BACKGROUND ON GRIDIRON:

783-7787 Penny Dixon

BACKGROUND:

The Gridiron Club has been an exclusive club since 1885.

This year's event marks its 105th annual dinner.

It exists solely for the purpose to host this dinner where politicians are roasted. It is a drinking and dining society.

It started as a group of newspapermen who sought brotherhood in part because the earlier scandal-plagued Grant administration thought they were a bunch of by-line hunting hounds.

THE EVENT:

Each year the event begins with a speech given in the dark.
It ends with auld lang syne.

In recent years, Presidents and First Ladies have given surprise performances.

--Nixon was the first POTUS to entertain the Club,
when he and Agnew performed a piano duet.

--Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter jitterbugged together.
(The first COUPLE to perform)

--Nancy Reagan dressed up as a baglady and sang her own rendition of "Second Hand Rose"...it was called "Second Hand Clothes". Then she dropped a (fake) plate of White House china on the floor.

--Barbara Bush appeared with a long, dark brown wig and it was quite some time before people recognized her!

Approx. 625 guests

Capitol Hilton 5:30 + reception begins
6:45-ish → POTUS
7:00 + dinner

Head Table members & seating arrangements are not yet finalized. They expect to be done by the 23rd - print day

LAUGHTER

NOTE: We will undoubtedly have to do something squishy about laughter and world harmony. We could put in a line about the "L" word...Laughter, the very best "L" word of all

Henry Luce wrote in his prospectus for LIFE magazine:

"TO SEE LIFE;
TO SEE THE WORLD;
TO EYEWITNESS GREAT EVENTS..."

--Alan Loy McGinnis once said:

"Each of us is the accumulation of our memories."

((("Each of is the accumulation of our memories. So, as we leave here tonight, let us remember our laughter and the good times.....and let's also be sure to remember.....the breathtaking changes in the world. As Tom Wolfe once said, "It boggles the mind, baby!"

--James Stephens once said:

"If a person desires to be a humorist, it is necessary that the people around him shall be at least as wise as he is, otherwise his humor will not be comprehended."

--H.L. Mencken (GOD of the press) once said:

"There are men so philosophical that they can see humor in their own toothaches.

But there has never lived a man so philosophical that he could see the toothache in his own humor!"

--James Thurber once said:

"Humor is a serious thing. I like to think of it as one of our greatest and earliest national resources which must be preserved at all costs."

--Elsa Maxwell quoted her father's words from the deathbed:

"Laugh at yourself before anyone else can."

--H.L. Mencken once said:

"I've made it a rule never to drink by daylight and never to refuse a drink after dark."

--Norman Cousins said:

"Laughter is a form of internal jogging. It moves your organs around. It enhances respiration. It is an igniter of great expectation."

--Abraham Lincoln: "With the fearful strain that is on me night and day, if I did not laugh, I should die."

--Laughter is the corrective force which prevents us from becoming cranks.

Here are some jokes from the Humor file as well as last year's Gridiron that have not yet been used:

--...but what hurts the most is the people who say I don't have a vision. In fact, I had one just last night. I could feel a "new breeze blowing"...so I got out of bed, started walking down the hall, tripped over Millie, hit my head, and saw "a thousand points of light".

--On the way here, I stopped to chat with a street person who was holding a sign saying "Help the Downtrodden and the Destitute". It's not that often that I get to talk to a Drexel Burnham Lambert executive.

--The National Enquirer has applied for press credentials. I want to welcome their new correspondent. Elvis, where are you sitting?

--((Lee Atwater?))...really knows how to recruit. He's gone to bars all across America telling everybody that I was calling for a thousand PINTS OF LITE!

--The new fad...will it be seen in campaigns to come?....
The 800 telephone hotline. Phil Gramm has one. So does Jose Canseco, and Steve Gobie...

--((For Marlin, or another bald man...))
The nice thing about baldness must be that before a press conference, he has only to straighten his tie!

--Before I begin, I 'd like to tell the name of that first course, in case they ask you at the hospital...

--I know, I know... you all thought the kiss Bar threw me as I stood to speak was a mark of affection. But it's really a K-I-S-S... short for: "Keep It Short, Stupid"!

--((This would be great if modified with the name of an old member of Congress, for example. The two ladies could in his waiting area...)):

One night after a performance, the manager of a New York theatre told Ethel Barrymore that 2 ladies wanted to see her.

"They went to school with you," he explained.

"They went to school with me?" asked Miss Barrymore. "Well, then, WHEEL THEM IN!!"

--Thank you. Thank you for these fine skits and fantastic humor...and a full audience. I'm relieved that there are no photographers here! I remember the sign at my last speech...
"DO NO PHOTOGRAPH THE SPEAKERS AS THEY ADDRESS THE AUDIENCE.
SHOOT THEM AS THEY APPROACH THE PODIUM."

--We all get a little anxious as we make last minute preparations...

Barbara just told me that she entered a room at this hotel this evening and recognized a well-known government official pacing up and down. She asked what he was doing there.

He said, "I'm going to deliver some jokes shortly."

Bar asked, "Do you always get so nervous before addressing a large audience?"

"NERVOUS?" he exclaimed indignantly. "No, I never get nervous!"

"IN THAT CASE," Barbara retorted, "WHAT ARE YOU DOING IN THE LADIES ROOM???"

--Thank you for your warm welcome! In accepting your invitation, I was reminded of what the Tower of London said to the the Tower of Pisa...

"If you have the inclination, I've got the time!"

--You know, travel on Air Force One with _____ really proves correct that postulate that he who snores the loudest will fall asleep first.

--((Admiral Watkins, General Powell, General Scowcroft ... or we could go completely civilian with this...))

I am reminded of the time in World War II when Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur found themselves fishing together off the coast of the Philippines. In a sudden squall the boat capsized, and the eminent fighting men were floundering helplessly in the water.

The Admiral was the first to reach the boat. With the aid of an oar, he finally got the General on board.

"Now, Mac," he cautioned, "don't mention a word of this to anyone! You see, I'd be disgraced if the men of the Navy learned that I can't swim!"

"Don't worry," MacArthur replied. "Your secret is safe with me. I'D HATE TO HAVE MY MEN FIND OUT THAT I CAN'T WALK ON WATER!!"

--On a golf outing, the President replaced General Scowcroft's golf ball with an exploding chalk ball.

--the House gym, it has been written, is so often used for dates that members refer to it as "Sauna and Gomorrah"

--Nude Beaches and Recreation listed the Senate pool as the only place in Washington where nude swimming is allowed.

--Lee Atwater's new blues album will be entitled "Red, Hot, and Blue" and some titles include: "Rescue Me"

"Knock on Wood"

"People, Get Ready"

--In a story of his recent trip to California:

"LA is my favority museum." (David Bowie)

--At a second-hand garage sale: Jim and Betty Wright's dinette set, going for $300. It is a Spanish style ensemble and is wood painted "Fiesta Orange". The shop claims it not be "any piece of junk", but a "piece of history"

--The last decade has brought increased an increased awareness of drugs and the drug culture. It has spawned a new "DrugSpeak". For example:

- news junkie
- political junkie
- support group junkie
- junk food junkie
- TV junkie
- antique junkie

Gannett reported that "Bob Dole married a woman just like him...a career-oriented political junkie."

William Safire has called himself "a political junkie".

The Washington Post described journalist I.F. Stone as a "news junkie"; then, when he died, they called him a "political junkie".

--A mock ad in March's Washingtonian magazine touts the first "Congressional Fantasy Camp" -- the political version of baseball "fantasy camps" for overaged athletes.

These campers, says the spoof, get to work with Senators Ted Kennedy, Bob Dole, Barbara Mikulski, "and all the other greats you have followed in the newspapers and watched on the evening news!"

Also offered: Limited franking privileges
Token honoraria
Live C-Span coverage
a 500-word "extension of remarks in the Congressional Record"

--Wrought Irony:

Two flags -- one of the USA and the other of the USSR -- were displayed at a San Diego Press Conference ballyhooing an engagement of the Moscow Circus.

The tag on the Soviet flag said "Made in the USA".

The tag on the US flag said "Made in Hong Kong".

(Reader's Digest/Mar 90/p.28...Tom Blair in the SD Union)

MARLIN JOKES:

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

Marlin tries to be classy. Ever since that trip to Paris, I notice that when he pulls the tab off his beer cans, he sniffs them.

Marlin is always expensively garbed. You should see some of the expensive garbage he wears.

Marlin tried the drinking man's diet. Now he has two problems.

He just doesn't take the time to think. A reporter asked him, "If the President of the United States died, who'd get the job?" He said, "A Republican undertaker."

They say weightlifting builds up the chest and shoulder muscles, swimming builds up the arms, running builds up the legs ... Marlin, do you do a lot of horseback riding?

Barbara was showing the kids the old family album, and George Jr. pointed at a picture and asked, "Who's that good looking guy with the handsome face and the big muscles?" Barbara smiled and said, "That's your father, dear." He looked at me and said, "Then, who is he?"

At Tom Foley's last physical, the doctor said, "This is a personal question, but in the middle years it's important to know. Do you and your wife have any trouble with mutual satisfaction?" He said, "No sale doc, we're staying with Prudential."

George Mitchell one of the guys: "My doctor says I can't play tennis anymore." And the guy says, "Oh, he's played with you, too?"

Marlin wants a convertible, but he won't get one until he can find a toupee with a flesh-colored chin strap.

What do you get when you put 32 Iraqi women in a room?
A full set of teeth.

After seeing the brutal film of the LAPD this week,
I think we all owe Zsa Zsa an apology.

Why does the Iraqi Navy have glass-bottomed boats?
So they can see the Iraqi Air Force.

Saddam's advisors get him in the corner -- whole world is allied against you; you can't go on this way. I'm not that bad; there was Hitler etc. No you are the worst. Asked the magic mirror: Mirror Mirror answer this rhyme; who is worst slime of all time
Who is this Marion Barry?

A:GRIDIRON

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: GRIDIRON DINNER

I held up pretty well through the "100 Day War,"
but I wasn't sure I'd make it through this 100 Hour Dinner.

I hear they want to call it the "Mother of All Bores."

And after watching tonight's entertainment, I'll say one thing:
If I had a white flag, I'd wave it.

In anticipation of seeing so many reporters here tonight,
The other day I asked Marlin for a list of the press corps,
Broken down by sex.
He said, "Actually, sir, booze is more of a problem."

Wasn't (name of reporter) just great tonight?
You know, he worked for many years as an itinerant musician.
Then one day tragedy struck. The monkey died.

Later, he took up piano -- because his beer glass kept sliding off the violin.

One thing's for sure:
This is one speech where I don't have to tell people
to guard against euphoria.

It's a pleasure to be here tonight.
Always good to see Bernie Shaw sitting at the table,
instead of under it.

I know many of you have been roughing it lately.
But Arthur Kent says it wasn't so bad
staying at the Sheraton Riyadh.
In fact, he said the towels were so fluffy,
he could barely get his suitcase shut.

I understand security is tight tonight,
so I told the Secret Service I appreciated their precautions.
They said it had nothing to do with me.
With this crowd, the hotel's worried about the silverware.

At times, I did think the war was a little too pervasive on TV.
My grandkids were watching cartoons one Saturday when Wolf Blitzer broke in.
He had a special report on the arsenal of weapons that the coyote was using against the road runner.

It really hasn't been a good year for George Mitchell.
 First, he voted against the use of force.
 Then he put his money on ----- (Foreman? Bo Jackson?)

And now that the war is over,
 maybe Wolf Blitzer can go back
 to his real name.

At the height of the war, I asked Barbara
 if she was scared at all.
 "No," she said, "because the strongest, bravest man I know
 is in charge."
 I said, "Gee, Bar, thanks."
 She said, "I meant Norman Schwarzkopf."

I'm sure you're as impressed as I am with Norman Schwartzkopf's incredible grit, determination and courage.
 And that was just to get through
 the interview with Barbara Walters.

I know many of you reporters have been roughing it lately.
 But Arthur Kent says it wasn't so bad
 staying at the Sheraton Riyadh.
 In fact, he said the towels were so fluffy,
 he could barely get his suitcase shut.

* * *

All joking aside, tonight has been wonderful. Barbara and I always enjoy ourselves at the Gridiron, but we found your tribute to the troops to be especially moving. There was a line in it that "through the fog of distant war shines the strength of their devotion."

As I've said before, our soldiers, airmen, sailors, Marines and Coast Guardsmen embodied the ideals of honor and bravery and duty and country -- and were willing to sacrifice everything for
 the sake of those simple words.

OTHER POSSIBLE JOKES

Did you hear about those Iraqi soldiers who gave themselves up to a jeep full of reporters? They asked for three things:
A hot meal, some cold water, and (Arthur Kent's autograph?)

We suspected most Iraqis weren't too keen about fighting.
Our spy satellites spotted one of their tanks
with a bumper sticker that read,
("I'd Rather Be Surrendering"?)

I understand that in order to build the kind of image "Stormin' Norman" has, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs has decided to go by nicknames too. ///

But really, I don't think "Rollin' Colin" is appropriate. ///
They say weightlifting builds up the chest and shoulder muscles, swimming builds up the arms, running builds up the legs ...
Marlin, do you do a lot of horseback riding?

Barbara was showing the kids the old family album, and George Jr. pointed at a picture and asked, "Who's that good looking guy with the handsome face and the big muscles?" Barbara smiled and said, "That's your father, dear." He looked at me and said, "Then, who is he?"

CAPITOL HILTON
SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1991

((Acknowledgements))

After watching tonight's entertainment, I'll say one thing:
If I had a white flag, I'd wave it.

One thing's for sure:

After those last few skits, I don't have to warn people
to guard against euphoria.

In anticipation of seeing so many reporters here tonight,
The other day I asked Marlin for a list of the press corps,
Broken down by sex.

He said, "Actually, sir, booze is more of a problem."

Always good to see Bernie Shaw sitting at the table,
instead of under it.

Happy to see Ambassador Al-Sabah of Kuwait could join us tonight.
I understand that during his recent travels, Jim Baker
tried out some of tonight's jokes on him.
After hearing them, the Ambassador said,
"Don't you think we've suffered enough?"

I think the wimp factor has finally been put to rest. //
Jim Baker did support the use of force.

(Bob Strauss jokes to come)

The Washington Post reported this week that Marlin's on a diet.
Trying to lose his "Falstaffian figure," it said.
Apparently his doctor told him he'd have to cut out his cozy little dinners for two.
Either that or find somebody to eat with.

Hey, this is fun. //
I haven't gotten this many laughs
since my last speech on domestic policy.

Sure, I'm aware of the complaints in the media
about no domestic agenda ... lack of vision.
But I'm sure Bob Strauss can help the Democrats improve.

Why does the Iraqi Navy have glass-bottomed boats?

So they can see the Iraqi Air Force.

And so, if I may, I'd like to offer a toast to the brave men and women who fought for freedom in the Persian Gulf. I raise my glass: To those who liberated a nation abroad and transformed a nation at home -- to our troops.

SUBJECT: MORE GRIDIRON JOKES

Attached for your review are additional jokes for the Gridiron. The second page ABSOLUTELY CANNOT BE USED, but we thought you might like to see the product of some late-night "brainstorming."

Also, we spoke with Bob Strauss. His focus will largely be on the Cabinet and such "easy targets" as Governor Sununu, Dick Darman and Secretary Baker.

I understand that in order to build the kind of image "Stormin'

But really, I don't think "Rollin' Colin" is appropriate. ///

They say weightlifting builds up the shoulder muscles, swimming builds up the arms, running builds up the legs ...
Marlin, do you do a lot of horseback riding?

Why does the Iraqi Navy have glass-bottomed boats?
So they can see the Iraqi Air Force.

I held up pretty well through the "100 Day War,"
but I wasn't sure I'd make it through this 100 Hour Dinner.

It was very satisfying to see American soldiers handing out candy
and cigarettes to the Iraqis who gave themselves up.
In fact, 30,000 Russians tried to surrender.

Here's something I thought I'd never see.
People in Baghdad are so upset with Saddam,
for a change Iraqis are burning their own flag.

I think Colin Powell's been working too hard.
Just the other day, someone asked the General how high he thinks
the price of crude will go.
He said, "Playboy or Penthouse?"

Barbara was showing the kids the old family album, and George Jr.
pointed at a picture and asked, "Who's that good looking guy with
the handsome face and the big muscles?" Barbara smiled and said,
"That's your father, dear." He looked at me and said, "Then, who is he?"

ADDITIONAL GRIDIRON JOKES

Thank you, Budge, for that wonderful introduction.
For a minute, I thought I'd have to pull out my American Express card. [Pull out card]

Some of you may have read the CIA report in the paper that when one pronounces Hussein's name as "SADD-em," its Arabic meaning is
"little boy who shines shoes." ///

But did you know that when you pronounce "Sununu" correctly, it means "big man who never shines his shoes"?

Here's my old friend Bob Strauss, that famous Texan.
You know what they say about him --
All hat, no cattle.

Bob, by my watch [look at watch],
your speech was about 10 minutes long.
Let's see ... at 8 million an hour ...
The Gridiron's now in Chapter 11.

I understand Eppie Lederer is with us tonight.
You know her -- she's Dear Abbie.
Bob Strauss wrote to her recently,
and she asked me to read her response. [pull out paper]
"Dear Washington Wheeler-Dealer," it says.
"Yes. Take the money from both clients."
OR: "I think 8 million dollars an hour may be a little steep."

The other day, I asked Jim Baker
what he really thought of Bob Strauss. //
He looked at me and said,
"He's not a general. // He's not a tactician. // He's not a strategist. ///
But other than that, he's a great Democratic politician."

Ever since Buddy Roemer became a Republican, people have been asking
who will be the next big-time Democrat to switch parties.
Well tonight, I'd like to announce that none other than my old friend Bob Strauss
Well, I'd like to announce it, but Bob's done more for us as a Democrat, than he'll ever do as a Republican.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: GRIDIRON DINNER
CAPITOL HILTON
SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1991
9:30 P.M.

((Thank you, Budge [Sperling] for that introduction.))

After watching tonight's entertainment, I'll say one thing:
If I had a white flag, I'd wave it.

One thing's for sure:
After those last few skits, I don't have to warn people
to guard against euphoria.

In anticipation of seeing so many reporters here tonight,
The other day I asked Marlin for a list of the press corps,
Broken down by sex.
He said, "Actually, sir, booze is more of a problem."

Always good to see Bernie Shaw sitting at the table,
instead of under it.

Happy to see Ambassador Al-Sabah of Kuwait could join us tonight.
I understand that during his recent travels, Jim Baker
tried out some of tonight's jokes on him.
After hearing them, the Ambassador said,
"Don't you think we've suffered enough?"

I think the wimp factor has finally been put to rest. //
Jim Baker did support the use of force.

(Bob Strauss jokes to come)

The Washington Post reported this week that Marlin's on a diet.
Trying to lose his "Falstaffian figure," it said.
Apparently his doctor told him he'd have to cut out his cozy
little dinners for two.
Either that or find somebody to eat with.

Hey, this is fun. //
I haven't gotten this many laughs
since my last speech on domestic policy.

Sure, I'm aware of the complaints in the media
about no domestic agenda ... lack of vision.
But I'm sure Bob Strauss can help the Democrats improve.

It really hasn't been a good year for George Mitchell.
First, he voted against the use of force.

Brent Scowcroft was able to confirm that Saddam Hussein did, indeed, spend a lot of time watching CNN.
First clue was when Saddam called into "Sonya Live."

I think Colin Powell's been working too hard. Just the other day, someone asked the General how high he thinks the price of crude will go. He said, "Playboy or Penthouse?"

I'm sure you're as impressed as I am with Norman Schwartzkopf's incredible grit, determination and courage. And that was just to get through the interview with Barbara Walters.

Just this week -- true story -- Norman Schwarzkopf was named "Sexiest Man in America." Not by People Magazine. By the National Enquirer. ///

The National Enquirer reports that "women want to be alone in a tent" with "the four-star fury who wacked Iraq." Even my own wife was quoted as a fan. And the Geraldo Show has been flooded by calls from women who want him booked for a program. Apparently they're doing a show entitled

(women who love men who -----)
(Camouflage: Yes or No?)
(Generals who ----)

I understand that in order to build the kind of image "Stormin' Norman" has, the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs have decided to go by nicknames too. ///
But really, I don't think "Rollin' Colin" is appropriate. ///
And neither is "Zany Cheney." ///

It really hasn't been a good year for George Mitchell. First, he voted against the use of force. Then he put his money on Princeton against UNLV.

I want to salute our Gridiron President -- Jim Baker -- for the fine job he's done. Earlier today Jim called me to see if I still wanted to go to that annual event with all the movers and shakers. \\ I said, "Gee, I'd love to go to the Final Four."

I understand that during his recent travels, Jim Baker tried out some of tonight's jokes on a Kuwaiti diplomat. The Kuwaiti said, "Don't you think we've suffered enough?"

Now that the war is over,
maybe Wolf Blitzer can go back
to his real name.

Now that the war's over,
we're going to move forward
on the crucial things here at home.
I can't tell you how many trees have gone unplanted.

Hey, this is fun.

THE WHITE HOUSE

I haven't gotten this many laughs
since my last domestic policy speech.

Sure, I'm aware of the complaints in the media
about no domestic agenda ... lack of vision.
But I'm sure Tom Foley will improve.

I am disgusted by those who say the GOP is making political hay
Out of our victory in the Gulf.
And I've directed my very good friends
Colin Powell and Dick Cheney
Not to gloat about our brilliant battle plan.

And now, an update from the front lines.
Civil war, fighting and bloodshed have been reported. ///
But really, I'm not here to discuss the Democrats.

As I look around tonight, all I can say is "What recession?"

Women can be very effective in combat.
Just ask ...

At the height of the war, I asked Barbara
if she was scared at all.
"No," she said, "because the strongest, bravest man I know
is in charge."
I said, "Gee, Bar, thanks."
She said, "I meant Norman Schwarzkopf."

I'm sure you're as impressed as I am with Norman Schwarzkopf's incredible grit, determination and courage.
And that was just to get through
the interview with Barbara Walters.

I know many of you reporters have been roughing it lately.
But Arthur Kent says it wasn't so bad
staying at the Sheraton Riyadh.
In fact, he said the towels were so fluffy,
he could barely get his suitcase shut.

* * *

All joking aside, tonight has been wonderful. Barbara and I always enjoy ourselves at the Gridiron, but we found your tribute to the troops to be especially moving. There was a line in it
that "through the fog of distant war shines the strength of their
devotion."

As I've said before, our soldiers, airmen, sailors, Marines
and Coast Guardsmen embodied the ideals of honor and bravery and
duty and country -- and were willing to sacrifice everything for
the sake of those simple words.

And so, if I may, I'd like to offer a toast to the brave men and women who fought for freedom in the Persian Gulf. I raise my glass: To those who liberated a nation abroad and transformed a nation at home -- to our troops. # # #

OTHER POSSIBLE JOKES

It really hasn't been a good year for George Mitchell.
 First, he voted against the use of force.
 Then he put his money on ----- (George Foreman? Bo Jackson?)

Did you hear about those Iraqi soldiers who gave themselves up to a jeep full of reporters? They asked for three things:
 A hot meal, some cold water, and -----.
 (Arthur Kent's autograph?)

We suspected most Iraqis weren't too keen about fighting.
 Our spy satellites spotted one of their tanks
 with a bumper sticker that read -----.
 ("I'd Rather Be Surrendering"?)

I understand that in order to build the kind of image "Stormin'
 Norman" has, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs has decided to go by nicknames too. ///
 But really, I don't think "Rollin' Colin" is appropriate. ///

They say weightlifting builds up the shoulder muscles, swimming
 builds up the arms, running builds up the legs ...
 Marlin, do you do a lot of horseback riding?

Why does the Iraqi Navy have glass-bottomed boats?
 So they can see the Iraqi Air Force.

I held up pretty well through the "100 Day War,"
 but I wasn't sure I'd make it through this 100 Hour Dinner.

It was very satisfying to see American soldiers handing out candy
 and cigarettes to the Iraqis who gave themselves up.
 In fact, 30,000 Russians tried to surrender.

Here's something I thought I'd never see.
 People in Baghdad are so upset with Saddam,
 for a change Iraqis are burning their own flag.

I think Colin Powell's been working too hard.
 Just the other day, someone asked the General how high he thinks
 the price of crude will go.
 He said, "Playboy or Penthouse?"

Barbara was showing the kids the old family album, and George Jr.
 pointed at a picture and asked, "Who's that good looking guy with
 the handsome face and the big muscles?" Barbara smiled and said,
 "That's your father, dear." He looked at me and said, "Then, who is he?"
