MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST DD

FROM: BOBBIE KILBERG BK
HELEN MOBLEY HM

SUBJ: GEORGIA

I. Recent Correspondence

Chairman Philip Secrist, Cobb County Board of Commissioners, wrote you regarding a resolution adopted by the Board. The resolution urges support for limiting unfunded state and federal mandates on cities and counties in Georgia.

Vice Chairman Bob Boyne of the Glynn County Board of Supervisors wrote to you in support of S.250, the Cable Reregulation Act.

II. Discussion

Dalton, Georgia

Dalton has a population of approximately 22,000 and is situated in the northwest corner of the State, bordering Tennessee, Alabama, and North Carolina. It is located in Whitfield County, which has a population of approximately 72,000. Chattanooga, Tennessee is the closest metropolitan area, 20 miles away. Atlanta is 88 miles south of Dalton and is the closest metropolitan area in Georgia.

Dalton is the home of Shaw Industries Inc., the world's largest carpet manufacturer with a 40% share of all residential carpeting. Foreign exports are only a small portion of the company's business, however, Shaw stands to gain increased export business with the North American Free Trade Agreement.

A. Unemployment Figures

Georgia's unemployment figures for May, 1992 are 5.9%, an increase from 5.0% over the same period in 1991. The unemployment rate for Whitfield County is 4.6% as of May, an increase from 4.4% over the same period in 1991.

GEORGIA BRIEFING

B. Economic Conditions

Officials in Fort Benning announced that 202 civilian positions at the post are being cut as part of military budget reductions, although the actual number of employees to be fired will be 124. The remaining positions will be eliminated through early or optional retirements and resignations. The decision was made to cut the civilian work force after the Army reduced Fort Benning's 1993 budget by $28 million.

Termination of the Air Force's Logistics Airlift will cost 118 civilian and 47 military jobs at this central Georgia base. The Air Force has said that the airlift will be terminated October 1, 1992, with shipping being turned over to commercial carriers.

MCI Communications Corp. has made Atlanta their headquarters for a new business division that will create several hundred new jobs by the end of 1993.

C. Savannah River Site

Although the K-Reactor at the Savannah River Site is located in Aiken, South Carolina, Georgia has received financial assistance from the Department of Energy to conduct environmental monitoring activities due to the proximity of Aiken to the Georgia border.

On May 5, 1992, Secretary Watkins authorized the restart of the Ascension Test Program. The K-Reactor went through about two months of "power ascension testing" and was shut down on July 30, 1992 for an outage period for general maintenance and tie-in of the cooling tower. After this outage, the reactor will be brought back on line in early 1993 and run for about a year to prove its viability as a contingency production source of tritium. The K-Reactor will then be put in low-cost standby mode pending availability of a new tritium production source early after the turn of the century.

D. Richard Russell Dam

On July 25 and 26, 1992, 20,000 - 50,000 fish were killed within a few hours by reversible turbines in the Richard Russell Dam on the Savannah River. The fish were killed while the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers tested the newly installed turbines which were designed to frighten the fish away from the churning pumps. Environmentalists had cautioned the Corps four years ago that a $60 million project to boost power output at the Dam could wipe out entire fish populations.

E. 1996 Summer Olympics

The 1996 Summer Olympics, to be held in Atlanta, are expected to create 84,000 jobs and add approximately $200 million to the area's economy. In addition to the new construction that the Olympic games will bring, Atlanta's new domed stadium is near completion. The stadium will be used for the Olympics, as well as serving as the Atlanta Falcon's new home and the site of the 1993 Peach Bowl and the 1994 Super Bowl.

F. Farmers/Wetlands

Georgia farmers are concerned about federal wetlands policy, particularly their perception of overzealous regulation of wetlands and the "taking" of private property rights. Farmers have been vocal about federal restrictions that decrease the value of farmland and effect their borrowing power when using farmland for collateral; and about the lack of governmental compensation for wetlands which they can no longer use or sell for development, but on which they must still pay high taxes.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is involved with wetlands primarily through the Swampbuster provision of the Food Security Act of 1985. Swampbuster links Federal farm program benefits to wetland protection. Complying with Swampbuster is a condition for participating in Federal farm programs.

G. Education

Governor Zell Miller (D) kicked off GEORGIA 2000 in October of 1991 with Secretary Alexander. The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Georgia Tech University, Georgia Partnership for Excellence in Education, and IBM have been meeting with Department of Education officials and are organizing an ATLANTA 2000 kickoff. Atlanta expects to issue a report card simultaneous to their kickoff, establishing where the community stands in terms of each of the National Education Goals.

PAGE FOUR

Twenty-seven communities across the state have expressed an interest in joining with the AMERICA 2000 strategy.

In conjunction with the GEORGIA 2000 kick-off, the Governor held a Conference on Education in Atlanta where more than 1000 state and local community leaders, parents, and educators participated in a summit which focused on the critical issues of education in the state.

Governor Miller has stated that education would be a top priority in his 1992 legislative agenda. He has lent support to educational reform, including parental school choice, changes and flexibility in teacher certification, and better pay for teachers.

H. President Jimmy Carter's Atlanta Project

Former President Carter has launched a wide-ranging private/public partnership effort to help cure Atlanta's social problems. He has received positive initial responses from many elements of the Atlanta community and is seeking the active involvement of churches and civic organizations. The former President has met with officials here at the White House, members of the Cabinet, and members of Congress about his Atlanta Project.

The Project has hired five of their 20 coordinators and has raised a total of $19.1 million. Recently you signed a Federal directive that should make it easier for federal agencies to cooperate with the Project and help cut through "red tape."

I. U.S. Department of Labor Grants

On June 19, 1992, Secretary Martin announced that an additional $500 million will be distributed nationally for the 1992 Summer Youth Employment and Training Program. Georgia will receive a total of $9,744,606.

J. Drugs

Georgia's share of Federal anti-drug assistance has risen from $16.6 million for fiscal year 1989 to an estimated $37.3 million for fiscal year 1992. Under the Continuing Criminal Enterprise Act, Atlanta

PAGE FIVE

U.S. Attorney Joe Whitley is currently seeking the death penalty for drug dealer, Travis Williams, who has been accused of importing tons of cocaine into Georgia and is also accused of at least four drug-related deaths. This marks the first time prosecutors in Georgia will have used this 1988 law, which has only been used four times nationally.

K. Weed and Seed

Atlanta has been designated as a 1992 demonstration site for Operation Weed and Seed. The city will receive approximately $1.1 million from the Department of Justice to begin implementing the strategy in two public housing developments in southeast Atlanta, Thomasville Heights and Englewood Manor. Atlanta's Weed and Seed program is dedicated to the memory of Atlanta Police Officer Niles F. Johantgen, who was killed in the line of duty defending those two communities against illegal drug activities.

L. Surface Transportation Funds

Georgia's 1992 apportionment is estimated at approximately $479.6 million compared to the 1991 apportionment of $374.9 million. The new legislation allocates over $3.18 billion for Georgia from fiscal years 1992 through 1997. As of May 12, 1992, Georgia's federal-aid highway program obligations for fiscal year 1992 were $498.3 million with net obligations of $270.5 million or 54.28 percent.

M. HOME Program

Atlanta has received approval for a $5 million grant that will allow housing officials to buy, modernize and renovate housing for poor and low-income residents. The Department of Housing and Urban Development awarded the grant under the HOME program to help municipal governments struggling to meet the growing demand for affordable housing.

N. Wood Chip Mills

According to a story in the Atlanta Constitution newspaper on July 31, 1992, a controversy has ensued over a plan to open three wood chip mills in the tri-state area of Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. The mills would process hardwood logs for paper production in the tri-state region and the trees would be harvested from a 42 county area, including 14 in northwest Georgia, where Dalton is located. The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) is holding two public hearings on August 1, 1992 on this issue which has become one of the largest environmental issues in the Chattanooga area in years. Senator Al Gore, the Chattanooga City Council and Tennessee politicians oppose the project saying that it will lay waste in the area overlooking the Tennessee Valley.

Many professional foresters, including the Director of the Georgia Forestry Commission, say that the mills would open needed markets and encourage sustainable management of woodlands.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: RONALD C. KAUFMAN (cc)
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

FROM: WALTER WHITE
DEPUTY DIRECTOR
OFFICE OF POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: GEORGIA POLITICAL BRIEFING

1992 POLITICAL OUTLOOK

The BUSH-QUAYLE ticket carried Georgia with 60% of the vote in the 1988 Presidential election. Georgia will have 13 electoral votes in 1992.

On March 3, 1992, the President defeated Pat Buchanan in the Georgia primary by a margin of 64% to 36%, garnering all 52 Georgia delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Bill Clinton won the Democratic primary, receiving 57% of the vote. Paul Tsongas finished with 24%, Jerry Brown with 8%, Bob Kerrey with 5%, and Tom Harkin with 2%. Four percent of the primary voters were undecided.

Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot officially qualified for the November general election ballot in Georgia before leaving the Presidential race.

The most recent state-wide poll on the Presidential race was conducted by the Atlanta Daily News on July 7-9, 1992, a week before the Perot campaign ended. The poll showed President Bush leading with 36%, followed by Governor Clinton with 28%, and Perot trailing with 22%. 14% of those surveyed were undecided. The margin of error for the poll was +/-3.5%.

The Georgia Republican Party held their state convention on May 29-30 in Atlanta. The Executive committee voted on the 52 delegates to the Republican National Convention. All are reported to be loyal Bush supporters. Republican National Committeeman Carl Gillis retired at the convention. Republican State Chairman Alec Poitevint won this open position.

GEORGIA POLITICAL BRIEFING

Republican National Committeewoman Carolyn Meadows sought re-election to another term this year but faced challenges from political activist Dot Burns and financial consultant Jean Ferst. Burns won in a tight race to become the state's new Republican National Committeewoman.

BUSH-QUAYLE '88 Georgia Chairman Fred Cooper has agreed to serve as Chairman again this year. James Edenfield serves as State Finance Chairman. Congressman Newt Gingrich serves as Honorary Chairman of your Georgia campaign. The BUSH-QUAYLE Georgia State Co-Chairmen are: GOP Chairman Alec Poitevint, former U.S. Senator Mack Mattingly, 1990 gubernatorial nominee Johnny Isaakson, Matt Towery, Billy Lovett, Larry Thompson, A. Willis Robertson (brother of Pat Robertson), Oscar Persons, and Savannah Mayor Susan Weiner. Bill Thorne serves as the Georgia BUSH-QUAYLE Executive Director.

The Georgia state legislature voted late last year to move the Presidential primary from March 10, 1992 (Super Tuesday) to March 3, 1992. The move was engineered by U.S. Senator Sam Nunn (D) and Governor Zell Miller (D), who endorsed Democrat Governor Bill Clinton early on in the Democrat Presidential primary race. Nunn and Miller saw the move as a chance to showcase Clinton before the Super Tuesday vote -- especially on the heels of the New Hampshire and South Dakota primaries. Governor Miller was also a keynote speaker at the Democratic National Convention, endorsing Governor Clinton.

The selection of Al Gore as Clinton's Vice Presidential nominee was extremely popular in Georgia. In a list of several potential running mates for Clinton, only home-state Senator Sam Nunn was a more popular choice. Twenty-two percent of those surveyed in a recent WBC-Gwinett Daily News poll conducted on July 11 said that they would be more likely to support Clinton with Gore as his running mate.

Democratic incumbent U.S. Senator Wyche Fowler will be up for re-election in 1992. Fowler narrowly defeated Republican Senator Mack Mattingly in 1986 by a 51% to 49% margin. Most experts agree that Fowler is one of the Democrats' most vulnerable incumbents in 1992. Though Fowler was unchallenged in the Democratic primary, former U.S. Attorney Bob Barr, former Peace Corps Director Paul Coverdell, Waycross Mayor John Knox, attorney Charles Tanksley, and businessman Dean Parkinson squared off in a July 21 Republican primary for the right to challenge Fowler in November.

The two top vote-getters, Coverdell and Barr, both failed to attain a majority in the race and were thus forced into an August 11 runoff. The Republican primary results are as follows:

|                  |     |
|------------------|-----|
| Paul Coverdell   | 36% |
| Bob Barr         | 25% |
| John Knox        | 23% |
| Charles Tanksley | 12% |

Coverdell is considered the strong favorite in the runoff, both financially and organizationally. As of the July 21st primary, Coverdell had raised $802,000 in aggregate receipts with $214,000 cash-on-hand, far exceeding the totals of any other primary candidate. Coverdell held a 4:1 fundraising edge over his closest financial competitor, Charles Tanksley.

While most Republican Party officials and Senate candidates know of the President's official neutrality in the primary, some have voiced frustration due to the President's alleged endorsement of Paul Coverdell. Moreover, some have also complained about the fact that George W. Bush and Chief of Staff Skinner have attended fundraisers on the candidate's behalf. Some Republican officials feel that participation by Administration officials in Coverdell fundraisers sends the wrong signal to the other candidates and further exacerbates a split in the party by polarizing the right.

Coverdell was endorsed in the Republican primary by the Atlanta Constitution, the Atlanta Journal, the Gwinett Daily News, the Times of Gainesville, and the Dekalb News/Sun.

Congressman Newt Gingrich prevailed in a closely contested Republican primary in Georgia's new sixth district by a mere 51% to 49% margin. The district was totally new for Newt, and he was opposed by former state legislator Herman Clark, a Republican fixture in the area. Turnout in the primary was unusually high, suggesting that many Democrats voted in the Republican primary in order to dispense with Gingrich. Clark was supported by several liberal activist groups, including Ralph Nader's Citizen Action Group which aired over 200 "Boot Newt" radio advertisements. This upper-middle class sixth district is overwhelmingly favored to be carried by Newt in the general election. A recount has been completed in the race with no change in Gingrich's margin.

There will be four Republican Congressional runoffs on August 11. In Georgia's new majority-Black 2nd Congressional district, physician James Dudley and Controller Thomas McGinley will vie for the right to challenge the winner of the runoff between incumbent U.S. Representative Charles Hatcher and State Senator Sanford Bishop. Dudley and McGinley received 43% and 27% of the vote respectively in a three-way race.

There will also be a runoff in Georgia's 4th Congressional district between state representatives John Linder and Emory Morsberger. The two garnered 35% and 27% of the vote respectively in a six-way Republican primary. The winner of the runoff will face State Senator Cathy Steinberg in the November election. This general election race is expected to be the best opportunity for the GOP to add a new Republican to the Georgia Congressional delegation.

Architect Daniel Becker and developer Benjamin Whitaker will face each other in a runoff for the Republican nomination in Georgia's 9th district. Becker garnered 37% of the vote and Whitaker received 33% of the vote in the primary. The Democratic primary in the district also resulted in a runoff. Attorney Nathan Deal and businessman Tom Ramsey, having received 45% and 37% of the vote respectively in a three-way primary, will vie in a runoff on August 11th.

In Georgia's 10th district, Georgia state official Ralph Hudgins will face State Senator Frank Albert in a runoff for the Republican nomination. Hudgins garnered 33% of the vote in a five-way primary as opposed to 28% for Albert. The winner will face State Senator Don Johnson in November. Johnson received 51% of the vote in a five-way Democratic primary.

REAPPORTIONMENT UPDATE

Georgia will gain one Congressional district as a result of the reapportionment process. Significant Republican growth in the metropolitan area of Atlanta during the 1980's, coupled with the creation of a second Black majority district, is thought to benefit Republican chances to make substantive gains in the 1992 Congressional elections, notably in the new 4th, 6th, and 10th districts. The current Congressional delegation balance is 1 Republican to 9 Democrats. House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich is Georgia's lone Republican in Congress.

STATE PARTY UPDATE

The Georgia Republican Party continues under the strong leadership of Chairman Alec Poitevint. The Georgia GOP has eliminated its debt and is planning an aggressive campaign to pick up seats in the state legislature this year.

STATE HOUSE

The balance in the Georgia State Senate is currently 11 Republicans to 45 Democrats. The balance in the Georgia State House is 35 Republicans to 115 Democrats.

ADDRESS EMPLOYEES OF SHAW INDUSTRIES

DATE: AUGUST 3, 1992
TIME: 8:50 A.M.
LOCATION: SHAW INDUSTRIES
DALTON, GA
THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST DD

FROM: CECE KREMER CK
JEFF VOGEL JV

I. PURPOSE:

To highlight America's ability to compete in the global economy and to underscore your leadership in forging new trade agreements to create new jobs and economic growth. To reinforce your philosophy of trusting the American people, rather than government, in addressing America's problems.

II. BACKGROUND:

Dalton, Georgia is the carpet capital of the world, and Shaw Industries is one of the most successful carpet companies in the United States. Shaw has increased sales from $753 million in 1987, to almost $1.7 billion in 1991.

Carpet manufacturers are part of the fiber, textile and apparel complex, which employs 2 million workers nationwide and contributes over $100 billion to the U.S. gross national product annually. This industry employs nearly 200,000 people in Georgia.

The textiles and apparels industry is generally highly protected from imports. An elaborate quota system remains in place under the Multifiber Arrangement (MFA) to control imports and high tariffs, which average 18% for this industry versus 4% for all manufacturing.

Some industry leaders, however, are disassociating themselves from the traditional protectionist views, especially as NAFTA emerges. NAFTA offers tremendous opportunities for this industry, where exports in this sector have increased at an average annual rate of 25% in the last five years, surpassing $1 billion in 1991.

II. BACKGROUND: (continued)

Also during this period, textile and apparel exports increased to Canada at an annual average rate of 36%, reaching $1.7 billion in 1992.

Overall, Georgia's exports to Mexico rose 303% from 1987 to 1990, compared to an 80% increase in Georgia's exports to the rest of the world.

Your remarks will highlight your commitment to expanding markets and increasing trade for the American worker whom you know and trust as the most productive and competitive in the world.

CARD 4 OF 9

– OUR CHILDREN NOW GO TO SLEEP AT NIGHT WITH FAR LESS FEAR OF A NUCLEAR WAR. THAT SIMPLE FACT IS A DREAM COME TRUE FOR AMERICA, AND I AM PROUD OF THE WORK THAT I HAVE DONE TO HELP MAKE IT SO.

CARD 5 OF 9

– HOWEVER, FOR ALL THE GREAT TRIUMPHS FREEDOM HAS MADE, THE WORLD REMAINS A DANGEROUS PLACE. AND TO ENSURE THAT WE CONTINUE TO LIVE IN SAFETY AND PROSPERITY, I WILL NEVER SHORTCHANGE OUR NATIONAL SECURITY. THE BEST WAY TO KEEP AMERICA SAFE IS TO KEEP AMERICA STRONG.

CARD 6 OF 9

– FURTHERMORE, THE SUCCESSES THAT WE HAVE ENJOYED INTERNATIONALLY HAVE LAID THE FOUNDATION FOR STEPPING UP OUR ATTACK ON OUR DOMESTIC PROBLEMS. WITH OUR BORDERS SAFE, WE CAN NOW FOCUS EVEN GREATER AMOUNTS OF ENERGY INWARD TO HELP IMPROVE THINGS RIGHT HERE AT HOME.

CARD 7 OF 9

– NOW, THERE ARE SOME WHO ASK "WHY CAN'T YOU BRING THE SAME KIND OF PURPOSE AND SUCCESS TO THE DOMESTIC SCENE AS YOU DID IN DESERT SHIELD AND IN DESERT STORM?" FAIR QUESTION. AND THE ANSWER IS THAT I DIDN'T HAVE TO GET PERMISSION FROM THE CONGRESS TO KICK SADDAM HUSSEIN OUT OF KUWAIT.

CARD 8 OF 9

– GIVE ME A NEW CONGRESS, GIVE ME FOUR MORE YEARS, AND JUST WATCH ME GET THIS COUNTRY MOVING AGAIN.

– THE PRINCIPLES THAT YOU, THE PEOPLE OF GEORGIA, HAVE ALWAYS HELD DEAR ARE THOSE UPON WHICH OUR PARTY WAS FOUNDED. THEY ARE PRINCIPLES THAT WE KNOW ARE RIGHT. WE ARE RIGHT ABOUT FAMILY, ABOUT FREEDOM, AND ABOUT FREE ENTERPRISE. WE ARE RIGHT ABOUT FAITH. AND MOST OF ALL, WE ARE RIGHT ABOUT AMERICA'S FUTURE.

– WITH YOUR SUPPORT, WITH OUR PRINCIPLES, WE CAN TAKE OUR DREAMS FOR A BETTER AMERICA AND MAKE THEM HAPPEN.

– AS COMMITTED REPUBLICANS, AND AS PROVEN FRIENDS, I THANK YOU AGAIN FOR ALL OF YOUR HARD WORK AND DEDICATION.

– GOD BLESS YOU ALL.

II. Discussion

A. Governor Lawton Chiles' State of the State Address

Governor Chiles listed three themes in his State of the State address: change, trust, and faith. While calling for "empowerment of workers" and a decentralization of governmental decision making back into communities, he also called for the largest tax increase in the state's history.

Among other things, the Governor proposed:

-- Investing $338 million from selected sales tax exemptions and assessments which would increase health care coverage for children and the elderly, including the state's Healthy Start program.

-- Allocating $215 million to continue efforts to improve the way government delivers services. Part of the program calls for bonuses for state employees that increase productivity.

-- Investing $130 million in general revenue to ensure public safety. Included are funds to restore 3,100 prison beds that were eliminated last year plus monies for the creation of an additional 3,000 beds.

-- Investing an additional $600 million for education, including pay raises for teachers and an increase in the enrollment at state universities.

B. Fiscal Year 1993 Budget

On the afternoon of July 1st, Governor Chiles signed the state's FY 1993 budget into law, seventeen and one-half hours after the state's constitutional law deadline had passed.

Florida's FY 1993 budget totals $31.5 billion, including $374 million in new taxes. That amount is roughly one-fourth of the $1.35 billion tax increase that Governor Chiles had originally sought and it almost brought about the third veto of the budget this year.

Chiles passed on the opportunity this final time, saying, "Vetoing this bill would have hurt Floridians. The legislature, most particularly the Republican leadership in the Senate, has failed the people of Florida".

The budget package also includes $373 million in supplemental spending (above Governor Chiles request) of which an additional $242 million will go for education, $101 million for social service programs, $14 million for criminal justice, $7.5 million for beach restoration, and $7.5 million for general government expenditures.

Please know that Governor Chiles did line-item veto $14 million in individual expenditures as well, including $5 million intended to lure the Pentagon's regional payroll center to Florida.

To reach this final agreement the legislature held 4 special sessions in addition to their 60-day regular session. Governor Chiles vetoed the first two budgets because they did not include any of the $1.35 billion tax increase he had sought.

C. Unemployment Figures

The latest figures indicate that Florida's unemployment rate was 8.5 percent in June of this year, which is an increase of 1.1 percent from June of 1991. The City of Jacksonville's rate stood at 6.3 percent in May of 1992, an increase of 0.6 percent from the year before.

D. Exports/NAFTA

State exports have steadily increased over the past five years, reaching $16 billion in 1990, which is 57 percent above the 1987 level. Florida's businesses primarily export chemical equipment, transportation equipment, computer parts, electrical supplies, and food products.

There is serious concern among Florida's winter fruit and vegetable and citrus growers about the potential for increased competition from Mexico if the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) is enacted. They have sought assurances from the Administration that the produce industry will have some type of protection from substantially increased Mexican imports.

E. America 2000

Governor Chiles is verbally committed to the effort but political pressure from the state Democratic party has prevented a formal announcement.

However, fifteen communities in the state have America 2000 programs underway and Jacksonville is one of them.

F. Pre-Kindergarten Early Intervention Program

Florida's Pre-Kindergarten Early Intervention Program for public school students has increased over a 5-year period from 650 students in 1986-87 to 19,000 in 1991-92, with a total appropriation of over $69 million.

Florida is the first State to provide funds (approximately $6 million) to enhance the Federal Head Start program.

G. Drugs

Total Federal drug grants to Florida have increased to approximately $83.1 million in FY 1992, up from $33.9 million in FY 1989. Marijuana and cocaine are the drugs of choice in Northern Florida and are readily available.

"Coalition for a Drug-Free Jacksonville", the city's comprehensive anti-drug initiative, was officially established in September of 1989, through the collaborative efforts of the Mayor of Jacksonville, the State Attorney, the Sheriff, and the City Council

FLORIDA BRIEFING

President. The Coalition, which receives no Federal "Weed and Seed" money, is headed by a thirteen-member board consisting of political, business, and community leaders. The principal anti-drug tactic used by the Coalition is the designation of drug free zones.

Miami is one of the nation's four metropolitan High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas (HIDTA) because of Florida's significance as a smuggling corridor for Central and South American drugs. In FY 1992, Miami received $11.9 million in HIDTA funding, which was the largest award to any city in the program.

H. HUD Funding

The City of Jacksonville will receive a total of $8.2 million in Federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding in FY 1992. In addition, the city will also receive approximately $3.9 million in HOME program monies.

A recent HUD audit of the local Jacksonville Department of Housing and Urban Development (JHUD) uncovered widespread mismanagement. JHUD is a mayoral agency, ruled by a 19-member City Council, rather than a traditional housing authority. JHUD received a score of 29.0 under the Public Housing Management Assessment Program (PHMAP); a passing grade is 60.

Mr. Paul Tanner was appointed as the new Executive Director of JHUD in November of 1991. HUD feels that he has done a solid job of turning the authority around in some areas.

Jacksonville Mayor Edward Austin (D) and Mr. Tanner recently testified before Congress to provide an explanation for JHUD's problems, most of which originated prior to their tenure.

I. Surface Transportation Funding

Florida's FY 1992 apportionment is estimated at $680.3 million which is up from $497.8 million in FY 1991. Through June, Florida had allocated 76 percent of its Federal-aid highway limitation. The Intermodal Surface

Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA) designates approximately $4.5 billion for Florida from FY 1992-97.

Florida is a "donor" state, having a return rate of about 80 percent on its contributions to the Highway Trust Fund.

Formula transit assistance to the State of Florida has increased substantially since enactment of the Federal Transit Act of 1991. In the major cities of over one million in population (Miami and Fort Lauderdale), formula assistance increased an average of 13.1 percent between fiscal years 1991 and 1992.

J. Department of Labor Grants

On June 30th, an award was given by the Department of Labor to the Florida Department of Education (Vocational Division) totaling approximately $5 million, as part of the Labor Department's nationwide effort to help combat chronic unemployment and substandard living conditions among migrant and seasonal farmworkers and their families.

The state of Florida received a total of $22.5 million from the 1992 Summer Youth Employment and Training Program Supplemental.

Florida cities received the following funding amounts: Miami, $1.5 million; Jacksonville, $1.1 million; Tampa, $670,000; and St. Petersburg, $500,000.

K. JPTA Programs

Florida has 24 Service Delivery Areas (SDAs) throughout the state. In 1991, total Federal monies to Florida's SDAs amounted to roughly $139 million and served almost 100,000 people.

L. DOE's Pinellas Non-Nuclear Production Plant

Operated by the General Electric Company, the Department of Energy's Pinellas plant is primarily responsible for manufacturing non-nuclear components for nuclear weapons.

On December 16, 1991, Secretary Watkins announced a plan to consolidate the Pinellas plant and two other similar plants into one site in Kansas City. The plan will save the taxpayers approximately $100 million a year.

The Kansas City plant is the preferred site for consolidating most of the non-nuclear activities because consolidation can be achieved there in about half the time and at one third the cost of consolidation at any of the other plants.

Secretary Watkins has ordered an Environmental Assessment (EA) to be conducted in conjunction with his shut-down proposal. Unless the assessment determines a significant environmental impact which would dramatically alter the shut-down, the Pinellas plant is slated to be completely phased out of non-nuclear production operations by the end of FY 1995.

M. Civil Rights

On June 23rd, the Department of Justice filed a complaint under the Voting Rights Act against the State of Florida, to prohibit the implementation of a proposed redistricting plan. According to the Justice Department, the plan for the Florida Senate and House of Representatives would dilute the voting strength of Black and Hispanic citizens in several areas of the state. The Department is currently participating in hearings before a three-judge court in Tallahassee, which is taking testimony on alternatives to the state's proposed plans.

N. Everglades Lawsuit

In 1988, the U.S. Department of Justice initiated litigation against Florida for failure to enforce state water pollution laws. The Department successfully argued that the Everglades National Park and Loxahatchess National Wildlife Refuge ecosystems were being irreparably damaged by high concentrations of phosphorous and nitrates in the surface water.

A settlement agreement was reached last year between the Federal government, the State of Florida, and the South Florida Management Water Board. The agreement establishes water quality standards for Everglades National Park and Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge, a timetable for their achievement, and a scientific panel to monitor and evaluate results. The plan also calls for flooding 58 square miles of productive farmland in an effort to create huge filtering ponds, which would alleviate the phosphorous levels before the water enters the Everglades. Additionally, the agreement requires farmers to reduce phosphorous delivery from their fields by 25 percent. The plan is estimated to cost between $400-$600 million over 10-20 years.

Agricultural interests, particularly the sugar industry, are livid with the plan. They feel that they are being unfairly saddled with the lion's share of the financial costs. The industry estimates that as many as 15,000 jobs will be eliminated and that two mills will be closed.

O. Health Care

On March 24th, Governor Chiles signed into law the Health Care Access Act. The plan provides a process for assuring that all Floridians have access to an affordable basic health care package by December 31, 1994.

The program also promotes voluntary health insurance coverage, creates a Healthy Communities and Healthy People program, and establishes the Florida Health Services Corporation.

Also, please note that, according to a recent study conducted by Florida's Sun Sentinel, Florida ranks second only to New York in the rate of reported AIDS cases.

P. Wetlands

Nearly 30 percent of Florida is considered to be wetlands. This total, 11 million acres, is over 20 percent of all estuarine wetlands in the conterminous United States. These wetlands are considered vital to the support of fisheries and waterfowl in the Gulf of Mexico. However, Florida's population increased 32.7 percent during the 1980's and, as a result, there has been increasing pressure on the wetlands in terms of land and water use. A U.S. Geological Survey study is underway to determine the rate of erosion in the Florida wetlands and what can be done to save them.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: RONALD C. KAUFMAN RCK
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR
POLITICAL AFFAIRS

FROM: WALTER WHITE
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
OFFICE OF POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: FLORIDA POLITICAL BRIEFING

1992 POLITICAL OUTLOOK

Florida will be a key battleground in the 1992 Presidential election. Governor Lawton Chiles, Lieutenant Governor Buddy MacKay, and a number of Democratic state legislators endorsed Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton prior to the Florida primary. Those endorsements paid off -- with Clinton winning the Democratic primary handily. Democrat Paul Tsongas was hoping to make Florida his first victory outside of the Northeast, but Clinton's strong organization and regional familiarity were too much for the former Senator to overcome.

On the Republican side, the President posted a strong victory over Pat Buchanan in this critical Super Tuesday state. Buchanan had little organization in Florida, and made only a few campaign trips to the state. The March 10, 1992 Florida primary results are as follows:

|                     |                |     |
|---------------------|----------------|-----|
| REPUBLICAN PRIMARY: | PRESIDENT BUSH | 68% |
|                     | Pat Buchanan   | 32% |
| DEMOCRAT PRIMARY:   | BILL CLINTON   | 51% |
|                     | Paul Tsongas   | 34% |
|                     | Jerry Brown    | 13% |

The general election campaign in Florida will be hard fought. Bill Clinton has a very strong statewide organization, and will have the support of the Democratic establishment, particularly Buddy McKay, who serves as Clinton's State Chairman.

FLORIDA POLITICAL BRIEFING
PAGE TWO

Florida has one of the strongest BUSH-QUAYLE '92 organizations in the entire country. Jeb Bush serves as Chairman of the Florida campaign, with U.S. Senator Connie Mack serving as the Honorary Chairman. Dr. Zack Zachariah serves as the Bush-Quayle Finance Chairman. Each member of the Republican Congressional delegation serves as a Co-Chairman, as does Secretary of State Jim Smith and Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher. Sally Salmon-Harrell is the Florida BUSH-QUAYLE Executive Director.

The BUSH-QUAYLE ticket carried Florida with 61% of the vote in the 1988 Presidential election.

Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot had qualified for the Florida general election ballot and developed a strong statewide organization before withdrawing from the Presidential race. Perot forces had submitted 230,000 signatures to gain access to the general election ballot for the Texas billionaire even though only 60,312 signatures were necessary. Perot will remain on the November ballot unless he requests that his name be withdrawn. Such a request must be submitted to the Secretary of State by September 22.

Perot supporters claimed to have amassed over 30,000 volunteers throughout the state. Subsequent to Perot's withdrawal, Bush-Quayle supporters throughout Florida have been contacting Perot leaders in the state on a county-by-county basis. Florida Bush-Quayle Chairman Jeb Bush will meet with former Perot State Chairman Ed Hubbard on July 31.

The latest statewide poll on the Presidential race was conducted on May 29-31, 1992, by Mason-Dixon, well before Perot ended his candidacy. Perot led the President by a 34% to 31% margin, with Bill Clinton trailing at 22%. The margin of error for the poll was +/-3.5%.

In addition, the U.S. Senate race is likely to turn out large numbers of Democrats for popular incumbent Bob Graham. In February, former Congressman Bill Grant announced his intention to challenge Graham. Grant, a former Democrat, has assembled a strong campaign organization but will have to contend with fellow Republican Rob Quartel who recently left the U.S. Department of Transportation to enter the GOP primary. While Grant has a slight name identification and organizational advantage, the race is expected to be competitive. The primary will be held on September 1, 1992. The winner will face an incumbent who is popular among Florida voters and very well financed. Graham is expected to win re-election. As of June 30, 1992, Graham had $2,172,484 cash-on-hand in comparison to $5,038 for Grant and $28,508 for Quartel.

PAGE THREE

The President's most recent trip to Florida was on July 4th, 1992, to attend the Firecracker 400 in Daytona. Mrs. Quayle visited the state on June 22-23 to attend Victory '92 fundraisers.

REAPPORTIONMENT UPDATE

In October of 1991, the President had a Roosevelt Room meeting with Floridians for Fair Representation, a committee established by the Florida Republican Party to ensure a fair redistricting process. The current Congressional delegation balance is 10 Republicans to 9 Democrats.

On Friday, May 29, a three-judge Federal panel approved 23 new congressional districts. Three of these new seats have been designed to benefit black and Hispanic candidates. These new districts make it probable that Florida will elect its first black Congressman in more than 100 years. On June 23, 1992, the U.S. Attorney's Office in Florida filed suit stating that the current redistricting plan violates the 1965 Voting Rights Act. However, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in favor of the original plan which was backed by the Democratic-controlled state legislature.

Florida has had its share of incumbent House members choosing retirement. In early February, incumbent Republican Congressman Andy Ireland announced his retirement. Ireland cited personal reasons for his decision, stating that after a long career in public service, he was ready to spend time with his family. Republican Congressman Craig James also announced that he would not seek re-election. On Wednesday, May 27, incumbent Democrat Dante Fascell announced he would not seek re-election to Florida's 19th district. The most recent House member to step down is 22 term incumbent Democrat Charles Bennett. Bennett made this unexpected announcement on Friday, June 6. His wife had recently suffered a stroke which he claimed was the overriding factor for his decision. The remaining retirees are Democrats Lawrence Smith and William Lehman.

STATE PARTY UPDATE

While the Party suffered a number of setbacks in 1990, Chairman Van Poole, National Committeewoman Maryanne Morse, and National Committeeman Chester Clem have been working to make up lost ground. Republicans are presently out-registering Democrats 2:1, bringing the state-wide Republican vote to nearly 41%. Poole has aggressively recruited legislative candidates in the hopes of taking control of the State Senate and making major gains in the State Assembly. Jeb Bush and Van Poole recently completed a 4 day, 13 city swing across the state presenting local Republican leaders with the Victory '92 gameplan.

STATE LEGISLATURE

The balance in the Florida State Senate is currently 19 Republicans to 21 Democrats. The balance in the Florida State House is 46 Republicans to 74 Democrats.

Threatening to close most agencies of the state government unless the state legislature enacted a tax increase of at least $2.5 billion, Governor Lawton Chiles ordered a special session of the state legislature to begin on July 1. At the Governor's insistence, the Florida Legislature subsequently passed a budget resolution on July 2, 1992, calling for a $250 million tax increase in fiscal year 1993, the largest tax increase in state history. Governor Chile's popularity has markedly declined in the ensuing tax revolt.

THE PRESIDENT HAS SEEN 8/3

(article in 500 file)

JULY 24, 1992

President George Bush
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

Recent published reports indicate that Secretary of State James Baker is planning to resign to run your reelection campaign for president.

In 1988 when Mr. Baker resigned as Secretary of the Treasury to run your presidential campaign he correctly left the government and went to work at your campaign organization.

This time, however, according to published reports, you are considering bringing Secretary Baker onto the White House staff to carry out these responsibilities.

It is obvious to all that if Mr. Baker leaves his current position as Secretary of State, it will be for the purpose of running your reelection campaign. Under these circumstances it would be wrong and improper for Mr. Baker to assume a White House position or any other government position. Mr. Baker should be working for and paid by your campaign in carrying out these political responsibilities.

The practice of public officials leaving the government to assume leadership roles in presidential campaigns, as Secretary Baker did in 1988, is well-established.

During the 1976 presidential election Howard Callaway resigned his position as Secretary of the Army to head President Ford's reelection campaign. Mr. Callaway left the Ford campaign in March 1976 and was replaced by Rogers C. B. Morton. After questions were raised about the propriety of Mr. Morton working both in the White House and in the Ford campaign, Mr. Morton resigned his White House position and went to the Ford reelection committee. Mr. Baker also resigned from a government position in 1976, as Undersecretary of Commerce, to go to work for the Ford reelection committee. In August 1976, Mr. Baker replaced Mr. Morton as head of the Ford campaign.

In 1980, Hamilton Jordan left his position as White House Chief of Staff to President Carter to assume a position as deputy director of the Democratic National Committee, where he played a leading role in the Carter reelection campaign. President Carter's White House political liaison, Tim Kraft, also left his government post to become manager of the reelection campaign.

In 1984, Ed Rollins left his White House post to manage President Reagan's reelection campaign. And, as noted earlier, Secretary Baker left his government position as Secretary of the Treasury in 1988 to run your campaign.

At the outset of your Administration you stated to senior government officials that a guiding principle of your Administration would be "to avoid even the appearance of what is wrong."

For Mr. Baker to move from the State Department to the White House staff to run your reelection campaign appears wrong and would be wrong.

Common Cause strongly urges you to ensure that if Secretary Baker takes on the responsibility of running your reelection campaign, he leaves the government and carries out these responsibilities at your campaign organization.

Sincerely,

Fred Wertheimer
President

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: STEVE PROVOST

SUBJECT: JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA RALLY

I. SUMMARY

On Monday, August 3, at 12:30 p.m., you will address approximately 6,000 people gathered at The Landing, a riverfront site in Jacksonville, Florida. You will be introduced by Senator Connie Mack.

II. DISCUSSION

Your remarks (11 minutes/cards) cover philosophical and substantive differences between you and the "other side" in this campaign. The "sound-bite" of the day is: "if the other side gets in office -- change will be all you will have left in your pocket." (page 3)

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: JACKSONVILLE RALLY
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA
AUGUST 3, 1992
12:30 P.M.

Senator Mack, thank you. What a fantastic job you are doing for this great state.

Congressmen Cliff Stearns and Craig James, Minority Leader Crenshaw, State Treasurer Gallagher, Councilwoman Fowler -- thank you all.

I know the Americakids kept you entertained while you were waiting. I want to give them a round of applause. I also want to give special thanks to the Fletcher High School Marching Band and the Fletcher High School cheerleaders.

Finally, Mayor Austin thanks for your hospitality in this great city. Thanks even more for your support -- and for your open-mindedness toward the "other side." If I see the Democratic leaders in Washington -- I will tell them you were here -- but I will point out that you wore ear plugs.//

If you're like me, you're grabbing every spare moment you can to keep up with the Games in Barcelona. My favorite events have been swimming -- for three reasons.

First -- Martin Zubero. His backstroke was for Spain -- but I bet his heart was with his hometown of Jacksonville.

Then there's Pablo Morales, the swimmer who missed out in '84, didn't make the team in '88, then came back this year to take the Gold -- // at the ripe old age of 27. I don't know why, but I kind of like a guy who proves youth and inexperience are no match for maturity and determination. //

The other athlete who inspires me is Summer Sanders -- (how's that for the name of a swimmer!). Summer was trailing halfway through the 200 meter butterfly -- then came on strong to win at the finish. (I think there's a metaphor for something in Summer's performance -- but I can't quite put my finger on it.)//

We've heard a lot of talk about change this year -- the other side has put forth more heat than this Florida sunshine. But don't worry, I'm getting ready to talk back -- and take my case to the American people.

The other side talks about change -- but when you look at their position on the most radical change of the year -- limiting the tenure of members of Congress -- they quietly admit they are against the idea.

That's change alright. Changing their tune!//

The other side talks about change -- but in a certain 7,000 word speech at their convention -- they devote just 141 words to defense and foreign policy. And when they finally get around to it, they propose $60 billion in cuts beyond what we feel is responsible. They don't mention that these reckless cuts will cost a million jobs across America -- some right here in Jacksonville.

That's change alright. Changing the subject!

The other side talks about change -- but look at their first two ideas on the economy. They propose a $150 billion tax increase, half of it paid by small businessmen and farmers -- and then follow it up with a new 7 percent payroll tax -- to pay for a government-run health-care scheme.

That's change all right. Because if the other side gets in office -- change is all you will have left in your pocket!//

I stand for a different way, a different approach.

Congress has a lower rate of turnover than Soviet Politburo used to have. 36 years with one power in party. I'm fighting for term limits ... because the only way to break the deadlock in Washington is by clearing out a little deadwood on Capitol Hill.//

I know that gutting our defense is politically appealing, but I'm not going to let it happen. For the sake of our children, for the sake of our economy -- I will keep America strong.//

I don't believe the way to jump start our economy is by making working people pay more taxes. I trust you to spend your hard earned dollars better than any bureaucrat can.//

You see, this election is not just about change -- because change has a flip-side. That flip-side is called trust. When you get right down to it, this election will be like every other: When you pull that curtain and cast your vote -- trust matters.//

Many times, in the White House late at night, the phone rings. Most times it's an aide double-checking the next day's schedule. But sometimes it's another voice -- more serious, more solemn -- bringing news of a coup in a powerful country, or word of a bully threatening the peace halfway around the world. /

The American people need to know that the man who answers that phone has the experience, the seasoning -- the guts -- to do the right thing. // You want a leader you can trust. I believe I have proved -- I am that man. //

Now, that's trust in the traditional sense -- trust that keeps America safe and strong. But that's just part of the picture. Trust matters -- when you're looking to someone to build a strong economy ... a better future. I stake my claim on a simple philosophy: To lead a great nation ... you must first trust the people you lead.

Look at every big issue we face. You'll see a choice -- between those who put their faith in everyday Americans -- and those who put their faith in government.

The other side says they want to put people first -- but if you look at their ideas real close -- the people they put first are all on a government payroll. //

They remind me of the cartoon of a bus with two donkeys on board. The traffic sign above says -- "left lane closed -- keep right next four months."

And one donkey is whispering -- don't worry -- "we'll just stay in this lane 'till November." //

I didn't adopt my philosophy for four months -- I adopted my philosophy more than four decades ago -- when I first ran a business, tried to meet a payroll. I learned then not to put my trust in government -- but to put my trust in people.

I trust parents -- not the government -- to make the decisions that matter in life. //

I trust parents -- not the government -- to choose their children's schools -- public, private or religious. //

I trust parents -- not the government -- to choose their children's child care. // When the other side says, "government knows best" -- I say: Parents know better. Parents know better than some bureaucrat in Washington, D.C. //

And I trust people -- not the government -- to decide where and when you get a doctor's help. We can control costs -- and we can make coverage more available -- without a government takeover of health care.

I think Americans deserve better than a health care system with the efficiency of the motor vehicle department -- and the compassion of the KGB! //

I know my stands aren't popular in all places. But they don't come from the latest poll or a special interest ... they come from principle.

I make you one promise in this campaign. Others can listen to the polls -- others can pay attention to the pols (pahls): I'm going to do what's right for America.

Let me close today with a few words from the heart. // Barbara and I are blessed -- blessed to serve at a moment in history when so many of the old fears have been driven away ...

when so many new hopes stand within our reach.

The changes we've worked for have come to pass: The end of the Cold War ... the collapse of imperial communism ... a new birth of freedom, from Managua to Moscow. A new world of hope for ourselves -- for our kids.

The world we live in is a safer world -- safer than it was a decade ago / a year ago -- safer than it was two months ago, when the kids right here walked out of school ... and into summer.

We have done so much the past four years, now it is time to turn our attention home. When we put our faith in people -- we can do anything.

We have changed the world -- we will change America. We will do not what is easy or politically appealing -- but what is right for us and our children. We will do what's right for America. //

Thank you all for this warm Florida welcome -- and may God bless this the United States of America.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THOUGH: STEVE PROVOST SP
FROM: ANDY FERGUSON AF
SUBJECT: SHAW INDUSTRIES

On Monday, August 3rd, at 9:00 a.m., you will deliver remarks (12 minutes) to a crowd of 400 workers in the Terminal Building of Shaw Industries. Located in Dalton, Georgia, Shaw is the world's largest carpet manufacturer. Shaw's CEO Robert Shaw introduces you.

Your speech argues the case for free trade in general and NAFTA in particular -- stressing that freer trade will spur growth and create jobs.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: SHAW INDUSTRIES
DALTON, GEORGIA
MONDAY, AUGUST 3, 1992
9:00 A.M.

Thank you for that kind introduction.

(Acknowledgments)

It's great to be in Dalton. // ((I think you know why I've come here today. I want to make sure I'm first in line when Catamount tickets go on sale.))

I've come for another reason too. America is moving into a new age, and Dalton gives us a glimpse of that future. Dalton takes challenges and reinvents them as opportunities. With the flexibility of companies like Shaw -- with the brainpower and grit of your chemists and maintenance mechanics and designers --

Dalton shows America the face of the 21st century. Dalton shows the way.

In the history of your industry you find a parable of American progress. It starts simply -- families selling hand-tufted bedspreads they made themselves, out on Highway 41, Peacock Alley. It continues with the sprawling factories that sprung up after the war, rolling their carpets into homes and offices in every corner of America. And it continues today -- with an industry retooled by high technology, a workforce more highly skilled than ever before, and a marketplace as big as the world.

The story has important lessons -- lessons about how America grows and prospers. This election year, those lessons couldn't be more timely. The question today is not can America compete in the new global economy. I know // and you know // we can. The question is how -- how do we stay number one -- how do we create jobs for every American, and create opportunity for our kids.

Some people say: let government do it. But government doesn't create jobs -- people do. Government doesn't provide opportunity -- hard work does. Look around. This company -- this industry -- wasn't built by some congressional subcommittee. It was born and built right here in Dalton -- where free men and women took the risks and reaped the rewards.

That's a lesson we shouldn't forget this election year. When you get down to it, leadership is about trust. Trust runs both ways. You need a leader you can trust, but you also need a leader who trusts you -- trusts you, and not the government to make the important decisions about your lives.

When you forget about this kind of trust -- trusting the people -- you get some crazy ideas. I'll give you an example. These days the other side is pushing the idea that the way to fix this economy is to raise taxes -- $150 billion dollars worth. And at least half of that will fall on family farmers and small businesses. They call that change. I guess it makes sense. Because if the other guy gets in office -- change is all you'll have left in your pocket.

Here's another crazy idea they're pushing. They think they can fix health care by slapping you with a 7 percent payroll tax -- to finance a government takeover scheme. We'll have a health care system with the efficiency of the Motor Vehicles Department and the compassion of the KGB. As long as I am President, I'm not going to let that happen.

Trusting the people -- it's an idea that applies to almost every issue this election. Especially when it comes to how we can compete in this new global economy -- how we can take on the new global competition head to head and win.

Let me tell you how I learned about competing in the world. I'm a Texan -- built my business there, raised my family there. And in Texas I saw businesses and cities and towns rise up from those dusty plains -- a place where you'd never expect it. And the reason was that the whole world thirsted for what Texans had to offer -- Texas crude and cattle and cotton. We knew the more goods we sold outside our borders, the more jobs we created within them. I never forgot that lesson.

And I saw it again when I went into public life. I was ambassador to the U.N., served in China, ran the CIA -- traveled the world a bit. And everyday I was outside this country I learned again how important America was to the world -- and how important the world was to America. I'm talking about creating American jobs -- about making this economy grow and prosper, and making sure our kids have an even better life than we've had.

I've seen this every day for three-and-a-half years as President. I heard someone the other day say that this country was the "laughingstock of the world." Well, I suspect this guy - I won't name names -- hasn't been around much. I'd like to have him walk the streets of Warsaw or Moscow -- maybe sit him down with Boris Yeltsin or Helmut Kohl or Prime Minister Miyazawa. They'd tell him what you and I already know: This country is no laughingstock. The United States of America is the undisputed leader of the world and I intend to keep it that way.

And here's one way we're going to do it: trade // exports // open up markets so you can sell the goods you make right here. The day is long gone when you could sell carpets and rugs in the 50 states and leave it at that. These days, standing still means falling behind. It's a new world -- markets opening up in Guadalajara // Jakarta // Santiago // Moscow. And I'm going to see to it that Americans get there first.

It won't be a cakewalk. If you want America to lead the world, you need a leader who knows the territory -- someone you can trust to hammer out a good deal around the negotiating table. But you need even more: you need a leader who trusts you -- someone who knows that Americans are the most productive, most competitive workers the world has ever seen. All you need is a chance to show your stuff. And as long as I'm President, you're going to get that chance.

I'll give you an example: some people look at the former Soviet Union and see 300 million former communists -- we look at it and see 300 million future customers. Now, math was never my favorite subject, but I've done a little computing on this. Let's say there's fifty million homes in the former Soviet Union ... maybe four-and-a-half billion square yards of floor space ... bare floor space ... that's four-and-a-half billion square yards just waiting to be covered by your finest patterned berber. Of course, I'm factoring in kitchens and bathtubs, too /// but I have faith in your salesmen. ////

Another example: Since 1989, carpet exports to Mexico are up 60 percent. Pretty good. But here in Dalton, pretty good isn't good enough. We're going to build on that success. Right now, we're hammering out a new free trade agreement with Mexico - - we call it NAFTA. Here's what it'll do: create 300,000 American jobs by 1995 -- and one of the largest free trade areas in the world. Free trade opens up the road -- and on the open road, American workers leave the competition in the dust. Or as my buddy Arnold Schwarzenegger would put it: Hasta la vista, baby! [AH-stah la VEE-stah]////

Now it may be hard to believe, but the other side looks at these barriers falling, and they say: Hold everything. They see these unbelievable opportunities, these vast markets to sell your goods, and they say: We better not try. The challenge is too great, the odds are too long. They say: America can't compete. They say: these other countries are going to walk all over us.

You know what? In a way they are going to walk all over us. They're going to walk all over carpet made right here in Dalton, Georgia. ////

They say: America can't compete. //

I say: America will compete, and America will win. ///

They say: Pull the blinds, lock the door, the American worker can't hack it. //

I say: The American worker can out-think, out-work, out-compete anyone, anytime, anywhere. ////

Here's a fact they better learn: foreign trade supports the jobs of 153,000 Georgians, more than 7 million Americans. And here's my pledge to you: I won't let anyone endanger a single one of those jobs by closing up trade.

Let them worry and whine: I will fight for open markets, because that means more jobs here in Dalton, and in every city and state of our country. Let them run this country down -- let them carp on what's wrong with America.

I'm going to do what's right for America.

That's what leadership is -- that's what trust is.

I'd like to bring these pessimists down to Dalton, to see this town, this industry. They might discover they've got nothing to fear from American workers -- and that American workers have nothing to fear from competition. This is one workforce that'll beat the pants off any competition.

That's the lesson of Dalton. You didn't fear the future, you shaped it. Your industry didn't retreat from foreign markets; you conquered them. And with leadership that trusts in you, you'll keep beating the pants off the competition.

Thank you for the chance to visit with you. God bless you and God bless the United States.

The first "official" post-Dem Convention ad in 1988 was the RNC's "I Remember You." The 30-second spot, which began airing 7/26/88, featured images from the Carter years and was credited with knocking down Dukakis' Atlanta bounce. PARTIAL TEXT:
"You're seeing what America was like just seven years ago. The Republicans have worked very hard to make sure you'll never have to see this again."

W. TIMES' Garrett & Roman report only 92 of 166 House GOPers and 26 of 43 GOP Senators will go to Houston, compared with 240 of 265 Dem Members and 50 of 57 Dem Senators in NY. GOP sources "conceded" the "surprisingly large" number of no-shows "reflects the malaise infecting party ranks" and offered "several benign explanations" including "hot, muggy Houston weather," family vacations, "boredom," and differences in the ways the parties select delegates. Dem officeholders are given "superdelegate" status while the GOP grants delegate status through a state party or through delegate-selection. Non-attending Rep. David Dreier (R-CA): "There are a lot of people who are concerned they could go down with the president." Non-attending Rep. Steve Gunderson (R-WI): "The 30 to 40 seats we thought we could pick up are in jeopardy" (8/1). U.S. NEWS counts at least 15 GOP Sens. who will stay away, 3 of whom are up for re-election and will take a pass at any national exposure: Bond (R-MO), Coats (R-IN), and Packwood (R-OR). Other no-shows: Danforth, Brown, Craig, Durenberger, Garn, Hatch, Gorton, Hatfield, Helms, Roth, Rudman, and Warner. Neither Stevens nor Kassebaum has decided (8/10 issue). RNC Chair Rich Bond, asked about the above: "We ought to call Bill Clinton in to be questioned on a missing person's case. They made missing persons of Foley and Gephardt and Mitchell and the [Dem] leadership. ... They disappeared, they got buried. In a 53-minute speech, Bill Clinton didn't mention the word Congress once and he rewrote it 19 times. ... [Noting Gramm, Dole, Gingrich, Michel and Johnson will speak] We're going to showcase our congressmen" ("Evans & Novak," CNN, 8/1).

BUCHANAN TO SPEAK IN PRIME TIME: RNC Convention Manager Wm Harris announced Pat Buchanan will speak on 8/17 at 10:00p (EDT). Convention program chair Craig Fuller said Bush spoke with Buchanan (RNC release, 8/1). The time slot was "at issue" since 8/17 is "devoted to foreign policy, an area where [Buchanan's] differences with Bush are the most pronounced." Buchanan had been offered a 8/18 slot previously (Schwartz/Devroy, W. POST, 8/1). RNC Chair Bond on his personal feud with Buchanan: "There are things that were said that maybe I wish I didn't say, maybe Pat Buchanan wishes he didn't say. ... If I have offended Pat Buchanan, then I would like to not offend him any further. ... I feel that he feels very positive towards me, I feel very positive towards his willingness to help George Bush, and to dedicate the next 90 days or so of this fall election to helping George Bush get elected" (CNN, 8/1).

BARBARA: TIME' Margaret Carlson: "Putting your wife out there because she's more popular than you are ... looks very bad" ("Inside Washington," 8/1).

REAGAN: NEWSWEEK reports after Reagan visited the "exclusive" Bohemian Grove resort in N. CA, many saw a "frail appearance." One witness: "He'd finally gone gray, and for the first time I thought he looked like he'd really slowed down." Reagan will speak Monday night in Houston. "Democrats are saying they're delighted the Old Man will be there. His appearance, they say, will play into their pitch that the Clinton/Gore ticket represents youth and change" (8/10 issue).

BIG TENT: N.Y. TIMES' Berke reports the pro-choice GOP caravan "has stalled in the heartland. ... There have been no crowds at all." Republicans for Choice's Ann Stone said "the trip was never intended to draw crowds but instead to attract news." Stone to a reporter: "Sorry there weren't more people here." Then "quickly revising her comment": "No I'm not. I'm actually pleased. If you go by the numbers at rallies, we should fold up our tent and go away" (8/2). Nat'l Republican Coalition for Choice has been refused space to sell its wares at the convention although the pro-life TX Eagle Forum "has been given a booth and plans to sell 'pro-family' literature." Host cmte vending booth coord. Tom Boak: "The difference is that Texas Eagle Forum is coming in the vending booths with souvenirs that are non-issue related." Phyllis Schlafly "acknowledged" she'd be selling books on child care, child abuse and literature "pertaining to the ACLU and the differences between" Dems and GOPers. GOP Coalition for Choice's Nancy Sternoff: "If that's not an issue, I don't know what is" (Root, HOUSTON POST, 7/31). "Outspoken abortion-rights advocate" Rep. Nancy Johnson (R-CT) will be given a non-prime-time speaking slot "most likely during one of the convention's morning sessions." RNC communications dir. Gary Koops said no official decision had been made about Johnson and that by "allowing" her to speak, "no one should consider this a sign the party is willing to change its platform." Nat'l Republican Coalition for Choice spokesperson Nancy Sternoff: "If she will be as vocal about her position on choice at the convention as she has been historically, we will be thrilled" (Roth, HOUSTON CHRONICLE, 8/1).

MINORITY HIRING: In the week since the "criticism [began] over the progress in minority convention hiring," minority contracts rose from 7% to more than 10% and officials say 15% "is in sight." Host cmte chair Ken Lay: "The Host Committee is very serious about giving minority firms all the opportunities we can give them." City dir. of affirmative action and contract compliance Lee Elliott Brown: "I have always felt they were going to make it." Host cmte exec. dir Nancy McNeil said the cmte "has not gotten credit for all the minority business that it has done because not all the companies involved are city-certified" (Nichols, DALLAS MORNING NEWS, 8/2).

"DON'T BELIEVE THE HYPE": In a HOUSTON POST op-ed, GOPers of Morehouse College/convention interns Said Sewell and Kurtyce Cole make "a case for black Republicans" (7/31).

*2 BUSH ADS: 2 POSITIVE ADS START TODAY, UTILIZE DIRECT FORMAT
Despite some reports that they had been recalled (CNN, 8/1) and expectations that they might be negative attacks on Clinton, Bush-Quayle has made a national CNN and selective state buy for two positive ads (one 30", one 60") beginning tonight. The ads apparently will not run in either CA or NY. Both ads use an unusual extreme close-up picture of the President speaking direct to camera on the principles that should guide change and on a constitutional amendment to balance the budget (see FULL TEXTS below). Some have speculated that the subject matter, timing and location of the buys were selected to shore up Bush's base GOP vote (N.Y. NEWSDAY, 8/2). These first ads are the kick-off of a two-week buy, which according to one campaign source will use ads each dealing with a single topic (BOSTON HERALD 8/2). The campaign told The HOTLINE tonight's ads have not been recalled, although technical adjustments were necessary in the disclaimers and required new spots be sent to the stations this morning.

PRE-EMPTIVE JAB: Clinton "jumped the gun ... responding to a negative ad that George Bush hasn't even aired yet" by proclaiming at the NGA meeting in CT he was "running against the failed president of a big country." The line was meant to respond to convention sign already up in Houston, calling Clinton "the failed Governor of a small state" (Seelye, PHILA. INQUIRER, 8/2). Balto. SUN's Frece reports such a Bush "yet-to-be-aired" TV spot, but adds Bush adviser Charles Black "said the 'failed governor' ad will not be in the 'first wave' of ads" (8/2). N.Y. TIMES' Kelly also reports the anti-Clinton slogan "is expected to be featured in television commercials" (8/2). The Dems are spreading the expectation that the "failed Governor" line would be used in the Bush ads; example -- Gov. David Walters (D-OK) on C-SPAN interview with Brian Lamb (8/2). NEWSDAY's Berkowitz says Clinton officials have said they won't air TV ads until after the GOP convention "unless Bush attacks Clinton in his ads" (8/2).

TEXTS: The following ads were sent to stations 7/30 for airing starting 8/3: The production slates of the ads indicate they were produced by the November Company, with dubs made on 7/30 at VCA Teletronics.

"GUIDED/CC" is a 60" ad. Opening scene: Blank white screen. In the center, in black letters, in quotes: "Change must be guided by principle." To the lower right of the quote is the Presidential seal. The only voice on the ad is Bush, starting voice under, and then extreme close-up direct to camera, with the screen cutting off the top 20% of his head. Bush wears a white shirt with tie, against a white background. BUSH: "Everyone wants change. [PIC CUTS FROM OPENING WHITE SCREEN TO BUSH CLOSE-UP] America must change. But change must be guided by principle. And there are three basic principles that must lead our quest for change. [JUMP CUT] First, we must control wasteful government spending -- that's absolutely essential for the kind of change the American people want. And, second, we must strengthen the American family. The decline of the American family is hurting the soul of America. We've got to change that. [JUMP CUT] Third, we're a nation of laws. We must increase respect for the law. We must pass strong legislation to help the fight against crime and to back-up our police officers, our law-enforcement officers out on the street. These are the kinds of changes that America needs and I'm convinced I can [PIC FADES TO WHITE SCREEN WITH DISCLAIMER] bring about that change." Closing white screen says simply "President Bush" underlined, with disclaimer: "Paid for by Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee, Inc."

"FEDERAL/CC" is a 30" ad. Opening scene: Blank white screen. In the center, in black letters, in quotes: "We must reduce the huge federal deficit." To the lower right of the quote is the Presidential seal. The only voice on the ad is Bush, starting voice under, and then extreme close-up direct to camera, with the screen cutting off the top 25% of his head. Bush wears a white shirt with tie, against a white background. BUSH: "To get our economy moving faster [CUT TO EXTREME CLOSE-UP OF BUSH TO CAMERA] "we have to reduce the huge federal deficit by cutting spending. [PAUSE] The only way to do that with certainty is to pass the balanced budget amendment. And earlier this summer, we came nine votes short of getting the two-thirds majority needed to pass it. [WITH STRONG EMPHASIS] I'm going to fight to get those nine votes from a new Congress next year and pass the balanced [FADE TO CLOSING WHITE SCREEN] budget amendment." Closing white screen says simply "President Bush" underlined, with disclaimer: "Paid for by Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee, Inc."

EARLY REAX: "Rather drab" (Berkowitz, NEWSDAY, 8/2).

ABC's "Good Morning America" showed the last 20" of the 60" ad (without jump-cuts). Annenberg School's Kathleen Hall Jamieson: "The ads at this point ought to be providing a very clear sense of where George Bush is going to take us in the next four years, these ads don't do that. They also don't recap what he's accomplished in the last four ... they're not playing from what most people still perceive to be the strength of the Bush administration -- foreign affairs." HOTLINE publisher Doug Bailey: "The problem with the ad is not the style, which is very simple and very direct and therefore has the opportunity to get the message through ... I'm not sure that this message is the right one ... Most voters want to know where the country is going, and these ads don't address that" (ABC, 8/3). From CBS, ADVERTISING AGE's Bob Garfield: "The term would be naked desperation. He's running 3rd in the polls, just behind Clinton, and I think Charles Barkley just edged ahead of him ... It's white on white ... An incumbent president talking about change. If it's not an oxymoron, it's certainly a paradox ... It's not such a bad spot. And I think we'll see much better stuff." Ad exec Jerry Della Femina: "He sounds like a man who feels like he may have come up short by about 999 points of light ... It looks as though Clinton is winning. If he can get Bush to run a few more commercials like that, one he's got it won." ("CBS This Morning," 8/3).

THE BUY -- STATES: Bush-Quayle refused to confirm any reports of state buys, but NEWSDAY reports, according to ad sales reps, local stations to air the ads include those in CT, TX, IN, CO, FL, GA, KY, LA, MI, MO, NC, OH, MS, AL, IL and OK. "Notably absent" are NY and CA (8/2).

THE BUY -- PROGRAMMING: NEWSDAY's Berkowitz goes on to report the programs in which the ads will run include "48 Hours," "Empty Nest," and reruns of "Golden Girls," "Taxi," "America's Most Wanted" and "Cheers" (8/2). The "Cheers" buy might raise some eyebrows given the Bush ad agency has indicated its ads would run only on programs chosen for their family values. RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH reminds readers the agency last month asked the networks "to evaluate the moral values of their programs and decide which were appropriate for the president's ads" (8/2). "In other words, Murphy Brown is out, Mary Tyler Moore is in" (Kennedy, BOSTON HERALD, 8/2). 1988 Bush time buyer Catherine Farrell disagreed with the strategy saying she "would definitely buy Murphy Brown" (PHILA. INQUIRER, 8/2). Campaigning in CA, Gore warned of what was coming by turning the tables on the program-screening approach: "Do you remember their [ads] the last time around? I think the television stations ought to apply a lie detector test before they accept the commercials" (S.F. EXAMINER, 8/3).

THE BUY -- MONEY: The Bush ad buy is being made from the $5 million in unspent Bush-Quayle primary funds which can only be used prior to the convention (NEWSDAY, 8/2). Campaign finance analyst Herb Alexander pointed out the Bush primary dollars mean that in between the conventions, the campaigns "are not on a completely level playing field" (BOSTON HERALD 8/2).

*3 MARY MATALIN: QUITE CONTRARY

While launching the "positive" ads, Bush-Quayle "also issued the most stinging personal attack of the campaign to date" in Sunday's 3-page "fax attack" issued by campaign pol. director Mary Matalin (Page, N.Y. NEWSDAY, 8/3). The release offers six categories of "Who said?" questions using Clinton camp anti-Bush quotes. Highlights: "Who said, 'George Bush is a racist'?" "Who called George Bush a tax evader ... 'that fellow who claims Texas so he doesn't have to pay taxes in Maine'?" "Which campaign had to spend thousands of taxpayer dollars on private investigators to fend off 'bimbo eruptions'?" It concludes: "You feel like a 'one-man landfill'? ... No Willie, it's not those Wendy's burgers or Dunkin' Donuts or even those scrumptious home-baked cookies. It's that Alka-Seltzer feeling you get when you're the leader of the 'garbage load' ... party. We respectfully suggest you and your fellow Democrat sniveling hypocrites read our lips: SHUT UP AND SIT DOWN so we can get back to more Highlights of the Clinton Record. If we're really at your 'belly button' ... it feels like Mount Everest compared to your lower-than-a-snake's belly campaign" (Bush-Quayle release, 8/2). Quite milder by comparison, Saturday's fax, featuring a 3-page "backgrounder," was titled "Failure in Arkansas: 'Project Success' -- Slick Willie Taking Credit Where Credit Isn't Due" (B-Q, 8/1). Friday's release was titled, "Bill Clinton's Welfare Reform Crusade -- A wiggle, a waffle or a waiver? Inquiring voters want to know" (B-Q, 7/31). Only Sunday's fax lists Matalin as a contact; the other two ask reporters to contact the press office. Matalin: "It's Sunday. I was having a little fun" (USA TODAY, 8/3). The fax's tone "was unusually snide even by the standards of attack politics" (AP/W. TIMES, 8/3). "Bizarre ... Even by political standards, it was vitriolic and snide" (Chen, L.A. TIMES, 8/3). "A new line of attack on personal issues ... a stinging broadside" (Lewis, DALLAS MORNING NEWS, 8/3). With the fax, the B-Q campaign "tried to revive the accusations of marital infidelity ... as a campaign issue." The fax "threatened to drown out the President's own message." Bush strategist Charles Black: "It's Mary's, but she has the authority to do it. ... We'll stand by it." Clinton communications dir. George Stephanopoulos: "Bush's edict is being disobeyed daily by his own staff. ... Once again, he's failed to keep his word" (N.Y. TIMES, 8/3). Clinton spokesperson Dee Dee Myers: "It's beneath the dignity of a presidential campaign, and it's beneath the dignity of the American people" (NEWSDAY, 8/3). Columnist Sandy Grady: "The long-distance love affair between James Carville and Mary Matalin is getting seriously intense. ... crockery's flying. If [either] could get hold of a Scud launcher, either George Bush's or Bill Clinton's headquarters would be leveled into a garbage dump" (PHILA. DAILY NEWS, 8/3). ABC Morton Dean mentioned the fax, quoted the title, and noted "the memo offered no proof" the Clinton campaign hired investigators with tax-payer money. HOTLINE publisher Doug Bailey: "It's awfully hardball awfully early ... On the other hand, the president and the party have a severe problem right now in keeping their own ranks enthusiastic about the campaign. So one of the things they're doing is to throw some red meat out on the table so the hard-core Republicans and conservatives can rally around the campaign. And frankly I've heard in the last week, since the campaign started doing this, more positive vibrations from within the Republican camp than I've heard in a long time. And so in that sense it's good. But in another sense, when you're talking hardball and negatives, you're not talking what most swing voters in this election want to hear, and that is where is the country going and how are we going to get there?" ("Good Morning America," 8/3).

NYT RESPONSE: DNC Chair Ron Brown responded to Matalin's N.Y. TIMES "We never said ... [Clinton's] a philandering, pot-smoking draft dodging" comment (see HOTLINE 7/31). Brown: "Their tactics are state of the art sleaze. ... Anyone who knows Mary Matalin knows she is a true political professional. She would never have used such a vicious smear unless she was instructed to do so. ... A few months ago, George Bush ordered his staff in writing to 'stay out of the sleaze business.' Today that statement joins the lexicon of lies that include 'Read my lips' ..." (DNC release, 7/31). Charlie Black: "She didn't bring it up, and her answer is, 'No, we're not going to make personal attacks.' And we're not. She's not, nobody is. ... The reporter brought it up" (W. POST, 8/1).

*4 DISSENTING VOICES: CONSERVATIVE PAPERS SAY BUSH STEP DOWN

Under header, "Stand down, Mr. Bush" the ORANGE CO. REGISTER calls for Bush to withdraw before the GOP convention. Bush "can render his presidency most successful only by giving it up, voluntarily," giving way to a "genuine convention, not a scripted one, that would generate both great theater and the kind of popular responsiveness that alone can overcome the Clinton-Gore insurgency." Bush "has shown too much of a willingness to work in tandem with congressional Democrats" and "even in his favored arena of foreign policy, Mr. Bush has failed every bit as much as that last notable failure, Jimmy Carter." Bush's broken no-new-tax pledge is "as profound a breach of faith with the electorate as has occurred in America's recent political memory" and it "resembles" Carter's blaming "his troubles" on the "people's malaise" (8/2). The "scathing editorial" in the paper known as "the voice of [CA's] most conservative county," continues "a series of blows" to the Bush effort that "even the most fervent" GOPers agree "may topple" Bush. Sen. John Seymour (R-CA): "George Bush has never listened to the Register and he is not going to listen to them now. We don't take the editorial seriously, although we take the sentiment of the people being dissatisfied ... seriously" (Raine, S.F. EXAMINER, 8/2). Rep. Bob Dornan (R-CA) said calling for Bush to pull out is "misguided": "Bush is finally starting to come off the corner. He needs to be punched in the face and smell blood a few times before he responds" (AP/W. TIMES, 8/2). USA TODAY subhead in "Rumor Central" column: "Will the president pull a Perot?" (8/3). REGISTER's Ken Grubbs: "We can't really expect [Bush] to stand down, but we do think that there's not much point in his sticking around." Conservative activist Burton Pines: "The trouble is, not when George Bush is going to start to campaign, but what's he going to say when he campaigns?" ("Nightline," ABC, 7/31). Jack Germond: "The president if nothing else is tenacious as a politician, you couldn't get him out of there if you beat him with a stick." Fred Barnes: "He hasn't knocked that rumor down hard, and has some people in the White House worried." Chance Bush will decline nomination (scale 0-10): Fred Barnes -1, Eleanor Clift 1, Jack Germond .000, U.S. NEWS' Mort Zuckerman 0, John McLaughlin 0 ("Group," 8/1). Sec/Trans. Andrew Card on any chance of Bush quitting or dropping Quayle: "None" ("Newsmaker Sunday," CNN, 8/2).

DAMNED YANKEE: Two CT papers call for Bush to step down. Waterbury REPUBLICAN-AMERICAN: "Bush can best serve his country and save the Union by declining the nomination." A companion editorial touts Kemp for president (8/2). New Britain HERALD: "The president has clearly run out of ideas on how to deal with an economy that has left this nation more ravaged than at any time since the Great Depression. ... Bush appears out of energy and tired of the whole mess. The vibrant, buoyant George Bush of four years ago, a scrappy fighter at any level, seems to have been supplanted by a weary executive who's overwhelmed" (7/31).

ANOTHER COLUMNIST JOINS THE CHORUS: W.S. JOURNAL's Paul Gigot writes, "it has become increasingly clear, [Bush] has completed his presidential mission. ... debate on the matter goes beyond predictable critics to include Republicans who like the president and wish him well. ... For three weeks now, I have shopped this idea around to Republicans, many of them in the Bush administration, and the striking thing is how few disagree." Several "happy" consequences of Bush stepping down: "The Clinton/Gore victory tour would immediately suffer from radio silence ... And the GOP convention would be transformed from a morose coronation into a raucous, born-again revival" (8/3).

CONSERVATIVE ROUND-UP: Richard Viguerie, plugging a Kemp/Baker ticket: "[Bush] looks like he's in danger of not only losing embarrassingly, but taking down hundreds, perhaps thousands of [GOP] candidates." Retiring Rep. Vin Weber (R-MN): "We're in a very perilous position right now because Republicans are getting polls back that show them falling along with the president. That'll be reversed in the fall, but right now a lot of people are panicking and they're liable to jump on the bandwagon started by George Will and Richard Viguerie" ("Newsmaker Sunday," CNN, 8/2). BUFFALO NEWS' Doug Turner writes, "All people like Viguerie want is attention, but their attacks -- no matter how ridiculous -- inspire others" (8/3). RNC chair Rich Bond: "I think Paul Weyrich will be back with George Bush and actively supporting George Bush. I'm not so sure about Richard Viguerie" ("Evans & Novak," CNN, 8/1). Conservative activist Burton Pines: "I don't know a single conservative activist or leader who's got a good thing to say about George Bush. If he stays on the ticket, what we may individually do is hold our nose, choke down the bile, cross our fingers behind us in back and vote for George Bush. But no one's going to work for him. None of the contributions are going to come in. ... CBS ought to run a poll and see what a Kemp-Bennett ticket does against Clinton-Gore, see what a Baker-Bennett, Baker-Kemp ticket does. ... Run a poll and see if another [GOP] ticket wouldn't, in fact, trounce Clinton and Gore." Gov. Carroll Campbell (R-SC): "There are only two people running for president ... it's time the conservatives, if they are conservative, people that have a philosophy that is closer to George Bush than Bill Clinton, quit cannibalizing themselves and stand up and ... get the job done" ("Face the Nation," CBS, 8/2). ABC's Ann Compton on Bush's rainy IL appearance: "It's days like these that make campaigns consider giving it all up. Six-thousand paying guests waiting for ... Bush got drenched. President Bush showed no signs of quitting and he refused to even acknowledge newspaper articles over the weekend suggesting that he step aside." Bush: "I've never seen such a strange political year. ... When that convention in Houston is over, I'm going to come out and go after that opponent. He has been on my case for six months. And we're going to define it, and we're going to win the election" ("GMA," 8/3). MO Gov. John Ashcroft (R): "It's counter-productive for self-interested individuals to suggest that he leave" ("CBS This Morning," 8/3).

QUAYLE: Under header "Anti-Quayle Rumbling Hasn't Ended," N.Y. TIMES' Apple writes although Bush and senior GOPers aren't willing to discuss the Quayle controversy, if "you promise them anonymity ... [they] readily express their antagonism and especially their wish that Mr. Quayle would take himself out of the running." A "leading Midwestern Senator": "A lot of us wish [Quayle] would fall on his sword, go in and tell George Bush he was quitting for the sake of the party" (8/2). NEWSWEEK reports the Bush campaign "recently conducted a top secret poll that showed Dan Quayle is a liability with voters." But Bush told aides last week: "The case is closed" (8/10 issue).

ALSO: OMB dir. Dick Darman "adamantly opposes" Bush taking a pledge "that he will not make the same mistake again" about raising taxes because "it was the wrong thing to do." "Conservatives' solution: Ditch Darman" (U.S. NEWS, 8/10 issue). NEWSWEEK's Kelly blasts Darman's handling of the deficit in his new book "Adventures in Porkland," excerpted this week (8/10).

*5 BUSH STRATEGY CHATS: WHAT TO DO AND HOW TO DO IT

L.A. TIMES' Nelson highlights a recent meeting between ex-Reagan aides and Bush advisers. The Reagan aides were "stunned" when WH CoS Sam Skinner "rejected a suggestion" that Buchanan be "brought back into the fold." Skinner said Buchanan "should not be asked to participate in the campaign 'after those things he said about the President.'" Lyn Nofziger: "What the hell difference does that make? Do you want to win or do you want revenge? If you want to get even with Pat, get even after the election" (8/2). Bush "is expected to make more informal appearances like boxed lunches with workers ... to counter survey findings that many Americans think he is out of touch" (Lewis, DALLAS MORNING NEWS, 8/2). Analyst Stu Rothenberg: "In the current environment, the president can't possibly run for reelection on the question of whether or not he has done a good job. ... He must make the November election a referendum on (1) Bill Clinton and (2) the Democratic Party. And between now and November he must discredit both" (ROTHENBERG POLITICAL REPORT, 7/31 issue).

BAKER: RNC chair Rich Bond declined to say definitively whether the Sec/State would come to the campaign ("Evans & Novak," CNN, 8/1). BOSTON GLOBE's Trausch: "Never mind the peace talks, Jim. We've got a crisis here. Clinton and Gore rented a bus" (8/1). BEAUMONT (TX) ENTERPRISE editorial: "Baker should stay at post (7/31). TIME reports Bush is "unlikely" to nominate Dep. Sec/State Lawrence Eagleburger to replace Jim Baker if Baker comes to the campaign, due to Eagleburger's prominence in the House Banking Cmte "Iraggate" probe. Though Eagleburger "has not been linked directly to any illegal or improper activities ... Bush will probably ask Eagleburger to soldier on as Acting Secretary" (8/10 issue). NEWSWEEK's Margaret Warner: "Baker's not an alchemist he cannot create something where's there's nothing. He can give it drive, focus and discipline, but he cannot give the campaign a soul" ("Gang," CNN, 8/1).

HEAD SHRINKING: S.F. EXAMINER's Chris Matthews examines "an interesting paradox -- Why does a man who fights so hard to be president show so little interest in the job?" Some clues, can be found in TIME writers Goodgame/Duffy's new book explaining Bush's "1989-1992 sleepfest." The book, "Marching in Place," does to Bush "what another duo of young journalists, Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, once did to Richard Nixon: Explain how a president could destroy his own presidency" (W. TIMES, 8/2). Header over TIME's Goodgame: "What's wrong with Bush? Nothing - - except a free fall in the polls, a shaky economy, and a near revolt within his party. No wonder his mood is grim." A sidebox story examines Bush's health, noting the manifold "rumors of serious health problems" (8/10 issue). Dem analyst Mark Siegel writes, "the primary source of the leaks about ... Bush's major health problems is the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. On July 24, Mayo launched a comprehensive investigation of the failure of its celebrated security system" ("Washington Insider," 8/3).

THE EMPEROR'S NEW COATTAILS: CBS' Randall Pinkston: "With [Bush's] own sagging poll numbers, there are reports some incumbent Republicans prefer to run alone, at least for now." GOP analyst Kevin Phillips: "There's no great need to be involved with George Bush right now." WH CoS Sam Skinner: "Our problem is accommodating all the requests" (8/2). CHICAGO TRIBUNE header: "With Bush coattails, GOP Senate bids may hang by a thread" (8/2).

ECONOMY: Mort Zuckerman: "George Bush has got to be looking for a miracle, and I don't see one." Eleanor Clift: "It will take an act of God to turn this around for George Bush and Jim Baker is not an act of God." Is the economy strong enough to get Bush reelected?: Barnes: barely. All the others on 'Group' don't think so ("Group," 8/1). ROLL CALL's Kondracke reports the Bush campaign will issue a white paper charging Clinton's econ. plan "will cost more than 2.5 million jobs, raise taxes unprecedentedly, and increase the national debt by $1.2 trillion over four years" (8/3).

LET'S POLL ALL THE LAWYERS: A survey of attys in the National Law Journal shows attys for Clinton 58-30% (73-16% among women attys). Quayle's unfavorable rating: 74%. Gore's favorable: 71% (USA TODAY, 8/3).

MORE: N.Y. TIMES' Toner writes, "There are many ways to measure President Bush's problems these days, but a glance at the political map may be the most telling: He is at risk of losing the Republicans' renowned 'electoral lock.'" Of particular import: CA, "slipping further ... out of [GOP] reach," and a competitive race in the South. A graphic projects a possible "base of support" for Dems -- Dukakis states, states Dukakis lost by less than 5 pts, AR and TN -- 252 electoral votes. 270 needed to win (8/3). BOSTON HERALD's Woodlief also looks at the map, projecting 250 votes for Clinton, 189 for Bush, 99 toss-up (8/2). The ECONOMIST: "The Bush camp is more and more intrigued by John Major's success in the British election, where at the last moment Labour's proposed tax increases seemed to scare voters back to a floundering conservative [admin.]" (8/1 issue).

*6 BUSH IN CALIFORNIA: "GET A JOB OR GET OFF THE DOLE"

Bush "intensified his bid to make a campaign issue of welfare reform" at a Riverside, CA speech where he and "his lieutenants sought ... to portray the Clinton approach as overregimented and unworkable." Bush: "We need to say: 'Get a job or get off the dole.'" Although Clinton has proposed welfare recipients be allowed to stay on the rolls for only 2 years before returning to work and has called for federal guidelines that would require the states to establish job-training programs, WH welfare expert Gail Wilensky said Clinton was proposing a "program of government-guaranteed jobs for all and any who come in the door." Bush "used the contrast to further embellish a campaign theme" asking whether Clinton could be trusted. Bush: "I put my trust in people. ... Not in government" (Jehl, L.A. TIMES, 8/1). Bush's "markedly tepid" remarks to "about 1,000 overwhelmingly white listeners ... underscored the continuing fits-and-starts nature" of the campaign (Wines, N.Y. TIMES, 8/1). "The bitterness and frustration of [Bush] trailing far behind ...

were apparent" as Bush "sputtered": "You wait two years from now -- I mean two weeks from now ... I can not wait for our convention to roll up my sleeves and go after them and tell the American people what's really going on." Bush aides "made clear that Bush himself had urged that some of his campaign speeches reflect a more confrontational tone" (Jehl, L.A. TIMES, 8/1). Although Bush said he was "holding back" from politics until after the convention, "the atmosphere at Bush's speech was so partisan ... the campaign paid for the trip" (Kasindorf, N.Y. NEWSDAY, 8/1). Bush-Quayle's "Day Three" of the Clinton record faxes: "[Clinton's] platform calls for nothing beyond what Federal law already requires." The release cites various Clinton statements about welfare reform plans under header "See Elvis Wiggle" (release, 7/31).

OOPS! Bush "took his glitch-prone campaign" to a successful welfare and job-training program in CA, "but as it turned out his plan is already the law -- and the program he visited was part of the brainchild" of Clinton (Nelson, N.Y. DAILY NEWS, 8/1). Trying "to show the common touch" at the center, Bush took the phone from welfare-recipient Ross Rogers who was asking a security guard firm for a job and "tried to persuade" the firm to hire him. He was "stymied by one small credibility gap" and was overheard saying "Word of honor. ... Tell you what, I'll take a picture and send it to you" (Jehl, L.A. TIMES, 8/1). Clinton commun. dir. George Stephanopoulos: "In the three years before this campaign began, the words 'welfare reform' escaped from George Bush's lips only twice. It's campaign time so it must be time to talk about welfare" (C-G release, 7/31). NBC's George Lewis: "One reason George Bush is in trouble is that California, the state with the most electoral votes is also leading the big states with unemployment, 9.5%" (NBC, 7/31). DNC political dir. Paul Tully: "The thing that's extraordinary is that he's campaigning in a state today where the state employees are going from bank to bank trying to find a bank to cash their IOUs we have enormous economic problems, it's time for this country to pull together" ("Inside Politics," CNN, 7/31).

HERE TO STAY: Bush's "hastily arranged" swing through So. CA is "designed to counter horrendous poll results and quell talk" that Bush has "written off" CA. Bush CA manager Marty Wilson: "It would be a dangerous gambit. You don't turn your back on 54 electoral votes." Strategist Ken Khachigian: "I would lie in front of Air Force One before I'd let them pull out of [CA]. It would be politically stupid." B-Q spokesperson Tony Mitchell: "We are absolutely not writing off [CA]" (Jacobs, S.F. EXAMINER, 8/1).

*7 BUSH: OFFICIALS IN THE NEWS

EPA Admin. Wm Reilly has "sharply criticized" the Bush administration's "handling" of the Rio Earth Summit. Reilly made his "criticism" in a memo circulated throughout EPA, saying the administration "was slow to engage crucial issues, late in assembling a delegation and unwilling to devote sufficient resources to the meeting" (Schneider, N.Y. TIMES, 8/1). Reilly has "frequently clashed with conservative" WH aides, "losing far more battles than he has won." An EPA spokesperson said the memo was "not intended to 'point fingers'" but was designed as "a plain-spoken assessment of the summit." Reilly "complained" that the press did not "fairly portray" the "U.S. contributions to the summit." Reilly: "We experienced a public relations setback internationally, counting on the notion that lonely defiance has its champions at home, and when it is principled, it is often vindicated by history" (Weisskopf, W. POST, 8/1). Al Gore: "I can understand the sense of betrayal he feels toward the Bush/Quayle Administration he serves. President Bush and Vice President Quayle pulled the rug out from under him. Bill Reilly placed his trust in Bush and Quayle and he found out that they couldn't be trusted" (Clinton/Gore release, 8/1).

BRADY: Treas/Sec. Nick Brady "ran into strong criticism" after an "informal breakfast with reporters" 8/1. Brady: "We have been told ... we can't compete with the Japs or the Germans or for that matter anybody else in the world." The Japanese Embassy "complained" about the remark. Embassy spokesperson Koichi Ai: "We are disappointed that he used the phrase, which is often associated with a negative and demeaning tone with regard to Japanese people." Treasury spokesperson Desiree Tucker-Sorini quoted Brady as saying, "At no time did I intend to offend anyone. If I did, I apologize" (N.Y. TIMES, 8/2).

FITZWATER: W. POST's Howard Kurtz profiles WH Press Sec. Marlin Fitzwater, describing him as "a wisecracking former Bureaucrat ... [who] has a knack -- some would say a weakness -- for the highly personal dig. This is the man who called Mikhail Gorbachev a 'drugstore cowboy.' Who declared that Pat Buchanan had gone 'Looney Tunes.'" Who ripped into Ross Perot as 'a dangerous and destructive personality' and a 'monster'" (8/1).

*8 CLINTON AND GOVERNORS: ATTEMPTS TO DEFLECT UN-AIRED CHARGES
Clinton "eager to show he can retaliate" against GOP attacks, "jumped the gun yesterday, responding to a negative ad that George Bush hasn't even aired yet" (Seelye, PHILA. INQUIRER, 8/2). The "yet-to-be-aired ad reportedly declares that Mr. Clinton is a 'failed governor from a small state.'" Clinton responded by calling Bush "a failed president of a big country." Bush senior advisor Charles Black said the "failed governor" ad will not be part of the "first wave" of ads starting tomorrow, but added "we like to think that assertion is correct" (Frece, Balto. SUN, 8/2). NY Gov. Cuomo, appearing with Clinton and 13 other Dem Govs in NJ, "said the Republican campaign focus on Clinton's record in Arkansas ultimately would be seen as an admission of their own failure to govern the county -- a failure 'so monumental they are not able to deal with it'" (Goldberg, N.Y. NEWSDAY, 8/2). Clinton responding to Bush's charge that Clinton's negative attacks make him an "arsonist pretending to be a firefighter": "Is it negative to say that in 1980 we had he highest wages in the world and now we're 13th? ... I hardly consider that arson. ... I'm trying to rebuild the house of America, not burn it down or tear it down, but it's going downhill, and the American people know that" (Kelly, N.Y. TIMES, 8/2). CBS' Bob Schieffer: "Bill Clinton's people will tell you the most important lesson they drew from Michael Dukakis' failed campaign in 1988 was this: never allow a Republican allegation to go unanswered and today Clinton took the strategy another step, he answered a charge before it was leveled." CBS' Richard Threlkeld: "Republicans are about to launch a TV ad campaign said to portray Bill Clinton to be the failed governor of a small state. So today in New Jersey, surrounded by his fellow governors, he launched a preemptive strike" (8/1).

LOVE DEM GOVS: Several Dem governor "expressed delight at having a candidate able to fight back if the Republicans turn the campaign negative." TX Gov. Ann Richards: "When it really gets down to the lick log, we're going to have somebody in the Democratic Party who's going to get in there and slug it out with them" (Goldberg, N.Y. NEWSDAY, 8/2). L.A. TIMES' Decker writes the Dem governors "arrayed themselves like a bunch of street toughs around the leader of the pack ... to pledge ... their willingness to let their fists fly along his through November" (8/2). Clinton: "[GOPers] don't like it because we have engaged them in the field of battle ... They like it better when they run against people who practice disbarment. I don't think they should be permitted to run the campaign of destruction again and we are going to engage them when they do." Gore manager/ex-DGA head Mark Gearan said the meeting between Clinton and the Dem Govs "was aimed at setting strategy for the fall campaign": "They will discuss how they will be involved in a visible way ... Clinton wants to get their ideas and advice" (Frisby, BOSTON GLOBE, 8/2). Cuomo on the alleged "failed governor" charge: "I'm working very hard in New York to fail the way Bill Clinton has in his state." Cuomo on whether the GOP charge was intended to "insult people who live in small places": "I wonder if they make fun of small nations when they go to Europe" (W. POST, 8/2). All 28 Dem Govs "were invited to yesterday's session, but only 14 attended." PA Gov. Casey, "who has said Clinton's support for abortion rights would doom him in November, did not attend" (Seelye, PHILA. INQUIRER, 8/2).

*9 CLINTON STRATEGY: I'D HATE TO BE LIKE MIKE

BOSTON GLOBE's Wilkie writes Clinton "is acutely aware of the precedent" of Dukakis "and determined not to repeat it." A prominent Dem involved in the '88 campaign: "Dukakis spent too much time hanging around the State House ... Clearly Clinton is not going to make that mistake." Gore manager/'88 Dukakis press sec. Mark Gearan: "We need to define Bill Clinton and Al Gore, to let the people know about their goals, accomplishments and the promise their presidency would be." One ex-Dukakis aide, recalling they were "not on the air" in 8/92, "is recommending that Clinton run television commercials during [8/92] at a time when 'people are listening before TV gets cluttered in the last two weeks of the campaign'" (8/1). Balto. SUN's Germond & Witcover note the "message the Democratic presidential nominee has been sending so insistently in the two weeks since the convention: I am not Michael Dukakis." This strategy "is probably not enough in itself to defeat President Bush Nov. 3. Although the Republicans are reeling around the ring at the moment. It would be unrealistic to believe an incumbent president will allow a challenger to control the agenda throughout the campaign. ... it is almost inevitable that Clinton will make some mistakes during the next three months that will set him back on his heels. But the one thing already obvious is that Bill Clinton will make his own mistakes, not repeat those of Michael Dukakis" (8/1). BOSTON GLOBE's Oliphant: "With a combination of skill, grit, even flair, Bill Clinton has convincingly won the presidential election of 1988 that Michael Dukakis lost. ... Fighting the last war with a fixation bordering on the demonic, Clinton has proved conclusively that: he fights; he fights back; he attacks; he counterattacks; he kicks; he bites; he gouges; and he relishes the action" (8/2). One senior Bush aide: "Clinton punches and counter punches like a Republican -- and worst of all, he obviously understands how important it is to strike back in the same news cycle. So far, nothing we have thrown at him has gone unanswered by the evening news broadcasts" (Kramer, TIME, 8/2 issue). W. POST's Dionne writes favorable poll numbers "ought to make life wonderful" for Clinton's campaign, but adds: "The truth is, aides say, the good news has created a sea of problems. ... It often is harder to plan longterm strategy when all the numbers look so good. One of the single most important characteristics of a successful campaign is discipline: the ability to make choices, write off states, allocate money carefully and stick with a plan" (8/2). Family Research Council's Gary Bauer, on the difference between Dukakis and Clinton on "values": "Dukakis was meek, like a kid on the playground with a sign around his neck that said 'beat me up.' Clinton is a real fighter; he's gone on the offensive; he understands the symbolism" (SEATTLE POST-INTELLIGENCER, 8/3).

CASE IN POINT: ABC's Mike Von Fremd on yesterday's back-and-forth between Bush and Clinton on health care: "Clinton responded to [Bush's] attack just minutes after Mr. Bush levelled it. It's the most impressive example yet of the speed with which the rapid response system works. And an example that they mean it when they say they intend to leave no charge unanswered" (8/2). NBC's John Cochran: "Clinton's strategy is to let no attack go unanswered and within the hour, he denied his administration would undermine private health care" (8/2).

FOREIGN POLICY: David Gergen on Clinton standing up to Bush's attacks on foreign policy: "If he can go in and counter-punch ... and hold even through the campaign, it could help neutralize President Bush's big advantage. ... [Dems] are better at counterpunching in this campaign" ("M/L," PBS, 7/31). Mona Charen said Clinton's criticism of Bush's Iraq policy "is going to fall flat because ... Clinton waffled on the Gulf War issue." NEWSWEEK's Margaret Warner: "The lesson of this week is Clinton and Gore are not going to cede ground to Bush on foreign policy, every time Bush attacks they're going to counter attack. They still don't want to play the game on that field, there's no way Clinton can best Bush." Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said the back-and-forth on Yugoslavia "points out that [the Bush admin.] cannot respond in a kind of knee-jerk fashion the way Marlin Fitzwater did which is sort of ... a Democrat has spoken and he said something on foreign policy now we have to show how he is wrong" ("Capital Gang," CNN, 8/1). CHICAGO TRIBUNE editorial: The "mystery" about Clinton's stand on the Gulf War "raises questions, possibly about his fitness to lead the nation in a dangerous world, but definitely about his willingness to speak candidly about his record and his views" (8/2).

ELECTORAL MUSINGS: GOP pollster Bill McInturff on significance of MO: "The Democrats have a serious shot a Missouri that I don't think they had with Mondale or Dukakis." Dem pollster Geoff Garin on Rust Belt states: "If the Democrats can put that block together, with a new Democratic base in the Pacific North West, that adds up to a good solid electoral college victory." CNN's Gene Randall: "The Democrats hope to offer a new page in electoral college history." DNC political dir. Paul Tully: "The economic problems are so broad across this country that virtually every state's in play, we sort of have an embarrassment of riches in the amount of voters available to us." ("Inside Politics," CNN, 7/31).

*10 CLINTON-GORE: BUS TRIP, JR. PUSHED BACK A DAY

Clinton and Gore "will delay their bus tour" from IL to MN because of the death of C. Victor Raiser II, "a longtime friend and fund-raiser for Clinton's presidential bid" who died 7/30 in a plane crash in AK. Clinton will attend a memorial service in Washington tomorrow instead of starting the bus trip (AP/RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, 8/2). The tour will begin in St. Louis, MO 8/5, and will "travel along the same route previously outlined" (Clinton/Gore release, 7/31).

VALUES, FAMILY AND OTHERWISE: SEATTLE POST-INTELLIGENCER's Hanson writes, "For the first time in decades, Republicans do not seem to have the upper hand in the values war" (8/3). A TX fundamentalist Baptist group protested outside Clinton's Little Rock church yesterday, denouncing his stands on gay rights, abortion and women's issues." Rev. N.W. Otwell: "We believe that Bill Clinton ought to either repent of his stand with the sodomites, the militant feminist movement and the abortion crowd ... or withdraw himself from this church" (ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 8/3). NEWSDAY's Goldberg recounts a scene from a Clinton visit to Chicago last week when a protester got close to Clinton screaming: "It's a White House not a whorehouse" (8/3). Evans & Novak recount Clinton's history on abortion, writing he "has spent most of his 12 years as governor hedging abortion bets -- but seeming to prefer a pro-life to a pro-choice image for the home folk" (W. POST, 8/3). Catholic priest/author Andrew Greeley writes Clinton and Gore say "that they can't make a special appeal to Catholics because of the abortion issue. ... Come on guys, gimme a break! ... I don't think that either Clinton or Gore is anti-Catholic. I do think that they have to face the fact that Catholics are suspicious of a Southern Baptist ticket and must go into the Catholic neighborhoods, urban and suburban, and reassure them" (RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, 8/2).

CH-CH-CH-CHARGES: ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE's Walker reports the AR Ethics Commis. is "looking into" allegations the AR Development Finance Authority "violated state campaign ethics and disclosure laws to benefit" Clinton. Ethics Commis. dir Jack Kearney "was prompted" by a 6/29 L.A. TIMES story alleging Clinton rewarded financial contributors with low-interest loans and state contracts. Finance Authority pres. Bob Nash: "It's an absolute lie." Kearney: "Right now it's just an inquiry. It may lead to a full investigation" (8/1). Minneapolis STAR-TRIBUNE's Hamburger examines the Clinton record in AR, writing Clinton "deserves credit for improving" AR schools. "But his record on jobs and water quality is subject to strong question" (RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, 8/1).

HILLARY OUTSPOKEN: H. Clinton said 7/31 she "expected Republicans to try 'to paint' the Democratic presidential ticket 'as being aliens in some ways,' out of the mainstream for most Americans." Hillary: "I just think that's a real hard case to make." Hillary, an atty and chair on-leave of the Children's Defense Fund told the W. POST "that she also believed Republicans had made a 'political decision' to portray her on views on a number of family issues as too liberal": "Part of their strategy about me is to say that the work I have done for more than 20 years on children's issues is somehow out of the mainstream or undermining family values. And I just think that is regrettable" (Schwartz, W. POST, 8/1). In the same interview, Hillary "continued to decline ... to make public complete documentation of a money-losing Ozark Mountain land development investment she and her husband made in the late 1970s with friends": "We've given you all we're going to give you, and I feel that's good advice I've received and I'm going to stick with it" (8/1).

PEROT BACKERS: MA Clinton dir. Elaine Guiney has "persuaded" key Perot backers to endorse the Dem ticket. An announcement is expected next week (BOSTON HERALD, 7/31).

STAFFING: Retiring Sen. Tim Wirth (D-CO) was named Clinton-Gore national co-chair along with L.A. Co. supervisor Gloria Molina and Rep. Maxine Waters (D-CA). Wirth will "be teamed with" longtime Clinton associate atty Jim Lyons and will operate out of Denver, DC and Little Rock (Clinton-Gore release, 7/31). NYC Deputy Mayor Bill Lynch was asked by NY Dem chair John Marino to run Clinton's NY effort (Steier, N.Y. POST, 8/1). Mayor Dinkins is "weighing" whether to let Lynch make the move (N.Y. DAILY NEWS, 8/2). Lynch is "credited as the driving force" behind Dinkins' '89 mayoral victory (N.Y. TIMES, 8/1).

ALSO: BOSTON GLOBE's Frisby notes Clinton's appearance at a North Little Rock recreation center was his "first event in a black community in several weeks." Clinton shot 4 of 11 in basketball, but the shots "were not marked with athletic grace" (8/1). CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Jouzaitis reports it was the first of two appearance before minority audiences on 7/31, as Clinton also addressed the National Bar Assn, a group of minority attys (8/1). KNIGHT-RIDDER's Demick reports the campaign, "once so broke that staffers ran up their credit cards to cover expenses, is awash with money as a result of Clinton's recent surge in the polls." Clinton fund-raisers "anticipate that all" of the primary season debt "will be wiped out by early August. And new money ... is arriving at a more rapid clip" (PHILA. INQUIRER, 8/2).

*11 GORE: ATTENDS FANCY FARMS PICNIC, MAKES STAFFING DECISIONS

Gore "sounded the call for change" to a "rough and tumble" crowd at the Fancy Farm Picnic. Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) spoke after Gore, marking the first time either Clinton or Gore has shared a podium with a GOp since being nominated. Gore's rhetoric, "delivered without notes amid bantering from hecklers, varied little from his previous campaign stops." Gore: "Do you want more of the same or do you want change?" As GOpers "chanted 'tax and spend,'" Gore "contrasted his handling of the disruption with Bush's treatment of hecklers" at a POW-MIA meeting: "President Bush doesn't like to put up with this type of rough and tumble. ... He says, 'Shut up and sit down.' That's what Bush and Quayle have been telling the American people" (Cross, Louisville COURIER-JOURNAL, 8/2). Gore attended an "old-style [KY] cookout" 8/1 where more than 15,000 people convened "for an annual meal of barbecued pork and roasted politicians." Tradition at the 112th Fancy Farm Picnic calls for Dems and GOpers "to take turns touting their own party and taunting the other at a flag-bedecked podium." The Fancy Farm event "continued an emphasis on stops in rural America by Gore since he and Clinton" ended the bus trip. After leaving KY on his way to CA, "Gore stopped in Oklahoma City, where a crowd of about 300 people greeted him on the airport tarmac." Gore "continued his stinging attacks" on the GOP ticket, charging Bush and Quayle spend some of their time "huddled in the [WH], telling themselves who can we blame tomorrow" (Leshner, L.A. TIMES, 8/2).

STAFF ANNOUNCEMENTS: Gore announced the "key" staff of his campaign: Roy Neel, Chief of Staff; Mark Gearan, traveling campaign manager; Marla Romash, travelling commun. dir.; Peter Knight, national co-chair; Greg Simon, Issues Dir.; Thurgood Marshall, Jr., Senior Policy Advisor; Doug Hall, political dir.; Ann Pride, Little Rock press sec. (release, 7/31).

*12 MISSOURI: CLINTON LEADS 2-TO-1, PEROT STILL DRAWS 8%

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH/KMOX poll, conducted 7/27-30 by Univ. of MO's Media Research Bureau, surveyed 763 registered voters; margin of error +/- 3.6% (POST-DISPATCH, 8/3). Mason-Dixon poll was conducted 7/23-25; +/- 3.5% (see HOTLINE 7/29). The POST-DISPATCH poll informed respondents that Perot would still be on the ballot; Mason-Dixon did not.

*14 HEALTH CARE ATTACK: BUSH IGNITES, CLINTON STAMPS OUT

Stumping at a Chicago fund-raiser for Senate candidate Richard Williamson (R), Bush called Clinton's health care proposal "a prescription for disaster" (Chen, L.A. TIMES, 8/3). Bush: "If the Governor of [AR] is elected with a Democratic Congress and a new Democratic Senator from [IL], within a year the government will run health care in this country and our health care system will combine the efficiency of the House Post Office with the compassion of the KGB. And I'm not going to let that happen" (mult., 8/3). In a two-page "backgrounder" given to reporters before the speech, the Bush-Quayle campaign highlights Bush's health care proposal and critiques Clinton's plan. The release suggests Clinton's "pay or play" plan would cause a loss of 700,000 jobs and would "require at least $80 billion in new taxes" (L.A. TIMES, 8/3). Bush "has proposed tax credits to help poor and middle-income people afford private health insurance, but he has never told Congress precisely how he would pay for it" (Balto. SUN, 8/3). NBC's John Cochran: "Bush gave a preview of his post-convention strategy ... in his most direct attack yet on Clinton, labelling Clinton's health care plan as too costly and too bureaucratic" (8/2). ABC's Ann Compton: "He's beginning to shift the debate away from his own promises, onto Governor Clinton's" (8/2). CBS' Bill Plante: "The economy is what Clinton and Gore will hit hardest in the weeks to come. In fact, in the room in headquarters where the staff meets each morning to plan strategy there is a sign on the wall to remind them not to stray from the main issue. And that sign reads, 'It's the economy, stupid'" ("CBS This Morning," 8/3).

ON THE SUPER-OFFENSIVE: Clinton "fired back," calling a press conference outside the governor's mansion in AR yesterday: "Once again, the administration is trying to raise fears instead of solving problems" (Tyler, ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 8/3). Clinton: "They don't have any credibility on the health care issue. They presided over the biggest explosion of health care costs in history, and what they propose is essentially, four more years of the same, with minor adjustments." ABC's Von Fremd: "Clinton promises a health care plan in his first 100 days in office. In addition to controlling health care costs, his plan would require all employers to either provide insurance or buy into a public program. Clinton claims the plan would pay for itself. And he blasted [Bush] for not having a comprehensive plan of his own." Clinton: "Instead of attacking me, they ought to come up with their own plan, which they haven't done because they don't want to take on the vested interests in the health care debate." Von Fremd: "Clinton responded to [Bush's] attack just minutes after Mr. Bush levelled it. It's the most impressive example yet of the speed with which the rapid response system works" (8/2). NBC's John Cochran: "Clinton's strategy is to let no attack go unanswered and within the hour, he denied his administration would undermine private health care" (8/2).

*15 PENNSYLVANIA: SPECTER MAKES PLAY FOR DEM BASE GROUPS

Phila. Sheriff John Green (D) "broke with the [Dem] party" and became the "second prominent African-American Democrat to endorse" Sen. Arlen Specter (R), following state Sen. Hardy Williams. Green said Specter "has a strong record of bringing Afro-Americans into law enforcement," adding the move is "part of a 'groundswell' of support for Specter from the black community." Specter's office also indicated the Guardian Civic League, a group of black police officers headed by Green before he became Sheriff, "would endorse" as well. But the group was not represented at the 7/28 news conference. Women's activist Lynn Yeakel (D): "I have a long history ... that speaks very clearly for itself in terms of working in behalf of African-American women and other minorities for access to all opportunities in this community" (PHILA. INQUIRER, 7/29). INQUIRER's Williams writes the endorsements "may signal a serious weakening of ... Yeakel's support in the African American community. Or they could simply represent a couple of loose bricks. ... Either way, it would seem to demonstrate the need for Yeakel to haul out her tools and work harder for the votes that would be expected to come naturally" to a Dem. Green said he "strongly supports" Clinton and that Specter "is not asking" black voters to support Bush. Specter son/adviser Shanin Specter: "We're asking them to make independent judgments on the Senate race" (8/2).

ON AIR: Specter "began airing two TV ads" in Philadelphia 7/24, and is on the air with three other "issue-type" ads in other parts of PA. The ads, "one dealing with breast cancer, and the other showing a steelworker touting Specter's record on protecting jobs" are running in Philly, the state's "most expensive media market" with costs running from $100,000 to $300,000 per week. Yeakel media consultant Neil Oxman "would not disclose" when Yeakel "intends to begin running ads," but the reason "may be money." Specter "would not disclose how long the ads will be running" or "if the campaign intends to run television ads straight through from now until the election" (Weisensee, PHILA. DAILY NEWS, 8/3). DAILY NEWS Ad Watch notes the steel worker ad "fits in with Specter's strategy of chipping away" at Yeakel's Dem base. "The ad pointedly notes that Specter has access to the president, but also is independent enough to cross him if it means helping [PA]. With Bush sagging in the polls, expect Specter to make that point over and over" (8/3).

*16 WASHINGTON: IT'S TWO ON ONE IN THE GOP PRIMARY

SEATTLE TIMES' Matassa writes, "Like a pair of tag-team wrestlers," King Co. Exec. Tim Hill (R) and state Sen. Leo Thorsness "are taking turns walloping" Rep. Rod Chandler (R-08), "who seems almost happily cast as the evil champion unhurt by round after round of body slams. ... Following every flurry, Hill and Thorsness all but exchanged giddy high-fives." The latest round of attacks came at a 7/28 forum, which Chandler did not attend. Chandler's campaign says the attacks "only confirms Chandler's own boast that he is the candidate to beat" (7/30).

Mason-Dixon's 7/23-27 poll had margin for Dems +/- 4%; GOPers +/- 5.9%. Dems: LG Mel Carnahan, St. Louis Mayor Vincent Schoemehl. GOPers: AG Wm Webster, Sec/State Roy Blunt, Treas. Wendell Bailey. POST-DISPATCH's Schlinkmann writes Blunt "surged from far behind to virtually tie" Webster, while Carnahan, "bolstered by strong support in outstate Missouri, has pulled to a significant 12-point lead" over Schoemehl (8/2).

AD WAR: "Four of the five major candidates" launched new ads in the final week of the campaign. Schoemehl has two new ads: One "blasts Carnahan's proposal to raise taxes $196 million to pay for education improvements." Carnahan is "countering" with an ad that "accuses Schoemehl of supporting 18 tax increases while mayor." On the GOP side, Webster is "accusing" Blunt of "strong-arming donors, shifting jobs to Indiana and soliciting contributions from securities firms that he regulates." Blunt, "who denies" all the allegations, has a new ad "promoting his hefty tally of newspaper endorsements." Bailey has no new ads, but has been "promoting" his 8/2 pro-choice rally in St. Louis where Republicans for Choice's Ann Stone was featured (Mannies, POST-DISPATCH, 8/2). K.C. STAR's Hood & Dvorak writes the ads on both sides "have once again turned out to be ugly." They add one candidate "will spend $4,400 to buy a series of 30-second commercials on just one of [K.C.]'s TV stations" on 8/3 (8/2).

PREDICTIONS: K.C. STAR's Hood predicts that primary night "could provide a long night for [Dems] and pollwatchers," while the only prediction he had for the GOP primary was that Bailey "will do much better than anybody's polls suggest" (8/2). State and local election officials are predicting "the highest primary turnout at the polls in 12 years," since the state has over 2.7 million registered voters, which is the highest for a primary in state records. The officials give some of the credit to "public enthusiasm for Perot," and the "increasing number of groups ... who are promoting voter registration" (POST-DISPATCH, 8/2).

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

Dear Bill:

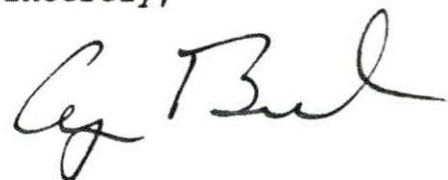

Not so long ago, I hailed your Cities In Schools program as exemplifying the kind of community action that I believe is essential to guaranteeing a hopeful future for children in our cities. Secretary Kemp recently informed me, however, that a shortfall in funding now jeopardizes your program. This is a disheartening postscript to the success story I heard earlier.

I asked my Cabinet to carefully review their departmental spending plans to see if we could provide some additional measure of support for Cities In Schools. I am pleased to tell you that at this time we can make available an additional $280,000 for this very worthy program.

Given your involvement in Cities In Schools, I'm certain you share my conviction that government alone cannot transform the lives of people in need. That's why I am happy -- and relieved -- to be able to offer you this modest amount, which will further your efforts to rebuild American communities.

Best wishes.

Sincerely,

The Honorable William E. Milliken

Letter to Bill Milliken, President of Cities In

Attached is your response to a letter from William Milliken, President of Cities In Schools (CIS). You will recall that Bill Milliken wrote Jack Kemp requesting additional funding for CIS. You asked Dick Darman if he could find some department funding. Barbara Franklin responded with an allocation of $280,000. This letter informs Milliken of the allocation to CIS of that amount.

Dear Mr. President:

Your May 31 note to Dick Darman asked that he find funds to support Cities in Schools (CIS). No cause can be more important to this Nation's future than our young people, and CIS has amply demonstrated what a difference it can make. Solid accomplishment is the secret to CIS' success in winning the support of corporate America, as well as that of the public schools, academia, and state and local government.

Given your request, I have carefully reviewed our spending plans in the Department and will be able to make available an additional $280,000 to supplement the $250,000 we previously committed. I view these funds as a wise business investment. America's future competitiveness in the world economy will be driven by our greatest resource -- the skills and abilities of our children.

Respectfully,

Barbara Hackman Franklin

The Honorable Jack Kemp
Secretary of Housing and Urban Development
451 Seventh St. S.W.
Washington, DC 20410

Dear Secretary Kemp:

The tragic events in Los Angeles two weeks ago only serve to underscore the crisis facing communities across America. So many of our young people need extra help to become productive members of society, help they cannot seem to find. Drugs and gangs are close at hand, and violent, destructive role models are constantly in evidence. Many young people submit to these negative influences, not because they want to, but because the positive alternatives are not available, at least not available where and when they are needed. The riots in Los Angeles are symptoms of a much deeper illness facing our communities -- the crippling community diseases of isolation and fragmentation. Not only do our young people need healing, our communities need healing as well.

President Bush was right in his address to the nation from Los Angeles last week. As you remember, he emphasized the need for much better coordination in our efforts to help disconnected and alienated youth and their families. The President referred to Cities In Schools as a model of how communities can work together to help their young people help themselves. "There are four Cities In Schools programs in Los Angeles," he said. "Now, if instead of four there were 25 Cities In schools programs...there is no question that what happened last week wouldn't have been as bad." He is right! All of us must build on and give strong support to already proven programs. Since the beginning of this Administration, the President and other leaders have been saying that there are programs that are already working. CIS is a perfect example of this success.

As you well know, CIS does provide an answer to the fragmentation and lack of positive relationships that plague so many communities. In 122 communities across the country, urban, suburban and rural, CIS is helping young people turn themselves around by bringing together the resources that already exist in the community, focussing their delivery at the schoolhouse, and providing the positive relationships needed by troubled and disconnected youth. These efforts effectively support their education and development into productive citizens. CIS has been working since 1977 to develop a process that works, and build a system for program replication that empowers communities to adapt that process as their own. Our commitment is to help local communities help themselves. To that end, we provide training and technical assistance at no cost to the local community to guide them through the difficult process of building a local, community-wide partnership dedicated to helping the troubled youth who are most at risk of contributing to community discord and violence.

In the past four years, the need across America has grown for a coordinated, community-based approach to helping youth. At Cities In Schools, we have responded to that need as fully as we can, given the availability of resources to support our work. Just over two years ago, we set out on a five-year effort to reach 500,000 young people each year by 1995. To carry out the plan we needed to expand our national operations to a level requiring an annual budget of $10 Million, half from Federal and half from private sources.

While we continue to match our Federal funding with private contributions, our Federal support has declined to the point this year where we will soon be forced to reduce our operations, at just the moment when many more communities are crying out for our help. This makes it impossible to reach out to the constantly expanding population of disconnected young Americans. This year, the best we can hope for in Federal funding is less than half the support we received six years ago when the problems facing our young people were much less in evidence than they are today. This is the response from an Administration where we have had exceptionally strong and vocal support from President and Mrs. Bush, and other leaders in the Administration such as Dr. Sullivan, Lamar Alexander, David Kearns and you.

The CIS process -- bringing communities together to coordinate their efforts to provide help to those who need it in a coordinated, accountable manner -- is a central element of programs such as "Weed and Seed." Our 64 operational CIS programs, which serve 122 communities in 21 states, are seeding schools with the best programs and resources each community has to offer. By coordinating around the schoolhouse, not only individual children and families, but entire communities are able to make long-term changes for the better.

We are convinced that now is the time for us to act. We are persuaded that the nation should be following President Bush's lead, helping many more communities change the way they reach out to children and families in need, empowering people to take responsibility for their own futures as productive members of their own communities. At CIS, we know how to get that job done. With full funding for our planned program, balanced by private funding from committed individuals, corporations and foundations, we could be giving new hope to many troubled communities, instead of planning how to cut back on the help we can provide.

CIS has an immediate, critical need for an additional $3.6 Million dollars in current year funding, to supplement the $1.4 Million dollars we have been told to expect from our current Federal partners. With increased funding, we will be able to meet the increased needs of many communities, and help them help themselves. I know of few other programs that come with the strong private sector board that directs CIS, a board willing to match Federal contributions on an equal basis. I believe that CIS has found an answer (with a strong track record and proven replication process) to the "cancer" that is destroying our children. We are in desperate need of further Federal assistance at this very critical time in our country. Any help you can offer would be deeply appreciated.

While I am extremely frustrated by the lack of sufficient Federal support, I am even more committed to the CIS process. Over 30 years of experience has shown us that with a little help, a dedicated community can make a major difference for its children and its own future.

Thank you, Secretary Kemp, for your continuing commitment to those American people and communities who need better coordinated help if they are to become self-sufficient and productive. And thank you for your willingness to help Cities In Schools empower those communities to help themselves.

Sincerely yours,

William E. Milliken
President

M. A. C. 10
The Honorable George Bush
President of the United States
The White House

Dear Mr. President:

I watched with great disappointment the disruption of your address before the National League of Families of POW/MIAs by a small minority -- and I stress, a small minority -- of the audience. As I am sure you noted, your remarks were received enthusiastically by the overwhelming majority of family members present who greatly appreciated your sincere reaffirmation of support for the fullest possible accounting of our POW/MIAs.

It is a shame that a few people with little regard for the truth would try to spoil an occasion of such great importance to so many families whose loved ones remain missing in Southeast Asia. I suspect that those who sought to disrupt the proceedings were more concerned with drawing publicity to themselves than they were interested in accepting an honest appraisal of your efforts to resolve the emotional and difficult issue of our missing-in-action.

For those of us who know of your efforts, the depth of your commitment is unmistakably clear. More than any other President since the end of the Vietnam War, you have sought to make the accounting of our POW/MIAs one of the nation's highest priorities.

You have ordered an extraordinary increase of the resources and personnel devoted to resolving this issue. You have reorganized and greatly expanded our field operations under the Joint Task Force to search for our missing in Southeast Asia.

You have conditioned our relations with Vietnam on their full cooperation in the fullest possible accounting. You have established in Hanoi a permanent presence of U.S. investigators to pursue full time the answers we all so urgently seek. You have persuaded the Vietnamese to allow U.S. investigators not just to recover the remains of our POW/MIAs, but to search on short notice Vietnamese prisons and military installations in response to reports of live Americans there.

Finally, you have wisely ordered the declassification of all U.S. intelligence regarding POW/MIAs so that their families and the American people can have full access to information about the fate of those Americans who served so bravely and never came home.

These are the indisputable facts that prove your singular devotion to resolving the mystery of our POW/MIAs. Anyone who doubts your commitment to this just cause is gravely mistaken.

Writing not only as someone who has been deeply involved in this issue for many years, but as a former prisoner-of-war in Vietnam, I am deeply impressed by your efforts, and I will be forever grateful to you. I know the uncertainty and the frustration a family feels when their loved one is missing behind enemy lines. Fortunately, I came home and my family's uncertainty was resolved. All those families whose loved ones have not returned have never been better served by a President than they are by you. For them, and for myself, thank you and God bless you.

Sincerely,
