Legal and religious leaders receive honors

PRESIDENT BUSH TO SPEAK AT 77TH COMMENCEMENT

President Bush returns to Texas May 16 to speak at SMU's 77th annual Commencement and to receive the Doctor of Humane Letters degree. He is the first U.S. president to speak at an SMU graduation.

Other honorary degree recipients are Herma Hill Kay ('56), dean of the Law School, University of California-Berkeley; and Jaroslav Pelikan, Sterling Professor of History and Religious Studies, Yale University.

SMU expects to award about 1,870 undergraduate, graduate, and professional degrees at individual school or departmental ceremonies throughout the day. Bush speaks at the University-wide ceremony at 10 a.m. in Moody Coliseum.

Seating at the ceremony in Moody is limited to those with tickets, which are available to graduates, their families, faculty members, and special guests. Questions about tickets should be directed to the SMU Office of Lecture Programs at 214-692-4315.

George Herbert Walker Bush served his first presidency as a student at Phillips Academy in Andover, Massachusetts, where he was elected president of the senior class. Later, as a U.S. Navy pilot, he received the Distinguished Flying Cross. He graduated from Yale University in 1948 with a major in economics and with Phi Beta Kappa honors.

In 1966 Bush was elected in Texas to the U.S. House of Representatives and was re-elected in 1968. President Nixon appointed him ambassador to the United Nations for 1971-72. After Bush chaired the Republican National Committee in 1973-74, President Ford named him chief of the U.S. Liaison Office in Peking, People's Republic of China. He returned to Washington to direct the Central Intelligence Agency. Bush served as vice president in the Reagan administration and was elected president in 1988.

Herma Hill Kay, a magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa graduate of SMU, studied at the University of Chicago Law School when women made up less than 5 percent of law school enrollments. After serving as clerk to Chief Justice Traynor of the California Supreme Court, in 1960 she joined the law faculty at Berkeley. The author of numerous books on sex discrimination and divorce law reform, she has been a leader in family law issues and is a frequent adviser in the drafting of legislation affecting family law. As president of the Association of American Law Schools, she advocated the increased integration of women and minority members into the legal academic establishment. SMU is awarding her the Doctor of Laws degree.

Jaroslav Pelikan has been instrumental in building understanding between Protestants and Catholics, and between Christians and Jews. At his urging, the National Conference of Christians and Jews established a center for theological dialogue among U.S. religious leaders.

Pelikan was educated at Concordia Theological Seminary and the University of Chicago. He has published nearly 30 books, among them his award-winning The Riddle of Roman Catholicism and a definitive five-volume work on the history of Christian doctrine. He has served the National Endowment for the Humanities in several advisory roles. SMU is awarding Pelikan the Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Nominations for honorary degree recipients are submitted to a Faculty Senate committee, whose recommendations must be approved by the SMU Board of Trustees.

TRUSTEE WINS NATIONAL AWARD FOR LEADERSHIP

Ruth Collins Altshuler ('44) has won the nationwide Distinguished Service Award in Trusteeship. The Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges presents the award annually to one trustee from an independent institution of higher education and another from the public sector.

One of SMU's longest-serving trustees, Altshuler has a tenure of more than 20 years on the Board. SMU President A. Kenneth Pye praised her for leadership in helping the University to

PRESIDENT BUSH TO ADDRESS SMU'S 77TH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

DALLAS (SMU) -- The White House announced yesterday that President Bush will deliver the address at Southern Methodist University's 77th annual commencement on May 16.

Bush's name was submitted last year to the Faculty Senate committee responsible for determining the recipients of honorary degrees to be awarded at commencement each year. Following the usual procedure, Bush's nomination for a doctor of humane letters degree was approved by the SMU Board of Trustees. At the request of SMU President A. Kenneth Pye, Board of Trustees Chair Ray Hunt issued an invitation to Bush to deliver the commencement address.

President Pye said, "We consider it important to have a commencement speaker whom our graduates will remember on this important occasion in their lives. It is for this reason that we had Ross Perot as our commencement speaker last year; Roy Huffington, U.S. ambassador to Austria in 1990; and Jim Lehrer, co-host of the PBS MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour in 1989." Each of these individuals also received an honorary degree from SMU during the commencement ceremony at which they delivered the address.

Seating at the ceremony, which is scheduled at 10 a.m. in Moody Coliseum, will be limited to those with tickets. A letter explaining ticket distribution will be mailed to members of the graduating class and faculty members by April 20. Tickets will be issued to graduates, their families, members of the faculty and special guests.

Inquiries concerning ticket distribution may be directed to the SMU Office of Lecture Programs at 692-4315.

Bush to speak at SMU commencement

WASHINGTON — President Bush will deliver the commencement address at Southern Methodist University on May 16, the White House announced Tuesday.

SMU officials declined to release details about the appearance.

"We really can't say anything until we receive confirmation from the White House" that the president has accepted the university's invitation, said Ann Abbas with SMU's news and information office. "We're hoping he'll be able to come."

Mr. Bush also will speak at graduation ceremonies this spring at Florida International University in Miami on April 27, the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., on May 17 and the U.S. Naval Acade in Annapolis, Md., on May 27.

As president, Mr. Bush has gi commencement addresses at th other Texas universities: Te A&M University at College Stat Texas A&I University at Kingsv and the University of Texas at tin.

About 40 law students marched around the Law Quad with signs of protest Wednesday to express their objections to the SMU tenure policy and the negative tenure recommendation received by Ndiva Kofele-Kale in particular.

Kofele-Kale, SMU's first black law professor eligible for tenure, received a negative tenure recommendation from Paul Rogers, dean of the SMU School of Law, after he received a positive recommendation from his tenure committee and the tenured faculty of the law school.

The protest, which lasted an hour, was organized by the Black Law Students Association.

The BLSA stated its reaso objectives in a prepared sta that read as follows: "It is th tion of the BLSA at SMU Sc Law that SMU's tenure po fundamentally unfair."

President George Bush will deliver SMU's 77th annual commencement convocation address on May 16.

Bush is also scheduled to receive a doctor of humane letters degree. At the request of President A. Kenneth Pye in March, Ray Hunt, chairman of the SMU Board of Trustees, invited Bush to deliver the address.

Pye said, "We consider it important to have a commencement speaker whom our graduates will remember on this important occasion in their lives."

Bush is drafting a speech that will have a theme common to all institutions where he will deliver commencement speeches, although its specific message has not yet been developed, the White House press office reported Wednesday.

The convocation ceremony is scheduled for 10 a.m. May 16 in the 9,037 seat Moody Coliseum. Tickets, which will be distributed to graduates, their families and members of the faculty and special guests, are required for attendence to the ceremony.

In past years attendance at the ceremony has not required tickets.

Other specific security measures have not been announced.

The reaction from many students reached Tuesday was generally one of surprise and approval.

"It's going to be interesting," Doug Sedwick, senior engineering major, said. "I've never heard someone like Bush speak in person."

Dedman Sen. Ellen Fulton said, "I think it's an honor to SMU that the president of the United States is coming."

Other students are not as thrilled. Barbara Kilian, senior communications major, said, "I think it's a joke he's coming. I think he just wants to get SMU students' parents to vote for him."

Committee examining 77th commencement

A special committee has been appointed by Provost Ruth Morgan to examine issues raised in conjunction with SMU's 77th annual commencement on May 16. The White House announced Tuesday that President Bush will become the first U.S. president to deliver the commencement address at SMU.

Mark Sherouse, vice provost for administration, will chair the committee which is involved with planning the event and establishing relevant priorities and policies.

"The committee will examine all issues and propose solutions to the Provost. I would expect no decisions to be reached or announced for at least a week. There are many guidelines and requirements, and we need to relate these many issues to the customary implementation of commencement," he said.

Seating at the Moody Coliseum ceremony, which is scheduled at 10 a.m., will be limited to those with tickets. A letter explaining ticket distribution will be mailed to members of the graduating class and faculty members later this month. Tickets will be issued to graduates, their families, members of the faculty, special guests, and others who may be accommodated.

The committee includes Brad Carter, political science; Richard Franco, student activities; John Hall, registrar; William H. Lively, development, alumni relations, and public affairs; Robbie Robinson, DPS; Julie Wiksten, conference services; Valerie Bell, lecture programs; and Jeanne Whitman, public affairs.

Bush's name was submitted last year to the Faculty Senate committee responsible for determining the recipients of honorary degrees to be awarded at commencement each year. Following the usual procedure, Bush's nomination for a doctor of humane letters degree was approved by the Board of Trustees. At the request of President Pye, Board of Trustees Chair Ray Hunt issued an invitation to Bush to deliver the commencement address.

President Pye said, "We consider it important to have a commencement speaker whom our graduates will remember on this important occasion in their lives. It is for this reason that we had Ross Perot as our commencement speaker last year; Roy Huffington, U.S. ambassador to Austria in 1990; and Jim Lehrer, co-host of the PBS MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour in 1989." Each received an honorary degree from SMU during the commencement ceremony at which they delivered the address.

Richard Mason named Fulbright Scholar

Richard O. Mason, a professor of management information sciences in the Cox School of Business, has been awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for the 1992-93 academic year.

Mason, who is the Carr P. Collins Distinguished Professor of Management and Information Sciences, will spend four months in Sweden at the University of Umeå conducting research on the role of information technology in a global economy and teaching doctoral research seminars. Mason holds a doctorate in business administration from the University of California-Berkeley; he has been teaching at SMU since 1985. He was listed among the top 35 management information systems consultants in the world by Information Week magazine in 1988.

Mason has written numerous books about management strategy and policy, including The Politics of the 1980 Census: Policy Amid Turbulence, which was named Outstanding Academic Book - Political Science by the American Library Association in 1983.

During his academic career, Mason has received several grants to do research for U.S. government departments such as the Census Bureau, Forest Service, and NASA. His professional memberships include the National Research Committee of the Society for Information Management, the National Commission on Admission to Graduate Management Education, and the International Conference on Information Systems, for which he is co-chair of the 1992 meeting in Dallas. Mason is an editor or board member for several scholarly journals; he is co-founder and associate editor of Information Society: An International Journal and associate editor of MIS Quarterly.

The U.S. government's international educational exchange program, widely known as the Fulbright Program, was established in 1946 under legislation introduced by former Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas. The program is designed to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and other countries. Scholarships are awarded to American students, teachers, and scholars to study, teach, lecture, and conduct research abroad, and to citizens of other countries to engage in similar activities in the U.S.

Duke to grant Pye honorary degree

Duke University will award President A. Kenneth Pye an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the University's May 17 commencement exercises. Pye is one of five to be recognized by the Durham, N.C., University.

Also receiving honorary degrees are research biologist James D. Ebert, children's rights advocate Marian Wright Edelman, electrical engineer Robert R. Everett, and Durham community service leader Elna B. Spaulding.

Pye served as chancellor, counsel, professor, and dean of the law school at Duke before accepting the presidency at SMU. As chancellor, Pye was credited for guiding Duke through a difficult financial period.

Six chemistry students present research papers

Six SMU chemistry students presented research papers at an international conference sponsored by the American Chemical Society this week in San Francisco.

"It is a rare privilege for undergraduates to be able to present their research findings before such an audience, which includes chemists from across the United States and many foreign countries," said Edward Biehl, chair of the Department of Chemistry.

"We're excited that we have students of a sufficient caliber to tackle difficult research projects, understand the processes involved, and present their findings at an international conference. To have one such student is great, but to have six is truly impressive," Biehl said.

The six students, junior and senior chemistry majors, were among less than 100 undergraduates presenting research papers. About 3,000 papers were presented in all, Biehl explained.

The six who presented their papers are: Jonathan Burton, a senior from Dallas; Christopher Claypool, a junior from Columbus, Ind.; Jeffrey McNeil, a senior from Houston; Matthew Morgan, a junior from Oklahoma City; Khanh Trang Nguyen, a senior from Dallas; and Long Tran, a junior from San Antonio who lives in Garland.

Bush: poor choice for commencement

ERIC CHEYFITZ

The invitation that SMU has extended to George Bush to give its 1992 commencement address is one sign of the absence of vision that is currently making our university community such a demoralizing place to be.

Put simply, the invitation to Bush, along with the official "welcome home" to former Gov. Bill Clements, the depression in faculty salaries while the football program is allowed to run enormous deficits, tenure denials to talented professors who had the unanimous support of their departments, and the problem we are having retaining some of our most gifted students (because they find the overall student environment so anti-intellectual), raises the question of what SMU stands for.

Does it stand for anything, beyond financial survival? I would like to approach this question by asking: What does President Bush stand for? Does he stand for anything, beyond his own electability, beyond, that is, the accumulation of enough political capital to insure his political survival?

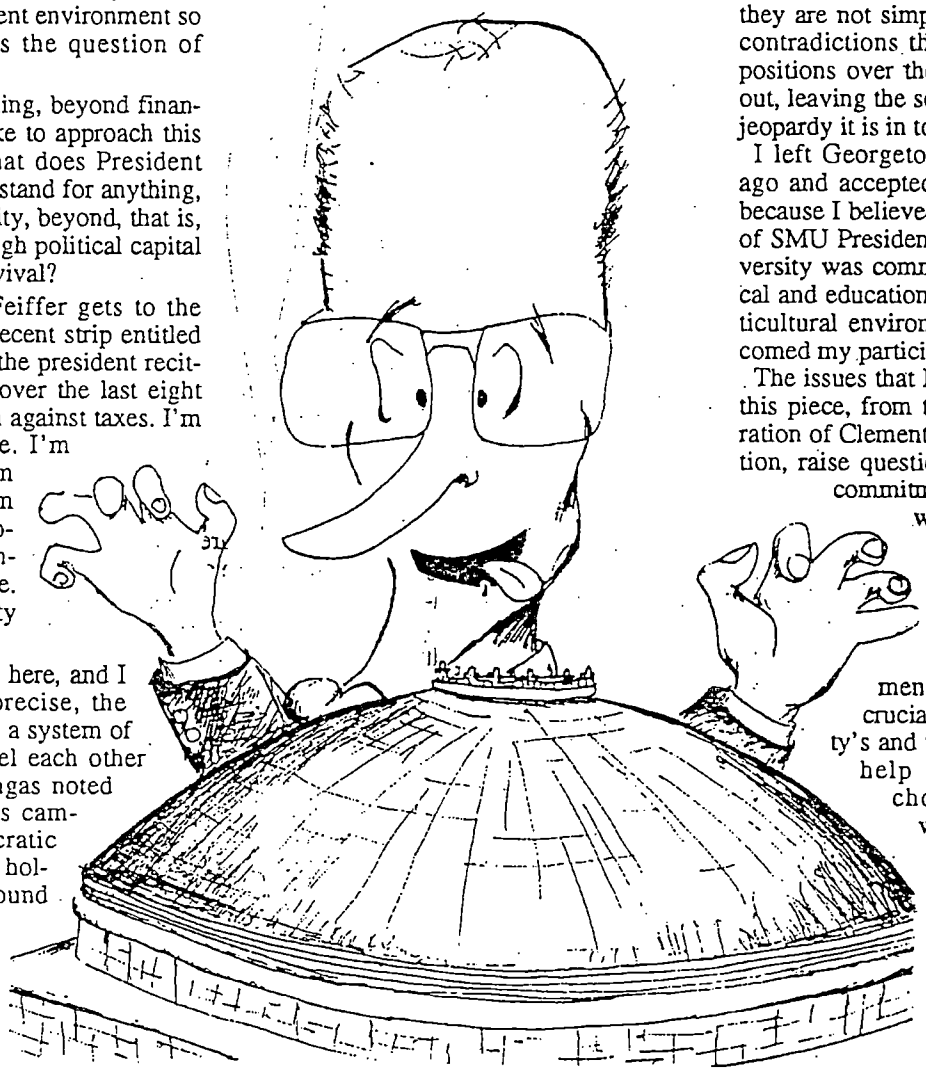
The cartoonist Jules Feiffer gets to the heart of the matter in a recent strip entitled "Bushie," where we see the president reciting his political agenda over the last eight years: "I'm for taxes. I'm against taxes. I'm pro-choice. I'm pro-life. I'm for civil rights. I'm against civil rights. I'm pro-environment. I'm pro-development. I'm a conservative. I'm a moderate. Read my polls. I'm putty in your hands."

As Feiffer portrays him here, and I think the portrayal is precise, the president is no more than a system of contradictions that cancel each other out. He is, as Paul Tsongas noted repeatedly while he was campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, hollow at his center, the sound without fury signifying nothing.

The self-proclaimed "education president" has done absolutely nothing for education, except help distort the mandates of the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Bush's absence of positive achievement in this area makes the conferring on him of an honorary doctorate ironic.

And what deepens the irony is that after listening to the president, our graduates—some immediately, some after further schooling—will enter an economy that, in significant part because of the current administration's lack of care for it, they will find hostile to their aspirations.

What sense does it make, then, to invite George Bush to be the center of such a crucial event in the life of the university? As quoted in The Daily Campus of Thursday, April 9, President Pye gave the following reason for the invitation: "We consider it important to have a commencement speaker whom our graduates will remember on this important occasion in their lives."



The emphasis in Pye's statement is on the memorability of the speaker, not on what he or she might stand for or speak about at a difficult time of transition in both the country's and the university's history. The emphasis is on form, not content. It is a version of "read my polls."

The choice of George Bush to receive an honorary doctorate and deliver the commencement address seems to represent a desire on the university's part to be visible nationally so that it will be "elected" by prospective students. We—students, faculty, and staff—can appreciate this desire because as members of the university community we are dependent on it, economically in the first instance. And so the difficulty we are having right now recruiting and retaining students must disturb all of us.

But visibility and electability must be based on a coherent, committed vision if they are not simply to become a system of contradictions that, like President Bush's positions over the years, cancel each other out, leaving the social sphere in the extreme jeopardy it is in today.

I left Georgetown University two years ago and accepted a professorship at SMU because I believed that under the leadership of SMU President A. Kenneth Pye the university was committed to a program of fiscal and educational integrity in a truly multicultural environment and that SMU welcomed my participation in such a program.

The issues that I raised at the beginning of this piece, from the all too easy reincorporation of Clements to the problems of retention, raise questions about the university's commitment to this program, about what kind of an educational vision it wants to project in the nation, about what kind of an identity, if any, it wants to claim.

The choice of a commencement speaker at such a crucial time in both the university's and the nation's history cannot help but be symbolic. The choice of President Bush, with his demonstrated lack of commitment to social justice, of which education is a necessary component, is not a good sign, either of the way SMU is thinking about itself or the way it would like others to consider it.

It was with great disappointment that I read Professor of Statistics Campbell Read's plans to organize a peaceful demonstration in front of Moody Coliseum on the day of commencement to protest President Bush's visit to our university.

Read justifies this protest by citing Bush's "recent resistance to commit his attendance at this summer's Environmental Summit in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, which Read considers a lack of concern for environmental issues" (April 9).

Such a protest, instigated and organized by members of the SMU community, would reflect poorly on the university and exhibit a lack of respect for the graduates and their families, for whom commencement marks a time of celebration.

President Bush was not invited with the hopes he might deliver a charged "political" speech, saturated with rhetoric aimed at persuading the guests in Moody that conservative ideology is tantamount to sliced bread.

The graduates will not be lining up that Saturday morning to march into a Bush/Quayle rally with stake signs in hand. Their parents won't be chanting "Bush! Bush!" while gingerly writing large checks to the Bush re-election campaign.

No, that morning, as seniors, we will be formally recognized for our achievements and have had the privilege of having the president of the United States speak a few encouraging and thoughtful words at our college graduation.

Granted, in this election year, we may witness several groups outside the university both protesting and supporting the president. But as hosts to the president, it would be disheartening if members of our own community displayed such behavior.

While freedom of speech is paramount, I would hope respect for the graduates and their families on this day might be strongly considered by Read and the group of faculty members he is cooperating with to organize the demonstration.

I am confident that as faculty, they too would agree that recognizing the graduates takes priority to any other sideshow.

Fret not over Bush at Moody Coliseum

STEPHEN STALLCUP

"Fret not thyself over the ungodly," the psalmist tells us. Words to remember on Commencement Day.

There has been in recent days no small amount of mumbling, from curmudgeonly and other quarters of our fair university, over the announcement that George Bush will be delivering the commencement address at this May's graduation.

What in some circles (viz. Arnold Evans and his cronies) has elicited near-orgasmic responses, has, in others (viz. Campbell Read and his cohorts) brought forth near-apocalyptic shrieks of horror and threats (promises?) protests outside Moody Coliseum.

It has been bandied about by some of my more progressive colleagues that any sentient person should be nothing short of mortified that our fair university has chosen to inflict on its graduates a man whose misdeeds are as notorious as they are legion.

His stated positions, when they are either comprehensible or static, on such issues as taxation, abortion, human rights, the environment, the arts, and education, leave, it cannot be denied, a lot to be desired.

We should bear in mind, however, that George Bush is being invited only to give the commencement address — not to join the President's Leadership Council.

In fact, his appearance at SMU is a signal occurrence and a surprising honor. Given that presidents have had rather poor track records in Dallas and that Bush is likely to gain few votes from an audience generally predisposed to vote for him anyway, his visit to the Hilltop is apt to be much less political than might be supposed. Indeed, Bush has little to gain and, if people actually listen to him, a great deal to lose.

We should, then, anticipate the president's speech with no illusions.

If nothing else, his appearance will provide the opportunity for many of us actually to see the man for whom we voted four years ago (breaking in our virgin voter registration cards) and to read his lips, up close and in person, as it were.

The content of Bush's speech should surprise no one — neither his most ardent detractors nor anyone who has ever heard a commencement address. The nacreous prose, churned out lovingly by some anonymous White House hack, will, fortunately, be political only insofar as any speech by the president is inherently political. Though Bush may wave the flag a bit, it is doubtful that he will wrap himself in it.

Further, the commencement address has evolved into its own genre, and Bush's will probably be one of the most normative examples ever written. If he can get through it without telling us that we stand on the shoulders of giants or that we are the future of this nation or (God forbid) that we are all points of light in our own right, then we should sit up and take notice.

And, indeed, we should notice what it is our president is saying. He is, after all and like it or not, the president of the United States.

The dictum of that great American philosopher of the 20th century Will Rogers that "You can't please everybody all of the time" is especially applicable in the selection of a commencement speaker.

If those nice Wellesley girls from good families were upset last year that the innocent Barbara Bush — Mrs. Claus reincarnated in faux pearls and polyester — was chosen to speak for them, then who can you pick?

Judging from the criticisms lodged against the Great White Father from Kennebunkport, certainly none of the last few presidents could be chosen.

Indeed, only the laconic Calvin Coolidge would have delivered a wholly acceptable speech: short and dull (and without making up strange words such as "normalcy" to throw at his audience).

This is not, by any means, to assert that protests, though questionable in their etiquette, are wholly inappropriate and should be forbidden.

It is certainly doubtful that George Bush would want to impede the progress of anyone who wants to dress up in a heavy black gown and dance around in the May sun in order to exercise his or her first amendment rights.

Watching them should give the Secret Service something constructive to do, and those of us reposing in the air-conditioned recesses of Moody Coliseum, rapt attention focused on the dulcet tones of our nation's leader, can rest assured that at least some of our no-new-tax money is being well spent.

Look! boys and girls: Our president is coming! Our President is coming! The flag is passing by.

So, if we choose not to join in the singing of the national anthem, we can at least take off our hats.

Commencement panel to handle security, seating

Group will arrange distribution of graduation ceremony tickets

By CHRISTINE LOWRANCE
Contributor to The Daily Campus

A special committee has been appointed by SMU Provost Ruth Morgan to examine issues related to the scheduled visit and address by President George Bush at May commencement.

Security precautions, accommodation of the media and other facets of Bush's visit will have a bearing on the commencement, Morgan said.

Mark Sherouse, vice provost and committee chairman, said the committee is struggling now with issues of equity and how to most effectively manage and communicate the ticketing policy.

Seating at commencement, scheduled for 10 a.m. May 16, will be ticketed, Sherouse said. A letter explaining ticket distribution will be mailed to graduating students and faculty members later this month.

"Given the size of Moody Coliseum and the physical constraints we must address, there will be limits on the number of tickets available to graduating students and their families," Sherouse said. "Obviously, our highest priority in these matters must be graduating students and their families."

> "There will be limits on the number of tickets ... Obviously, our highest priority in these matters must be graduating students and their families."
> — Mark Sherouse, vice provost

Bill Lively, vice president for university advancement and committee member, said there are certain things a university, college or organization must do when the seated president comes to speak.

"It's a rare opportunity, but you have to bend the rules to accommodate," Lively said. "Our first objective is trying to get as many tickets to students as we can."

SMU security policies will also have to change to comply with Secret Service and White House policies, Lively said.

"Although a number of changes will be required, our goal is to maintain as much as possible of our customary commencement," Sherouse said. "Commencement is one of the things that SMU does best."

Sherouse said the committee is examining all relevant issues and will report its recommendations later this week to the provost.

Others on the committee include Brad Carter, chief marshall of commencement and associate professor of political science; Richard Franco, senior class president; John Hall, registrar; Robbie Robinson, SMU Department of Public Safety chief; Julie Wiksten, coordinator of conference services; Valerie Bell, director of university lecture programs; Jeanne Whitman, director of university relations; Roland Rainey, of the athletic department; and Mike Perez, assistant director of physical plant.

COMMENCEMENT

Dissent should not be quelled

The delivery of this year's commencement address by President Bush will obviously be a significant event for the campus and its graduates. In keeping with the need for openness and dialogue on a university campus, voices of dissent should not be quelled, but instead recognized as an integral part of the politicized environment Bush's visit will undoubtedly create.

President Bush's presence at SMU will not only be an opportunity for him to share his (or his speechwriter's) words of inspiration for this year's graduates and campaign for the presidency, it will by its very nature be, despite any assurances to the contrary, an inherently political event.

If members of the university and Dallas communities choose to express their dissatisfaction with Bush's policies — as some on campus have already said they will — then our community should allow them the right to do so.

Demonstrations opposing and supporting specific or general actions by Bush will inevitably surface and SMU should commit to more than simply allowing demonstrators to express their sentiments. Allowing demonstrations to be located across the street from Moody Coliseum, where the event will take place, is necessary if our community values freedom of expression despite, what some might consider, the embarrassing content of the demonstrators' messages.

Protests should not be considered a blight on campus that demonstrate a lack of respect for the speaker, the graduates or their families. Instead, they should be viewed as healthy expressions of political sentiments and convictions. Protests are an expression of civic concern and responsibility and the presence of the president of the United States is an excellent opportunity to vent opinions.

On a more unfortunate note, however, the focus of this year's commencement ceremonies will be shifted to Bush, rather than remaining on the graduates themselves. The presence of Bush during an election year raises the probability that the event will turn into a political rally.

Those who choose to attend the ceremonies will also face the additional security and organizational burdens involved when a U.S. president delivers a speech to a crowd of people. Any possibility of relaxed or traditional commencement ceremonies has been decimated.

Only a few deny that the presence of Bush at SMU is an honor. Now SMU must realize that by choosing a highly political figure of great stature to deliver an important address, it must also recognize voices of dissent and their freedom to deliver alternative messages.

COMMENTARY

What a wonderful graduation present!

DAVID BILLS

Were any of you planning on attending graduation this year? This question is directed at everyone on this campus including graduating seniors. Before you make up your mind, here is a possible scenario for this year's commencement ceremonies.

Picture a beautiful spring day. The birds are singing and the sun is shining. After braving the protesters that have come to voice their opinions on everything but the graduation ceremony, a long line of people, including the four members of my immediate family, file through the metal detectors at Moody Coliseum tickets in hand, to see the 1992 class graduate.

Of course, my grandparents and friends are standing outside trying to buy tickets from scalpers since the tickets for each graduate had to be limited for the first time in SMU's history. Anyway, as the secret service operatives mill around, taking away all cameras from the spectators, Moody slowly (very slowly) fills to capacity.

After the few troublesome graduates who are unhappy with having the president give their commencement address are arrested and carted off to jail, then George Bush will appear to the tune of "Hail to the Chief" and his speech will get under way. Before this happens, security will first have to warn the audience not to make any sudden moves so as not to get shot while President Bush is on stage.

Bush will start to speak, say a few things about the war, that we are a point of light for the future of the United States and promptly leave. It will be a perfect proceeding from beginning to end.

I agree right now that this is an overstatement of what my graduation will probably be like, however, I feel it to be somewhat justified in feeling this way considering the way in which this commencement was pieced together.

First of all, there seems to be a few considerations which, to this point, have been less than fully thought out. The first of which is seating for our families and friends.

> "The fact is that George Bush is running for president this year. I don't mind the presence of George Bush, the president of the United States; but I do mind George Bush, candidate for the presidency."

After four years of hard work for my degrees and the ever-increasing amount of money that has been spent on my education, I feel somewhat justified in wondering how SMU can justify a limited number of tickets being granted to my commencement.

This is the first time this has ever been a consideration. Next, those that chose the speaker obviously did not consider the consequences of the security measures which promise to be be constraining to say the least, if not repressive. Another consideration is the public response to a president of the United States giving a commencement speech during an election year.

I feel this will draw non-involved parties into my graduation both in the form of protesters and supporters; there are people I do not want at my graduation. It should not be turned into a political proceeding. Finally, I think that Bush's presence will serve to alienate those who do not support him and who do not expect a political move to be a part of their graduation.

I want to point out that I do think that it is an honor to have the president of the United States speak at one's graduation; however, graduation is for the class that is graduating and their families, not for some special interest. The fact is that George Bush is running for president this year. I don't mind the presence of George Bush, the president of the United States; but I do mind George Bush, candidate for the presidency.

The main criticism in this commentary is that those who were responsible to my class chose not to inform us of their plans until after we had already made ours. Maybe a better understanding could have been reached as to the purpose and thinking behind the choice, and maybe some of our concerns could have been taken into account.

A month before graduation, when we have already made plans for our families and friends to come and when we are in the middle of the roughest point in the semester is not the time to discuss the good intentions of Chairman of the SMU Board of Trustees Ray Hunt or the selection committee.

Instead, there are now going to be numerous misunderstandings and resentments about the way in which the whole process was handled. Personally, that is not what I wanted for a graduation present.

ILL-PREPARED

Commencement attendance restricted

The decision by the university's special commencement committee limiting the amount of tickets available to each graduating student as a result of security, space and media requirements during George Bush's commencement appearance demonstrates the price the university must pay to play host to a U.S. president. It is obvious that the university is ill-prepared to accommodate an event of such magnitude.

Having Bush as a commencement speaker is an unusual event and has excited many graduating seniors and the university community. Yet graduation is primarily an event for students and their families to enjoy, not an event designed to increase the profile of the university.

As such, student input should have been included when deciding which commencement speaker to choose and the problems associated with hosting such a speaker. Unfortunately, students and their families have been pushed to the wayside in order for SMU to enjoy the high visibility it will attain from such an event.

The culmination of several years of education is an event to be celebrated by the entire family and limiting attendance to only the graduating student and four guests is truly sad. Many students had made plans to have their family members and close friends attend commencement, yet such plans were thwarted by the late announcement of our commencement speaker and the restrictive policies accompanying his presence.

Many have suggested that the ceremony be moved away from Moody Coliseum since its small size is the cause of the reduced number of tickets available for each student. Traditionally, commencement has been held in the confines of Moody, yet the special nature of this ceremony would justify relocation of the ceremony in order to accommodate more members of graduates' family.

Ownby Stadium had been mentioned as a possible candidate by the Commencement Committee. The larger capacity of Ownby would accommodate more people, yet Ownby was rejected since it is subject to weather problems and security hazards as it is an open-air forum.

Listening to George Bush is obviously an honor and a rare treat for the university. Yet, as the Senior Class Council noted in a letter sent to SMU President A. Kenneth Pye, "This will be the last memory of SMU for many students. If a bitter taste is left in their mouth, this will have a detrimental effect on their future relationship as alums of this university."

Graduation guest limit set at four

By SETH JOHNSON
Contributor to The Daily Campus

Graduating students may invite up to four guests to the the general commencement ceremony featuring President Bush as speaker, Mark Sherouse, vice provost, said.

Sherouse, chairman of the university's special commencement committee, said Tuesday that graduating students will receive four guests' tickets, upon request, and remaining tickets may be later distributed by means of a lottery. The details of the lottery have yet to be worked out, Sherouse said, however, the committee is scheduled to mail students information within a week.

The general commencement ceremony will be held May 16 in Moody Coliseum and will be the first SMU commencement to limit the number of guests.

"In order to ensure that graduates and their families can attend the event, commencement must be ticketed," Sherouse said. He added, however, that other commencement day events including the afternoon diploma presentations will be open as usual.

Because Moody Coliseum seats about 8,000 people for a lecture, and there are an estimated 1,500 graduating students, there is a pool of 7,500 tickets designated for those students and their guests, Sherouse said.

He said the other tickets will go to accomodate other university guests such as the stage party, faculty members, emeritus faculty, marshals, trustees, Golden Mustang reunion alumni, the symphony, ushers and others.

"It will be a tight fit, but we are doing our best to honor the pledge made earlier to give graduating students, their families and guests, the very highest priority," Sherouse said.

A statement released on behalf of the university's special commencement committee said the university also intends to televise the commencement in order to provide additional access to those who may not be able to obtain tickets.

Sherouse said the university's special commencement committee, had examined Ownby Stadium as a possible option to host the general commencement ceremony but decided against it although it would have accomodated more people. Of the difficulties expressed by the committee about Ownby Stadium were security concerns for Bush, problems with the sound system, and having to plan for a rain backup site in Moody.

Because of the four-guest restriction, graduating students have expressed discontent.

Meadows Sen. Richard Franco, who is a member of the commencement committee and president of the Senior Class Council, said he has sent a letter addressing graduating students' concerns to all members of the university's President's Executive Council.

The letter makes 10 points to reconsider the location to hold the general commencement ceremony. Among the points made, the letter stresses that Ownby Stadium allows more people to attend the ceremony and the significance of commencement for graduating students, not the additional cost, should be considered above all.

The letter states, "The university has obviously chosen to invite a commencement speaker who we do not have the resources to accommodate. Because no student input was solicited for this decision, the students and their families should not be penalized." The letter explains how families of graduating students have already incurred significant costs to attend the ceremony and should not be notified at three weeks before the event that they cannot attend the traditional general commencement ceremony.

The letter ends, stating, "This will be the last memory of SMU for many students. If a bitter taste is left in their mouth, this will have a detrimental effect on their future relationship as alums of this University."

SUBJ.: Information about Commencement tickets

DATE: April 24, 1992

A number of parents have been calling to protest the four ticket limit to the Commencement ceremony in Moody Coliseum. Several of them have been transferred several times which heightens their anger. We would like to suggest the following guidelines for people in your offices who receive these calls.

1) Please ask if the caller has been transferred to your number, and if they have, apologize for the inconvenience.

2) Take the caller's name, telephone number, and mailing address.

3) Tell the caller that you are transferring them, with apologies, one more time, to Ms. Valerie Bell, 692-4313, who can give them information about the ticket allocation and the events of the Commencement weekend.

4) Transfer the call to Valerie. If she is not available, the staff member should go back to the parent or caller and promise to have Ms. Bell return the call.

A number of parents are demanding to speak with the President. We cannot, of course, keep them from calling the President's office, but it is unlikely that the President will be able to take many of these calls in the next several days. However, he will respond in some way to each caller. Staff members should not volunteer that information, but, if pressed, they might offer to relay the caller's name, telephone number, and address to the President's office.

Should you have any questions about these guidelines or other matters relating to public inquiry about Commencement, please call me at 692-4207, or Jeanne Whitman at 987-7660.

COMMENTARY

Those of us 'of the very highest priority'

DANIEL LIM

As a graduating senior, I have become accustomed to taking many things about this university with a grain of salt. I am sure most other students feel the same way, yet we often neglect to address issues about this university which raise our concerns. Just look at how excited The DC gets when they are able to report on anything considered student activism.

By the same token, I am aware the university, in making its decisions, must take into consideration issues which the student population may not understand. But the latest decision to allow graduates only four tickets to the general commencement ceremony, along with the rhetoric that the administration has fed us, is just too much for me to stomach.

Vice Provost Mark Sherouse tells us the commencement committee has pledged to "give graduating students, their families and guests, the very highest priority" in its considerations for the general commencement. But four tickets does not cover my own parents and siblings, not to mention grandparents, extended family or close friends.

My family sacrificed a lot for me to attend this university for four years. Considering the consecutive years of increasing tuition, not to mention sacrifices my family made before I ever got to college, I think the university owes my family a little more respect than four tickets.

Sherouse tells us "in order to ensure that graduates and their families can attend the event, commencement must be ticketed ... " Who else is being assured attendance at our graduation by the ticketing? I will grant that when the President of the United States comes to town, certain other people will have to be invited to his appearance, but not at the expense of the graduates. If the alumni and other prominent members of Dallas want to attend our graduation, let them pay for the extra costs, let them have to make the sacrifices. Forcing me to make decisions about who will and will not attend my graduation is an insult to both me and my family.

"I will grant that when the President of the United States comes to town, certain other people will have to be invited to his appearance, but not at the expense of the graduates...forcing me to make decisions about who will and will not attend my graduation is an insult to both me and my family."

In a subsequent article, The DC noted how OSU hosted the president in their football stadium for commencement. During the past two years, Bush has also appeared at the graduation ceremonies of the University of Texas and Texas A&M. How is it, then, that our university does not have the administrative capabilities to cater to its graduates' concerns with the president attending an event which is supposed to represent the culmination of our academic achievement?

As a senior, I am frustrated about this ceremony which marks my efforts as an undergraduate. But I can imagine the increased frustration I would feel if I were one of those receiving graduate and professional degrees. We could have moved the ceremony to Reunion Arena or other places in Dallas, but certain "traditionalists" seemed to be concerned about moving SMU's graduation off-campus. So how do these "traditionalists" feel about belittling the interests of the graduates?

I am sure the administration would say our interests have not been belittled. Am I supposed to be thankful the university did not limit my allotment of tickets to two or three? When the university's special commencement committee says "the university intends to televise the commencement in order to provide additional access to those who may not be able to obtain tickets," who do they intend to huddle around the TVs? The SMU Board of Trustees? The marshals? The ushers? No, only those who were supposed to be included in the "very highest priority" category, our family and friends.

So what are we supposed to do? The university seems to have us in a very compromising position. Most of us are much too busy at this time of the year to organize our voices of discontent (I barely had the time to write this commentary). Even if we did, I am sure the university's special commencement committee, far-sighted body that it is, would tell us it is much too late to make changes in plans anyway.

So I guess we will just have to sit through the commencement ceremony with this bitter, final taste in our mouths to commemorate our years at this institution.

Or will we? What can we do? Boycott graduation? Ask the president not to come? Absurd, right? "That would be much too drastic."

Preparations progressing for Bush visit

By LAURA MARTIN
Contributor to The Daily Campus

As President Bush's arrival to SMU nears, preparations are being made for this year's 77th annual commencement ceremony May 16.

Bush visit may draw protestors, page 3.

Eligible students must turn in their requests for the limited number of tickets to the university registrar by 4 p.m. Friday, John Hall, university registrar, said. Graduates can only bring four guests to attend the ceremony in Moody Coliseum, he said.

According to Hall, an eligible student is one who has rented a graduation cap and gown and is a current May 1992 graduation candidate, an August 1991 or December 1991 graduate or a student whose petition has been approved.

There will be a random drawing for the remaining tickets Monday, he said. When the graduates request tickets, they also can enter their names in the random drawing, with the number of additional tickets they want. Through this process, a student could receive one or two extra tickets, he said, and if more were requested, the student's name will go back in the drawing.

Those students receiving extra tickets will be contacted, and all graduates can pick up their tickets May 6 through May 15 in the registration center with their student IDs, he said.

Hall said he does not anticipate that there will be many extra tickets, but it is hard to tell.

"I've personally only seen one person who hasn't asked for the entire allotment of four tickets," he said. "But, I really don't have any numbers as of yet."

Every seat will be used since this is a special commencement for the university, Hall said.

"Students need to turn in their requests by Friday, for once the tickets are all gone, they're just all gone," Hall said. "There will be no empty seats."

Because SMU has placed a limit on the number of tickets distributed, a simulcast of the commencement ceremony will be held in the Hughes-Trigg Student Center, Valerie Bell, director of SMU lecture programs, said.

The ceremony will be held in the 9,037 seat arena, and the special commencement committee is planning for an overflow, she said.

"If a graduate has a relative who doesn't like crowds, the option of closed-circuit television is perfect," Bell said.

The event will be simulcast in the Theater and the Ballroom, Bell said. About 1,000 more guests can be accommodated and refreshments will be served, she said.

"This is going to be an event in itself," Bell said. "It's a cool, uncrowded and wonderful option."

Distribution of the tickets for the simulcast event will be free and available only to SMU students, parents and faculty, Bell said, but it has not been decided how those will be distributed.

Extra security measures will also be taken for the commencement, Hall said. Extra police officers will be on duty and every person attending will go through a security check, he said. There will be no X-ray machines to check cameras, purses and bags for weapons, he said, so every item will have to be hand checked.

"We are pleading that everyone not bring a lot of extra stuff," Hall said. "We're going to beg people not to bring huge handbags or camera bags with three cameras and 12 (camera) lenses in them. We are asking people to only bring what they consider necessary."

Hall said plans for the final security measures will be finished sometime next week when the Secret Service visits the campus and decides what measures it should take to protect the president.

"They (the Secret Service) operate on a very short timeline," he said. "We're having to make assumptions about the security on educated input that we've had and on others' experiences with the White House."

After the Secret Service visits the campus, Hall said he will know exactly what SMU needs to do to upgrade security for the commencement.

The SMU Department of Public Safety is also waiting to hear from Washington about what the security requirements are, Floyd Phelps, assistant director of DPS, said.

"From our standpoint, nothing has been decided," Phelps said.

"We will handle it like any other graduation until we get requirements for what is needed. I'm sure there will be extra security," he said.

Bush's visit elicits criticism

By JENNIFER PALLANICH
Staff Writer of The Daily Campus

President Bush's impending arrival and speech on campus have drawn less than enthusiastic responses from some SMU community members.

Pascal Covici, who has been faculty marshal for over 15 commencement ceremonies, said he will not serve as marshal this year because Bush is speaking.

Covici, E. A. Lilly professor of English, said he is very disappointed Bush is receiving an honorary doctorate from SMU.

"Apart from holding the office of president, I don't see that he's done anything to merit an honorary degree," Covici said.

He listed humanitarian efforts, endeavors in an intellectually challenging field and educational contributions as those which might merit an honorary degree.

Campbell Read, professor of statistics, who is active in environmental concerns, said he is upset that Bush has not committed to attending the Environmental Summit in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, this summer. Read said he is planning to protest the ceremony.

"It's not that he should just go, but that the U.S. should provide some sort of leadership at the conference," Read said.

Students for Environmental Action has voted not to sponsor the protest because of concerns that the group would lose privileges granted to a chartered organization.

Last semester, when Advocates for Social Action and Progress protested at the Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf lecture, the group lost protest privileges for one month because it protested in the wrong location.

Sandra Garrison, first-year student and member of SEA, said, "I think it was more that we had mixed feelings within the group (about sponsoring the protest). We made it optional and decided it would not represent (SEA)."

Associate chaplain Robert Cooper, who intends to protest Bush's visit, said, "I think his record on environmental concerns, health care issues and many other humane concerns is dismal ... Not everyone at SMU joins in the accolades that he will receive that day."

Under the SMU Student Code, groups planning to protest must petition Kathy Rowe, director of student activities, at least three days in advance for a permit.

Read said he will help coordinate the protest by relaying information about DPS security policies to people interested in joining the protest.

Preston Poulter, first-year student, said what prompted him to want to join the protest was Bush's decision not to go to the Environmental Summit in Rio de Janiero.

COMMENCEMENT COMMITTEE OFFERS SUGGESTIONS FOR GRADUATES

DALLAS (SMU) -- The Commencement Committee chaired by Vice Provost Mark Sherouse has been working for the past several weeks on arrangements to accommodate members of the 1992 graduating class and their families and guests with the greatest possible ease and convenience at SMU's May 16 commencement to be addressed by President George Bush. With the approach of commencement day, the committee offers information and suggestions to assist graduating students and others participating in the morning ceremony in Moody Coliseum.

The Commencement Committee emphasizes that graduates must pick up tickets in the Office of the Registrar by 6:30 p.m. Friday, May 15. Any tickets not picked up by then, other than authorized exceptions, will be released for distribution to others. Graduates as well as their guests must have tickets to be admitted to the commencement ceremony in Moody.

Sherouse asks graduates to note the special instructions that will accompany tickets. Any important changes in schedule or other plans will be given in these instructions.

Sherouse says, "Please encourage your families and guests to arrive at Moody Coliseum early. Doors will open at 8 a.m., and seats will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. In arriving early, families and guests can avoid possible congestion as well as enjoy the extended preludial concert given by the SMU Symphony Orchestra."

He says, "All graduates must be in place in the Dedman Center basement no later than 9 a.m. on commencement day. The procession will begin promptly at 9:30 a.m."

All graduates and guests must pass through metal detectors similar to those used in airports. They are advised to limit carried items to necessities and should understand that all handbags, camera bags and other items will be searched. Cooperation of those entering will permit orderly access and movement within the building.

-over-

"Graduates should ensure that they and their families have their tickets in hand the night before commencement," Sherouse says. "On commencement day, campus traffic access and parking may be restricted to those with tickets to commencement or vehicles with SMU parking decals. We expect unusual traffic congestion, and it will be difficult to arrange meetings to hand out family and guest tickets on the morning of the 16th."

Graduates are asked to return any tickets not being used to the Registrar's Office through May 15, and to the Moody Coliseum ticket office on the morning of May 16. Sherouse says, "Please consider your classmates and their families and guests if you have any tickets that will not be used."

If additional tickets become available as commencement day approaches, Registrar John Hall may be able to conduct a supplemental drawing during commencement week. Graduates will be contacted by telephone if they become eligible for additional tickets.

Graduates with questions or concerns may call Valerie Bell at 692-4315 or the Office of the Registrar at 692-2037.

Sherouse added, "This year's commencement promises to be a memorable and historic day. We are doing everything possible to make this important occasion in your life enjoyable for you and for your families and guests."

Graduation procedures established

By COQUI ASPIAZU and JOLI FARMER
Contributors to The Daily Campus

Eligible graduating students must pick up commencement ceremony tickets at the registrar's office in Perkins Administration Building by 6:30 p.m. May 15.

Tickets for the May 16 general commencement ceremony where President George Bush is scheduled to speak will start to be distributed Wednesday through Saturday this week and will continue to be given out Monday through Friday of next week with a valid student ID. A list of special instructions will accompany the tickets.

Vice Provost Mark Sherouse, commencement committee chairman, said the list will provide the graduating students special instructions for the ceremony and would also, if necessary, include any important changes in schedule or other plans.

Sherouse said doors to Moody Coliseum will open at 8 a.m. and seats will be made available in a first-come, first-served basis and said he encouraged families and guests to arrive early when a preludial concert will be given by the SMU Symphony Orchestra.

Sherouse also said that an unusual traffic congestion is expected on commencement day and it will be difficult to arrange meetings to hand out family and guest tickets on the morning of the May 16.

"Graduates should ensure that they and their families have their tickets in hand the night before commencement. On commencement day, campus traffic access and parking may be restricted to those with tickets to commencement or vehicles with SMU parking decals."

All those tickets which are not picked up by the final May 15 deadline will be re-distributed.

The request for a maximum of four tickets had to be turned in to the univeristy registrar's office last Friday.

There may be a random drawing for any remaining tickets Monday, John Hall, university registrar, said. If there is a drawing, those students, who entered their names when applying for guest tickets, could receive one or two extra tickets, Hall said, and if more were requested, the student's name will go back in the drawing.

Those students receiving extra tickets will be contacted.

"Once the tickets are all gone, they're just all gone," Hall said. "There will be no empty seats."

There will be a simulcast presentation of the ceremony at Hughes-Trigg Student Center. Simulcast tickets, which are unlimited, will be available when students pick up guest tickets for the commencement ceremony.

The registrar's office, located in Room 15 of the Perkins Administration Building, will distribute tickets Wednesday through Friday, 9 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m.; Saturday from 9-11 a.m.; May 11, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.; May 12, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.; May 13, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; May 14, 9 a.m.-6 p.m.; May 15, 9 a.m.-6:30 p.m. and on May 16, by advance arrangement with the registrar's office only; from 8-9 a.m. at the Moody Coliseum ticket office.

Extra security measures will also be taken for the commencement, Hall said. Extra police officers will be on duty and every person attending will go through a security check, he said. All graduates and guests will be required to pass through metal detectors similar to those used in airports and all items carried in will be checked by hand.

"We are pleading that everyone not bring a lot of extra stuff," Hall said. "We are asking people to only bring what they consider necessary."

Hall said plans for the final security measures will be finished sometime this week, after the Secret Service visits the campus and decides what measures it should take to protect the president.

Bush was the commencement speaker at Oklahoma State University May 4, 1990. He spoke in the stadium, and there were major security concerns and extensive preparations for the president's arrival, Everett Eaton, OSU campus police chief, said.

Eaton said his staff started planning 60 days before the actual ceremony, deciding who would sit where and at what distance from the president. Nine full days of preparation came right before the event, he said, including setting up rope barricades and checking the records of who would be within touching distance of the official party.

There was an escape route to and from the stadium for the president's car, and the security officers blocked off certain streets to make sure the car could escape in case of an emergency, Eaton said. The president had a motorcade with two armored cars, one of which weighed 14,000 lbs., he said.

"This sort of thing has to start weeks in advance," Eaton said. "There are lots of divisions in the protection agency of the president and each person in charge thinks nothing will happen to the president on his turf. We wanted to be sure nothing happened to the president at OSU."

Bush spoke at the University of Florida International April 27, and is scheduled to speak at two other graduation ceremonies at the University of Notre Dame May 17 and the U.S. Naval Academy May 27.

Letters to the Editor

Cosmic schemes

I was terribly disappointed to learn that the Faculty Senate had approved the awarding of an honorary degree to President George Bush: Doctor of Humane Letters.

Then, I saw that Central State University in Michigan is giving a Doctor of Humane Letters to Arsenio Hall, so I sort of figured that in the grand cosmic scheme, things even out.

Well, it will be interesting for those who are there to see what humane actions are noted in awarding Bush's honorary degree.

I really think it is time to do away with honorary degrees. It is a rarity when the degree honors a woman or a man who has really done something comparable to the discipline and effort necessary to earn a degree. In the vast majority of cases, the honorary degree is really a crass attempt to "honor" the university or college by bringing a famous or wealthy person to the campus, many times with the hope (or after-the-fact) of a significant gift to the university.

It seems to me that this is a shameful way to cheapen the legitimate degrees of the academic institution.

Let's do away with "honorary degrees" and refrain from asking a political candidate to speak within a year prior to elections.

Bob O. Cooper
associate chaplain

A very angry student

MATT SEITZ

I could get all misty-eyed, and tell you all the huggy, wonderful things I honestly feel about my years at SMU. But instead, because I'm mad, I'm going to go out on a limb here, so bear with me. I have a theory. It goes something like this:

The decision to get Bush to speak at commencement is symbolic of everything that ever seemed wrongheaded and stupid to me about this university. It represents a decision made by a few on behalf of everyone, without inquiring as to how that everyone feels about the situation.

And mark my words: it's precisely this kind of thinking that will make universities like ours — small, private, average ones — extinct within twenty-five years.

A university is a community. A community should be remotely democratic — informed, participatory, responsive. We should be able to make these sorts of huge decisions if not by vote — which is admittedly infeasible — then at least by informal consensus, gleaned through a careful monitoring of the opinions of the student body, faculty, and staff.

The getting of Bush represents the same old tired, snotty, autocratic, condescending way of doing things that has bugged me since I first set foot on our immaculate campus. It's a distilled example of the outdated, smoke-filled backroom, shut-up-and-deal-because-we-know-what's-best-for-you attitude that has made hundreds of thousands of average American citizens, from Dallas City Hall aficionados to throw-the-bums-out national-level voters, so apoplectic in recent years.

I offer two other examples:

- The appointment of Bill Clements to the President Pye's special fundraising commission. If we're so hard up for loot that we need to open our hearts to this sociopath, we better get out of Division I right now. And if that doesn't balance the budget, we should auction off our campus, building by building, item by item. (Funny that Pye waited exactly five years before cuddling up to Clements. Hmmmmm.)

Welcoming back 'Dollar Bill' confirms the absolute worst stereotypes about our university — that we gleefully embrace people, from administrators on down to students, who would sell their own mother for a box of Tic-Tacs. And worse, that no matter what kind of a power-mongering good-ole-boy you are, you can be forgiven if your wallet is fat enough. (Note to all you Clements fans out there: the man may have apologized to The Dallas Morning News, but he has never, ever apologized to the students and faculty. So shut up about the controversy being moot.)

- The granting of tenure to professors. Overhaul it. Come up with something fair.

I think everyone who's gone through this place has a horror story about a favorite teacher being denied tenure either because of failure to play to a particularly department's ass-kissing political games, failure to coddle anti-intellectual bowheads and baseball-cap-on-backwards goons at the expense of students who even remotely care, failure to publish enough articles in obscure, twice-yearly academic tomes, or failure to recognize and respect that nebulous, fateful line: the line separating students from teachers. (It looks unseemly to get too involved with student groups or student activities or student concerns. It makes you look like you care.)

Or some baffling cosmic addition-subtraction equation of all four — an equation which changes from case to case, depending on who the teacher is and how each individual department chooses to align itself that week.

I've had two beloved instructors since I got here who were denied tenure, not because they didn't know their subject or care about their students, but because they weren't mind-reading, toadying, academic suck-ups who cared more about staying clubby with their department mates than teaching the best way they know how.

The one-man veto tenure system must stop. The insular, clubby, screw-what-the-students-think-They-turn-over-every-four-years-anyway attitude must also stop. Financial common sense demands it: angry students who feel their trust in the system was callously betrayed make wary, cynical, frugal alums.

I have had some of the most glorious experiences of my life at SMU. I have met with people on all levels of the university whose integrity and good sense are beyond reproach. But the university is truly a body politic: as in real anatomy, if any vital portion of the body is giving off a foul odor or rotting to the core, the entire body is diseased and cannot stand.

If there's one piece of advice I could give to people far older and wiser than myself, it's this: quit thinking of the students as visitors. As potential future donors, we're as "permanent" as you are. And much to your surprise, some of us might even be as smart as you are. And if there isn't a concentrated effort to rethink the way you address the concerns of the SMU community, you're lumbering down the road to extinction.

Subject: SMU Arrangements for 1992 Commencement; Questions and Issues Relating to Presidential Visit

Date: May 5, 1992

Welcome to Dallas and SMU. Our committee has been working for the past month, planning and coordinating internal matters at SMU in preparation for our 1992 Commencement. We look forward now to discussions with you concerning the Presidential visit.

In order to expedite those discussions, we have prepared the packet of information and materials that follows. As you know, many questions and issues remain to be addressed from our side, and these will warrant your attention and counsel. In other matters, we simply need to know from you how best to accommodate the visit of The President and to ensure our own fullest cooperation.

SMU is deeply honored to welcome President Bush as speaker and honorary degree recipient at its 77th Commencement. We are committed to working with you to produce a Commencement ceremony fitting this great honor.

Precis of SMU 1992 Commencement

SMU's 77th Commencement will be held in Moody Coliseum on the campus at 10:00 AM, Saturday, May 16, 1992. Moody Coliseum is a college basketball arena and is the traditional Commencement site for the University. The University campus itself is located some four miles from the Dallas CBD and is accessible by Central Expressway, Mockingbird Lane, and a variety of other routes.

Commencement at SMU consists of an academic procession of graduating students, faculty, members of the Board of Trustees, and the stage party, and of a program that features a commencement address, special orchestral music, and the conferral of honorary degrees and of degrees in course. Normally, the ceremony takes between ninety minutes and two hours. Generally, some 1,500 graduates and faculty will be seated on the floor, with some 6,000 family and guests in the balcony area. Staging of graduating students prior to the procession occurs in the basement of Dedman Center, located adjacent to Moody Coliseum.

In addition to the morning Commencement exercise, the University also conducts a Friday evening Baccalaureate Service and a variety of Saturday afternoon diploma-awarding ceremonies in the individual academic departments and schools. The Friday evening Baccalaureate and Saturday afternoon ceremonies do not figure in the discussions and descriptions that follow.

In view of the unprecedented interest in Commencement this year, and in order to ensure that students and their families can attend, the University elected to ticket the event and thereby control access to it. Some 1,500 tickets have been allocated for students, and an additional 6,000 for their families and guests. Accommodation of faculty, Trustees, dignitaries, 50th reunion alumni, and the SMU symphony orchestra will require several hundred more seats. Considerable unmet need for tickets remains among students and families.

In order to accommodate some of the unmet demand for tickets, the University will cablecast the Commencement and President Bush's address to sites on campus located in the Hughes-Trigg Student Center and possibly elsewhere. The sites themselves will feature some of the pageantry of the main ceremony.

For the 1992 Commencement, the University proposes to locate White House staff, media, press corps, and others in the Dedman Center, adjacent to Moody Coliseum, in specially outfitted rooms and offices. Other rooms and offices in Moody Coliseum can serve the President, senior staff, Secret Service, and others. Descriptions appear in the following sections.

Seating Configuration and Capacity Issues

SMU's one overriding issue remains the number of seats that will be available for graduates and their families and guests in Moody Coliseum. We have committed ourselves now to at least 7,500 seats for students and families (1,500 graduates, plus four guest seats per graduate), and need several hundred more to accommodate faculty, Trustees, dignitaries, members of our 50th reunion alumni group, and our symphony orchestra. All these are customary participants in Commencement at SMU. These tickets are now being distributed. Apart from the ongoing distribution, students also have requested some 3,000 more tickets, for guests and families, in addition to the number already allotted. There is evidently considerable unmet need for seats. Evidence of recent student concern regarding the availability of seats appears in the clippings accompanying this document.

Diagram A in the pages immediately following represents our normal Commencement configuration. Floor seats are most important, since it is on the floor that we seat both graduates and the faculty, as well as the alumni group.

Two matters appear to impinge on the number of seats available. The first is the media platform, which, in other circumstances, is required to be some eighty feet from the stage. Diagram B represents this, and, as well, the effect it would have on our seating configuration: all the space behind the platform becomes useless, and we lose many hundreds of student and faculty seats, having to relocate these participants to the balcony. An academic procession such as we are accustomed to would be pointless in such a circumstance.

The second matter impinging on seating is the issue of seating behind the stage, and thus, The President. We wish to close and backdrop the section immediately behind the stage, but leave the adjacent sections open for seating. Nearly 1,000 seats are at issue in this matter.

Our proposal is represented in diagram C. There the section immediately behind the stage is closed and backdropped as prescribed, but adjacent sections are available for seating. We ask to be able to use the preponderance of the floor for our graduates and faculty, proposing that the media be accommodated in part on a media platform at the rear of the floor and that some members of the press themselves be seated in the pressbox or in other less obtrusive places in the building. The media platform so proposed would meet the specifications we have been given, except that the throw would be considerably more than the prescribed eighty feet.

We understand that the distance in question nonetheless is feasible.

While we are open to alternative proposals, we have already considered a number of possibilities, and have not found one that does not either displace hundreds of students and faculty--thus wrecking our ceremony--or does not present an unreasonable obstruction for other members of the audience.

Prospective Audience, Ticketing Procedure

As noted earlier, the audience for Commencement will consist of graduating students, their families and guests, faculty, Trustees, dignitaries, 50th reunion alumni, members of the symphony orchestra, stage party, and others. All persons attending Commencement must have tickets issued by the University.

The ticketing process has ensured a floor ticket for each eligible graduating student, plus four balcony seats for each student's guests or family. The University is now in the process of distributing some 7,300 tickets for these students and families. Further distribution will provide for faculty, Trustees, 50th reunion alumni, dignitaries, and others.

Students individually also have requested an additional 3,000 tickets, over and above the four tickets already allotted per graduate. The University is attempting to meet this need through identifying additionally available seats, and also through a cablecast of Commencement at other campus sites.

The ticketing process has been organized and administered by John Hall, University Registrar, and his staff. Copies of the ticket information sheet, ticket request forms, and of the tickets themselves appear on the following pages.

It should be noted that the ticketing of Commencement this year itself has been the subject of student dissatisfaction and criticism. SMU has never before ticketed or limited attendance at its Commencement. Some examples of student concern appear in the clippings accompanying this document. The decision to ticket the event was made by the University administration, which accepts full responsibility for it.

April 24, 1992

Dear Graduates and Families:

This is to share with you some information about the Commencement ceremony on Saturday, May 16, at 10 a.m. in Moody Coliseum on the Southern Methodist University campus. As you probably know, SMU is honored to have the President of the United States deliver the University's 77th annual Commencement address. We believe that the Commencement for the Class of 1992 will be a memorable occasion for you and your family and a tribute to our graduating students.

However, we hope you will understand that we will be operating under some constraints that are associated with a Presidential visit. Since confirmation by the White House earlier this month, University faculty, students, and staff have been addressing these special circumstances, while keeping the purpose of Commencement and the concern for graduates and their families foremost in the planning. The University is particularly indebted to the Senior Class Council and Senior President Richard Franco for their invaluable counsel and strongly voiced representation of their classmates' points of view.

Moody Coliseum accommodates approximately 8,000 persons, including the graduating students. In order to meet security requirements and to accommodate each family in an equitable manner, attendance will be by tickets issued in advance. Each graduate is eligible to receive four guest tickets to Moody. Other larger locations were considered but rejected because of security or other considerations.

The University will provide for closed circuit television viewing in Hughes-Trigg for those who are not seated in Moody. Tickets will be available on request. Refreshments will be provided, and University staff members will be on hand to assist your family.

The diploma ceremonies in the afternoon in the schools and departments will not be ticketed and will be generally unaffected by the morning events; please plan to bring as many family members and friends as desired. You may anticipate ample opportunity for photographs with deans, department chairs, and members of faculty, as well as photographs of the degree presentation itself. These ceremonies are marked by a warm, personal atmosphere of celebration, which I think you will enjoy. President Pye's reception, which follows the Friday evening baccalaureate ceremony, and the Saturday luncheon (advance registration required) between the morning Commencement exercises and the afternoon diploma presentations are open to all guests.

For the Commencement ceremony, students must request tickets from the Registrar's Office by Friday, May 1. A random drawing will allocate any remaining tickets. We ask students to bear in mind the needs of classmates with larger families and to request no more tickets than will be used. A ticket request form is enclosed in the letters to graduating students.

OFFICE OF THE PROVOST / 214 • 692-3219

Guest seating in Moody Coliseum will be on a first-come basis. Doors will open at 8:00 a.m. Access to Moody Coliseum will be controlled by entry through metal detectors. Limitations may be placed on items carried into Moody; as a practical measure, guests should carry only what might be needed during the ceremony. Those guests who may not want to encounter these inconveniences may prefer to view the ceremony from one of the remote locations in Hughes-Trigg. Please refer to the detailed information sheet provided with tickets at the ticket pick-up in the Registrar's Office.

This is a most significant time in the life of our students and their parents and in the life of the University, and we look forward to welcoming the graduates and their families into the larger community of SMU.

Sincerely,

Ruth Morgan

1992 COMMENCEMENT
TICKET INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS & GUESTS

The 1992 Commencement at 10:00 AM, Saturday, May 16 in Moody Coliseum will be a ticketed event. No one* (including participating students) will be admitted without a ticket.

Each eligible student submitting a ticket request form to the University Registrar by 4:00 PM Friday, May 1, will be provided one student ticket and up to four guest tickets. See instructions on the request form. Requests received after 4:00 PM, May 1, will be met on a "as available basis".

Guest tickets in addition to the initial four may be available. After the initial guest ticket requests (up to four per student) are met, any unused tickets will be distributed based on a random drawing.

Students whose guest ticket needs are not met by the regular distribution and drawing will be issued tickets to a simulcast of the Commencement ceremony in Hughes-Trigg Student Center on campus. Details concerning the simulcast will be available when tickets are picked-up.

Tickets will be available for pick-up at the Registration Center, Room 15 Perkins Adm. Bldg, 9:00 AM - 4:00 PM, May 6-8 and 11-15. Tickets will only be issued directly to eligible students. Photo ID's will be required. Lost tickets will not be replaced.

Both Commencement tickets and tickets to the simulcast will serve as valid campus parking tickets during Commencement Day.

Due to security requirements, access into Moody Coliseum will be controlled through metal detectors. Doors will open at 8:00 AM. Seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Information on limitations as to what items can be taken into Moody will be provided when tickets are picked-up.

Student and guest tickets must be requested from the University Registrar by 4:00 PM, Friday, May 1.

Tickets can be picked-up at the Registration Center - University Registrar's Office, Room 15 Perkins Admin Bldg 9:00 AM - 4:00 PM, May 6-8 and 11-15

* Small infants who will be held and who will not occupy a seat are not required to have a ticket. However, the Commencement is a lengthy, formal ceremony and it is recommended that infants and young children not attend.

 Eligible students are those who have rented graduation regalia and are current May 1992 graduation candidates, August 1991 and December 1991 graduates, and approved petitions.

SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIVERSITY UNIVERSITY REGISTRAR

1992 Commencement Student and Guest Tickets Request Form

Students and guests must have an admission ticket to attend the Commencement ceremony in Moody, 10:00 A.M., Saturday, May 16.

Ticket requests must be received in the University Registrar's Office by 4:00 PM, Friday, May 1. Requests received after May 1 will be met on a "as available basis".

Tickets can be picked up in the Registration Center - University Registrar's Office, Rm 15 Perkins Adm Bldg, 9:00 AM - 4:00 PM, May 6-8 and 11-15.

Audience and Graduating Student Access

Parking for graduating students, families and guests will be in unreserved parking lots throughout the southeastern portion of the campus. Signage in the parking lots will remind them of the need to pass through metal detectors at Moody. Ample warning of security measures already has been given, in the student newspaper, in letters to students and parents, in ticket request forms, at ticket pick-up, and elsewhere. Nonetheless, the University will provide a baggage-check area at the main Moody Coliseum entrance and at the entrance to the Dedman Center basement, where graduating students will be staged and held prior to the procession.

A particular concern is that of maintaining use of the Dedman Center basement for graduating student staging. We propose to pass students through metal detectors as they enter Dedman and to escort them as they move into Moody for the procession. In this way, order in the procession can be maintained, without the need to process through detectors. This proposal will require two metal detectors at the entrance to the Dedman Center basement, security sweep (presumably) of the staging area, and escort of students into Moody from the secure area. We have asked all graduating students to be in place in the Dedman Center basement no later than 9:00 AM, and for the procession to begin at or about 9:30 AM.

Families of students and their guests will enter Moody Coliseum via portals on the western sides of the building. The northeast entrance will be for stage party, the President, presumably, and his party. We propose to use the southeast entrance for media and workers.

We assume that a sufficient number of metal detectors and staff will be provided in order to move the audience (including students), exceeding 8,000, into the Coliseum between the time that doors open, at 8:00 AM, and 10:00 AM, when the ceremony begins. Seating is on a first-come, first-served basis, widely publicized, and we believe that this policy will encourage early arrival.

Event staff from the Dallas firm of D&L will provide assistance in parking lots, in ticket-taking, and in ticket and entrance problems. Within the building, student ushers will provide assistance. Faculty marshalls are responsible for the academic procession.

White House and Media Arrangements

In the pages immediately following are proposed floor diagrams for the White House Press Office, White House filing center, the tape editing room, and the press room for local/regional news media in Dedman Center. Dedman Center was selected as the best site for these operations because of its size and its proximity and access to Moody Coliseum.

The intent of the proposed layout is to place the various operations close enough to be convenient but in such a way as to avoid any conflict of purposes. The purpose of each room will be clearly marked with signs. Each facility will be equipped with telephones, electrical service, fax and photocopy machines, television sets, mult boxes and beverages, as outlined in the April 1, 1992, memo from the White House Office of Presidential Advance.

The White House Press Office will be located in what is now the mat room and should meet the minimum space requirements outlined in the memo. The mat will be removed and a proper floor covering put down. The private office for the press secretary will be located next door in an administrative office, and the windows may be covered for privacy.

The White House filing center, tape editing room and facilities for local/regional media will be in the area now occupied by three basketball courts. The acoustics in the area will be improved by covering the floor with carpet and using 16-foot fabric walls to define the rooms. The rooms will be equipped with work tables and chairs, as requested.

The White House filing center will be 60' X 90', which is larger than the minimum requested in the memo, and should be adequate to seat more than 70 persons at work tables. Because of the size of the room, we can add seating and work tables for another 24 without difficulty. A layout for this room also follows.

No specifications were given for the tape editing room or facilities for local media, but we believe the space provided should be adequate, based on conversations with other universities which have hosted a Presidential visit. A layout for the local/regional media's news room also follows.

The northeast corner of Moody Coliseum, in both the upper and lower levels, provides a number of rooms and offices that can be used by The President, White House staff, Secret Service, teleprompters, and others. Elsewhere, under the heading of "Presidential Access," is a discussion of the advantages of the northeast corner area of Moody.

These rooms and offices appear on the Moody Coliseum diagrams accompanying this document. We believe the walk-through will provide the best opportunity to identify which rooms are best suited for various purposes.

Media relations for SMU will be the responsibility of Ms. Jeanne Whitman. Arrangements for media and others in Dedman Center are the responsibility of Ms. Whitman and of Ms. Julie Wiksten. Mr. Roland Rainey is responsible for Moody Coliseum rooms and offices.

Presidential Access

We conjecture that the best entry point for Moody Coliseum is its northeast corner, via Binkley Avenue. (See accompanying diagrams of Moody and SMU campus map). We are prepared to close Binkley to traffic and parking, from the parking garage to the east, in order to accommodate the motorcade and arrival. The area between the northeast entrance to Moody and the street can be tented or canopied. There is a tunnel entrance to the lower level of Moody at this same location, but it is doubtful that it provides sufficient clearance or maneuvering room.

The northeast corner of Moody provides relatively clear access to the area most easily secured in the Coliseum, direct access to the stage, and is removed from the main (west) portals where most of the audience will be entering. If this access is chosen, it also offers several immediate options for rooms and offices, for The President, White House staff, Secret Service, teleprompter operator, and others, in a secure area.

A matter to be determined is The President's participation in the academic procession. The procession is a major custom and feature of the SMU Commencement, and it is one of those aspects of the ceremony we wish to maintain. If The President is unable to participate in it, we can easily accommodate a separate entrance onto the stage, early in the order of exercise with appropriate orchestral music.

The President's exit from the stage at the conclusion of the ceremony would be with the stage party, down the ramp and immediately into the secure area. Should he be unable to stay for the entire ceremony, a graceful exit could occur after the special orchestral music, which follows the conferring of honorary degrees. The orchestral music and student solo, lasting about five minutes, is an important part of the ceremony. (See the order of exercise elsewhere).

We suggest that departure from the Coliseum and campus simply reverse access and entrance.

Procession

The academic procession is one of the fundamental components of Commencement. We hope that President Bush will be able to participate in it. As noted elsewhere, we can accommodate his entrance onto the stage in another manner if necessary.

Our plans for the procession rely to a large extent on the seating configuration in Moody and available participants. Thus at present our plans are not complete. In the immediately following pages are materials describing the customary procession. The customary procession itself relies crucially on the ability to stage graduating students in the basement of Dedman Center, as described earlier.

Chief Marshall Brad Carter is responsible for the procession.

COMMENCEMENT: The academic procession will move over the same route it followed last year. The procession order is as follows:

Candidates for Baccalaureate Degrees
Candidates for Advanced Degrees
50th Anniversary Class
Emeritus Faculty
Faculties of the University
President and Vice President of the Senior Class
President of the Alumni Association
Registrar of the University
Retiring Faculty of the University
Director of Central University Libraries
Deans of the University
Officers of the University
Candidates for Honorary Degrees
Trustees of the University
President's Party

We form groups of candidates into procession lines in the parking area under the Dedman Center. A plan of the center (together with Moody Coliseum) and a sketch of the candidate line-up and procession route are attached.

Arrive at the proper location (head of your group's line: - see Dedman Center-Moody Coliseum Plan) in the Dedman basement area by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday. Your principal responsibility is to get the group for which you are marshal lined up two abreast at the designated place. No alphabetical ordering is necessary; however, the masters degree candidates line up by schools. It is also important that you instruct the standard bearer on how to carry the banner, both in the normal procession and on the stairs.

You will be asked for a count of the number in your group at about 9:48. This is important.

The procession begins promptly at 9:57 a.m. Each Marshal leads his school or group, following the group ahead as directed by Professor Chalk or me. Professor Chalk will assist with the seating of candidates leading the column that goes along the south side of the Coliseum floor. (See Moody Coliseum Plan.)

After the Benediction and fanfare, the platform party leads the recessional. They are followed by the faculty and then the graduates. The procession moves four abreast, leaving by the northeast door and the ramp. Also, in order to speed our recession, a column from the center of each section will be started out the northwest and southwest exits.

DEDMAN CENTER - MOODY COLISEUM PLAN

Order of Exercise

A draft copy of the Order of Exercise follows. This is the University's customary order of exercise, with one change. Customarily, the special music immediately follows the commencement address, and is followed then by the conferring of honorary degrees. In the current draft we propose that the conferring of honorary degrees immediately follow the commencement address. While it is our natural preference that President Bush remain on stage for the entire ceremony, we believe that placing the honorary degrees immediately after the address, followed then by the special music, could provide him with a graceful opportunity for exit, if necessary.

We have not marked a place in the order of exercise for The President's entrance onto the stage, should he not participate in the academic procession. This can be done at several places early in the order, on cue, with orchestral "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief." We simply need to know what to plan for in this regard.

Registrar John Hall and Chief Marshall Brad Carter are responsible for the order of procession.

A draft of the current plan for stage party seating also follows.

Conclusion of Commencement

Parking and Security

Chief Robbie Robinson of the SMU Department of Public Safety is responsible for SMU security and parking matters and will work with Secret Service and others in support of their responsibilities. In addition to the SMU DPS, we expect to receive support from the University Park and Dallas police departments, particularly in traffic control.

It is our expectation that the campus will be closed to traffic and parking on Saturday morning, May 16, except to those with tickets to Commencement or whose vehicles display the regular SMU parking decal. As noted earlier, we conjecture that Binkley Avenue on the SMU campus will be closed, from the parking garage to the east, in order to facilitate The President's motorcade and arrival at the northeast corner of Moody Coliseum. Special parking areas in the Moody vicinity have been identified for various groups: W1 for handicapped, W3 for media, parking garage first floor for stage party, and so on. D&L event staff will be in the parking lots to assist those arriving by car with instructions and directions.

DPS officers will be on duty in and about Moody Coliseum and in the Dedman Center. Chief Robinson can provide details on anticipated assignments and coordinate appropriately.

Policy on Demonstrations

Relevant extracts from the University's policies on demonstrations appear in the following pages.

Briefly, demonstrations must be approved in advance by the administration. Outside groups may demonstrate only if formally sponsored by an SMU student organization or administrative department. The administration assigns sites for demonstrators and enforces compliance.

Inside Moody Coliseum, during the Commencement ceremony, disruptive behavior will be addressed by faculty marshalls or SMU security personnel, depending on the level and kind of disturbance. A system of communication among central decision-makers and marshalls or security personnel will be in place to facilitate this. Our understanding is that the Secret Service takes an interest in disruptive behavior only to the extent that it may endanger The President. Nonetheless, we will want to coordinate with the Service and have a full understanding of our responsibilities. SMU Commencements have very rarely been marred by any sort of disturbance or unruly behavior.

Outside Moody Coliseum there will be SMU DPS personnel and student affairs staff, who will be assigned to cover possible demonstrations or disturbances. Our intent will be to keep such demonstrations well contained, separate from graduates and families, and low key. Only one small campus group, Amnesty International, has so far registered to demonstrate. In view of the national climate and local environment we do not believe it unlikely that a more sizeable demonstration could be attempted, particularly from outside the University.

Probable assigned sites for demonstrations include the Morrison-Bell Track area, the area immediately south of it, and the open area east of the parking garage adjacent to Moody. In each case, we will need to know Secret Service views, specifications concerning proximity of demonstrators, barriers, and so on.

Chief Robinson will coordinate with appropriate personnel and be available to provide any needed assistance. The University's Vice President for Legal Affairs also will be closely involved.

SMU Press and Photo Opportunities

Ms. Whitman from SMU will coordinate and transmit requests from the SMU side for photo opportunities with The President. To date, we are aware of only two photo requests, one from the SMU Senior Class Council (fourteen members), and one from an individual student, Mr. Reed Smith, who, we understand, has been contacted already by the White House. We understand Mr. Smith's grandmother, who will be present at Commencement, was an employee of Mr. Bush's.

We conjecture that photo opportunities will occur prior to the procession, where members of the stage party are robed, or after Commencement, assuming Mr. Bush stays for the entire exercise. We will provide a list of persons who will be in the stage party and thus in the stage party robing area prior to the ceremony. We understand the President's need to use his time most efficiently and effectively.

Ms. Whitman will work with the White House team regarding anticipated press requests and can report on the status of such requests.

ANNOUNCEMENTS/INVITATIONS

Personalized invitations and announcements may be ordered at the SMU Bookstore from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on March 18 through 27. Payment is required at the time the order is placed. The Bookstore is mailing complete details concerning announcements and invitations, including order forms for those candidates no longer on campus. A limited number of generic invitations are available for purchase in the Bookstore. We encourage you to place your order before March 27 to insure delivery prior to Commencement. For additional information, call (214) 692-2435.

CAP AND GOWN RENTAL

Caps and gowns are appropriate attire for graduation candidates at the Baccalaureate Service, the Commencement Convocation, and the Diploma Presentation ceremonies. This regalia may be rented through the SMU Bookstore, the authorized supplier of regalia for SMU. Orders should be placed at the Bookstore from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday prior to April 10. Brochures with complete information on academic regalia and prices are being mailed to all graduation candidates and are available in the Bookstore.

Caps and gowns ordered by April 10 can be picked up at the SMU Bookstore from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday, May 11 through Friday, May 15. If you need additional information, call (214) 692-2435.

PARKING

The Parking Garage will be open Friday and Saturday, May 15 and 16. Parking at Moody Coliseum on Saturday, May 16 should be plentiful as most of the university parking space is near the coliseum. The SMU Department of Public Safety officers are lenient on graduation day, but warn that fire lanes and parking spaces reserved for the handicapped are under the jurisdiction of University Park Police and those restrictions are strictly enforced.

Phone boxes located on campus provide immediate access to the DPS dispatch office, or guests may call 692-3388 for 24-hour access to campus police.

CHILD CARE

SMU's Commencement Convocation is a formal ceremony that young children may find tiring. Child care for ages 5 and under is available during the Commencement Convocation the morning of May 16. Space is limited; advance reservations are required. To make a reservation, call Peggy Boykin at (214) 692-2037.

SPECIAL RATES

American Airlines is offering reduced airfares for travel to and from Dallas-Fort Worth between May 11 and 20 of this year. To take advantage of these special discounts, call American Airlines at 1-800-433-1790 and ask for Star Number SO152PV. Be sure to tell the agent that your travel arrangements are for Commencement at Southern Methodist University.

Special rates for SMU graduation guests are available at the following hotels: Radisson (formerly Colony Parke) (800) 527-1808; Courtyard by Marriott - Northpark (800) 321-2211; and Fairmont Hotel at the Dallas Arts District - (214) 720-5290.

WEEKEND EVENTS

SPECIAL LUNCHEONS - The SMU Alumni Association, Mothers' Club, and Dads' Club are sponsoring luncheons for the 1992 graduates and their guests on Friday, May 15 and Saturday, May 16. For reservations, call the Alumni Association at (214) 987-3712. Perkins School of Theology Office of Community Life is sponsoring a luncheon for Perkins graduates and their families. For reservations, call (214) 692-2293.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE - This is a religious service with a special sermon for the graduation candidates and their guests. Wearing caps and gowns, the candidates process formally into McFarlin Auditorium and are seated together. Weather permitting, the procession begins in the main quadrangle; in case of rain, candidates assemble in the basement of the auditorium. The service lasts about an hour.

PRESIDENTS' FAREWELL - This ceremony, in which the Lamp of Leadership is passed from the baccalaureate graduating class to next year's senior class, begins immediately after the Baccalaureate Service. Advanced degree candidates are escorted from the auditorium while the undergraduate candidates and the audience remain seated. A trumpet fanfare signals the beginning of the ceremony. Farewells to the Class of 1992 are given by the presidents of the Alumni Association, the University, and the Senior Class. The Farewell lasts about twenty minutes.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION - President and Mrs. Pye and the Class of 1992 host this gathering to meet the graduation candidates and their families. Deans, faculty and other members of the SMU community are on hand to extend their personal congratulations. Refreshments are served. Attire ranges from nice-casual to Sunday-best.

COMMENCEMENT CONVOCATION - Commencement Convocation is a formal ceremony in which all schools participate. Graduation candidates, faculty, and other University guests wear academic regalia and process formally into Moody Coliseum. A Trumpet Choir and the University Symphony play, doctoral candidates and honorary degree recipients are hooded, the president confers degrees, the Senior Class president and vice president present the class gift, and a formal address is delivered. The ceremony lasts about an hour and a half.

DIPLOMA PRESENTATION CEREMONIES - Wearing caps and gowns, graduates are personally presented with their diplomas in school or departmental ceremonies. The format of each ceremony varies. Detailed instructions for the ceremonies can be obtained from the office of your Academic Dean after April 24.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

For questions regarding your degree program and graduation status, contact the office of your Academic Dean.

If you have not informed your Academic Dean that you will participate in the commencement ceremonies, you must do so.

Candidates who owe money to the University may participate in the commencement ceremonies, but diplomas are withheld until accounts are cleared. For questions regarding your account, contact the University Cashier by calling 692-2084.

We hope this brochure answers your questions about Commencement Weekend activities. If you need additional information, call PEGGY BOYKIN at (214) 692-2037.

THE REV. DR. ROBERTO ESCAMILLA

The Rev. Dr. Roberto Escamilla, preacher for this year's Baccalaureate Service, has served pastorates in Dallas and Austin and currently is senior pastor for Jefferson United Methodist Church in San Antonio. Throughout his career, Dr. Escamilla has been active in outreach ministry to both Hispanic and non-Hispanic communities. He most recently organized a support program for families in San Antonio during the Persian Gulf war. He also initiated bilingual programs in Spanish and English to reach persons in both languages.

Dr. Escamilla has been active in evangelism, both nationally and internationally. He is a member of the executive committee of the United Methodist Church's Council on Evangelism, which develops programs for the clergy and laity. He has traveled extensively, particularly in Latin America, on preaching missions and spiritual retreats. He also has served on the Board of Global Ministries in New York City and the Board of Discipleship in Nashville, where he was associate general secretary.

Dr. Escamilla received bachelor degrees with cum laude honors from Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa and Iowa Wesleyan College in Mt. Pleasant. He received a Master of Theology degree from SMU's Perkins School of Theology in 1955. While at Perkins, he received the B'nai B'rith Award in Social Ethics and the De Journett Award in Homiletics.

In addition, Dr. Escamilla holds a Master of Arts degree from Trinity University in San Antonio and a Master of Theology degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York City. In 1985 he received the Doctor of Ministry degree from Vanderbilt University. He has received several honorary doctor of divinity degrees.

Dr. Escamilla has served as a delegate to general and jurisdictional conferences and has written several articles and publications, including a book of essays titled Prisoners of Hope. He is an instructor at Perkins School of Theology and is an adjunct professor of worship and preaching for McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

Graduation procedures established

By COQUI ASPIAZU
and JOLI FARMER
Contributors to The Daily Campus

Eligible graduating students must pick up commencement ceremony tickets at the registrar's office in Perkins Administration Building by 6:30 p.m. May 15.

Tickets for the May 16 general commencement ceremony where President George Bush is scheduled to speak will start to be distributed Wednesday through Saturday this week and will continue to be given out Monday through Friday of next week with a valid student ID. A list of special instructions will accompany the tickets.

Vice Provost Mark Sherouse, commencement committee chairman, said the list will provide the graduating students special instructions for the ceremony and would also, if necessary, include any important changes in schedule or other plans.

Sherouse said doors to Moody Coliseum will open at 8 a.m. and seats will be made available in a first-come, first-served basis and said he encouraged families and guests to arrive early when a preludial concert will be given by the SMU Symphony Orchestra.

Sherouse also said that an unusual traffic congestion is expected on commencement day and it will be difficult to arrange meetings to hand out family and guest tickets on the morning of the May 16.

"Graduates should ensure that they and their families have their tickets in hand the night before commencement. On commencement day, campus traffic access and parking may be restricted to those with tickets to commencement or vehicles with SMU parking decals."

All those tickets which are not picked up by the final May 15 deadline will be re-distributed.

The request for a maximum of four tickets had to be turned in to the univeristy registrar's office last Friday.

There may be a random drawing for any remaining tickets Monday, John Hall, university registrar, said. If there is a drawing, those students, who entered their names when applying for guest tickets, could receive one or two extra tickets, Hall said, and if more were requested, the student's name will go back in the drawing.

Those students receiving extra tickets will be contacted.

"Once the tickets are all gone, they're just all gone," Hall said. "There will be no empty seats."

There will be a simulcast presentation of the ceremony at Hughes-Trigg Student Center. Simulcast tickets, which are unlimited, will be available when students pick up [illegible] ceremony.

The registrar's office, located in Room 15 of the Perkins Administration Building, will distribute tickets Wednesday through Friday, 9 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m.; Saturday from 9-11 a.m.; May 11, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.; May 12, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.; May 13, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; May 14, 9 a.m.-6 p.m.; May 15, 9 a.m.-6:30 p.m. and on May 16, by advance arrangement with the registrar's office only, from 8-9 a.m. at the Moody Coliseum ticket office.

Extra security measures will also be taken for the commencement, Hall said. Extra police officers will be on duty and every person attending will go through a security check, he said. All graduates and guests will be required to pass through metal detectors similar to those used in airports and all items carried in will be checked by hand.

"We are pleading that everyone not bring a lot of extra stuff," Hall said. "We are asking people to only bring what they consider necessary."

Hall said plans for the final security measures will be finished sometime this week, after the Secret Service visits the campus and decides what measures it should take to protect the president.

Bush was the commencement speaker at Oklahoma State University May 4, 1990. He spoke in the stadium, and there were major security concerns and extensive preparations for the president's arrival, Everett Eaton, OSU campus police chief, said.

Eaton said his staff started planning 60 days before the actual ceremony, deciding who would sit where and at what distance from the president. Nine full days of preparation came right before the event, he said, including setting up rope barricades and checking the records of who would be within touching distance of the official party.

There was an escape route to and from the stadium for the president's car, and the security officers blocked off certain streets to make sure the car could escape in case of an emergency, Eaton said. The president had a motorcade with two armored cars, one of which weighed 14,000 lbs., he said.

"This sort of thing has to start weeks in advance," Eaton said. "There are lots of divisions in the protection agency of the president and each person in charge thinks nothing will happen to the president on his turf. We wanted to be sure nothing happened to the president at OSU."

Bush spoke at the University of Florida International April 27, and is scheduled to speak at two other graduation ceremonies at the University of Notre Dame May 17 and the U.S. Naval Academy May 27.

Bhat named dean of graduate studies

By WILL McELROY
Staff Writer of The Daily Campus

U. Narayan Bhat, dean of undergraduate studies and administration in Dedman College, has been appointed as the new dean of research, graduate studies, and information, beginning June 1.

"My objective as far as helping the different schools is to see how I can help them to strengthen their programs in terms of recruiting better students," Bhat said.

He said that one of the ways he might accomplish higher quality student recruitment would be to hold graduate student fairs in which he would travel to other neighboring universities and represent SMU's graduate programs to potential students.

Bhat also said that within Dedman College he would use his position as dean to help establish new Ph.D. programs being developed in History and Chemistry. He said that although Dedman College has approved each of the programs the university administration itself has not because of a lack of resources, and that his office would be able to help with fundraising efforts.

Bhat brings many years of experience as chairman of various departments around to his new position.

Bhat chaired the department of statistical science, the division of mathematical science and the department of computer science.

"Dean Bhat is the single most experienced university faculty member on campus," Jim Hopkins, associate dean of general education, said. "There is virtually no aspect of university life from the classroom to the policy-making room that he is unfamiliar with."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
AT COMMENCEMENT CEREMONIES

Moody Coliseum
Southern Methodist University
Dallas, Texas

10:33 A.M. CDT

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you, Dr. Pye, for the introduction, for the invitation, and I'm just delighted to be here. Let me also thank Reverend Finnin for the invocation. And, of course, I was charmed as everybody around here is by the wonderful music of the SMU Symphony Orchestra. I just heard the Anthem, but I'm told they're good on everything. (Applause.)

And may I salute Ray Hunt, your distinguished Chairman. You know, when things were tough for SMU a few years back, this great Mustang led your wonderful university back, working with Dr. Pye and so many others -- led it back to its undisputed place of integrity and excellence. And we all owe him a debt of gratitude. (Applause.)

It's good to be back in Texas. I'm honored by this degree -- even if I haven't put in all those long hours hitting the books at "Charlie's." (Laughter.) I was supposed to say the library, but I learned a little about the senior class.

Let me tell you about a graduation at Yale University. They invited the Bishop. And the Bishop spoke and he went "Y is for youth -- 25 minutes. A is for altruism -- that one lasted about 32 minutes. L -- loyalty; another 45 minutes. E was excellence -- 25 minutes. By the time the guy finished there was a handful of students left, one was in prayer. (Laughter.) And the Bishop went over to him and he said, "Thank you, son. I noticed you, a faithful lad, are praying to God." He said, "Yes, I am thanking God I did not got to Southern Methodist University." (Laughter.)

I will try to accommodate you. I know following this there's presentation of degrees. And I also want to single out Drs. Kay and Pelikan for their work and just am proud to be on the platform with them.

I know this is an exciting day for you and your parents, the close of one important chapter in your lives and the beginning -- a way to look at it is the beginning of many, many more. Right after my own commencement, Barbara and I lit out for Odessa in our 1947 Studebaker to try our hands out there in the oil fields of West Texas. I had many reasons for coming west, but the advice from one family friend tipped the balance. "What you need to do is head out to Texas," he told me. "That's the place for ambitious young people these days."

Now, this was a few years, just a handful of years after World War II -- what seems like a lifetime ago. My friend's advice was some of the best that I've ever had. I believe what he said then still holds true, not only for Texas but for all of America. Members of your graduation class hail from as far away, I'm told, as Czechoslovakia, as near as University Park, and then all the points in between. But for each of you, America is the place where ambition, energy, enthusiasm and hard work are still rewarded; where young people can still feel confidence in their dreams. And I'm a little tired of the pessimism in this country. (Applause.)

So many of us in that class of, way back then, 1948 had been through the war; we'd lost friends and loved ones. But even so, the opportunities America offered on that commencement day seemed limitless. I think many of you wonder whether that holds true for you. This morning I want to make the case that today's America is still a rising nation -- that the country you're inheriting offers those same limitless opportunities that it held for Barbara and for me, and for your parents and for your grandparents.

We all are working to preserve for ourselves and the generations to come three precious legacies: rewarding jobs for all who seek them; strong families; and a world at peace. Tomorrow, up at Notre Dame, I will discuss the things we can do to strengthen our families, the American family. And then next week, at Annapolis at the Naval Academy, I'm going to explore the great issues of war and peace. I might say parenthetically, I think we can all take some pride in the fact that the young kids in the country today go to bed at night without that awful fear of nuclear weapons that some of us had. That is progress. That's something dramatic and that's something important. (Applause.)

But now let me just focus on the first of those legacies -- the economic future. I'm making the case that America's best days lie before us, and I realize that I might not be taking the fashionable view. Much of the conventional wisdom these days portrays America in decline and its energy dissipated, its possibilities exhausted -- a country overrun by economic predators abroad and crippled by the insurmountable problems at home.

These declinists, as they are called, will hate to hear it, but they're saying nothing new. You flip through those history books here in the library, and you'll hear the gloomy predictions sounding again and again. As our western frontier filled up in the late 19th century, even that great American booster, Walt Whitman, worried that soon his country might -- here's the quote -- "prove the most tremendous failure in history." A few years later the "American century" dawned.

In the 1930s, the declinists told us the great depression had made capitalism outmoded. Our victory in World War II put an end to that talk. In the 1950s, the Soviets launched the first satellite, and the pessimists said America had lost the space race -- 12 years before Neil Armstrong, an American, walked on the moon. Still more recently, while many of you were still in grade school, some of our national leaders spoke of an "era of limits" and "malaise" -- right before Americans began the longest peacetime economic expansion in the history of our country.

So the pessimists were wrong. Pessimists always are when they talk about America. The optimists have the safer bet; but there's a difference between optimism and smug self-satisfaction. Americans should never be satisfied with the way things are. "I'm an idealist," said Woodrow Wilson. "That's how I know I'm an American." We still dream big dreams and hold the highest hopes; our restlessness, our refusal to settle for anything less, is what propels us to make those dreams real.

There's something particularly ironic about the pessimism we're seeing today, for it comes at a moment of triumph that few countries in history have been privileged to enjoy. Over the past year we have seen the collapse of a seemingly implacable adversary, an empire deeply hostile to all that Americans cherish. And we've seen emerge from that totalitarian darkness a host of new nations, each struggling with a free and democratic future; each looking to us, each turning to America for leadership.

In light of this, pessimism isn't just ungracious, it's also inaccurate. The fact is America is more than the world's sole military superpower -- though it is that. It's more than the world's political leader -- though it is that, too. It is also the greatest economic power the world has ever seen, a country uniquely able to provide each of you unparalleled opportunity. And it is certain to remain so -- if we refuse to settle for anything less.

First we must see our own situation clearly. That means debunking a few myths -- for myths harm our ability to distinguish our real problems from false ones.

Perhaps you've heard that the American worker is unproductive. In slow economic times people look for scapegoats. You've heard the American worker is unproductive; well, this is a myth. The American worker is the most productive in the industrial world -- 30 percent more productive than his Japanese counterpart. That's why, with one-twentieth of the world's population, we produce one-fourth of the world's goods and services.

Maybe you've heard that the American worker is unskilled. This audience here, about to enter the work force, puts the lie to that claim. In fact, more than one out of every four American workers has a college degree; another 20 percent have one to three years of college education. And in Japan, only one-third of the population goes on to higher education.

Maybe you've heard that our standard of living -- the average American's ability to buy goods and services -- has fallen behind. Again, not true. Measured in purchasing power, our standard of living is far above other industrialized nations.

And here's another myth: that America has fallen behind in science and technology and innovation. Maybe the pessimists should come right here to the campus, come to SMU, talk to the grad students who will be working on the superconducting supercollider next fall. Or they could ask those companies from Switzerland, Germany, Japan, Korea -- and the list goes on -- who open research labs in the U.S., simply to be close to the American scene.

If not science, say the pessimists, then how about industry? You might have heard that American industry is on decline. And they're wrong again. Manufacturing has grown faster than the rest of our economy. In fact, in the last decade, American manufacturing grew faster than the rest of the world combined. From one industry to another, the United States is more progressive and more efficient than its major trading partners: in mining, oil and gas drilling, utilities, transportation, communication, agriculture, forestry, fisheries, construction, scientific instruments, and paper, and glass products, all kinds of different products; textiles, you name it.

This list, too, goes on, but I don't want to overdo it. I don't recite these statistics so we can all pat ourselves on the back. I just want to make a point: America is a strong nation, getting stronger, and we can learn from our success. (Applause.) But those pessimists ignore the lessons of America's leadership. Instead, they push protection. And they push isolation -- a strategy based on the misguided fear that America can't rise to the challenges of a global economy.

The danger is that for all our undeniable strengths, fear of the future could prove to be a self-fulfilling prophecy. And if America turned inward and insulated itself in a cocoon of defeatism, the result would be stagnation, fewer jobs with a lower pay and a diminished standard of living for all.

Our astounding economic success is increasingly dependent on a basic fact: If we are to be prosperous at home, we must lead economically abroad. And in a word, that means trade. America is the world's leading exporter -- $422 billion worth last year alone. And over the past five years, our merchandise exports have grown almost 90 percent, supporting more than seven million jobs.

The defeatists -- well, they pretend that trade is zero-sum game, where one partner's gain must be offset by another's loss. But once again they're wrong -- demonstrably wrong -- and I refuse to squander the gains of the last generation and the hopes of coming generations in this crabbed misreading of America's place in the world. For three years our administration has pursued a policy of open and free trade -- because it does create jobs and opportunity for Americans. Right now, with the support of the people of Texas, we are on the verge of concluding an historic North American Free Trade Agreement, which will create a $6-trillion free trade area from the Yukon to the Yucatan.

Is our policy optimistic? Well, yes, I plead guilty to being an optimist about this country's ability to compete. And do not misunderstand, we've got difficulties ahead. We must deal now with a few alarming trends that endanger our world leadership -- and threaten your future.

I have challenged the Congress to join me in a reform agenda based on the same first principles that underlie our prosperity. Our economic success wasn't hatched in some committee room on Capitol Hill or around a conference table in the White House. It was determined on the shop floor, in the board room, in the research lab, where free men and women weighed the options, took the risks, and made their own decisions. America is the most prosperous nation in history because it also is the freest. That same commitment to limited government, to personal freedom, and to personal responsibility must shape the reforms that we urgently need to undertake.

A radical transformation of our education system, for example, is long overdue. And that means we must allow communities the freedom to create their own break-the-mold schools, giving maximum flexibility to teachers and principals. The G.I. Bill says: Here's some money. Go to the college of your choice. And now I believe the time has come or parents to have the freedom to choose their children's schools at all levels -- public, private or religious. (Applause.)

And in the same way, my plan to reform our health care system makes health care more affordable and accessible, while preserving the all-important benefit of consumer choice.

And I have proposed comprehensive steps to restore sanity to our legal system. The explosion in litigation threatens our economic well-being and, worse, weakens the ethic of personal responsibility that lies at the heart of our national character. (Applause.) America would be a better country if we sued each other less and reached out to help each other more. (Applause.)

And, yes, for those of us in Washington, it is high time to get our own house in order. (Applause.) The federal government must start living within its means. And to discipline both the Executive Branch and the Congress I have long favored a balanced budget amendment. And we will get it, and we need it now. And it's a good thing for our country. (Applause.)

Finally, Y-A-L-E; S-M-U -- (laughter) -- finally, as our country moves forward into the next century, we must resolve that no one is left behind. The riots in L.A. reminded us that we have much more work to do in our own neighborhoods. (Applause.) The American Dream takes root in families whole and caring, in neighborhoods safe and secure, and in schools unsullied by drugs and violence. Every American deserves the opportunity to pursue this dream, unhindered by the ugliness of racism or anti-Semitism, or the benign neglect of a government bureaucracy. (Applause.)

We are past the time for casting blame or making excuses for despair in our inner cities. But we've got to ask ourselves this: "Are the old ways, the old assumptions still good enough?" And I believe the time has come to try the untried, to build a new approach on the principles of dignity and personal initiative and opportunity.

Last week I presented to congressional leaders, in a very harmonious session at the White House, a six-point plan for a New America: First, our "Weed and Seed" anticrime initiative -- weed out the criminals and then seed the neighborhoods with hope. Second, our HOPE initiative, to turn public housing into private homes. Homeownership, I think, is the key when it comes to dignity and stronger families. (Applause.) Third, enterprise zones. Change the tax system so that it will serve as a magnet to bring jobs and investment to the inner city; jobs with dignity. And then, fourth, education reform -- touched on that -- but offer every child the chance at a world-class education. Fifth, welfare reform, to replace the handout with the hand up. And sixth, expanded job training for the young people of our cities.

And when I visited L.A. -- and a very moving trip it was for me -- I came away with a deepened sense of hope for America and her people. We all saw those horrifying acts of violence. But let me tell you another story from L.A. In the heat and chaos of the riots, a pastor named Bennie Newton saw a man being beaten to the ground. And despite the threats and the blows, Reverend Newton walked into the fray and draped his body over the bloody man until the beating stopped. "My heart was crying," said the pastor. He saved the man's life.

America is a nation of Bennie Newtons; and you'll find him in every city, in every town, in every union hall, boy's club, scout troop. You'll find a lot right here at SMU, with your proud tradition of serving others. And few of us, of course, are ever called to take the risks that Reverend Newton did. But every day we face the question posed in the New Testament: "If anyone has the world's goods and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against him, how does God's love abide in him?" (Applause.)

On countless small occasions, each of us is called to open our hearts -- each of us is called to lead, to take responsibility, to show the power of faith in action. I have spoken today of our economic future, about free enterprise, personal liberty, but the freedoms we cherish mean nothing unless they're infused with the old virtues, the time-honored values: honor, honesty, thrift, faith, self-discipline, service to others.

I do not pretend to know the shape of the next century. The genius of a free people defies prediction. Certainly, Barbara and I, when we loaded up our Studebaker for the trip to Odessa so long ago, could never have imagined the technological marvels that our grandchildren take for granted -- fax machines and VCRs, for example -- not to mention the most amazing invention of 1992, the supermarket scanner. (Laughter.)

But I do know this: the next century will be your century. If you believe in freedom, and if you hold fast to your values, and if you remain faithful to our role in the world, it is sure to be yet another American century.

Thank you again. May God bless the graduating class at SMU, and the United States of America. Thank you very, very much. (Applause.)

Graduation 1992

A Passion for Excellence

Since 1915

Southern Methodist University

1992 Seniors:

You have attended SMU during one of the most turbulent times in history. You have witnessed the demise of communism as a significant force in Eastern Europe, the effective partition of the Soviet Union, a war that repelled aggression swiftly at far less cost than was anticipated by many. But you have also witnessed a recession from which the nation has not yet recovered, a mounting federal debt, annual deficits and higher unemployment. Problems such as AIDS, the homeless, the health system, overpopulation, hunger, threats to the environment, and economic inequality persist.

These are among the challenges that you must face and we have confidence that you will do so. SMU has educated you as few in our country have been educated, and you leave this University with talents that even you may not yet fully appreciate. We hope that we have persuaded you that the quality of your education cannot be measured only by how soon you can find a job you want or how much it will pay. These are important, of course, but you do yourself an injustice if you do not appreciate an additional component of an SMU education is that it permits you to have an effect on the major issues of our age. President Vartan Gregorian of Brown University has put it well:

"You have the choice to be a comma, a word, a sentence, a paragraph, or a blank page in the annals of humanity."

SMU is confident that you will make a difference.

Sincerely,

A. Kenneth Pye
President

DEAN JAMES F. JONES

Prior to being appointed dean of Dedman College in the fall of 1991, James F. Jones, served as the chair of the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures for nine years. In his tenure as chair, Jones built the department into one of the nation's most distinguished teaching and scholarly departments in that field. Enrollments increased three-fold during that period despite the lack of a language requirement for graduation. Of the Dean, President Pye commented that "James F. Jones has shown the kind of leadership needed to guide the College in fulfilling its mission of preparing broadly educated leaders for life in a global society."

Dear Graduating Seniors:

A very distinguished, now deceased president of Yale, once was asked to define a university. After a few moments of reflection, and instead of referring to buildings, traditions, history, and the like, Bart Giamatti replied that essentially universities are assemblages of the voices of the past.

On Commencement, your voices will therefore become part of the definition of SMU. Not, mind you, that your voices will cease to play a role in your University's future, but rather that your University's future will be built upon whatever contributions you have made here.

Within the scope of your undergraduate years, you hopefully have been challenged, stretched intellectually, confronted with broad scholastic vistas you never before thought existed, as well as by equally significant personal events, the combination of which should ideally shape your lives forever.

Those of us whom you will leave behind wish you "God's speed," as our forbears were wont to say, on your life's path. And finally, as you are congratulated by family, friends, and teachers, take the time to say "thank you" to your parents and grandparents who first set you upon your way and who surely have made personal and financial sacrifices to enable you to attend a university of this calibre. You might also take a moment or two to say "thank you" to a special teacher or friend here whose voice you too will always carry with you as an emblem of his or her impact upon your life while at SMU.

My colleagues on the faculty and I will look forward with much anticipation to learning of your future accomplishments.

Best wishes to you all,

James F. Jones, Jr.
Dean and Vice Provost

Dedman College

The largest school on campus, Dedman College is also the most diverse. As the liberal arts school, Dedman houses the heart of the University's academic program, the Common Educational Experience. All SMU students start here to gain a basic liberal arts education that will prepare them for their major course of study, as well as graduate school and life in general. Originally, Dedman College was the School of Humanities and Sciences, then the name was changed to the University College. In 1980, the name was changed for the last time to Dedman College in response to the $25 million gift from Robert and Nancy Dedman.

Dallas Hall, the first building on the Hilltop, is the seat of Dedman College and home of liberal arts at SMU. It was constructed in 1915 and renovated in 1971 and was built in the Georgian Revival style of architecture. The building was patterned after the Roman Pantheon and Thomas Jefferson's Library at the University of Virginia. The copper dome rests on a brick octagon and features a skylight wreathed in acanthus leaves. The six Corinthian columns support a tall but shallow portico, the whole resting on a high basement covered with a grand staircase. The building is cooled by 300 tons of air conditioning and was built at a cost of $2,746,367.

It seems like just yesterday I was taking you to pre-school. Your precious dimple and vivacious ways have always been a joy. You used to refer to injured people as walking on "crunches." Throughout your childhood, you always knew where you wanted to go — you were just a little unsure exactly how you were going to get there. We are so very proud of you and your accomplishments. You have grown into such a beautiful young lady and we will ALWAYS cherish this Graduation Day.

C. PAUL ROGERS III

Dean Rogers was appointed Dean of the School of Law on May 11, 1989 after serving as Acting Dean for the 1988-89 year. He has served on the Law faculty at SMU since 1980 and was for four years Associate Dean for Academic Affairs at the Law School. In addition, he has for the past four years served as the University Athletic Representative, and chaired the University's Athletic Council for its first two years. He was recently elected President of the Southwest Athletic Conference. He earned his J.D. in 1973 from the University of Texas and an LL.M. from Columbia University in 1977.

Dear Cox School Graduates,

Soon you will be graduating from one of the finest schools in the country, and I want to congratulate you on this achievement. Along the way, you should have learned much from your professors, your course work, and your peers. More important than the substantive knowledge gained should be a greater knowledge about yourself—how bright and capable you are when you apply yourself.

Hopefully, too, you have learned not only how to learn but the fundamental truth that all of life is learning and improving. Learning should be a demanding yet joyful task, and as always, your own education is in you hands.

Best of luck with your future and your continued growth.

Sincerely,

David H. Blake

Edwin L. Cox School of Business

The Business School was established in 1919 at the request of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. It is named for Edwin L. Cox, a prominent Dallas businessman. The school's logo stands for teaching, research, and the application of knowledge. The B-School, as it is affectionately known by its students, was ranked as one of the top 40 business schools in the country by Business Week and U.S. News and World Report cited the school as one of the nations five "up and coming" business schools..

Cox is one of the most technologically advanced business schools in the nation. A multi-million dollar renovation and expansion in 1987 equipped most of the classrooms with sophisticated video and graphic capabilities and data transmission features that operate through a campus–wide computer network. Cox's commitment to providing an individualized education is achieved through SMU's low student to faculty ratio. Eighty-four percent of business school classes consist of fewer than 50 students, and undergraduate classes are taught by full-time faculty members.

EUGENE BONELLI

As a professor of music, Dean Bonelli was a former Chairman of the Division of Music before being appointed dean in 1978. He holds a bachelor's and master's degrees in piano and a Ph.D. in Music Theory. He is currently Vice-President for Artistic Development and Chairman of the Music Director Search Committee of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. His has also served as the national secretary of the National Association of Schools of Music and President of Pi Kappa Lambda National Music Honor Society.

Graduating Seniors
Meadows School of the Arts
Southern Methodist University

Dear Graduates:

On behalf of all the faculty and staff of the Meadows School , I offer you our warmest congratulations on the occasion of your graduation. Both you and your families can take justifiable pride as you mark this important transition in your life. As a result of your SMU education, you are well-prepared to pursue your career objectives and to uphold the standards and values which have been honed during your years at SMU. The breadth of the general education you have received and the scope of your majors in either communications or the arts will provide the foundation for your future life in a complex and changing world.

You have given much of yourself to this university, and I am happy to acknowledge your many contributions to the enhancement of our academic community. I know you will continue to strive to do your very best in all your future undertakings. When I reflect on the talent and commitment I have seen in your class I have great optimism for the future.

Sincerely,

Eugene Bonelli

Eugene Bonelli
Dean

Meadows School of the Arts

Additions to the Meadows School of the Arts have created an atmosphere of newness to the school this year. The Center for Communication Arts, the Jake and Nancy Hamon Arts Library and the construction of the Greer Garson Theatre are some of the more noticeable changes at Meadows.

As one of the most diverse schools on campus, the Meadows School of the Arts offers students an opportunity to enhance their talents in the fields of music, dance, drama, art and communication.

Meadows Dean Eugene Bonelli believes that serious students can succeed by following a four-step plan. First, students must believe in the importance of art and the significance of art. Second, belief in one's won talent must be present, as well as the motivation to encourage and improve this talent. Third, students must possess self-knowledge and an honest evaluation of their own personality. Finally, student s must strive to produce to the limit of their powers.

PRESIDENT A. KENNETH PYE

A. Kenneth Pye, ninth President of SMU, holds earned degrees from the University of Buffalo (B.A., summa cum laude) and Georgetown University (J.D., LL.M.). After serving two years in the Judge Advocate Generals' Corps of the United States Army, he joined the law faculty at Georgetown as Professor of Law in 1955. He later served as Associate Dean of the Georgetown Law Center. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the American Law Institute.

As a professor of Law at Georgetown and at Duke University, he specialized in the fields of criminal procedure, evidence, and international law, publishing one book and over 50 articles and monographs. Mr. Pye has served as a Fulbright Visiting Professor in the Federal Republic of Germany and Australia, as a visiting professor in India under the auspices of the Ford Foundation, and as a visiting professor at the University of British Columbia. His work in legal education and professional affairs has been highlighted by the presidency of the Association of American Law Schools and four years as a member of House of Delegates of the American Bar Association.

From 1966 to 1987, Mr. Pye was a member of the faculty at Duke University, serving as Professor of Law, University Counsel, Director of International Studies, twice as Dean of the Law School, and twice as Chancellor of the University. In 1982, he was appointed Samuel Fox Mordecai Professor of Law.

He has served on more than 50 national and state commissions, committees, task forces, and editorial boards, including the Borman Commission which investigated the cheating scandal at West Point, the Knight Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics, the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, as Chair of the Committee on Government Relations of the American Council on Education, and as Chair of the Council of the International Exchange of Scholars.

He is now a member of the Board of Directors of the Dallas Citizens Council and the J.C. Penney Co. and chairs the Citizens' Commission on the Texas Judiciary and the Council of Presidents of the Southwest Conference.

He has been honored as a recipient of the St. Thomas More Award by St. Mary's University, the Distinguished Alumnus Award of the State University of Buffalo and honorary doctorate degrees from Belmont Abbey College, Georgetown University and the University of Notre Dame and will receive honorary degrees from Duke University and Alaska Pacific University in May of 1992.

- Moody Coliseum doors will open at 8 a.m. to admit guests. Each guest, with the exception of small children must have a ticket to gain admission. No one without a ticket, including participating students, will be admitted. Seating is on a first-come, first-served basis.
- Candidates participating in the ceremony are encouraged to arrive no later than 9:00 a.m. to begin the assembly for procession.

WEEKEND EVENTS

SPECIAL LUNCHEONS - The SMU Alumni Association, Mothers' Club, and Dads' Club are sponsoring luncheons for the 1992 graduates and their guests on Friday, May 15 and Saturday, May 16. For reservations call the Alumni Association at (214) 987-3712. Perkins School of Theology Office of Community Life is sponsoring a luncheon for Perkins graduates and their families. For reservations, call (214) 692-2293.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE - This is a religious service with a special sermon for the graduation candidates and their guests. Wearing caps and gowns, the candidates process formally into McFarlin Auditorium and are seated together. Weather permitting, the procession begins in the main quadrangle; in case of rain, candidates assemble in the basement of the auditorium. The service lasts about one hour.

PRESIDENTS' FAREWELL - This ceremony, in which the Lamp of Leadership is passed fro the baccalaureate graduating class to next year's senior class, begins immediately after the Baccalaureate Service. Advanced degree candidates are escorted from the auditorium while the undergraduate candidates and the audience remain seated. A trumpet fanfare signals the beginning of the ceremony. Farewells to the Class of 1992 are given by the presidents of the Alumni Association, the University, and the Senior Class. The Farewell lasts about twenty minutes.

PRESIDENTS' RECEPTION - President and Mr. Pye and the Class of 1992 host this gathering to meet the graduation candidates and their families. Deans, faculty and other members of the SMU community are on hand to extend their personal congratulations. Refreshments are served. Attire ranges from nice-casual to Sunday-best.

COMMENCEMENT CONVOCATION - Commencement Convocation is a formal ceremony in which all schools participate. Graduation candidates, faculty, and other University guests wear academic regalia and process formally into Moody Coliseum. A Trumpet Choir and the University Symphony play, doctoral candidates and honorary degree recipients are hooded, the president confers degrees, the Senior Class president and vice president present the class gift. Formal address is to be delivered by President George Bush.

DIPLOMA PRESENTATION CEREMONIES - Wearing caps and gowns, graduates are personally presented with their diplomas in school or departmental ceremonies. The format of each ceremony varies. Detailed instructions for the ceremonies can be obtained from the office of your Academic Dean after April 24.

THE REVEREND DR. ROBERTO ESCAMILLA

The Reverend Dr. Roberto Escamilla, preacher for this year's Baccalaureate Service, has served pastorates in Dallas, and Austin and currently is senior pastor for Jefferson United Methodist Church in San Antonio. Throughout his career, Dr. Escamilla has been active in outreach ministry to both Hispanic and non-Hispanic communities. He most recently organized a support program for families in San Antonio during the Persian Gulf war. He also initiated bilingual programs in Spanish and English to reach persons in both languages.

Dr. Escamilla has been active in evangelism, both nationally and internationally. He is a member of the executive committee of the United Methodist Church's Council on Evangelism, which develops programs for the clergy and laity. He has traveled extensively, particularly in Latin America, on preaching missions and spiritual retreats. He also has served on the Board of Global Ministries in New York City and the Board of Discipleship in Nashville, where he was associate general secretary.

Dr. Escamilla received bachelor degree with cum laude honors from Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa and Iowa Wesleyan College in Mt. Pleasant. He received a Master of Theology degree from SMU's Perkins School of Theology in 1955. While at Perkins, he received the B'nai B'rith Award in Social Ethics and the De Journett Award in Homiletics.

In addition, Dr. Escamilla holds a Master of Arts degree from Trinity University in San Antonio and a Master of Theology degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York City. In 1985 he received several honorary doctor of divinity degrees.

Dr. Escamilla has served as a delegate to general and jurisdictional conferences and has written several articles and publications, including a book of essays titled Prisoners of Hope. He is an instructor at Perkins School of Theology and is an adjunct professor of worship and preaching for McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

ANDRE G. VACROUX

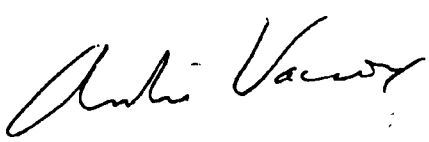
Dr. André Vacroux graduated form the Ecole Supérieure in Paris, France in 1959. He received a MSEE from the University of Notre Dame in 1961, and a Ph.D. in Mechanical Engineering from Purdue University in 1963. Dr. Vacroux became Dean in 1990 after leaving his position as Dean of Engineering and Director of the Telecommunications Systems Center at the Illinois Institute of Technology between 1980 and 1989. In addition to his academic experience, Dr. Vacroux has worked for Bell Telephone Laboratories in Holmdel, NJ from 1972 to 1975 on the development of the M13 digital multiplex. There he pioneered the use of microcomputers in telecommunications systems. Dr. Vacroux has over 60 publications, and serves as Program Evaluator and Accreditation Visitor for the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology.

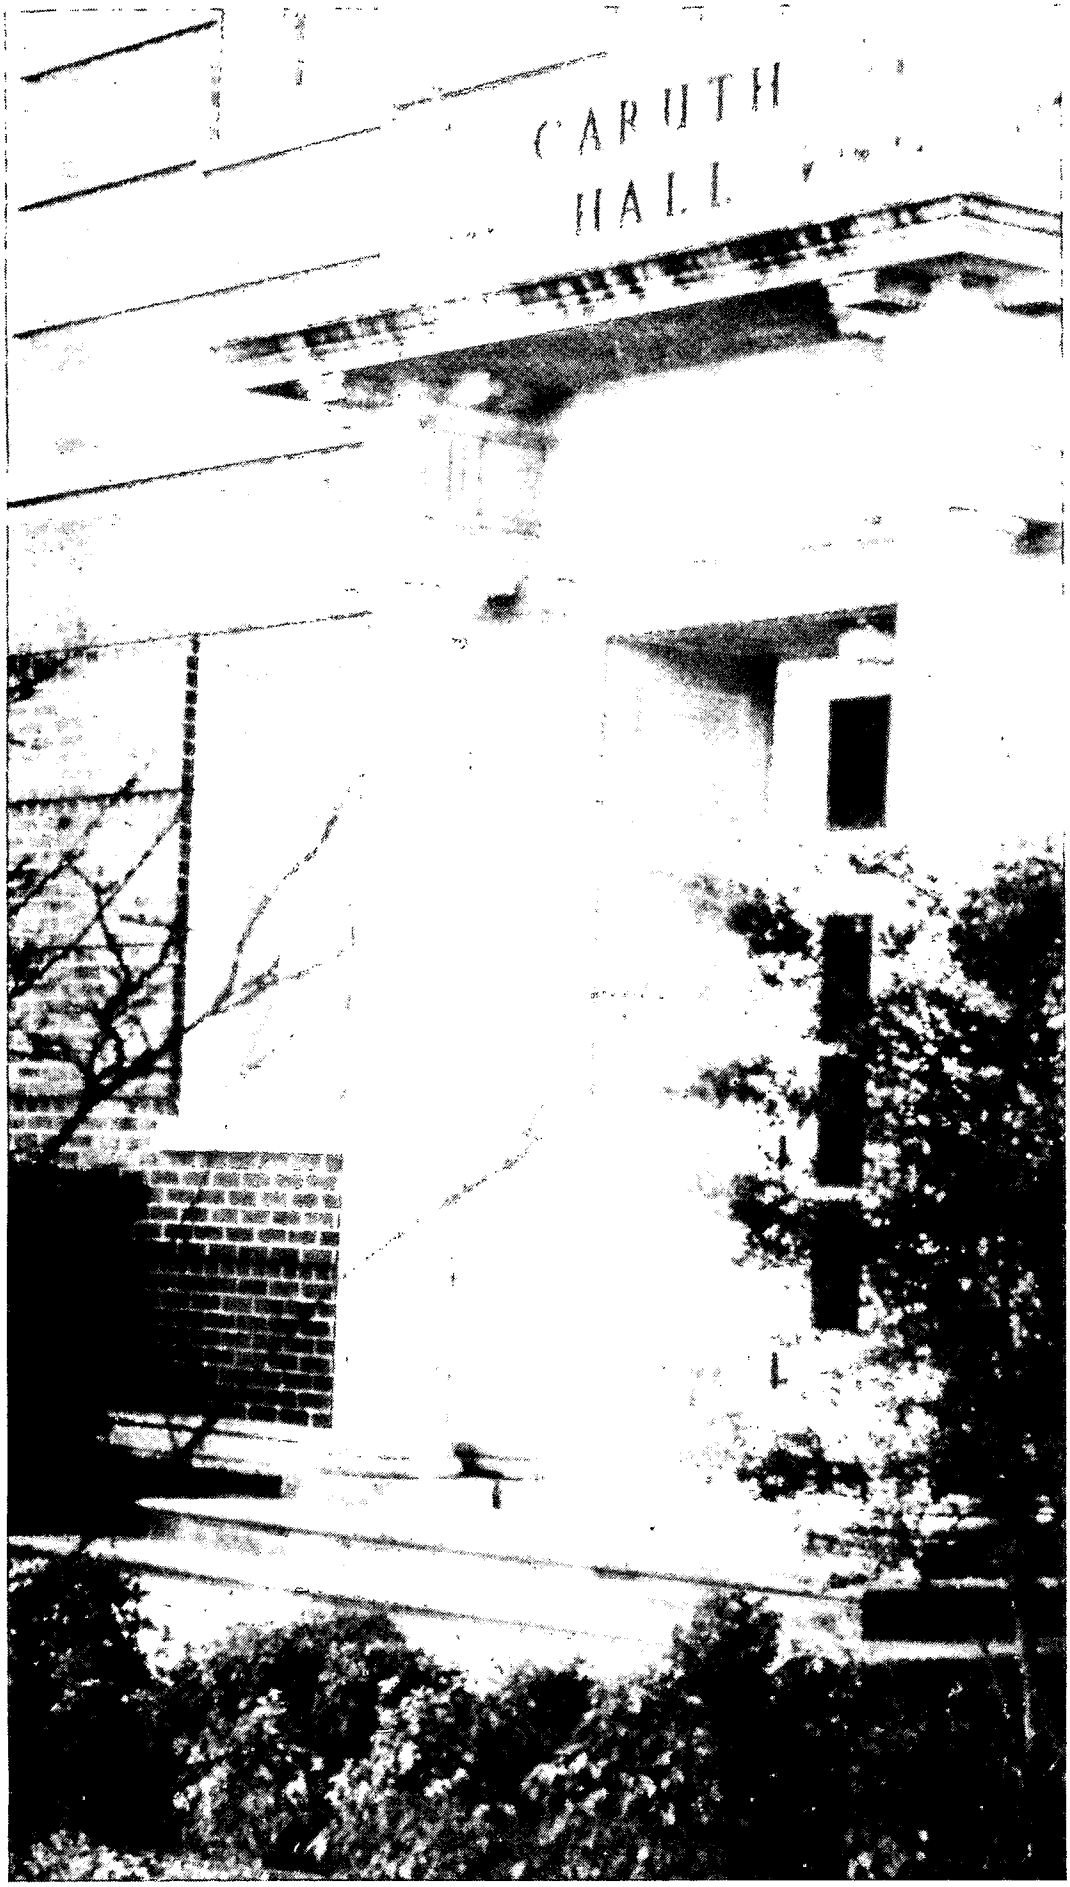
Integrity : A Must for Engineers

Integrity has never been so dear as it has now become in every day matters - that is, in small common place situations. An individual's qualities are better judged by small happenings, rather than those which are highly visible. And it is in regard to these small, almost invisible every day occurrences, that we have become careless and deficient.

In conducting one's professional life, one has to set, and abide by, standards of honesty and truth. Unfortunately however, the rudimentary concepts of truth and honesty in every day affairs have become difficult for most people to adopt, and this is certainly contributing to some of the corruption in our society. Compromises of integrity are commonly made by those bent on achieving personal gain, power and important positions. Unique to our modern society is the general acceptance of a rather superficial expectation of how we should be living our lives; an expectation which is pounded into our minds at every turn of the road, every page of the paper, every flip of the dial. We have come to expect an unrealistic level of possession and riches. Accordingly we sometimes find ourselves in the position of having to slander honor just to maintain the incremental small gains we have achieved.

For the engineer and scientist, integrity must be an essential, strongly engrained attribute; integrity is part of the educational process and must be respected throughout one's professional life. Unprofessional conduct may result in harm to individuals and property, often with long term disastrous effects. For those who cannot accept the virtue of truth and honesty, the discipline does not prove to be a welcome undertaking. For the committed engineer and scientist this virtue becomes a habit, and sidestepping it in other aspects of their lives becomes especially painful. I believe that this is the reason technical people tend to stress accomplishment and achievement, tend to be direct in their statements and individual in their thinking. I also believe that because of this virtue of integrity they are happier, enjoying a greater sense of satisfaction with their life.





School of Engineering and Applied Sciences

The School of Engineering and Applied Science offers courses of study in the traditional engineering areas as well as the newer fields, such as Computer Science, Operations Research, and Electrical Engineering. The purpose of the school is to provide students with knowledge of the professional aspects of engineering and applied sciences within the breadth of the university's liberal arts foundation.

The school is especially proud of its co-op program, which enables students to take alternate terms working in industry and working in the classroom. SMU was one of the first universities in the nation to offer cooperative education, which provides the students with invaluable career experience as well as financial assistance to attend classes.

It's just like you to take hold of life's challenges and give the best you've got, letting nothing hold you back.
It's just like you to go after your goals and to fulfill your potential in the very best way possible.
It's just like you to dream,
to dare,
to do...
And above all,
it's just like you to do it all with love!

C. PAUL ROGERS III

Dean Rogers was appointed Dean of the School of Law on May 11, 1989 after serving as Acting Dean for the 1988-89 year. He has served on the Law faculty at SMU since 1980 and was for four years Associate Dean for Academic Affairs at the Law School. In addition, he has for the past four years served as the University Athletic Representative, and chaired the University's Athletic Council for its first two years. He was recently elected President of the Southwest Athletic Conference. He earned his J.D. in 1973 from the University of Texas and an LL.M. from Columbia University in 1977.

Dear Law School Class of 1992:

I write to congratulate you upon your graduation from the SMU School of Law as a member of the class of 1992. By completing four years of college and three years of arduous professional education, you have signaled your impending entrance into the legal profession, where you will spend your professional lives serving the public. We are proud of your accomplishments; your graduation from Law School is something that very few in our society are able to achieve. We at the Law School have high hopes for your future and know that you will represent your alma mater well in all that you do.

Good luck and God speed.

Sincerely yours,

C. Paul Rogers III

The School of Law

The School of Law at SMU is small, yet it ranks among the leading schools in the nation. Established in 1925, the school has grown into a prestigious, professional institution where students can acquire a high quality education from a faculty of prominent scholars.

The school boasts the Underwood Law Library, which houses more than 350,000 volumes and is considered to be one of the most complete legal archives in the country. Florence Hall contains a courtroom as well as classrooms, giving students a chance to simulate the processes of law that they study.

The School of Law curriculum combines training in the method of law, study of legal principles, and practical experience in handling professional problems. The Juris Doctor, the first degree in law, is designed to prepare students for the practice of private and public law. The school also offers more advanced degrees designed to provide specialized training in such areas as labor law, international law, and taxation.

JAMES E. KIRBY

James E. Kirby, Jr., returned to his alma mater in 1981 to serve as Dean of the Perkins School of Theology and Professor of Church History leaving the position of Dean at Drew University School of Theology. Mr. Kirby received his B.D. and S.T.M. degrees from Perkins School of Theology before earning his Ph.D. at Drew University. He is also the author of numerous articles which have appeared in professional and religious publications. He has received the Distinguished Alumnus award from McMurry College, and served as President of the Association of United Methodist Theological Schools.

Graduating Seniors
Perkins School of Theology

Dear Friends:

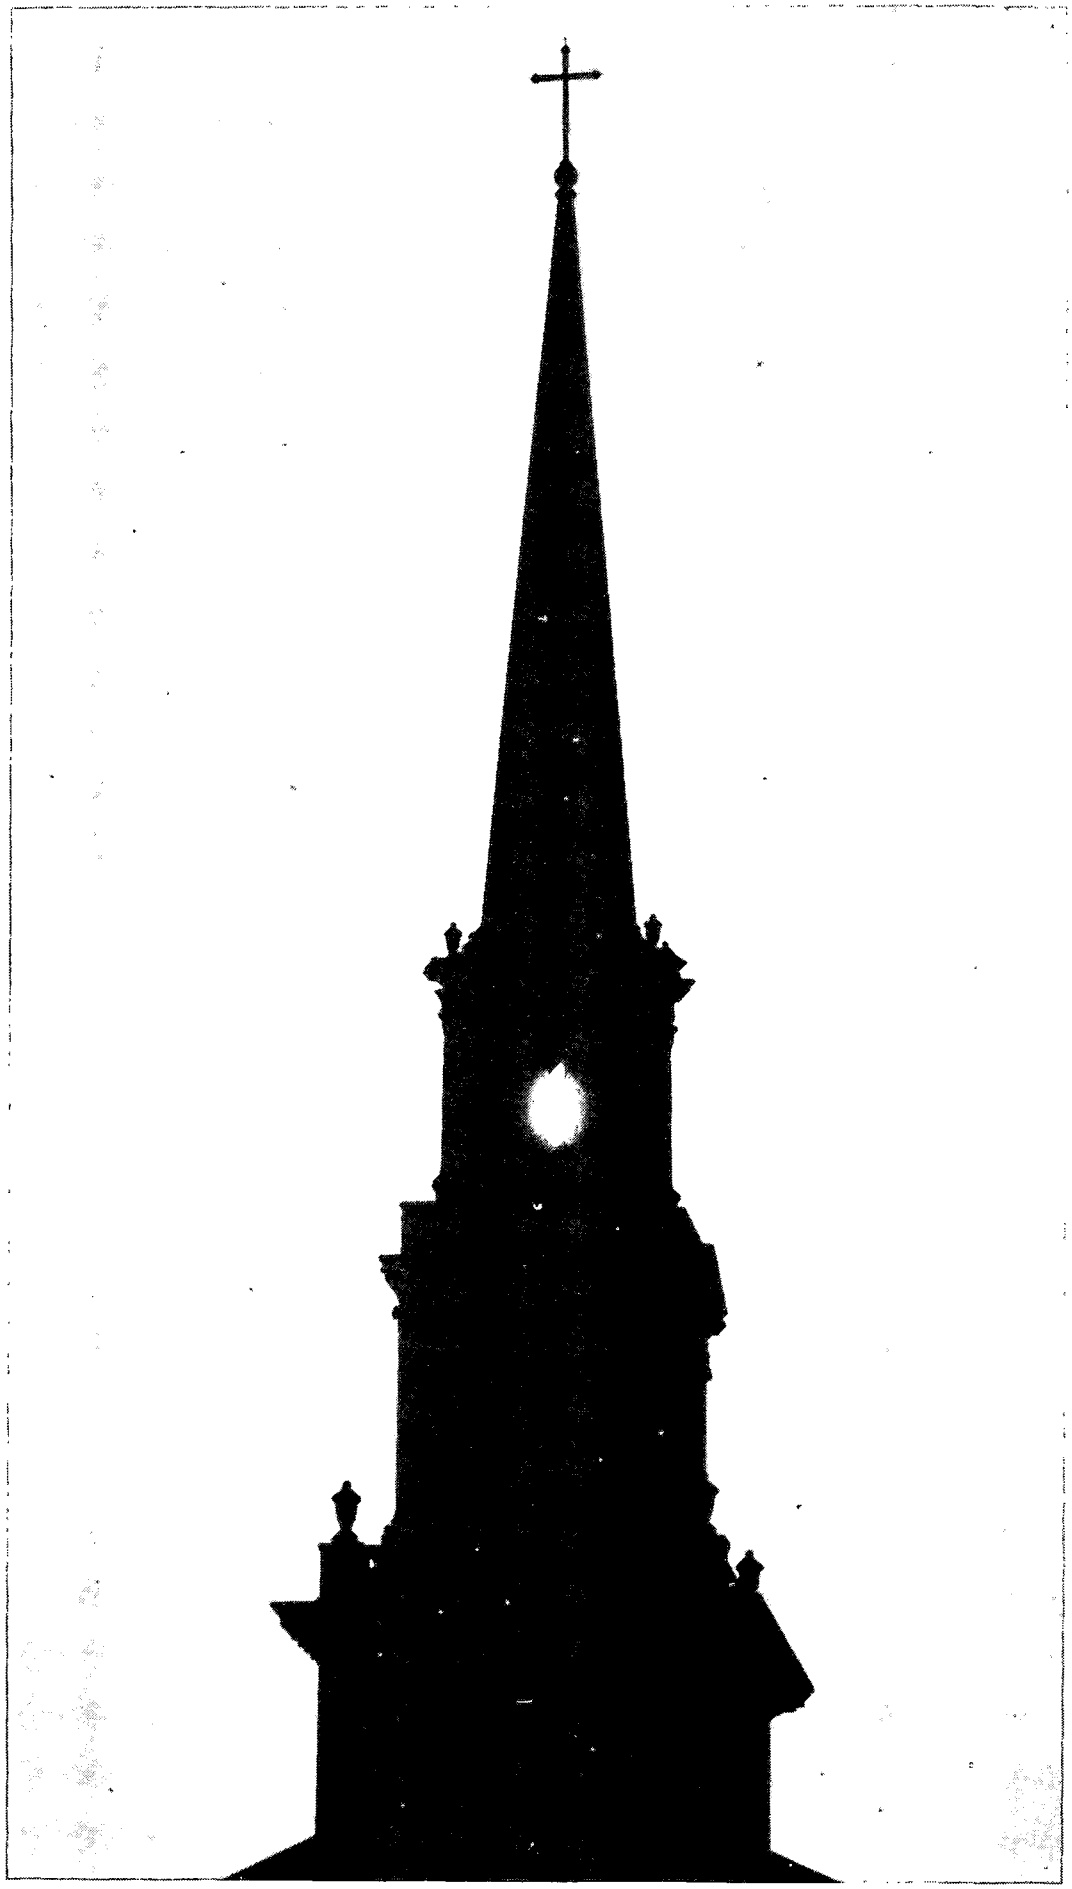
Your years at Perkins are rapidly drawing to a close. If your experience is like mine was, the road seemed very long when the journey was begun and unbelievably short when nearing the end. But long or short, there can be no doubt that the changes which have taken place have been dramatic. You are not the same people who entered, and we have also been changed by knowing and working with you.

I covet for you a fulfilling and challenging life in ministry. There is much to be done and you are prepared to render outstanding service in the places you will go. There are many persons who have needs you can meet, and who will benefit from knowing you. Please know that our thoughts and prayers are with you wherever you go. Think of us from time to time, too, and come back to see us when you can.

My very good wishes go with you.

Sincerely,

James E. Kirby



Perkins School of Theology

Established by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South (now the United Methodist Church) in 1915, the Perkins School of Theology was originally the Methodist Church's official theological school for the region west of the Mississippi River. It is a graduate professional school that combines the study of theology with practical training to prepare men and women for leadership in the church and the academy. The outstanding faculty challenges the students to reflect theologically on faith and human existence, as well as to develop practical skills necessary for a career in the Church.

Perkins is located in its own quad and contains Bridwell Library, an indispensable part of the school that houses more than 250,000 volumes. Some of these volumes date back to the 15th century, and the collection includes one of the original copies of Augustine's "De Civitate Dei."

DR. GEORGE REDDIEN

Dr. George Reddien assumed the position of Dean of Research and Graduate Studies in 1989. Prior to that he served as Associate Provost for Academic Affairs and Chair of the Mathematics department. Dr. Reddien's research specialty is in the field of numerical analysis. He has served as managing editor of the Society of Industrial and Applied Mathematics Journal on Numerical Analysis, has authored over 50 publications, and has received grants from private foundations and the federal government.

Dear Graduate:

I am pleased to offer my congratulations to each of the graduating students who will receive an M.A., M.S., or Ph.D. degree. As you are about to establish yourself in a position in the profession you have chosen, I hope you will continue on a lifelong basis the relationship you have established with your field. Mastery of a subject and the ability to pose and answer questions about its development are truly the significant achievements represented by your advanced degree. I look forward to hearing about the way you use your education in the years ahead.

Best Wishes,

George W. Reddien
Dean, Research and Graduate Studies

Graduate Studies

The Research and Graduate Studies Program supervises admission and admission standards for graduate and doctorate degrees in Dedman College, Edwin L. Cox School of Business, School of Engineering and Applied Science, Meadows School of the Arts, Perkins School of Theology, and the Division of Evening, Summer and Continuing Studies. There are over 3,000 part-time and full-time graduate and professional students. SMU offers a wide variety of graduate and professional degrees through the six graduate and professional schools.

Retiring Faculty

Barbara Gallatin Anderson

Barbara Gallatin Anderson began her graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley and received her doctorate from The Sorbonne, The University of Paris in 1959. Prior to coming to SMU, she taught at the University of California School of Medicine and California State University. She joined the SMU faculty in 1974 as full Professor of Anthropology and as the first woman faculty member in the history of the Anthropology Department. Within one year she launched both Master's and Ph.D. programs "with Specialization in Medical Anthropology." In 1982 Dr. Anderson was Consultant and Coordinator for the United Nations first World Assembly on Aging. In 1983 she was honored with the Chair of University Distinguished Professor of Anthropology. In 1985 and 1986 she served as Director of the SMU-in-Paris program. She has received numerous awards including the State of California Distinguished Teaching Award, SMU's Author's Award, and the federal government's Clara Barton Humanitarian Research Award. Author of seven books and many articles, her most recent manuscript is First Fieldwork: The Misadventures of an Anthropologist. Her work has taken her to Mexico, India, France, Morocco, Japan, Russia and China. She will retire as Professor Emeritus of Anthropology.

Doris M. Davis

After three years at Northwestern University and the University of Michigan, Doris Davis received her B.A. from Southern Methodist University. She holds the M.A. and the D.M.L. (Doctor of Modern Languages) from the Summer Graduate Schools of Middlebury College. Professor at SMU since 1950, she holds an outstanding teacher award as well as the prestigious M Award. Among her community services, she has been a senator, member of the Judiciary Board and Chair for the French Area. She has participated in SCMLA conferences where she has chaired sections and presented papers. However, the main thrust of her university career has been teaching innovations in literature (Surrealism and the Arts) as well as language (Intensive Carpetz Method). Her work-in-progress is a monograph on the modern French poet, Jean Orizet. The highlight of her career is the founding of the SMU-in-Paris program in 1972. She was Director in 1977, 1982-83 and has traveled extensively for the program the past seventeen years. She will retire as Assistant Professor Emeritus of French.

John Deschner

John Deschner received the B.A. from the University of Texas, the B.D. from Yale University Divinity School, and the D.Theol. from the University of Basel, where his dissertation (published as Wesley's Christology: An Interpretation) was directed by Karl Barth. He did a year of post-doctoral study at the University of Heidelberg. Before joining the faculty of the Perkins School of Theology in 1956, he served as an executive officer for the United Student Christian Council, the World Student Christian Federation, and World University Service (International). He has been steadily involved in the ecumenical movement, as an advisor, delegate, and speaker at several assemblies of the World Council of Churches, as moderator of its Commission on Faith and Order from 1983 to 1991, as chairperson of the Theological Commission of the Consultation on Church Union, and as a participant in various other forms of ecumenical discussion and negotiation. At Southern Methodist University, he has served in numerous ways as an interpreter of the university's mission and as an architect of its vision of liberal learning. In 1983 he was named Lehman Professor of Christian Doctrine at Perkins School of Theology. He will retire as Professor Emeritus of Christian Doctrine.

William Eckart

Professor at SMU since 1971, William Eckart received his B.S. in Architecture from Tulane University in 1942 and an M.F.A. in Stage Design from Yale University in 1949. Professor Eckart has been Head of Design Curriculum in the Theatre Division since 1971. He came to SMU after a successful career on Broadway in partnership with his wife, Jean. As William and Jean Eckart, they designed scenery, costumes, and lighting for T.V., films, and numerous Broadway shows and were co-producers of Once Upon A Mattress. Other credits include The Golden Apple; Damn Yankees; Fiorello; Take Her, She's Mine; and Mame. Professor Eckart's professional activities and distinctions include being listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Theatre, and Who's Who in American Theatre. He has also received The Donaldson Award for best scenery for The Golden Apple, 1953-54 and received Tony nominations for Fiorello in 1959 and Mame in 1966. Mr. Eckart published "Designing for the Theatre," in Theatre Arts, July 1960 and has had work included in The Best Plays, Stage Design Throughout the World, and Contemporary Stage Design-U.S.A. He will retire as Professor Emeritus of Theatre.

William R. Farmer

William R. Farmer received the A.B. degree from Occidental College, the B.A. and M.A. from Cambridge University, and the B.D. and Th.D. from Union Theological Seminary in New York. He joined the faculty of the Perkins School of Theology in 1959, having previously taught at Emory University, DePauw University, and Drew University. The focus of his scholarly interests throughout his career has been the question of the relationship of the first three Gospels in the New Testament. His advocacy of the chronological priority of the Gospels of Matthew and of a new approach to New Testament interpretation based on this priority has been carried out through numerous publications, lectures, and conferences, and has won him an international reputation. He has been instrumental in the founding and growth of several major seminars in New Testament studies and related areas. Active in Dallas community affairs, he has given leadership in many ways to the causes of human rights and racial justice, particularly on the local level. He will retire as Professor Emeritus of New Testament.

E. Ted Gardner

Mr. Gardner graduated from Boston University in 1951 with a B.A. degree in music and in 1964 received an M.M. degree from SMU. Previous to his graduate work at SMU, Mr. Gardner was music director for the 3rd Army, taught in the public schools of Needham, Massachusetts, and was involved as a free-lance drummer with bands and orchestras in the New York City area. Since coming to Dallas, Mr. Gardner has been actively involved in audio production, working as the recording director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra and other free-lance activities. At SMU, Mr. Gardner was an instructor in music and history in the Dance Department from 1964 to 1965. In 1968, he joined the Broadcast-Film Arts Division as an instructor of basic and advanced audio techniques. He was also a long-time faculty advisor for KSMU. Many of Mr. Gardner's former students are actively involved in the recording/audio industry, both in Dallas and in other centers such as Los Angeles. He will retire as Assistant Professor Emeritus of Communications.

Thomas Hayward

Professor Hayward, tenor, has had a distinguished career both as performing artist and teacher. Following his debut with the New York City Opera Company in 1945, he won the "Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air" and began a fourteen-year association with the Metropolitan Opera Company. His success with the Met brought concert and opera invitations from across the United States and Canada. He performed with every major symphony orchestra in the United States and Canada. For many years he was the star of his own radio show — "Serenade to America" — broadcast from New York City on the NBC

Network. Thomas Hayward has recorded for RCA Victor, Cambridge, Everest, and Decca recording companies. After a distinguished concert career Thomas Hayward joined the SMU faculty and built a reputation as one of the nation's most outstanding teachers of voice. He is most noted for his development of outstanding students who have won major awards, including the Metropolitan Opera Auditions, and have established international careers. Completing 27 years of service at SMU, he will retire as Professor Emeritus of Voice and Opera.

MARGARET LOFT

Professor at SMU since 1975, Margaret Loft received a B.S. in Speech from Northwestern University in 1947, an M.F.A. in Directing from Carnegie University in 1967 and an M.S.S.W. from the University of Texas at Arlington in 1987. She has been a member of Actor's Equity and the American Federation of TV and Radio Artists. Professor Loft appeared on Broadway in 1952 in The Brass Ring. She is one of the charter theatre faculty members at the Juilliard School which was headed by John Houseman. Professor Loft has been a specialist in speech for actors using the Linklater Method. She has served as vocal/text coach for The Shakespeare Festival of Dallas, the American Shakespeare Festival and Hope Summer Repertory Theatre, Holland, Michigan. Professor Loft also directed The Beaux Stratagem for the Vita Shakespeare Festival, Saratoga, California in 1990 and conducted a workshop in voice and speech at the University of South Florida, Tampa. Professor Loft was cited at the Annual Meeting of the Board of the National Endowment for the Arts for excellence of text and vocal clarity at the Dallas Shakespeare Festival, in Washington, D.C. in 1988; received The Outstanding Faculty/Staff Volunteer Award from SMU in 1990 for recognition of exceptional volunteer service and dedication to the larger community; and was the 1990 Convocation Speaker at SMU. Margaret Loft will retire as Professor Emeritus of Theatre.

CHARLES J. MORRIS

Professor Charles J. Morris received his B.A. from Temple University and his J.D. from Columbia University. After graduation from law school he practiced Labor Law in Dallas for 18 years, where he developed a national reputation. He has served as a member of the SMU Law School faculty since 1966, teaching courses in Labor and Employment Law, Arbitration, Constitutional Law, Civil Procedure, and Evidence. Professor Morris has held visiting faculty appointments at Cornell, University of San Diego and Monash University. He is the author of numerous articles on labor law and a number of books, including two editions of the seminal two volume treatise entitled The Developing Labor Law — The Board, the Courts and the National Labor Relations Act. Professor Morris has been a labor arbitrator since 1968 and has had active experience both in private sector industrial relations disputes and public sector grievance and interest disputes. Professor Morris' honors include a Presidential appointment to membership on the Federal Service Impasses Panel from 1978-82, membership in the National Academy of Arbitrators, the Industrial Relations Research Association, the American Arbitration Association, and the Society of Professionals in Dispute Resolution. He will retire as Professor Emeritus of Law.

BENJAMIN A. PETTY

Professor Petty received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Tulane University in 1942, his Master of Divinity degree from Emory University in 1944, and his Ph.D. degree in Philosophy from Boston University in 1961. He has been at SMU for 38 years, teaching courses offered concurrently in two departments — Religious Studies and Philosophy. He was among the first to teach the Nature of Man course, and was one of the earliest professors involved in the Master of Liberal Arts Program. By his own account, he has, in 38 years of teaching at SMU, offered 33 different credit courses and 29 informal, non-credit courses 473 times with a total enrollment of 13,851 students (an average of 29 per class). In addition to chairing the Philosophy Department for four years, Professor Petty was secretary-treasurer of the SMU Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa for 16 years. He is currently in his 23rd year on the Health Professions Recommendations Committee and in his 25th year as secretary-treasurer of the SMU Chapter of the American Association of University Professors. Since 1975, he has served as a faculty marshal for Commencement each spring and, for the past several years, as platform marshal. He will retire as Associate Professor Emeritus of Philosophy.

Conchita Hassell Winn

Conchita Hassell Winn received her B.A. degree from Barnard College and began her teaching career in 1944 at Columbia University where she received her M.A. in Spanish in 1945, and her Ph.D. in Spanish and Spanish American Literature in 1953. She joined the SMU faculty in 1960 and has chaired the Spanish area of the Department of Foreign Languages, was acting chair of the Mexican American Studies program, and has been Director of the Latin American Studies program for many years. Her research interests include Peruvian literature and the Spanish language newspapers published in Texas. At SMU she has served on the Faculty Senate, the Planning Board, Undergraduate Councils, the All University and Dedman College Graduate Councils, MLA Council, the College Hispanic American Students Council and is one of the founders of the Women's Symposium. Presently she is an officer of the Town and Gown Club. Honors received include SMU's Outstanding Professor Award and M Award for University Service, and the AWS-Samotrace Award and the Hispanic American Students Award. She is an honorary member of the Pan American Round Table III of Dallas, and a Fellow of the Institute of Latin American Studies of the University of Texas at Austin. She will retire as Professor Emeritus of Spanish.

Conferring of Honorary Degrees

GREER GARSON FOGELSON, Doctor of Arts

A respected leading actress in the British theatre, she brought her talents to this country and became one of the most sought-after and appreciated cinema actresses of our time. She brought to life before our eyes and captured our hearts with such indelible screen images as Mrs. Miniver and Madame Curie. Her peers and even her critics honored her with seven Academy Award nominations, four New York Film Critics' Awards and the Golden Globe Award of the Foreign Press and Critics Association. We were joined by 10 other countries in naming her "best actress." Her retirement from the world of acting simply expanded her contributions to the rest of the world, as she joined her late husband in becoming a benefactor to five educational institutions and in giving their own ranch as a wildlife refuge and National Historic Monument. In recognition of her rich heritage of screen and theatre accomplishments and of her farsighted generosity serving education for future generations, we are pleased to confer upon her the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

EDWARD C. FRITZ, Doctor of Humane Letters

Organizer of the National Forest Reform Network and founder of three state and local conservation organizations, he has dedicated much of his career to the preservation of nature's wild places, especially our native forests. With conviction, determination and perseverance, he has been a leader in campaigning against indiscriminate and uncontrolled clearcutting. An attorney and the author of three books about forests, he has drafted federal forest legislation such as the 1984 East Texas Wilderness Act. To save the endangered Red-cockaded Woodpecker, he successfully took the U.S. Forest Service to court to stop clearcutting in 200,000 acres of East Texas forests. Believing that without natural diversity humanity may not survive, he has exerted leadership reflecting a deep love and reverence for plants, trees, prairies, hill country and wetlands and for the wildlife that depend upon them. In recognition of his insight and vision and his courageous leadership and distinguished service, we are pleased to confer upon him, an alumnus of our University, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

ROSS PEROT, Doctor of Humane Letters

Distinguished businessman, legendary entrepreneur, civic-minded advocate, he has exhibited singular vision as a leader of the information-systems revolution and as a reformer of public education. Founder of Electronic Data Systems, he developed the company into an industry leader. In 1979 he directed a team of EDS employees in rescuing two colleagues held hostage in Iran. Working with the U.S. government, he helped to change treatment of U.S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam. At the request of Texas Governor William P. Clements, he chaired the Texan's War on Drugs Committee, leading to the enactment of stricter anti-drug laws. For Texas Governor Mark White he headed the Select Committee on Public Education, resulting in passage of comprehensive reforms. Now chairman of Perot Systems Corporation, he continues his advocacy and philanthropy on behalf of education, health care and the arts. For his outstanding achievements serving society and the public good, SMU is pleased to confer upon him the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

DECHERD HENRY TURNER, Doctor of Humane Letters

With inexhaustible energy, he has consecrated his creative vision to the priesthood of the book. He saw that the art of the book first flowered in the garden of theology. At SMU, he first brought birth to The Bridwell Library. From 1950 to 1980, he assembled one of the world's great collections of books, from the incunabula that enshrine the roots of Western culture in its first printed books to the rarest examples of fine art printing. In his writings and in the collections he chose, he has evoked and enshrined the seamless continuity of the creative process from the apparently secular to the explicitly sacred. With equal insistence he sustained theological research by expanding The Bridwell's scholarly holdings. That achievement, the core of his vocation, had as its capstone eight years as director of the Ransom Humanities Research Center at the University of Texas. In recognition of his commitment to culture, his abiding belief that the past empowers the future, and the excellence he has permanently bound for this University, we are pleased to confer upon him the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

THE ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The academic procession and the regalia worn by the faculty and officers of the University symbolically represent the continuing link between the modern American university and the founding of the great medieval universities in Europe — chief among them Bologna, Paris and Oxford. As those institutions were derived from the Catholic Church, the universities adopted many of the ceremonial trappings of the Church in their official public functions.

The mace of the University, a symbol of the authority vested in the President by the Board of Trustees and representing the covenant between the President and the faculty, is borne by the President of the Faculty Senate, elected by representatives of all faculties (this year, Professor David B. Johnson of the Civil and Mechanical Engineering Department.) Though the order of the procession varies from university to university, at Southern Methodist University it proceeds from the chief marshal through the ranks of the faculty and the officers of the University, to the President, who is preceded by the mace-bearer. At Commencement, the candidates for graduation precede the faculty.

The caps and gowns worn in the procession also vary from place to place. There are variations in design to indicate the degrees held by the wearers, and many universities in America have introduced colorful gowns and other distinguishing details (in place of the customary clerical black from which all originated). The bachelor's gown is a simple robe falling in straight lines from an elaborate yoke. Its distinguishing characteristic is the long pointed sleeves. Masters' gowns are arranged so that the arm emerges from a long sleeve through a slit at the wrist (replacing a former slit at the elbow). In most cases, the doctor's gown is marked by velvet panels down the front and around the neck, and by three bars of the same material on the bell-shaped sleeves. It is cut much fuller than the other gowns, and may be ornamented in color. Faculty colors are occasionally seen in the sleeve bars and paneling.

The caps, too, vary according to the customs of the university from which the wearer received a degree. While most American universities adopted the "mortarboard" style of Oxford, others have chosen styles based on other European institutions. The color of the tassel worn with the cap may be black for any degree; or, the color may be that of the faculty of the major field of learning (e.g. Arts, Engineering, Law, etc.) Persons holding doctoral degrees and governing officials of institutions are entitled to wear tassels of gold metallic thread. Such tassels are usually sewn in place. It is common practice, although not universal, that a ceremony is made of moving the tassel from the right side to the left of the cap at the moment the degree is awarded.

Within the great varieties of styles and colors in gowns and caps, there has been one universally accepted code for the hood worn trailing down the wearer's back. Originally, it was like the hood on the habit worn by monks — and very useful, for protection against the weather and even for begging for alms. Nowadays, the hood through length and color shows the degree and the specialization of the wearer, and the university that granted the degree. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet, and four feet long respectively. The velvet trimming in the same order is two, three, and five inches wide. The color of the trim identifies the faculty. A partial list of faculty colors follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities	White	Music	Pink
Business	Drab	Philosophy	Dark Blue
Engineering	Orange	Science	Golden Yellow
Fine Arts	Brown	Theology	Scarlet
Law	Purple

The lining of the hood — that portion most visible from the rear — indicates the institution awarding the degree. Southern Methodist University's hood lining, for example, is blue with a red chevron.

Through these colorful ceremonies, Southern Methodist University symbolically displays the continuity of its educational purposes with the origins of organized learning in the Western world.
