Presidential Remarks
Campaign Rally
Cincinnati, Ohio
August 27, 1992

Good afternoon everyone -- and thanks for this warm Cincinnati welcome.

I want to mention some of our special guests -- the man with the 50,000 watt voice -- Mike McMurray. Olympians Joe Hudepohl (HEW dah poll) and Tim Austin. And, of course, the guy behind the plate -- Johnny Bench.

Joe and Tim and Johnny know something about competition -- let me tell you -- this year's campaign is about competition -- how America can win the economic competition -- win the peace.

Our nation is anxious today -- we have many questions about our future. Two candidates have stepped forward with two different agendas, two different ideas -- of how to build a stronger, more secure America -- abroad and at home.

Here's what I believe:

I believe that bureaucracy doesn't know best -- people know better.

I believe that the long arm of government is no match for the invisible hand of free enterprise.

I believe that people shouldn't keep government well fed -- government should empower people -- so that they can feed themselves.

Just as you can't build a home without a hammer, you can't build a dream without a job. You need to know which candidate has a plan to fulfill your dreams -- I have the plan that works for America.

My plan starts with the idea that the federal government spends too much of your money -- and the deficit is a dark storm cloud, hovering over our children's future.

I've asked Congress to freeze domestic discretionary spending -- and to get a handle on mandated spending. And to take ^{more than} ~~over~~ 4,000 federal projects and ⁽²⁴⁰⁾ 250 federal programs and send them the way of pet rocks and mood rings.//

2 Congress has said no to my proposals -- so last week I put forth a new idea.

I want to give you -- the taxpayer -- the power to take up to 10 percent of your tax return -- and use it for one purpose only -- to reduce the federal budget deficit.

When it comes to spending your money -- Congress is like that Doritos commercial. They think they can crunch all they want -- you'll pay more. If they can't watch their weight and protect your money -- I say -- let's take the bag away from them.

3 How do we create jobs in America? Well, unlike my opponent, I spent half my life in the private sector -- trying to meet a payroll. I happen to believe that's a pretty good qualification to be President. I've learned from real-world experience -- that you can't have employees, without employers.

So with a new Congress we can cut spending, and then we will cut your taxes -- to give families more money to spend, and businesses more incentives to invest and create jobs.

I also want to get rid of all those crazy lawsuits. If you fall off a step ladder today, a lawyer will be there to catch you -- before you hit the ground. My opponent doesn't believe this is a problem. Earlier this year, the head of the Arkansas Trial Lawyers Association wrote a letter of endorsement for Governor Clinton. He said, "I can never remember an occasion when he failed to do the right thing where we trial lawyers are concerned."

I don't want to coddle the trial lawyers, I want to take them on. I believe that -- as a nation -- we must sue each other less -- and care for each other more.//

My opponent proposes a backdoor government takeover of our health care system. I believe we can control costs -- and extend coverage to the poorest of the poor -- without putting your health care under the control of the same people who brought you the House Bank and the House Post Office.//

Here's some other things I'm fighting for. Welfare reform that encourages families to stick together, and fathers to stick around. Job training to lend a helping hand to workers caught in the transition of our economy.// And I want to revolutionize the way we teach our children -- giving many American parents a new freedom -- the freedom to choose where your kids should go to school. Great public schools, or great private schools like St. Xavier's.//

Where does my opponent stand on the issues? Well, as this campaign gets underway, it's getting harder and harder to tell. He's beginning to turn up in more places than Elvis Presley.

Take the question of whether to stand up to Saddam Hussein - - the most important foreign policy decision of the past four years.

Two days after Congress followed my lead, my opponent said this, and I quote directly: "I guess I would have voted with the majority if it was a close vote. But I agree with the arguments the minority made."

In the Oval Office, when you have to make life and death decisions -- you can't have it both ways -- not when people's lives are stake.//

④ How about the economy? My opponent says that "government takes too little, and gives too much in return." But then he proposes $220 billion in new spending -- plus the largest tax increase in history -- $150 billion dollars.

When it comes to the economy, Governor Clinton offers -- "me-too slogans -- and you too taxes."

Look at the issue of a free trade treaty with Mexico and Canada. It's a great way to help American companies compete in the global economy. Companies like Star Bank, right across the street.

→ Banks don't export, POTUS vip's include Star Bank competitors.

My opponent was once for the trade treaty -- now, after meeting with a few union bosses, he steps forward boldly and courageously announces -- "when I have a definitive opinion, I'll say so."

BC
Detroit
8/21/92

When you're President of the U.S. -- "I'll get back to ya" -
- is not an appropriate answer.//

One more example. A few months ago, Governor Clinton said he wanted to raise fuel efficiency standards for cars to 45 miles per gallon. It sounds like a good idea, but scientists will tell you it is impractical, it will cost lives and most important, it will throw 30,000 Ohioans out of work. Governor Clinton finally figured this out, so on Friday, he sang a different tune. He said -- and I quote -- "I never said that I didn't think there was more than one way to do it, or that we shouldn't be flexible in the way we approach it." Talk about going backwards? The Bengals could use that kind of backpedalling in their secondary.//

Ken
Schwartz
4892

Is there a pattern going on here? Will Governor Clinton say anything to anybody? America can't afford doublespeak, doubletalk, doubletime!//

Watching my opponent on the campaign trail, I'm reminded of the story about the farmer and a certain farm animal. The animal was so slippery -- that it kept slipping out of it's pen. One day, the farmer went looking for it, and followed the animals tracks all over creation. When the farmer returned, his wife asked if he knew where it was. The farmer said, "yes mam, I found him. He's on both sides of the fence."

Governor Clinton is trying to play hokey-pokey with the American people. He puts his left foot in, he puts his left foot out --- but don't kid yourself, it's you -- the American taxpayers -- who are going to be shaken all about!"

Now I know the polls say that I'm behind in this race, but I don't listen to the polls, because I'm going to talk about what's right for America. The special interests may not like it, but I'm going to fight for free trade -- because it means American jobs.// The trial lawyers may make a bundle off our legal system -- but I'm going to make them quake in their tasselled loafers.

The bureaucrats and "government-firsters" may cry out for more spending, and higher taxes -- I'm going to go the other way -- because I'm going to do what is right to get this economy moving again.

In the past four years, we have seen changes around the world we never would have imagined. Now lets roll up our sleeves and get to work -- and realize the opportunities in those changes. Let's send Governor Clinton and his doubletalk back to Arkansas. Give me Mike Devine in the U.S. Senate -- let's Clean House on Capitol Hill.//

We can build a stronger and more secure America -- both abroad and at home.

Thank you very much for listening. God Bless Cincinnati, and God Bless the United States of America.

MEMORANDUM FOR STEVE PROVOST

FROM: ED WALTERS

SUBJECT: CINCINNATI FACTS

First, I haven't been able to find the elephant research grant. I'll keep looking.

Second: Neither David Tell nor I can find the quote on page four of the speech, attributed to Clinton: "government takes too little and gives too much in return." I have enclosed the closest approximations to that quote that Clinton has said (as far as I can find).

Third: Strike reference to Star Bank on page 4. VIP's welcoming the President include Star Bank competitors.

Fourth: FYI - I am told there may be other olympians participating in the rally, but not medalists.

If you have any questions, please give me a call.

1991 Chicago Tribune, December 8, 1991

"Most people have lost faith in the ability of government to have a positive impact on their lives. Out there, you can hear the quiet, troubled voices of forgotten middle-class Americans lamenting the fact that government no longer looks out for their interests or honors their values. . . . They believe the government takes more from them than it gives back and looks the other way when special interests only take from our country and give nothing back.

"And they are right."

Federal News Service, OCTOBER 23, 1991

heard the best speech of the morning already. (Laughter.) I met Ricky Taylor (sp) not at Georgetown but at the Louisiana Democratic Convention where I spoke. He came up and introduced himself to me, ...

... Far away from Washington, in your home towns and mine, most people have lost faith in the ability of government to have a positive impact on their lives. Out there you can hear the quiet, troubled voices of forgotten middle-class Americans lamenting the fact that government no longer looks out for their interest or honors their values -- values like individual responsibility, hard work, family, and community. They believe the government takes more from them than it gives back, and looks the other way when special interests only take from our country and give nothing back. And they're right.

So this new covenant can't be between the politicians and the established interests and the political elites. It can't be just another backroom deal in power, where the people who have power and the people who keep them there make a decision that looks like something it's not. This new covenant can only be ...

... reason they lose the privilege of a driver's license. All over America, we have to reexamine this problem and say: You have a responsibility to stay in school, you have a responsibility to learn; we have a responsibility to give you a good education.

Campaign Rally
Cincinnati, Ohio
August 27, 1992

Good afternoon everyone -- and thanks for this warm Cincinnati welcome.

I want to mention some of our special guests -- the man with the 50,000 watt voice -- Mike McMurray. Olympians Joe Hudepohl (ph.) and Tim Austin. And, of course, the guy behind the plate -- Johnny Bench.

Joe and Tim and Johnny know something about competition -- let me tell you -- this year's campaign is about competition -- how America can win the economic competition -- win the peace.

Our nation is anxious today -- we have many questions about our future. Two candidates have stepped forward with two different agendas, two different ideas -- of how to build a stronger, more secure America -- abroad and at home.

I believe that the long arm of government is no match for the invisible hand of free enterprise./.

I believe that people shouldn't keep government well fed -- government should empower people -- so that they can feed themselves./.

Just as you can't build a home without a hammer, you can't build a dream without a job. You need to know, which candidate has a plan to fulfill your dreams -- and put America back to work. I have the plan that works for America./.

My plan starts with the idea that the federal government spends too much of your money -- and the deficit is a dark storm cloud, hovering over our children's future.

I've asked Congress to freeze federal discretionary spending -- to get a handle on mandated spending -- and to take over 4,000 federal projects and 250 federal programs and send them the way of pet rocks and mood rings.

Congress has said no to my plans -- so now I have a new new idea.

I want to give you -- the taxpayer -- the power to take up to 10 percent of your tax return -- and use it for one purpose only -- to reduce the federal budget deficit.

When it comes to spending your money -- Congress is like that Doritos commercial. They think they can crunch all you want -- you'll pay more. If they can't watch their weight and protect your money -- I say -- lets take the bag away from them.//

How do we create jobs in America? Well, unlike my opponent, I spent half my life in the private sector -- trying to meet a payroll. I happen to believe that's a pretty good qualification to be President. I've learned from real-world experience -- that you can't have employees, without employers.

So with a new Congress, we will cut federal spending, and then we will cut your taxes -- to give families more money to spend, and businesses more incentives to invest and create jobs.

I want to get rid of all those crazy lawsuits, that are choking our economy. We must sue each other less -- and care for each other more.

My opponent proposes a backdoor government takeover of our health care system. I believe we can control costs -- and extend coverage to everyone -- without putting your health care under the control of the same people who brought you the House Bank and the House Post Office.

Two days after Congress followed my lead, my opponent said this, and I quote directly: "I guess I would have voted with the majority if it was a close vote. But I agree with the arguments the minority made."

You've seen that sign along the side of the road -- "slippery when wet."

The economy? My opponent says that "government takes too little, and gives too much in return. " But then he goes out and proposes $220 billion in new spending -- plus the largest tax increase in American history -- $150 billion dollars.

When it comes to the economy, Governor Clinton offers -- "me too slogans -- and you too taxes."

Two days ago, my opponent appeared before the American Legion -- to talk about why he didn't serve in Vietnam, and to do a distinct imitation of a bear -- a "pander bear."

On his military service, Governor Clinton said -- and again I quote: "If my number had been called, I would have served, and gone to Vietnam if so ordered." But he didn't mention that ---

Do you see a pattern developing here?

Look at the issue of a free trade treaty with Mexico and Canada. My opponent was once strongly for it -- now, after meeting with a few union bosses, he steps forward boldly and courageously announces -- "when I have a definitive opinion, I'll say so."

A few months ago, he said he wanted to raise fuel efficiency standards for cars -- throwing 30,000 Ohioans out of work. Then just last Friday, he said -- "

The farmer said, "yes man, I found him. He's on both sides of the fence." I don't get it.

That's the way my opponent is going about this campaign. Governor Clinton is trying to play hokey-pokey with the American people. He puts his left foot in, he puts his left foot out --- but don't kid yourself, it's you -- the American taxpayer -- who are going to be shaken all about!"

because I'm going to do what is right to get this economy moving again.

In past four years, we have seen changes around the world we never would have imagined. Now lets roll up our sleeves and get to work -- and realize the opportunities in those changes.

Let's send Governor Clinton waffling back to Arkansas -- and Clean House in Congress -- so that we can build a stronger and more secure America -- both abroad and at home.

Thank you very much for listening. God Bless Cincinatti, and God Bless the United States of America.

STAR BANK

ATTENTION: MARIA SHEEHAN
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR MEDIA AFFAIRS

FROM: Steve Dale
Assistant Vice President
Star Banc Corporation
Cincinnati, Ohio

RE: Presidential visit, Cincinnati, Ohio, August 27, 1992.

I thought you might be interested in a Cincinnati company that is representative of President Bush's speech at the Republican National Convention regarding success in exporting. When Star Bank received the "E Star" Award, President Bush and Vice President Quayle were unavailable to attend the presentation in Cincinnati. But, since the President will be about 50 feet away from Star Bank during his August 27, 1992 speech on Fountain Square, I thought he might want to elude to a company that is personifying his message. If the President would wish to stop in at our corporate headquarters during his visit we would be greatly honored. Below is some information regarding Star Bank and our success story.

Star Bank, N. A., was selected as the recipient of the President's "E Star" Award, in 1992.

The "E Star" Award is the highest honor given to U. S. firms and organizations involved in exporting.

Star Bank is the only bank in the U. S. to receive the "E Star" Award in 1992, and only the sixth Cincinnati firm in history to be honored with this Presidential commendation.

Star Bank received the "E Star" Award for demonstrating excellence and quality in providing trade services to exporters in the development and expansion of U. S. export markets.

Star Bank was also recognized for maintaining outstanding and creative efforts to arrange financing and limit credit risk for U. S. exporters.

The "E Star" Award recognizes the hard work and quality efforts members of Star Bank's International Department have put forth over the last 30 years. This type of commitment has led Star Bank to increase its export volume by 147 percent in the last three years alone.

The people of Star Bank have given their very best to encourage and support increased U. S. exports, by small and large companies alike.

In addition to offering traditional trade services, Star Bank's International Department provides creative and ingenious solutions to problems encountered by exporters.

Star Bank was only eligible for the "E Star" Award by being a past winner of the "E" Award for Excellence in Exporting.

Star Bank was first honored with the "E" Award in 1963, and has maintained a level of superior contributions to the nation's export expansion efforts since that time.

The "E Star" Award, created in 1969, recognizes the sustained superior performance of "E" Award winning firms and organizations.

The announcement was made by U. S. Secretary of Commerce Barbara H. Franklin.

Star Bank, N.A., the lead bank of Star Banc Corporation, was named in 1991 as one of the two safest banks in Ohio based on the Veribanc Rating Agency's list of Blue Ribbon Banks published in Money Magazine.

Star Banc Corporation has consistently ranked near the top in United States Banker magazine's annual listing of the nation's soundest financial institutions.

Star Banc Corporation is presently ranked 31st among the top 50 stocks for the decade of the '90s by Smart Money magazine, a new Wall Street Journal publication.

Star Banc Corporation ranks 12th among the 100 largest banking companies in United States Banker magazine's 1992 listing of the country's soundest financial institutions in overall performance based on return and risk factors.

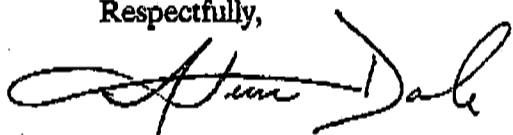

Star Banc Corporation is a multi-state bank holding company with approximately $7.9 billion in total assets, with 11 subsidiaries which currently operate 202 full-service banking offices in Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana.

The corporation recently announced its second consecutive 16 percent increase in 1992 quarterly earnings for the period ending June 30, 1992.

(Please contact me for appropriate names of Star Bank officers to be cited, if you wish to include any of this information in President Bush's remarks in Cincinnati, on Fountain Square, August 27, 1992. Star Bank's corporate headquarters are located just off Fountain Square where the President will be speaking.)
