Water Commission declared the Edwards Aquifer an underground river subject to regulation. Traditionally, groundwater in Texas has been the property of the landowner. This is the first time an aquifer has been subject to the Commission's regulations and it is likely to cause significant public outrage.

The Edwards Aquifer serves as the primary water source for the City of San Antonio, which has been fighting with agricultural interests over the amount of water withdrawal. Nevertheless, both the city and the agricultural industry oppose the Water Commission on their declaration.

PAGE EIGHT

Further complicating this issue is the Sierra Club's lawsuit against the Interior Department for failure to enforce the Endangered Species Act. There are several aquatic species that depend on the springs which feed into the Edwards Aquifer. The Sierra Club wants the amount of water withdrawn from those springs regulated to protect the species.

The state and local governments have expressed their hope that this matter can be resolved without Federal intervention. The Fish and Wildlife Service has informed us that their recent discussions with the Texas Water Commission have been positive and that an out-of-court settlement is likely. A hearing date is scheduled for August 10th, in Midland.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: RONALD C. KAUFMAN
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

FROM: WALTER WHITE
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
OFFICE OF POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: TEXAS POLITICAL BRIEFING

1992 POLITICAL OUTLOOK

There are two statewide races in Texas in 1992 -- the Presidential and Railroad Commission elections.

In the Railroad Commission GOP primary, Barry Williamson, son-in-law of BUSH-QUAYLE National Finance Chairman Bobby Holt, defeated Carol Rylander and will challenge Democrat incumbent Lana Guererra in November. The Republican primary was quite competitive, although Williamson's strong campaign and finance committee proved to be the difference. BUSH-QUAYLE General Campaign Chairman Bob Mosbacher hosted a fundraising reception for Williamson at his Washington home in 1991. Guererra was appointed to the Commission by Governor Ann Richards.

Texas will have thirty two electoral votes in the 1992 Presidential election -- the third largest bloc in the nation behind California and New York. Texas' Presidential primary was held on March 10, 1992, in conjunction with Super Tuesday. Both Pat Buchanan and David Duke qualified for the Republican primary ballot. The Texas Presidential primary results are as follows:

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY:	President Bush	70%
	Pat Buchanan	24%
	David Duke	3%
DEMOCRAT PRIMARY:	Bill Clinton	67%
	Paul Tsongas	18%
	Jerry Brown	6%

TEXAS POLITICAL BRIEFING
PAGE TWO

Neither Duke nor Buchanan had any credible organization in Texas. All 57 members of the Republican Legislative Caucus endorsed the President. In addition, U.S. Senator Phil Gramm serves as Honorary Chairman of the Texas BUSH-QUAYLE campaign, with State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison and Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry serving as Honorary Co-Chairmen. Jim Oberwetter and Barbara Patton are the Texas Co-Chairmen; Kevin Moomaw is the state Executive Director.

Before withdrawing from the Presidential race on July 16th, Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot had officially qualified for the Texas general election ballot. Perot's national headquarters were based in Dallas, formerly employing over 150 paid staff.

The most recent statewide poll on the Presidential race in Texas was conducted by the Houston Post on July 7-9, one week before Perot ended his candidacy. The poll showed Ross Perot leading with 34%, the President receiving 27%, and Clinton trailing in third with 22%.

Jim Oberwetter and Fred Meyer, Chairman of the Texas State GOP, have been very active in attempting to coopt the support of former Perot activists for the President's re-election campaign. Republican elected officials and Bush-Quayle operatives in the state toured all 12 of Perot's campaign offices in Texas immediately following Perot's withdrawal announcement in order to garner the support of Perot's former grassroots activists.

During a July 23rd appearance in Houston, Governor Clinton vowed to support the Brady bill and stated that he favored strict gun control measures in order to reduce crime. Gun control has long been a very salient issue in Texas politics. According to 1988 exit polls, Mike Dukakis' public support for gun control was a major reason why many Texas voters refused to support him.

The BUSH-QUAYLE ticket carried Texas by a 56% to 43% margin in the 1988 Presidential election.

There are two general election races in 1992 which appear to be quite competitive. In the first congressional district, Democratic incumbent Charles Wilson is locked in an extremely competitive race with Republican nominee Donna Peterson. Peterson is a consultant and was one of the first female graduates of West Point. Although the district leans Democratic, Wilson won by 55% in 1990. Moreover, he is said to have posted 81 overdrafts at the House Bank including one check which was a substantial loan to his campaign. Most believe that the race is too close to call at this point.

In the 25th Congressional district, incumbent Mike Andrews faces a strong challenge from Republican nominee and former Nixon White House official Dolly Madison McKenna. McKenna is trying to capitalize on the "Year of the Woman" theme promulgated in the media. By all reports, the race will be the most expensive congressional race in Texas this year. Andrews has amassed over $1 million in aggregate receipts, and McKenna's fundraising is progressing well.

RECENT TRIP INFORMATION

The President and Mrs. Bush attended the Republican State Convention in Texas June 19-20, 1992. The President's keynote speech to the Texas delegates served as a tremendous boost to the party faithful. More than 12,000 Republican enthusiasts attended the speech which received tremendous coverage both in print and on television. During the convention, Rob Mosbacher and Jim Oberwetter co-hosted a meeting of the Victory '92 Texas county chairmen. Hundreds of Bush/Quayle loyalists were on hand during this "strategy session" to get the latest campaign marching orders.

Republican leaders held a Victory '92 "strategy session" in Dallas recently to draft campaign strategy and devise voter programs. Plans are set for more than 50 volunteer phone bank sites to be positioned across the state with more than 300 phone lines running on behalf of the Republican ticket.

REAPPORTIONMENT UPDATE

Texas will gain three additional Congressional seats in 1992. The Democrat-controlled state legislature passed a plan for reapportionment -- which Republican Party Chairman Fred Meyer immediately challenged as a bogus gerrymander. Subsequent to the legislative plan, the state (with Governor Richards' approval) submitted a revised map, scrapping the initial proposal.

The U.S. Justice Department recently cleared the Congressional plan submitted by the Democrat-controlled legislature -- over objections that the proposals were illegally drawn and are in violation of the Voting Rights Act. The Congressional plan will stand as submitted by the Democrats.

Deliberations on the legislative districts for the state assembly have been more contentious. On December 17, 1991, the Texas Supreme Court threw out the legislature's senate plan, favoring a plan written by a three judge panel (the Nowlin plan). This plan is supported by the Republicans who believe the ruling will enable Republicans to pick up at least four state senate seats.

The United States Supreme Court ruled on June 29, 1992 that the Nowlin plan would stand. There had been four appeals by the Democratic Attorney General, the Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund and Education Fund in an effort to overturn this plan.

Presidential Support, Presidential Opposition: House

1. Bush Support Score, 1991. Percentage of 111 recorded votes in 1991 on which President Bush took a position and on which a representative voted "yes" or "nay" in agreement with the president's position. Failures to vote lowered both support and opposition scores.

2. Bush Opposition Score, 1991. Percentage of 111 recorded votes in 1991 on which President Bush took a position and on which a representative voted "yes" or "nay" in disagreement with the president's position. Failures to vote lowered both support and opposition scores.

3. Bush Support Score, 1991. Percentage of 111 recorded votes in 1991 on which President Bush took a position and on which a representative was present and voted "yes" or "nay" in agreement with the president's position. Opposition scores, not listed here, are the inverse of the support score; i.e., the opposition score is equal to 100 percent minus the individual's support score.

PHONE INTERVIEW WITH THE TEXAS STATE NETWORK

DATE: Thursday, July 30, 1992
TIME: 9:15 a.m. E.D.T. (8:15 a.m. C.D.T.)
LOCATION: Aboard Air Force One
FROM: MARLIN FITZWATER Marlin

I. PURPOSE/BACKGROUND:

The Campaign recommends this interview. Torie Clarke will be aboard Air Force One to brief you.

The theme of the phone interview will be to underscore the importance of research and development, and to campaign for Congressional budget support for the Superconducting Super Collider project that is key to the local economy. The Superconducting Super Collider is one of the largest research projects undertaken by the Administration with broad base support from the scientific society. In addition, the message in Texas will focus on trade and the NAFTA agreement, science and technology, the Energy Bill as it relates to the oil industry, and your strong record in these areas.

You can expect questions on the defense industry in Texas, specifically, Wednesday's announcement that General Dynamics will lay off 5,800 workers; the current state of the Texas economy; and Ross Perot.

The Texas State Network (TSN) has 131 affiliates throughout Texas. TSN regularly conducts interviews with both national and state political officials.

TOUR OF THE SUPERCONDUCTING SUPER COLLIDER FACILITY

DATE: July 30, 1992
LOCATION: Waxahachie, Texas
TIME: 9:55 am - 10:20 am
FROM: EDE HOLIDAY

I. PURPOSE

To demonstrate your continuing support for the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) by touring three sites at the facility: a magnetic delivery shaft, the accelerator systems string test facility, and the magnet development laboratory.

II. BACKGROUND

The SSC will be the most powerful particle accelerator in the world and the largest scientific instrument ever built when it is completed in 1999. Two rings of superconducting magnets in an underground tunnel 54-miles in circumference will guide beams of protons in opposite directions as they are accelerated to nearly the speed of light. The beams will collide with enormous energy-creating showers of particles, some never before seen. Scientists from all over the world will study these particles to learn more about the fundamental nature of matter and energy.

The creation of the SSC is one of the cornerstones of your program for increased Federal investment in basic research which will improve our country's scientific and technological base, lead to new products with broad societal benefits, and advance higher education through the participation of universities throughout the country.

The SSC holds the potential for new breakthroughs in science, technology, and education. The SSC will utilize the first massive, industrial manufacture of superconducting magnets. This experience will help in the development of magnetically levitated high-speed trains, energy storage systems for fuel conservation, and low loss electrical power systems. Many Americans are already familiar with the first commercial success resulting from the use of these advanced magnetic properties in the development of Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) technology.

Perhaps the most significant potential application of these superconducting magnets is the generation of safe, dependable power in the 21st century through controlled thermonuclear fusion. Such advances would lead to cleaner production of electricity and thus reduced air pollutants, less dependence on fossil fuels, and diminished concerns about safety and waste storage resulting from the use of today's nuclear fission technology.

The SSC already has had substantial economic benefits. Over 19,000 contracts have been awarded to businesses and universities around the country. Especially significant is the participation of small businesses from 40 states in helping to build the SSC. The FY 1993 budget request will create over 7,000 first-tier jobs throughout the country. When complete, the SSC will employ over 2,500 scientists, engineers, and technicians and serve as host to an additional 500 visiting scientists.

The SSC project is on schedule and within budget and the Department of Energy is committed to completing the SSC within its $8.25 billion baseline cost. Foreign partners are expected to contribute substantially to the construction and operation of the project, as well as to the experimental program. To date, approximately $1 billion has been spent on the SSC for research and development, purchases of equipment, design, and construction. A staff of 2,000 is working at the laboratory. Construction began in FY 1990 with completion scheduled for 1999. Tunneling will begin this fall.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

July 29, 1992

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST DD
FROM: BOBBIE KILBERG BK
DONNA BARRON DB
SUBJECT: CALIFORNIA

I. Recent Correspondence

Assemblymen Dean Andal (R), Stan Statham (R), Chris Chandler (R) and State Senator Patrick Johnston (D) wrote to express their concern about the fire danger to national forests caused by the California drought. In the belief that the U.S. Forest Service is moving too slowly to mitigate the possibility of disastrous forest fires, they requested that the White House directly oversee the Forest Service's efforts and that you provide an emergency declaration for California that would permit expedited salvage and thinning operations.

Mr. Charles R. Miller of the Concow-Maidu tribe wrote on behalf of federally recognized Indian tribes in California, asking you to end discrimination against California's Native Americans by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. He complains that smaller "rancherias" cannot compete for federal funds against larger, well-organized tribes in other states.

II. Discussion

A. Fiscal

The state budget continues to rank as the most important issue in California today.

Because Governor Wilson and the Legislature are deadlocked on passing a new state budget, the State of California currently cannot pay any of its bills. In the interim, California issued "Registered Warrants" (IOU's) until a budget is passed. California's current fiscal year commenced on July 1, 1992.

CALIFORNIA

Three of California's largest banks, the Bank of America, Wells Fargo Bank, and the Union Bank, have announced they will only accept IOU's dated through July 31, 1992, and they must be deposited by August 5, 1992, to be valid. None will be accepted after August 5.

In order to maintain state government operations, Wilson and the state legislature must cut spending or raise taxes by $11 billion to balance the State's FY 1993 budget. At present, they are trying to formulate a stopgap budget plan that would raise $6 billion.

Educational funding remains the key sticking point in the budget negotiations. Governor Wilson has called for a $2.3 billion reduction in funding levels for public education; Democrats in the Legislature have agreed to only $650 million in cuts.

As part of his proposal for reducing educational funding, Wilson has called for a three-month increase in the entrance age for children entering kindergarten, which would allow the State to reduce enrollment by 110,000, saving an estimated $335 million. Democratic legislators have opposed Wilson's proposal and plan to mount an ad campaign to defeat it. Wilson claims that 22 other states have already instituted the same enrollment procedures.

B. Welfare Reform Proposal

California has one of the nation's highest welfare AFDC grants. Governor Wilson has proposed a welfare reform proposal designed to encourage personal responsibility and independence. His plan will save about $600 million in FY 1992-93.

On July 13, the Department of Health and Human Services signed welfare waivers that permit California to implement the Governor's proposal. However, under the California law the Governor must place the welfare reform initiative on the November ballot.

Education incentives in the plan include awards of $50 cash and higher grant levels to AFDC teens who remain in school. The Governor's proposal also incorporates work incentives through an overall grant reduction, with a provision for "transition grants" for a maximum of six months. In addition, minors who have children will receive public support only if they remain at their parents' home.

CALIFORNIA

To reduce migration to California solely to seek higher public assistance benefits, the maximum AFDC payment level for a family who has resided in California for less than one year would be based upon the payment rate of the state of their previous residency.

The Governor's plan also will double child support payments in five years. AFDC recipients will not receive extra cash grants for additional children, but the babies will receive food and medical care.

C. WARD VALLEY LOW-LEVEL RADIOACTIVE WASTE FACILITY

Governor Pete Wilson is seeking your assistance in expediting an application by the State of California to purchase federally-owned land for a proposed low-level radioactive waste facility at Ward Valley, 23 miles west of the City of Needles in San Bernardino County. The State will soon submit a revised application to the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management (BLM) for approximately 1000 acres and the necessary easements.

The land is remote and currently undeveloped, and the initial opinion of the Regional BLM affirms the suitability of Ward Valley for a waste disposal facility of this nature. The Governor is concerned that if the site is not secured for the waste facility, certain Bio-Tech industries will be unable to continue to operate in California.

D. Unemployment

California's seasonally adjusted unemployment level for June, 1992, stood at 9.5 percent, an increase of 1.4 percent over the same period in 1991, and a .8 percent increase from May, 1992.

The most current not-seasonally adjusted unemployment figures for the Anaheim/Santa Ana/Garden Grove metropolitan area show an unemployment rate of 5.9 percent in May, an increase of 1.1 percent over the same period in 1991. For the Riverside/San Bernadino area, the figures show an unemployment rate of 10.5 percent in May, an increase of 1.2 percent over the same period in 1991.

E. CORPORATE AID PLEDGED FOR RIOT-TORN AREAS

General Motors and its subsidiary Hughes Aircraft Corporation pledged $18 million to revitalize the Los Angeles economy after the riots. The aid plan included a pledge to move an existing Hughes business unit into the riot zone and $1.2 million to fund educational programs at inner-city schools.

F. Summer Employment Opportunities

Secretary Lynn Martin announced on June 19 that an additional $500 million will be distributed nationally under the 1992 Summer Youth Employment and Training Program. California will receive a total of $65,611,568 from this program.

As a follow-up to that announcement, the President's Task Force on Los Angeles Recovery announced on June 25, 1992 the availability of a total of 35,000 Federally supported summer jobs for youth in Los Angeles County. This is more than double the number of jobs for youth provided last year.

G. Central Valley Project

The Federal Central Valley Project (CVP) is a massive system of 20 dams and reservoirs, canals, power plants, and other facilities, extending from the Cascade Range near Redding in the north to the plains along the Kern River near Bakersfield in the south. The project provides roughly 20 percent of California's developed water supply.

Governor Wilson has requested that the Federal Government turn over the Central Valley Irrigation Project (CVP) to the State of California. Secretary Lujan has publicly stated that he supports this request. The first meeting between Governor Wilson and Secretary Lujan regarding the transfer of the CVP from Federal to State ownership was held in late April.

The second meeting was held on July 27, in Denver, Colorado with representatives of the Department of the Interior and the State of California to address the terms of the transfer of the CVP. They discussed two options that have been developed to help with the transfer: 1) the Federal government would continue to operate the Project, but the State would provide annual directions for project operations that would be binding on The Bureau of Reclamation. 2) title to the Project would be transferred to the State, either on a phased or immediate basis, following the negotiation of reasonable terms and conditions.

Governor Wilson has appointed a public advisory committee to represent all parties interested in the CVP transfer.

H. Endangered Species

Among many species listed or being considered for proposed listing as threatened or endangered under the Endangered Species Act (ESA) in California are the Bald Eagle, the winter-run chinook salmon, the delta smelt, and the giant garter snake. Efforts to help these species will have a direct impact on water supplies to agricultural and municipal and industrial users.

Environmental interests are strongly supporting legislation sponsored by Senator Bill Bradley and Congressman George Miller to significantly modify Federal Central Valley Project contractual water allocations and operations to benefit these species. The result of these modifications would be reduced water availability to agricultural, municipal and industrial users in the Central Valley area.

On May 30, you indicated that the original Miller-Bradley legislation was unacceptable and that you preferred an alternative proposal by Senator Seymour. Negotiations between environmental groups and agricultural groups to forge a compromise bill are continuing.

The Northern Spotted Owl: California is drafting a statewide Habitat Conservation Plan that will allow the incidental taking of spotted owls. The state and several private companies are attempting to balance economic return through logging on private lands with preservation of the spotted owl.

Buried Toxic Waste: The FBI and the Highway Patrol raided the Inland Empire, an agricultural corporation, on Monday, July 27. The Los Angeles Times cited unconfirmed reports that the raid uncovered 6000-7000 used five-gallon containers of pesticides. If these reports prove true, a cattle feed yard on the property may be one of the most severely contaminated areas in Southern California.

I. The Environmental Protection Agency and Methyl Bromide

A coalition of environmental groups have petitioned the EPA for placement of methyl bromide on the list of Class 1 ozone-depleting chemicals as mandated by the Clean Air Act. Some disputes remain as to the extent of the harm actually caused by methyl bromide. Some environmental studies have estimated that methyl bromide depletes the stratospheric ozone layer 40 times as quickly as chlorofluorocarbons. The USDA supports a search for more scientific data on the effects of the fumigant. The California produce industry is extremely concerned about restrictions on methyl bromide, which is one of the most widely-used pesticides in the world. More than 80 major agricultural commodities depend on methyl bromide.

J. Water Supply

While California as a whole has received almost normal precipitation during the 1991-92 rainy season, the long-term drought has not been broken. However, the rainfall allowed you to announce on March 4, 1992 an increase in water allocations from 0 percent to 15 percent of their normal level to agricultural producers from the Central Valley Project (CVP). Since that time, the allocations have been further increased to 25 percent of the normal level.

K. WETLANDS

Many farmers in California are confused and concerned about the final definition of a wetland. They must currently rely on the 1989 Federal Manual for Identifying and Delineating Wetlands. EPA's recent redefinition of wetlands has been subject to a comment period which closed on January 21, 1992. Over 75,000 comments were received during that time. Because of the large volume of comments received, EPA anticipates its evaluation will be delayed. This is likely to cause additional concern among farmers.

Many problems with the 1989 Manual have been eliminated by exempting tilled land from consideration as wetlands; however, the overriding concerns of private property rights and government control with regard to wetlands continues to be a highly emotional issue.

CALIFORNIA

Governor Pete Wilson has informed the Administration of his concern that delineation standards must take the State's unique seasonal and erratic precipitation pattern into consideration. Governor Wilson also has urged a policy of no net loss of wetlands for California.

L. North American Free Trade Agreement

In general, California agricultural producers and processors are very supportive of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Expected gains in trade of rice, cotton, lumber, nuts, and deciduous fruits will more than offset some of the increase in competition in the citrus and winter vegetable sectors.

Some of California's citrus and winter vegetable industries are concerned about the impact of NAFTA on their operations because they are nervous about the phase-out of U.S. import tariffs with Mexico. They feel that without the current level of protection they will face increased competition.

Even with a phased reduction in tariff rates, it is possible that isolated instances of potentially injurious increases in imports could occur. To address this issue, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is seeking to include in the NAFTA agreement a special safeguard provision for agriculture to enable the United States to adjust quickly to sudden increases in imports of sensitive products during a transition period. This safeguard would be included in the agreement to help the federal government respond to the unique problems facing U.S. producers of import sensitive crops, such as citrus and winter vegetables.

M. EDUCATION

California 2000: Governor Wilson is supportive of AMERICA 2000 and has indicated his desire to bring California on board with the strategy. However, the Governor has not yet announced a statewide effort due to the enormous size of California and the need to devise a proposal best suited for the State.

New Curriculum Guidelines: Critics opposing new curriculum guidelines for health education protested to the state Department of Education early this week. The promotes sexual activity and homosexuality in teens, and presents the traditional family as only one of many equally viable options.

Indictment: Bill Honig, State Superintendent of Education, who was indicted on state felony conflict of interest charges last March, has accused the GOP of orchestrating a conservative plot to oust him. He was investigated by Attorney General Dan Lungren. The Los Angeles Times reported this story but dismissed Honig's fears as far-fetched.

O. Outer Continental Shelf

On May 1, 1992, the Department of the Interior's Minerals Management Service (MMS) announced its proposed final Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) leasing program for the 1992-1997 leasing cycle. The program does not include any blocks available for leasing off the California coast and does not address when, if at all, California blocks may be included in future planning cycles.

This represents a change from the draft proposal of February, 1991, which included 87 blocks in the Santa Maria Basin and Santa Barbara Channel. They were identified in your OCS announcement of June, 1990 as being potentially available for leasing after 1996, depending on results of additional studies. Your announcement simultaneously placed more than 99 percent of the California OCS under leasing moratoria until after the year 2000.

Removal of the 87 blocks was recommended by Governor Wilson.

P. Immigration

The San Diego Border Patrol Sector is geographically the smallest Border Patrol Sector in the Country, but it accounts for 50 percent of all Southern Border apprehensions, and 48 percent of the national apprehensions.

Border Patrol vehicle pursuit procedures have come under increasing scrutiny in Southern California since a June 2 accident in the small town of Temecula. A smuggler of illegal aliens, who was being followed by the Border Patrol, crashed his van into another vehicle near a school, killing four school children, a parent and one of thirteen illegal aliens whom he was transporting.

PAGE NINE

The repair of the border fence in San Ysidro, begun in March 1989, is nearing completion. Over 12 miles of the fence have been repaired, with another one and a half miles remaining to be fixed. Reinforcement and construction of the border fence has denied narcotic smugglers important terrain. In the first nine months of FY92, cocaine seizures tripled compared to the previous 12 months. More than 6,900 pounds of cocaine have been seized, compared to 682 pounds last year. More than 29,000 pounds of marijuana have been seized compared to 8,500 pounds last year.

P. Southern California Earthquake

On June 28, 1992, at 4:58 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time (PDT), California's strongest earthquake in 40 years occurred in the Mojave Desert about 90 miles east of Los Angeles. The quake measured 7.4 on the Richter Scale.

A second earthquake, with a magnitude of 6.5, centered near Big Bear Lake, California, about 20 miles west of the first earthquake's center, struck at 9:05 a.m. PDT that same day. At 3:14 a.m. PDT on June 29, 1992, a magnitude 5.6 earthquake occurred 75 miles northwest of Las Vegas and about 20 miles south of the Yucca Mountain Nuclear Waste Repository Site on the western edge of the Nevada Test Site. Minor damage was reported at facilities on the Nevada Test Site; no injuries were reported.

On July 2, 1992, you signed a disaster declaration for California and ordered Federal aid to supplement state and local recovery efforts in the area struck by earthquakes and continuing aftershocks on June 28 and 29. This action makes Federal funding available to affected individuals and local governments in San Bernardino County.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

July 28, 1992

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: RONALD C. KAUFMAN
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

FROM: WALTER WHITE
DEPUTY DIRECTOR
OFFICE OF POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: CALIFORNIA POLITICAL BRIEFING

1992 POLITICAL OUTLOOK

1992 will be a very crucial and expensive year politically in California. Voters will not only make their choice in the Presidential election, but in two U.S. Senate races, an unprecedented 52 House races, and a number of crucial elections for state-wide office as well. Political experts expect that approximately $150 million will be raised and spent by the Republican Party in these many campaigns.

Though the majority of registered voters in California are Democrats, the Bush-Quayle ticket carried the state by a 51% to 47% margin in the 1988 Presidential election.

Governor Pete Wilson serves as the 1992 Bush-Quayle Chairman for California. Chevron CEO and Team 100 member Ken Derr has agreed to be the 1992 Bush-Quayle Finance Chairman for Northern California. John Cronin serves as the 1992 Bush-Quayle Finance Chairman for Southern California.

Katie Boyd, Karl Samuelian, Lod Cook, Howard Leach, George Argyros, David Murdock, Don Bren, Margaret Brock, Yong C. Kim, and Alex Spanos all serve in leadership positions for the 1992 National Bush-Quayle Finance Committee.

In this election year, the state has a total of 201 delegates (3 from each Congressional District and 45 at large).

U.S. SENATE "A" RACE:

Alan Cranston's announcement of his impending retirement has left open a full (six year) Senate seat. On the Republican side, a bitter primary battle pitted conservative television commentator Bruce Herschensohn against moderate Congressman Tom Campbell (Palm Springs Mayor Sonny Bono was involved in the race as well, but never posed a serious threat to either of the other two candidates). The Herschensohn-Campbell face-off reflected a common theme in California this political year - the struggle between conservative and moderate Republicans to define the Party's ideological agenda. In this instance, the conservative (Herschensohn) won, though by a relatively small margin. Analysts cite low voter turnout as a critical factor in the conservatives' success, due primarily to the effectiveness of their registration and GOTV efforts.

Herschensohn will face Democrat Congresswoman Barbara Boxer in the general election. Boxer gained momentum as the primary season progressed, cruising past Lieutenant Governor Leo McCarthy and Congressman Mel Levine by comfortable margins. Her match-up with Bruce Herschensohn promises to be fiery as the two are relatively far apart ideologically and will probably polarize voters. Boxer's success is only one example of an electoral phenomenon in 1992 which has seen unprecedented numbers of women running for public office.

Herschensohn aired the first television commercials in this race beginning on July 22. In the ad, Herschensohn issues a challenge to Boxer for weekly debates on the issues until election day. The reaction from the Boxer camp has been negative, with the primary excuse given as Boxer's four-day-a-week commitment to be in Washington to serve in Congress.

The most recent statewide polling data available was done July 8-11 by Political/Media Research. With a 3.5% margin of error, it found:

Boxer:	51%
Herschensohn:	33%
undecided:	16%

CALIFORNIA POLITICAL BRIEFING

Recently released financial reports show total receipts and total expenditures from January 1, 1991 through June 30, 1992. This period includes activity before the primary election on June 2, 1992. The results were as follows:

Republicans:

Candidate	Total Receipts	Total Expenditures
Campbell	$5,057,936	$4,751,797
Herschensohn	$3,510,560	$3,446,167
Bono	$ 347,785	$ 345,408

Democrats:

Candidate	Total Receipts	Total Expenditures
Boxer	$5,611,301	$5,244,484
Levine	$7,204,465	$6,898,179
McCarthy	$2,983,943	$2,849,679

In both primaries, the highest spender per vote did not win the party nomination. Herschensohn spent $4.31 per vote to Campbell's $6.01 (while Bono only spent 86 cents per vote). Boxer spent $4.10 per vote to Levine's whopping $11.79 (while McCarthy used $3.19 per vote).

Herschensohn's campaign heads into the general election $473,173 in debt. However, it is very likely that he will receive $2.5 million in donations from the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee in the near future. Boxer, on the other hand, has $316,850 in her campaign treasury, not including the money that she will receive from national women's groups following the Democratic National Convention.

U.S. SENATE "B" RACE:

Though Pete Wilson was allowed to appoint John Seymour as his successor in the U.S. Senate upon assuming the governorship, Seymour is forced to face a special election this year in order to hold the seat until its natural expiration in 1994. Seymour easily held off a primary challenge from Congressman Bill Dannemeyer. Reinforcing a familiar theme, Dannemeyer emphasized his allegiance to true conservatism in an attempt to discredit his more moderate opponent. Though the moderate, Seymour, won in this case, the margin of his victory was disappointingly small for an incumbent U.S. Senator.

Able to gather just over 50% of the vote in a weak field, Seymour will face a difficult race in November. He may, however, be helped to some extent by the presence of Bruce Herschensohn on the Republican ticket. Herschensohn's appeal to conservatives is likely to stimulate extensive GOTV programs among this group of committed Republicans, and this could be of aid to Seymour if the prediction of continued low voter turn-out is realized.

Seymour's Democrat opponent will be former San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein. Feinstein won convincingly over State Controller Gray Davis and Joe Alioto, lending additional credence to the idea that 1992 is "The Year of the Woman" in politics. Feinstein enjoys considerable name identification state-wide, due primarily to the 1990 gubernatorial race in which she was narrowly defeated by Pete Wilson. As a reform-oriented, female candidate, Feinstein will be able to capitalize on two of the passions among the electorate this year - reforming government and electing more women to public office. While she is a self-styled "social liberal" and a "fiscal conservative", Seymour is a pro-choice, "moderate conservative." The two are much closer on many issues than Boxer and Herschensohn, and many analysts predict that their race will follow much the same course as the 1990 Wilson versus Feinstein gubernatorial battle.

The most recent statewide polling data available was done July 8-11 by Political/Media Research. With a 3.5% margin of error, it found:

Feinstein:	54%
Seymour:	36%
undecided:	10%

Recently released financial reports show total receipts and total expenditures from January 1, 1991 through June 30, 1992. This period includes activity before the primary election on June 2, 1992. The results were as follows:

Republicans:

Candidate	Total Receipts	Total Expenditures
Dannemeyer	$3,211,283	$3,197,926
Seymour	$4,792,347	$4,526,786

Democrats:

Candidate	Total Receipts	Total Expenditures
Davis	$2,612,879	$2,389,441
Feinstein	$4,510,548	$3,937,671

As in the other U.S. Senate race, the candidate who spent the most money per vote in the primary election did not receive the party nomination. Seymour defeated Dannemeyer spending $4.10 per vote to Dannemeyer's $5.98. Feinstein used $2.35 per vote to beat out Davis who used $2.52.

Seymour's campaign is slightly in debt, owing approximately $5,802 before the expected $2.5 million in donations from the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee is received. Not counting the money from national women's groups that she will receive following the Democratic National Convention, Feinstein's campaign has $451,456 available to spend.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES RACES:

In the only major upset among Republicans during the June primary, incumbent Congressman Robert Logomarsino (CD 22) was defeated by Michael Huffington. Dubbed "Perot by the Sea" because of his wealth, Huffington outspent Logomarsino 6 to 1 in a race that he won by only 5,000 votes. The $3 million spent by Huffington in the primary election means that the challenger spent an unprecedented $83.73 per vote to defeat the incumbent. There have been some reports that Logomarsino is considering a general election campaign as a write-in candidate at the urging of some local GOP leaders, including Satna Barbara GOP Chairwoman Dianna Bowers. However, it is believed that Logomarsino will decline to do so because he would not want to split the Republican vote and allow the Democrats to capture the seat.

Though there was some speculation that fellow incumbent Robert Dornan (CD 46) might have trouble with opponent Judith Ryan, he disposed of her by a very comfortable margin. As expected, incumbents Frank Riggs (CD 1), Elton Gallegly (CD 23), and Randy "Duke" Cunningham (CD 51) all withstood primary challenges.

For the open seat in Congressional District 36, Joan Milke-Flores received the Republican nomination over opponent Maureen Reagan.

STATE ASSEMBLY RACES:

The dominant theme of competition between conservative and moderate Republicans was nowhere more evident or more important than in California's State Assembly races. Though currently outnumbered 47-33, Republicans have a good chance of seizing control of California's Assembly as a result of a favorable reapportionment plan. However, attempts at fostering Party unity have been hampered by inability to reconcile ideological differences on issues like abortion and taxation. While conservative candidates have the support of strong organizers like the Christian Right to help promote their message, moderates in the state have received greater support from like-minded Governor Wilson.

In this year's primary, Wilson endorsed 19 Assembly candidates, many of whom were moderates running against conservatives. The Governor has declared the primary results a positive reflection of public support for his brand of Republicanism since 16 of the 19 candidates he backed were nominated. However, conservatives in the state insist that voters are increasingly attracted to the values which they have espoused, noting that Governor Wilson was directly involved in only 6 races, 3 of which saw the candidate whom he endorsed lose. With the majority of Republicans in the Assembly describing themselves as conservative and angry, and a determined moderate in the Governor's mansion, GOP politics in California continue to be divisive. The problem is underscored by the fact that $1.5 million of the $6 million that the State Party had hoped to use in the effort to end Democrat control of the Assembly was spent in costly primary battles between Republicans.

REAPPORTIONMENT UPDATE

California gained seven new Congressional seats in 1992. Because Governor Wilson and the California State Legislature did not agree on a redistricting plan, the California Supreme Court became responsible for a fair plan. The Special Masters, a three judge panel (2 Republicans and 1 Democrat) appointed by the State Supreme Court announced their initial redistricting plan on December 2, 1991.

The plan was open to public comment until December 29, 1991. After hearing public testimony, the Supreme Court adopted the Masters Plan in its entirety except for adding a greater percentage of Asian voters in two Los Angeles Assembly districts.

The Supreme Court announced their final plan on January 28, 1992. Overall, the plan overwhelmingly favors Republicans in the State Assembly, State Senate, and U.S. Congressional districts.

The following should be competitive races for the Republican Party in 1992: 6 to 8 Congressional seats, 6 State Senate seats, and 12 to 14 Assembly races.

Of the 7 new Congressional seats, 5 lean Republican because most of these seats are located in Republican growth areas. Republicans are expected to gain control of the State Assembly and have at least 26 of the 52 Congressional seats in 1992.

The plan creates numerous minority districts predominately in the Los Angeles area. This plan creates severe incumbent displacement, which will cause some Congressmen to be forced to run against each other. However, this displacement is far greater for Democrats than for Republicans.

Governor Wilson praised the Special Masters Plan for its fairness for both Republicans and Democrats.

1991 SPECIAL ELECTIONS RESULTS

California held special elections on May 14, 1991 and September 17, 1991.

On September 17, 1991, Republicans held onto both Assemblymen Tim Leslie (R-Carmichael) and John Lewis' (R-Orange County) seats, who were elected to the State Senate in the May 14 special election. In Assembly District 5, Republican B.T. Collins defeated Libertarian David McCann and in Assembly District 67, Republican Micky Conroy defeated Democrat Greg Ramsey. Collins was endorsed by Governor Wilson and the RNC contributed $70,000 to his race during the primary election at the request of Governor Wilson.

On May 14, 1991, Republicans won three special elections. In Senate District 35 (Orange County), Republican Assemblyman John Lewis defeated Democrat Francis Hoffman. This seat was vacated by the appointment of John Seymour to the U.S. Senate. In Senate District 1 (Sacramento), Republican Assemblyman Tim Leslie defeated Democrat Patti Mattingly. The seat was previously held by John Doolittle (R), who was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives. In Assembly District 26 (Stockton),

PAGE 8

Republican Dean Andal defeated Patti Garamandi. Andal will succeed Patrick Johnston (D) who resigned after being elected to the State Senate.

1990 ELECTION RESULTS

GOVERNOR:

Perhaps the most important victory for Republicans nationwide in 1990 was the election of Pete Wilson as Governor of California. A massive GOTV effort combined with a successful TV advertising campaign assisted Wilson in defeating Democrat San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein.

ATTORNEY GENERAL:

An important statewide victory for Republicans was RNC Committeeman and former Congressman Dan Lungren defeating Democrat incumbent Attorney General Arlo Smith. Although Lungren failed to win a majority of the votes cast on election day, his dominance of absentee ballots secured him the victory in this close race. Lungren's victory is evidence of how effective the absentee ballot program was during this election cycle in California.

U.S. CONGRESS:

Republicans had a net gain of one seat last election cycle in the U.S. Congress. Republican Frank Riggs defeated Democrat incumbent Congressman Doug Bosco (CA-1, Santa Rosa), and Republican Randy Cunningham defeated Democrat incumbent Congressman Jim Bates (CA-44, San Diego). Republican incumbent Congressman Chip Pashayan (CA-17, Fresno) was defeated by Democrat farmer Cal Dooly. This was the only Republican seat lost. Currently, the California Congressional ratio is 19 Republicans and 26 Democrats.

BALLOT INITIATIVES:

Proposition 140, which limits the terms of state legislators and constitutional officers was accepted by California voters in 1990. California State Legislators filed a major lawsuit in February 1991 to do away with this law. The California Supreme Court upheld Proposition 140 in October 1991.

UPDATE: MAJOR ISSUES IN CALIFORNIA

Due to the failure of Governor Pete Wilson and the Democrat-controlled Legislature to compromise on a state budget, California is currently unable to pay any of its bills. Consequently, the state has been using registered warrants ("IOUs") until a budget is passed. This has not happened in California since the 1930s.

As of July 22, over $850 million worth of warrants had been used to keep California running during the new fiscal year (beginning July 1). Most major banks have been accepting the warrants throughout the first three weeks of the budget crisis, but it seems that their patience is rapidly wearing thin. Administrative costs, threat of fraud, and other problems have led many banks to consider a deadline after which warrants will no longer be accepted. So far, the 5 percent interest charged on issued warrants will cost California $1 million.

Governor Wilson has come under fire from Republican lawmakers as well as Democrats for the massive cuts which he has proposed in state health programs. The primary complaints have been that short-term reductions will impose long-term costs on government and, in some instances, may deny essential medical care to the needy. Wilson claims that the $2.2 billion in health and welfare cuts that he has proposed are necessary to balance the state budget without raising taxes.

On July 6, California's bond rating slipped again when a national rating house said that the budget stalemate which is forcing the state to pay its bills with IOUs has deflated the state's credit. Moody's Investors Service dropped the California's bond rating from Aa1 to Aa, a move that will cost taxpayers $113 million in higher interest charges over the life of $10 billion worth of bonds authorized but not yet issued. Moody's has warned that it may lower the bond rating again unless Governor Wilson and the Democrat-controlled Legislature act quickly to plug an $11 billion hole in the state budget. Other bond rating agencies have said they expect to wait until later this month before deciding whether to follow Moody's lead, but State Treasurer Kathleen Brown has said that further downgradings are almost certain unless there is an end to "budget brinksmanship."

Exacerbating California's economic woes was the revelation that statewide unemployment in June reached the 9.5% mark. This is the highest unemployment figure in the nation. Although 49,000 more Californians were employed in June than had been in May, the number of unemployed jumped because of greater growth in the labor force or in the number of people looking for work. Part of the problem is the large number of teens and college students looking for summer jobs at this time. For this group, unemployment stands at 24% in California.

In the wake of the Los Angeles riots, Mayor Tom Bradley and other elected officials urged voters to support Charter Amendment F, a comprehensive police reform package. On election day, L.A. city residents did just that, passing the measure by a margin of over two to one (Yes = 67%, No = 33%). Additionally, Governor Wilson and Mayor Bradley have joined the President in pressuring Congress to quickly adopt enterprise zone legislation to help Los Angeles recover from the damage inflicted by the riots.

On July 2, the House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved a five-year, $5 billion aid package that would create 50 enterprise zones in inner-city and rural pockets of poverty to encourage business investment and receive extra federal funding. Prompted by the Los Angeles riots, the package was wrapped into a major tax bill that would provide $14.5 billion in tax relief, primarily for business, and repeal the luxury tax on boats, airplanes, jewelry, and furs. It also contains a "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights" and would provide a long-sought tax break for real estate developers. The bill, approved 356 to 55, will go to the Senate where its backers expect changes that could increase the amount of spending and revise some of the tax proposals. It is expected to reach the Senate floor this month.

Recently, Mayor Bradley has asked the Los Angeles City Council to order drafting of a November ballot initiative calling for a special property tax to raise $100 million for an additional 1,000 police officers. The 7,900 member Los Angeles police force has one of the lowest officer-to-citizen ratios of any major city. The proposed initiative would require two-thirds voter approval and would cost the owner of an average 1,500 square-foot home about $75 a year. In 1981, a similar ballot measure raising property taxes to increase the strength of the police force was defeated 58% to 42%.

Mayor Bradley also asked the City Council to commission a separate ballot initiative to finance a complete overhaul of the city's emergency communications system, at a cost of at least $235 million. Changes slated for the communications system include construction of a new emergency facility in the San Fernando Valley, the expansion of the downtown central dispatch center, and upgrading of the 911 system.

A June article in the Sacramento Bee described "the best-kept secret in California politics" - the involvement of the Bush Administration in the lawsuits brought by the multinational corporations of Barclay's Bank International and Colgate-Palmolive against the California Franchise Tax Board. In two cases likely to end up in the Supreme Court, both companies are challenging the legitimacy of California's "worldwide unitary" method of calculating corporate income taxes. The Administration has supported the position of the companies who, if successful, will be given a $2.1 billion refund from the state and exempted from paying $1.4 billion in back taxes. In a state as economically troubled as California, and with roughly 60% of the fiscal impact falling on schools, this issue may become the focus of increasing attention.

PAGE 11

The most recent statewide poll was conducted by Political/Media Research and released on July 13 by the television KCRA in Northern California. It found:

Bush:	40%
Clinton:	45%
undecided:	15%

The most recent poll in Orange County, done by the Orange County Register July 23-24, found:

Bush:	32%
Clinton:	44%
Perot:	3%

From the same poll, it was determined that a quarter of Orange County Perot supporters would switch their allegiance to the President, while just under half would vote for Bill Clinton if the election were today.

Since Perot's withdrawal from the race, Republicans in California have been considering different methods of attracting former Perot supporters to the Bush-Quayle ticket. Invitations were extended to some former Perot supporters to attend the satellite events that the President did for California on July 20. Additionally, California Bush-Quayle Chairman Jack Flanigan has been meeting and talking with former Perot campaign officials. There has even been a group of people who are looking into the legality of removing Ross Perot's name from the November ballot here. As a whole, however, California Republicans are approaching the disaffected legions of Perot supporters very cautiously to avoid arousing the latent anger that many feel.

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST

FROM: CECE KREMER

I. PURPOSE:

To underscore your commitment to a strong national defense, citing the adverse impact on jobs and national security if defense is cut further than the Administration proposes. To highlight a successful, high-tech manufacturing firm which has shifted its product focus from defense to commercial application.

II. BACKGROUND:

Founded in 1969, Odetics was formed to manufacture tape recorders used on satellites and other space vehicles. Since its founding, Odetics has broadened its scope from primarily spaceborne applications to include a number of other commercial markets. The company pioneered the large library automation concept in the television broadcast industry. Another of the company's divisions develops and manufactures products that provide timing information essential to synchronizing communications systems.

Odetics employs approximately 600 people, with sales of around $70 million. In addition to its Anaheim plant, the company has facilities in El Paso, Texas and Reading, England. Each year since 1969 the company has experienced profits.

Originally 100 percent dependent on government contracts, the company began shifting to commercial applications in 1975. Today over half of Odetics' customer base is commercial. Its digital instrumentation tape recorders fly on virtually every major space mission in the free world, giving Odetics over 80 percent of the worldwide market share for spaceborne recorders. In addition, Odetics' recorders fly on every U.S. Space Shuttle mission and played a role in the technology used to win the Gulf War.

Your remarks will focus on the Administration's national defense policy. You will cite the potential for job loss and adverse impact to national security as key reasons to maintain "muscle" in our national defense.

BECAUSE I KNOW THAT I AM THE RIGHT MAN FOR THE JOB.

CARD 3 OF 9

– THE VISION THAT WILL GUIDE THE CHANGES THAT WE MUST MAKE IS ONE THAT WE ALL SHARE: STRONG FAMILIES, GOOD SCHOOLS, SAFE NEIGHBORHOODS, A JOB-CREATING ECONOMY, A WORLD AT PEACE. IT IS A VISION OF THE SORT OF FUTURE THAT YOU AND I WANT FOR OUR KIDS, OUR GRANDKIDS, - FOR ALL OF AMERICA'S CHILDREN.

CARD 4 OF 9

– OUR CHILDREN NOW GO TO SLEEP AT NIGHT WITH FAR LESS FEAR OF A NUCLEAR WAR. THAT SIMPLE FACT IS A DREAM COME TRUE FOR AMERICA, AND I AM PROUD OF THE WORK THAT I HAVE DONE TO HELP MAKE IT SO.

CARD 5 OF 9

-- HOWEVER, FOR ALL THE GREAT TRIUMPHS FREEDOM HAS MADE, THE WORLD REMAINS A DANGEROUS PLACE. AND TO ENSURE THAT WE CONTINUE TO LIVE IN SAFETY AND PROSPERITY, I WILL NEVER SHORTCHANGE OUR NATIONAL SECURITY. THE BEST WAY TO KEEP AMERICA SAFE IS TO KEEP AMERICA STRONG.

CARD 6 OF 9

-- FURTHERMORE, THE SUCCESSES THAT WE HAVE ENJOYED INTERNATIONALLY HAVE LAID THE FOUNDATION FOR STEPPING UP OUR ATTACK ON OUR DOMESTIC PROBLEMS. WITH OUR BORDERS SAFE, WE CAN NOW FOCUS EVEN GREATER AMOUNTS OF ENERGY INWARD TO HELP IMPROVE THINGS RIGHT HERE AT HOME.

CARD 7 OF 9

– NOW, THERE ARE SOME WHO ASK "WHY CAN'T YOU BRING THE SAME KIND OF PURPOSE AND SUCCESS TO THE DOMESTIC SCENE AS YOU DID IN DESERT SHIELD AND IN DESERT STORM?" FAIR QUESTION. AND THE ANSWER IS THAT I DIDN'T HAVE TO GET PERMISSION FROM THE CONGRESS TO KICK SADDAM HUSSEIN OUT OF KUWAIT.

CARD 8 OF 9

– GIVE ME A NEW CONGRESS, GIVE ME FOUR MORE YEARS, AND JUST WATCH ME GET THIS COUNTRY MOVING AGAIN.

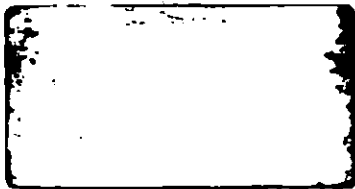

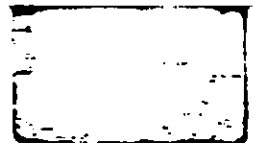

– THE PRINCIPLES THAT YOU, THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA, HAVE ALWAYS HELD DEAR ARE THOSE UPON WHICH OUR PARTY WAS FOUNDED. THEY ARE PRINCIPLES THAT WE KNOW ARE RIGHT. WE ARE RIGHT ABOUT FAMILY, ABOUT FREEDOM, AND ABOUT FREE ENTERPRISE. WE ARE RIGHT ABOUT FAITH. AND MOST OF ALL, WE ARE RIGHT ABOUT AMERICA'S FUTURE.

CARD 9 OF 9

-- WITH YOUR SUPPORT, WITH OUR PRINCIPLES, WE CAN TAKE OUR DREAMS FOR A BETTER AMERICA AND MAKE THEM HAPPEN.

-- AS COMMITTED REPUBLICANS, AND AS PROVEN FRIENDS, I THANK YOU AGAIN FOR ALL OF YOUR HARD WORK AND DEDICATION.

-- GOD BLESS YOU ALL.

ADDRESS RIVERSIDE ROTARY BREAKFAST

DATE: JULY 31, 1992
TIME: 8:35 A.M.
LOCATION: RIVERSIDE CONVENTION CENTER
RIVERSIDE, CA
THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST
FROM: CECE KREMER
JEFF VOGT

I. PURPOSE:

To unveil the Administration's "White Paper on Welfare Reform" and to underscore your commitment to economic growth, job creation and core values which strengthen the family.

II. BACKGROUND:

Approximately 1000 people will attend a breakfast for service clubs from the Riverside community. Participants include members from the Riverside Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Exchange Clubs and area Chambers of Commerce. These Clubs are key grassroots organizations in communities throughout the country and represent the core values of family, faith and free enterprise.

In your State of the Union address, you called for reform of the welfare system. To help bring change to the present system, which has fostered dependence rather than independence, the Administration has granted waivers to select states which want to reform their welfare systems. Your speech to these community-based organizations calls for additional state welfare reform demonstrations. In addition, it presents federal legislative changes to provide more flexibility for state and local governments to help energize the welfare reform movement. The goal of these measures is to create conditions to get people off welfare as soon as possible by helping them become economically self-sufficient.

You will be introduced by Governor Wilson. The backdrop for this event will be a banner reading "Promoting Individual Independence in Riverside California."

III. PARTICIPANTS:

- The President
- Governor Wilson

On Dais:

- Kenneth Calvert, Candidate California 43rd Congressional District
- Bill Bonnett, District Officer, Kiwanis International
- Dan Hollingsworth, G.O.P. Chairman, Riverside County
- Tricia Hunter, State Legislator (R - Riverside)
- Al McCandless, U.S. Representative, 3rd District
- James Milman, President, Rotary Club of Riverside
- Kenneth Roberts, Director of Governors, Rotary Club of Riverside
- Ethyl Silver, Chairperson, Victory '92, Riverside County
- Bob Wolf, President, Riverside Chamber of Commerce

To/Sam Skinner and Bob Teeter
cc Nick Calio

Last night at House of Rep. Gym Dinner both Sherrie Boehlert and Jim Leach asked me to visit with the 'moderates'. They have been loyal supporters.

Will one of you set up a meeting right away. Invite both of them down. Find out what is on their mind and then, if needed, I will meet with them.

Please talk to each other on this today and be sure they are contacted today.

Thanks,
