RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

Ethics Probes Dog 10 Members

The second session of the 101st Congress begins this week with a large number of members embroiled in on-going investigations for possible ethics violations.

In all, 10 lawmakers — seven senators and three members of the House — are under formal investigation by the respective ethics panels, with a decision still pending on whether to conduct a formal inquiry on House Republican Whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia.

Commanding the most attention and publicity are the so-called Keating Five — Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., John Glenn, D-Ohio, Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., and John McCain, R-Ariz. — who collectively raised about $1.3 million for political causes through their relationship with Charles H. Keating Jr., the chairman of the collapsed Lincoln Savings and Loan Association of Irvine, Calif.

On Dec. 22, after months of speculation on the conduct of these five senators, the Senate Ethics Committee announced it would conduct a formal inquiry. Washington attorney Robert Bennett was appointed as special counsel. Bennett also is handling inquiries on Sens. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., and Alfonse M. D'Amato, R-N.Y.

The House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct will soon decide whether to launch an official investigation of Gingrich. The second-ranking House Republican faces questions about whether a partnership formed to promote a book he co-authored violated limits on outside income and other House rules.

An outside attorney hired to help the committee decide whether to open a preliminary inquiry into Gingrich's activities recommended to the panel in October that no formal investigation was warranted.

The House committee is closer to deciding the fate of three other members accused of ethics violations. Barney Frank, D-Mass., has admitted hiring a male prostitute for sex and later employing him as a personal aide. The man involved, Steve Gobie, was questioned by the panel in December.

The other two House members awaiting a decision by the committee are Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-Ohio, who was convicted of having sex with a 16-year-old girl in Columbus, Ohio, and Gus Savage, D-Ill., who allegedly made sexual advances toward a Peace Corps volunteer during an official trip to Africa last year.

Senate Investigations

The Senate Ethics Committee is likely to rule first on the case involving Durenberger. He faces questions about whether he improperly circumvented limits on outside income through a 1985-86 book-promotion deal. Durenberger apologized to Minnesota voters for poor judgment but maintained he committed no impropriety.

The focus of the "Keating Five" investigation centers on meetings the five senators had with thrift regulators on behalf of Keating's company in 1987.

D'Amato's case involves allegations that he improperly exerted pressure on the Department of Housing and Urban Development to finance housing projects developed by his relatives and political allies. He has denied the accusations.

The number of senators under scrutiny is unprecedented in the upper chamber where official inquiries into wrongdoing are rare. The last time the Senate called for disciplinary action of a colleague was in 1981 when former Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., was convicted of bribery and conspiracy in the Abscam scandal.

The panel voted to recommend Williams' expulsion from the Senate, but he resigned just before the matter was due for a floor vote.

Ethics Reviews May Slow Bills

It will be legislative business as usual this year for the lawmakers undergoing ethics reviews, to hear them and their aides tell it. But other observers predict the ethics controversies surrounding seven senators will clog the flow of housing bills, banking measures and other important initiatives.

While three House members also are working under the shadow of ethics probes, the Senate inquiries are likely to deal the heavier impact on legislative business.

"I think it will occupy the Senate the same way that Jim Wright and (Tony) Coelho affected the House," said political analyst William Schneider of the American Enterprise Institute (AEI) for Public Policy Research, referring to last year's ethics-driven upheaval in the House leadership. (For details of the ethics probes, see related story on this page.)

The legislative initiatives of the five senators being investigated for their ties to the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan of California and of two others being questioned on separate ethics matters will hit roadblocks this year, Schneider predicted.

"Their credibility is in question," he said, adding that the lawmakers' ability to be outspoken will therefore be hampered.

The seven senators are "mostly worried about salvaging their reputations, and if you're worried about salvaging your reputation, you don't take risk," Schneider said, speculating that the lawmakers will keep low profiles.

Throughout the Senate, Schneider said, "They're all going to sit around worrying about this. 'What have I done?' ... That's going to hamper a lot of Senate business."

Key Committee Posts

Senate Banking Committee Chairman Donald W. Riegle, Jr., D-Mich., is one of the "Keating Five" being investigated for their efforts on behalf of Lincoln and its top officer, Charles H. Keating Jr., who contributed heavily to the senators' campaigns.

Riegle, Alan Cranston, D-Calif. — another of the five members being probed for his ties to the Lincoln thrift — and Alfonse M. D'Amato, R-N.Y., under review for allegedly funneling housing contracts to his friends, are spearheading a drive in the Senate Banking Committee to pass a major housing bill (S 566) to reauthorize many existing federal programs and to create new ones.

Cranston is the chairman and D'Amato is the ranking Republican on the Banking Committee's Housing and Urban Affairs Subcommittee.

John Glenn, D-Ohio, and John McCain, R-Ariz., two others being questioned about their ties to Lincoln, lead the Senate Armed Services Manpower and Personnel Subcommittee, which will help shape the nation's new post-Cold War defense policies.

Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., is the fifth senator being investigated for his actions in regard to Lincoln Savings and Loan.

The Senate Ethics Committee is also investigating Dave Durenberger, Minn., ranking Republican on three Senate subcommittees, to determine whether he used a book deal to evade limits on members' outside income.

On the House side, the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct is investigating three members accused of sexual misconduct — Barney Frank, D-Mass., Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-Ohio, and Gus Savage, D-Ill.

No Impact on Legislation?

The lawmakers and their aides, including Democratic and Republican staff members of the Senate Banking Committee, said the ethics probes will not impede their work.

"It's not affecting (my legislative agenda) at all," McCain said last week. "I've said everything I had to say and done everything I have to do on the (Keating) issue," he added.

McCain, who sits on the Commerce, Indian Affairs and Armed Services committees, said he plans to continue his efforts to re-regulate cable television, reform federal Indian programs and deal with "draconian cuts" in defense spending. The Keating probe has not prompted him to reorder those priorities, he said.

Glenn, chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee, said his panel has a full plate, and "the Keating thing doesn't affect that at all .... That's just a little extra work added on the side. I'm not concerned about it in the long-term."

Among the items to be addressed by the Governmental Affairs panel are bills to establish a federal chief financial officer, reform civil service pay and health benefits and include congressional workers under federal fair employment protections, Glenn said.

The Armed Services Committee's Manpower and Personnel Subcommittee will evaluate the mix of regular and reserve forces and redefine the military threat from the Soviet bloc, he said.

"The senator's legislative agenda is going forward, no question about it," said Frank Coleman, D'Amato's press secretary. In addition to the housing bill, D'Amato will push measures to impose the death penalty on drug kingpins, restore Individual Retirement Account benefits for first-time home buyers and restructure the financial services industry, Coleman said.

Bob Maynes, press secretary for Dennis DeConcini, said, "You don't change what you should do. That's the antithesis of Dennis DeConcini."

While the Arizona Democrat, who sits on the Appropriations, Judiciary, Intelligence, and Indian Affairs panels, and his staff have not yet organized their agenda, DeConcini is expected to continue his drive for bills seeking temporary asylum for Salvadorans and Nicaraguans, reform of racketeering laws and a ban on assault weapons, Maynes said. He also plans to work with McCain on Indian program reforms stemming from their special investigation last year of alleged abuse and corruption in the Bureau of Indian Affairs and on reservations.

Durenberger, a member of the Environment and Public Works Committee, will continue to be a "big player" in the clean air debate, and will be "coming out of the blocks" when the Senate takes the issue up this week, his top aide, Bert McKasy, said.

Banking Committee Agenda

The work of the Senate Banking Committee is the most likely to be affected by the ethics probes.

AEI's Schneider said Riegle's effectiveness as chairman of the Banking Committee may be impaired and that it would help the panel if the Michigan Democrat stepped down temporarily, although "it would be at some sacrifice to his public relations."

One banking lobbyist — citing "the preoccupation factor" and a "bad blood factor" between the House and Senate Banking committees resulting from the savings and loan ethics probe — said 1990 will be a slow year for banking bills.

House Banking Committee Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, whose affordable housing bill (HR 1180) differs from the Cranston-D'Amato measure, "has very much turned on the spotlight and turned up the heat" on the Keating affair by launching hearings and as a force behind the resignation of thrift regulator M. Danny Wall, the lobbyist said.

Others both on and off Capitol Hill took a different view.

A Senate Banking Committee aide called speculation about a standoff between the House and Senate panels "preposterous," saying, "that just shows a lack of understanding, I think, about how this place operates. . . .There's not going to be a single, solitary second of hesitation about Chairman Riegle going over to the House to work things out."

And Thomas Mann, director of governmental studies at The Brookings Institution, believes that "if anything, I think it encourages them to redouble their policy involvement." The Keating Five "are under such extraordinary scrutiny now" that the only way to deal with it "is to push yourself harder in the legislative arena," Mann said. "I suspect most members of the Senate empathize with the Keating Five and will be willing to bend over backwards" to support them.

For Riegle and Cranston, the Senate majority whip, "It's awkward," Mann said. "There's an awkwardness about it that's undeniable." But he said there's no reason for Riegle to step down as Banking chairman.

Lamar Smith, the top Republican aide to the Senate Banking Committee: "I really don't have any reason to believe that the ethics investigations will have any impact at all on the Banking Committee business."

In the Other Chamber

In the House, Democratic liberal Barney Frank, Mass., has not allowed the House ethics panel investigation into his hiring of a male prostitute as a personal aide to slow his work pace, an aide said.

During the congressional recess, he announced that he would lead a fight to divert $18 billion of defense funding to domestic projects. He is also involved in key affordable housing legislation.

An aide to Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-Ohio, being investigated for his sexual involvement with a teenage girl, said the lawmaker plans to press on with his work on the Foreign Affairs and Government Operations committees, where he will focus on Eastern Europe and the HUD scandal. Lukens will also work on clean air and farm bills.

An aide to Savage, who chairs the Public Works and Transportation Committee's Economic Development Subcommittee, said staffers could not discuss the investigation of their boss.

By Dinah Wisenberg

Because the Senate Ethics Committee traditionally is more secretive than its House counterpart, it is difficult to gauge how expeditiously it will conduct the investigations, especially the one involving the five senators.

Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., former chief justice of the Alabama Supreme Court, chairs the panel, which is made up of three Democrats, including himself, and three Republicans. Rep. Julian C. Dixon, D-Calif., chairs the 12-member House ethics committee, which also has an equal number of Democrats and Republicans.

Political Damage?

Frank seems to have weathered the controversy back home, with key political allies still supporting him. Lukens has not been so lucky; the Ohio Republican Party has announced it wants to find a candidate to replace him. Savage, who won a narrow victory in 1988, has already drawn opposition in this year's election.

None of the five senators implicated in the Keating affair faces re-election this year, but their political standing has suffered with voters in their respective states.

The dealings of Lincoln Savings and Loan cost the government more than $2 billion and is the most flagrant example cited when regulators review the litany of dubious business practices that led to the collapse of the thrift industry.

Perhaps the most politically damaged is Cranston, who received about $850,000 from Keating for three voter registration projects run by Cranston's son, Kim. The 75-year-old senator won an expensive and very tight re-election race in 1986 and was viewed as vulnerable in California even before the Keating scandal erupted.

Cranston last week announced that he would run for re-election in 1992 and went on the offensive by attacking Edwin Gray, the former chief thrift regulator whom the five senators allegedly tried to influence. Cranston said Gray has lied about the content of the meetings with the senators.

Riegle, chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, spent much of the last two months explaining to his Michigan constituents his involvement with Keating. Initial efforts to downplay his role backfired and his clout on the committee may well be diminished. Riegle has announced he will return the $76,100 in contributions he received from Keating.

Glenn took $34,000 from Keating and another $200,000 from a now-defunct political action committee with which Keating had ties. He has steadfastly denied any wrongdoing in the affair.

The Ohio senator, who faces re-election in 1992, also has said he broke with the other four senators when it became apparent to him that undue political pressure was being exerted on thrift regulators on behalf of Keating.

Both DeConcini and McCain have faced heavy criticism in Arizona. Ed Buck, a political activist who successfully led the recall drive against former Republican Gov. Evan Mecham, is considering the same maneuver against Arizona's two senators.

DeConcini and McCain spent most of their Christmas recess touring the state and defending themselves from the political upheaval caused by the ethics investigation.

DeConcini, who set up the meetings with regulators, is up for re-election in 1994. He has returned the $48,000 in campaign contributions he took from Keating.

McCain, who plans to run for a second term in 1992, has returned $13,433 for the costs of private plane trips that Keating's company paid for McCain and his family. McCain also collected $112,000 in contributions from Keating.

Although the Senate Ethics Committee is investigating the five senators' involvement with Keating and their efforts to intercede with regulators, the senators themselves are waging individual battles to protect their political standings.

In some cases, such as with Glenn, the senators have broken ranks with each other. The committee, however, has the latitude to decide how much culpability, if any, to assign to each senator.

The panel could find that each senator violated the same ethical standards, or did nothing wrong.

HUMPHREY MULLS state Senate bid; No N.Y. election dates set.

Retiring Republican Sen. Gordon J. Humphrey is expressing interest in running this year for a vacant seat in the 24-member New Hampshire Senate.

The state Senate district, which includes Humphrey's home town of Chichester (about 10 miles east of the state capital of Concord), came open Jan. 15 when Republican incumbent William Johnson announced plans to seek New Hampshire's 1st District House seat, which is being vacated by GOP Senate aspirant Robert C. Smith.

Shortly afterward, Humphrey talked with Republican Gov. Judd Gregg and other party officials about the prospect of a state Senate candidacy. "None of this constitutes an announcement," Humphrey said later. "I'm interested, but I don't want to create too much of a diversion with this." Humphrey has until June 15 to file for the September primary.

No date has been set yet for special elections in two vacant House districts in New York. Democratic Gov. Mario M. Cuomo is expected to set March dates for the elections to fill vacancies in the 14th and 18th districts.

DOLE PROPOSAL to reduce aid to Israel draws attention.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., proposed last week reducing foreign aid to Israel and four other allies in order to provide help to new democracies in Eastern Europe and Panama.

Dole's proposal drew encouragement from President Bush, who said there should be more White House flexibility in the allocation of foreign aid.

Israel currently receives $3 billion of the total $14.6 billion in foreign aid. Dole said that reducing aid to Israel, Egypt, Turkey, Pakistan and the Philippines by 5 percent would free $330 million to give to the fledgling democracies.

But several staunch supporters of Israel on Capitol Hill criticized any plan to reduce aid to that key American ally. ■

Congressional Quarterly's Professional Education Service

Presents...

Three Programs Designed to Help You Become More Effective in Your Work with Congress In the Year 1990 and Beyond!

Understanding Congress

The Program

Congressional editors lead this introductory or refresher course. This half-day session gives you an orientation to Congress, its committees and leadership and an introduction to the legislative process and following congressional action.

You Will Learn:

- How the legislative process works and how you can keep track of your bills
- How Congress is organized
- The pressures on Congress and the power of its leaders
- How issues are placed on the legislative agenda
- Whom to contact on congressional staff
- Congressional terminology and essential source materials

When you return to work, CQ's Understanding Congress reference manual quickly answers your daily questions on the theory and practices of Congress.

Monday, January 29
Tuesday, April 3
Tuesday, June 12
8:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.
Quality Hotel Capitol Hill
Washington, D.C • Fee: $195

Understanding Federal Budgeting

The Program

This program proves that federal budgeting need not be intimidating. Budget experts present a lively, practical half-day program to help you make sense of post-Gramm-Rudman budgeting.

You Will Learn:

- Who prepares and defends the president's budget and who participates in the entire budget process
- How congressional attempts at deficit reduction shape the process
- Ways to effectively track funding for your program
- Critical links between authorizations, appropriations and resolutions
- When and how you can influence the budget process
- How to obtain and work with congressional budget documents

Take with you CQ's own budget handbook to support your analysis and discussion of budget issues.

Tuesday, January 30
8:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.
Quality Hotel Capitol Hill
Washington, D.C. • Fee: $225

New! Understanding Federal Regulation

The Program

Regulatory practitioners explain why every organization must pay attention to federal regulations and how to monitor them.

You Will Learn:

- How regulatory agencies are organized
- Basic rulemaking procedures
- What regulatory agencies do and which ones you should watch
- What the Administrative Procedure Act means – in plain English
- How to make the most out of the Federal Register
- Sources for productive research, both inside and outside federal agencies

Take CQ's acclaimed Federal Regulatory Directory, as well as the Understanding Federal Regulation reference handbook back to the office for fast answers to your questions.

Wednesday, January 31
8:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.
Quality Hotel Capitol Hill
Washington, D.C. • Fee: $195

Please register early – space is limited.

Telephone the CQ Registrar at (202) 887-8620 to reserve your place in one or more of these programs.

Attend all three programs and save $75.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling DS

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF PUBLICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling DSS

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling DS

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM FOR BETTY UBBENS

FROM: DRUCIE SCALING
Communications Administrative Officer
Room 122 OEOB, Ext. 2930

RE: Subscriptions

Deborah Amend, Special Assistant to the President for Communications is now also in charge of Media Relations. She has requested that the following papers be delivered to her office. I would appreciate you taking care of this matter for her.

They are as follows:

1 Christian Science Monitor
1 Chicago Tribune
1 Boston Globe

Thank you for your help.

MEMORANDUM FOR BETTY UBBENS

FROM: Drucie Scaling
Communications Administrative Officer
Room 122, Ext. 2170

RE: Newspaper Delivery

Finally, we are all settled down again from the "big move." We will now need to "redistribute" some of the papers. Deb Amend's papers were included in the ones that were delivered to 122. I would appreciate it if you would deliver them to 121. They include the following:

1 Washington Post
1 Wall Street Journal
1 New York Times
1 USA Today
1 Washington Times
1 LA Times
1 Newsweek
1 US news and World Report
1 Time
1 Business Week

The Office of Media Relations papers will be delivered to room 121 instead of room 117. They will need to receive the following:

2 Washington Post
1 New York Times
1 Wall Street Journal
1 Washington Times
1 USA Today
1 Time
1 Newsweek
1 US News and World Report
1 New Republic
1 People

The Office of Public Affairs headed by Barrie Tron, papers are presently being delivered to room 117. They will now need to be delivered to room 197. They will need the following:

2 Washington Post
1 New York Times
1 Wall Street Journal
1 Washington Times
1 USA Today
1 Time
1 Newsweek
1 US News & World Report
1 New Republic
1 People

In the subscription list that I had previously given you, the Office of Public Affairs included the Speechwriters and Chriss Winston's office. This is now changed as we have "beefed up" Public Affairs. However, we will still need to have the same amount of papers delivered to 122 that were previously delivered.

The only deletion we have to our subscription list is to no longer receive two Washington Times.

Our additions:

1) The Federal Yellow Book

2) The National Black Media Directory (see attached form)

Inside this folder are re-order forms for several publications we have already subscribed to. I don't know if these will be helpful.

You know where to find me if you have questions!

Facts about the Hispanic market:

- More than $1 billion is spent each year on marketing efforts aimed at U.S. Hispanics. Those efforts help generate more than $100 billion in sales.
- Since the 1980 Census, the U.S. Hispanic population has grown by 34 percent, while the non-Hispanic population has grown by 7 percent.
- As of March 1988, there were 19.4 million Hispanics living in the United States, representing 8.1 percent of the total population. In 1980, Hispanics represented 6.5 percent of the population.
- By 2010, Hispanics are expected to be the largest minority group in the United States — surpassing blacks — with 41.3 million people.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF PUBLICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling DSS

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM TO BETTY UBBENS

FROM: Drucie Scaling DS
Administrative Officer for Communications

After reviewing the Office of Communications requests for periodical and newspaper publications, I have completed a master list. Included are changes in subscription amounts and problems with reliability and delivery in the past. Please note these on the master list. I have highlighted in yellow those with any changes, underlined in red those with subscription problems, and crossed out completely those to be deleted. I have also added explanations in relevant areas.

Thank you for your cooperation. If you have any problems or questions, please just let me know.

MEMORANDUM TO THE OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

FROM: Drucie Scaling

RE: Subscriptions

It will soon be time to renew the various publications that you now receive in your office. I have asked Administration to provide me with a list of the ones that you are currently receiving now. Attached is that list.

Will you please take a few minutes to review this list. By this time you should know the publications that are really used and needed. I would appreciate it if you will delete any publication that is "borderline" or "would be nice to have, just in case we need it." If the latter should be the case, the library is more than happy to furnish you a copy of the article or articles that you need to review. As you can see on the last page of the attached, the Office of Communications spent $22,738 for publications in this past year.

Should there be a certain publication that has made your work more difficult due to the fact that you do not have it, please add it to your list. Again, please use your good judgement.

Please take a few minutes to look at this NOW! I would appreciate it if you will have this back to me COB Friday, January 12, 1990.

If you have any questions, please call me. I will try to answer them. Thank you so much for your help with this matter.

MEMORANDUM TO BETTY UBBENS

FROM: Drucie Scaling DS

RE: Subscriptions

As of January 2, 1990, the Office of Communications has a new Commissioned Officer. She needs to receive the following publications.

Washington Post
Washington Times
New York Times
Las Angeles Times
Wall Street Journal
USA Today
Newsweek
US News and World Report
Time
Business Week

I would appreciate it if you would get this list started as soon as possible. Staying current on these publications is a major part of her duties. You can have them delivered to Room 122 OEOB.

Thank you for your help with this matter.

RE: Magazine subscriptions

Kristin is not receiving her subscriptions to Ebony and Jet magazines.

She received a few subscriptions and then it stopped early this spring.

Can we start getting them again?

Thank you!

RE: Congressional Monitor

Earlier this year when we were discussing our subscription order for 1990, I requested that you discontinue the Office of Communications subscription to Congressional Monitor. We now need to reinstate our request for this publication.

Deb Amend uses this publication daily in her work. I would appreciate having it delivered to her as soon as possible. It is to be delivered to Room 121 in the Old Executive Office Building.

Thank you for your help with this matter.
