GRIDIRON (MORE)

Had my annual physical. Doctors pronounced me in good health. Although they did find a former CNN commentator on my back.

Jack Germond, Howell Heflin, and Roger Ailes (Marlin Fitzwater, Rush Limbaugh or any rotund Washingtonian) have banded together to try and disrupt Jerry Brown campaign appearances. Someone told them Jerry proposed a fat tax.

Thank you, thank you for that kind introduction.

Mr. Vice President, members of the cabinet.... fellow insiders....

For the second time in a year I nearly lost consciousness during dinner.

To President
2001 Favorite Fantasy
after -> Sitting through a Gridiron has always been my second favorite fantasy. My favorite fantasy is to spend an entire year in Biosphere 2 with the Mclaughlin Group.

Thank God none of those skits were funded by the NEA, try selling that to the taxpayer.

My respects to the folks up here at the head table.

I see my Attorney General. Bill, saw your profile in the Post. Thought they went too far when they said you looked like you were "forced into a suit against your will" You may be boyish but your not "pudgy". Marlin - now there's pudgy.

~~My good friend Nick Brady, adding that common touch to the head table. Nick, I heard about your latest effort to save the economy. When Marla threw her gold ring at Donald, Nick dove for it. With this deficit, every ounce counts.~~

MEMORANDUM TO THE PRESIDENT

From: DAVID F. DEMAREST, JR.

Subject: GRIDIRON PROPOSAL

Per our conversation this morning, I have revised the format for the Gridiron speech and included some additional jokes with this package. I have also included the dialogue for the opening and closing comments.

Proposed Format for "Great Tarmac" Presentation

- A toast will be made in your honor.
- Then Dan Thomasson will say "I have learned the President will not be speaking this evening. I have been asked to turn over the program to Marlin Fitzwater."
- Marlin will proceed to the podium and introduce TARMAC THE MAGNIFICENT. See dialogue.
- TARMAC THE MAGNIFICENT appears wearing a cape.
- Marlin continues to speak. See dialogue.
- Marlin will hand you a joke in a sealed envelope. [The joke will be written out on the back of the envelope and a list will also be provided for you on the podium.] You will hold the envelope up in the air, close to your forehead and read it. Marlin, at this point, may repeat what you say, similar to Ed McMahon. You will open the envelope, blow into the envelope, and read the card.
- There may be an occasion where a joke does not get the most enthusiastic response. In this case you will have the option to chide the audience. We will provide short quips/jokes that you can choose from. As well as a list of quips to use when Marlin gets out of line.

GRIDIRON DINNER
SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1992

MARLIN: Ladies and Gentlemen, I am sorry that the President will not be speaking to you this evening. However, we have a friend and travelling companion of the President's. Let me now introduce a very special visitor from the East. He is retiring in May, and is making his farewell tour. I am speaking of the all-knowing, all omniscient. Famous seer, sage, and soothsayer. And former baggage handler for Air Sununu. TARMAC . . . THE MAGNIFICENT.

I hold in my hand the envelopes. A child of four can see they are hermetically sealed. They have been kept in a mayonnaise jar on Funk and Wagnall's porch since noon today. NO ONE knows the content of these envelopes. But you, in your mystical and borderline divine way, will ascertain the answer having never before heard the question. Is that correct, oh holy sage?

PRESIDENT: You're padding your part, elephant breath . . .

Envelope number one.

MARLIN: Funk and Wagnall's porch.

Noon today.

MARLIN: I hold in my hand the last envelope.

{After cheering}

PRESIDENT: May your first born daughter marry a Congressman and may your Nielsen ratings match my polls.

Boss And Protégé

Mark Hanna cuts a patronage pie and upstages President McKinley; he gives the club its ivory gavel.

The public liked bland William McKinley, after a fashion. It never felt at ease with the hard-nosed political boss, Marcus A. Hanna, who made McKinley President of the United States.

With the Gridiron Club, it was the other way around.

To see why we turn to the Gridiron dinner of March, 1897, shortly after the McKinley inauguration. McKinley had been a guest before, in the previous decade when he served as a congressman. This time he delivered a short, theoretically humorous speech. Nowhere in the club's records or scrapbooks is there a hint of the tone or substance of what he said.

For Mark Hanna, it was his first appearance. He had won international fame for his skilled backstage manipulation and fund-raising behind Republican McKinley's victory over William Jennings Bryan, the far superior orator of the Democrats. Hanna had a reputation, also, as a tough, multi-millionaire business tycoon; but his personality was an unknown quantity in Washington.

So when Hanna was called on to speak, he had a roomful of curious and skeptical listeners.

"I know many members of the Gridiron Club," he began, then paused. "I have met most of you in the tented fields of campaign rallies and in the barrooms of New York and Chicago." Though these words weren't brilliant, they won a burst of approval. They showed Hanna felt at home, and had come to join in the fun. The rest of his remarks were light and self-deprecatory in the Gridiron tradition.

In a skit later in the program Hanna was to be impersonated as the chief dispenser of McKinley administration patronage. A pie four feet in diameter was wheeled into the room, as a symbol of McKinley "pie and prosperity".

On impulse the Gridiron president presiding inquired whether Hanna would like to play the part of himself. He volunteered and was handed a huge knife. As he started on the first slice, a noisy, costumed herd of job-seekers rushed in, snatched away the pie and ran out with it.

No one enjoyed himself more at Gridiron dinners than Mark Hanna. After several years as a guest, he returned the hospitality by inviting all club members to a private dinner in which the Gridiron format of exchanging humorous insults was followed.

He also gave the club an ivory gavel. This is presented at each Spring Dinner to the Gridiron president elected for that year.

As a reward for services rendered, McKinley in one of his early acts as President arranged Hanna's appointment as a Senator from Ohio, filling a vacancy created by McKinley's nomination of Senator John Sherman to be Secretary of State. After the McKinley assassination Hanna continued as a powerful Senator, winning re-election in his own right.

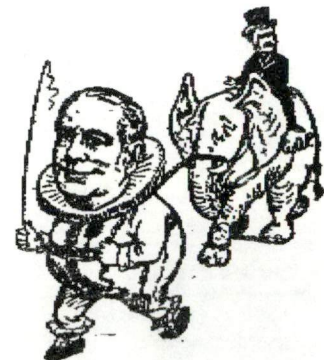

Hanna made no secret of his scorn for the reforms of Theodore Roosevelt, successor to McKinley in the presidency. He usually referred to Teddy as "that damned cowboy."

When failing health forced Hanna's confinement to bed early in 1904, he spurned his doctor's advice and came to the January Gridiron dinner. Illness prevented him from eating or drinking, but he followed the program with customary enthusiasm.

He told his host that the evening had done more for him than a week of his doctor's care. Then he went home and back to bed—and died a short time later.

McKinley.

SCIENCE Draft One

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: SCIENCE OLYMPIAD
MARCH 27, 1992 11:45 A.M.
ROSE GARDEN

Thank you, and welcome to the Rose Garden. I'm glad my previous meeting didn't run late, or I would have had to bring a note from Barbara. It's great to see you [ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS] -- most of all, let me welcome the very special young men and women here representing the 10,000 schools and 1 1/2 million students who take part in the Science Olympiad. Congratulations on receiving gold medals in <sup>America's</sup> your nation's Olympics of the mind. \\

I'm proud to be with you Olympians -- though I hear that when one of the kids was told the most important man in the world was going to be speaking to you today, he said: "You mean Carl Sagan will be there?" \\ Not. weah

I know a lot of you are not only looking back with pride on last year's victory, but you're looking ahead to May 16 at Auburn -- especially the teams from Grandville and Jenison Junior Highs. You should be up for awards in the juggling event too -- the way you can be in Washington with me today and home in Michigan at your state Olympics competition tomorrow. ~~Totally awesome.~~ \\ Why?
decra 7 work

I'm tremendously impressed by all of you, students and teachers, and <sup>by</sup> the incredible scope of activities you participate in. You're really like decathletes -- good at so many varied skills -- like problem solving, test taking, and device building. I'd never be able to build a musical instrument out of nonmusical materials -- or identify the Age of Reptiles -- I was told the correct answer is "Mesozoic" -- I thought the "Age of Reptiles" was short for "The Age of Congressional Elections." \\\

too distant
I've been told you have to work all year to get where you are -- competing in 32 individual and team events in subjects like biology, earth science, chemistry, physics and computers. I might just be able to compete after all. You know, last year I started to learn how to work the computer. It's taken me a while, but a couple of months ago I wrote my first program. I called it "Michelangelo." I hope it works. ✓

You're more than smart, hard-working teams. You're the best ambassadors this country has: you show who we can be and what we can do if we just put our minds and our great American genius to work. I'm proud to honor you at the White House today because your nation is proud to claim you and recognize your achievement.

andeline ✓
You've shown the kind of excellence that will help us meet the ambitious goals we've set for our nation in our America 2000 education strategy. We know we've got to be competitive in math and science in a changing world. Our economic health -- our economic survival -- depend on how we educate ourselves to face the challenges out there. We've called on our kids to be #1 in the world in math and science by the turn of the century -- and you're visible proof that we can do it.

We've requested over $2 billion in Federal spending on math and science education in next year's budget: $768 million of that for pre-college. If my math is correct -- and with this crowd it had better be -- that's an increase of 123% in the last 3 years.

good setup -
better punch line?

We also want to bring new technology into the classroom, so kids can interact with astronauts, explorers and scientists -- so rural schools can have access to state-of-the-art resources -- and so all American kids can be exposed to the cutting-edge technologies and ideas that will shape their future.

The Federal Government can do a lot -- but we can't do it all. Real excellence demands commitment from everyone in every community as we work to create a new generation of American schools. It demands talented men and women giving their time to become tutors, mentors and classroom assistants. It demands businesses, <sup>churches & synagogues</sup> ~~places of worship~~, and civic groups forming partnerships to support local schools. Together, we will reinvent the American school community by community, neighborhood by neighborhood, <sup>all</sup> across this country.

The Science Olympiad <sup>STOT</sup> ~~program~~ shows us the way. ~~It shows how we can break the mold.~~ It brings together 3,000 volunteers -- teachers, parents and businesspeople -- each one working to strengthen excellence in his or her own community. You're here today representing them all -- you're here because you're not afraid to reach for excellence -- and that's why I salute you.

~~I salute you -- and I envy you.~~ You've found the sheer joy of learning, of making something work, of understanding the world. We older folks think of the scientist who will one day discover the cure for cancer, or who will use technology to wipe out hunger -- and we realize that today that man or woman is a student in a science class somewhere. Maybe in your classroom.

Let's not repeat so much rhetoric

freshen this up

cut this prof + add an anecdote or story about a project?

*President of Gridiron ClubDAN K. THOMASSON

Dan King Thomasson is a member of a pioneer Indiana family who grew up in Shelbyville, Indiana, graduated from Indiana University, and did graduate work at Colorado University. During college, he was editor-in-chief of the Indiana Daily Student, a job once held by Ernest Taylor Pyle, was president of the Indiana University Student Foundation, general chairman of the Little 500 bicycle race, president of Sigma Delta Chi, and an editor of the Arbutus.

Following college, he joined the staff of the Indianapolis Star. He served two years in the army before becoming a reporter for the Rocky Mountain News. He was political editor of the News when he was assigned to Washington by Scripps Howard in 1964 in time for the 1964 presidential campaign.

He became chief congressional correspondent for Scripps Howard in 1966 and in 1973 was named by Washingtonian Magazine as one of the nation's 10 best investigative reporters.

He devoted much of his time to investigations, ranging from Bobby Baker and Thomas Dodd to Sen. Edward Kennedy's Chappaquiddick and Nixon's Watergate. He covered several administrations on Capitol Hill and three presidential campaigns.

Thomasson became managing editor of Scripps Howard News Service in 1976 and in January 1980 become editor of Scripps Howard News Service and chief of the 50 person Washington Bureau. He became Vice President for news of Scripps Howard Newspapers in October 1986.

Thomasson has appeared over the years on a variety of national television shows including Face the Nation, Good Morning America, the Today show, Washington Week in Review, and C-Span.

He has been an editor in residence at a number of universities and has been a speaker at the national Investigative Reporters and Editors meetings at Ohio State and Washington and Lee Universities. He joined former Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton as the 1986 E. Don Tull lecturers at Franklin College. He is a trustee of Franklin College, a member of the National Public Affairs Council for Indiana University, and a member of the board of advisors of the Ohio University School of Journalism.

He is a member of the White House Correspondents Association and the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He is president of the Gridiron Club, the Raymond Clapper Foundation and a director of the Scripps Howard Foundation.

THE PRESIDENT

GRIDIRON DINNER

MARCH 28, 1992

...., fellow insiders...

There must be some congressmen in the room. It feels like there's an overdraft.

(TAKE SIP OF WATER) Excuse me, Ann. Silver foot went down the wrong way.

First thing Monday morning I'm getting my eyes examined. Out in the lobby, I swear I saw a guy in a turtleneck flashing an 800 number.

Governor Jerry Brown was supposed to be here. But his turtleneck snagged in the zipper of his UAW jacket. A police emergency unit is using the Jaws of Life to remove him.

The governor of New York was invited, but he couldn't make up his mind whether to fly, take the train, or wait 'til the '96 Gridiron.

Bill Clinton planned to attend the dinner, 'til he heard the dessert topping was nutmeg.

Enjoyed the musical numbers and the droll, sophisticated, Noel Cowardesque skits...by the wit-challenged members of the press.

Quite a coup...hiring the authors of "Police Academy 9".

Thank God the NEA doesn't fund your skits. Try to justify that to the voters.

You people give "dysfunctional" a bad name.

Your performances were riveting. There should be a warning label on the program..."Immediately following a Gridiron, do not operate heavy machinery".

Nearly the second time this year I lost consciousness during a dinner.

Your performances had all the fun of a Yassar Arafat bachelor party.

Sitting through a Gridiron has always been my second favorite fantasy. My favorite fantasy is to spend a year in Biosphere 2 with the McLaughlin Group. (Or, with the Capital Gang) (or, bungee-jumping into Tokyo strapped to Fritz Hollings)

-3-

Tonight you were rougher than usual, but you don't frighten me. I could lick you with one hander tied behind my back.

(SEC. ALEXANDER WILL HAVE SUNG COUNTRY MUSIC) I've heard Garth Brooks in concert. I've seen Garth Brooks on the cover of Time. Garth Brooks is a friend of mine. Lamar, you're no Garth Brooks.

If anyone from the NEA is here, I beg you not to fund him.

Lamar is the brother the Gatlins don't talk about.

Actually Lamar, you were great. Knocked my tube socks off.

I may be losing control of my Administration. This morning in the Situation Room, Colin Powell was singing rap...Sounded like a cross between M.C. Hammer and Rudy Vallee.

That super market tabloid, the Star, is working on a story about Lane Kirkland and three members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union...Lane says he was just trying to "look for the union label".

I don't want to rattle Al Simpson. But this morning, Nina Totenberg was in a D.C. gun shop pricing sniper scopes.

Last week, Dick Cheney held a Pentagon briefing to show how he had Patriot missiles intercept and destroy his three giant checks.

With the world at peace, there isn't much work for our war correspondents. Peter Arnett (Charles Jaco) has been assigned to the Georgetown Four Seasons in case there's a flareup between Marla Maples and Donald Trump. (...assigned to the Hill in case there's a flareup between Nina Totenberg and Al Simpson)

When Marla threw her gold ring at Donald, Nick Brady dove for it. With this deficit, every ounce counts.

Alan Greenspan says the economy is recovering. I hope he's right. I just made a down payment on a pair of tube socks.

Took a lot of ridicule for purchasing a couple pair of socks. To the press, tube socks are a joke. To Senor Wences, they're a livelihood.

This speech isn't just about me. It's for the heart and soul of the Gridiron Club.

Some news from Russia. Lenin isn't dead. He was just napping during a particularly long Russian Gridiron dinner.

Congratulations to Bob Strauss, who was judged the wittiest speaker at this year's Russian Gridiron...Bob really cracked them up doing the Charleston dressed as Nina Khrushchev.

Bob Gates is considering a private news program that would be available on encrypted computer to 200 top administration officials that would offer instant analysis of news events. That in itself is not a bad idea. But Bob may be getting carried away. He wants to hire Gordon Liddy to do weather and sports.

Have you seen John Sununu on "Crossfire"? Most people feel Michael Kinsley is overreacting...wearing shatterproof glasses.

John Sununu already alienated the brass at CNN. Last weekend he flew home to the dentist aboard a corporate jet...citing the need for secure communication with Michael Kinsley.

John Sununu may run for governor of Arkansas. John said, "Not only do you fly on corporate jets, but they serve you free chicken".

Cosmonaut Sergei Krikalev returned to earth after ten months in orbit. What must have gone through his mind when he saw the dramatic changes in less than a year. The collapse of the Soviet Union, Gorbachev out of power, super market scanners...

Ten months orbiting the earth. He clocked more time in space than Jerry Brown.

Pravda is bankrupt. They went belly up after David Broder (Kevin Phillips, Evans and Novak) doubled the rate to carry his column.

Pravda went bankrupt. You have to feel for the Russian people. They'll no longer get to read Doonesbury.

Rich Bond has been on the phone with the former Pravda staffers. As Rich said, "You can never have too many spin doctors".

Lee Iacocca is stepping down. Lee has been feverishly working on a car for Chrysler executives. When the air bag activates, out pops a golden parachute.

Newt Gingrich has a take-no-prisoners personality. Newt has the only locker with a pinup of Hannibal Lecter. (Or, Newt Gingrich, the House Hannibal Lecter)

Art Buchwald is now suing the producers of "Basic Instinct". Art claims they used his body as stunt double during Michael Douglas's love scenes.

Jesse Helms is writing a Saturday morning cartoon show for children...starring Joe Camel.

It may surprise you to learn Jesse Helms joined the ranks of animal rights supporters. Today outside the White House Jesse walked a mile for Joe Camel. (Or, Jesse Helms has become an activist for animal rights. Jesse wants to put Joe Camel on the endangered species list.)

Paul Tsongas pulled out of the race. The other candidates are relieved. It was distracting debating a man who reeked of chlorine.

The person most unhappy to see Paul bow out was his unannounced running mate, Mark Spitz.

Paul dropped out so he can devote more time to catching that kwazy wabbit.

We've got to curb the violence on TV. I'm speaking of the Clinton-Brown debates.

Those debates are getting heated. The next one will be produced by Don King.

It's getting nasty. Bill Clinton replaced one handler with a cut man.

You know it's gonna be vicious when the moderator begins the debate with, "Let's...RUMBLE!" (A la Vegas fight announcer)

Last week, they had to use the Jaws of Life to remove Jerry Brown's teeth from Bill Clinton's ankle.

New York police have warned residents to stay indoors so they don't get injured in a drive-by political commercial.

This year's political commercials have been ugly. The only thing worse would be the pictures from Yassar Arafat's wedding night.

Candidates from both parties have engaged in vicious name-calling...like "corrupt", "liar", ("hypocrite", "fascist", "draft dodger", "womanizer", "racist") "incumbent".

One candidate favors isolationism. You know the definition of an isolationist. That's a guy who showed up for a Tom Harkin victory party.

They accused me of pandering to the far right...just because I proposed statehood for Rush Limbaugh.

To most of us, the campaign season means countless nights in strange hotels. To (deadbeat pol or press person), it's a chance to glom tiny shampoo bottles, shoe polishing cloths, and chintzy white bathrobes.

I enjoy campaigning on the road, sleeping in hotels. It's a pleasure to thumb through the Gideon Bible and know they don't carry Doonesbury.

H. Ross Perot is launching a Presidential bid. Ross says he won't accept any contribution under a billion dollars.

To Ross, the Kuwaiti ambassador is middle class. (KUWAITI AMBASSADOR IS AT HEAD TABLE)

Ross may be out of touch with average Americans. He wants Greenpeace to declare the polo pony an endangered species.

Ross's campaign slogan is, "The Krugerrand stops here".

- 10 -

Ross has the only penny loafers with Krugerrands.

Last week he tossed a tax-free municipal bond across the Potomac.

The public can't get away from the candidates. The other day in a Brooklyn K-Mart, a voice came over the speaker and said, "Attention, K-Mart choppers. I'm Jerry Brown and my number is 800-426-1112".

Spent last weekend at Camp David with Helmut Kohl. Pat Buchanan phoned the Chancellor and asked if he knew the blue book price for a used Mercedes.

Pat's plan to get America moving is to set aside a diamond lane for Mercedes drivers.

Pat may have made a tactical error when he gave a speech in a GM parking lot that began with, "Ich bin ein Mercedes owner".

Some say Pat really has his sights set on '96...when he plans to run for Kaiser.

Pat tries to identify with people who frequent McDonald's. But when Pat refers to a Big Mac, he means his fat neighbor in McLean.

- 11 -

We're all glad Super Tuesday is behind us. For Ron Brown, Super Tuesday is any Tuesday Jerry Brown has root canal.

Jerry Brown withdrew his membership from a California golf club because they exclude extra-terrestrials.

Jerry Brown has proposed a tax cut for middle-class Trekkies.

Democratic strategists are considering a possible Clinton-Brown ticket. That would provide a good balance. An outsider and a far-outsider.

Jerry could deliver the uncommitted extra-terrestrials.

Jerry feels the momentum is going his way...according to his pollster, Rod Serling.

Jerry Brown is crisscrossing the country aboard Winnebago One.

Jerry Brown did surprisingly well in Michigan. According to the exit polls, Jerry got the vote of 95% of all crash dummies.

- 12

Jerry Brown lived two years in India, but was asked to leave. Waving that 800 card scared the snakes back into their baskets.

Jerry Brown has an abrasive personality. He's the only person ever to make Mother Teresa's enemies list.

Governor Brown inspired Mother Teresa to say, "Enough already with the 800 number. Pass the curry".

Jerry Brown's campaign slogan is, "The Buddha stops here".

This year, even the scandals have changed. In the old days, politicians worried about being caught in a motel. Now they're scared they'll be spotted inside the Beltway.

This year, nobody's sacred. What will be the next revelation? Lane Kirkland wears Taiwan tails?

The climate is changing on the Hill. Today a congressman got into a shouting match with a D.C. cop (meter maid). But the cop (meter maid) refused to write him a parking ticket.

House members have gotten angry letters from bank robbers. You can't blame the robbers. When they get caught pulling a heist, they can't get the ticket fixed on their getaway car.

Recycling has caught on up on the Hill. At the House gym members pasted together a batch of checks and built a trampoline.

This whole business is pervasive. This morning Millie fetched me a rubber slipper.

There's so much rubber on the Hill some members carpool in the Goodyear Blimp.

They plan to reform the system. In the future, members may be asked to walk through a rubber detector.

Today the House voted that the United States convert to the rubber standard.

Did you know the Swiss now keep their money in the House bank?

The House post office scandal has the voters enraged. Elvis threatened to sue if they use his stamp.

What's going on up there? At the House post office they replaced the Elvis stamp with John Gotti.

Nobody wants to be associated with the mess. Today three of the "wanted" posters turned their heads to the wall.

-14-

Their post office has a special express mail service "when you absolutely positively have to make an overnight loan to your campaign".

The public is finding out about the House's perks, like free drugs. I hope that doesn't change. One thing the members don't need now is someone stopping the flow of Maalox.

Why can't we go back to those innocent days when politicians just took bribes?

Pundits predict this fall's contest will pit Bush versus Clinton...Barbara against Hillary in the Pillsbury Bakeoff.

Saddam is worried the United States may hit Iraq with our secret chemical weapon...the Arkansas chicken.

Talk about your land mines.

Secretary Cheney has assured me we have a sufficient number of F-117 Stealth fighters and nuclear subs in place as a precaution during Ted Kennedy's bachelor party.

-15-

A team of U.N. inspectors will supervise the dismantling of Ted Kennedy's little black book.

The press no longer tries to hide its preference for liberal politicians. Last night there was a bachelor party for Ted Kennedy...and Sarah McLendon popped out of the cake.

A jury granted a divorce to Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker on the grounds of irraconcilable eyeliner.

The Colt Manufacturing Company applied for bankruptcy. The final straw was losing the contract to distribute free guns to D.C. (New York) schools.

Had a little trouble in Japan with the Vomit Thing.

My goal with Japan is someday to pass out on a level playing field.

This isolationist mood has to stop. Dick Gephardt awarded me 3 points for barfing on a foreign head of state...and an extra 5 point bonus because he was Japanese.

Dave --

I called Sharon this morning to catch you with an idea we're batting around over here in Research, but I guess it's been a hectic day over there and you've been hard to reach.

Re Gridiron: Bob mentioned that the Pres wants to do something a little different this year besides stand-up. Well, I was thinking: Given that this is a Carson crowd -- and since Carson is to leave in a couple months -- POTUS could do a take-off on Carnac the Magnificent. Bob said he also thought of this and mentioned this briefly in the 9:00 meeting. My thinking was that Marlin would be the most logical "Ed." He's "pudgy," and he and POTUS have the same kind of rapport that Johnny and Ed have.

This would be a really easy set-up -- no elaborate costumes needed -- simple props. POTUS and Marlin could share the podium or they could set-up a simple desk and two chairs on the stage.

We could rename Carnac -- maybe making POTUS' character Carnac's brother, just back from overseas, "Bushwac the Electable" (Tarmac the Political, or something). Marlin could do the same set-up as Ed -- i.e., "these envelopes have been sealed in the House Bank vault since last year . . ." or whatever. Marlin could repeat back all the answers like Ed always does. POTUS could chime back things to Marlin "Thank you, twinkie breath." At the end, Marlin could do the "I hold in my hand the last envelope . . ." After the crowd cheers, POTUS could do the Carson-type line "May a Congressional representative date your sister . . ." or something along those lines.

The jokes we have now could be easily converted to the envelope answer-question format. One envelope idea: "THE HOUSE BANK" Marlin: "The House Bank." POTUS: [Opens envelope, blows inside -- and pours out white powder (or white powder flies out when he blows inside)]. And then POTUS makes some crack (no pun intended).

We have other ideas if you want to go with it. Bob thought it would be great if we could actually get Ed McMahon here to be himself. There'd be some great jokes to make about that -- something about Ed losing his job in a couple of months -- Bush doing what he can for unemployment . . . We could check with McMahon's scheduler to see if he's available, in the country, etc. I think the audience would get a huge kick out of something like this. More importantly, Ann Richards and Lamar Alexander are going to be great -- the President has to be great, too. The Carnac formula is easy to handle; there wouldn't be any fear of POTUS messing up. Plus, it fits with his personality -- and with the President's desire to be funny in some way other than stand-up. And most important of all: it's something great that we can pull together quickly.

Garth Brooks on the cover of Time. Garth Brooks is a friend of mine. Lamar, you are no Garth Brooks.

Lane, good to see you tonight. You know, one of the tabloids is working on a story about Lane Kirkland and three members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union....Lane says he was just trying to "look for the label".

A lot's happened since the last Gridiron -- Cosmonaut Sergi Krikalev returned to earth after ten months in orbit. What must have gone through his mind when he saw the dramatic changes in less than a year. The collapse of the Soviet Union, Gorbachev out of power, Yeltsin in charge.... super market scanners.

Boy, poor Boris Yeltsin. There's a guy truly under siege - - taking shots from his right and his left -- his popularity in the tank -- presiding over an economy on the skids. Whew! Am I glad I'm not in his shoes.

Speaking of hard times, let me just say one thing tonight before I go any further. Not my recession -- out of the country.

answer to Caple
Tom Foley's had a rough couple of weeks. Asked him how he was going to handle it all. He said "Mr. President, I'm going to Disney World!"

(Take a Sip of Water) Excuse me, Ann [Richards]. Silver foot went down the wrong way.

Gen. Scowcroft ... effervescing as usual.

"effervescent as always" Gen. Scowcroft

Dick Cheney did a great job with operation Desert Storm..... not so sure about <sup>①</sup>Operation Big Splash. Dick Cheney's latest press conference

New Secretary of Transportation, Andy Card (?).....

Congratulations to Alan Simpson - new feminist poster boy.

Jerry Brown, is he up here somewhere? Don't see him. Too bad, would have liked to have seen him in that white tie and turtleneck. Evening gown for J.B.

And of course, my respects to the Silver Fox. No red hairdo tonight. Seriously, to do what she does for the country, her campaign against illiteracy, working with so many issues, she's been a terrific first lady who's raised a terrific family.
(pause for applause) And she bakes some of the best cookies you've ever tasted.

Some of the entertainment tonight reminded me of my visit to the Country Music Awards. Heard Garth Brooks down there. Seen Tom mentioned he was going to get rid of some those ostentatious perks that Congress has. No more freebies at the pharmacy, no more free passes to the Health Club and no free rubdowns from the House Masseuse -- Ty Collins.

Jack Germond, at it again. I didn't think there was anything that could top last year's Energizer Bunny Suit. Until I saw him backstage in his new Speedo!

This political year has been pretty exciting. It's got something for everyone -- sex, drugs, and rock and roll. And that's just the Clinton campaign.

I'm am concerned though about what are kids are seeing on the tube -- all this violence -- like the Clinton-Brown debates.

Did you see the last one? It was produced by Don King. Bill Clinton replaced one of his handlers with a cut man.

But it's not just Bill and Jerry, candidates from both parties have engaged in vicious name-calling...like "corrupt", "liar", "hypocrite", "incumbent". in this campaign

And no one is immune from campaign gaffes. I really think that Pat Buchanan may have hurt himself in Michigan when he started his speech with, "Ich bin ein Mercedes owner".

But there has been some interesting new technology -- got to give Jerry Brown a lot of credit for his success with that 1-800 number. Of course I don't quite get Clinton's [ flip over card that reads: 1-976-CLINTON.] But I hear he's getting a lot of calls. Clinton's new # - 1-976-Clinton

Others are following in his footsteps. Pat's was a flop: [flip over card that reads 1-800-MER-CEDES) and my very own Dick Darman -- looking for help on reducing the deficit [flip over card 1-800-BIG-DICK] [ Ok maybe 1-800-END-PORK ]

CONCLUSION

Other jokes that you marked that didn't pass our scientifically selected laugh sample:

Paul Tsongas pulled out of the race. The other candidates are relieved. It was distracting debating a man who reeked of chlorine.

This year's political commercials have been ugly. The only thing worse would be the pictures from Yassar Arafat's wedding night.

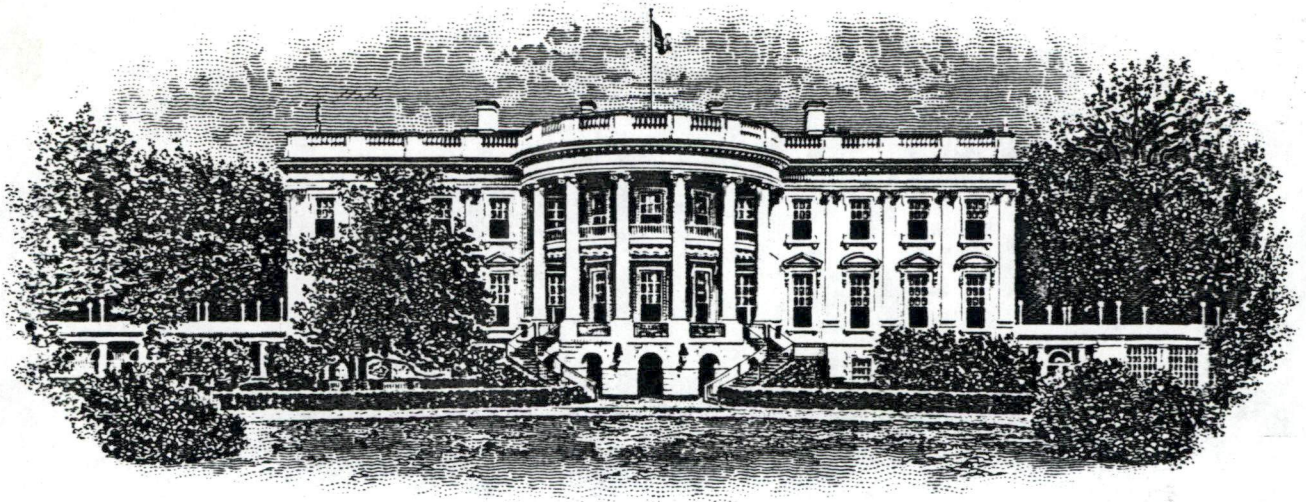

And what about that Ross Perot. It seems he may be a little out of touch with the average American. He wants Greenpeace to declare the polo pony an endangered species.

Ross has the only penny loafers with Krugerrands.

Last week he tossed a tax-free municipal bond across the Potomac.

Jerry Brown has an abrasive personality. He's the only person ever to make Mother Teresa's enemies list.

The press no longer tries to hide its preference for liberal politicians. Last night there was a bachelor party for Ted Kennedy...and Sarah McLendon popped out of the cake.

MEMORANDUM FOR DAVID DEMAREST

FROM: MICHELE NIX
SUBJECT: GRIDIRON

More schtuff:

- The Gridiron Club now has three "candidate used-to-be's" confirmed for the dinner -- Moe, Larry, and Curly (I mean, Buchanan, Tsongas, and Kerry). They still don't know about Shemp -- Harkin. Thomasson suspects Clinton will not come - - but will let us know as soon as he hears. Brown is a definite no.
- Lamar is planning a medley of country music songs -- with the words rewritten to parody Ann Richards, Clinton, the Dems in general. He's also doing a "light teasing" of the President -- nothing bad. The last song is supposed to address both sides -- in a way that will end the performance on a "unified high note."
- Thomasson said the show's songs and skits are still being reworked -- so he can't send me over any of the sheet music or scripts just yet.
- I talked to Ray Siller again -- he wrote a little this weekend. He already had some Japan (re barf) jokes. He's sending those anyway in case we change our minds about using them. He's aware of the Tsongas et al. update and will work on some jokes about them. Siller wrote a letter to POTUS early last week re doing a top ten list (along the lines of the Top 10 reasons why I should be re-elected). I told him that the idea had been broached a couple weeks ago. He said he'd just wait for a go ahead from the President before doing it -- unless we want him to go ahead with it.

MEMORANDUM FOR DAVID DEMAREST

FROM: MICHELE NIX
SUBJECT: GRIDIRON DINNER

Here's the poopski so far: POTUS will address the Gridiron Club on Monday at the end of the evening's program. The program is set up as follows:

- The festivities begin with the traditional Speech in the Dark by the Club's new president, Dan K. Thomasson of Scripps-Howard (and Andy Ferguson's old boss). (Last year's president was "Budge" Sperling of the Christian Science Monitor.
- Marine Band enters, plays, exits
- Opening musical number
- Recognitions
  - Install the new president (Edgar Allen Poe of New Orleans Time-Picayune presents ivory gavel to Thomasson)
  - Introduce new members
  - Acknowledge some member of the audience
- Democratic skit (20-30 minutes of song and dance)
- Democratic response by Ann Richards (boo)
- Republican skit (another 20-30 minutes of song and dance)
- Republican response by Lamar Alexander (yea). Thomasson told me that Alexander is probably going to steal the show with what he's planning -- but he didn't want to tell me what that was. We should be joke-prepared.)
- Closing musical number

- Toast to the President ("In 107 years, the Gridiron Club has had but one toast -- 'Ladies and Gentleman -- to the President of the United States!'"
- President's response
- Singing of Auld Lang Syne

I'm getting a rehearsal book of all the numbers to be performed. Thomasson says this years theme songs are: "Guys and Dolls" (Democrats) and "Macy's" (Republicans). There's going to be a song about Quayle and about Reagan.

I called Ray Siller and Doug Gamble last week. They both said they should have something for us today or tomorrow.

I've included the following:

- Head table list (to date)
- Guest list (to date)
- List of new members
- Bio of new Gridiron pres -- Thomasson
- Bio of last year's pres -- Sperling
- Copy of Radio and TV Correspondents' Dinner
- Copy of last year's remarks
- A couple of Nexis references of Gridiron -- could be joke material
- Blurb re Mark Hanna re ivory gavel
