I WANT TO TALK A BIT ABOUT THE CONCERNS WE ALL SHARE -- ABOUT AMERICA'S FUTURE -- ABOUT THE CHOICE WE FACE IN SHAPING THAT FUTURE.

THE GREAT TASK BEFORE US IS CLEAR: WITH THE END OF THE COLD WAR, AMERICA MUST WIN THE NEW GLOBAL ECONOMIC COMPETITION. WE MUST WIN THE PEACE -- FOR ONLY THEN WILL WE KEEP THE PROMISE OF OPPORTUNITY THAT IS THE BIRTHRIGHT OF EVERY AMERICAN.

GOVERNOR CLINTON AND I OFFER VERY DIFFERENT CHOICES, BASED ON VERY DIFFERENT PHILOSOPHIES, BORNE OF DIFFERENT EXPERIENCE.

AS A MAN WHO HAS SPENT ALL HIS LIFE IN GOVERNMENT, MY OPPONENT BELIEVES GOVERNMENT -- A WASHINGTON ELITE OF POLICY PROFESSORS AND PLANNERS -- SHOULD TAKE THE LEAD IN SHAPING THE ECONOMY, "INVESTING" YOUR MONEY MORE WISELY THAN YOU CAN.

WELL, THAT'S NOT THE WAY I SEE IT. LIKE SO MANY OF YOU, I'VE SPENT MUCH OF MY LIFE IN BUSINESS -- BUILT
ONE FROM THE GROUND UP // MET A PAYROLL // CREATED JOBS.

I HAPPEN TO THINK THAT'S A PRETTY GOOD
QUALIFICATION FOR BEING PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

I LEARNED WHAT MAKES AN ECONOMY GROW. IT'S NOT GOVERNMENT PLANNERS -- IT'S NOT THE PEOPLE WHO TAKE YOUR TAXES AND SPEND THEM FOR YOU.

YOU MAKE AN ECONOMY GROW -- ORDINARY MEN AND WOMEN WITH THE EXTRAORDINARY DREAMS -- WHO HAVE THE GRIT TO MAKE THOSE DREAMS REAL.

THAT UNDERSTANDING IS AT THE HEART OF MY AGENDA FOR AMERICAN RENEWAL. I WANT TO UNLEASH THE ENERGY AND BRAINPOWER OF OUR WORKERS AND ENTREPRENEURS. Particularly

I WANT YOU TO MAKE YOUR BUSINESS DECISIONS WITHOUT SOME BUREAUCRAT FROM WASHINGTON SECOND-GUESSING YOUR EVERY MOVE. THAT'S WHY I'VE PUT AN END TO THE FEDERAL REGULATIONS THAT TURN RED TAPE INTO PINK SLIPS.

I WANT TO MAKE HEALTH CARE MORE ACCESSIBLE AND AFFORDABLE FOR EVERYONE. THAT'S WHY I'M FIGHTING FOR HEALTH CARE REFORM --WITHOUT BURDENING SMALL BUSINESSES WITH EXPENSIVE NEW MANDATES AND PAYROLL TAXES.

AND I WANT TO REWARD THE RISK-TAKERS WHO BRING CAPITAL AND JOBS TO OUR INNER CITIES. THAT'S WHY I'M FIGHTING FOR ENTERPRISE ZONES.

ON ISSUE AFTER ISSUE, YOU SEE THE SAME SHARP DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MY OPPONENT AND ME. HE WANTS A GOVERNMENT THAT TAXES MORE, SPENDS MORE, AND REGULATES MORE. I WANT A GOVERNMENT THAT TAXES LESS, SPENDS LESS, AND REGULATES LESS -- THAT FREES UP THE GENIUS OF AMERICAN ENTERPRISE AND INITIATIVE.

LET ME BE CLEAR. GOVERNMENT MUST NEVER SHIRK ITS VERY REAL RESPONSIBILITIES. THE FINE MEN AND WOMEN WHO YOU ARE HONORING TODAY -- MEN AND WOMEN WHO I'VE BEEN PROUD TO HAVE BESIDE ME THESE PAST THREE YEARS -- ARE TESTAMENT TO THE GOOD WORK GOVERNMENT CAN DO.

TOGETHER WE BELIEVE THAT IT IS GOVERNMENT'S ROLE TO CREATE OPPORTUNITY -- NOT STIFLE IT. TO CLEAR THE PATH FOR INDIVIDUAL ACCOMPLISHMENT -- NOT TO BLOCK IT. TO FACILITATE, NOT TO DICTATE.

- 10 -

AND TOGETHER WE BELIEVE THAT THERE IS NO ROOM IN OUR COUNTRY FOR DISCRIMINATION OF ANY KIND. AS LONG AS I AM PRESIDENT I WILL DO EVERYTHING IN MY POWER TO DRIVE BIGOTRY AND ANTI-SEMITISM AND RACISM FROM OUR GREAT LAND.

I THINK YOU KNOW I HAVE STRONG FEELINGS ABOUT
THIS -- I ALWAYS HAVE. I FOUNDED THE FIRST UNCF

10:30 A.M. CDT/11:30 A.M. EDT NEWS UPDATE

DEBATE (Robert Burns, AP) -- President Bush taunted Bill Clinton to use "less rhetoric, less posturing" and accept his debate proposal, and said that Arkansas under Clinton has had the worst crime increase of any state in the nation. Bush, speaking on ABC's "Good Morning America," said he will veto an anti-crime bill if it is weak -- but not merely if it contains a five-day waiting period to buy guns, the "Brady Bill." About the debates, Bush said, "Nothing has been worked out." He characterized his offer to hold four presidential and two vice presidential debates as a good, solid proposal.

(AP) -- President Bush is suddenly seizing the initiative in the battle over debates, proposing a dramatic month of Sunday showdowns to close the campaign. Bill Clinton says Bush is bluffing, and challenges the President to face off this weekend. In a taped interview on CBS "This Morning" Clinton said Perot was welcome in the race but voiced aloud a growing worry in his campaign. "He could give the election to Bush if those who want change are equally divided," Clinton said.

CLINTON/JOBS (Arlington, Va./AP) -- Beneath the tumult over the debates and the ruckus over Ross Perot, Bill Clinton's campaigning tries to remain focused on the economy and jobs. Clinton was visiting small businesses in Clinton, Md., a day after attacking President Bush for policies Clinton says encourage American companies to move jobs overseas. Clinton's been having trouble formulating a position on NAFTA. The Democratic ticket held a closed meeting on that and other policy problems at an Arlington, Va., hotel Tuesday night.

HOME SALES (AP) -- Sales of new homes plunged 6.1% in August, the government said, despite the lowest mortgage interest rates in nearly two decades. It was the steepest decline in five months. The departments of Commerce and HUD said sales nationally totaled 570,000 at a seasonally adjusted annual rate. That was down from a sharply revised 607,000 a month earlier when they actually rose 4.5%.

D.C. BUDGET (AP) -- President Bush vetoed the District of Columbia appropriations bill because it would allow the city to use local tax dollars to pay for abortions for poor women. "As a nation, we must protect the unborn," the President said in his veto message.

TRADE/GATT (Geneva/Reuter) -- The U.S. and the EC were at an impasse after late-night talks failed to resolve their dispute over EC oilseeds subsidies, U.S. Trade Amb. Rufus Yerxa said. The two trading blocs failed to agree on a mandate for a GATT special working group which would determine compensation that the EC would pay its damaged trading partners.

ROMANIA/TRADE (Reuter) -- The House overwhelmingly defeated an Administration-backed bill giving Romania favorable trade status following inconclusive Romanian elections in which a million voters cast spoiled ballots. The bill, which would have restored Romania's MFN trade status, lost on a vote of 283-88.

ACTION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: THE EXECUTIVE CLERK
FROM: BRENT SCOWCROFT JS
SUBJECT: Presidential Determination to Drawdown Department of Defense Stocks for Disaster Assistance to Pakistan

Purpose

To sign a Presidential Determination to execute the drawdown of DoD stocks for use as disaster assistance to Pakistan.

Background

The State Department has completed a fast track consultation with Congressional leadership regarding the proposal to drawdown as much as $5 million worth of DoD defense articles and services for Pakistan in support of disaster relief for the recent flood.

The worst torrential rains in Pakistani recorded history on September 9th and 10th have resulted in disastrous flooding. Preliminary death tolls range from 700 to 1700, with thousands displaced and missing. Pakistan's immediate requirements for coping with this disaster are massive. Other countries, including the U.K., Japan, and France, are planning emergency contributions, and the Embassy Islamabad is coordinating a response. Toward this end, we would like to supply dump trucks, graders and a variety of other construction equipment, including a seven man engineering team to assist in the effort.

Section 506(a)(2) authorizes you to direct a drawdown of defense articles and services from DoD for counternarcotics and disaster relief upon making a determination that to do so is in the national interest. There is a $75 million annual ceiling for the authorization. Of this amount, $26 million has been programmed for Mexico and $7 million for Colombia, for counternarcotics efforts. No other drawdowns are pending before the end of the fiscal year.

A Section 506(a)(2) drawdown for disaster relief purposes is done pursuant to the authority of chapter 9 of the FAA, and thus may be provided pursuant to Section 491 authority to provide disaster relief assistance "notwithstanding any other provision of this or any other Act." We must invoke that provision in this case since

Pakistan is otherwise barred from receiving USG assistance by the Pressler Amendment (Section 620 E(e) of the FAA.)

To provide assistance in a timely manner and to proceed expeditiously in order to ensure the drawdown is counted against FY 92 ceilings, we gave verbal approval to State to conduct notifications to Congress on your behalf. Notifications with justification were provided and no objections were raised on the Hill.

In order to effect the transfer, Section 506(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act requires you to determine that the drawdown is in the "national interest." A Presidential Determination is found at Tab A for your signature.

RECOMMENDATION

That you sign the Presidential Determination at Tab A.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY OF STATE
THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE

SUBJECT: Presidential Determination to Drawdown DOD Stocks
for Disaster Assistance for Pakistan

Pursuant to the authority vested in me by Section 506(a) (2) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, 22 U.S.C. 2318(a) (2) (the "Act"), I hereby determine that it is in the national interest of the United States to drawdown defense articles from the stocks of the Department of Defense, defense services of the Department of Defense, and military education and training, for the purpose of providing disaster assistance in Pakistan.

Therefore, I hereby authorize the furnishing of up to $5 million of such defense articles from the stocks of the Department of Defense, defense services of the Department of Defense, and military education and training, for the purposes and under the authorities of Chapter 9 of Part I of the Act.

The Acting Secretary of State is authorized and directed to report this determination to the Congress and to arrange for its publication in the Federal Register.

Memorandum of Justification for Presidential Determination Regarding the Drawdown of Defense Articles and Services for Disaster Relief to Pakistan

Torrential rains September 9 and 10 were the heaviest in the recorded history of Pakistan and have resulted in disastrous flooding. The floods severely damaged or swept away an estimated 80 percent of the bridges in northern Pakistan, destroyed roads, disrupted communications, inundated irrigation canals and severely damaged or obliterated thousands of villages. Preliminary death toll estimates range from 700 to 1700, with thousands displaced and missing.

The consequences of the disaster are compounded because southern Pakistan experienced similar flooding in late August. Those floods destroyed or damaged over 270,000 homes. Currently, 85,000 people are living in relief camps, and 200,000 are receiving food aid. Moreover, the surge from the runoff of water in the north has now reached southern Pakistan, in effect merging two disasters into one.

Pakistan's immediate requirements for coping with these disasters are massive. In addition to emergency relief supplies, the country is in particular need of serviceable heavy equipment to assist in flood recovery, infrastructure rebuilding and other humanitarian assistance. Other countries, including the U.K., Japan, and France, are planning emergency contributions, and the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad is working to develop a constructive and significant response.

The authority under Section 506(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act would be utilized to provide and transport disaster relief assistance to Pakistan, including 9 dump trucks, 1 semi-trailer, 1 dryer/mixer, 3 graders, 2 cranes, 2 cement mixers, 1 asphalt mixer, 2 augurs, 2 backhoes, spares for this construction equipment, and a 7-man mobile training team to provide engineering instruction and assistance. This equipment shall be used solely in support of the civilian population and shall remain under control of civilian authorities. The Department of Defense will coordinate logistical arrangements with U.S. officials in Pakistan.

In consideration of the urgent need to alleviate suffering in Pakistan, it is clearly in the national interest to use the special authority contained in Section 506(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act, as amended, to draw down up to $5 million worth of defense articles, services and military education and training to support this humanitarian effort. The disaster relief authorities of Chapter 9 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act enable assistance to be provided to Pakistan, "notwithstanding any other provision of this or any other Act", despite the application of the Pressler Amendment otherwise barring aid to that country.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: THE EXECUTIVE CLERK

FROM: BRENT SCOWCROFT BS

SUBJECT: Presidential Determination to Drawdown Department of Defense Stocks for Anti-Narcotics Assistance to Colombia

Purpose

To sign a Presidential Determination to execute the drawdown of DoD stocks for use as anti-narcotics assistance for Colombia.

Background

Earlier you approved a State Department request, with Department of Defense concurrence, for authority to consult with Congress on the drawdown of as much as $7 million worth of DoD defense articles and services to Colombia. Congressional response has been generally positive with some reservations. We judge that there will be no risk of Congressional backlash to your final approval of this draw down.

Limiting the flow of drugs through Colombia is the centerpiece of our international drug control strategy. This drawdown is part of a larger effort to enhance Colombia's capability to respond to the emerging threat of opium while sustaining the fight against cocaine.

In order to effect the transfer, Section 506(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act requires you to determine that the drawdown is in the "national interest." A Presidential Determination is found at Tab A for you signature.

1:30 P.M. CDT/2:30 P.M. EDT NEWS UPDATE

ADDRESS/WISCONSIN (Oshkosh/Robert Burns, AP) -- President Bush, moving to widen his appeal among women voters, proposed measures to crack down on "deadbeat dads" who are behind in their child-support payments. He called for penalties for those delinquent in their child support ranging from revoking their driver's licenses to putting them in prison in some cases. In brief remarks to police organizations in Oshkosh, Bush accused Bill Clinton of not doing enough to support law enforcement in Arkansas.

ADDRESS/BLACK APPOINTEES (Deborah Zabarenko/Reuter) -- President Bush said that this has been the ugliest, angriest political year in his memory, but that the experience has been worth it. "I've been around the political track for a long time and I've never seen quite the anger and the ugliness in the political process, the willingness to twist and distort and make things ugly," Bush told a gathering of his black appointees. He said he was proud to have named Clarence Thomas to the Supreme Court, and discounted criticism of Thomas as "political diatribes... and attacks coming out of some radical groups."

CLINTON/DEBATES (AP) -- Bill Clinton said he was encouraged by President Bush's dramatic offer of four Sunday debates but again called on the President to face off this weekend. "Let's not wait two weeks," Clinton said as the campaigns exchanged a new round of letters in the debate over debates. "Let's get it on," Bush declared anew. Clinton and his aides said Bush's proposal was a welcome development but cast it as a publicity stunt designed to overshadow the cancellation of three proposed debates in which Bush refused to participate. Clinton campaign Chairman Mickey Kantor offered to meet as early as Wednesday night to negotiate a deal - but only under the auspices of the Commission on Presidential Debates.

QUAYLE/DEBATES (Detroit/AP) -- Vice President Quayle said he would be "at a big disadvantage" in vice presidential debates because he attended public schools rather than expensive private schools like Al Gore. "He grew up in Washington, D.C., and he's the son of a wealthy U.S. senator," said Quayle. "He went to the most expensive private schools in Washington, D.C., and I'm the product of the public schools. I'm at a big disadvantage, but we'll do all right," Quayle said. Asked by reporters later whether he was insulting public schools, Quayle said, "No. Public schools are going to do quite well."

PEROT/WOMEN (New York/Reuter) -- A comment by Ross Perot that women reporters are tough on him because "they're trying to prove their manhood," provoked a firestorm of criticism from women's groups. The Washington Post reported that Perot made the comment in Dallas to an NBC producer after an appearance on NBC's "Today" show Monday morning in which he was closely questioned by Katie Couric and Lisa Myers. Nan Du Bois of the New York chapter of NOW told the New York Post: "Why would he possibly think that being a man is so ideal... It seems to me that he has a problem with women who are competent."

YUGOSLAVIA/WINTER (Reuter) -- U.S. intelligence agencies have warned that 100,000 people could die this winter in Bosnia-Herzegovina from hunger and exposure if fighting continues to impede relief efforts, U.S. officials said. The officials, confirming a report in the New York Times, said the CIA told the White House that 147,000 Bosnians could die during the cold months, assuming that aid deliveries continue to be disrupted.

CHINA/TRADE (Reuter) -- The House voted to override President Bush's veto of a bill imposing conditions on renewal of China's MFN trade status, but the Senate was not expected to go along. The 345-74 vote was far more than the two-thirds majority needed in both the House and Senate to override. A Senate vote is set for Thursday, but the last Senate roll-call on the bill was 60-38, six short of the required margin.

INTERIOR/BILL (UPI) -- The House approved a $12.5 billion Interior Department appropriation bill that was trimmed by $500 million to avoid a threatened veto by President Bush. Rep. Yates said the total bill is $74 million below Bush's request and $373 million less than appropriated for the current year.

HOUSE/D.C. VETO (UPI) -- President Bush vetoed the 1993 fiscal year appropriations bill for the District of Columbia because it would have allowed the use of local tax dollars to pay for abortions. The House quickly responded by passing a new bill without the provision Bush opposed. The revised bill was passed on a 230-160 vote and sent to the Senate for final action. The new measure bars any funding for abortion except when the life of the mother is endangered.

FREEZING THE RACE

Time-honored instructions to all debate negotiators: Above all, minimize risks. Therefore: Questions from a panel, no single moderator; no unpredictable people in studio; and at all cost, no 11th hour face-off without time to correct a gaffe.

So when Bush says "let's get it on" 4 times -- 2 with a single moderator -- all with Perot included -- and one only 36 hours before the polls open -- is it his confidence speaking or his desperation?

Did Bush take the chicken heckler to mean his sky was falling? Along with MI? Is Mahe right (trumped with an ace) or Russert (Hail-Mary pass)? Does "freezing the race" bring him in from the cold -- or give Clinton the shivers -- or both? (#1)

*1 DEBATES: "LET'S GET IT ON"

Saying "Let's get it on," Pres. Bush challenged Clinton to four TV debates on the four successive Sundays before Election Day. Bush called for two with a single moderator and two with a panel of reporters, making his "surprise proposal" before "a crowd of about 10,000 at Austin Peay Univ. in Clarksville, TN. Bush also indicated support for two VP debates, and "added that Ross Perot would be welcome at the debates ... if [he] decides to resume his candidacy" (Locker, Memphis COMMERCIAL APPEAL, 9/30). Bush proposed debates beginning 10/11, "but Clinton said he was ready to go this weekend: 'Let's start Sunday'" (TENNESSEAN, 9/30). Clinton "urg[ed] the president to accept debates already scheduled by the Commis. on Pres. Debates: 10/4 in San Diego and 10/15 in Richmond. The Commission, which set a 5:00p deadline last night for the camps to agree on San Diego, decided not to cancel because of Bush's proposal (Devroy/Balz, W. POST, 9/30). "Under the Bush proposal, the first debate would conflict with the baseball playoffs, the second with Game 2 of the World Series, the third with a possible Game 7. And the fourth and final encounter would take place Nov. 1, less than 36 hours before the voting starts" (Eichel, PHILA. INQUIRER, 9/30). Clinton: "Let's do one on the 15th which is one guaranteed to get a larger audience without conflicting with the World Series. Let's go to the debate commission to discuss others." Clinton on debating with Perot: "That's a hypothetical question ... He's not a candidate yet" (NEWSDAY, 9/30).

PRYOR PRESSURE: Before Bush's announcement, Sen. David Pryor (D-AR) and a group of Senators and Govs. "threatened to introduce legislation urging Bush to return his federal matching money unless a debate occurred" (ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 9/30). Not since Kennedy and Nixon debated four times in 1960 have pres. candidates met four times.

"LARRY KING": Bush chair Bob Teeter: "[Bush] made a very dramatic proposal today, and we expect them to accept it. ... We're not objecting to the Commission as a sponsor. But [what] we said is we don't think it's responsible for either of the major party candidates to turn over the authority to negotiate debates now, and institutionalize debates for candidates down the road 4, 8 years from now to a Commission that's really a self-appointed one." Clinton chair Mickey Kantor: "We would like to get together with the Bush-Quayle campaign and the bi-partisan commission and organize these debates on the 4th and 15th." Kantor on other two pres. and Veep debates proposed by Bush: "I don't know if that's a serious proposal, we've not heard from the Bush-Quayle campaign officially or unofficially. We don't think either side, either Bill Clinton or George Bush, should write the rules." Kantor on Perot entering the debates: "That's up to the commission, if they certify him, I guess he'll be in the debates" ("LKL," CNN, 9/29). Commission co-chairs Frank Fahrenkopf and Paul Kirk in a statement: "We welcome the president's proposal and are pleased with the response of Gov. Clinton." The co-chairs "said the commission looks forward to meeting with both campaigns to work on details of scheduling and format." But, WH spokesperson Judy Smith "said Mr. Bush remains unwilling to negotiate" through the Commis. (Balto. SUN, 9/30). Commis. Co-chair Fahrenkopf: "We have never demanded to be at the table ... If a private meeting is what's necessary, that's fine with us"

(W. POST., 9/30).

NETWORK LEADS: NBC's Brokaw: "Bush tonight gave the ... campaign a kick-start and appears to have caught the Clinton campaign off-guard" (9/29). ABC's Jennings: "After weeks of resisting ... Bush has now proposed that he and Gov. Clinton debate one another in different formats" (9/29). CBS' Rather: "Both [GOPers and Dems] seem to feel that [Bush] is trying desperately now to turn his campaign around" (9/29).

THE MORNING FAXES: Teeter, in a letter faxed to Kantor, wrote Bush "hopes that [reps.] from each campaign can meet at the soonest possible time ... and will meet you here in Washington, in Little Rock or any other location of your choosing" (B-Q release, 9/30). Kantor faxed a note to the Commission, stating his camp was eager to meet with the Bush camp AND the Commission, adding that he hoped to have the meeting be this evening "in order to facilitate a debate" on 10/4 (C-G release, 9/30).

MORNING APPEARANCES: CLINTON on "CBS This Morning": "I'm glad he's finally willing to actually talk about it. ... I never have been hung up on the format, what I wanted to do was work within the debate Commission. ... I'll be there Sunday ... let's do the other one on the 15th." On whether he would negotiate directly with Bush: "Well let's see what they say about that ... they are all hung up about putting down the Commission because they want maximum room for manipulation, and I have been real open about this since day one" (9/30). BUSH on "Good Morning America": "We've made a bold challenge, four debates. I said all along there was going to be debates, so I think the Clinton campaign ought to respond. ... so let's get it on, let's get going, less rhetoric, less posturing, and do what the American people want. This is a good bold proposal, captures the imagination of the whole country." Dates: "We've already compromised ... on the format, so let's talk about it, that's all I'm saying" (9/30). Bush on "Nashville Now": "The chicken folded his wings today" (TNN, 9/29).

SPIN/PUNDITRY: GOP strategist Eddie Mahe: "They have worked themselves into a real hole and they vaulted out of it very neatly ... They have trumped with an ace" (W. POST, 9/30). Analyst Charles Cook: "They had to start taking some risks and trying to force some mistakes on Clinton. Debates may be the best way to do that" (DALLAS MORNING NEWS, 9/30). Ex-Drug Czar Wm Bennett: "Good move, show of offense, it's about time. ... the indecision or the refusal was hurting [Bush]." On a debate the Sunday before the election: "That's the one that is going to make, I imagine, Clinton really nervous" ("GMA," ABC, 9/30). Clinton comm. dir. Stephanopoulos: "If you look at the proposal, it's not really a very serious proposal. He knows that three of the four debates come during the AL playoffs or the World Series." Bush advisor Charles Black: "The guy in the chicken suit better show up at [Clinton] rally today" (Today, NBC, 9/30). NBC's Russert: "[The Bush folks] now acknowledge that the country had pretty much stopped listening to George Bush and the only way to get [Bush] on equal footing was to get him on the same stage with Bill Clinton on a regular basis" (9/29). CBS' Spencer: "The idea here now is to keep the pot boiling, stir things up, stop people from making up their minds just yet and put Governor Clinton on the defensive" (9/29). CNN's Bierbauer: "Interestingly, 'Let's get it on' is the same way Ross Perot responded, when asked about debates. ... all those chicken charges and all those people in the chicken suits, frankly, out on the campaign trail, were starting to have an impact on the Bush campaign" (9/29). NBC's Mitchell on effect of Perot being included: "[The Clinton camp] wouldn't welcome [that], but after taking the high ground ... they'd have a hard time saying no" (9/29). NBC's Russert on 2 VP debates: "The expectations are so high for Al Gore to win a debate so easily, it's almost impossible for him to win convincingly. And therefore, the president's people said let's roll the dice on that, too" (9/29). CBS' Rather: "It is widely believed this may increase the chances of Perot getting officially in the race" (9/29). Russert: "The dates they have chosen do conflict with the baseball playoffs and the World Series and Monday Night Football. What you'll have to do is start those debates at the earliest on 7:00 Eastern time which means 4:00 on the West Coast, which in effect writes off a large audience on the West Coast" ("Today," NBC, 9/30).

THE HAND OF JIM BAKER: NBC's Cochran: "If you saw the fingerprints of James A. Baker, III all over the Bush proposal, then you are right. It is Baker's trademark that, whenever he is accused of being too cautious, he rolls the dice" (9/29). One senior Admin. official "said [Baker] had been mulling the new debate plan for some time": "This was not dreamed up this morning" (L.A. TIMES, 9/30).

*2 BUSH: THANK GOD I'M A COUNTRY BOY

Pres. Bush and "some distinctly urban Republicans reveled" "in one of the President's favorite political mixtures -- country music's twanging guitars and screeching fiddles." Bush ended a swing through TN at a rally in Nashville "featuring a glitter of local stars," including the Oak Ridge Boys, Crystal Gayle, Lee Greenwood and Naomi Judd. Bush: "I can't think of a better place to finish this swing than at the mecca of country music. I love country music and, leaving politics aside, I love it because country music loves America. I don't start listening to this stuff at election time, I listen to it every night. Country music reminds us that for all our faults, America is still the finest country on the face of the earth. I am very proud that I served my country wearing the uniform of the United States of America" (McKnight/Daughtrey, Nashville TENNESSEAN, 9/30). Bush "spent a long day on the attack" and "heaped criticism on Clinton for liberal tax policies and lack of foreign experience and extended the assault to two issues that have been Clinton's pride, civil rights and education." On civil rights: "Gov. Clinton says he's for civil rights, but Arkansas doesn't even have a basic civil rights law." On education, Bush said "three out of four Arkansas graduates spend their first year in college relearning what they ought to have learned" in high school (Wilkie, BOSTON GLOBE, 9/30). Bush "ripped into" Clinton's enviro record: "He says he's for a clean environment, but the Institute of Southern Studies ranked [AR] 50th in environmental policies. I love fishing, I'm a bass fisherman. The fish in Arkansas light up at night" (Cheek, TENNESSEAN, 9/30). Bush also hit Clinton's decision to run for president, and on AR taxes: "He has raised and extended the sales tax, including a tax on baby formula and other groceries. He raised the gas tax, he raised the mobile home tax and for those of you ESPN watchers, he even taxed cable TV and slapped a tax on beer." The tax message is "at the heart of Mr. Bush's most recent campaign strategy, aimed at plucking away states in which the Democrats hold slim leads" (Bedard, W. TIMES, 9/30).

NASHVILLE TALK: Bush appeared on TNN's "Nashville Now." Bush: "I certainly don't mean to be ... trying to put it on like the Bush family values are better ... [but], one thing that I get out of country music and the people involved in it and what your network does in a lot of ways, you get the feeling that we've got to strengthen the American family. ... This should be out of the political arena, but it's something that Barbara and I feel strongly about" (9/29).

PEROT REAX: Evans & Novak on the Dallas meeting with Perot: "The bizarre day in North Dallas was a lost opportunity for Bush, in which he could have defined himself as an advocate of growth in contrast to Perot's prescription for pain and Clinton's ambivalence. Instead, he came off second best against the Democratic nominee ... The final oddity is that Bush personally not only reciprocates Perot's dislike but outdoes him in fear and loathing. Here is an area where the president could have given play to these emotions while defining himself in terms of growth and optimism. Instead, he pandered to Perot" (N.Y. POST, 9/30)

*3 BUSH: BOSKIN SAYS CUTS IN INTEREST RATES WON'T HELP

"In a sharp break with White House stated policy," Bush's Council of Economic Advisers chair Michael Boskin told the S.F. EXAMINER that "further interest-rate cuts will not help the economy." Boskin said "lowering interest rates is less important than 'getting banks to lend money'" and "right now, the problem is more in getting the money out there." Boskin's statements "were the first indication that he thinks the prescription" of lower interest rates "no longer will work" (Lucas, EXAMINER, 9/30). W.S. JOURNAL's Barro gives Bush a "Gentleman's 'B-' in economics: "[T]he choice in the upcoming election is between one candidate, Mr. Bush, who has sensible proposals that we hope he means this time, and ... Clinton, who has poor ideas that we can hope he does not mean" (9/30).

TAX BILL: The Senate approved a "broad election-year package of tax breaks and urban aid" 9/29 which "faces a likely veto unless a joint House-Senate conference committee can work out a compromise acceptable" to Bush. Sen. Finance chair Lloyd Bentsen (D-TX) said he "is optimistic lawmakers can reach a compromise that Bush will sign" (Pine, L.A. TIMES, 9/30). The $34 billion package includes "125 urban and rural enterprise zones, a raft of incentives for the real estate industry and others, and two tax increases on the wealthy" and while "few assert" the package "would make an appreciable difference to hard-pressed urban centers" both the Senate and House versions "are laden with popular provisions that provide an impetus for compromise" before Congress adjourns next week (Pianin, W. POST, 9/30). WH spokesperson Judy Smith on a possible veto: "We have some problems with the legislation. We will wait to review the conference report" (N.Y. TIMES, 9/30).

WEINBERGER: Federal judge Thomas Hogan dismissed one of the 5 felony charges against ex-Sec/Defense Caspar Weinberger in the Iran-Contra probe, and "opened the door to removing the chief prosecutor." The rulings "significantly lighten the charges against Weinberger and complicate" prosecutor Lawrence Walsh's "task by threatening his chief deputy" (L.A. TIMES, 9/30). The earlier charge required prosecutors to show Weinberger "acted corruptly and caused other Pentagon officials to knowingly violate a legal duty when Congress sought them during its investigation." Hogan: "In this case, there is no allegation that [DoD] or any individual acted in a manner that is consistent with the ... definition of 'corruptly'" (N.Y. TIMES, 9/30).

BUNTING IN BRAZIL: Union leader "accused" the Bush campaign of "planning to buy more than $1 million in campaign stickers and other paraphernalia from a Brazilian company, bypassing more expensive U.S. products and stealing U.S. jobs." At a union meeting of the Communications Workers of America, CWA VP Bill Boarman showed a videotape "with a Brazilian newscaster saying in Portuguese that Bush's 'public relations advisers' had passed up manufacturers in California, Texas and New York for the cheaper materials in Rio." Bush campaign officials "immediately denied the charge" saying "all campaign-authorized items are U.S.-made" and "most of their materials are purchased from the Spalding Co." in Louisville KY (Valentine, W. POST, 9/30).

HERE'S TO YA: Text of a handwritten Bush note to the Clinton-Gore campaign in OH, following a recent Bush event with a very large pro-Clinton contingent: "To the Clinton-Gore folks -- You guys did it right for your team -- but [underlined] polite and in the best tradition of U.S. politics -- don't work too hard against me! Thanks, George Bush" (HOTLINE SOURCES).

*4 CLINTON: CAPITALIZES ON "60 MINUTES" REPORT

"Striking sharper contrasts" with Bush, Clinton told a Louisville rally Bush "should be retired because he has used tax dollars to help American companies move jobs overseas": "Bush promised us 30 million jobs in eight years. He just didn't tell us where they were going to be. He has actually seen the creation of more private sector jobs in Central America than in the [US] of America in the last four years. If that's not enough to send him packing, I don't know what is" (Cross, Louisville COURIER-JOURNAL, 9/30). Clinton's charges were based on a 9/27 "60 Minutes" report "that the [Admin.] used American tax dollars to encourage U.S. companies to move overseas, especially to Central America where they could take advantage of low wages" (Oman, ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 9/30). At one point, Clinton "read aloud from the text of an ad funded by" the US Agency for International Devel. which promised American companies workers for as low as 57 cents (Farrell, BOSTON GLOBE, 9/30). Bush spokesperson Alixe Glen "disputed" Clinton's charges: "His rhetoric in this speech shows his total ignorance of the world economy" (W. POST, 9/30). Glen also noted "much of what Clinton has criticized was in large measure a result of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, which Clinton has said he supported" (DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE, 9/30). Bush dep. chair Clayton Yeutter called the "60 Minutes" story "grossly distorted and one-sided" (Branson, Memphis COMMERCIAL-APPEAL, 9/30). Later, speaking before about 8,000 at OH State, Clinton "portrayed himself as a youthful and energetic departure" from Bush. He invoked JFK, contending, "Kennedy said to my generation what I say to you." Several GOP "hecklers tried without success to interrupt Clinton by chanting 'Liar!' and less polite phrases." But Clinton supporters chanted "No More Bush" to drown them out (Leonard, COLUMBUS DISPATCH, 9/30). Ex-Gov. Dick Celeste (D) introduced Clinton (Underwood, Cleveland PLAIN DEALER, 9/30).

YOUNG VOTE: In '88, the under-30 voters supported Bush over Dukakis 52-48%; in '84, they backed Reagan over Mondale 58-42%. "Recent polls indicate Clinton's efforts are paying off" (Naylor, AP/RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, 9/30). Clinton-Gore college coordinators will hold parties throughout the country 10/1 to watch a video satellite feed of Clinton and Gore on "Rockline," a nationally syndicated radio program. The program will be broadcast live from Univ. of WI in Madison at 8:00p (Clinton-Gore release, 9/29).

COULD IT BE? "Some political commentators are starting to say out loud what many have been whispering privately: that Bill Clinton seems to be headed for a landslide win over President Bush." Such accounts "could become a self-fulfilling prophecy. If Bush is perceived as hopelessly behind, it becomes harder for him to generate enthusiasm, raise money and draw large crowds" (Kurtz, W. POST, 9/30). C.S. MONITOR header: "Dukakis Applauds Clinton's Tactics." Subhead: "Meeting Bush attacks early and head-on seen as effective strategy" (9/30).

DRAFT: In a N.Y. TIMES op-ed, "Doonesbury" cartoonist Garry Trudeau recounts his draft experience and attempt to get a student deferment under header "The Draft: My Story." Just below it he follows with a second piece, "My Story: The Holes." There, Trudeau accounts the discrepancies he found in his first account after checking the facts (9/30).

ECONOMY: NBC's Jensen examined Clinton's economic proposal, again noting that 5 Nobel laureates favored Clinton's, 3 for Bush's. Jensen: "But as with the general public, support for the favorite was often lukewarm." Prof. Lawrence Klien: "Clinton's plan makes sense, it's not the plan that I would write myself." Jensen: "Clinton's plan is the favorite with voters, according to the polls, but there is a wild card -- H. Ross Perot" (9/29).

OF NOTE: Harold Ickes has been named deputy chair of the DNC (DNC release, 9/29).

*5 PEROT: HEADS HE RUNS, TAILS HE RUNS?

"Dozens of Perot loyalists departed Dallas ... to engage in what they call a predictable political exercise: Asking Ross Perot supporters whether Ross Perot should run for president." Larry King: "Why would they want him not to run? What kind of report are the people going to give back that would get him NOT to run?" (Jackson, DALLAS MORNING NEWS, 9/30). W.S. JOURNAL's Noah reports by late 9/29, Perot "had logged 1.5 million phone calls ... all urging him to [run]. Amazingly, not a single caller was recorded asking him not to run." A call to Perot's 800 number is automatically counted as a "yes" vote, and nothing prevents multiple voting. Perot "has insisted that his supporters are the ones calling the shots ... But the grass roots of Mr. Perot's movement are heavily watered by Mr. Perot himself." FEC reports show he has spent more than $16M, including $4M just in August, "when he was supposedly no longer running." The JOURNAL report, like many others, is rife with quotes from disillusioned volunteers -- especially former state leaders replaced by paid Perot consultants (9/30). W. POST's Stencel notes Perot and Larry King 9/28 both noted only pro-Perot "voters" should call the 800 number (9/30). N.Y. TIMES' Holmes: "There are increasing signs that his grass-roots organization is neither as large or as independent as he purports it to be, and that the signs of support he cites may not be as strong as he claims" (9/30). DALLAS MORNING NEWS' Wilson: Perot critics "accused him of stuffing his electronic ballot box" (9/30).

BRIDE OF "THINKING THREE-WAY": It's back, and as before, everyone's got their theories. CBS' Phillips' Theory 1: Perot takes TX and "maybe" FL away from Bush, "without which, George Bush may as well go home." Molly Ivins: "All it would take is 3% of my fellow Texans mad enough to cast their vote for Ross Perot and there goes the ballgame for Bush." Theory 2: Perot hurts Clinton by "sucking up swing votes" in PA, OH, MO, IL, MI -- "states [Dems] were showing signs of taking back." Theory 3: He makes Clinton "spend more time protecting his lead in [CA] at the expense of other states he needs to win too" (9/29). One Bush aide: With Perot in, and the Bush 4-debate proposal (see #1), "it blows away the notion of inevitability, which we were getting very close to reaching. ... Clinton is going to have to go back and re-examine every strategic and tactical judgment he's made in recent weeks" (N.Y. TIMES, 9/30). CO Gov. Roy Romer (D): "Perot hurts Clinton" in CO. IN Gov. Evan Bayh (D): Perot "helps Bill Clinton by 2 or 3 percent" (C.S. MONITOR, 9/30). GOP pollster Ed Goeas: "Perot widens the gap between Clinton and Bush in the West and Northeast, [but] basically makes the Midwest and Plains states more competitive" (N.Y. DAILY NEWS, 9/30). Sec/HUD Jack Kemp predicted Perot will get "only about 6 or 7 percent": "There is such a stark contrast between Clinton and Bush ... people will not throw away their vote by casting it for Perot" (ARIZONA REPUBLIC, 9/30).

LET'S CHECK WITH THOSE "VOLUNTEERS" (WINK WINK): PHILA. DAILY NEWS header: "Many Perotistas irate, but they're still for him" (9/30). CA "believers ... are once again in their element" (Raine, S.F. EXAMINER, 9/30). AP interviews with Perot organizers in 50 states "showed overwhelming backing for a Perot re-entry" (RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, 9/30). Balto. SUN's Smith reports 85% of callers to Perot MD HQ said "go" (9/30). N.Y. POST header: "Ross Backers Are Ready" (9/30). MT Perot coord. Hays Kirby on whether MT is going ask Perot "to go": "That is a very strong possibility." NM Perot coord. John Bishop: "On Thursday we're going to report back and I think it's going to be very positive and I would suspect we're going to have an announcement very soon from Ross Perot" (CNN, 9/29). Ex-OH Perot volunteer/Bush supporter Cliff Arneback who, according to ABC's McWethy was "in the room where Perot was trying to comfort his unhappy volunteers" after he dropped out 7/92: "Perot made the statement that 'anyone who thinks I'm quitting, may be in for an October Surprise'" (ABC, 9/29). KNIGHT-RIDDER's Demick & Cannon also cite Arneback's "surprise" claim; Perot general counsel Clay Mulford denied that account, calling Arneback "unreliable and dishonest" (9/30).

NEGATIVE PRESS SAMPLING: L.A. TIMES header over Rutgers' Ross Baker: "Is he jerking our chains again?" (9/30). Gene McCarthy suggests a Perot aardvark to join the elephant and donkey: "The aardvark ... did not evolve from any other animal or previous state of being, and is not and evidently will not evolve into anything other than what it is" (USA TODAY, 9/30). BOSTON GLOBE's Oliphant suggests Perot's earpiece popped out on "Larry King" because his "head is swelling like crazy with the hot air of his out-of-control ego" (9/30). Columnist Rick Horowitz: "I'm thinking of getting in The Race, and I'm inviting the [Dems and GOP] to come tell me why I shouldn't. Crazy? It worked for Ross Perot" (Syndicated, 9/30). U.Penn student/ex-Perot backer Jeffrey Pollock in an op-ed: "You could have been a contender, but ... it's time to hang it up" (PHILA. INQUIRER, 9/30).

ALSO: USA TODAY and KNIGHT-RIDDER profile Perot VP pick James Stockdale (9/30). W. TIMES' Garrett reviews Perot staffing, noting "his two closest friends and business associates, Tom Luce and Mort Meyerson, have cut their ties to Perot." Ex-Perot co-manager Hamilton Jordan "remains a distant but trusted adviser" (9/30). N.Y. TIMES' Kolbert notes, "it is Mr. Perot's constant criticism of his fellow candidates, all done in the name of The Issues, that shows how adept he is at the game he claims to despise" (9/30). DALLAS MORNING NEWS' Bark examines recent TV coverage of Perot, noting ABC and CBS' "60 Minutes" reportedly have critical Perot stories in the works (9/30).

THIS MORNING: Perot on "CBS This Morning," asked what 800-number callers who don't want him to run should do, Perot: "Well, they can send me a letter. I'm a businessman ... I'm not going to pay for the phone call for some fella who says don't do it" (9/30). Clinton on nominating Perot for a cabinet position: "I certainly would not rule it out" ("CBS This Morning," 9/30).

*6 GORE ON GULF WAR: BUSH LIT MATCH, THEN POURED ON GAS

Print press gave broad coverage to a major foreign policy address by Gore before the Center for National Policy, in the ticket's "boldest attack yet on Bush administration policy toward Iraq" (West, Balto. SUN, 9/30). L.A. TIMES' Frantz writes it "opened" a concerted effort to "hammer away" at the issue over the last five weeks "to counter Bush's persistent references to Clinton's draft record" (9/30). It was part of a pattern in which Gore leads the attack on foreign policy, while Clinton hits on the economy (Brosnan, MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL-APPEAL, 9/30). The speech, which "contained no new facts," was largely based on information unearthed by Dems in the Congress (W. POST, 9/30).

TEXT: Gore, who voted for the use of force in the Gulf, said "the conduct of the war will remain a proud memory for all Americans" (BOSTON GLOBE, 9/30). Otherwise he was scathing: "His poor judgment, moral blindness and bungling policies led directly to a war that never should have taken place" (NEWSDAY, 9/30). "Bush wants the American people to see him as the hero who put out a raging fire. But new evidence now shows that he is the one who set the fire" (USA TODAY 9/30). "He not only struck the match, he poured gasoline on the flames. So give him credit for calling in the fire department, but understand who started the blaze" (Balto. SUN, 9/30). "Coddling tyrants is a hallmark of the Bush foreign policy" (N.Y. POST, 9/30). Later in Scranton PA: "Bush showed the worst judgment that I have ever seen on the part of a president ... in dealing with a foreign leader ... He needs to answer these questions and come clean with the American people about what he did and when he did it" (WASH. TIMES 9/30).

GOP REAX: White House's Fitzwater: "Another effort by the Democrats in Congress to rewrite history to conceal their opposition to the war" (RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, 9/30). Bush-Quayle's James Lake: "height of hypocrisy" (USA TODAY, 9/30).

PBS INTERVIEW: Gore was interviewed by PBS' Judy Woodruff. Woodruff: "Why bring all this up just five weeks before the election?" Gore: "Well, first of all, a lot of new evidence has come out just in the last few weeks. And it has reached a critical mass, which makes it possible now to see the full picture of the Bush policy leading up to the war with Iraq -- the warnings that were repeatedly given to the White House about Saddam using U.S. taxpayer assistance to finance nuclear weapons acquisition, nuclear weapons technology acquisitions, chemical and biological weapons technology, artillery, all kinds of military applications. All those warnings were ignored. At the same time he was involved in escalating series of terrorist attacks and incidents and making all kinds of bellicose threats. And in spite of the warnings from the intelligence community, the CIA, the Defense Department, the Energy Department, the Commerce Department, Bush persisted in seeing Saddam as a docile ally -- someone who could be our friend. And the judgment he used is, I think, atrocious." Woodruff: "But ... why should the American people expect better from Governor Clinton, who's had virtually no experience in foreign policy?"

Gore: "Judgment doesn't come from time served. You either have judgment or you don't. And I think the record of Bush's handling of this policy toward Iraq and his advocacy of the arms for hostages sale -- I think the record shows that his judgment has been very bad. And in the case of his policy with Iraq, led directly to the war with Iraq. That did not have to happen"

MORE FROM PBS: Woodruff: "Do you welcome Ross Perot in this contest?" Gore: "... There's not much we can do to affect his decision. We'll take it as it comes." Woodruff: "How much do the [Perot and Clinton] plans have in common?" Gore: "The principal difference ... is that he raises taxes on middle income families in ways that we do not think are wise. But both ... are based on the premise that we've got to reduce the budget deficit

... There are some 400 distinguished economists who have reviewed our plan in great detail, have endorsed it. Hundreds of business leaders have as well. On the health care plan, for example, we've had a great many leaders in the health care field, and specialists in this area, endorse the plan wholeheartedly.

... We're spending almost 30% more per person on health care than the people of any other nation on the face of this earth. And so much of it goes to completely unnecessary procedures, red tape, bureaucracy, the kind of duplication and overlap that has no medical benefit whatsoever" Woodruff: "President Bush [is] saying that Governor Clinton's tax proposal would not just hit upper income people, that he would have to go down to people earning $36,000 a year in order to pay for the health plan, and other aspects." Gore: "Just absolutely wrong ... Governor Clinton has maintained in his state the second lowest per capita tax burden in the entire United States, while at the same time leading the nation ... in the creation of jobs in the private sector. Bush, by contrast, has left us with an economy having fewer jobs in the private sector after four years than existed when he took over" ("MacNeil/Lehrer, PBS, 9/29).

*7 CALIFORNIA (54): NEW, YOUNG VOTERS GO DEM IN GOP-LAND

Citing voter registration analysis by Pacific Admail, a commercial and political direct mail company, ORANGE CO. REGISTER's Pulliam reports, "Young people are swelling Orange County voter-registration rolls, and most of the new recruits are avoiding" the GOP. While overall registration rose 10% in the past six months, registration increased 42% among 18- to 20-year olds and 21% among 21- to 25-year olds. ... In a heavily Republican county, more than 60 percent of the new young voters signed up as Democrats or declined to state their political preference." The youth vote represents 12% of total Orange Co. registration, and Dems "have yet to put much of a dent in the 200,000-plus voter margin the GOP holds in Orange County" (9/29).

*8 ILLINOIS (22): QUAYLE PAYS HOMAGE TO ETHANOL, THE GIPPER

"The image of Ronald Reagan welcomed" VP Dan Quayle to IL "and prompted him to address one of the state's hotter issues: Ethanol." Quayle stopped at Reagan's boyhood home in Dixon as part of his one-day 200-mile bus trip across the state. Quayle "stopped to look at a life-size bronze statue of Reagan offering kernels of corn in his outstretched hands": "I think he's trying to tell us something about ethanol." The corn-based fuel is a "key issue" Downstate, "with many farmers threatening to abandon President Bush unless he promises to approve its use under the Clean Air Act. So far, Bush has hesitated." Advisers in and outside the admin. say ethanol "evaporates too quickly in the summertime and could created smog." But Quayle said Bush has "ordered his staff to resolve this problem": "I hope the farmers and especially the corn growers understand that [Clinton] is the one who repealed his tax credit for gasohol in the state of Arkansas. He basically turned his back on farmers" (Goering, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 9/30). Champaign NEWS-GAZETTE's Rooney reports Quayle "made no mention of ethanol" on his stop in Decatur, the home of Archer Daniels Midland, "the nation's largest soybean processor and ethanol producer" (9/30). ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH's Lambrecht reports Bush "has sought an opinion from the [DoJ] on granting an air-pollution waiver to allow more burning of ethanol. ... Efforts to boost ethanol are being conducted at the highest levels of the White House and have taken on a sense of urgency as the president tries to revive his political fortunes in the Midwest." Admin. officials "already were looking at other plans because of doubts that the waiver will win approval from the lawyers. Other plans could include an increase in government subsidies, or programs to increase ethanol's share of the alternative fuels market." National Corn Growers Assn's Mike Bryan: "If the president turns us down on this, he is simply going to lose the farm vote in the Midwest" (9/29).

ILLINI-LINES: Sign along Quayle's trip: "We love Clinton, Illinois. So we vote for Bush" (TRIBUNE, 9/30). In Decatur, Quayle made little "specific mention of jobs." The unemployment rate is 10.4%, 2% higher than '88;; A.E. Stanley is scheduled to lay off about 250 employees 10/1 (NEWS-GAZETTE, 9/30).

*9 NEW JERSEY (15): BOTH CANDIDATES IN STATE TODAY

Bush and Clinton will both be in NJ today. Bush will visit Laborers Union Local 472 HQ in Newark in what the local leader Richard Tissiery "pictured as a prelude to an endorsement."

Clinton will be in Somerset for a fund-raiser (N.Y. TIMES, 9/30). PHILA. INQUIRER subhead: "Lagging in New Jersey, Bush targets a trusty foe: Florio" (Enda, 9/30). N.Y. DAILY NEWS' Lombardi describes the Clinton fund-raiser as a $4 million event for state and national Dems (9/30).

*10 NORTH CAROLINA (14): M. QUAYLE HITS ELITE, DEFENDS ARNOLD
Marilyn Quayle officially opened the Bush-Quayle state HQ in Raleigh, "cutting a red ribbon and delivering a slashing attack on Hollywood, lawyers and Bill Clinton. Quayle, "sarcastically" as she rolled her eyes: "Clinton and Gore were endorsed by Rolling Stone." She defended past statements on Hillary Clinton, as criticisms of Hillary's positions on the issues: "When anyone has been touted by her husband as being a co-president, buy-one-get-one-free, vote-for-me-and-you-get-my-wife, we're-doing-this-as-a-partnership, she's-going-to-be-in-my-Cabinet, her stand on the issues is just as important as Jim Baker." Echoing her husband's criticisms of the entertainment industry: "Hollywood has gotten out of hand and people were just waiting for someone to step in." After mentioning Ice-T's "Cop Killer" song, she was asked why VP Quayle has not criticized Arnold Schwarzenegger, who was seen shooting scores of police officers in "Terminator." Marilyn said VP Quayle is targeting "all Hollywood": "Plus, in that movie, the good guys -- the cops -- end up winning, which is a little different than saying, 'Let's go waste these cops, they're pigs'" (Neff, Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER, 9/30).

REVISITATION: NEWS & OBSERVER's Krueger reports on a lawsuit by landowners along the Pigeon River against the Champion International paper company, which "has suddenly raised questions about the actions" of Gore and Sen. Terry Sanford (D-NC) "to help the plant get the waiver it was seeking" from the EPA (9/30). The story was first reported in W. TIMES. See HOTLINE, 9/22.

*11 OHIO (21): CLINTON AT OHIO STATE; BARBARA BUSH IN CINCY

For coverage of Clinton's speech at Ohio State in Columbus, see #4. Quayle will be in Dayton tomorrow; Gore will be in the Cincinnati area this a.m., where he is "expected to tour the [DoEnergy's] Fernald plant, a former uranium processing site where residents say cleanup has been inadequate" (Cleveland PLAIN DEALER, 9/30). "In the 34 days before the ... election, hardly a day will go by when either candidates, their running mates or wives won't be in Ohio" (Wilkinson, CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, 9/30).

HOT DOG: Barbara Bush was in Cincinnati to visit a Literacy program and a Bush-Quayle phone-bank operation. After making three voter phone calls, she stopped at Skyline Chili for a coney chili dog (ENQUIRER, 9/30). The order was a chili dog and cheese, hold the onions. Barbara Bush, referring to her next stop: "I can't do that to them in Kansas" (PLAIN DEALER, 9/30).

*12 THE OTHER FORTY

COLORADO (8): 9-News poll, conducted by Ciruli & Assoc. from 9/14-18, surveyed 451 registered voters; margin of error +/- 4.6% (Ciruli release, 9/29).

	8/92	FAV/UNFAV
Clinton	46% 48%	52% / 41%
Bush	39 26	41 / 57
Perot (vol.)	2 16
DK/Other	13 10

DELAWARE (3): Al Gore appealed to "2,500 or so Delawareans to join him" in the effort to elect the Dem ticket. Speaking to a crowd in New Castle, Gore "described" DE as a "'bellwether state', noting that it had cast its three electoral votes for the successful presidential candidates in each of the last nine election" (Merriweather, Wilmington NEWS JOURNAL, 9/30). The Del. Co. [PA] DAILY NEWS reports Gore received the endorsement of ex-DE Gov. Russell Peterson (R). Peterson, incorrectly identified as the current Gov., "told an enthusiastic crowd of more than 2,000 that President Bush has failed the country by increasing the national debt and going against the wishes of most Americans by placing profits over the environment" (9/30).

KENTUCKY (8): Louisville COURIER-JOURNAL's Garrett calls Clinton's trip to Louisville yesterday a "missed opportunity." Clinton's address was a "protracted exposition of a Reagan-Bush policy for subsidizing factory relocation in Central America. ... You could feel what had been palpable excitement in the crowd over seeing the putative next president simply deflate, like a tire that ran over a nail. ... yesterday's performance was an ominous sign about whether he can inspire the country to do the things it has to do" (9/30). COURIER-JOURNAL's Brown reports members of the media, Congress and KY GOP officials have received a federally-funded mailing from Quayle touting the Council On Competitiveness' effort to save or create 3,000 jobs in KY. Quayle spokesperson Jeff Nesbit called the mailing "not that expensive," and characterized it as a response to Dem criticism. The KY mailing was part of a state-by-state report (9/29).

MAINE (4): BOSTON GLOBE's Nyhan writes, "It's been 24 years since the Democratic ticket took the Pine Tree State's four electoral votes. But an anti-Bush tide is swelling in the president's vacation-home state. ... Antipathy to Bush so far seems to outweigh any sort of deeply rooted affection for Clinton. ... Bush's swoon in Maine may take down two female House candidates" -- Rep. Olympia Snowe (R-02) and L.L. Bean heiress Linda Bean (R), challenging Rep. Tom Andrews. Andrews, who carried Kennebunkport in '90, told Clinton on his trip to ME last weekend: "Bill, you are going to take Kennebunkport" (9/29).

MASSACHUSETTS (13): Aides are completing plans for a Bush visit to Boston on 10/2. He hopes to raise $500,000 at two fund-raisers for to the Victory '92 cmte, "a supplement to his federally financed campaign" (BOSTON GLOBE, 9/29).

MISSOURI (11): Marilyn Quayle was in St. Louis for a regional convention of obstetric and gynecological doctors and nurses and for a fund-raiser for AG candidate David Steelman (R). In an interview, she accused Clinton of having a "no-restrictions abortion policy," saying he "opposed parental notification for minors seeking abortions and had appeared to support abortion rights through the ninth month of pregnancy." Quayle "wondered if Clinton favored changing wrongful death statutes relating to fetuses killed in automobile accidents or shootings because, 'in the eyes of Bill Clinton, that child doesn't exist.'" Clinton spokesperson Sally Aman said Clinton backs AR law which bars abortion "after fetal viability" and calls for parental notification. Clinton "also backs existing wrongful death statutes regarding fetuses" (ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, 9/30).

NEW HAMPSHIRE (4): NH GOP chair Rona Charbonneau predicted Bush will visit NH before Election Day: "We don't know what date it will be, but he should be up this way. We're expecting him." While Charbonneau pointed to 10/2 when Bush is expected to be in Boston as a possibility, Bush spokesperson Darcey Campbell could not confirm the Bush visit (CONCORD MONITOR, 9/29).

SOUTH DAKOTA (3): A poll, conducted by Political/Media

Research from 9/25-26; surveyed 812 likely voters; margin of error +/- 3.5% (Sioux Falls ARGUS LEADER, 9/30).

2-WAY	ALL	DEM	IND	GOP	3-WAY	FAV/UNFAV
Clinton	45%	74%	39%	20%	Clinton	37% 35% / 36%
Bush	38	8	28	65	Bush	30 31 / 47
Undec.	17				Perot	15 16 / 51
					Undec.	18

ARGUS LEADER's Kranz writes SD "may be ready to defy history and vote" for Clinton. The numbers "show not so much of a public outcry for Clinton as they do an anti-Bush attitude" (9/30).

TENNESSEE (11): Last night in Nashville, Bush "got a miniature version of the Country Music Awards during an Acuff Theater rally featuring a glitter of local stars including Mark Chestnut, Paul Overstreet and the Oak Ridge Boys. Roy Acuff, Naomi Judd, Crystal Gayle and Lee Greenwood also joined the "country endorsement of Bush." Bush: "I love country music and, leaving politics aside, I love it because country music loves America. I don't start listening to this stuff at election time, I listen to it every night. Country music reminds us that for all our faults, America is still the finest country on the face of the earth. I am very proud that I served my country wearing the uniform of the United States of America." Naomi Judd, introducing Bush: "If you know anything at all about the Judds, you know that we stand for family. That's why George Bush is my man." Bush stayed and listened to a performance by Mark Chestnut. "It wasn't exactly representative of Bush's family values theme." Chestnut's songs: "All My Old Flames Have New Names" and "Bubba Shot the Jukebox Last Night" (McKnight/Daughtrey, Nashville TENNESSEAN, 9/30).

VIRGINIA (13): Sec/Commerce Barbara Franklin campaigned for Bush's re-election and "his small business development program," but was forced to defend Bush "against more bad economic news." Franklin said the .2% drop in the index of leading economic indicators for 8/92 "did not foreshadow a recession," citing the 2.8% rise in the index over the full year: "The economy is in a recovery. It is slower than what we would like." RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH's Whitley writes the release of the index "overshadowed her attempts to portray" Clinton "as an enemy of small business" (9/30). Opening a new regional Clinton-Gore HQ in Richmond, LG Don Beyer (D): "I got the impression listening to the Republican Convention that unless you were white and male and Christian and heterosexual and had your kids in private school, you shouldn't vote for George Bush." Also appearing at the rally (and pictured next to the article): "Chicken George" (Williams, TIMES-DISPATCH, 9/30).

*15 COLORADO: POLL SHOWS RACE TIGHTENING SINCE AUGUST

9-News poll, conducted 9/14-18 by Ciruli Assoc., surveyed 451 registered voters; margin of error +/- 4.6% (Ciruli release, 9/29). An internal Considine poll conducted 9/27 by Hill Research surveyed 500 RV's moe +/- 4.4%; subsample of 375 LV's; moe +/- 5.1% (Considine release, 9/29). Tested: Rep. Ben Nighthorse Campbell (D) and ex-State Sen. Terry Considine (R).

	CIRULI/9-News				CONSIDINE
	NOW	8/92	FAV / UNFAV		RVs	LVs	FAV / UNFAV
Campbell	50%	56%	55% / 19%		48%	47%	60% / 27%
Considine	39	24	44 / 33		39	41	51 / 29

DEBATE: Criticizing Considine on defaulting on loans from Silverado S&L and for past real estate dealings in Atlanta, Campbell "attacked" Considine as a "Vietnam draft dodger" at a 9/28 debate: "I don't throw property back to the taxpayers for them to pick up the bill, I didn't run people out of their homes only to be called the buzzard of Peachtree Street ... and I darn sure didn't dodge the draft" (Herrick, ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS, 9/29). DENVER POST's Gavin reported the remark as "I damn sure didn't dodge the draft, either." The debate was held before the Petroleum Club, a group that favors expanded trade relations between CO and Mexico and invited the candidates to discuss NAFTA. Campbell opposes the agreement; Considine favors it. Campbell said "he hasn't enjoyed two fiery debates he has had with Considine," although "a third, on statewide [TV] was tamer." Campbell: "The first time I met with you, I felt like I had been thrown into a pit full of vipers" (9/29).

ALSO: Nat'l Taxpayers Union pres. David Keating wrote a letter to the the DENVER POST correcting the Campbell campaign's assertion that the group endorsed Considine: "We are a non-partisan, nonprofit organization and we do not endorse candidates for Congress" (9/29). NARAL will mount an independent expenditure campaign in CO to "identify and inform pro-choice Republicans and Independent throughout [CO] and mobilize the pro-choice vote" (NARAL release, 9/29).

*16 ILLINOIS: REPORT HITS BRAUN OVER MOM'S MEDICAID "WINDFALL"

Cook County Recorder of Deeds Carol Moseley Braun (D) has scheduled a press conference for noon today to respond to a report, first aired 9/28 by Chicago's WMAQ-TV, that questions the way Braun handled a $28,750 "inheritance windfall" received by her mother who was on Medicaid. The 10-minute report alleges Braun, who distributed the proceeds of the check to herself and her siblings, acted improperly, and possibly illegally, by not reporting the money to Medicaid authorities or the IRS as is required by law. "The controversy, however, is not about the conduct of Braun's mother, but about the role Braun played in her mother's financial affairs. It looms as potentially damaging to Braun's campaign" against atty Rich Williamson (R), "who has attempted to make her ethics an issue." Braun's mother, Edna Moseley, is an amputee who lives in a nursing home, fully paid by Medicaid. In 1989, Moseley received a check for $28,750 for her share of timber rights on land she inherited in '88. "To qualify for Medicaid, a nursing home patient may have virtually no assets" and those "who subsequently receive additional assets are required to report them to their local public aid office within five working days." Moseley, however, did not report her assets, rather she "signed the check over to Braun." Braun's lawyer said Braun used the money "as repayments for undocumented loans" from herself and her siblings to their mother on "unspecified dates." Braun's document which was given to "Channel 5, but refused to make available to other reporters, also said that Braun was responsible for the payment of any and all federal and state taxes'" (CHICAGO SUN-TIMES, 9/30). The Il Dept. of Public Aid is probing the charges (CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 9/30).

LOBBYIST DEAL ALSO ALLEGED: Williamson also hit Braun for accepting a $30,000 no-interest campaign loan in '88 "from a lobbyist and later giving a county contract to a friend who is a partner of the same lobbyist." When Braun's '88 campaign for Recorder ran out of funds, she accepted $30,000 from lobbyist Gerald Shea. "The day before, Shea's lobbying firm had transferred the same amount of money" into Shea's PAC. After her election as Recorder, "Shea was named to Braun's transition committee and began listing the recorder's office as a client, even though the recorder's office had never had its own lobbyist." In '91, Billie Paige, a partner in Shea's firm, received a $30,000 lobbying contract from the Cook Co. board "at Braun's recommendation. Paige, a friend of Braun's for 15 years, on the contract and the loan: "It certainly wasn't linked." Braun: "We ran out of money. I don't have friends who have banks, that I can go and do that, you know, generally. So what I did was go and borrow the money so we could run the campaign. It happens all the time." Williamson: "This is political cronyism of the worst kind" (James/Dellios, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 9/29).

*17 NEW HAMPSHIRE: POLL HAS RAUH, GREGG IN TIE

UNH poll, conducted 9/22-27, surveyed 645 registered voters; margin of error +/- 4%. Subsample: 499 likely voters; +/- 4% (UNH release, 9/29). Tested to succeed retiring Sen. Warren Rudman (R): Gov. Judd Gregg (R), businessman John Rauh (D). Neither GOP businessman Larry Brady, running as an independent, nor the 3 other names on the ballot were tested.

	RVs	LVs	GREGG JOB
Rauh	37%	39%	Approve	41%
Gregg	36	36	Disapprove	44
"Somebody else"	7	7
Undec.	20	18

*18 NORTH DAKOTA: NRSC-SPONSORED SYDNESS AD HITS DORGAN CHECKS

New 30 sec. spot for Fargo Councilmember Steve Sydness (R), running statewide, paid for by NRSC. Visual: Cartoon of Rep. Byron Dorgan (D), hiding behind a tree in front of U.S. Capitol. TEXT: "Last October, Byron Dorgan denied bouncing checks at the House bank. Then he said he only bounced four. But months later, Byron Dorgan admitted he really bounced 96 checks. It took the House ethics committee to reveal the truth -- Congressman Byron Dorgan actually wrote 98 bad checks. 98! And 12 years of living in Washington has so clouded Byron Dorgan's thinking, he's refused to level with us. Or even say he's sorry." Storm clouds gather; lightning bolt zaps tree, reveals Dorgan standing with pen. TEXT: "Byron Dorgan has changed. Makes you wonder what else he's hiding" (Sydness release, 9/30).

*19 OHIO: GOP POLL SHOWS RACE EVEN; GLENN AIRS PRO-CHOICE AD
A Public Opinion Strategies poll conducted 9/27-28 surveyed

500 registered voters, margin of error +/- 4.4% (DeWine release, 9/29). Tested: Sen. John Glenn (D) and LG Mike DeWine (R).

Glenn 48%
DeWine 44

ABORTION: Glenn began airing a 30-second TV spot statewide 9/29. Glenn to camera: "Who decides whether or when a woman should have children? I believe that decision is private and should be left to women themselves. Mike DeWine believes it should be decided by the government. One of us will be in the Senate next year, and could well cast the deciding vote. Mike DeWine thinks women should not have the right to choose and would vote to put the decision in the hands of bureaucrats and politicians. I'll vote for the women of Ohio" (Glenn release, 9/29). AP's Rizzo: "The first time abortion has been used as a central part of Glenn's re-election campaign. But the commercial doesn't use the word 'abortion.' It uses 'decision' and 'choice'" (Cleveland PLAIN DEALER, 9/30). Glenn spokesperson Dale Butland: "We said from the very beginning we are going to talk about the issues that are important in this race, and certainly choice is one of the most important." DeWine spokesperson Curt Steiner: "Let the record show that John Glenn has run the first attack TV commercial in this campaign. Let the record show he is doing it while refusing opportunity after opportunity to debate Mike DeWine" (COLUMBUS DISPATCH, 9/30).

*20 SOUTH CAROLINA: HOLLINGS OVER 50%; REAGAN CUTS HARTNETT AD
A Mason-Dixon poll conducted 9/18-20 surveyed 808 likely voters; margin of error +/- 3.5%. Tested: Sen. Fritz Hollings (D) and ex-Rep. Tommy Hartnett (R).

	ALL	MEN	WOM	WHT	BLK	FAV /	UNFAV
Hollings	55%	54%	56%	46%	79%	47%	26%
Hartnett	32	33	31	41	7	26	19

REAGAN REDUX: As expected, Ronald Reagan will appear in Hartnett TV and radio spots, after Hollings used footage of Reagan praising the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit bill. In the TV spot, which does not mention Hollings, Reagan praises and endorses Hartnett as "the conservative candidate." A radio spot, however, addresses the matter more directly. Announcer: "How arrogant of Sen. Hollings to air yet another misleading TV ad. Hollings' ad suggests Ronald Reagan supports him. But that's not true" (Greenville NEWS, 9/30). Hollings "defended" the ad, and said he would keep running it. He called Hartnett a "'political machine' who puts out 'spit-ball'" press releases and "sits waiting for daily instructions" from the NRSC and chair Sen. Phil Gramm (R-TX): "Hartnett is bought and paid for by Sen. Gramm ... If the fax machine breaks down, this boy will withdraw" (Bandy, Columbia STATE, 9/29).

HUGO VICTOR? Hollings "defended" a trip on a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter during which he retrieved frozen shrimp from his [Hurricane] Hugo-battered Isle of Palms home." Hollings said the story "was planted" by the Hartnett camp "to try to embarrass" him and he was trying to rescue a man from a rooftop. The man who was rescued "could only remember thanking Hollings for taking him off the island." Hollings said he went to his house because "we were right by it." Hollings called Hartnett "hypocritical" for charging him with using senatorial privilege to see his house: "Here's a guy (Hartnett) that's been using privilege on the National Guard." Hollings was referring to reports then-Rep. Hartnett "pulled strings" to get into the Guard as an officer (Gaulden, Charleston POST & COURIER, 9/29).

===== ON THE HOUSE =====

*21 HOUSE RACE BRIEFINGS: FLORIDA RUNOFFS TOMORROW

FL 03: "Politicking is reaching a feverish pitch" in this newly-created black-minority CD. Either Ex-state Rep. Corrine Brown (D) or ex-state Rep./talk show host Andy Johnson (D) will face ex-FL GOP dir./physician Don Weidner (R) or businessman Steve Kelley (R). Brown on Johnson: "I think he's a nut. ... He's an extremist." Johnson says Brown is basing her campaign around race: "That is a low class way to run for office. ... I would never ask white folks to vote for me because I'm white. ... She says 'Vote for me because I'm black and I'm a woman'" (Ross, TAMPA TRIBUNE, 9/28). Weidner is pro-life and is "wooing the Christian Right." Kelley is pro-choice and "limiting his conservatism to economic issues" (Mitchell, ORLANDO SENTINEL, 9/29). ORLANDO SENTINEL endorsed Brown and Kelley (9/26). GAINESVILLE SUN endorses Brown (9/27). The election "will end a month of mudslinging" in the Dem race (FL TIMES-UNION, 9/30).

FL 13: Entrepreneur Brad Baker (R) faces real estate developer Dan Miller (R).

FL 20: Atty Marilyn Bonilla (R) faces financial planner Beverly Kennedy (R) for the right to challenge state Rep. Peter Deutsch (D). Kennedy favors parental consent for minors seeking abortion; Bonilla opposes it. Kennedy "is less willing" to shift money from defense to domestic issues than Bonilla and Kennedy "enthusiastically embraces" Bush-Quayle while Bonilla "has been critical of the administration" (Bousquet, MIAMI HERALD, 9/29). HERALD's Bousquet predicts Kennedy will win (9/29).

FL 23: Real estate developer Ed Fielding (R) faces atty Oliver Parker (R) and ex-federal judge Alcee Hastings (D) faces state Rep. Lois Frankel (D). The Dem race "transcends the issue-oriented politics of most" CD races as the candidates "are defending themselves against allegations of racism, dishonesty, prejudice and opportunism" (MIAMI HERALD, 9/28). PALM BEACH POST endorses Frankel (9/27). MIAMI HERALD endorses Frankel (9/20). Orlando SUN-SENTINEL endorses Frankel and Fielding (9/25). MIAMI HERALD's Bousquet predicts Hastings and Parker will win (9/29).

*22 OTHER HOUSE RACE BRIEFINGS:

CA 22: Rep. Robert Lagomarsino (R-19), defeated in a "brutal" primary by half-billionaire Michael Huffington (R), has abandoned a write-in candidacy "citing a lack of cash" but Lagomarsino "has no plans to endorse" Huffington (Parks, SANTA BARBARA NEWS-PRESS, 9/29). SANTA BARBARA NEWS-PRESS editorial criticizes Lagomarsino for not discouraging the effort by his supporters (9/29). A poll done for Santa Barbara Co. supervisor Gloria Ochoa (D) has her "within a percentage point" of Huffington, but a poll done for Huffington shows him "much further ahead" (Friesen, FIVE CITIES TIMES PRESS RECORDER, 9/25).

GA 07: "The blows traded" by Rep. Buddy Darden (D-07) and Al Beverly (R) in a 9/27 debate "simply re-opened war wounds." The two faced each other for the seat in '90 but redistricting "rearranged" the CD. Beverly has tried to make Darden's 35 overdrafts at the House bank an issue, but Darden notes he has been cleared by the DoJ. Darden is "trying to pin" Beverly with "illegally holding homestead tax exemptions" on two houses and notes Beverly lives outside the CD (ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, 9/28).

LA 04: Monroe NEWS-STAR poll conducted 9/28-29 by Mason-Dixon surveyed 413 voters; margin of error +/- 3.5% (9/29). Tested: State Sens. Cleo Fields, Chas. Jones, U.S. House counsel Fay Williams (D), Shreveport councilman Joe Shyne (D), Ralph Hall (D), James Ross (D), Emile Ventre (R) and Steve Myers (R).

Fields	22%	Myers	2%	Undec.	40%
Williams	15	Hall	1
Shyne	10	Ross	0
Jones	9	Ventre	0

MD 01: Based on a report that Rep. Tom McMillen (D-04) "is among the top 100" reps. in accepting free travel, Rep. Wayne Gilchrest (R-01) is running a radio ad depicting McMillen being pampered by a flight attendant: "Fluff your pillow, Mr. McMillen? More champagne Mr. McMillen? More sushi, Mr. McMillen?" Gilchrest said the ad has "been one of his campaign's best money-raisers" (Thompson, Balto. SUN, 9/28). McMillen "could spend more than $800,000 on the race" while Gilchrest "expects to spend less than half that amount" (Balto. SUN, 9/27).

NJ 04: "In one of the most cynical re-election gambits ever," Rep. Chris Smith (R-04) "has made his contribution to the federal deficit by arranging back-door raises for 1,500 federal employees" in Mercer Co. by asking the OMB to classify them with NYC rather than Phila. NYC federal employees receive higher salaries. Brian Hughes (D), "who has criticized [Smith] for using his office for election-time gain," supports the measure: "It's great that Chris Smith, after voting himself a $30,000 pay raise, feels the federal employees deserve a raise too" (DeHaven, TRENTONIAN, 9/29). TRENTONIAN editorial: "Well, that's great for the federal employees, but what about the other half-million people [Smith] supposedly represents?" (9/29).

*26 THIS MORNING: ABC's "GMA" hosted Bush. NBC's "Today" and "CBS This Morning" aired separate taped interviews with Clinton and hosted Perot (9/30).

LAST NIGHT: All nets led with Bush's debate challenge. PBS' "MacNeil/Lehrer" focused on the deficit with Cmte for a Responsible Fed. Budget's Carol Cox Wait, Northwestern prof. Robert Eisner, AEI's Susan Lee and Perot adviser/Eastman Kodak VP John White. "M/L" also featured an interview with Gore. CNN's "Crossfire" hosted St. Martin's Press chair Thomas McCormack and BOSTON GLOBE's Thomas Oliphant on Rick Burke's book on Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA). "Larry King Live" hosted Clinton chair Mickey Kantor and Bush manager Fred Malek, MT Perot coordinator Hays Kirby and NM Perot coordinator John Bishop. ABC's "Nightline" examined tax dollars being used to send jobs overseas (9/29).

HEALTH CARE: ABC's "American Agenda" will examine Clinton and Bush health care proposals. ABC's Strait: "While the candidates debate the cost of reform, average Americans ... are demanding a new health care system that ensures they won't go broke if they get sick. But guaranteeing that kind of security will mean radical change. More change than George Bush seems willing to consider, or that Bill Clinton seems willing to admit." Peter Jennings notes, "Several weeks ago we asked both candidates to give us an hour so that our "Agenda" reporters could ask specific questions ... on the election issues. ... Governor Clinton accepted. President Bush said no" (9/29).

LAUGHS: NBC's Jay Leno on the debates: "It's official the guy who is dressed as a chicken and is following Bush will debate the guy who he dressed as Elvis whose been following Clinton." On Cher's support of Perot: "You would think by now she would be fed up with short amateur politicians using her name to get publicity." On Bush's call to cut his pay by 10%: "Why stop there, if he wants us to believe he's Harry Truman, lets pay him like it's 1949." On people mooning Bush on the train: "That's the closest thing to a smile that he has seen in weeks" (9/30).

LETTERMAN'S TOP TEN THINGS THAT WOULD CONVINCE PEROT TO RE-ENTER:

10. Voices in his head urge him to go to DC as new president and kill Sam Donaldson.
9. No promises but he really likes those Mounds bars.
8. One night with Debbie, the official [WH] Concubine.
7. Some kind of sign from God, like L.A. riot or FL hurricane.
6. Claudia Schiffer pretends to be his girlfriend for a week.
5. Oprah's undying love.
4. Promise that when his face is carved into Mt. Rushmore, ears will remain actual size.
3. His accountants point out huge opportunities for President Perot's sons in the Savings & Loan industry.
2. One soft, sweet kiss from Larry King.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: GAIL R. WILENSKY grw
SUBJECT: CLINTON'S "NEW" HEALTH CARE PLAN

Attached is a descriptive of what Clinton discussed in New Jersey. Phil Brady has the paper the Clinton campaign released describing their health care plan. The rhetoric sounds like what Clinton thinks the American public wants to hear but its still "play or pay" and national spending limits. I've also included a half-page on financing your health care plan. This is the single most frequent question I am asked and this is more or less what I say.

Attachment

THE "NEW" CLINTON PLAN

On September 24, Governor Clinton expanded his health care plan from three to eight pages. He is moderating his rhetoric and changing his language for political reasons, to talk about restoring competition, providing insurance security, and preserving quality and choice. He is short on specifics, but when you strip down what is there to its essence, it is employer mandates and a national health care spending limit that will ration care, lead to long lines, and be enforced by price controls.

He wants to back away from "play-or-pay" and payroll taxes. But he clearly says employers must either provide an insurance package, designed by his national health care board, or pay a "mandatory premium," so employees will get an approved plan. A mandatory premium is a tax by another name. For a small businesses, his plan will cost jobs, lower wages and/or raise prices -- just like a payroll tax.

Global budgets, his strategy for cost control, have been tried in Western Europe and parts of Canada. You can talk competition but ultimately you enforce the budget ceiling by ratcheting down prices. You cannot have global budgets and also rely on competition. They just do not go together. ?

We make affordable health insurance available to everybody and attack excess spending by going after the fundamental problems that drive up costs. We restructure the insurance market, let workers change jobs without fear of becoming uninsurable, provide for tort reform, introduce administrative efficiencies like electronic billing, and make sure that information on who charges what and what you get for your money is available to employers and consumers. Instead of using global budgets and price controls, we rely on market forces and incentives to moderate spending -- the American way. And we do it in a way that keeps the high quality health care that we all expect.

FINANCING THE BUSH HEALTH CARE PLAN

The estimated cost of the President's Health Care Reform Program is $100 billion over five years. There is already enough money in the health care system to fully finance the cost of the program, without cutting benefits, raising taxes, or decreasing the number of Americans eligible for the programs.

The first place we would turn is to redirect some of the existing Federal payments to hospitals that take care of the uninsured. As part of the Medicare and Medicaid programs, the Federal government will spend $85 billion over the next five years to pay hospitals to care for the uninsured (aside from the payments hospitals already receive for taking care of Medicaid and Medicare patients). These are Medicaid and Medicare monies going for non-Medicaid and non-Medicare patients. Our reforms will enable people to seek primary and preventive care in appropriate, cost-effective places, like coordinated care programs, rather than in expensive emergency rooms. We will do this by providing tax credits and deductions to allow individuals to purchase health insurance.

Additional resources can be obtained through:

- malpractice reform (as much as $20 billion in public and private sectors annually);
- administrative changes, like electronic billing and common billing forms; and
- use of coordinated care, particularly in Medicaid.

With these changes, savings to the public and private sectors over five years are estimated be to $395 billion. The $100 billion needed for the public program is easily there.

6:00 P.M. NEWS UPDATE

DEBATE/MEETING (Reuter) -- The Bush campaign rejected a Clinton campaign offer to start negotiating debate terms Wednesday night at the offices of the bipartisan Commission on Presidential Debates. Bob Teeter said the Bush camp would not meet with any third party "until the two campaigns have met and agreed on certain fundamental issues such as sponsorship."

DEBATE/COMMISSION (Reuter) -- The bipartisan presidential debates commission formally canceled a debate scheduled for Sunday in San Diego due to an impasse between President Bush and Bill Clinton over debate terms. Clinton said he will go to San Diego in any case, accusing Bush of snubbing the commission debate proposal. But the Bush campaign accused Clinton of "hiding behind a commission." "Chicken Clinton never wanted to debate. He wants to stay locked up in his henhouse and sit on his lead," said Mary Matalin in a statement.

PEROT/PLANS (Dallas/AP) -- Ross Perot plans to stick to a Thursday deadline for gathering results from a national canvass of supporters and announcing a decision on whether to join the presidential race, his national coordinator, Orson Swindle, said. Swindle said he would discuss survey results with Perot on Thursday afternoon and then "he'll make the decision." No formal arrangements had been made for an announcement by Perot.

CLINTON/JOBs (Clinton, Md./UPI) -- Bill Clinton warmed up for possible debates with President Bush by visiting a Maryland shopping center where he attacked Bush's economic record and touted his own. "Since Mr. Bush became President, we have actually had a decline of nearly 40,000 jobs in the private sector," said Clinton. "Personal and business bankruptcies reached record levels." Clinton noted that last week's edition of Time magazine quoted an official in the Bush Administration as saying, "It doesn't much matter what's in our plan because we don't plan to follow through on it anyway." Said Clinton, "I plan to follow through on mine."

V.P./MEDIA (Detroit/AP) -- Vice President Quayle complained that President Bush hasn't gotten "a fair shake" from the news media in his bid for re-election. "They have been biased. There's no doubt about it," Quayle said as he sipped coffee with Michigan Gov. John Engler and customers at a cafe in Detroit's Greektown. "That's one of the reasons that these debates are going to be very good for us," since Bush will be able to make his points directly to the American people, Quayle said.

YEUTTER/FARMERS (AP) -- Clayton Yeutter is complaining that wheat farmers don't appreciate what the President has done for them. "One wonders how ungrateful some folks can be!" Yeutter said in a recent memorandum to the National Association of Wheat Growers. President Bush, in a pitch to the farm vote, announced in September that the government was offering to subsidize exports of a billion bushels of wheat to 20 countries. What really irked Yeutter, he said, is that some farmers say they might vote for Bill Clinton. "President Bush has just given their market a big shot in the arm, but they seem not to be very appreciative," Yeutter wrote.

CNN/SUNDAY (New York/Reuter) -- President Bush will appear on CNN's "Larry King Live" show Sunday, the night he was scheduled to debate Bill Clinton. The network said Bush would be interviewed by King in a one-hour special program starting at 9:00 P.M. EDT.

FAMILY LEAVE (AP) -- The House sustained President Bush's veto of a bill requiring many businesses to give their workers time off in family emergencies. The vote on the family leave bill was 258-169.

EPA/REGULATIONS (New York/AP) -- Seventy-six new regulations prepared by EPA are being held up by the White House, some in violation of congressional deadlines, according to a confidential EPA report. "The Administration is holding up numerous rules, which is illegal, and which is not consistent with the goal of protecting human health and the environment," said a senior EPA official. The report says that eight regulations are currently being blocked by the White House even though congressional deadlines for their completion have passed. David Cohen, a spokesman for William Reilly, had no comment on the report.

YUGOSLAVIA/FLIGHTS (AP) The U.S., responding to warnings of a severe winter, announced it was prepared to resume flights of food and medicine to Bosnia-Herzegovina and will consider an appeal from Belgrade for delivery of home heating oil. Richard Boucher said "efforts are being made to resume the flights" in response to a request from Cyrus Vance.

HAITI (Fond Du Lac, Wisc./Reuter) -- President Bush extended sanctions against Haiti in retaliation for the military ouster of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, the White House announced. The President notified Congress that he has determined that "it is necessary to maintain in force the... economic pressure" on Haiti.

MEMORANDUM FOR BOB TEETER
FRED MALEK
JOHN KELLER
CRAIG WHITNEY

FROM: JAMES A. BAKER, III J.A. Baker

The attached comments from Betsy DeVos are very, very troubling even if only partially accurate.

We cannot afford to look, let alone be, cavalier about our spending patterns.

Dear Mr. Baker,

I am writing to express some concerns with respect to campaign expenditures by members of the President's campaign and advance staffs.

Michigan Republican's are working hard to win the state for President Bush. As Republican National Committeewoman for Michigan, and a part of two families who make significant financial contributions to the President's election efforts, I am troubled by some of the expenses incurred by the campaign during recent visits by the President and Vice President.

On the President's recent visit to southeast Michigan, all of the support staff stayed at the Ritz Carlton, one of the area's most expensive hotels. Not only is the perception bad on this, but none of the events were held at or even near the hotel.

Last week, Vice President Quayle had a very successful Economic Club address and rally in Grand Rapids. My conversation with the executive director for the Economic Club following the visit also caused me concern. Approximately $4,000 to $5,000 in expenses (for media lunches, an expensive banner backdrop, tele-prompter, etc.), were ordered by the advance team and passed on to the Economic Club. The Economic Club could not in good conscience fund these expenses from their general budget, but had they simply been advised of these expenses at the time of confirmation of the visit, they could have absorbed them through the ticket prices. As it turned out, the Bush-Quayle campaign (or the White House?) bore the costs.

I am aware that many expenses are incurred with a Presidential or Vice Presidential visit. There is no excuse, however, for arrogant or irresponsible use of campaign funds on the part of the Bush-Quayle campaign.

If the Bush/Quayle campaign consistently houses its advance and support staffs in the most luxurious hotels, and consistently misses opportunities to "share the cost" with host organizations, the dollars add up very quickly.

I urge careful review of expenditure policies and sensitivity to the perceptions fostered by those representing our President.

I remain fully committed to re-electing the Bush/Quayle team, and appreciate your hard work and dedication toward the same goal.

With best wishes,

Betsy DeVos
Republican National Committeewoman

CONTINUATION OF HAITIAN EMERGENCY

On October 4, 1991, by Executive Order No. 12775, I declared a national emergency to deal with the unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security and foreign policy of the United States constituted by the grave events that had occurred in the Republic of Haiti to disrupt the legitimate exercise of power by the democratically elected government of that country. On October 28, 1991, by Executive Order No. 12779, I took additional measures by prohibiting, with certain exceptions, trade between the United States and Haiti. Because the assault on Haiti's democracy represented by the military's forced exile of President Aristide continues to pose an unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States, I am continuing the national emergency with respect to Haiti in accordance with section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)).

This notice shall be published in the Federal Register and transmitted to the Congress.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

Today I am signing into law S. 680, the "Tourism Policy and Export Promotion Act of 1992." The Act authorizes appropriations for the United States Travel and Tourism Administration. This Federal agency promotes the United States as an international travel destination. It assists small and medium-sized U.S. travel and tourism companies in entering and competing in the international market.

The travel and tourism industry is America's third largest retail industry. It employs over six million workers, making it America's third largest employer. In 1991, travel and tourism generated $344 billion in receipts, accounting for a trade surplus of $16.8 billion. Both receipts and the surplus are expected to grow even larger in 1992. The health of this industry is important to our economic recovery.

In signing this legislation, I must note my concerns with one provision. S. 680 would establish the Rural Tourism Development Foundation as a charitable and nonprofit corporation to assist in the development and promotion of rural tourism. Although most of the provisions in the Act demonstrate an intent to establish the Foundation as a private entity, there are certain provisions that undermine this conclusion. Entities that are neither clearly governmental nor clearly private should not be created because they blur the distinction between public and private entities in a way that may diminish the political accountability of Government.

On balance, I believe the Congress intended to create the Foundation as a private entity. However, in order to remove any doubt as to the nature of the Foundation, I instruct the Attorney General and the Secretary of Commerce to prepare legislation for submission to the next Congress to amend this Act to ensure that the Foundation is considered solely a private entity.

The President today recognized Yvonne Pointer of Cleveland, Ohio, as the 908th Daily Point of Light for the Nation. Ms. Pointer volunteers her time to ensure a decent, crime free, and safe community environment.

Since the rape and murder of her daughter in 1984, Ms. Pointer has worked to prevent the murder of children and to comfort the families of murder victims. In 1985, she founded Parents Against Child Killing, a support group for parents grieving the death of a child. Ms. Pointer is "on call" to offer emotional support, advice, and a listening ear to 25 parents. She shares personal grief experiences and emotions, often referring family members to support groups and other resources in the community. She is an active member of Parents of Murdered Children, a monthly support group. She and other parents speak to students, prisoners, and community groups about family loss from urban violence.

In 1991, Ms. Pointer helped establish a Midnight Basketball League in Cleveland to provide structured, recreational activities for young men ages 18 to 25 from 10:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m., four nights a week. The goal of Midnight Basketball is to reduce the crime rate in the inner-city and to offer young men positive lifestyle choices and alternatives to violence and crime. According to Ms. Pointer, last year the area crime rate dropped 54 percent. The players participate in workshops given by local volunteer professionals on career choices, job development programs, AIDS awareness, and crime prevention. Ms. Pointer, the Commissioner of the League, organizes the activities with the help of other volunteers and supervises the games and workshops. She has developed supportive friendships with many of the young men, baking them cakes and other treats to express her interest and concern.

The President salutes Yvonne Pointer for exemplifying his belief that, "From now on in America, any definition of a successful life must include serving others."

TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

I am returning herewith without my approval H.R. 5517, a bill providing appropriations for fiscal year 1993 for the District of Columbia.

Although I do not object to the funding provided by the bill, its language concerning the use of funds for abortion is unacceptable. I have stated my intention to veto any bill that does not contain language that prohibits the use of all congressionally appropriated funds to pay for abortions except when the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term. The limitation I propose is identical to the one included in the District of Columbia Appropriations Acts for FY 1989, FY 1990, FY 1991, and FY 1992.

H.R. 5517 would place such a limitation on the use of Federal funds to pay for abortion. However, the bill would permit congressionally appropriated local funds to be used for abortions on demand. As a matter of law, the use of local funds in the District of Columbia must be approved by the Congress and the President through enactment of an appropriations act. Under these circumstances, the failure of H.R. 5517 to prohibit the use of all funds appropriated by the bill to pay for abortions, except in the limited circumstances mentioned above, is unacceptable.

From the outset of my Administration, I have repeatedly stated my deep personal concern about the tragedy in America of abortion on demand. As a Nation, we must protect the unborn. H.R. 5517 does not provide such protection. I am therefore returning H.R. 5517 without my approval.

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent the enclosed notice, stating that the Haitian emergency is to continue in effect beyond October 4, 1992, to the Federal Register for publication.

The crisis between the United States and Haiti that led to the declaration on October 4, 1991, of a national emergency has not been resolved. The assault on Haiti's democracy represented by the military's forced exile of President Aristide continues to pose an unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States. The United States remains committed to a multilateral resolution of this crisis through its actions implementing the resolutions of the Organization of American States with respect to Haiti. For these reasons, I have determined that it is necessary to maintain in force the broad authorities necessary to apply economic pressure to the de facto regime in Haiti.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESS SECRETARY

This year's report of the National Education Goals Panel shows we have made strides in increasing the high school completion rate of our youth and in eradicating drug use in schools. These positive results are the most compelling evidence of the effectiveness of the reform policies we have pursued over the past three years.

The President called the Nation's governors together in 1990 for an education summit in Charlottesville, Virginia, where the participants set a strategic vision to improve American education by concentrating their efforts on reaching six national education goals. The National Education Goals Panel is charting the progress toward achieving these goals.

The President today recognizes those who have embraced the goals and who are working to establish rigorous national standards for what American children should know and be able to achieve. Continued support for this initiative and for the President's efforts to establish a voluntary system of achievement tests tied to world class standards will ensure that all citizens are able to live, work, and compete in an international marketplace.

For Immediate Release

September 30, 1992

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

1. On October 4, 1991, in Executive Order No. 12775, I declared a national emergency to deal with the threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States caused by events that had occurred in Haiti to disrupt the legitimate exercise of power by the democratically elected government of that country (56 FR 50641). In that order, I ordered the immediate blocking of all property and interests in property of the Government of Haiti (including the Banque de la Republique d'Haiti) then or thereafter located in the United States or within the possession or control of a U.S. person, including its overseas branches. I also prohibited any direct or indirect payments or transfers to the de facto regime in Haiti of funds or other financial or investment assets or credits by any U.S. person or any entity organized under the laws of Haiti and owned or controlled by a U.S. person.

Subsequently, on October 28, 1991, I issued Executive Order No. 12779 adding trade sanctions against Haiti to the sanctions imposed on October 4, 1991 (56 FR 55975). Under this order, I prohibited exportation from the United States of goods, technology, and services, and importation into the United States of Haitian-origin goods and services, after November 5, 1991, with certain limited exceptions. The order exempts trade in publications and other informational materials from the import, export, and payment prohibitions, and permits the exportation to Haiti of donations to relieve human suffering as well as commercial sales of five food commodities: rice, beans, sugar, wheat flour, and cooking oil. In order to permit the return to the United States of goods being prepared for U.S. customers by Haiti's substantial "assembly sector," the order also permitted, through December 5, 1991, the importation into the United States of goods assembled or processed in Haiti that contained parts or materials previously exported to Haiti from the United States. On February 5, 1992, it was announced that this exception could be applied for on a case-by-case basis by U.S. persons wishing to resume a pre-embargo import/export relationship with the assembly sector in Haiti.

2. The declaration of the national emergency on October 4, 1991, was made pursuant to the authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and laws of the United States, including the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.), the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.), and section 301 of title 3 of the United States Code. I reported the emergency declaration to the Congress on October 4, 1991, pursuant to section 204(b) of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1703(b)). The additional sanctions set forth in my order of October 28, 1991, were imposed pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, including the statutes cited above, and implemented in the United States Resolution MRE/RES. 2/91, adopted by the Ad Hoc Meeting of Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the Organization of American States ("OAS") on October 8, 1991, which called on Member States to impose a trade embargo on Haiti and to freeze Government of Haiti assets. The present report is submitted pursuant to 50 U.S.C. 1641(c) and 1703(c), and discusses Administration actions and expenses directly related to the national emergency with respect to Haiti declared in Executive Order No. 12775, as implemented pursuant to that order and Executive Order No. 12779.

3. On March 31, 1992, the Office of Foreign Assets Control of the Department of the Treasury ("FAC"), after consultation with the Department of State and other Federal agencies, issued the Haitian Transactions Regulations ("HTR"), 31 C.F.R. Part 580 (57 FR 10820, March 31, 1992), to implement the prohibitions set forth in Executive Orders No. 12775 and No. 12779. Since my last report, there have been two amendments to the HTR.

On June 5, 1992, new section 580.211 was added (57 FR 23954, June 5, 1992) prohibiting vessels calling in Haiti on or after that date from entering the United States without authorization by FAC. This amendment is explained more fully in section 6 of this report. In addition, effective August 27, 1992, new section 580.516 (57 FR 39603, September 1, 1992) authorizes the exportation to Haiti of certain additional food items (corn and corn flour, milk (including powdered milk), and edible tallow), as well as the issuance of specific licenses permitting, on a case-by-case basis, exports of propane for noncommercial use. Copies of these amendments are attached to this report.

4. The ouster of Jean-Bertrand Aristide, the democratically elected President of Haiti, in an illegal coup by elements of the Haitian military on September 30, 1991, was immediately repudiated and vigorously condemned by the OAS. The convening on September 30, 1991, of an emergency meeting of the OAS Permanent Council to address this crisis reflected an important first use of a mechanism approved at the 1991 OAS General Assembly in Santiago, Chile, requiring the OAS to respond to a sudden or irregular interruption of the functioning of a democratic government anywhere in the Western Hemisphere. As an OAS Member State, the United States has participated actively in OAS diplomatic efforts to restore democracy in Haiti and has supported fully the OAS resolutions adopted in response to the crisis, including Resolution MRE/RES. 2/91 and MRE/RES. 3/92.

5. In the first year of the Haitian sanctions program, FAC has made extensive use of its authority to specifically license transactions with respect to Haiti in an effort to mitigate the effects of the sanctions on the legitimate Government of Haiti and on the livelihood of Haitian workers employed by Haiti's export assembly sector having established relationships with U.S. firms, and to ensure the availability of necessary medicines and medical supplies and the undisrupted flow of humanitarian donations to Haiti's poor. For example, specific licenses have been issued (1) permitting expenditures from blocked assets for the operations of the legitimate Government of Haiti, (2) permitting U.S. firms with pre-embargo relationships with product assembly operations in Haiti to resume those relationships in order to continue employment for their workers or, if they choose to withdraw from Haiti, to return to the United States assembly equipment, machinery, and parts and materials previously exported to Haiti, (3) permitting U.S. companies operating in Haiti to establish, under specified circumstances, interest-bearing blocked reserve accounts in commercial or investment banking institutions in the United States for deposit of amounts owed the de facto regime, (4) permitting the continued material support of U.S. and international religious, charitable, public health, and other humanitarian organizations and projects operating in Haiti, and (5) authorizing commercial sales of agricultural inputs such as fertilizer and foodcrop seeds.

6. The widespread supply of embargoed goods, particularly petroleum products, to Haiti by foreign-flag vessels led to the adoption on May 17, 1992, by the Ad Hoc Meeting of Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the OAS of Resolution MRE/RES. 3/92 urging, among other things, a port ban on vessels engaged in trade with Haiti in violation of the OAS embargo. There was broad consensus among OAS member representatives, as well as European permanent observer missions, on the importance of preventing oil shipments to Haiti. Vessels from some non-OAS Caribbean ports and European countries have been involved in trade, particularly oil supplies, that undermines the embargo.

In response to Resolution MRE/RES. 3/92, section 580.211 was added to the HTR on June 5, 1992, prohibiting vessels calling in Haiti on or after that date from entering the United States without FAC authorization. Vessels seeking such authorization must demonstrate that all calls in Haiti on or after June 5 were (1) for transactions exempted or excepted from the applicable prohibitions of the HTR, (2) specifically licensed by FAC, or authorized by an OAS Member State pursuant to Resolution MRE/RES. 3/92, or (3) made under a contract of voyage that was fully completed prior to the vessel's proposed entry into a U.S. port.

Strict enforcement of the new regulation has benefitted from the close coordination between FAC, the U.S. Embassy at Port-au-Prince, the U.S. Customs Service, the U.S. Navy, and the U.S. Coast Guard in monitoring vessel traffic to and from Haiti.

7. Since the issuance of Executive Order No. 12779, FAC has worked closely with the U.S. Customs Service to ensure both that prohibited imports and exports (including those in which the Government of Haiti has an interest) are identified and interdicted and that permitted imports and exports move to their intended destinations without undue delay. Violations and suspected violations of the embargo are being investigated, and appropriate enforcement actions have been initiated.

Since my last report, penalties totalling more than $30,000 have been collected from U.S. banks for violations involving unlicensed transfers from blocked Government of Haiti accounts or the failure to block payments to the de facto regime. Additional penalties totaling nearly $175,000 have been proposed for other violations of the HTR, including penalties against the masters of vessels violating the new regulation, effective June 5, 1992, applicable to vessels calling in Haiti on or after that date.

8. The expenses incurred by the Federal Government in the 6-month period from April 4, 1992, through October 3, 1992, that are directly attributable to the authorities conferred by the declaration of a national emergency with respect to Haiti are estimated at $2.3 million, most of which represent wage and salary costs for Federal personnel. Personnel costs were largely centered in the Department of the Treasury (particularly in FAC, the U.S. Customs Service, and the Office of the General Counsel), the Department of State, the U.S. Coast Guard, and the Department of Commerce.

9. The assault on Haiti's democracy represented by the military's forced exile of President Aristide continues to pose an unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States. The United States remains committed to a multilateral resolution of this crisis through its actions implementing the resolutions of the OAS with respect to Haiti. I shall continue to exercise the powers at my disposal to apply economic sanctions against Haiti as long as these measures are appropriate, and will continue to report periodically to the Congress on significant developments pursuant to 50 U.S.C. 1703(c).

For Immediate Release

September 30, 1992

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

I am pleased to transmit for your immediate consideration and enactment the "Violent Crime Control Act of 1992." Also transmitted is a section-by-section analysis.

In a speech I delivered recently at the DeSales Catholic Church in Fox Park, Missouri, I outlined my crime agenda for the remainder of this Congress and for next year. I discussed several issues of particular concern to the families of this country such as carjacking, sexual and domestic assault, and gang violence. The enclosed legislative proposal addresses these critical problems.

As you know, I first proposed a comprehensive crime bill to the Congress on June 15, 1989. I again submitted a bill to the 102nd Congress on March 11, 1991. That bill, which has yet to be enacted, includes provisions for restoring and expanding the Federal death penalty, ending the abuse of habeas corpus, reforming the exclusionary rule, and establishing additional crimes and penalties involving the criminal use of firearms. The failure of the Congress to pass these pro-law enforcement proposals is particularly frustrating in light of the broad bipartisan support they enjoy.

I know that there is currently an effort being made to forge a genuine compromise that would include effective death penalty provisions and a version of habeas corpus reform that would be acceptable to me. It is my hope that the Congress will present me with such a compromise, one that is truly meaningful for Federal, State, and local law enforcement. This apparent willingness to work realistically on crime legislation provides the basis for me to call on this Congress to act quickly in its final days to pass the additional crime-fighting measures I am today proposing.

The bill I am transmitting today addresses several of the most significant current threats to public safety. It includes:

1. New tools for fighting sexual violence such as increased penalties, new rules of evidence and conduct for trial lawyers, expanded restitution for victims, and grants to State and local law enforcement.
2. Anti-carjacking provisions in the form of a new Federal crime, expanded use of law enforcement grants to the States, and a study of devices to prevent carjacking.
3. Provisions for combatting domestic violence such as a new Federal offense covering spouse abuse, violations of protective orders, and stalking, and a comprehensive grant program to fight domestic violence and enforce child support obligations.
4. Anti-gang amendments, including a new RICO-type offense for street gang activities, a new offense for involving a minor in the commission of a violent crime, and broadened adult prosecution of violent juveniles.

5. New laws for child support enforcement that will give the Federal Government the ability to punish criminally "deadbeat dads" who leave a State in order to avoid child support or who are significantly late in the payment of child support obligations. The legislation will also assist the States in the enforcement of child support orders.
6. Increased penalties for crimes against the elderly that will punish and deter criminals from assaulting or defrauding senior citizens.
7. New crimes and penalties for the criminal use of firearms such as a mandatory 10-year sentence for using a semiautomatic firearm in the course of a violent or drug trafficking crime, and a mandatory 5-year sentence for possession of a gun by a dangerous felon.

As the 102nd Congress draws to a close, the Congress has an opportunity to pass legislation that will have a major impact on many of the most serious crime problems facing Americans. The public wants decisive action from government to combat the menacing presence of violent criminals. Let us address this unfinished agenda now.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: JAN NAYLOR Jan
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT AND
ACTING DIRECTOR OF PRESIDENTIAL PERSONNEL

RE: ANDREW FALKIEWICZ

In a recent note to Connie Horner, you asked us to review the prospects for a more challenging assignment for Andrew Falkiewicz.

As you noted, there were some financial problems with Andrew, and I asked Counsel's office to review his file. Based on the information they have from 1989, they would not recommend a Senate confirmed position. They would need an updated FBI check to make a final determination, but that cannot be initiated without having Andrew complete new forms (which would also raise his expectations).

There are, however, a couple of possibilities for him to take on a greater role that would not require Senate confirmation.

1. President of the Eurasia Foundation.

In conjunction with the State Department and NSC, we will shortly be making recommendations to you for the Board of Directors for the Eurasia Foundation. The Eurasia Foundation is a private sector organization we are helping to create to facilitate economic and technical assistance to the former Soviet Union. These will not be formal appointments, but Secretary Baker recommends that you approve them before we seek their interest. The President would act as the Foundation's Executive Director.

2. Executive Director of RIAS Foundation.

(Radio in the American Sector)

Chase Untermeyer called me a few weeks ago to ask if I had any thoughts of people who would make good candidates for the Executive Director of RIAS. I suggested Andrew, and Chase agreed that he would make an excellent choice. Chase has recommended him to the Foundation board which consists of five Americans and five Germans. The board selects the Executive Director. Chase did tell me, however, that Andrew's stint at the CIA might prove problematic. The position is in Berlin, and Chase will keep me informed of the board's decision.

I will keep you apprised of Andrew's progress.

I know Andrew is at AID. He is a close friend.

Please ask someone to look at his file to see if there might be a more challenging assignment for him than what he is doing now.

He was once considered for Ambassador, but maybe there is something coming up that would fit.

Were there some financial problems with him? Have they been solved.

POOL REPORT #4

(Newark, New Jersey)

September 30, 1992

During the event at the union hall, Marlin called your pooler aside to announce that the Clinton campaign has agreed to meet with the Bush campaign without the debate commission tonight at 8:00 . He said they will meet in the conference room of Mickey Kantor's Washington law office. The Bush representatives will be Teeter, Richard Darman of OMB, Bobby Burchfield the Bush campaign legal counsel and Fred Malek the campaign manager.

"There will be no commission members present, no press, and no statement afterwards."

Asked how they will let us know their decision, Marlin said: "We don't know that we will. I presume they'll talk about that in the meeting."

He said the meeting came about after Kantor called Teeter at about 6 p.m.

Asked if this was a victory for the Bush side, Marlin said: "We think it's important and we're glad that they agreed to meet with us. And this should move the whole debate issue off the dime."

Asked if the Bush campaign has been invigorated by his debate offer, Marlin said: "I think the campaign's been going very well. But clearly we did seize the offense yesterday with his proposal. It is significant and one that....is recognized as significant by the American people, and so it has given us all a new sense of moving forward with this debate program."

P.S. Judy Smith said that the reason Jim Baker is not in on the negotiations is that Teeter has been "our lead guy" on the debate debate.

POOL REPORT #2

POOL REPORT #2
(Fond Du Lac, Wisconsin)

September 30, 1992

Inside Fond Du Lac city/county government center, Fond du Lac Wisconsin.

Inside the council chambers, President Bush met with "Children First Families," men, women and children who are participants in Wisconsin's welfare reform program. Waiting for Bush inside were about 35 people, both blacks and whites, including about 15 children and youths. They rose and applauded when Bush entered with Governor Tommy Thompson. Bush shook a few hands, then a woman named Jean Rogers, spelling unsure, said that all "the folks here" want to tell Bush how the reform program made a difference in their lives in regard the issue of child support. Introducing Bush, Thompson said that Wisconsin has become known nationally for its reforms in child support payments. In regard to reform initiatives, Bush said he believed "a lot must be done at the state level," though the federal government can help by executing a waiver to pave the way for such "experiments" intended to take a "failed program and make it work." "Wisconsin has been at the forefront of change," Bush said.

"I just wanted to pay my respects to that" Bush said, explaining why he came. "People are waiting to see how (Wisconsin's) waiver affects future generations." He said that today he planned to focus on one aspect of welfare reform, dealing with deadbeat dads, who "go off and lead a happy life without fulfilling their obligations." He asked the people in the room to "tell me how this can work better." Then a young man identified only as a member of a young father's club, got up and presented Bush with a t-shirt.

At that point, before any personal or family stories could be told, the pool was escorted out of the chambers.

In the front of the chamber room, hung a large sign saying "President Bush in Wisconsin, helping put children first."

As an addendum to pool report # 1, it should be noted that on Air Force One en route to Oshkosh, Fitzwater said Teeter had sent a letter to Micky Kantor, Clinton Campaign Chairman, laying out Bush's debate proposal formally and saying Teeter stood ready to meet Kantor anywhere, even in Little Rock, to discuss details. "We wait to hear from them today," Fitzwater said.

POOL REPORT -- OSHKOSH TO NEWARK
SEPT 30, 1992

BEFORE THE POOL BOARDED THE MOTORCADE IN FOND DU LAC, MARLIN FITZWATER HAD MORE TO SAY ABOUT THE DEBATE ISSUE, THIS TIME, IN FRONT OF THE CAMERAS. WHEN ASKED BY REPORTERS WHETHER THE BUSH CAMPAIGN WILL AGREE TO MEET WITH CLINTON OFFICIALS TONIGHT AT THE DEBATE COMMISSION HEADQUARTERS, FITZWATER SAID, "WELL, THEY HAVEN'T REPLIED TO US (THE LETTER TEETER SENT KANTOR THIS MORNING) THAT'S THE PROBLEM. FOR SOME REASON, WE CAN'T GET THEM TO GIVE US A STRAIGHT RESPONSE. THEY WANTED TO GET THE COMMISSION INVOLVED AGAIN. OUR POINT IS THERE ARE TWO CANDIDATES INVOLVED IN THIS RACE AND THEY OUGHT TO SIT DOWN AND WORK OUT THE DETAILS AROUND A VERY SIMPLE PROPOSAL THAT HAS FOUR DEBATES, ONE EACH SUNDAY NIGHT FOR FOUR WEEKS, TWO ARE THE WAY THEY WANT TO DO IT AND TWO ARE THE WAY WE WANT TO DO IT. THAT'S NOT TOO TOUGH FOR THE CLINTON CAMPAIGN TO UNDERSTAND AND THEY OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO SIT DOWN WITH US AND WORK OUT THESE ARRANGEMENTS. AND THEY JUST KEEP FLOPPING AROUND AND I DON'T KNOW WHY EXACTLY. BUT IN ANY CASE, WE PROPOSED TO TALK DIRECTLY TO THEIR CAMP ABOUT THESE ARRANGEMENTS AND GET IT ON, AS THE PRESIDENT SAYS, AND THAT'S WHAT WE OUGHT TO DO."

ASKED HOW HE THINKS THE PUBLIC WILL RESPOND TO ALL OF THIS POSTURING, FITZWATER SAID, "I THINK THE GENERAL PUBLIC WILL SAY THAT GEORGE BUSH HAS GONE THE EXTRA MILE FOR DEBATES. HE'S MADE AN HONEST AND FAIR PROPOSAL HERE, AND IT SEEMS CLEAR NOW THAT MR. CLINTON WAS JUST TRYING TO ENACT A LOT OF SUBTREFUGE AND OTHER KINDS OF MANUEVERS TO GET OUT OF DEBATING, AND HE'S JUMPING AROUND LIKE A SCALDED DUCK TRYING TO GO IN EVERY DIRECTION, AND GET EVERYBODY HE CAN INVOLVED. WHY HE WANTS TO ^{HIDE} ~~HIDE~~ BEHIND THE SKIRTS OF THE COMMISSION IS BEYOND ME."

ASKED ABOUT THE SCHEDULING CONFLICT WITH THE WORLD SERIES, MARLIN SAID, "SO WHAT? LIFE GOES ON. WE'VE GOT FOUR NETWORKS, AND MILLIONS AND MILLIONS OF PEOPLE CAN SEE THESE DEBATES. THEY'RE VERY IMPORTANT FOR THE COUNTRY. DOES BILL CLINTON WANT TO POSTPONE THE ELECTION FOR THE WORLD SERIES? WHAT IF SADDAM HUSSEIN DECIDES TO INVADE DURING THE SUPERBOWL? WILL MR. CLINTON DECIDE HE DOESN'T WANT TO DEAL WITH IT BECAUSE HE'S GOT A SPORTS GAME GOING ON AT THAT TIME?" YOUR POOL ASKED MARLIN WHY THE PRESIDENT WON'T DEBATE ON SUNDAY. "THE PROBLEM WITH SUNDAY" SAID MARLIN, "IS IT'S JUST LOGISTICALLY IMPOSSIBLE BECAUSE THE COMMISSION ALREADY SAID THEY COULDN'T ARRANGE IT. THE POINT IS, WE NEED A LITTLE TIME TO PUT THESE TOGETHER. THE TIMING IS THAT WE'VE GOT FOUR DATES STARTING THE 11TH. THEY'RE VERY REASONABLE, AND EVERYBODY KNOWS THEM. AND CLINTON'S PROPOSING SUNDAY NIGHT IS SIMPLY ANOTHER WAY TO TRY TO STALL AND TRY TO MAKE ANOTHER DODGE, TRY TO

2-2-2-2 OSHKOSH TO NEWARK

DUCK THIS ISSUE AND GET OUT OF THE WHOLE DEBATE PROCESS." WHEN ASKED IF THE CAMPAIGN HAS DECIDED NOT TO GO TO THE MEETING TONIGHT, MARLIN SAID, "WE'VE SAID WE'LL GO ANYWHERE, ANYTIME TO MEET WITH MICKEY KANTOR AND THE CLINTON CAMPAIGN AND THEY WON'T DO IT.

ENDIT

CLARA BINGHAM, NEWSWEEK AND BEN SHORE, COPLEY

Marlin (not on camera) came to the back of the plane to discuss the debates. He said that the Bush campaign is waiting to hear from the Clinton campaign, and that Teeter is willing to fly anywhere to meet with Kantor. "Their initial response is somewhat waffling and baffling" said Fitzwater. "I don't know why they want to hide behind the skirts of the commission.... It's the most straightforward offer you can get." When asked about the scheduling conflict with the World Series, Marlin said, "So what? I can't help it if the world series is on during the election.

Millions and millions of people will be watching the debate. Mr. Clinton seems to be trying to come up with all of these peripheral arguments to get out of this debate. The most troublesome one is the commission. What kind of a president is it who can't make decisions for himself? How can he negotiate with foreign countries if he wants to refer everything to a commission?...To raise the world series is the phoniest of issues I've ever heard in my life. Another Clinton dodge....We've made a very straightforward offer. We've compromised, we've adopted the format Mr. Clinton wanted, and we've offered the people the most expensive debate opportunity they've ever had. ~~an~~" Fitzwater said that the six debate package is ~~an~~ historic in its ^{large} number of debates. "I don't understand why he (Clinton) won't accept. What's he afraid of? He won't even talk to us" said Fitzwater. Marlin said that the White House has received offers to sponsor the debates from "plenty" organizations, including several universities, but he wouldn't go into detail. "We want to talk to Mr. Clinton about it. That's what we're saying to Mr. Kantor, sit down, let's talk about it." Marlin said that the president has not done any yet "actual practice sessions" in preparation for the debate, but that he has read briefing books and issue papers for the debate.

IV. Recommendations - SELECT THREE OF THREE

On September 18, 1992, you approved Julie Nixon Eisenhower, Louisa Biddle Duemling, and Betsy Heminway for appointment to the Kennedy Center Board of Trustees. Mesdames Eisenhower, Duemling and Heminway declined appointment to the Board because of time and other constraints on their ability to do the best job possible. However, this presents you the opportunity to select three additional individuals.

Secretary Baker and I recommend you select the following individuals for appointment to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts Board of Trustees:

STUART BERNSTEIN, of the District of Columbia, for appointment to the Board, vice Dina Merrill. Mr. Bernstein is President of the Bernstein Companies, dealing in real estate development, investment and management, and he served on the now-defunct International Cultural and Trade Center Commission. He has been very active in the community on various civic, educational, business and other boards. Mr. Bernstein is an active supporter of the Kennedy Center, having raised over $1 million for the Center's endowment, and $400,000 to refurbish the Opera House. He is currently a member of the Kennedy Center Community and Friends Board. Mr. Bernstein is a National Vice Chairman of the Bush-Quayle '92 National Finance Committee. (Part-time PA position serving a term of ten years, expiring 9/1/02).

Recommended by: Secretary Skinner, Senator McConnell, Bill Moss, Senator Warner, former Senator Boschwitz, Max Fisher and Alma Gildenhorn.

APPROVE DISAPPROVE

MARY GALVIN, of Illinois, for appointment to the Board, vice Alice Hanley. (Part-time PA position serving a term of ten years, expiring 9/1/02).

APPROVE DISAPPROVE

ALMA POWELL, of the District of Columbia, for appointment to the Board, vice Charles Z. Wick. (Part-time PA position serving a term of ten years, expiring 9/1/02).

Recommended by: Mrs. Bush's Office, and James Wolfensohn.

APPROVE DISAPPROVE

Upon your approval the appropriate clearances will be initiated. Announcement of your intention to appoint these individuals will be made as soon as the necessary clearances are completed.

Although you know Bob Galvin, Chairman of Motorola, very well, he does not think it's appropriate for him to ask you to consider his wife, Mary Galvin, as a candidate for the Board of The Kennedy Center. Since Mary is such an outstanding person and the Galvins are great loyalists to you and the Party, I recommend that you seriously consider her for this assignment. The Galvins have done a lot as a family to promote music and the arts.

Dear President Bush:

I received your very good letter about the family leave legislation and you do make some excellent points.

Perhaps you are not aware that my column is syndicated world-wide, which necessitates a 3-4 week lead at the very soonest. This means, of course, that there is no way I can put your letter in print before October 18.

At that time, we will know what has happened with the House vote tomorrow and whether or not we will be seeing this bill next year.

Again, please know how much I appreciate your personal interest.

Sincerely yours,

September 18, 1992

Dear Ann:

I saw your recent column on family leave legislation and was disappointed to see that it really told only one side of the story.

I strongly support and encourage family leave -- the ability to take time off for a birth, an adoption, or to tend to a sick family member. But the real question is how to achieve that goal.

The Democrats in Congress are sending me a family leave bill that takes one approach -- another government mandate. (Interestingly, they passed the bill almost a year ago, but waited until now to send it to me.) My alternative approach is to provide a family-oriented solution in the form of an incentive tax credit for all small and medium-sized businesses, those with 500 or fewer employees. My approach would help employers pay for benefits that continue while an employee is away. Thus, my tax credit both encourages companies to adopt family leave policies and gives them the flexibility to target the specific needs of their employees.

This is similar to the child care program I proposed -- and Congress passed -- that puts power in the hands of parents -- not bureaucrats. It lets families choose their child care -- not the Federal Government. We should provide an equally flexible approach to family and medical leave.

My tax credit approach has another big advantage: the Democrats' bill covers only businesses with 50 or more employees, leaving out millions of employees of small firms -- those least likely to be able to obtain family leave. My solution covers these small businesses as well, and as a result it has broader coverage and includes those most in need.

And, Ann, to put this in perspective, two out of every five working Americans work for an employer who employs 50 or fewer employees. Small business is the backbone of our economy, and we should be making it easier for them to provide family leave, not financially more difficult.

For this reason, I have challenged the Democratic Leadership to put politics aside and pass this legislation before Congress leaves on October 3. I hope you will use this letter to give your readers the whole picture, Ann.

Sincerely,

Ms. Ann Landers

CHICKEN HECKLERS COMEBACKS

SEPT. 29, 1992

I see some chickens that were sent by Governor Clinton to follow me around...

...If Clinton gets in, you're looking at America's new national bird.

...Where's Colonel Sanders when you need him?

...The governor keeps chickens on the payroll for security reasons. They share the same blood type.

...Careful. The Secret Service has a bag containing Colonel Sanders's twelve secret herbs and spices.

...Anyone in the mood for a barbecue?

...Maybe I should have Arnold Schwarzenegger fly in and make a wish.

...Weren't you classmates of Mr. Clinton while he was at Oxford?

My opponent has never held down a job in the real world. Hell, he couldn't get a job at Domino's Pizza. You can't just make promises at Domino's. At some point, you gotta deliver.

He promised the people of Arkansas a whole bunch of things. (LIST PROMISES UNFULFILLED) He even promised if they re-elected him governor he wouldn't quit and run for president. Then he betrayed them.

Mr. Clinton quits as governor to run for president. Most people you talk to in Arkansas take that as a mixed blessing. (as good news and bad news) As one resident of Little Rock put it, "Our gain could be America's loss".

(ON CLINTON WAFFLING OR NOT BEING SPECIFIC ON AN ISSUE)

Come on, Governor. Cut the baloney. Fess up. Show your cards. Tell us where you stand on free trade (etc.) Mr. Clinton is a Bill that's long overdue.

The governor won't tell us where he stands on anything. Because the truth is, Mr. Clinton wants to be all things to all people. But he's secretly, very quietly only all things to a few people. A few very liberal people pulling his strings. With their fingers crossed, hoping all the people don't catch on.

They say you can tell a lot about someone by the company he keeps. Mr. Clinton numbers among his closest friends the pretty people out in Beverly Hills. People who never heard the words, "Attention, K-Mart shoppers". You've seen their lives chronicled in People Magazine and on the covers of the supermarket tabloids. These people are advising Governor Clinton on his campaign. They drive the expensive German cars and eat imported Italian mushrooms and wash it down with French water. And they want to run America? Get serious.

These close personal friends of the Governor have re-designed and re-packaged the governor so he looks and acts and talks just like a typical American. Robo-candidate. Are they kidding? The closest they've come to seeing a typical American is from thirty thousand feet flying over the country in their private jets. To them, the average American is a dot.

My opponent has been hanging out too long with that crowd in Beverly Hills along Rodeo Drive...the beautiful people who drink designer mineral water...and refer sarcastically to anyone living between New York and Beverly Hills as "flyover folks".

Governor Clinton promises if you vote for him, higher taxes are a done deal.

(Speaking of music) Governor Clinton speaks singing the same tune...that he's going to invest in America. It's like a broken record. But when you play that record backwards and listen closely, you hear, (ALMOST WHISPER THE FOLLOWING) "Tax, tax, tax".

Governor Clinton's blueprint for America is Arkansas.

Mr. Clinton has practically turned Arkansas into a Third World state.

Arkansas has been the victim of Hurricane Bill.

(AS YOU ENUNCIATE ISSUES)

AS JOHN McLAUGHLIN WOULD SAY, "ISSUE NUMBER ONE".

Watching Governor Clinton on television promising to raise taxes is kind of like blowing down on the highway to see an accident.

Governor Clinton likes to call taxes "Investments" or "Revenues". Can you see a mugger pulling a gun on a guy in an alley and saying, "Your revenues or your life".

Governor Clinton says in effect, "Read my lips...NEW TAXES".

The trouble with my opponent is he's out of the loop. Governor Clinton is out of touch with the needs of average Americans. The Governor has been hanging out too long with that crowd in Beverly Hills along Rodeo Drive...the beautiful people who drink designer mineral water...and refer sarcastically to anyone living between
New York and Beverly Hills as "flyover folks".

Governor Clinton is out of the loop...out of touch...and out to

When it comes to common sense, he's just plain loopy.

He's as different as night and night.

Governor Clinton is the same old cookie cutter Democrat.

When the Democrats made George McGovern, they kept the mold.

Governor Clinton is like the beat-up old used car that they have to push out of the lot. The dealer slaps on a cheap paint job, throws in a set of sheepskin covers, and tells you it's a "previously owned vehicle".

(AFTER SAYING SOMETHING NEGATIVE ABOUT POLLUTION IN ARKANSAS)

Would you buy a used river from this man?

The governor is empty at the core.

There's no "there" there.

Mr. Clinton is a liberal in moderate's clothing.

Mr. Clinton is like the cheap watch you buy on the street, then stick it in a Tiffany box and hope the person doesn't notice. Well

Re: Scott Miller - LA Firefighter

Talked with Chief Cathey---Community Liaison Officer, LA
Fire Department (213-485-5954).

He indicated Scott was up and around -- very mobile. There is still some lack of mobility in his left arm and he is undergoing intensive physical therapy to remedy that. He is still having some trouble with his speech --but that is improving. Chief Cathey commented on his outstanding attitude and felt sure that there would always be a place for him within the Department.

He did not feel that there was any financial need at the moment as Scott is receiving Workmen's Compensation along with his regular salary. However, if money did come in, Scott asked that it go to the LA Firemen's Relief Association which helps widows, orphans and disabled fireman. The money could be earmarked for Scott's use if the need should arise. The address is

Dear Scott,

Barbara showed me that fine letter you sent to Vanity Fair. That magazine really did a nasty job on my wife.

I do very much appreciate your setting the record straight on my visit to the hospital. Thanks a lot.

I hope this finds you well on the road to recovery. My warmest regards to your wonderful wife.

Ms. Brown I am writing this letter to take exception to your August 1992 article titled BARBARA'S BACKLASH. I will not comment on the article as a whole, but a very specific reference made on page 180 [copy enclosed] to the trip President Bush made to visit the firefighter shot during the L.A.--riots.--I-am that-L.A.--City-firefighter-and-MARJORIE----- WILLIAMS was not in that room with us. Both myself and my family take exception to the literary license in describing his visit. The President's visit was uplifting to myself and my family.

In these times of mistrust between citizens and their politicians, it is important the media is accurate in their representations. In this article there was only one event I had personal knowledge of, and as the recipient of the visit I feel it was grossly misrepresented. For me it invalidated the entire article.

At the time the President visited, I had been out of intensive care for only two days. I was completely unable to communicate other than in writing. The President's visit with me lasted approximately 15 minutes with him doing the majority of the talking. It was not one line as your article represents. As journalists you are experts in communication and should understand that having the recipient of a message correctly understand it, is more important than how it is actually presented. I understood his message and appreciated the fact the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES took the time to deliver it personally. My wife also wanted me to stress how sincere the President was and how much the handwritten letter I received just prior to leaving the hospital meant to us.

Just for my own insight, I would be very interested who the author claims as a reference for her portrayal of this event as myself, my family and my nurses were the only people in the room.

Sincerely,

schools, the threadbare health care, the marginal services—of the unfortunates who people her photo ops.

When Bush decided, in the late seventies, to run for president, Barbara pondered what her major "issue" should be and came up with literacy, a canny choice. On the one hand, as she often explains, it touches on every problem in society, ranging from crime to childhood poverty; on the other hand, it doesn't invite any controversy.

As the vice president's wife she joined the board of the child-oriented Reading Is Fundamental, and as First Lady she founded the Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy, to which she has donated all the profits from Millie's Book. It gives away half a million dollars in grants every year to programs that address illiteracy as a self-perpetuating problem passed from parents to children.

But if her signature issue was chosen with calculation, there has been nothing artificial about her good works. Even before Bush's political career began, she was a dedicated volunteer in hospitals; over the years, she has quietly worked at such places as the Washington Home for Incurables, and has served on boards ranging from that of the Ronald McDonald House to that of the predominantly black Morehouse School of Medicine.

Today you can easily see that she has a greater capacity than her husband has to look death and pain in the face. To cancer wards and AIDS clinics, she brings not only helpful publicity but a full self, a capacity to let in the suffering around her and give it its due, which is one of the few gifts any stranger can confer. The president, on the other hand, is famous for squirming through visits to hospitals. When he visited the bedside of a Los Angeles fire fighter shot during the riots, the only consolation he could think to offer was for himself: "I'm sorry Barbara's not here," he said miserably.

Every afternoon the First Lady has her staff send up to her office in the family quarters a clip file of stories related to poverty, education, literacy, child care—her issues. And sometimes she reacts quickly to what she reads. In 1989, for example, she was angered by reports that the Salvation Army had been barred from making Christmas collections at some of the snootier local shopping malls. She made a trip to a mall that did permit the solicitations and took along a press pool to capture her dropping some change into the bucket, which successfully shamed most of the Scrooge-ish merchants into line.

This is as good a use of celebrity as exists in America. It is, by the accounts of Democrats and Republicans, blacks and whites, all of those who have fallen in love with the grandmotherly image of the First Lady, the very best of Barbara Bush.

But even in the uprightness of this image lies a certain moral complexity. For the past three and a half years, the First Lady has almost single-handedly symbolized her husband's good intentions in the realm of domestic affairs. Extended to a society's breadth, the Bush model implies a return to an era in which women relieved their powerful men—relieved government—of responsibility for the disadvantaged. It is the old Victorian contract, in which life was divided into two spheres, male and female; while men ran the world, their women ran the soup kitchens.

Bush advisers have worked hard over the years to suggest that Barbara's compassion will one day rub off on her husband, to imply that she can (and should) be relied on to police his interest in social services. "Every time he says 'Head Start,' that's Bar," spokeswoman Sheila Tate told reporters at the dawn of his administration.

And for some time the country seemed to accept the idea that Barbara was a facet of George—a reliable indicator of his goals. At the time of Bush's inauguration, columnists raved about how Barbara would be "the conscience of the White House."

But without Barbara, Americans might have noticed sooner that the self-styled "education president" had offered nothing meaningful in the way of education reform.

Without Barbara, voters might have noticed from the start how disengaged Bush seemed from domestic concerns.

Barbara Bush successfully silenced the logical question that called out for response: Isn't the president supposed to be the conscience of the White House?

As George Bush campaigns for a second term, a lot rides on Barbara Bush's careful balancing act. She is the answer to a frightened campaign's prayers, a surrogate campaigner who can command almost as much press and hoopla as the president can—while incurring comparatively little risk. As early as last winter one could trace the dawning importance of her role. She was sent to New Hampshire to file the papers for Bush's candidacy, "because nobody would dare to boo Barbara Bush," in the words of a strategist. She spent more time campaigning in the state than the president did.

And when Bush officially announced his candidacy, it was Barbara Bush who introduced him. In a classic reversal of roles, the candidate quoted his wife, referring to "my favorite political philosopher, Barbara Bush."

All through the spring, once the threat of Buchanan's primary campaign had faded, she traveled far more than her husband did, headlining as many as thirty major fund-raisers around the country.

Republican strategists go as far as to say that they believe voters ambivalent about George Bush may think twice about voting his wife out of the White House. It's an extraordinary exception to the normal wisdom, which suggests that the best most spouses can do is adhere to the Hippocratic oath of politics: Just do no harm.

Opinions differ about how badly Barbara Bush wants to stay in the White House. She is said to blame the presidency for the problems of her son Neil, implicated in the Silverado Banking, Savings and Loan Association debacle.

Friends also surmise she has had a more difficult time than she lets on dealing with Graves' disease, the thyroid condition that has tired her and painfully distended her eyes.

But by most accounts she has reveled in her time as First Lady. Even as the president floundered through the spring and early summer, his polls in free-fall, Barbara Bush lived in a charmed circle within her control. She has reached the apotheosis of the life she read about in her daddy's magazines, a victory she presents as grand affirmation of the ultra-traditional plan she has lived by.

"My mail tells me that a lot of fat, white-haired, wrinkled ladies are tickled pink," she said on the eve of Bush's inauguration. "I mean, look at me—if I can be a success, so can they."

But on the president is a rare dropout from Sm graduation on the George her to a vast, ferred in same room daily sac This collision women's of perso the most life.
