

Originally Processed With FOIA(s):

FOIA Number:

S

FOIA MARKER

This is not a textual record. This is used as an administrative marker by the George Bush Presidential Library Staff.

Record Group/Collection: George H.W. Bush Presidential Records Collection/Office of Origin: Speechwriting, White House Office of Series: Speech File Draft Files
Subseries: Chron File, 1989-1993

OA/ID Number: 13514
Folder ID Number: 13514-008

Folder Title:
NAACP Fundraising 12/15/89 [OA 3540][1]

Stack:	Row:	Section:	Shelf:	Position:
G	25	6	6	6

THE WHITE HOUSE
EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FACSIMILE TRANSMITTAL SHEET

TO: Kristin Gear

TO: _____

FROM: Marnie Haines

PHONE: _____

COMMENTS:

HHS only had a suggestion that it would be good to confront the issue of racial tension rather than tiptoeing around it.

NUMBER OF PAGES, EXCLUDING COVER SHEET 1

4

been narrowed by the rate of progress. Since 1981, black employment has grown 27 percent -- nearly twice the 15 percent growth in white employment. Between 1981 and 1988, the real median income for black families has grown 12 percent, compared with 10.5 percent for white families.

Some would say this signals the victory of the War on Poverty. But we know better. It was in 1965 that Lyndon Johnson declared his war -- a war of liberation -- a war he said was a struggle not to simply support people, but a struggle to give people a chance. It was a noble effort, but despite of all the good news I just relayed to you, the War on Poverty fell short. It fell short because the cruelest forms of poverty cannot be fought with dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can teach these values -- as leaders, as parents, as communities working with our churches.

Let me give you another example of another form of poverty - the higher incidence of disease and early death in the black community is a kind of poverty, a poverty of health. Cancer, strokes, heart disease -- all afflict black Americans in greater proportions. This shameful disparity in the health of black

Bureau of Labor Statistics
States U.S. → 10.8%

NAACP FUNDRAISER \ WALDORF ASTORIA, NEW YORK
FRIDAY DEC. 15, 1989 \ 8:00 P.M.

THANK YOU, BEN, FOR THAT GRACIOUS INTRODUCTION.

SECRETARY SULLIVAN, GINGER, JOHN AND PATRICIA KLUGE (KLU-GEE), BEN AND FRANCES HOOK, MAYOR-TO-BE DAVID DINKINS, GOVERNOR-ELECT DOUG WILDER, CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR VICTORIES. STEVIE WONDER, THE DUKE ELLINGTON BAND, THANK YOU FOR THE TUNES. NEW YORK AT CHRISTMASTIME HAS A CERTAIN MAGIC -- ESPECIALLY DECKED OUT IN ITS FINEST MIRACLE ON 34TH STREET LOOK.

((YOU KNOW, FOR TWO YEARS, WHEN I WAS AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED NATIONS, BARBARA AND I LIVED IN THIS VERY HOTEL, IN ROOM 42 A. AND WHENEVER I COMPLAINED ABOUT ANYTHING, BARBARA WOULD JUST ROLL HER EYES AND SAY: "JUST WHERE DO YOU THINK WE LIVE? THE WALDORF ASTORIA?"))\ \

THIS IS A TIME WHEN AMERICANS FROM DIFFERENT PROFESSIONS AND POLITICAL PARTIES CAN CELEBRATE COMMON IDEALS.

NOWHERE ARE THESE IDEALS MORE VISIBLE THAN IN THE COMMITMENT AND SOCIAL CONCERNS OF THIS GREAT ASSOCIATION. SINCE THE EARLY DAYS OF THE NIAGARA MOVEMENT, FOR EIGHTY YEARS, THE NAACP HAS PROVIDED LEADERSHIP -- NOT JUST FOR ONE PEOPLE WITHIN AMERICA -- BUT FOR ALL OF AMERICA. \ **

YOUR LEADERSHIP WAS BORN OF TROUBLED TIMES, AND SHARPENED BY ADVERSITY. YOU'VE KNOWN PERSECUTION, AND THROUGH IT, YOU GAINED COMPASSION.

YOU'VE BEEN WITHOUT POWER, AND THROUGH IT, YOU WON EMPOWERMENT. YOU'VE SUFFERED THE IGNORANCE AND BIGOTRY OF SMALL MINDS, AND INSTEAD, YOU BUILT PRIDE AND RESPECT.

GO TO MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA, TODAY. STAND BEFORE THE GRANITE WALL OF THE NEW CIVIL RIGHTS MEMORIAL. AND THROUGH A VEIL OF FLOWING WATER YOU WILL READ THESE WORDS FROM THE BIBLE: ". . . LET JUDGMENT RUN DOWN AS WATERS, AND RIGHTEOUSNESS AS A MIGHTY STREAM."

LIKE A MIGHTY RIVER, JUSTICE CAN CUT A CHANNEL THROUGH THE HARDEST OF STONE. LIKE A MIGHTY RIVER SEEKING THE SEA, JUSTICE WILL, IN THE END, FIND FULFILLMENT. IT HAS BEEN SLOW IN COMING. IT HAS BEEN IMPEDED. BUT ITS JOURNEY IS INEXORABLE BECAUSE JUSTICE CANNOT BE DENIED.\\

ON NOVEMBER 17, I MET WITH BEN AND THE LEADERS OF THE BLACK LEADERSHIP COUNCIL. YOU CHALLENGED ME WITH THE HIGHEST IDEALS OF YOUR MOVEMENT.

NOW LET ME CHALLENGE YOU TO WORK WITH OUR ADMINISTRATION, FROM THIS DAY FORWARD, ON A CAMPAIGN TO BUILD A BETTER AMERICA. \ **

I SEEK A NEW PARTNERSHIP, ONE THAT DRAWS INSPIRATION FROM ACHIEVEMENTS BOTH HOME AND ABROAD -- I SPEAK OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS AND SOLIDARITY MOVEMENTS.

FOR AFTER ALL, FROM THE COUNTRY ROADS OF SELMA TWENTY YEARS AGO TO THE CITY STREETS OF EASTERN EUROPE TODAY, A COMMON REFRAIN ECHOES THROUGH THE HISTORY OF OUR TIMES: "WE SHALL OVERCOME." HAS THE WORLD KNOWN MORE IMPROBABLE HEROES THAN ROSA PARKS AND LECH WALESZA? BUT HEROES THEY ARE.

SO LET US EMULATE THEM BY WORKING TOGETHER. FOR IN SOLIDARITY, WE CAN REASONABLY HOPE THAT WE WILL FINALLY ATTAIN THE FONDEST DREAM OF THE FOUNDERS OF THE NAACP -- A SOCIETY BLIND TO BIGOTRY, A SOCIETY OPEN TO ALL. \\

THE FIGHT AGAINST DISCRIMINATION HAS BEEN THE HISTORIC MISSION OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT -- A MISSION THAT HAS SEEN GREAT SUCCESS, BUT A MISSION THAT HAS YET TO BE COMPLETELY FULFILLED. WE KNOW THAT PREJUDICE AND RACIAL TENSIONS STILL EXIST IN AMERICA.

THAT IS WHY I SUPPORT, AND INTEND TO SIGN INTO LAW, A MEASURE TO COLLECT AS MUCH INFORMATION AS WE CAN ON CRIMES MOTIVATED BY RELIGIOUS, RACIAL OR ETHNIC ANIMOSITY -- THE HATE CRIMES BILL.

AND THAT IS WHY I WORKED WITH THE CONGRESS IN A BIPARTISAN EFFORT TO REAUTHORIZE THE COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS.\

I WILL APPOINT TO THAT COMMISSION MEN AND WOMEN WHO WILL FIGHT AGAINST DISCRIMINATION, AND FIGHT FOR THE CIVIL RIGHTS OF ALL AMERICANS. \\ YOU HAVE MY WORD ON IT.

BUT THERE ARE OTHER MISSIONS FOR THE CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT IN THE 1990s. FROM NOW ON, THE PROTECTION OF CIVIL RIGHTS MUST ALSO MEAN THE REMOVAL OF ALL BARRIERS TO OPPORTUNITY.

OF COURSE, WE CAN BE THANKFUL THAT MANY BLACK AMERICANS ENJOYED ENORMOUS EMPLOYMENT AND INCOME GAINS DURING THE 1980s. BUT THERE ARE FORMS OF POVERTY THAT CANNOT BE MEASURED OR SOLVED BY DOLLARS ALONE.

FIRST AND FOREMOST -- THERE IS A POVERTY OF THE SPIRIT. GOVERNMENT CAN'T TEACH YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN TO HAVE FAITH IN THEMSELVES IF THEIR MOTHERS AND FATHERS HAVE LOST ALL FAITH.

GOVERNMENT CAN'T TEACH THAT ACHIEVEMENT IS TO BE FOUND IN QUIET MOMENTS AND SUBTLE REWARDS, INSTEAD OF THE MURDEROUS MATERIALISM OF EASY DRUG MONEY. BUT, IN A NEW SOLIDARITY, WE CAN INSTILL THESE VALUES. WE CAN CULTIVATE CHARACTER -- AS LEADERS, AS PARENTS, AS TEACHERS, AS COMMUNITIES WORKING WITH OUR CHURCHES.

AND THERE ARE OTHER FORMS OF POVERTY. WHEN PEOPLE, GOING ABOUT THE ORDINARY BUSINESS OF THEIR LIVES -- WAITING FOR A BUS, WALKING TO A CORNER GROCERY STORE -- MUST FEAR FOR THEIR LIVES -- THEN FEAR HAS STOLEN A MOST PRECIOUS POSSESSION -- FREEDOM. LAST WEEK, IN HOUSTON, I SAW SUCH A COMMUNITY WHEN I REVISITED THE DISTRICT I REPRESENTED AS A CONGRESSMAN.

I ALSO SAW A COMMUNITY THAT HAD ENOUGH OF FEAR, HAD ENOUGH OF CRIME, HAD ENOUGH OF DOPE. YOU AND I MUST MARCH WITH THEM, SIDE BY SIDE, BLOCK BY BLOCK, CITY BY CITY. **

THEN THERE IS YET ANOTHER KIND OF POVERTY, A GROWING POVERTY OF KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS. MANY YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN IN THIS COUNTRY -- WHITE, AS WELL AS BLACK -- ARE SIMPLY NOT LEARNING -- NOT LEARNING -- THE BASIC SKILLS THEY NEED TO HOLD DOWN A JOB OR TO RAISE A FAMILY. THAT IS A NATIONAL DISGRACE. **

TO PROVIDE OPPORTUNITY TO OUR YOUNG PEOPLE, WE NEED NEW AND INNOVATIVE ECONOMIC TOOLS. THE TRAINING WAGE, JUST PASSED BY CONGRESS, IS ONE SUCH TOOL.

BUT WE NEED MORE, MUCH MORE, FROM MERIT PAY, TO MAGNET SCHOOLS, TO MORE EFFECTIVE PROGRAMS TO FIGHT ILLITERACY.

I WISH I COULD GO ON, BECAUSE WHAT IS IN MY HEART IS GREATER THAN MY ABILITY TO VOICE IT TONIGHT. BUT IT ALL COMES DOWN THIS: TO TAKE THE LEAD, YOUNG AMERICANS MUST BE HEALTHY, IN BODY AND MIND. THEY MUST BE READY, IN KNOWLEDGE AND PURPOSE.

THEY MUST HAVE OPPORTUNITY. THAT WE MUST PROVIDE THEM.
LET US WORK TOGETHER TO DO JUST THAT.

AND FINALLY, AND UNEQUIVOCALLY, THEY MUST BE FREE FROM DISCRIMINATION. I WILL USE MY NOBLE OFFICE TO SPEAK OUT AGAINST BIGOTRY AND DISCRIMINATION. **

I SPOKE EARLIER OF THE BIBLICAL PROVERB THAT COMPARED RIGHTEOUSNESS TO A MIGHTY STREAM.

THIS SAME VISION CAN BE FOUND IN A POEM BY LANGSTON HUGHES, WHO COMPARED THE ODYSSEY OF BLACK MEN AND WOMEN TO THE CROSSING OF MANY RIVERS. AND WITH EACH CROSSING, THEIR SOULS HAVE GROWN DEEP -- DEEP, LIKE THE RIVERS.

THIS ODYSSEY SHAPED THE SOUL OF A PEOPLE, AND BECAUSE OF YOUR LEADERSHIP, IT ALSO SHAPED THE SOUL OF OUR NATION. GOD BLESS YOU, GOD BLESS AMERICA -- AND MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL.

#

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

1989 DEC 14 PM 1:09

THE PRESIDENT HAS SEEN

Dec. 14, 1989

INFORMATION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

Through: CHRISS WINSTON AW

From: MARK DAVIS MD

Subject: NAACP Dinner

I. SUMMARY: You will address more than a thousand people ~~4~~ major donors, CEOs and NAACP leaders -- before dinner, at the Waldorf Astoria at 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 15. This is a fundraising event, marking the NAACP's 80th year. At the moment, you are scheduled to be introduced by Bill Cosby. Music will be provided by Stevie Wonder and Lionel Hampton. Your remarks will be teleprompted.

II. DISCUSSION: This speech discusses the whole array of Administration initiatives on civil rights, housing, drugs and crime, health and the struggle for opportunity.

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 14, 1989
Draft: Five

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
8 p.m. Friday, December 15, 1989

((Maybe we should take our act on the road. They can bill us as: "The Coz and Mister Smooth." ~~or~~ OR "charisma" 2 (square)

Ben Hooks, good to see you again. David Dinkins, Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Governor Cuomo, great to be back in New York ((other acknowledgements to come.))

Lionel Hampton -- thank you. Good vibes from ~~a good~~ my close friend.\\

((You know for 2 years when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\\

All in all, this is a wonderful evening, a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can come together to celebrate common ideals.

Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, the NAACP has challenged the conscience of a nation. You have provided leadership -- not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and because of them, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

~~Too much~~ ^{Helped by} ~~Because of~~ the activism of the NAACP, justice is on the rise. On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the other major civil rights organizations. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with me and my Administration, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from the achievement of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome."

Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But make no mistake, heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission that has seen great success, but a mission that has yet to be completely fulfilled. We know that prejudice and racial tensions still exist in America. That is why I support, and intend to sign into law, a measure to collect as much information as we can on crimes motivated by religious, racial or ethnic animosity -- the Hate Crimes Bill.

And that is why I worked with the Congress in a bipartisan effort to reauthorize the Commission on Civil Rights.\ I will appoint to that Commission men and women who will fight against discrimination, and fight for the civil rights of all Americans.\

But there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity.

Of course, the barriers to opportunity for black Americans were much more prevalent in the past, even in the recent past. From 1973 to 1981, black employment growth lagged behind that of whites. And real black income declined sharply between 1973 to 1981 -- even as government was spending more on new social programs.

But black Americans have enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. Disparities remain, but they've been narrowed by the rate of progress. Since 1981, black employment has grown 27 percent -- nearly twice the 15 percent growth in white employment. Between 1981 and 1988, the real median income for black families has grown 12 percent, compared with 10.8 percent for white families.

~~Some would say this signals the victory of the War on Poverty. But we know better.~~ It was in 1965 that Lyndon Johnson declared his ^{War - on Poverty} -- a war of liberation -- a war he said was a struggle not simply to support people, but a struggle to give people a chance. It was a noble effort, but despite ^{those promises} ~~all the good~~ ^{things} ~~news~~ I just relayed to you, the War on Poverty fell short. It fell short because the cruelest forms of poverty cannot be fought with dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can instill these values. We can cultivate character -- as leaders, as parents, as teachers, as communities working with our churches.

Let me give you another example of another form of poverty - the higher incidence of disease and early death in the black community is a kind of poverty, a poverty of health. Cancer, strokes, heart disease -- all afflict black Americans in greater proportions. This unacceptable disparity in the health of black Americans is the foremost concern of our Secretary of Health and Human Services, Doctor Louis Sullivan. (And so let us tonight join in solidarity against disease and early death.\\

Disun

There are other forms of poverty. Many Americans lack basic shelter and affordable housing. My HOPE initiative -- Homeownership and Opportunity for People Everywhere -- seeks shelter for the homeless, affordable housing and homeownership for low-income families, help for first-time home-buyers and up to 50 new enterprise zones to create jobs in our most distressed communities.

But opportunity in jobs and housing is not enough. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- freedom. And it is always these communities that can least afford it, that are already economically depressed -- that are the most tragic victims of crime and drugs.

Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. Just as the people of Berlin are standing up for freedom, so the people of this poor Houston neighborhood are rallying together, using people power to fight for another kind of freedom -- from crime, from drugs -- freedom from fear.

You've heard me speak of the thousand points of light. Well, there is no brighter stars than those brave men and women who lead their communities to stand up to drugs and crime. Their journey to this freedom is long and hard. But you and I must march with them in solidarity, side by side, block by block, city by city. Let us declare tonight our new solidarity against crime and drugs.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills.

Many young men and women in this country -white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\\ For the first time in history, we face the prospect that the sons and daughters of America could be less educated than their mothers and fathers. Well, let me tell you - - that is unacceptable and ~~this President~~ ^{I am} is not going to sit by and watch that happen.\\

Neither will American business, because business needs new talent as never before. We are used to thinking of unemployment as a case of too many people, and too few jobs -- a game of musical chairs. All too often, it is minorities who are left standing when the music stops.

But ~~the~~ in the years to come, our problem will be just the opposite: more than enough jobs -- and too few people qualified to fill them. New workers will be in demand -- and the simple fact is that eight of every ten new workers will be women, immigrants or minorities.

Think about what that means. For every child growing up today -- black or white -- there will be a job waiting.\\ The question is whether they will have the education and the skills to seize that opportunity. The new service and manufacturing industries will require higher skills, more training and, at the very least, literacy. Education -- quality education -- is a prerequisite to making a decent living in America.

So we must work together, as never before, to reform our schools. Our mission must be to find a way to bring knowledge and enlightenment to a new generation of Americans. Let us stand in solidarity for the liberation of young minds.

You know my proposals. First, I believe parents deserve choice. They deserve the power to choose their children's child-care, whether that means a grandparent or a church-affiliated center. And then they deserve the power to choose their children's school.

And where disadvantaged children are concerned, Congress appropriated an increase of $151 million in the funding of Head Start to serve up to 37,500 more eligible 4-year-olds. I want to go further. I challenge Congress, when it reconvenes, to increase Head Start funding by $250 million, to serve up to 95,000 more children.

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from merit pay, to magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy. And I believe we need the steps we've taken this year to strengthen and support the Historically Black Colleges and Universities of America. Our proposals respond to the needs of many communities -- of every color. They seek to provide opportunity because civil rights means opportunity, and opportunity requires education, safe streets, and a drug-free community for all Americans. In each ^{of} these measures and so many more, I want and need your active support, your solidarity.

~~((Ben, as a Baptist minister, I'm sure you heard the story of the young preacher who was well into a sermon, and more than a little nervous about how he was doing, when he noticed his wife in the congregation holding up a little sign with the word "Kiss" scrawled on it. Inspired, he went on to speak for another half hour, and afterwards, asked his wife what she thought of the sermon. "Awful," she said. "Don't you know what I mean by 'Kiss.' It stands for 'Keep It Short Stupid.'"))\ \~~

So in this same spirit, I want to say something in conclusion, but straight from the heart. In November, we started a new era of cooperation, the first of many working sessions on the problems that plague America. Now is no time for mere politics. Now is the time to band together -- not for our sake -

 - not for temporary partisan gain -- but in solidarity, for generations to come.

When I talk to young people about what they want out of life, one word keeps cropping up -- adventure. The generation that is coming of age today is poised for a truly great adventure. The world they will know will be as different from today's world as ours is from that of W.E.B. Du Bois. Winds of freedom are sweeping the globe. New democracies are being born.
 Technology is leading us toward new worlds. And Americans must be prepared, as never before, to provide the leadership for the new century.

To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must be free of soul-sapping poverty. And they must be free from discrimination.

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. Thank you, God bless you, and God bless America.

#

#

#

Additions NAACP:

1. Add Sec. Sullivan (Ginger) ✓
John + Patricia Kilgus (Kilgus) ✓
Ben Hooks (Hooks) ✓
Mayor - Elect David Dinkins ✓
Gov - Elect Douglas Wilder ✓
* No Cuomo ✓
Duke Ellington - not ✓ Lionel Hampton ✓

2. Add on "Nov. 17, I met with Ben + others members of the Black Leadership Forum" - Roper + Porter ✓

3. 80th yr ✓

4. Clarence Thomas - not in attendance ✓

5. Solidarity ✓

6. Boskin ✓

NAACP FUNDRAISING
WALDORF, NEW YORK
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1989
8:00 P.M.

THANK YOU, BEN, FOR THAT GRACIOUS INTRODUCTION.

SECRETARY SULLIVAN, GINGER, JOHN AND PATRICIA KLUGE ((KLU-GEE)), BEN AND FRANCES HOOK, MAYOR-TO-BE DAVID DINKINS, GOVERNOR-ELECT DOUG WILDER, CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR VICTORIES. STEVIE WONDER, THE DUKE ELLINGTON BAND, THANK YOU FOR THE TUNES. NEW YORK
AT CHRISTMASTIME HAS A CERTAIN MAGIC -- ESPECIALLY DECKED OUT IN ITS FINEST MIRACLE ON 34TH STREET LOOK.

((YOU KNOW, FOR TWO YEARS, WHEN I WAS AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED NATIONS, BARBARA AND I LIVED IN THIS VERY HOTEL, IN ROOM 42 A. AND WHENEVER I COMPLAINED ABOUT ANYTHING, BARBARA WOULD JUST ROLL HER EYES AND SAY:
"JUST WHERE DO YOU THINK WE LIVE? THE WALDORF ASTORIA?"))\

THIS IS A TIME WHEN AMERICANS FROM DIFFERENT PROFESSIONS AND POLITICAL PARTIES CAN CELEBRATE COMMON IDEALS. NOWHERE ARE THESE IDEALS MORE VISIBLE THAN IN THE COMMITMENT AND SOCIAL CONCERNS OF THIS GREAT ASSOCIATION. SINCE THE EARLY DAYS OF THE NIAGARA MOVEMENT, FOR EIGHTY YEARS, THE NAACP HAS PROVIDED LEADERSHIP -- NOT JUST FOR ONE PEOPLE WITHIN AMERICA -- BUT FOR ALL OF AMERICA.\

YOUR LEADERSHIP WAS BORN OF TROUBLED TIMES, AND SHARPENED BY ADVERSITY. YOU'VE KNOWN PERSECUTION, AND THROUGH IT, YOU GAINED COMPASSION. YOU'VE BEEN WITHOUT POWER, AND THROUGH IT, YOU WON EMPOWERMENT. YOU'VE SUFFERED THE IGNORANCE AND BIGOTRY OF SMALL MINDS, AND INSTEAD, YOU BUILT PRIDE AND RESPECT.\

GO TO MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA, TODAY. STAND BEFORE THE GRANITE WALL OF THE NEW CIVIL RIGHTS MEMORIAL. AND THROUGH A VEIL OF FLOWING WATER YOU WILL READ THESE WORDS FROM THE BIBLE: ". . . LET JUDGMENT RUN DOWN AS WATERS, AND RIGHTEOUSNESS AS A MIGHTY STREAM."\\

LIKE A MIGHTY RIVER, JUSTICE CAN CUT A CHANNEL THROUGH THE HARDEST OF STONE. LIKE A MIGHTY RIVER SEEKING THE SEA, JUSTICE WILL, IN THE END, FIND FULFILLMENT. IT HAS BEEN SLOW IN COMING. IT HAS BEEN IMPEDED. BUT ITS JOURNEY IS INEXORABLE BECAUSE JUSTICE CANNOT BE DENIED.\ \

ON NOVEMBER 17, I MET WITH BEN AND THE LEADERS OF THE BLACK LEADERSHIP COUNCIL. YOU CHALLENGED ME WITH THE HIGHEST IDEALS OF YOUR MOVEMENT. NOW LET ME CHALLENGE YOU TO WORK WITH OUR ADMINISTRATION, FROM THIS DAY FORWARD, ON A CAMPAIGN TO BUILD A BETTER AMERICA.\ \

I SEEK A NEW PARTNERSHIP, ONE THAT DRAWS INSPIRATION FROM ACHIEVEMENTS BOTH HOME AND ABROAD -- I SPEAK OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS AND SOLIDARITY MOVEMENTS. FOR AFTER ALL, FROM THE COUNTRY ROADS OF SELMA TWENTY YEARS AGO TO THE CITY STREETS OF EASTERN EUROPE TODAY, A COMMON REFRAIN ECHOES THROUGH THE HISTORY OF OUR TIMES: "WE SHALL OVERCOME." HAS THE WORLD KNOWN MORE IMPROBABLE HEROES THAN ROSA PARKS AND LECH WALESZA? BUT HEROES THEY ARE.

SO LET US EMULATE THEM BY WORKING TOGETHER. FOR IN SOLIDARITY, WE CAN REASONABLY HOPE THAT WE WILL FINALLY ATTAIN THE FONDEST DREAM OF THE FOUNDERS OF THE NAACP -- A SOCIETY BLIND TO BIGOTRY, A SOCIETY OPEN TO ALL.\

THE FIGHT AGAINST DISCRIMINATION HAS BEEN THE HISTORIC MISSION OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT -- A MISSION THAT HAS SEEN GREAT SUCCESS, BUT A MISSION THAT HAS YET TO BE COMPLETELY FULFILLED. WE KNOW THAT PREJUDICE AND RACIAL TENSIONS STILL EXIST IN AMERICA. THAT IS WHY I SUPPORT, AND INTEND TO SIGN INTO LAW, A MEASURE TO COLLECT AS MUCH INFORMATION AS WE CAN ON CRIMES MOTIVATED BY RELIGIOUS, RACIAL OR ETHNIC ANIMOSITY -- THE HATE CRIMES BILL.

AND THAT IS WHY I WORKED WITH THE CONGRESS IN A BIPARTISAN EFFORT TO REAUTHORIZE THE COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS.\ I WILL APPOINT TO THAT COMMISSION MEN AND WOMEN WHO WILL FIGHT AGAINST DISCRIMINATION, AND FIGHT FOR THE CIVIL RIGHTS OF ALL AMERICANS.\ YOU HAVE MY WORD ON IT.

BUT THERE ARE OTHER MISSIONS FOR THE CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT IN THE 1990's. FROM NOW ON, THE PROTECTION OF CIVIL RIGHTS MUST ALSO MEAN THE REMOVAL OF ALL BARRIERS TO OPPORTUNITY. OF COURSE, WE CAN BE THANKFUL THAT MANY BLACK AMERICANS ENJOYED ENORMOUS EMPLOYMENT AND INCOME GAINS DURING THE 1980's. BUT THERE ARE FORMS OF POVERTY THAT CANNOT BE MEASURED OR SOLVED BY DOLLARS ALONE.

FIRST AND FOREMOST -- THERE IS A POVERTY OF THE SPIRIT. GOVERNMENT CAN'T TEACH YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN TO HAVE FAITH IN THEMSELVES IF THEIR MOTHERS AND FATHERS HAVE LOST ALL FAITH. GOVERNMENT CAN'T TEACH THAT ACHIEVEMENT IS TO BE FOUND IN QUIET MOMENTS AND SUBTLE REWARDS, INSTEAD OF THE MURDEROUS MATERIALISM OF EASY DRUG MONEY. BUT, IN A NEW SOLIDARITY, WE CAN INSTILL THESE VALUES. WE CAN CULTIVATE CHARACTER -- AS LEADERS, AS PARENTS, AS TEACHERS, AS COMMUNITIES WORKING WITH OUR CHURCHES.

AND THERE ARE OTHER FORMS OF POVERTY. WHEN PEOPLE, GOING ABOUT THE ORDINARY BUSINESS OF THEIR LIVES -- WAITING FOR A BUS, WALKING TO A CORNER GROCERY STORE -- MUST FEAR FOR THEIR LIVES -- THEN FEAR HAS STOLEN A MOST PRECIOUS POSSESSION -- FREEDOM. LAST WEEK, IN HOUSTON, I SAW SUCH A COMMUNITY WHEN I REVISITED THE DISTRICT I REPRESENTED AS A CONGRESSMAN. I ALSO SAW A COMMUNITY THAT HAD ENOUGH OF FEAR, HAD ENOUGH OF CRIME, HAD ENOUGH OF DOPE. YOU AND I MUST MARCH WITH THEM, SIDE BY SIDE, BLOCK BY BLOCK, CITY BY CITY.\ \

THEN THERE IS YET ANOTHER KIND OF POVERTY, A GROWING POVERTY OF KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS. MANY YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN IN THIS COUNTRY -- WHITE, AS WELL AS BLACK -- ARE SIMPLY NOT LEARNING -- NOT LEARNING -- THE BASIC SKILLS THEY NEED TO HOLD DOWN A JOB OR TO RAISE A FAMILY. THAT IS A NATIONAL DISGRACE.\ \

TO PROVIDE OPPORTUNITY TO OUR YOUNG PEOPLE, WE NEED NEW AND INNOVATIVE ECONOMIC TOOLS. THE TRAINING WAGE, JUST PASSED BY CONGRESS, IS ONE SUCH TOOL. BUT WE NEED MORE, MUCH MORE, FROM MERIT PAY, TO MAGNET SCHOOLS, TO MORE EFFECTIVE PROGRAMS TO FIGHT ILLITERACY.

I WISH I COULD GO ON, BECAUSE WHAT IS IN MY HEART IS GREATER THAN MY ABILITY TO VOICE IT TONIGHT. BUT IT ALL COMES DOWN THIS: TO TAKE THE LEAD, YOUNG AMERICANS MUST BE HEALTHY, IN BODY AND MIND. THEY MUST BE READY, IN KNOWLEDGE AND PURPOSE. THEY MUST HAVE OPPORTUNITY. THAT WE MUST PROVIDE THEM. LET US WORK TOGETHER TO DO JUST THAT.

AND FINALLY, AND UNEQUIVOCALLY, THEY MUST BE FREE FROM DISCRIMINATION. I WILL USE MY NOBLE OFFICE TO SPEAK OUT AGAINST BIGOTRY AND DISCRIMINATION. \\\

I SPOKE EARLIER OF THE BIBLICAL PROVERB THAT COMPARED RIGHTEOUSNESS TO A MIGHTY STREAM. THIS SAME VISION CAN BE FOUND IN A POEM BY LANGSTON HUGHES, WHO COMPARED THE ODYSSEY OF BLACK MEN AND WOMEN TO THE CROSSING OF MANY RIVERS. AND WITH EACH CROSSING, THEIR SOULS HAVE GROWN DEEP -- DEEP, LIKE THE RIVERS.

THIS ODYSSEY SHAPED THE SOUL OF A PEOPLE, AND BECAUSE OF YOUR LEADERSHIP, IT ALSO SHAPED THE SOUL OF OUR NATION. GOD BLESS YOU, GOD BLESS AMERICA -- AND MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL.

#

#

#

TELEPHONE ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING DINNER IN NEW YORK
8 p.m., Friday, December 15, 1989

Good evening, Ben and Frances Hooks, John and Patricia Kluge ((Klu-GEE)), Mayor-to-be Dinkins and Governor-Elect Wilder. I want you to know how sorry I am to miss this wonderful evening. But, to be perfectly honest, I'm feeling very much under the weather. Even Millie thinks I look as sick as a dog.\\\

Ben, for eighty years, the NAACP has been the conscience of America. I look back to my November 17th meeting with the Black Leadership Conference as another step in an historic partnership. There are so many challenges that confront us -- protecting civil rights, fighting drugs and crime, promoting education and opportunity. Neither of us can go the distance alone. But by standing together, we are bigger than any problem we face.

The words in my heart are much more than I can say to you tonight. I want you to know that I am with you in spirit, tonight and for all my time as your President. You have my word on it.

Finally, I want to thank Secretary and Ginger Sullivan for representing us in New York. And I've asked Lou to share some of my thoughts with you. Good night, God bless you, and God bless America.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

FACSIMILE TRANSMITTAL SHEET

NUMBER OF PAGES INCLUDING COVER 9

DATE 12/15

TO Kay James

FAX NUMBER 245-2247

OFFICE NUMBER _____

COMMENTS The following is teleprompter style, if you need anything more please don't hesitate to call!

FROM Kristen Gear

FAX NUMBER 456-6218

OFFICE NUMBER 456-2930

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

Mr. Wilson

17203

→ 745 ←

July 22 1917

Robert Wilson

Robert Wilson
July 22 1917

248 2247

0481-977

2215-7000

2215-7000

245-1850

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

FACSIMILE TRANSMITTAL SHEET

NUMBER OF PAGES INCLUDING COVER 9

DATE 12/15

TO MR. WILSON

FAX NUMBER 245 - 7203

OFFICE NUMBER _____

COMMENTS _____

FROM _____

FAX NUMBER _____

OFFICE NUMBER _____

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

DECEMBER 15, 1989

INFORMATION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST DD

FROM: MARK DAVIS MD

SUBJECT: NAACP SPEECH

Attached is the revised, shortened text for tonight's speech.

*POTUS CHANGES
P. 1 & P. 5*

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 15, 1989
Draft: Six

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
8 p.m. Friday, December 15, 1989

Thank you, Ben, for that gracious introduction. ((As you can probably tell, I'm a bit under the weather. If I had lost my voice altogether, then I guess I would now be reduced to giving you a slide show of our summer vacation. As it is, I hope you'll forgive me if my remarks are brief.))

Secretary Sullivan, Ginger, John and Patricia Kluge ((Klu-GEE)), Ben and Frances Hook, Mayor-to-be David Dinkins, Governor-elect Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Stevie Wonder, the Duke Ellington band, thank you for the tunes. New York at Christmastime has a certain magic -- especially decked out in its finest Miracle on 34th Street look.

((You know, for two years, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\ \

This is a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can celebrate common ideals. Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, for eighty years, the NAACP has provided leadership --

different joke or leave it

not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and instead, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the Black Leadership Council. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with our Administration, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from achievements both home and abroad -- I speak of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome." Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission that has seen great success, but a mission that has yet to be completely fulfilled. We know that prejudice and racial tensions still exist in America. That is why I support, and intend to sign into law, a measure to collect as much information as we can on crimes motivated by religious, racial or ethnic animosity -- the Hate Crimes Bill.

And that is why I worked with the Congress in a bipartisan effort to reauthorize the Commission on Civil Rights.\ I will appoint to that Commission men and women who will fight against discrimination, and fight for the civil rights of all Americans.\ You have my word on it.

But there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity. Of course, we can be thankful that many black Americans enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. But there are forms of poverty that cannot be measured or solved by dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can instill these values. We can cultivate character -- as leaders, as parents, as teachers, as communities working with our churches.

And there are other forms of poverty. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- freedom. Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. You and I must march with them, side by side, block by block, city by city.\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills. Many young men and women in this country -- white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from merit pay, to magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy.

I wish I could go on, because what is in my heart is greater than my ability to voice it tonight. But it all comes down this: To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must have opportunity. That we must provide them. Finally, and unequivocally, they must be free from discrimination. Let us work together to do just that!

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. God bless you, God bless America -- and Merry Christmas to you all.

#

#

#

HP And finally,

(III) I will use my noble office to speak out against ~~the~~ bigotry & discrimination

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 15, 1989
Draft: Six

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
8 p.m. Friday, December 15, 1989

Thank you, Ben, for that gracious introduction.

Secretary Sullivan, Ginger, John and Patricia Kluge ((Klu-GEE)), Ben and Frances Hook, Mayor-to-be David Dinkins, Governor-elect Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Stevie Wonder, the Duke Ellington band, thank you for the tunes. New York at Christmastime has a certain magic -- especially decked out in its finest Miracle on 34th Street look.

((You know, for two years, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live?
The Waldorf Astoria?"))\\

This is a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can celebrate common ideals. Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, for eighty years, the NAACP has provided leadership -- not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and instead, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the Black Leadership Council. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with our Administration, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from achievements both home and abroad -- I speak of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome." Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission that has seen great success, but a mission that has yet to be completely fulfilled. We know that prejudice and racial tensions still exist in America. That is why I support, and intend to sign into law, a measure to collect as much information as we can on crimes motivated by religious, racial or ethnic animosity -- the Hate Crimes Bill.

And that is why I worked with the Congress in a bipartisan effort to reauthorize the Commission on Civil Rights.\ I will appoint to that Commission men and women who will fight against discrimination, and fight for the civil rights of all Americans.\ You have my word on it.

But there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity. Of course, we can be thankful that many black Americans enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. But there are forms of poverty that cannot be measured or solved by dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can instill these values. We can cultivate character -- as leaders, as parents, as teachers, as communities working with our churches.

And there are other forms of poverty. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- freedom. Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. You and I must march with them, side by side, block by block, city by city.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills. Many young men and women in this country -- white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\\

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from merit pay, to magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy.

I wish I could go on, because what is in my heart is greater than my ability to voice it tonight. But it all comes down this: To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must have opportunity. That we must provide them. Let us work together to do just that.

And finally, and unequivocally, they must be free from discrimination. I will use my noble office to speak out against bigotry and discrimination. \\\

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. God bless you, God bless America -- and Merry Christmas to you all.

#

#

#

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

DECEMBER 15, 1989

INFORMATION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST DD

FROM: MARK DAVIS MD

SUBJECT: NAACP SPEECH

Attached is the revised, shortened text for tonight's speech.

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 15, 1989
Draft: Six

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
8 p.m. Friday, December 15, 1989

Thank you, Ben, for that gracious introduction. ((As you can probably tell, I'm a bit under the weather. If I had lost my voice altogether, then I guess I would now be reduced to giving you a slide show of our summer vacation. As it is, I hope you'll forgive me if my remarks are brief.))

Secretary Sullivan, Ginger, John and Patricia Kluge ((Klu-GEE)), Ben and Frances Hook, Mayor-to-be David Dinkins, Governor-elect Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Stevie Wonder, the Duke Ellington band, thank you for the tunes. New York at Christmastime has a certain magic -- especially decked out in its finest Miracle on 34th Street look.

((You know, for two years, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\\

This is a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can celebrate common ideals. Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, for eighty years, the NAACP has provided leadership --

not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and instead, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the Black Leadership Council. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with our Administration, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from achievements both home and abroad -- I speak of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome." Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission that has seen great success, but a mission that has yet to be completely fulfilled. We know that prejudice and racial tensions still exist in America. That is why I support, and intend to sign into law, a measure to collect as much information as we can on crimes motivated by religious, racial or ethnic animosity -- the Hate Crimes Bill.

And that is why I worked with the Congress in a bipartisan effort to reauthorize the Commission on Civil Rights.\ I will appoint to that Commission men and women who will fight against discrimination, and fight for the civil rights of all Americans.\ You have my word on it.

But there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity. Of course, we can be thankful that many black Americans enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. But there are forms of poverty that cannot be measured or solved by dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can instill these values. We can cultivate character -- as leaders, as parents, as teachers, as communities working with our churches.

And there are other forms of poverty. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- freedom. Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. You and I must march with them, side by side, block by block, city by city.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills. Many young men and women in this country -- white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from merit pay, to magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy.

I wish I could go on, because what is in my heart is greater than my ability to voice it tonight. But it all comes down this: To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must have opportunity. That we must provide them. Finally, and unequivocally, they must be free from discrimination. \\\

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. God bless you, God bless America -- and Merry Christmas to you all.

#

#

#

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 15, 1989
Draft: Six

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
8 p.m. Friday, December 15, 1989

Thank you, Ben, for that gracious introduction. ((As you can probably tell, I'm a bit under the weather. If I had lost my voice altogether, then I guess I would now be reduced to giving you a slide show of our summer vacation. As it is, I hope you'll forgive me if my remarks are brief.))

Secretary Sullivan, Ginger, John and Patricia Kluge ((Klu-GEE)), Ben and Frances Hook, Mayor-to-be David Dinkins, Governor-elect Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Stevie Wonder, the Duke Ellington band, thank you for the tunes. ~~It's great to be back in New York -- especially now that the Big Apple is~~ at Christmastime has a certain magic ~~is~~ decked out in its finest Miracle on 34th Street look.

((You know, for two years, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\\

~~All in all, This is a wonderful evening, a time when~~ Americans from different professions and political parties can celebrate common ideals. Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, for eighty years, the NAACP has provided leadership -- not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and ^{instead} ~~because of them~~, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the Black Leadership Council. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with ~~my~~ ^{our} Administration, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from ~~the~~ achievements ^{both home and abroad - I speak of} of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome."

Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission that has seen great success, but a mission that has yet to be completely fulfilled. We know that prejudice and racial tensions still exist in America. That is why I support, and intend to sign into law, a measure to collect as much information as we can on crimes motivated by religious, racial or ethnic animosity -- the Hate Crimes Bill.

And that is why I worked with the Congress in a bipartisan effort to reauthorize the Commission on Civil Rights.\\ I will appoint to that Commission men and women who will fight against discrimination, and fight for the civil rights of all Americans.\\ you have my word on it. JK

But there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity. Of course, we can be thankful that many black Americans enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. But there are forms of poverty that cannot be measured or solved by dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can instill these values. We can cultivate character -- as leaders, as parents, as teachers, as communities working with our churches.

And there are other forms of poverty. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- freedom. Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. You and I must march with them, side by side, block by block, city by city.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills. Many young men and women in this country -- white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\\

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from merit pay, to magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy.

I wish I could go on, because what is in my heart is greater than my ability to voice it tonight. But it all comes down this: To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must have opportunity. That we must provide them. Finally, and unequivocally, ~~be free of soul sapping poverty.~~ (And they must be free from discrimination.) God bless

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. I wish I could say more. God bless you, God bless America -- and Merry Christmas to you all.

#

#

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

DATE: 12/13/89 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: 12/13/89 5:00 PM

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NAACP

	ACTION FYI			ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SUNUNU	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	NEWMAN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BATES	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	UNTERMEYER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGERS	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
CICCONI	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	WINSTON	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PINKERTON	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	BOSKIN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	 	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HAGIN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	 	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please forward any comments directly to Chriss Winston, Rm. 122, x2930, no later than 5:00 PM TODAY, December 13, with a copy to my office. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

James W. Cicconi
 Assistant to the President and Deputy to the Chief of Staff
 Ext. 2702

1989 DEC 13 AM 9:05

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 12, 1989
Draft: Four

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
Friday, December 15, 1989

((Maybe we should take our act on the road. They can bill us as: "The Coz and Mister Smooth."))\\

Ben Hooks, good to see you again. David Dinkins, Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Governor Cuomo, great to be back in New York ((other acknowledgements to come.))

Lionel Hampton -- thank you. Good vibes from a good friend.\\

((You know, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\\

All in all, this is a wonderful evening, a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can come together to celebrate common ideals.

Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, the NAACP has challenged the conscience of a nation. You have provided leadership -- not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and because of them, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

Because of the activism of the NAACP, justice is on the rise. On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the other major civil rights organizations. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with me and my ^{ADMINISTRATION} ~~Cabinet~~, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from the achievement of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome."

Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But make no mistake, heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope ~~that in the new century, just a decade away, we will finally~~ ^{to} attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\\

(M.K.)

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission ^{that has seen great success,} that has yet to be completely fulfilled. That is why ^{I worked with the Congress in} ~~we~~ reauthorized the Civil Rights Commission. \\ (And that is why I have a surprise for you

(M.K.)

but a M.S.S. on

AND THAT IS WHY I AM COMMITTED TO APPOINTING TO THAT COMMISSION MEN AND WOMEN WHO WILL WORK TOGETHER TO AID THE FIGHT AGAINST DISCRIMINATION AND TO PROMOTE THE CIVIL RIGHTS OF ALL AMERICANS.

~~tonight in announcing a major appointment~~ -- that of ((name)) to the Civil Rights Commission. He is a good man. He deserves your support.))\\

IN THAT VAIN, I WANT TO TAKE THIS THE OPPORTUNITY OF THIS GATHERING TO ANNOUNCE MY APPOINTMENT OF _____ AS CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS.

But I am told by many of you that there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity.

Of course, the barriers to opportunity for black Americans were much more prevalent in the past, even in the recent past. From 1973 to 1981, black employment growth lagged behind that of whites. And real black income declined sharply between 1973 to 1981 -- even as government was spending more on new social programs.

But black Americans have enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. Disparities remain, but they've been narrowed by the rate of progress. Since 1981, black employment has grown 27 percent -- nearly twice the 15 percent growth in white employment. Between 1981 and 1988, the real median income for black families has grown 12 percent, compared with 10.5 percent for white families.

Some would say this signals the victory of the War on Poverty. But we know better. It was in 1965 that Lyndon Johnson declared his war -- a war of liberation -- a war he said was a struggle not ~~to~~ simply support people, but a struggle to give people a chance. It was a noble effort, but despite ~~of~~ all the good news I just relayed to you, the War on Poverty fell short. It fell short because the cruelest forms of poverty cannot be fought with dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we can ^{promote} teach these values -- as leaders, as parents, ^{as teachers} as communities working with our churches.

Let me give you another example of another form of poverty - - the higher incidence of disease and early death in the black community is a kind of poverty, a poverty of health. Cancer, strokes, heart disease -- all afflict black Americans in greater proportions. This ^{UNACCEPTABLE} shameful disparity in the health of black Americans is the foremost concern of our Secretary of Health and Human Services, Doctor Louis Sullivan. And so let us tonight to join in solidarity against disease and early death.\\

There are other forms of poverty. ~~When~~ ^{When} people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- ~~then fear~~ ^{crime} has stolen ~~a~~ most precious possession -- ~~their~~ freedom.

Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. Just as the people of Berlin are standing up for freedom, so the people of this poor Houston neighborhood are rallying together, using people power to fight for another kind of freedom -- freedom from ~~fear~~, ^{and freedom from fear.} crime and drugs. Their journey to this freedom is long and hard. But you and I must march with them in solidarity, side by side, block by block, ^{city by city.} Let us declare tonight our new solidarity against ^{crime and} drugs.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills.

~~A whole generation~~ ^{MANY} of young men and women in this country - white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\\ For the first time in history, we face the prospect that the sons and daughters of America could be less educated than their mothers and fathers.

The ~~the~~ most tragic aspect of this loss is that it is visited most severely on communities with the least to lose: - communities that are already economically depressed.

	Q	J
100	10	15	net	5

$\frac{2}{5}$

3. w.
2. b
10. wb

Well, let me tell you -- that is unacceptable and this President is not going to sit by and watch that happen.\\

Neither will American business, because business needs new talent as never before. ^{As older workers retire and young people begin working,} ~~There is a coming labor shortage in this country, of a kind which we have rarely seen before.~~ Women, ^{an increasingly large} minorities and immigrants will comprise eight out of ten new ^{proportion of our workforce. And} entrants into the job market. Yet the new service and manufacturing industries will ~~also~~ require higher skills, more training and, at the very least, literacy. Education -- quality education ^{is} a prerequisite to making a decent living in America.

So we must work together, as never before, to reform our schools. Our mission must be to find a way to bring knowledge and enlightenment to a new generation of Americans. Let us stand in solidarity for the liberation of young minds.

You know my proposals. First, I believe parents deserve choice. They deserve the power to choose their children's child-care, whether that means a grandparent or a church-affiliated center. And then they deserve the power to choose their children's school.

And where disadvantaged children are concerned, Congress ~~wants to provide an increase of $151 million in the funding of Head Start to serve up to 37,500 more eligible 4-year-olds. I want to go further.~~ [I challenge Congress to increase Head Start funding by $250 million, to serve up to ^{this year} 95,000 more children.]

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by

~~Next year I will again challenge the challenge Congress the Congress to increase resources for HEAD START, and I hope next year the Congress will provide every dollar I request.~~

(H.K.)

*Urban League
Kilos Street
Sino Women
more blacks
JOP not in past but only if they're needs for it.*

REVER

But + service and opportunity requires education, safe streets, and a drug-free community -- regardless of one's color.

7

Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from enterprise zones, to merit pay and magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy. And I believe you are aware of my many actions this year to strengthen and support the Historically Black Colleges and Universities of America. In all these measures and so much more, I want and need your active support, your solidarity.

((Ben, as a Baptist minister, I'm sure you heard the story of the young preacher who was well into a sermon, and more than a little nervous about how he was doing, when he noticed his wife in the congregation holding up a little sign with the word "Kiss" scrawled on it. Inspired, he went on to speak for another half hour, and afterwards, asked his wife what she thought of the sermon. "Awful," she said. "Don't you know what I mean by 'Kiss.' It stands for 'Keep It Short Stupid.'"))\ \

So in this same spirit, I want to say something in conclusion, but straight from the heart. In November, we started a new era of cooperation, the first of many working sessions on the problems that plague America. Now is no time for mere politics. Now is the time to band together -- not for our sake -- not for temporary partisan gain -- but in solidarity, for generations to come.

When I talk to young people about what they want out of life, one word keeps cropping up -- adventure. The generation that is coming of age today is poised for a truly great adventure. The world they will know will be as different from

These ~~initiatives~~ initiatives respond to the needs of many communities -- black and white. They seek to provide opportunity for Americans of all races, religions, and ethnic backgrounds. Certainly there remains a need for the black community and other

Other communities that have been historically disadvantaged.

today's world as ours is from that of W.E.B. Du Bois. Winds of freedom are sweeping the globe. New democracies are being born. Technology is leading us toward new worlds. And Americans must be prepared, as never before, to provide the leadership for the new century.

To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must be free of soul-sapping poverty. And they must be free from discrimination.

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. Thank you, God bless you, and God bless America.

#

#

#

122

cc: MJB
RLS
JB7

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

DATE: 12/13/89 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: 12/13/89 5:00 PM

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NAACP

	ACTION FYI			ACTION FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SUNUNU	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	NEWMAN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BATES	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	UNTERMAYER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGERS	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
CICCONI	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	WINSTON	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PINKERTON	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	BOSKIN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	_____	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HAGIN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	_____	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please forward any comments directly to Chriss Winston, Rm. 122, x2930, no later than 5:00 PM TODAY, December 13, with a copy to my office. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

James W. Cicconi
Assistant to the President
and Deputy to the Chief of Staff
Ext. 2702

1989 DEC 13 AM 9:05

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 12, 1989
Draft: Four

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
Friday, December 15, 1989

((Maybe we should take our act on the road. They can bill us as: "The Coz and Mister Smooth."))\\

Ben Hooks, good to see you again. David Dinkins, Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Governor Cuomo, great to be back in New York ((other acknowledgements to come.))

Lionel Hampton -- thank you. Good vibes from a good friend.\\

((You know, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\\

All in all, this is a wonderful evening, a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can come together to celebrate common ideals.

Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, the NAACP has challenged the conscience of a nation. You have provided leadership -- not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and because of them, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

Because of the activism of the NAACP, justice is on the rise. On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the other major civil rights organizations. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with me and my Cabinet, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from the achievement of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome."

Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But make no mistake, heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that in the new century, just a decade away, we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission that has yet to be completely fulfilled. That is why I reauthorized the Civil Rights Commission.\\ ((And that is why I have a surprise for you tonight in announcing a major appointment -- that of ((name)) to the Civil Rights Commission. He is a good man. He deserves your support.))\\

But I am told by many of you that there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity.

Of course, the barriers to opportunity for black Americans were much more prevalent in the past, even in the recent past. From 1973 to 1981, black employment growth lagged behind that of whites. And real black income declined sharply between 1973 to 1981 -- even as government was spending more on new social programs. X ✓

But black Americans have enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. Disparities remain, but they've X ✓

Americans is the foremost concern of our Secretary of Health and Human Services, Doctor Louis Sullivan. And so let us tonight to join in solidarity against disease and early death.\\

There are other forms of poverty. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- their freedom.

Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. Just as the people of Berlin are standing up for freedom, so the people of this poor Houston neighborhood are rallying together, using people power to fight for another kind of freedom -- freedom from fear, crime and drugs. Their journey to this freedom is long and hard. But you and I must march with them in solidarity, side by side, block by block, city by city. Let us declare tonight our new solidarity against drugs.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills.

A whole generation of young men and women in this country - white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\\ For the first time in history, we face the prospect that the sons and daughters of America could be less educated than their mothers and fathers.

Well, let me tell you -- that is unacceptable and this President is not going to sit by and watch that happen.\\

Neither will American business, because business needs new talent as never before. There is a coming labor shortage in this country, of a kind which we have rarely seen before. Women, minorities and immigrants will comprise eight out of ten new entrants into the job market. Yet the new service and manufacturing industries will also require higher skills, more training and, at the very least, literacy. Education -- quality education is a prerequisite to making a decent living in America.

So we must work together, as never before, to reform our schools. Our mission must be to find a way to bring knowledge and enlightenment to a new generation of Americans. Let us stand in solidarity for the liberation of young minds.

You know my proposals. First, I believe parents deserve choice. They deserve the power to choose their children's child-care, whether that means a grandparent or a church-affiliated center. And then they deserve the power to choose their children's school.

And where disadvantaged children are concerned, Congress wants to provide an increase of $151 million in the funding of Head Start to serve up to 37,500 more eligible 4-year-olds. I want to go further. I challenge Congress to increase Head Start funding by $250 million, to serve up to 95,000 more children.

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from enterprise zones, to merit pay and magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy. And I believe you are aware of my many actions this year to strengthen and support the Historically Black Colleges and Universities of America. In all these measures and so much more, I want and need your active support, your solidarity.

((Ben, as a Baptist minister, I'm sure you heard the story of the young preacher who was well into a sermon, and more than a little nervous about how he was doing, when he noticed his wife in the congregation holding up a little sign with the word "Kiss" scrawled on it. Inspired, he went on to speak for another half hour, and afterwards, asked his wife what she thought of the sermon. "Awful," she said. "Don't you know what I mean by 'Kiss.' It stands for 'Keep It Short Stupid.'"))\ \

So in this same spirit, I want to say something in conclusion, but straight from the heart. In November, we started a new era of cooperation, the first of many working sessions on the problems that plague America. Now is no time for mere politics. Now is the time to band together -- not for our sake -- not for temporary partisan gain -- but in solidarity, for generations to come.

When I talk to young people about what they want out of life, one word keeps cropping up -- adventure. The generation that is coming of age today is poised for a truly great adventure. The world they will know will be as different from today's world as ours is from that of W.E.B. Du Bois. Winds of freedom are sweeping the globe. New democracies are being born. Technology is leading us toward new worlds. And Americans must be prepared, as never before, to provide the leadership for the new century.

To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must be free of soul-sapping poverty. And they must be free from discrimination.

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. Thank you, God bless you, and God bless America.

#

#

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

DATE: 12/13/89 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: 12/13/89 5:00 PM

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NAACP

	ACTION FYI			ACTION FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SUNUNU	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	NEWMAN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BATES	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	UNTERMAYER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGERS	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
CICCONI	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	WINSTON	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PINKERTON	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	BOSKIN x.5042	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HAGIN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please forward any comments directly to Chriss Winston, Rm. 122, x2930, no later than 5:00 PM TODAY, December 13, with a copy to my office. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

James W. Cicconi
 Assistant to the President
 and Deputy to the Chief of Staff
 Ext. 2702

HOPE
undivided man from address - we know
union - we know
know - we know
know - we know
know - we know
know - we know

Mention
H.O.P.E. - *
(see accomp.)
mention
Hates
Crimes
Baptist language

1989 DEC 13 AM 9:05

Davis/Martin
Title: NAACP
Dec. 12, 1989
Draft: Four

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS: NAACP FUNDRAISING, WALDORF, NEW YORK
Friday, December 15, 1989

((Maybe we should take our act on the road. They can bill us as: "The Coz and Mister Smooth."))\

Ben Hooks, good to see you again. David Dinkins, Doug Wilder, congratulations on your victories. Governor Cuomo, great to be back in New York ((other acknowledgements to come.))

Lionel Hampton -- thank you. Good vibes from a good friend.\

((You know, when I was ambassador to the United Nations, Barbara and I lived in this very hotel, in room 42 A. And whenever I complained about anything, Barbara would just roll her eyes and say: "Just where do you think we live? The Waldorf Astoria?"))\

All in all, this is a wonderful evening, a time when Americans from different professions and political parties can come together to celebrate common ideals.

Nowhere are these ideals more visible than in the commitment and social concerns of this great association. Since the early days of the Niagara Movement, the NAACP has challenged the conscience of a nation. You have provided leadership -- not just for one people within America -- but for all of America.\

Your leadership was born of troubled times, and sharpened by adversity. You've known persecution, and through it, you gained compassion. You've been without power, and through it, you won empowerment. You've suffered the ignorance and bigotry of small minds, and because of them, you built pride and respect.\\

Go to Montgomery, Alabama, today. Stand before the granite wall of the new civil rights memorial. And through a veil of flowing water you will read these words from the Bible: ". . . let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."\\

Like a mighty river, justice can cut a channel through the hardest of stone. Like a mighty river seeking the sea, justice will, in the end, find fulfillment. It has been slow in coming. It has been impeded. But its journey is inexorable because justice cannot be denied.\\

Because of the activism of the NAACP, justice is on the rise. On November 17, I met with Ben and the leaders of the other major civil rights organizations. You challenged me with the highest ideals of your movement. Now let me challenge you to work with me and my ^{Administration}~~Cabinet~~, from this day forward, on a campaign to build a better America.\\

I seek a new partnership, one that draws inspiration from the achievement of the civil rights and Solidarity movements. For after all, from the country roads of Selma twenty years ago to the city streets of Eastern Europe today, a common refrain echoes through the history of our times: "We shall overcome."

Has the world known more improbable heroes than Rosa Parks and Lech Walesa? But make no mistake, heroes they are.

So let us emulate them by working together. For in solidarity, we can reasonably hope that ~~in the new century, just a decade away,~~ we will finally attain the fondest dream of the founders of the NAACP -- a society blind to bigotry, a society open to all.\\

The fight against discrimination has been the historic mission of the civil rights movement -- a mission ^{that has seen great success, but a mission} that has yet to be completely fulfilled. ^{work} That is why I ^{worked with the Congress in a bipartisan effort to} reauthorized ^{Commission on} the Civil Rights ~~Commission.~~\\ ((And that is why I have a surprise for you tonight in announcing a major appointment -- that of ((name)) to the Civil Rights Commission. He is a good man. He deserves your support.))\\

But ~~I am told by many of you that~~ there are other missions for the civil rights movement in the 1990s. From now on, the protection of civil rights must also mean the removal of all barriers to opportunity.

Of course, the barriers to opportunity for black Americans were much more prevalent in the past, even in the recent past. From 1973 to 1981, black employment growth lagged behind that of whites. And real black income declined sharply between 1973 to 1981 -- even as government was spending more on new social programs.

But black Americans have enjoyed enormous employment and income gains during the 1980s. Disparities remain, but they've been narrowed by the rate of progress. Since 1981, black employment has grown 27 percent -- nearly twice the 15 percent growth in white employment. Between 1981 and 1988, the real median income for black families has grown 12 percent, compared with 10.~~5~~⁸ percent for white families.

And that's why I will appoint to that Commission men and women who will fight against discrimination and ~~will~~ fight for the civil rights of all Americans II.

Some would say this signals the victory of the War on Poverty. But we know better. It was in 1965 that Lyndon Johnson declared his war -- a war of liberation -- a war he said was a struggle not ~~to~~ simply ^{to} support people, but a struggle to give people a chance. It was a noble effort, but despite ~~of~~ all the good news I just relayed to you, the War on Poverty fell short. It fell short because the cruelest forms of poverty cannot be fought with dollars alone.

First and foremost -- there is a poverty of the spirit. Government can't teach young men and women to have faith in themselves if their mothers and fathers have lost all faith. Government can't teach that achievement is to be found in quiet moments and subtle rewards, instead of the murderous materialism of easy drug money. But, in a new solidarity, we ^{instill} can ~~teach~~ these values, ^{we can cultivate character} -- as leaders, as parents, ^{as teachers}, as communities working with our churches.

Let me give you another example of another form of poverty - - the higher incidence of disease and early death in the black community is a kind of poverty, a poverty of health. Cancer, strokes, heart disease -- all afflict black Americans in greater proportions. This ^{unacceptable} shameful disparity in the health of black Americans is the foremost concern of our Secretary of Health and Human Services, Doctor Louis Sullivan. And so let us tonight ~~to~~ join in solidarity against disease and early death.\\

There are other forms of poverty. When people, going about the ordinary business of their lives -- waiting for a bus, walking to a corner grocery store -- must fear for their lives -- then fear has stolen a most precious possession -- ~~their~~ freedom.

Last week, in Houston, I saw such a community when I revisited the district I represented as a Congressman. I also saw a community that had enough of fear, had enough of crime, had enough of dope. Just as the people of Berlin are standing up for freedom, so the people of this poor Houston neighborhood are rallying together, using people power to fight for another kind of freedom -- ~~freedom from fear~~, ~~crime~~ ^{from} ~~and~~ ^{freedom from fear.} drugs. Their journey to this freedom is long and hard. But you and I must march with them in solidarity, side by side, block by block, city by city. Let us declare tonight our new solidarity against ^{crime and} drugs.\\

Then there is yet another kind of poverty, a growing poverty of knowledge and skills.

~~A whole~~ ^{Many} ~~generation of~~ young men and women in this country - white, as well as black -- are simply not learning -- not learning -- the basic skills they need to hold down a job or to raise a family. That is a national disgrace.\\ For the first time in history, we face the prospect that the sons and daughters of America could be less educated than their mothers and fathers.

And it is the communities ^{who can afford it the least} ~~with the least to lose~~ -- those ~~most severely~~ already economically depressed -- ~~which are the~~ that are the most tragic victims of ^{the} crime and drugs.

Thousands
pts. of light
fused up

Well, let me tell you -- that is unacceptable and this President is not going to sit by and watch that happen.\\

Neither will American business, because business needs new talent as never before. There is a coming labor shortage in this country, of a kind which we have rarely seen before. Women, minorities and immigrants will ~~comprise eight out of ten new entrants~~ into the job market. Yet the new service and manufacturing industries will ~~also~~ require higher skills, more training and, at the very least, literacy. Education -- quality education is a prerequisite to making a decent living in America.

urban league long.
OPP.

So we must work together, as never before, to reform our schools. Our mission must be to find a way to bring knowledge and enlightenment to a new generation of Americans. Let us stand in solidarity for the liberation of young minds.

You know my proposals. First, I believe parents deserve choice. They deserve the power to choose their children's child-care, whether that means a grandparent or a church-affiliated center. And then they deserve the power to choose their children's school.

And where disadvantaged children are concerned, Congress ~~wants to provide~~ ^{appropriated} an increase of $151 million in the funding of Head Start to serve up to 37,500 more eligible 4-year-olds. I want to go further. I challenge Congress to increase Head Start funding ^{when it reconvenes} by $250 million, to serve up to 95,000 more children.

To provide opportunity to our young people, we need new and innovative economic tools. The training wage, just passed by our proposals respond to the needs of many communities - of every color. ~~be~~ They seek to provide opportunity because

7

~~But I believe that~~ civil rights means opportunity, and opportunity requires education, safe streets, and a drug-free community for all Americans.

Congress, is one such tool. But we need more, much more, from enterprise zones, to merit pay and magnet schools, to more effective programs to fight illiteracy. And I believe ~~you are~~ ^{we need} ~~the steps we've taken~~ aware of my many actions this year to strengthen and support the Historically Black Colleges and Universities of America. In all ^{each} these measures and so ^{many} much more, I want and need your active support, your solidarity.

((Ben, as a Baptist minister, I'm sure you heard the story of the young preacher who was well into a sermon, and more than a little nervous about how he was doing, when he noticed his wife in the congregation holding up a little sign with the word "Kiss" scrawled on it. Inspired, he went on to speak for another half hour, and afterwards, asked his wife what she thought of the sermon. "Awful," she said. "Don't you know what I mean by 'Kiss.' It stands for 'Keep It Short Stupid.'"))\ \

So in this same spirit, I want to say something in conclusion, but straight from the heart. In November, we started a new era of cooperation, the first of many working sessions on the problems that plague America. Now is no time for mere politics. Now is the time to band together -- not for our sake - - not for temporary partisan gain -- but in solidarity, for generations to come.

When I talk to young people about what they want out of life, one word keeps cropping up -- adventure. The generation that is coming of age today is poised for a truly great adventure. The world they will know will be as different from today's world as ours is from that of W.E.B. Du Bois. Winds of freedom are sweeping the globe. New democracies are being born. Technology is leading us toward new worlds. And Americans must be prepared, as never before, to provide the leadership for the new century.

To take the lead, young Americans must be healthy, in body and mind. They must be ready, in knowledge and purpose. They must be free of soul-sapping poverty. And they must be free from discrimination.

I spoke earlier of the Biblical proverb that compared righteousness to a mighty stream. This same vision can be found in a poem by Langston Hughes, who compared the odyssey of black men and women to the crossing of many rivers. And with each crossing, their souls have grown deep -- deep, like the rivers.

This odyssey shaped the soul of a people, and because of your leadership, it also shaped the soul of our nation. Thank you, God bless you, and God bless America.

#

#

#