VIDEO MESSAGE FOR THE AMERICAN RECREATION COALITION

What a pleasure it is to join ^{you} the American Recreation Coalition in ^{this} celebration of the Wallop-Breaux ^{Trust} Fund.

I'm sure most of you know my fondness for grabbing a rod, gathering a few friends together and heading for the relaxation of fishing ^{and boating.} Whether its Maine or Florida or somewhere else in this wonderful land of ours -- there's nothing like a brief sojourn on our beautiful waterways.

Like you, I believe that we must restore our Nation's fisheries and enhance boating opportunities. ^{And I enjoyed working with} Many of you ~~here~~ ^{today} were involved, and we were all delighted when legislation was signed in 1984 creating the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund -- known as the Wallop-Breaux fund. This unique fund is helping improve boating safety, making our sport fisheries more productive, and making it easier to get to the Nation's public waters.

But, the Wallop-Breaux program is special for another reason. It's entirely funded by the Nation's anglers and boaters through federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and fuel used in motorboats. The monies are earmarked and automatically returned as matching grants to state boating and fishing ^{agencies} ~~programs~~ and as appropriations for Coast Guard recreational boating ^{accounts} ~~programs~~.

Each of us who fish or boat is an active partner in Wallop-Breaux. Together, we're adding to the wonderful legacy of the outdoors left for us by previous generations of Americans. And we, in turn, are helping to leave our children and grandchildren a more beautiful world where they too can enjoy America's Great Outdoors.

Thank you, each of you, for your part in the Wallop-Breaux success story.

PROPOSED VIDEO MESSAGE
1990 LAW ENFORCEMENT EXPLORERS CONFERENCE

Good evening. It's wonderful to join you in the shadow of the Rockies as you ~~conclude~~^{begin} the 1990 Law Enforcement Explorers Conference. I'm sure it ~~is~~^{will be} an exciting and educational week for each of you interested in pursuing law enforcement careers.

In these ~~last~~^{next} few days, the experience ~~you've~~^{you'll} gathered, the friendships ~~you've~~^{you'll make} made, will last a lifetime. ~~You've~~^{You will have} had hands-on experience learning about the criminal justice system, discovered career requirements and learned about citizenship, self-discipline and patience. But, most importantly, ~~you've~~^{you'll} learned from the very best law enforcement professionals who know what it's like to be in the field, putting their lives on the line to protect others.

There is no more noble calling, no higher honor, than to serve your fellow citizens as a law enforcement officer. Over the years, I've met officers in every corner of this country. And every time, I've come away impressed with their dedication to duty, that fierce desire to serve and protect. To them, putting on that badge every morning is a tremendous source of pride.

At the federal level, we are adding new agents to battle the increase in crime associated with the scourge of drugs. We're looking for young people who have the drive and determination needed to save our communities from this terrible plague. So I encourage you to continue your education. Because we need the best to join America's finest.

God bless you all, and may your future be worthy of your dreams.

VIDEO MESSAGE FOR THE 108TH KNIGHTS OF
COLUMBUS SUPREME MEETING

It's a great pleasure to join ^{Supreme Knight Virgil Dechant and} the Knights of Columbus for your 108th supreme meeting. You've picked a great state, the Lone Star State, and a beautiful city, San Antonio, to hold your annual convention.

The Knights of Columbus was founded by a young Catholic priest, Father Michael J. McGivney, in response to the needs of immigrant, late 19th-century America. And in the 108 years since your founding, the Knights have taken to heart Father McGivney's dream of helping those in need through your compassion, your love and your commitment to community service.

I often talk of a "thousand points of light" -- people helping people. The Knights have known of power of community service for decades. Last year alone, the Knights raised over ⁹² $85 million for charitable causes and gave over ³² 27 million hours of your time, talents, and energy to those in need. That's part of the reason the Knights of Columbus received one of my first Volunteer Action Awards for outstanding community service. You are truly one of our shining stars.

Thank you for including me in today's convention. Barbara joins me in saluting the wonderful work you perform every day in communities across our great Nation. Thank you, best of luck, and God bless you all.

VIDEO MESSAGE FOR THE NATIONAL BAR ASSOCIATION

President Duckenfield, members and friends of the National Bar Association, it's wonderful to join you as you begin the Annual Convention of the National Bar Association.

In 65 years, your association has, without question, stood for the American ideal of equal justice under the law. Your lawyers, thousands strong, have been true points of hope for all those who believe in our Constitution. Your distinguished membership reads like a roll call of the outstanding legal minds of our time -- scholars like Thurgood Marshall, Charles Hamilton Houston, Spotswood Robinson, and Sadie Tanner Alexander.

The insightful work and scholarship of these and other outstanding lawyers have strengthened our country. Without question, our Nation has benefitted because of the commitment and action of so many African-American lawyers to the fundamental principles of equality and justice for all.

But more of our young lawyers -- especially minorities and women -- must be given the chance to pursue judicial careers. Our Administration has begun an outreach program to identify minorities and women for appointment to vacancies on the federal bench. And I'm encouraging the N-B-A as well as the other minority and women bars to continue programs that promote candidates for vacancies on the federal bench across the land.

It's imperative that our judiciary remains representative. It's in keeping with America's strong commitment to democratic principles and gives real meaning to the saying that "the strength of our nation is in its diversity."

Thank you for including me in today's proceedings. Have a great convention, and God bless you all.

PRESIDENT: One of the saddest things in the world is a promising young athlete overtaken not by a competition but by a drug problem. But there are people out there helping kids stay away from drugs -- the Partnership for a Drug-Free America, the people at the Goodwill Games, and Olympic gold medal champion -- Evelyn Ashford.

ASHFORD: Thank you, Mr. President. I've been able to live my dream. I've been to three Olympics, and I'm taking part in the 1990 Goodwill Games. But young athletes in our country need to take this to heart -- if you do drugs your dreams will die.

What a pleasure it is to join the American Recreation Coalition in a celebration of the Wallop-Breaux Fund.

I'm sure most of you know my fondness for grabbing a rod, gathering a few friends together and heading for the ^{water} relaxation of fishing. Whether its Maine or Florida or somewhere else in this wonderful land of ours -- there's nothing like a brief ^{respite} sojourn on our beautiful ^{tranquil lakes, rivers and streams} waterways.

Like you, I believe that we must restore our Nation's fisheries and enhance boating opportunities. Many of you here today were involved, and we were all delighted when legislation was signed in 1984 creating the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund -- known as the Wallop-Breaux fund. This unique fund is helping improve boating safety, making our sport fisheries more productive, and making it easier to ^{gain} ~~get~~ ^{access} to the Nation's public waters.

But, the Wallop-Breaux program is special for another reason. It's entirely funded by the Nation's anglers and boaters through federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and fuel used in motorboats. The monies are earmarked and automatically returned as matching grants to state boating and fishing programs and as appropriations for Coast Guard recreational boating programs.

Each of us who fish or boat is an active partner in Wallop-Breaux. Together, we're adding to the wonderful legacy of the outdoors left for us by previous generations of Americans. And from the frantic pace of daily life

we, in turn, are helping to leave our children and grandchildren a more beautiful world where they too can enjoy America's Great Outdoors.

Thank you, each of you, for your part in the Wallop-Breaux success story.

VIDEO MESSAGE FOR THE 108TH KNIGHTS OF
COLUMBUS SUPREME MEETING

It's a great pleasure to join the Knights of Columbus for your 108th supreme meeting. You've picked a great state, the Lone Star State, and a beautiful city, San Antonio, to hold your annual convention.

The Knights of Columbus was founded by a young Catholic priest, Father Michael J. McGivney, in response to the needs of immigrant, ⁱⁿ late 19th-century America. And in the 108 years since your founding, the Knights have taken to heart Father McGivney's dream of helping those in need through your compassion, your love and your commitment to community service.

I often talk of a "thousand points of light" -- ^{one person} people helping people. The Knights have known of power of community service for decades. Last year alone, the Knights raised over $85 million for charitable causes and gave over 27 million hours ^{of} your time, talents, and energy to those in need. That's part of the reason the Knights of Columbus received one of my first Volunteer Action Awards for outstanding community service. You are truly one of our shining stars.

Thank you for including me in today's convention. Barbara joins me in saluting the wonderful work you perform every day in communities across our great Nation. Thank you, best of luck, and God bless you all.

PROPOSED VIDEO MESSAGE
1990 LAW ENFORCEMENT EXPLORERS CONFERENCE

Good evening. It's wonderful to join you in the shadow of the Rockies as you conclude the 1990 Law Enforcement Explorers Conference. I'm sure it's been an exciting and educational week for each of you interested in pursuing law enforcement careers.

In these last few days, the experience you've gathered, the friendships you've made, will last a lifetime. You've had hands-on experience learning about the criminal justice system, discovered career requirements and learned about citizenship, self-discipline and patience. But, most importantly, you've learned from the very best law enforcement professionals who know what it's like to be in the field, putting their lives on the line to protect others.

There is no more noble calling, no higher honor, than to serve your fellow citizens as a law enforcement officer. Over the years, I've met officers in every corner of this country. And every time, I've come away impressed with their dedication to duty, that fierce desire to serve and protect. To them, putting on that badge every morning is a tremendous source of pride.

At the federal level, we are adding new agents to battle the increase in crime associated with the scourge of drugs. We're looking for young people who have the drive and determination needed to save our communities from this terrible plague. So I encourage you to continue your education. Because we need the best to join America's finest.

God bless you all, and may your future be worthy of your dreams.

VIDEO MESSAGE FOR THE AMERICAN RECREATION COALITION

What a pleasure it is to join the American Recreation Coalition in a celebration of the Wallop-Breaux Fund.

I'm sure most of you know my fondness for grabbing a rod, gathering a few friends together and heading for the relaxation of fishing. Whether its Maine or Florida or somewhere else in this wonderful land of ours -- there's nothing like a brief sojourn on our beautiful waterways.

Like you, I believe that we must restore our Nation's fisheries and enhance boating opportunities. Many of you here today were involved, and we were all delighted when legislation was signed in 1984 creating the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund -- known as the Wallop-Breaux fund. This unique fund is helping improve boating safety, making our sport fisheries more productive, and making it easier to get to the Nation's public waters.

But, the Wallop-Breaux program is special for another reason. It's entirely funded by the Nation's anglers and boaters through federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and fuel used in motorboats. The monies are earmarked and automatically returned as matching grants to state boating and fishing programs and as appropriations for Coast Guard recreational boating programs.

Each of us who fish or boat is an active partner in Wallop-Breaux. Together, we're adding to the wonderful legacy of the outdoors left for us by previous generations of Americans. And we, in turn, are helping to leave our children and grandchildren a more beautiful world where they too can enjoy America's Great Outdoors.

Thank you, each of you, for your part in the Wallop-Breaux success story.

Proposed 60 Second Public Service Announcement For The Goodwill Games With Evelyn Ashford

PRESIDENT: One of the saddest things in the world is a promising young athlete overtaken not by a competition but by a drug problem. But there are people out there helping kids stay away from drugs -- the Partnership for a Drug-Free America, the people at the Goodwill Games, and Olympic gold medal champion -- Evelyn Ashford.

ASHFORD: Thank you, Mr. President. I've been able to live my dream. I've been to three Olympics, and I'm taking part in the 1990 Goodwill Games. But young athletes in our country need to take this to heart -- if you do drugs your dreams will die.

PRESIDENT: That's right, Evelyn. Whether you're working for an Olympic medal, or just dreaming of a bright life ahead, remember: If you want to go the distance, you gotta be drug free.

PROPOSED 30 SECOND PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR THE GOODWILL GAMES WITH EVELYN ASHFORD

PRESIDENT: One of my greatest joys is to talk about America's young people -- and the importance of keeping them free from drugs. And track star Evelyn Ashford has been helping our kids do just that.

ASHFORD: Thank you, Mr. President. "Free from drugs." That's an important idea. The best way to succeed and feel good about yourself -- is to be drug-free.

PRESIDENT: That's right, Evelyn. And when you're drug-free not only do you win in sports /// but also in life.

VIDEO MESSAGE FOR THE 108TH KNIGHTS OF
COLUMBUS SUPREME MEETING

It's a great pleasure to join the Knights of Columbus for your 108th supreme meeting. You've picked a great state, the Lone Star State, and a beautiful city, San Antonio, to hold your annual convention.

The Knights of Columbus was founded by a young Catholic priest, Father Michael J. McGivney, in response to the needs of immigrant, late 19th-century America. And in the 108 years since your founding, the Knights have taken to heart Father McGivney's dream of helping those in need through your compassion, your love and your commitment to community service.

I often talk of a "thousand points of light" -- people helping people. The Knights have known of power of community service for decades. Last year alone, the Knights raised over $85 million for charitable causes and gave over 27 million hours of your time, talents, and energy to those in need. That's part of the reason the Knights of Columbus received one of my first Volunteer Action Awards for outstanding community service. You are truly one of our shining stars.

Thank you for including me in today's convention. Barbara joins me in saluting the wonderful work you perform every day in communities across our great Nation. Thank you, best of luck, and God bless you all.

MEMORANDUM FOR CHRISS WINSTON

FROM: JIM PINKERTON

SUBJECT: Six Presidential Tapings For Monday, 7/16

National Bar Association

pg. 1, para. 3, line 3 "...because of the commitment and action ... to the fundamental principles...."

We suggest rewording thus: "...because of the activism and commitment ... to the fundamental principles...."

Knights of Columbus

1,1,3 "You've picked a great state...to hold your annual convention."

We suggest something like: "You've picked a great state...in which to hold your annual convention."

1,3,2 "The Knights have known of power of community service...."

Instead of "known of power," we suggest "known the power."
