THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

8 December 1992

Dear Mr. President

I should like to thank you for your letter of 4 December on the situation in Somalia and for your kind words addressed to me. For my part, I wish to express my deep appreciation for your full personal commitment to this process.

I share your satisfaction at the adoption of Security Council resolution 794. It underlines the grave concern felt by the international community at the humanitarian crisis in Somalia. It also marks a significant step forward in the evolution of the United Nations' role in the post-Cold War era and will, I believe, strengthen the Organization's ability to intervene to maintain the peace and bring humanitarian relief to the afflicted. I would like to share with you some thoughts on how, working together, we can best ensure that the resolution is successfully implemented.

Our success will depend, to an important extent, on continuous and effective consultation between the United Nations and the United States, which has assumed the unified command of the new operation in accordance with the Security Council resolution. I am most grateful for your prompt action in sending experts to New York to consult with me and my staff. I have discussed with them the arrangements which I have set up, both in New York and in Mogadishu, to enable us to consult on a continuous basis and to coordinate our actions as we carry out our complementary roles in this endeavour.

His Excellency
Mr. George Bush
President of the United States of America
Washington, DC

I have also raised with your representatives three points which seem to me to be of cardinal importance in this formative phase of the new operation.

The first relates to the need to disarm the lawless gangs which have been terrorizing Somalia in recent months. As I stated in my letter of 29 November to the President of the Security Council, any forceful action by the international community in Somalia must have the objective of ensuring that at least the heavy weapons of the organized factions are neutralized and brought under international control and that the irregular forces and gangs are disarmed.

Without this action I do not believe that it will be possible to establish the secure environment called for by the Security Council resolution or to create conditions in which the United Nations' existing efforts to promote national reconciliation can be carried forward and the task of protecting humanitarian activities can safely be transferred to a conventional United Nations peace-keeping operation.

Secondly, I believe it essential that the purpose of the new operation should be to create a secure environment throughout Somalia and that this should be apparent from the outset. It is true that the quantity of suffering is greatest in the areas where it is planned to deploy the unified command's forces in the first phases. But qualitatively the situation is just as bad elsewhere, especially in the North. I was therefore heartened to hear that the unified command is studying how the new operation could be extended to all parts of Somalia.

Thirdly, it seems to me important that there should be, and should be seen to be, a division of labour between the United Nations and the United States in the execution of the new operation. The United States has undertaken to take the lead in creating the secure environment which is an inescapable condition for the United Nations to provide humanitarian relief and promote national reconciliation and economic reconstruction, objectives which have from the outset been included in the various Security Council resolutions on Somalia.

As the operation evolves, there will be a number of other aspects on which close and continuous consultation between the United Nations and the unified command will be needed. It will, for instance, be necessary to ensure that the United Nations' activities in the humanitarian and political fields are compatible with those of the unified command in the security field, and vice versa. It will also be necessary for us to keep in the closest touch in planning for the eventual transfer of responsibilities from the unified command to a United Nations peace-keeping operation in the form of an enlarged UNOSOM, perhaps with a modified mandate.

While the unified command's operation proceeds and planning goes ahead for it to hand over in due course to UNOSOM, I shall maintain vigorous efforts to advance national reconciliation on which some promising results were achieved at the technical meeting in Addis Ababa from 3 to 5 December. I will seek the support of the three regional organizations concerned for these efforts and will keep you fully informed.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I wish to express my appreciation for the significant contribution which the United States, under your leadership, is making to this endeavour. I should also like to assure you of my full commitment, and that of my Special Representative, Mr. Ismat Kittani, to working as closely as possible with you to ensure that together we can succeed in relieving the appalling suffering in Somalia and putting that country on course to a peaceful and more secure future.

Please accept, Mr. President, the assurances of my highest consideration.

Boutros Boutros-Ghali

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

December 4, 1992

Dear Mr. Secretary General:

I want you to know how immensely pleased I am at the news of the passage of the UN resolution on Somalia. I also want to thank you for your tremendous hard work to achieve this unprecedented outcome. A dramatic step has been taken to address the appalling suffering of the Somali people. I want to assure you that the U.S. in accordance with the resolution will discharge the responsibilities which fall to it in a full and comprehensive manner. We will build a coalition and work closely with you under UN auspices.

As the United States prepares to deploy its own forces to Somalia to carry out yesterday's UNSC resolution, I want to emphasize that the mission of the coalition is limited and specific: to create security conditions which will permit the feeding of the starving Somali people and allow the transfer of this security function to the UN peacekeeping force. The military objectives to accomplish this mission derive from the immediate obstacles to the relief effort: the need to secure ports, airports, and delivery routes, and to protect storage and distribution of humanitarian supplies and relief workers. I believe these objectives can, and should, be met in the near term. As soon as they are, the coalition force will depart from Somalia, transferring its security function to your UN peacekeeping force.

I want to conclude by expressing my continuing admiration for your leadership in this crisis and reiterating the U.S. commitment to working closely with the UN to build a secure and stable world.

Sincerely,

Gianni Picco, who as you know is resigning from the UN, would like to come down and see Brent for a few minutes...I dont think it is anything too specific although it will probably be a mixture of thanks/good-byes with reflections, etc on what he has been doing with Iran, Iraq, hostages, etc.

I suggest July before/after the Euro trip unless you have a better idea...could you pls give me some dates? thanks.

Brent:

I just took a call from Gianni Picco. This follows up on his meeting with you last week and his conversation with me on Monday.

I think I now understand what is going on. The subject is Iran. The Iranians continue to reiterate to him that they were helpful with the hostages and that we must now show that "goodwill begets goodwill" as promised by the President. From Gianni's perspective, he is in something of a bind. They see it as a manner of honor; he is clearly worried about the remaining hostages and his ability to function effectively with the Iranians. He also thinks it is in our interest to do something given the larger aim of "bringing Iran into the mainstream". That said, he appreciates fully what you told him about the difficulty of our doing anything given Iran's behavior.

Against this backdrop comes the following idea, which he says he stumbled across. An Italian firm, which happens to be a US subsidiary, has been approached by Iran, which wants to buy some spare parts. (I do not yet know the firm or material in question.) I am told that the firm could sell the spare parts without a formal US license but wishes to avoid doing so to play it safe. (They could not sell the entire machine without our formal approval, but the Iranians have not asked for the entire machine). The Iranians seem to think that formal US approval is needed even for just a purchase of spare parts, and that as a result Picco believes that they would interpret a willingness by the subsidiary to sell the spares as a positive signal from us. What Picco is suggesting is that we exploit this Iranian perception and consider giving the Italian firm an informal green light to do what they can do already even without a nod from us.

As for next steps, the head of the Italian firm is prepared to fly over here and see me (or presumably someone else) to discuss the matter. What Picco is looking for is an indication of our willingness to take this next step. He thinks we have at most two months to get all this done.

Letter dated 24 January 1991 from Mr. Tariq Aziz, Deputy
addressed to the Secretary-General

Since the imperialist United States, NATO and Zionist aggression against our country began at 0230 hours on 17 January 1991, the attacking forces have been committing heinous premeditated crimes against Iraqi citizens and against the economic, cultural, scientific and religious assets of our great people, which is one that has made a centuries-old contribution to human civilization.

On all occasions - in the course of our meeting at Amman on 31 August 1990 and during your visit to Baghdad on 11 and 12 January 1991 - we have constantly indicated and have explained to you in a clear and detailed manner that the basic fact with regard to the events which preceded and followed 2 August 1990 is that the imperialist United States, NATO and Zionist alliance and its treacherous adherents among the régimes of the region have had the objective, as they continue to do, of destroying resurgent Iraq, which is pursuing a free and independent policy and which proudly rejects imperialist and Zionist hegemony over the region and over its resources. Everything that has happened has taken place within the framework of a conspiracy hostile to the hopes of peoples for freedom, sovereignty, independence and relations of equality, which are the very principles and objectives for the achievement and defence of which the United Nations is supposed to have been established.

The deliberate and brutal attacks launched on behalf of the United Nations by the forces of the criminal Zionist-imperialist alliance on civilian economic, humanitarian, medical, cultural and religious targets and on citizens and their families in all parts of Iraq - documented examples of which are provided to you in the present letter - give cogent proof of the fact that the Governments participating in this alliance have the sole objective of taking vengeance on the proud people of Iraq and its militant leadership because of their opposition to the imperialist goals of those Governments.

It is indeed shameful for the United Nations that these premeditated crimes should be committed under the cover provided by resolutions adopted by the Security Council. The most recent of these is Security Council resolution 678 (1990), which the United States of America succeeded in having adopted by means of pressure, blackmail and bribery. The facts with respect to the receipt of bribes by States members of the Council and by leaders in those States are common knowledge.

Hundreds of millions of people in the world, in Asia, Africa and Latin America, who have suffered from the oppression and the crimes of the former colonialists and the new imperialists, are today finding the so-called new international order of which the arrogant former colonialists and new imperialists are speaking to be a dark age of intimidation and threats against those peoples aspiring to freedom and independence and fighting for relations of equality. The removal of the balancing role formerly played by the Soviet Union opens wide the way for the arrogant former colonialists and new imperialists once again to impose hegemony and intimidation, not only by the use of new and innovative methods, as is well known, but also by the old methods, namely aggression and open military occupation. What is new is that the colonialist technique as witnessed in past centuries has this time been used under the cover provided by iniquitous resolutions fabricated in the name of the United Nations which the Governments of the imperialist colonialist alliance succeeded in having adopted by means of pressure, intimidation, blackmail and bribery.

The States that endorsed those resolutions for the motives indicated and you, personally, bear responsibility to history and to mankind for the heinous crimes being committed against the noble people of Iraq who are fighting for their freedom. Examples are given hereunder of the savage and premeditated acts of aggression committed by the aggressor forces between 17 and 21 January 1991.

(Signed) Tariq AZIZ
Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Iraq

Your Excellency,

On January 24, 1991, I wrote you a letter to inform you that the troops of the US, NATO and Zionist Alliance have been committing heinous and premeditated crimes against Iraqi citizens and against the economic, cultural, scientific and religious assets of the Iraqi people, since they began their aggression at 2.30 p.m. on January 17, 1991.

In that letter I presented a long list of tangible facts about such crimes that were committed in the period from 17-21 January. Those facts were subsequently confirmed and mentioned by neutral press circles, and became widely the subject of discussion in political and media circles worldwide.

We find it strange that the UN Secretary-General has not expressed his view (in this regard) as anticipated not only by the Iraqi people but by all just and free people of the world who look at the United Nations as an Institution whose purpose is to defend human values. Instead, you are keeping silent regarding these crimes which, for the first time in history, are being committed in the name of the United Nations and under a cloak of groundless and unjust Security Council's resolutions, the most recent of which is the resolution 678 (1990). For the whole world it is common knowledge that those resolutions have been adopted by means of pressure, blackmail and bribery exercised by the USA and its allies, thus disgracing the Security Council, the UN and the very countries which received bribes and yielded to US pressure and blackmail. And for Your Excellency, to remain silent regarding such crimes is a matter that will augment the disgrace of the United Nations which is now being used by the imperialist powers to subjugate peoples and suppress their freedom and independence, impose full control over oil as well as secure the perpetuation of Israeli hegemony over the region. Indeed, the very goals that the UN presumably embodies are being violated before the eyes of the UN Secretary-General who utters not a word. There have been numerous free voices denouncing the crimes being committed against the people of Iraq, and officials of certain countries which are taking part in the aggression, have protested against that and declared that what is happening has far exceeded the mandate of the resolutions adopted in the name of the UN, notwithstanding the fact that those resolutions are groundless and unjust, yet you still remain silent.

In this letter I am presenting further facts about the crimes being committed against the Iraqi people and which took place following the date of my first letter .. it is a record for history, and history's judgement is hard and merciless ..

General --

Perez de Cuellar will be delighted to see you on Monday at his residence. He is suggesting 9:15 a.m. or lunch at 1:15 or 1:30 p.m. The President is scheduled to depart from South Lawn at 8:45 a.m. There will be an NSB and PDB Briefer as usual this day. You have lunch with Diana Dugan and a 5:00 regular staff meeting scheduled for Monday -- that's all.

MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

PARTICIPANTS: Perez deCuellar, UN Secretary General
Brent Scowcroft, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs

PLACE: Perez deCuellar's Residence
3 Sutton Place, New York

DATE & TIME: Monday, September 18, 1989 - 1:30PM - 2:45PM

Perez deCuellar invited me to New York for lunch and to discuss a conversation with Rafsanjani on hostages.

The UN Secretary General Special Emissary received this Oral Message from President Rafsanjani on hostages in a one-on-one meeting in early September. The following are non-verbatim Rafsanjani remarks:

The people holding the American hostages are not traditional Hezbollah units. Communication with them is difficult and irregular.

In the McFarlane situation we tried to contact these groups. After promises were not carried out, the groups became alienated.

It is not easy to find these groups. They move around frequently and in any case we cannot establish one-way relations.

At the present time, with the Hezbollah highlighted as they are, they said they are not ready to talk if Sheik Obeid is not freed. As a first step, Obeid must be freed. As an additional point, the US has frozen our assets without a legal basis. At the same time as this situation exists, they expect us to get involved in something which is of most interest to us. Like President Bush, we also have our internal concerns. For us (Iran) to help the US we need to have signals. The basic signal is that they (the US) must halt their unreasonable animosity towards us. Why should they (the Iranians) be so illogical as to accept a freeze of their assets without reason.

We (the Iranians) also have hostages in Lebanon. President Bush can pressure the Maronites to release our hostages. Such a release could be an incentive. Another incentive could be the release of our frozen assets.

(In a separate conversation in Belgrade between UN Secretary General Perez deCuellar and Iranian Foreign Minister Velayati, Velayati said that not all the frozen assets would have to be released. Even a token amount, as low as 10 percent, would be helpful.)

2. Afghanistan

On Thursday last, Under-Secretary Kimmitt and his staff were briefed about the Secretary-General's initiative. The American side was informed that the Secretary-General felt that without Washington's support his ideas could not materialize and de facto Washington had a veto power on whether this initiative should be continued or not.

The basic elements of the initiative are the following:

a) An international consensus has to be achieved among the neighbouring countries of Afghanistan, the US and maybe Saudi Arabia, on how to pursue a political solution and possibly on agreeing on a common incentive for the Afghans to do so.

b) On the basis of that incentive a gathering of different elements of the Afghan opposition to Kabul will be called (Peshawar 7, Teheran 8, commanders, independents in the diaspora), (with no relevance to numbers), for the purpose of establishing "a structured Afghan delegation".

c) The "structured Afghan delegation" emerging from that gathering would be composed of a limited number of individuals (5-10) who will be given a limited mandate, i.e. to suggest how to bring about the end of the war in Afghanistan, and who would agree not to take any government position when a new government is set up.

d) The "structured Afghan delegation" would be recognized by all neighbouring countries and the US as the voice of the Afghan opposition and would then decide whether to deal with Najibullah, with some elements of the PDPA, with the good Muslims, or with nobody at all.

e) This structured Afghan delegation would be a buffer between the existing political groupings and "the outside world", thus protecting the political virginity of the present groups.

f) Iran has already accepted to back this idea pursued by the Secretary-General rather than his idea of a regional conference.

3. It is a fact that whatever solution is eventually adopted, namely an international conference, a regional conference, any form of dialogue or simply a take-over, an Afghan delegation is needed which so far does not exist, a delegation that can exercise power and deliver the end of the war.

You are scheduled to depart tomorrow at 9:10 from West Basement en route Suffolk County Airport. Your meeting is scheduled for 11:00 and due to last no longer than 30 minutes. Luncheon will be served on board; you will arrive at the White House by 1:10 p.m.

I don't plan to arrange for WHCA to accompany you since you will have secure telephone communications on the airplane.

Do you want me to accompany you?

Not necessary

Okay

Your schedule for tomorrow is attached for your information.

Gordy Zacks is going to be in town tomorrow and has asked to drop by for 5 minutes to see you. I explained that your schedule was very compressed. He even offered to stay overnight to see you the next morning for a few minutes. Do you want me to schedule him for five minutes at 6:00 p.m. after the DCI meeting?
