WASHINGTON

August 14, 1990

Dear Mr. Uno:

Thank you for your kind letter of May 28 describing your recent travel to China and discussions with senior Chinese leaders. The decision I took on May 24 to extend MFN status for China was, as you noted, a difficult one. I appreciated your kind words of support on this and the useful impressions you shared of your talks in China.

As you noted in your letter, stable relations with China are important to overall peace and prosperity in the Asia-Pacific region. The extension of MFN for China reflects the perspective we share with Japan on the long-term importance of relations with China and the need to keep doors open to those sectors in China supportive of continued reform.

At the same time, we must frame a policy that takes into account the perception that China has not taken the necessary steps on human rights concerns or in the area of reform to permit dramatic improvement in the atmosphere of our bilateral relations. In this regard, the cooperation between our two nations on helping to promote positive change with respect to China has been exemplary. This cooperation will be of increasing importance in the days ahead.

In closing, let me express my appreciation for the commitment you expressed to strengthening our important global partnership. Our common efforts with respect to preserving peace and prosperity in Asia are but one aspect of the expanding and important cooperation between our nations on vital global issues.

Sincerely,
