MESSAGE TO AMBASSADOR MATLOCK
VIA WHITE HOUSE PRIVACY CHANNELS

as soon as possible
Ambassador or DCM Collins is requested to seek a meeting with Chernyayev ~~morning of June 19~~ to propose that the President and President Gorbachev meet in London on July 17 after the G-7 leaders' meeting with Gorbachev. The President would like to suggest a meeting at the American Ambassador's residence from 3:00 to 5:00pm. (FYI, we understand the British are planning activities for Gorbachev from 5:30pm on.)

If President Gorbachev agrees to this proposal, we would work out the details with his staff soon and coordinate a joint announcement. We would appreciate knowing as soon as possible the Soviet response to this proposal.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

SUBJECT: Luncheon Meeting Between the President and Yevgeniy Primakov, Member of the USSR Security Council

PARTICIPANTS: The President
Brent Scowcroft, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs (notetaker)
Yevgeniy Primakov, Member of the USSR Security Council

DATE, TIME May 31, 1991, 12 - 1:00pm
AND PLACE: Oval Office

Yevgeniy Primakov: The situation is truly critical. Gorbachev has reaffirmed his dedication to economic reform. Do not underestimate Pavlov. He is trying very hard, but he is not a politician, and sometimes he makes ill-considered statements. (S)

The Moiseyev visit was well received. He is not sophisticated, but he understood you. (S)

What we need now is large-scale assistance. The issue is taking on strategic importance. Mikhail Gorbachev has named me as the coordinator of the assistance. Yavlinskiy is able, but he wasn't involved at the beginning. He works for me. Don't overestimate him -- he is a bit immature. He works on instructions he got from Gorbachev. (S)

We (Yavlinskiy and Primakov) must get together, and not have competing plans. We will use the results of Yavlinskiy's work in Boston as an "overlay" on our basic plan. (S)

We want you to come to a summit. (U)

The President: We want to if we can only hammer out our differences on arms control. (S)

The Economic Summit is a more complicated issue. We have to work it out so that Gorbachev doesn't ask, then go away empty-handed. (S)

Yeltsin says what many want to hear. (S)

PER E.O. 135262011-0850-MR
SS 9/24/13

The question is which comes first: reform or aid. We are broke right now, more or less. I have to be able to go to our Treasury and the IMF and present something which is economically feasible. (S)

We will also have a big problem with your defense spending. That will be a big issue with our conservatives. (He mentions a chart used at Malta). (S)

(The President then describes the views on defense budget by the U.S. and by the Soviet Military).

You get great credit for Eastern Europe, etc., and for the historic and dramatic changes you have undertaken. (U)

Yevgeniy Primakov: Yeltsin is not a serious political figure, but he is a fact. We are trying hard to work with him. (S)

We need to stop aid to Cuba, but it would be a disaster to associate it with Western aid. (S)

The President: Who would it be a disaster for? (S)

Yevgeniy Primakov: How much of a disaster will depend on how well the economy is doing. Now people are saying we have gotten nothing from the West, or internally, from our new course. For example we walked away from a huge infrastructure we built in East Germany. (S)

For us the Baltics are a problem. Gorbachev rejects the use of force. (S)

Those who don't accept 9+1 must accept five principles:

- A single monetary unit
- Fixed contributions to the center
- A single ??? system
- No internal customs
- Single price for fixed-price products

If they won't play by these rules, we would have to try to find something else, for example trading at world prices. There also may be a reward for ?????

Gorbachev has said that relations with the U.S. are a #1 priority, so your respect has great importance for us. (S)

The Balts must understand they have no economic niche in Europe. They also want to cut their economic ties as if nothing much changed. The borders of Lithuania, for example, are now an issue. (S)

So this is a complicated issue. We feel some in the U.S. are turning their backs on us. (S)

The President: (Discussed the ????? of Yeltsin vs. Gorbachev. (S))

Yevgeniy Primakov: We are now doing things right. We are now following the law. The basic contradiction between us and the U.S. is we right now cannot fully abandon all administrative methods. We need to move to a market economy, but our transition requires some levers. Our people won't use initiative -- they wait to be told. (S)

The President: There is a perception here that the military establishment are pressuring Gorbachev to ????

Yevgeniy Primakov: The reality is more complex. At the last (Communist Party) Plenum the conservatives wanted to take over. They were defeated in their efforts. As an institution, the military supports Gorbachev, but not Yeltsin. If the military and conservative establishments combine, then that is a problem. (S)

Gorbachev will not come to London and ask for $100 billion. (S)

The President: I have a question on CFE. Gorbachev signed a treaty. Then we think the military made Gorbachev pull back from the treaty, and are resisting it. (S)

Yevgeniy Primakov: They couldn't openly be against a treaty, no. The militaries talk much about asymmetries: NATO, but no Warsaw Pact, etc. But nobody wants to stop arms control and reductions. We will reduce our military expenditures. (S)

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE
Office of the Assistant Secretary/Spokesman

For Immediate Release

January 29 1991

JOINT STATEMENT

BY

SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES A. BAKER, III AND SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER ALEXANDER BESSMERTNYKH

JANUARY 29, 1991

In the course of the discussions held in Washington on January 26-29, 1991, USSR Minister of Foreign Affairs Alexander Bessmertnykh and US Secretary of State James Baker devoted considerable attention to the situation in the Persian Gulf.

The Ministers reiterated the commitment of their countries to the UN Security Council resolutions adopted in connection with Iraq's aggression against Kuwait. They expressed regret that numerous efforts of the United Nations, other international organizations, individual countries, and envoys were all rebuffed by Iraq. The military actions authorized by the United Nations have been provoked by the refusal of the Iraqi leadership to comply with the clear and lawful demands of the international community for withdrawal from Kuwait.

Secretary of State Baker emphasized that the United States and its coalition partners are seeking the liberation of Kuwait, not the destruction of Iraq. He stressed that the United States has no quarrel with the people of Iraq, and poses no threat to Iraq's territorial integrity. Secretary Baker reiterated that the United States is doing its utmost to avoid casualties among the civilian population, and is not interested in expanding the conflict. Minister of Foreign Affairs Bessmertnykh took note of the American position and agreed that Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait must remain the goal of the international community. Both sides believe that everything possible should be done to avoid further escalation of the war and expansion of its scale.

The Ministers continue to believe that a cessation of hostilities would be possible if Iraq would make an unequivocal commitment to withdraw from Kuwait. They also believe that such a commitment must be backed by immediate, concrete steps leading to full compliance with the Security Council resolutions.

The Iraqi leadership has to respect the will of the international community. By doing so, it has it within its power to stop the violence and bloodshed.

The Ministers agreed that establishing enduring stability and peace in the region after the conflict, on the basis of effective security arrangements, will be a high priority of our two governments. Working to reduce the risk of war and miscalculation will be essential, particularly because a spiralling arms race in this volatile region can only generate greater violence and extremism. In addition, dealing with the causes of instability and the sources of conflict, including the Arab-Israeli conflict, will be especially important. Indeed, both Ministers agreed that without a meaningful peace process -- one which promotes a just peace, security, and real reconciliation for Israel, Arab states, and Palestinians -- it will not be possible to deal with the sources of conflict and instability in the region. Both Ministers, therefore, agreed that in the aftermath of the crisis in the Persian Gulf, mutual US-Soviet efforts to promote Arab-Israeli peace and regional stability, in consultation with other parties in the region, will be greatly facilitated and enhanced.

The two Ministers are confident that the United States and the Soviet Union, as demonstrated in various other regional conflicts, can make a substantial contribution to the achievement of a comprehensive settlement in the Middle East.
