

Originally Processed With FOIA(s):
S; 1998-0188-F

FOIA Number:
S

FOIA MARKER

This is not a textual record. This is used as an administrative marker by the George Bush Presidential Library Staff.

Record Group/Collection: George H.W. Bush Presidential Records Collection/Office of Origin: Speechwriting, White House Office of Series: Speech File Draft Files
Subseries: Chron File, 1989-1993

OA/ID Number: 13536
Folder ID Number: 13536-002

Folder Title:
Nixon Library Dedication, 7/19/90 [OA 5375]

Stack:	Row:	Section:	Shelf:	Position:
G	26	16	3	7

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary
(Anaheim, California)

For Immediate Release

July 19, 1990

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT GERALD FORD,
PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN,
PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH
AND PRESIDENT RICHARD NIXON
DURING DEDICATION OF NIXON LIBRARY

Yorba Linda, California

10:38 A.M. PDT

PRESIDENT FORD: Thank you very, very much, Governor Deukmejian. Mr. President, Mr. President, Mr. President -- (laughter) -- if I've overlooked a president -- (laughter) -- will you please stand up. (Laughter.) I'm, frankly, terrified that I might botch up the protocol for first ladies, so I'll simply salute with great respect and tremendous admiration Barbara, Pat, Nancy and Betty. (Applause.)

Betty and I are delighted to be here, among so many long-time friends. Because our lives have been intertwined with the remarkable career of a native son of California, who was born in that house right over there and who is sitting right here. So, you see, you can come home again. (Applause.)

During World War II, the 37th and the 38th presidents of the United States were wearing Navy lieutenant uniforms somewhere in the South Pacific. But our courses never did converge. My first meeting with Dick Nixon came in January of 1949 at the start of the 81st Congress. When I was sworn in as a freshman member, Congressman Dick Nixon was a veteran second-term, already renowned as the nemesis of Alger Hiss. Quite frankly, you never really forget the senior members who treat you kindly and give you a hand when you come to the Congress.

Betty and Pat became good friends while their husbands oftentimes neglected them in the pursuit of things that we thought important -- very wrongly.

In 1951, as you may remember, Dick, I invited Senator Nixon, who had meanwhile moved to the other body, to come to our annual Lincoln Day Dinner in Grand Rapids, Michigan. He came to the old Rowe Hotel; have his typical stem-winding, rock-and-sock-em campaign speech. The only problem -- both the lights and the microphone went off at the climax of his speech. Dick passed it off with a joke. But despite the blackout, or despite the joke, I was reelected to the last Republican House we have had in four decades. My guest was elected Vice President, and we all thought the Republic was safe forever.

I could go on reminiscing -- Betty says I usually do. But permit me a closing thought about the future. My best remembered prophesy was to say in 1976 that Poland was not and would never be under the domination of the Soviet Union. (Laughter and applause.) As you all know, I took quite a bit of heat. But I said it and I'm glad. (Laughter and applause.) Because I personally felt the warmth and longing for freedom of the Polish people in both Warsaw and Krakow on my way to the Helsinki Conference on Cooperation and Security in Europe.

I also recall Vice President Nixon's tumultuous welcome by the Poles after challenging Nikita Khrushchev to a test of which system -- ours or theirs -- better produced the life, a good life for their citizens.

In Helsinki, I told the leaders of 33 European nations, including the Soviet Union and its Eastern allies, that it took 11 years for the noble ideals and the brave hopes of our American Declaration of Independence to be embodied as enforceable rights in our Constitution; that peace was not a piece of paper, nor the results of promises made, but of promises kept. I warned Chairman Brezhnev and the other signers that "we had better say what we mean and mean what we say, or we will have the anger of our citizens to answer."

Now, 15 years later, the future of Europe's freedom seems much, much brighter. The collapse of communist economies and peaceful reform of their political regimes appears irreversible. The prospects for peace are better than at any time since the end of World War II.

In 1945, the four presidents here today took off their military uniforms, as did many of you in this audience, resolved to preserve the hard-won peace through strength and freedom. Dick Nixon and I, as members of the Congress, strongly supported President Truman's Marshall Plan, his timely aid to Greece and Turkey, his firm action against communist aggression in Korea, and his proposal for NATO. Vice President Nixon supported President Eisenhower's leadership for peace through the North Atlantic Alliance, as I did in the House.

Later, Representative George Bush and I in the Congress, Governor Reagan in California, and President Nixon in the White House sought ways to bring an honorable end to the tragedy of Vietnam. We all, in various responsibilities during the '70s and '80s, sought to maintain and greatly strengthen America's leadership in the struggle between freedom and repression. But the crucial point is this: and so have all of you.

And so have the majority of Americans for the last 45 years. The American people have stood solidly for individual rights and freedom for others. This is no time to rest on our oars. Rather it is now the time to redouble our devotion to these enduring ideals.

It does not diminish the roles many others in our country have played in the expansion of democratic freedoms to say that you, Dick Nixon, have the gratitude of men and women everywhere who cherish peace with liberty. Because you loved your country and because you had the courage to serve, this day is a celebration richly deserved by you and by Pat. (Applause.)

It is now my great pleasure and a special honor to introduce an outstanding former First Lady, Mrs. Nancy Reagan. (Applause.) Ladies and gentlemen, it's a very high honor and a very great privilege for me to introduce the 40th President of the United States, the honorable Ronald Reagan. (Applause.)

PRESIDENT REAGAN: Thank you. Thank you very much, President Ford. Mr. President, Mrs. Bush; President and Mrs. Ford; our very distinguished honorees, the 37th President of the United States and Mrs. Nixon, and ladies and gentlemen.

Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking -- (laughter) -- I'll borrow a line from Henry VIII, who said to each of his six wives, "I won't keep you long." (Laughter.) But I do want to say how honored Nancy and I are to be part of this wonderful ceremony and to share a few thoughts about a man who has been so important and influential in history.

We're gathered here today to pay tribute to a man who has been part of our lives for almost half a century, and to welcome to California this presidential library which will tell the story of this very special man and of his unique contribution to the cause of world peace.

Much has been written and said about Richard Nixon. Some of it's even been true. (Laughter.) Journalists, historians, political pundits and just plain folks will talk for decades about his career and what it meant to our country and to the world. It will come as no surprise to anyone here that there will always be a good deal of debate about Richard Nixon.

Generally speaking, people in public life who take bold steps, who make tough decisions, and who show great courage generate controversy. Such is the fate of the man in the arena. But about two points, there can be no debate. First, Richard Nixon is a patriot. He is a man who has dedicated his life in service to a country he deeply loves. He believes in America and the American people. Since he was a young man and throughout his adult life, Richard Nixon has worked not for his own well-being, but for the betterment of our society.

During the time I served as Governor of California, Nancy and I had the honor of representing President Nixon on several trips abroad. We were always proud to be his emissary to other world leaders and were always impressed by the deep respect they had for President Nixon.

And that brings me to the second point: Richard Nixon is a man who understands the world. He understands politics, power, and the forces of history. Whether with Mao or Brezhnev, De Gaulle or Gandhi, President Nixon was the first among equals. A man whose foreign policy was universally acknowledged as brilliant.

Accomplishments of the Nixon foreign policy will go down in history as truly great. I do not think it is an exaggeration to say the world is a better place, a safer place because of Richard Nixon. (Applause.)

We always knew that when President Nixon took his place at the negotiating table the United States was represented by a man whose knowledge was second to none. During my eight years in the White House, I relied on his insight and wisdom, and I will always be grateful for the benefit of his seasoned expertise. Even now, as a former president, Richard Nixon continues to be a major player on the world scene -- and that is as it should be.

I cannot conclude my remarks here without telling you how happy Nancy and I are -- and I suspect I speak for all of us here today -- to be with our very dear friend, Pat Nixon. (Applause.) A loyal wife, a caring mother and grandmother, Pat Nixon was one of our nation's most gracious first ladies. She was a superbly charming hostess, whether in Washington or San Clemente. And she represented our country splendidly when she traveled abroad. She is a true unsung hero of the Nixon administration, and our country owes her a great debt of gratitude. (Applause.)

Now, ladies and gentlemen, you've already done what I was just going to ask you, and that was to join me now in a show of our affection and appreciation for this very special lady. (Applause.)

And speaking of first ladies, it's a great delight to share this stage today with our current First Lady, Barbara Bush, a tireless crusader for literacy -- (applause) -- a compassionate and gentle lady whose warmth has touched us all. Barbara is making all of us proud. (Applause.)

Besides that, she's married to a friend of mine -- (laughter) -- who it is my high honor to introduce. Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States. (Applause.)

PRESIDENT BUSH: Thank you all very, very much. What a wonderful reunion. And I am very proud to have been introduced to this gathering by Ronald Reagan. I know how I got here. (Laughter.) President Reagan is my mentor and my esteemed friend. (Applause.) And I will always be grateful to him.

But to President and Mrs. Nixon, Barbara and I are delighted to be with you on this memorable day. My special greetings to all my predecessors -- to President and Mrs. Reagan, to President and Mrs. Ford -- to members of the Nixon family, who are right out here; to Secretary Simon, who has done such a superb job on all of this; to my current Secretary of Commerce Bob Mosbacher and, of course, to our old friend, your own Governor George Deukmejian. (Applause.) To all these Cabinet officials out here -- former Secretary Haig and Secretary Schultz, and I'm told that Chief Justice Warren Burger was there. All the senior members of the Nixon administration. Of course, all of our friend, Reverend Billy Graham. And Reverend Peale and Ambassador Moore, all the way from Ireland; and Ambassador Annenberg, and Ambassador Zhu-qizhen of China, welcome, sir. To Hugh Hewitt and Vicky Carr, and ladies and gentlemen.

Thank you, Mr. President, once again, for that introduction. (Applause.)

I'm not sure, President Reagan, whether it's you or me that attracted this noise over here, but I remember as Vice President, you had your share of this kind of attention. (Laughter.) But let me just say to all of you, our thanks for the privilege of helping to dedicate this beautiful library of the 37th President of the United States of America.

To Lincoln, the presidency helped play -- as he put it -- "America's mystic chords of memory." Shall we wait just one minute? And to Teddy Roosevelt, the presidency meant the "bully pulpit" -- calling on America's boundless energy. And it was Dwight Eisenhower, beloved Ike, who described its power "to proclaim anew our faith" and summon "lightness against the dark."

To occupy this office is to feel a kinship with these and other presidents, each of whom in his own way sought to do right and, thus, to achieve good. Each summoned the best from the idea we call America, and each wondered, I suspect, how he could be worthy of God and man.

This year, an estimated 1.5 million people will visit presidential museums and libraries, exploring the lives of these presidents, passed down, like oral history, from one generation to another. And they will see how each president is like a finely-cut prism with many facets -- their achievements and their philosophy; their family and their humanity.

For instance, not far from here, as we've heard, visitors will soon see the library of my distinguished predecessor, the 40th President of the United States, and Mrs. Reagan. President Reagan, we will not soon forget how you truly blessed America. (Applause.)

Look next to Michigan, where a museum and library honor the 38th President of the United States Gerald Ford, and Mrs. Ford. (Applause.) An entire nation is grateful for your decency, your leadership and your love of country.

And tomorrow morning, the first visitors will enter our newest presidential library, and they will note that only FDR ran as many times as Richard Nixon -- five -- for national office. Each winning four elections. And that more people voted for Richard Nixon as President than any other man in history. (Applause.) They will hear of Horatio Alger and Alger Hiss; of the book, Six Crises; and the seventh crisis, Watergate; and they will think of Checkers -- Millie's role model. (Laughter.) And, yes, Mr. President, they will hear again your answer to my "vision thing" -- "Let me make this perfectly clear." (Laughter.)

And many of these visitors will know of your times as President, perhaps as tumultuous as any since Lincoln's, and of your goal as President -- a world where peace would link the Community of Nations. And yet, others, young visitors, will not remember the years 1969 to '74. They'd not even been born when Richard Nixon became President. So to help them understand our 37th President, here is what I would tell those who journey to Yorba Linda.

I would say first, look at perhaps the truest index of any man -- his family. Think of his mother, a gentle Quaker; and his father who built their small frame house that we see less than 100 yards from here; and his daughters, Patricia and Julie. Any parent would be proud of children with the loyalty and love of these two women. (Applause.)

And think finally of a very gracious First Lady who ranks among the most admired women of postwar America, the woman who we know and love as Pat. (Applause.) As First Lady, we remember Pat Nixon championed the Right To Read program; helped bring the Parks To People program to the disadvantaged. She refurbished the White House and opened it to more people than ever before. And she was widely -- she was our most widely-traveled First Lady, visiting five continents and 22 nations, overcoming the poverty and tragedy of her childhood to become a mirror of America's heart and love. And when, in 1958, foreign mobs stoned the Nixon's car, she was, an observer said, "stronger than any man." And yet, it was also Pat who moved pianist Duke Ellington at a White House dinner to improvise the melody -- "I shall pick a name," he said, "gentle, graceful, like Patricia."

Mrs. Nixon, the Secret Service called you "Starlight," and your husband has said it best: "You fit that name to a T." So once again, I won't ask you to stand up again -- you've already done it. But let us show our appreciation for the grace and the beauty that Pat Nixon brought to the White House. (Applause.)

And then next I would say to visitors here, look at Richard Nixon the man. He had an intellectual's complexity. Knowing how you feel about some intellectuals, Mr. President, I don't mean to offend you. But -- (laughter) -- he was an author -- eight books each composed on those famous yellow pads, who like his favorite author, Tolstoy, admired the dignity of manual labor. And he worked in the most pragmatic of arenas and yet insisted that politics is poetry, not prose. And he believed in love of country and in God, in loyalty to friends and protecting loved ones. And he was also a soft touch when it came to the kids -- believe me, I can empathize with that.

Let me repeat a story which President Nixon, himself, enjoys -- I hope he enjoys it. One day greeting an airport crowd he heard a young girl shouting, "How is Smokey the Bear" -- and at that time living in the Washington Zoo. And the girl kept repeating the question. And not understanding her words, the President turned to an aide for translation -- "Smokey the Bear," the aide mumbled pointing to the girl, "Washington National Zoo." Triumphant, President Nixon walked over, extended his hand and said, "How do you do, Miss Bear." (Laughter.)

I'd be the last to criticize verbal confusion, after all I confess some say English is my only foreign language. (Laughter.) President Nixon, the point is he was merely being kind, just as he mailed those handwritten letters to defeated rivals like his friend Hubert Humphrey or saw that when the POWs returned home in early '73 to a White House dinner, each wife received a corsage.

Just as Richard Nixon was extraordinarily controversial, he could also be uncommonly sensitive to the feelings of other people. This brings me to what I would next tell those who travel to Yorba Linda. What President Nixon said of Dwight Eisenhower in a '69 eulogy was true, also of himself -- "He came from the heart of America, not geographically perhaps but culturally." And Richard Nixon was the quintessence of middle America and touched deep chords of response in millions of our citizens. As President, upholding what he termed the "silent majority" from Dallas to Davenport and Syracuse to Siler City he loved America's good, quiet, decent people. And he spoke for them. He felt deeply on their behalf.

Teddy White, Theodore White, would say, "Middle America has been without a great leader for generations and in Richard Nixon it elevated a man of talent and ability." For millions of Americans this President became something they had rarely known -- a voice speaking loudly and eloquently for those values, their values and their dreams.

And finally, and most importantly, I would say to visitors Richard Nixon helped changed the course, not only of America but of the entire world. He believed in returning power to the people; so he created revenue sharing. And that young people should be free to choose their future; so Richard Nixon ended the draft. And he helped the United States reach new horizons in space and technology. He began a pioneering cancer initiative that gave hope and life to millions. And he knew that the great outdoors is precious but fragile and so he created the Environmental Protection Agency, a historic step to help preserve and widely use our natural resources. (Applause.)

And all of this Richard Nixon did and yet future generations will remember him most, in my view, for dedicating his life to the greatest cause offered any president -- the cause of peace among nations. Who can forget how he endured much in his quest for peace with honor in Vietnam. He knew that true peace means the triumph of freedom, not merely the absence of war. And as President he served this country's special mission to help those around the world for whom America has always been a morning star of liberty. Engaging in diplomatic summitry and helping change the post-war bipolar globe.

Who can forget how in Moscow Richard Nixon signed the first agreement to limit strategic nuclear arms, giving new hope to the world for lasting peace. Or how he planted the first fragile seeds of peace in the Middle East and Golda Meir, whose statue is inside, credited him with saving Israel during the Yom Kippur War. And even now, memories resound of President Nixon's trip to China -- the week that revolutionized the world. No American president had ever stood on the soil of the People's Republic of China and as President Nixon stepped from Air Force One and extended his hand to Chou En Lai, his vision ended more than two decades of isolation.

"Being president," he often said, "is nothing compared with what you can do as president." Mr. President, you worked with every fiber of your being to help achieve a generation of peace. And today as the movement toward democracy sweeps our globe, you can take great personal pride that history will say of you here was a true architect of peace. (Applause.)

Yes, there have been literally millions of words written about this President. But let me close with a passage from the President himself that comes from his first inaugural address, January 20, 1969, where the new President spoke of how the greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker. And he began by noting that within the lifetime of most present, mankind would celebrate a new year which occurs only once in a thousand years -- the start of a new millennium. And that America had the chance to lead the world onto that high ground of peace that man has dreamed of since the dawn of civilization.

And finally, Richard Nixon concluded, "if we succeed generations to come will say of us that we helped make the world safe for mankind. I believe the American people are ready to answer this call," he said.

Mr. President, you helped America answer its summons to greatness. Thank you for serving the cause of peace. God bless you and your wonderful family. And now it is my honor, as President of the United States, to introduce the 37th President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon. (Applause.)

PRESIDENT NIXON: Thank you. Mr. President, may I express my deep appreciation for that much-too-generous introduction. Over the past 44 years since I've been in public life, I have been introduced to literally thousands of audiences all over the world. This is the first time I've ever been introduced by the President of the United States. (Applause.) I express my appreciation to my other colleagues, former presidents, for their gracious comments -- not only about me, but particularly about my wife, Pat. This is a very special day for us.

I think that I speak for all of those in this great audience today in expressing appreciation not only to President Bush and Barbara Bush, but also to President Ford and President Reagan and their ladies, that they are here today. This is a very special occasion because there are four presidents here. But what makes it even more special is that for the first time in the inauguration of a library, four first ladies are here. (Applause.)

I think all of my colleagues would agree that there is no more important a position for a career than a woman could have than to be a first lady, the wife of the President of the United States. Or as First Lady Barbara Bush might put it in the future, there could be no more important career for a man than to be the husband of the President of the United States. (Applause.)

I want to express appreciation to all of you who have made this facility possible and to all of you who have come on this day to participate in this ceremony with us. It's been a great day for us, and it's one that we will always remember.

Over the past years, Pat and I have had the opportunity to visit some wonderful places. We've been to Versailles, we've been to Westminster, to the Kremlin, to the Great Wall of China, to Angkor Wat in Cambodia. I must say that many of them were memorable experiences -- all of them were, in fact. But nothing we have ever seen matches this moment -- to be welcomed home again so warmly on this day by our friends in California. (Applause.)

I hope all of you will have an opportunity to take a tour of the library and, I hope that you will, when you see there, you will share some of the things that my colleagues, the former presidents, and President Bush have referred to. What you will see, among other things, is a personal life -- the influence of a strong family, of inspirational ministers, of great teachers. You will see a political life -- running for Congress, running for the Senate, running for governor, running for president three times. Won some, lost some. All interesting. (Laughter and applause.) And you will see, also, the life of a great nation -- 77 years of it. A period in which we had unprecedented progress for the United States. And you will see great leaders -- leaders who changed the world, who helped to make the world what we have today.

Seeing those things will certainly be interesting. But let me remind you that when you go through this library, I hope you will remember that while the past is interesting, it is important only insofar as it points the way to a better future. And that is why we are here today, to talk about that better future. (Applause.)

As I look back over life, I can think what has happened in the years since I was born in this little house 71 years ago. I have many memories -- some of them good, some of them not so good. But I do know that as far as that life is concerned, I am glad that I had the opportunity to come from here and go as far as I have.

Let me say that as far as the past is concerned, though, remember: what is important is what it tells us about the future.

My friend, Paul McCracken, from the University of Michigan, sent me a little poem that graphically makes that point. He said, "The lightning bug is brilliant, but it doesn't have a mind. It travels through creation with its headlight on behind." (Laughter.) And so as far as we're concerned, let us learn from the past, but let us always keep our headlight on the road ahead.

Looking back over the years, when I think of what has happened in those 77 years, I remember that, 70 years ago in that little house, I used to lie in bed, I'd hear a train whistle in the middle of the night, and I would dream of places far away that I hoped to visit someday. I never dreamed that I would ever have the opportunity to visit over 80 countries during the period of my lifetime.

I must say that as far as those visits are concerned, they taught me something. You will hear sometimes these days that the United States is in decline, that we have seen our best days. You will hear that the United States no longer has the means or the will to play a great role in the world. Don't you believe it. (Applause.)

I can tell you what I have found in my travels. In my travels to other countries, I have found some people who like us. I have found some people who have envy us. I have found some people who hate us. But most of the people in the world know in their hearts that without the leadership of the United States of America, peace and freedom would not survive in the world. (Applause.)

It is our privilege to provide that leadership. That is why I would trust that all of you here and all of you listening on television and on radio would give President Bush your wholehearted support as he works for that kind of leadership for the United States of America. (Applause.)

This is not a burden to be borne grimly, but it's a great challenge. Look at what the challenge is. I was born a year before World War I began. And in my lifetime, more people were killed in wars than in all the wars fought in the history of civilization before the 20th century began. Our challenge today is looking ahead to deal with that problem. The 20th century will be remembered as a century of war. Our challenge is to help make the 21st century of peace. (Applause.)

But peace is not our only goal. Our goal, also, is to remember why we are here, what America really means to the world. And so as we consider our challenges beyond peace, let history record that we just did not save the world from communism, but that we helped to make the world safe for freedom. That is the great challenge for Americans today. (Applause.)

Let our goal be that all people in the world can enjoy what most Americans enjoy -- the blessings of freedom, of justice, of progress. That was a dream that was impossible in times past. But because of recent developments, it is a dream that can now come true.

So with this challenge in mind, let us look also to where we have been and where we are going. As I look back on those years, 77 in all, but I remember that in the period of that time that I have seen many things happen in the world. And I know that as I stand here, that we are very fortunate as Americans to have played a role in what has happened.

In 1971, after a White House state dinner, a splendid musical group from California entertained the audience. At the conclusion of the program, the chairman, or I should say, the leader of the group asked to say a few words. He expressed appreciation for being invited to appear at the White House. And then he concluded by saying, "You know, it's a long way from Watts to the White House." He was right. But let me tell you -- it's a long way from Yorba Linda to the White House, too. (Applause.)

I have made that journey, and I want to see a country in which every young American can have the opportunity to make that journey. It doesn't mean that all will make it. We all can't be president. We all can't be congressmen or senator or governors -- I found that out. (Laughter.) But on the other hand, let us always make sure for the young Americans that the road ahead is never blocked by prejudice or ignorance or poverty. And that he or she can go as hard as his or her talents will take them. That is the goal that we want for young Americans today. (Applause.)

Because there are so many young people here today, may I add a word to you. I believe in the American dream because I have seen it come true in my own life. And I want you to know that as far as you're concerned, I want your dreams to come true as well. You will suffer disappointments in life and sometimes you will be very discouraged. It is sad to lose. But the greatest sadness is to travel through life without knowing either victory or defeat. Always remember that only when during your lifetime you are involved in a cause greater than yourself can you be truly true to yourself. (Applause.)

So with those points in mind, may I leave also this final thought. Remember that there couldn't be a better time to be alive than now. There couldn't be a better country in which to be born and in which to live than now because you hold the future in your hands. (Applause.)

END

11:27 A.M. PDT

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

July 17, 1990

INFORMATION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: CHRISS WINSTON cw
FROM: CURT SMITH CS
SUBJECT: REMARKS FOR RICHARD NIXON LIBRARY AND BIRTHPLACE

I. SUMMARY

On Thursday, July 19, 1990, at 10:00 a.m., you will address approximately 25,000 people at the Richard Nixon Library and Birthplace, in Yorba Linda, California. Among those attending will be 1,500 seated guests, as well as an unlimited number of standing visitors.

Mr. William Simon will host the event, and President Reagan will introduce you. Also attending will be: President and Mrs. Nixon and the rest of the Nixon family, Mrs. Reagan, President and Mrs. Ford, Secretary Mosbacher, Governor Deukmejian, Secretary Shultz, Chief Justice Burger, Billy Graham, Norman Vincent Peale, director of the Library Hugh Hewitt, Ambassador Richard Moore, and Ambassador Zhu-Qizhen of the People's Republic of China. Nine senior members of the Nixon Administrations will attend. They are: Robert Finch, Alexander Haig, Walter Hickel, Henry Kissinger, William Rogers, George Romney, Donald Rumsfeld, Maurice Stans, and Herbert Stein. Finally, there will be a group of Viet Nam POWs attending the dedication, and Ms. Vicky Carr will sing 'God Bless America.'

II. DISCUSSION

The attached remarks (14 minutes, teleprompter) focus on the life and Presidency of Richard M. Nixon. The text addresses the institution of the Presidency of the United States, and Mr. Nixon's role in shaping that institution. Consideration is given to the achievements, philosophy, family, and personal qualities of the President, with special emphasis on the vision for a world of peace and freedom that President Nixon displayed.

(Smith/Garmey)
July 17, 1990
5 P.M.
NIX

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NIXON LIBRARY
YORBA LINDA, CALIFORNIA
THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1990
10:00 A.M.

President and Mrs. Nixon. Barbara and I are delighted to see you. President and Mrs. Reagan, President and Mrs. Ford. Members of the Nixon family. Secretary Simon, Secretary Mosbacher. Governor Deukmejian, Secretary Schultz, Chief Justice Burger, Senior Members of the Nixon Administration, Reverend Graham, Reverend Peale, Ambassador Moore, Ambassador Annenberg, Ambassador Zhu-qizhen [JEW KEY-jen], Hugh Hewitt, Vicky Carr. Those great American heroes -- our Viet Nam Prisoners of War. Ladies and gentlemen. Thank you, Mr. President, for that introduction. And to all of you, for the privilege of helping to dedicate this beautiful Library of the 37th President of the United States.

To Lincoln, the Presidency helped play -- as he put it -- America's "mystic chords of memory." To TR, the Presidency meant the "bully pulpit" -- calling on America's boundless energy. And it was Dwight Eisenhower -- beloved Ike -- who described its power "to proclaim anew our faith," and summon "lightness against the dark."

To occupy this office is to feel a kinship with these and other Presidents. Each of whom, in his own way, sought to do right -- and thus achieve good. // Each summoned the best from the idea we call America. And each wondered, I suspect, how they could be worthy of God, and man. //

This year, an estimated 1.5 million people will visit Presidential museums and libraries. Exploring the lives of these Presidents passed down -- like oral history -- from one generation to another. // They will see how each President is like a finely-cut prism with many facets. Their achievements, and their philosophy. Their family, and their humanity. //

For instance, seventy miles from here visitors will soon see the library of my distinguished predecessor, the 40th President of the United States, and Mrs. Reagan. To Ronald Reagan, I say: "We will not soon forget how you truly blessed America." //

Look, next, to Michigan -- where a museum and library honors the 38th President of the United States, Gerald Ford, and Mrs. Ford. An entire Nation is grateful for your leadership and love of country. //

Tomorrow morning, the first visitors will enter our newest Presidential Library. They will note that only FDR ran as many times as Richard Nixon -- five -- for national office: Each winning four elections. And that more people voted for Richard Nixon as President than any other man in history. // They will hear of Horatio Alger and Alger Hiss. Of the book, Six Crises, and the seventh crisis, Watergate. // They will think of Checkers -- Millie's role model. // And, yes, Mr. President, they will hear again your answer to my "Vision thing" -- "Let me make this perfectly clear." //

Many of these visitors will know of your times as President: Perhaps as tumultuous as any since Lincoln's. And of your goal as President: A world where peace would link the community of nations. Yet other young visitors will not remember the years 1969-74. They had not even been born when Richard Nixon became President. So to help them understand our 37th President, here is what I would tell those who journey to Yorba Linda. //

I would say, first: Look at perhaps the truest index of any man -- his family. Think of his mother -- a gentle Quaker -- and his father, who built their small frame house less than 100 yards from here. And his daughters, Tricia and Julie. Any parent would be proud of children with the loyalty and love of these two women. // Think, finally, of a gracious First Lady who ranks among the most admired women of post-war America. The woman we know, and love, as Pat. //

As First Lady, Pat Nixon championed the Right to Read program, and helped bring the "Parks to People" program to the disadvantaged. She refurbished the White House and opened it to more people than ever before. She was our most widely traveled First Lady -- visiting five continents and 22 Nations. Overcoming the poverty and tragedy of her childhood to become a mirror of America's heart, and love. // When, in 1958, foreign mobs stoned the Nixons' car, she was, an observer said, "stronger than any man." Yet it was also Pat who moved pianist Duke Ellington, at a White House dinner, to improvise a melody. "I shall pick a name," he said, "gentle, graceful -- like Patricia."

// Mrs. Nixon, the Secret Service called you "Starlight." Your husband has said it best: You "fit that name to a T." //

Next, I would say to visitors here: Look at Richard Nixon the man. // He had an intellectual's complexity. He was an author / eight books // each composed on his famous yellow legal pads // who, like his favorite author, Tolstoy, admired the dignity of manual labor. He worked in the most pragmatic of arenas -- yet insisted that "politics is poetry, not prose." // He believed in love of country, and in God -- in loyalty to friends, and protecting loved ones. He was also a soft touch when it came to kids. // Believe me, I can empathize. //

((Let me repeat a story which President Nixon himself enjoys. // One day, greeting an airport crowd, he heard a young girl shouting, "How is Smokey the Bear?" // at that time, living in the Washington Zoo. The girl kept repeating the question. Not understanding her words, the President turned to an aide for translation. // "Smokey the Bear," the aide mumbled, pointing to the girl. "Washington National Zoo." // Triumphant, President Nixon walked over, extended his hand, and said: "How do you do / Miss Bear?")) ///

Now, I'm not one to criticize verbal confusion. After all, some say English is my only foreign language. // President Nixon was merely being kind. Just as he mailed hand-written letters to defeated rivals like his friend Hubert Humphrey. Or saw that when the POWS returned home in early '73 to a White House Dinner, each wife received a corsage. // Just as Richard Nixon was extraordinarily controversial, he could also be uncommonly sensitive to the feelings of other people. //

This brings me to what I would next tell those who travel to Yorba Linda. What President Nixon said of Dwight Eisenhower in a 1969 eulogy was true, also, of himself: He "came from the heart of America." Not geographically, perhaps, but culturally. //

Richard Nixon was the quintessence of Middle America, and touched deep chords of response in millions of her citizens. As President, upholding what he termed the "Silent Majority" from Dallas to Davenport, Syracuse to Siler City. // He loved America's good, quiet, decent people; he spoke for them; he felt, deeply, on their behalf. // Theodore White would say: "Middle America had been without a great leader for generations, and in Richard Nixon it . . . elevated a man of talent and ability." // For millions of Americans, this President became something they had rarely known: A voice -- speaking loudly, and eloquently, for their values and their dreams. //

Finally, and most importantly, I would say to visitors: Richard Nixon helped change the course not only of America but of the entire world. He believed in returning power to the people. So he created revenue sharing. // And that young people should be free to choose their futures. So Richard Nixon ended the draft. // He helped the United States reach new horizons in space and technology. Began a pioneering cancer initiative that gave hope and life to millions. // He knew that the great outdoors is precious, but fragile. So he created the

Environmental Protection Agency -- an historic step to help preserve, and wisely use, our natural resources. //

All of this Richard Nixon did. Yet future generations will remember him most for dedicating his life to the greatest cause offered any President -- the cause of peace among Nations. //

Richard Nixon endured much in his quest for "Peace With Honor" in Viet Nam. He knew that true peace means the triumph of freedom -- not merely the absence of war. // As President, he served this country's special mission to help those around the world for whom America has always been a "morning star of liberty." Engaging in diplomatic summitry -- and helping change the post-war bi-polar globe. //

Who can forget how in Moscow, Richard Nixon signed the first agreement to limit strategic nuclear arms -- giving new hope to the world for lasting peace? // Or how he planted the first fragile seeds of peace in the Middle East: Golda Meir credited him with saving Israel during the Yom Kippur War. // Even now, memories resound of President Nixon's trip to China -- the week that revolutionized the world. No American President had ever stood on the soil of the People's Republic of China. As Richard Nixon stepped from Air Force One and extended his hand to Chou En-lai, his vision ended more than two decades of isolation. // "Being President," he often said, "is nothing compared with what you can do as President." Mr. President, you worked with every fiber of your being to help achieve "A Generation of Peace." // Today, as the movement toward democracy sweeps our globe, you can take great pride that history will say of you: "Here was a true architect of peace." //

There have been, literally, millions of words written about Richard Nixon. But let me close with a passage from the President himself. It comes from his first Inaugural Address -- January 20, 1969 -- where the new President spoke of how "the greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker."//

He began by noting that within the lifetime of most present, mankind would celebrate a new year which occurs only once in a thousand years -- the start of a new millennium. And that America had the chance to "lead the world onto that high ground of peace that man has dreamed of since the dawn of civilization."

Finally, Richard Nixon concluded: "If we succeed, generations to come will say of us that we helped make the world safe for mankind. I believe the American people are ready to answer this call." //

Mr. President, you helped America answer its "summons to greatness." Thank you for serving the cause of peace. God bless you and your family. And now, it is my distinct pleasure and honor to introduce the 37th President of the United States.

#

CLOSE HOLD

Document No. _____

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

90 JUL 18 A9:07

DATE: 07/18/90 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: -----

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NIXON LIBRARY
(07/17 5:00 pm draft)

	ACTION FYI			ACTION FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	☐	☒	MCCLURE	☐	☐
SUNUNU	☐	☒	NEWMAN	☐	☐
SCOWCROFT	☐	☒	PORTER	☐	☒
DARMAN	☐	☐	ROGICH	☐	☒
CARD	☐	☒	UNTERMAYER	☐	☐
CICCONI	☐	☒	ROGERS	☐	☒
DEMAREST	☐	☐	WINSTON	☐	☒
FITZWATER	☐	☒	_____	☐	☐
GRAY	☐	☐	_____	☐	☐
HAGIN	☐	☐	_____	☐	☐
HOLIDAY	☐	☐	_____	☐	☐

REMARKS:

The attached has been forwarded to the President.

RESPONSE:

CLOSE HOLD

James W. Cicconi
Assistant to the President and Deputy to the Chief of Staff
Ext. 2702

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

July 17, 1990

1990 JUL 17 PM 7:38

INFORMATION

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: CHRISS WINSTON CW
FROM: CURT SMITH CS
SUBJECT: REMARKS FOR RICHARD NIXON LIBRARY AND BIRTHPLACE

I. SUMMARY

On Thursday, July 19, 1990, at 10:00 a.m., you will address approximately 25,000 people at the Richard Nixon Library and Birthplace, in Yorba Linda, California. Among those attending will be 1,500 seated guests, as well as an unlimited number of standing visitors.

Mr. William Simon will host the event, and President Reagan will introduce you. Also attending will be: President and Mrs. Nixon and the rest of the Nixon family, Mrs. Reagan, President and Mrs. Ford, Secretary Mosbacher, Governor Deukmejian, Secretary Shultz, Chief Justice Burger, Billy Graham, Norman Vincent Peale, director of the Library Hugh Hewitt, Ambassador Richard Moore, and Ambassador Zhu-Qizhen of the People's Republic of China. Nine senior members of the Nixon Administrations will attend. They are: Robert Finch, Alexander Haig, Walter Hickel, Henry Kissinger, William Rogers, George Romney, Donald Rumsfeld, Maurice Stans, and Herbert Stein. Finally, there will be a group of Viet Nam POWs attending the dedication, and Ms. Vicky Carr will sing 'God Bless America.'

II. DISCUSSION

The attached remarks (14 minutes, teleprompter) focus on the life and Presidency of Richard M. Nixon. The text addresses the institution of the Presidency of the United States, and Mr. Nixon's role in shaping that institution. Consideration is given to the achievements, philosophy, family, and personal qualities of the President, with special emphasis on the vision for a world of peace and freedom that President Nixon displayed.

(Smith/Garmey)
July 17, 1990
5 P.M.
NIX

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NIXON LIBRARY
YORBA LINDA, CALIFORNIA
THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1990
10:00 A.M.

President and Mrs. Nixon. Barbara and I are delighted to see you. President and Mrs. Reagan, President and Mrs. Ford. Members of the Nixon family. Secretary Simon, Secretary Mosbacher. Governor Deukmejian, Secretary Schultz, Chief Justice Burger, Senior Members of the Nixon Administration, Reverend Graham, Reverend Peale, Ambassador Moore, Ambassador Annenberg, Ambassador Zhu-qizhen [JEW KEY-jen], Hugh Hewitt, Vicky Carr. Those great American heroes -- our Viet Nam Prisoners of War. Ladies and gentlemen. Thank you, Mr. President, for that introduction. And to all of you, for the privilege of helping to dedicate this beautiful Library of the 37th President of the United States.

To Lincoln, the Presidency helped play -- as he put it -- America's "mystic chords of memory." To TR, the Presidency meant the "bully pulpit" -- calling on America's boundless energy. And it was Dwight Eisenhower -- beloved Ike -- who described its power "to proclaim anew our faith," and summon "lightness against the dark."

To occupy this office is to feel a kinship with these and other Presidents. Each of whom, in his own way, sought to do right -- and thus achieve good. // Each summoned the best from the idea we call America. And each wondered, I suspect, how they could be worthy of God, and man. //

This year, an estimated 1.5 million people will visit Presidential museums and libraries. Exploring the lives of these Presidents passed down -- like oral history -- from one generation to another. // They will see how each President is like a finely-cut prism with many facets. Their achievements, and their philosophy. Their family, and their humanity. //

For instance, seventy miles from here visitors will soon see the library of my distinguished predecessor, the 40th President of the United States, and Mrs. Reagan. To Ronald Reagan, I say: "We will not soon forget how you truly blessed America." //

Look, next, to Michigan -- where a museum and library honors the 38th President of the United States, Gerald Ford, and Mrs. Ford. An entire Nation is grateful for your leadership and love of country. //

Tomorrow morning, the first visitors will enter our newest Presidential Library. They will note that only FDR ran as many times as Richard Nixon -- five -- for national office: Each winning four elections. And that more people voted for Richard Nixon as President than any other man in history. // They will hear of Horatio Alger and Alger Hiss. Of the book, Six Crises, and the seventh crisis, Watergate. // They will think of Checkers -- Millie's role model. // And, yes, Mr. President, they will hear again your answer to my "Vision thing" -- "Let me make this perfectly clear." //

Many of these visitors will know of your times as President: Perhaps as tumultuous as any since Lincoln's. And of your goal as President: A world where peace would link the community of nations. Yet other young visitors will not remember the years 1969-74. They had not even been born when Richard Nixon became President. So to help them understand our 37th President, here is what I would tell those who journey to Yorba Linda. //

I would say, first: Look at perhaps the truest index of any man -- his family. Think of his mother -- a gentle Quaker -- and his father, who built their small frame house less than 100 yards from here. And his daughters, Tricia and Julie. Any parent would be proud of children with the loyalty and love of these two women. // Think, finally, of a gracious First Lady who ranks among the most admired women of post-war America. The woman we know, and love, as Pat. //

As First Lady, Pat Nixon championed the Right to Read program, and helped bring the "Parks to People" program to the disadvantaged. She refurbished the White House and opened it to more people than ever before. She was our most widely traveled First Lady -- visiting five continents and 22 Nations. Overcoming the poverty and tragedy of her childhood to become a mirror of America's heart, and love. // When, in 1958, foreign mobs stoned the Nixons' car, she was, an observer said, "stronger than any man." Yet it was also Pat who moved pianist Duke Ellington, at a White House dinner, to improvise a melody. "I shall pick a name," he said, "gentle, graceful -- like Patricia."

// Mrs. Nixon, the Secret Service called you "Starlight." Your husband has said it best: You "fit that name to a T." //

Next, I would say to visitors here: Look at Richard Nixon the man. // He had an intellectual's complexity. He was an author / eight books // each composed on his famous yellow legal pads // who, like his favorite author, Tolstoy, admired the dignity of manual labor. He worked in the most pragmatic of arenas -- yet insisted that "politics is poetry, not prose." // He believed in love of country, and in God -- in loyalty to friends, and protecting loved ones. He was also a soft touch when it came to kids. // Believe me, I can empathize. //

((Let me repeat a story which President Nixon himself enjoys. // One day, greeting an airport crowd, he heard a young girl shouting, "How is Smokey the Bear?" // at that time, living in the Washington Zoo. The girl kept repeating the question. Not understanding her words, the President turned to an aide for translation. // "Smokey the Bear," the aide mumbled, pointing to the girl. "Washington National Zoo." // Triumphant, President Nixon walked over, extended his hand, and said: "How do you do / Miss Bear?")) ///

Now, I'm not one to criticize verbal confusion. After all, some say English is my only foreign language. // President Nixon was merely being kind. Just as he mailed hand-written letters to defeated rivals like his friend Hubert Humphrey. Or saw that when the POWs returned home in early '73 to a White House Dinner, each wife received a corsage. // Just as Richard Nixon was extraordinarily controversial, he could also be uncommonly sensitive to the feelings of other people. //

This brings me to what I would next tell those who travel to Yorba Linda. What President Nixon said of Dwight Eisenhower in a 1969 eulogy was true, also, of himself: He "came from the heart of America." Not geographically, perhaps, but culturally. //

Richard Nixon was the quintessence of Middle America, and touched deep chords of response in millions of her citizens. As President, upholding what he termed the "Silent Majority" from Dallas to Davenport, Syracuse to Siler City. // He loved America's good, quiet, decent people; he spoke for them; he felt, deeply, on their behalf. // Theodore White would say: "Middle America had been without a great leader for generations, and in Richard Nixon it . . . elevated a man of talent and ability." // For millions of Americans, this President became something they had rarely known: A voice -- speaking loudly, and eloquently, for their values and their dreams. //

Finally, and most importantly, I would say to visitors: Richard Nixon helped change the course not only of America but of the entire world. He believed in returning power to the people. So he created revenue sharing. // And that young people should be free to choose their futures. So Richard Nixon ended the draft. // He helped the United States reach new horizons in space and technology. Began a pioneering cancer initiative that gave hope and life to millions. // He knew that the great outdoors is precious, but fragile. So he created the

Environmental Protection Agency -- an historic step to help preserve, and wisely use, our natural resources. //

All of this Richard Nixon did. Yet future generations will remember him most for dedicating his life to the greatest cause offered any President -- the cause of peace among Nations. //

Richard Nixon endured much in his quest for "Peace With Honor" in Viet Nam. He knew that true peace means the triumph of freedom -- not merely the absence of war. // As President, he served this country's special mission to help those around the world for whom America has always been a "morning star of liberty." Engaging in diplomatic summitry -- and helping change the post-war bi-polar globe. //

Who can forget how in Moscow, Richard Nixon signed the first agreement to limit strategic nuclear arms -- giving new hope to the world for lasting peace? // Or how he planted the first fragile seeds of peace in the Middle East: Golda Meir credited him with saving Israel during the Yom Kippur War. // Even now, memories resound of President Nixon's trip to China -- the week that revolutionized the world. No American President had ever stood on the soil of the People's Republic of China. As Richard Nixon stepped from Air Force One and extended his hand to Chou En-lai, his vision ended more than two decades of isolation. // "Being President," he often said, "is nothing compared with what you can do as President." Mr. President, you worked with every fiber of your being to help achieve "A Generation of Peace." // Today, as the movement toward democracy sweeps our globe, you can take great pride that history will say of you: "Here was a true architect of peace." //

There have been, literally, millions of words written about Richard Nixon. But let me close with a passage from the President himself. It comes from his first Inaugural Address -- January 20, 1969 -- where the new President spoke of how "the greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker."//

He began by noting that within the lifetime of most present, mankind would celebrate a new year which occurs only once in a thousand years -- the start of a new millennium. And that America had the chance to "lead the world onto that high ground of peace that man has dreamed of since the dawn of civilization."

Finally, Richard Nixon concluded: "If we succeed, generations to come will say of us that we helped make the world safe for mankind. I believe the American people are ready to answer this call." //

Mr. President, you helped America answer its "summons to greatness." Thank you for serving the cause of peace. God bless you and your family. And now, it is my distinct pleasure and honor to introduce the 37th President of the United States.

#

^[f

NIXON LIBRARY YORBA LINDA, CALIFORNIA THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1990
10:00 A.M.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. NIXON. BARBARA AND I ARE DELIGHTED TO BE WITH YOU ON THIS MEMORABLE DAY. MY SPECIAL GREETINGS AND RESPECT TO PRESIDENT AND MRS. REAGAN, PRESIDENT AND MRS. FORD. MEMBERS OF THE NIXON FAMILY. SECRETARY SIMON, SECRETARY MOSBACHER. GOVERNOR DEUKMEJIAN, SECRETARY SCHULTZ, CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER, SENIOR MEMBERS OF THE NIXON ADMINISTRATION, REVEREND GRAHAM, REVEREND PEALE, AMBASSADOR MOORE, AMBASSADOR ANNENBERG, AMBASSADOR

ZHU-QIZHEN

[JEW KEY-JEN],

HUGH HEWITT,

VICKY CARR. LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. THANK YOU, MR. PRESIDENT, FOR THAT INTRODUCTION. AND TO ALL OF YOU, FOR THE PRIVILEGE OF HELPING TO DEDICATE THIS BEAUTIFUL LIBRARY OF THE 37TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

TO LINCOLN, THE PRESIDENCY HELPED PLAY -- AS HE PUT IT -- AMERICA'S "MYSTIC CHORDS OF MEMORY." TO TR, THE PRESIDENCY MEANT THE "BULLY PULPIT" -- CALLING ON AMERICA'S BOUNDLESS ENERGY. AND IT WAS DWIGHT EISENHOWER -- BELOVED IKE -- WHO DESCRIBED ITS POWER "TO PROCLAIM ANEW OUR FAITH," AND SUMMON "LIGHTNESS AGAINST THE DARK."

TO OCCUPY THIS OFFICE IS TO FEEL A KINSHIP WITH THESE AND OTHER PRESIDENTS. EACH OF WHOM, IN HIS OWN WAY, SOUGHT TO
^[-1^[EDO RIGHT^[-0^[F -- AND THUS ^[-1^[EACHIEVE GOOD^[-0^[F. //
EACH SUMMONED THE BEST FROM THE IDEA WE CALL AMERICA. AND EACH WONDERED, I SUSPECT, HOW THEY COULD BE WORTHY OF
^[-1^[EGOD^[-0^[F, AND ^[-1^[EMAN^[-0^[F. //

THIS YEAR, AN ESTIMATED 1.5 MILLION PEOPLE WILL VISIT PRESIDENTIAL MUSEUMS AND LIBRARIES. EXPLORING THE LIVES OF THESE PRESIDENTS PASSED DOWN -- LIKE ORAL HISTORY -- FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER. // THEY WILL SEE HOW EACH PRESIDENT IS LIKE A FINELY-CUT PRISM WITH MANY FACETS. THEIR ACHIEVEMENTS, AND THEIR PHILOSOPHY. THEIR FAMILY, AND THEIR HUMANITY. //

FOR INSTANCE,
NOT FAR FROM HERE VISITORS WILL SOON SEE THE LIBRARY OF MY DISTINGUISHED PREDECESSOR, THE 40TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AND MRS. REAGAN. PRESIDENT REAGAN, "^[-1^[EWE WILL NOT SOON FORGET HOW YOU TRULY BLESSED AMERICA^[-0^[F." //

→
End of Page 1
on Teleprompter

LOOK, NEXT, TO MICHIGAN -- WHERE A MUSEUM AND LIBRARY HONOR THE 38TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, GERALD FORD, AND MRS. FORD. ^[-1^[EAN ENTIRE NATION IS GRATEFUL FOR YOUR LEADERSHIP AND LOVE OF COUNTRY.^[-0^[F //

TOMORROW MORNING, THE FIRST VISITORS WILL ENTER OUR NEWEST PRESIDENTIAL LIBRARY. THEY WILL NOTE THAT ONLY FDR RAN AS MANY TIMES AS RICHARD NIXON -- FIVE --

FOR NATIONAL OFFICE: EACH WINNING FOUR ELECTIONS. AND THAT MORE PEOPLE VOTED FOR RICHARD NIXON AS PRESIDENT THAN ANY OTHER MAN IN HISTORY. // THEY WILL HEAR OF HORATIO ALGER AND ALGER HISS. OF THE BOOK, ^[-1^[ESIX CRISES^[-0^[F, AND THE SEVENTH CRISIS, WATERGATE. // THEY WILL THINK OF CHECKERS -- MILLIE'S ROLE MODEL. // AND, YES, MR. PRESIDENT, THEY WILL HEAR AGAIN YOUR ANSWER TO MY "VISION THING" -- "LET ME MAKE THIS PERFECTLY CLEAR." //

MANY OF THESE VISITORS WILL KNOW OF YOUR ^[-1^[ETIMES^[-0^[F AS PRESIDENT: PERHAPS AS TUMULTUOUS AS ANY SINCE LINCOLN'S. AND OF YOUR ^[-1^[EGOAL^[-0^[F AS PRESIDENT: A WORLD WHERE PEACE WOULD LINK THE COMMUNITY OF NATIONS. YET OTHER YOUNG VISITORS WILL NOT REMEMBER THE YEARS 1969-74. THEY HAD NOT EVEN BEEN BORN WHEN RICHARD NIXON BECAME PRESIDENT. SO TO HELP THEM UNDERSTAND OUR 37TH PRESIDENT, HERE IS WHAT I WOULD TELL THOSE WHO JOURNEY TO YORBA LINDA. //

I WOULD SAY, FIRST: LOOK AT PERHAPS THE TRUEST INDEX OF ANY MAN -- HIS ^[-1^[EFAMILY^[-0^[F. THINK OF HIS MOTHER -- A GENTLE QUAKER -- AND HIS FATHER, WHO BUILT THEIR SMALL FRAME HOUSE LESS THAN 100 YARDS FROM HERE. AND HIS DAUGHTERS, TRICIA AND JULIE. ANY PARENT WOULD BE PROUD OF CHILDREN WITH THE LOYALTY AND LOVE OF THESE TWO WOMEN. // THINK, FINALLY, OF A GRACIOUS FIRST LADY WHO RANKS AMONG THE MOST ADMIRERD WOMEN OF POST-WAR AMERICA. ^[-1^[ETHE WOMAN WE KNOW, AND LOVE, AS PAT^[-0^[F. //

AS FIRST LADY, PAT NIXON CHAMPIONED THE RIGHT TO READ PROGRAM, AND HELPED BRING THE "PARKS TO PEOPLE" PROGRAM TO THE DISADVANTAGED. SHE REFURBISHED THE WHITE HOUSE AND OPENED IT TO MORE PEOPLE THAN EVER BEFORE. SHE WAS OUR MOST WIDELY TRAVELED FIRST LADY -- VISITING FIVE CONTINENTS AND 22 NATIONS. OVERCOMING THE POVERTY AND TRAGEDY OF HER CHILDHOOD TO BECOME A MIRROR OF AMERICA'S HEART, AND LOVE. // WHEN, IN 1958, FOREIGN MOBS STONED THE NIXONS' CAR, SHE WAS, AN OBSERVER SAID, "STRONGER THAN ANY MAN." YET IT WAS ALSO PAT WHO MOVED PIANIST DUKE ELLINGTON, AT A WHITE HOUSE DINNER, TO IMPROVISE A MELODY. "I SHALL PICK A NAME," HE SAID, "GENTLE, GRACEFUL -- LIKE PATRICIA." // MRS. NIXON, THE SECRET SERVICE CALLED YOU "STARLIGHT." YOUR HUSBAND HAS SAID IT BEST: YOU "FIT THAT NAME TO A T." // PAT, WHY DON'T YOU STAND UP AND LET US SHOW OUR APPRECIATION FOR THE GRACE AND BEAUTY YOU BROUGHT TO THE WHITE HOUSE. ///

NEXT, I WOULD SAY TO VISITORS HERE: LOOK AT RICHARD NIXON THE MAN. // HE HAD AN INTELLECTUAL'S ^[-1^[E COMPLEXITY^[-0^[F. ((KNOWING HOW YOU FEEL ABOUT SOME INTELLECTUALS, MR. PRESIDENT, I DON'T MEAN TO OFFEND.)) // HE WAS AN AUTHOR / EIGHT BOOKS // EACH COMPOSED ON HIS FAMOUS YELLOW LEGAL PADS // WHO, LIKE HIS FAVORITE AUTHOR, TOLSTOY, ADMIRERED THE DIGNITY OF MANUAL LABOR. HE WORKED IN THE MOST PRAGMATIC OF ARENAS -- YET INSISTED THAT "POLITICS IS POETRY, NOT PROSE." // HE BELIEVED IN LOVE OF COUNTRY, AND IN GOD -- IN LOYALTY TO FRIENDS, AND PROTECTING LOVED ONES. HE WAS ALSO A SOFT TOUCH WHEN IT CAME TO KIDS. // BELIEVE ME, I CAN EMPATHIZE. //

((LET ME REPEAT A STORY WHICH PRESIDENT NIXON HIMSELF ENJOYS. // ONE DAY, GREETING AN AIRPORT CROWD, HE HEARD A YOUNG GIRL SHOUTING, "HOW IS SMOKEY THE BEAR?" // AT THAT TIME, LIVING IN THE WASHINGTON ZOO. THE GIRL KEPT REPEATING THE QUESTION. NOT UNDERSTANDING HER WORDS, THE PRESIDENT TURNED TO AN AIDE FOR TRANSLATION. // "SMOKEY THE BEAR," THE AIDE MUMBLED, POINTING TO THE GIRL. "WASHINGTON NATIONAL ZOO." // TRIUMPHANT, PRESIDENT NIXON WALKED OVER, EXTENDED HIS HAND, AND SAID: "HOW DO YOU DO / MISS BEAR?")) ///

NOW, I'M NOT ONE TO CRITICIZE VERBAL CONFUSION. AFTER ALL, SOME SAY ENGLISH IS MY ONLY FOREIGN LANGUAGE. // PRESIDENT NIXON WAS MERELY BEING KIND. JUST AS HE MAILED HAND-WRITTEN LETTERS TO DEFEATED RIVALS LIKE HIS FRIEND HUBERT HUMPHREY. OR SAW THAT WHEN THE POWS RETURNED HOME IN EARLY '73 TO A WHITE HOUSE DINNER, EACH WIFE RECEIVED A CORSAGE. // JUST AS RICHARD NIXON WAS EXTRAORDINARILY CONTROVERSIAL, HE COULD ALSO BE UNCOMMONLY SENSITIVE TO THE FEELINGS OF OTHER PEOPLE. //

THIS BRINGS ME TO WHAT I WOULD ^[-1^[ENEXT^[-0^[F TELL THOSE WHO TRAVEL TO YORBA LINDA. WHAT PRESIDENT NIXON SAID OF DWIGHT EISENHOWER IN A 1969 EULOGY WAS TRUE, ALSO, OF HIMSELF: ^[-1^[EHE "CAME FROM THE HEART OF AMERICA^[-0^[F." NOT GEOGRAPHICALLY, PERHAPS, BUT ^[-1^[ECULTURALLY^[-0^[F. //

RICHARD NIXON WAS THE QUINTESSENCE OF MIDDLE AMERICA, AND TOUCHED DEEP CHORDS OF RESPONSE IN MILLIONS OF HER CITIZENS. AS PRESIDENT, UPHOLDING WHAT HE TERMED THE "SILENT MAJORITY" FROM DALLAS TO DAVENPORT, SYRACUSE TO SILER CITY. // HE LOVED AMERICA'S GOOD, QUIET, DECENT PEOPLE; HE ^[-1^[ESPOKE^[-0^[F FOR THEM; HE FELT, DEEPLY, ON THEIR ^[-1^[EBEHALF^[-0^[F. // THEODORE WHITE WOULD SAY: "MIDDLE AMERICA HAD BEEN WITHOUT A GREAT LEADER FOR GENERATIONS, AND IN RICHARD NIXON IT . . . ELEVATED A MAN OF TALENT AND ABILITY." // FOR MILLIONS OF AMERICANS, THIS PRESIDENT BECAME SOMETHING THEY HAD RARELY KNOWN: A VOICE -- SPEAKING LOUDLY, AND ELOQUENTLY, FOR THEIR VALUES AND THEIR DREAMS. //

FINALLY, AND MOST IMPORTANTLY, I WOULD SAY TO VISITORS:
RICHARD NIXON HELPED CHANGE THE COURSE NOT ONLY OF AMERICA BUT OF THE ENTIRE WORLD. HE BELIEVED IN RETURNING POWER TO THE PEOPLE.
SO HE CREATED REVENUE SHARING. // AND THAT YOUNG PEOPLE SHOULD BE FREE TO CHOOSE THEIR FUTURES. SO RICHARD NIXON ENDED THE DRAFT. // HE HELPED THE UNITED STATES REACH NEW HORIZONS IN SPACE AND TECHNOLOGY. BEGAN A PIONEERING CANCER INITIATIVE THAT GAVE HOPE AND LIFE TO MILLIONS. // HE KNEW THAT THE GREAT OUTDOORS IS PRECIOUS, BUT FRAGILE. SO HE CREATED THE ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY -- AN HISTORIC STEP TO HELP PRESERVE, AND WISELY USE, OUR NATURAL RESOURCES. //

ALL OF THIS RICHARD NIXON DID. YET FUTURE GENERATIONS WILL REMEMBER HIM MOST FOR DEDICATING HIS LIFE TO THE GREATEST CAUSE
OFFERED ANY PRESIDENT -- THE CAUSE OF PEACE AMONG NATIONS. //

RICHARD NIXON ENDURED MUCH IN HIS QUEST FOR "PEACE WITH HONOR" IN VIET NAM. HE KNEW THAT TRUE PEACE MEANS THE
^[-1^[ETRIUMPH^[-0^[F OF ^[-1^[EFREEDOM^[-0^[F -- NOT MERELY THE
^[-1^[EABSENCE^[-0^[F OF ^[-1^[EWAR^[-0^[F. // AS PRESIDENT, HE SERVED THIS COUNTRY'S SPECIAL MISSION TO HELP THOSE AROUND THE WORLD FOR WHOM AMERICA HAS ALWAYS BEEN A "MORNING STAR OF LIBERTY." ENGAGING IN DIPLOMATIC SUMMITRY -- AND HELPING CHANGE
THE POST-WAR BI-POLAR GLOBE. //

WHO CAN FORGET HOW IN MOSCOW, RICHARD NIXON SIGNED THE FIRST AGREEMENT TO LIMIT STRATEGIC NUCLEAR ARMS --

GIVING NEW HOPE TO THE WORLD FOR LASTING PEACE? // OR HOW HE PLANTED THE FIRST FRAGILE SEEDS OF PEACE IN THE MIDDLE EAST: GOLDA MEIR CREDITED HIM WITH SAVING ISRAEL DURING THE YOM KIPPUR WAR. // EVEN NOW, MEMORIES RESOUND OF PRESIDENT NIXON'S TRIP TO CHINA -- THE WEEK THAT REVOLUTIONIZED THE WORLD. NO AMERICAN PRESIDENT HAD EVER STOOD ON THE SOIL OF THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA. AS RICHARD NIXON STEPPED FROM AIR FORCE ONE AND EXTENDED HIS HAND TO CHOU EN-LAI, HIS VISION ENDED MORE THAN TWO DECADES OF ISOLATION. // "^[-1^[EBEING^[-0^[F PRESIDENT," HE OFTEN SAID, "IS NOTHING COMPARED WITH WHAT YOU CAN ^[-1^[EDO^[-0^[F AS PRESIDENT." MR. PRESIDENT, YOU WORKED WITH EVERY FIBER OF YOUR BEING TO HELP ACHIEVE "A ^[-1^[EGENERATION^[-0^[F OF PEACE." // TODAY, AS THE MOVEMENT TOWARD DEMOCRACY SWEEPS OUR GLOBE, YOU CAN TAKE GREAT PRIDE THAT HISTORY WILL SAY OF YOU: "HERE WAS A TRUE ^[-1^[EARCHITECT^[-0^[F OF PEACE." //

-11-

THERE HAVE BEEN, LITERALLY, MILLIONS OF WORDS WRITTEN ABOUT RICHARD NIXON. BUT LET ME CLOSE WITH A PASSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT HIMSELF. IT COMES FROM HIS FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS -- JANUARY 20, 1969 -- WHERE THE NEW PRESIDENT SPOKE OF HOW "THE GREATEST HONOR HISTORY CAN BESTOW IS THE TITLE OF PEACEMAKER."//

HE BEGAN BY NOTING THAT WITHIN THE LIFETIME OF MOST PRESENT, MANKIND WOULD CELEBRATE A NEW YEAR WHICH OCCURS ONLY ONCE IN A THOUSAND YEARS -- THE START OF A NEW MILLENNIUM. AND THAT AMERICA HAD THE CHANCE TO "LEAD THE WORLD ONTO THAT HIGH GROUND OF PEACE THAT MAN HAS DREAMED OF SINCE THE DAWN OF CIVILIZATION."

FINALLY, RICHARD NIXON CONCLUDED: "IF WE SUCCEED, GENERATIONS TO COME WILL SAY OF US THAT WE HELPED MAKE THE WORLD SAFE FOR MANKIND. I BELIEVE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE READY TO ANSWER THIS CALL." //

-12-

MR. PRESIDENT, YOU HELPED AMERICA ANSWER ITS "SUMMONS TO GREATNESS." THANK YOU FOR SERVING THE CAUSE OF PEACE. GOD BLESS YOU AND YOUR FAMILY. AND NOW, IT IS MY DISTINCT PLEASURE AND HONOR TO INTRODUCE THE 37TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

#

NIXON LIBRARY
YORBA LINDA, CALIFORNIA
THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1990
10:00 A.M.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. NIXON. BARBARA AND I ARE DELIGHTED TO BE WITH YOU ON THIS MEMORABLE DAY. MY SPECIAL GREETINGS AND RESPECT TO PRESIDENT AND MRS.
REAGAN, PRESIDENT AND MRS. FORD. MEMBERS OF THE NIXON
FAMILY. SECRETARY SIMON, SECRETARY MOSBACHER.
GOVERNOR DEUKMEJIAN, SECRETARY SHULTZ, CHIEF JUSTICE
BURGER, SENIOR MEMBERS OF THE NIXON ADMINISTRATION, REVEREND GRAHAM, REVEREND PEALE, AMBASSADOR MOORE,
AMBASSADOR ANNENBERG, AMBASSADOR ZHU-QIZHEN
[JEW KEY-JEN], HUGH HEWITT, VICKY CARR. LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. THANK YOU, MR. PRESIDENT, FOR THAT INTRODUCTION. AND TO ALL OF YOU, FOR THE PRIVILEGE OF
HELPING TO DEDICATE THIS BEAUTIFUL LIBRARY OF THE 37TH
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

addition?

TO LINCOLN, THE PRESIDENCY HELPED PLAY -- AS HE PUT IT -- AMERICA'S "MYSTIC CHORDS OF MEMORY." TO TR,
THE PRESIDENCY MEANT THE "BULLY PULPIT" -- CALLING ON AMERICA'S BOUNDLESS ENERGY. AND IT WAS DWIGHT
EISENHOWER -- BELOVED IKE -- WHO DESCRIBED ITS POWER
"TO PROCLAIM ANEW OUR FAITH," AND SUMMON "LIGHTNESS AGAINST THE DARK."

TO OCCUPY THIS OFFICE IS TO FEEL A KINSHIP WITH THESE AND OTHER PRESIDENTS. EACH OF WHOM, IN HIS OWN WAY, SOUGHT TO DO RIGHT -- AND THUS ACHIEVE GOOD. //
EACH SUMMONED THE BEST FROM THE IDEA WE CALL AMERICA.
AND EACH WONDERED, I SUSPECT, HOW THEY COULD BE WORTHY OF GOD, AND MAN. //

THIS YEAR, AN ESTIMATED 1.5 MILLION PEOPLE WILL VISIT PRESIDENTIAL MUSEUMS AND LIBRARIES. EXPLORING
THE LIVES OF THESE PRESIDENTS PASSED DOWN -- LIKE ORAL HISTORY -- FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER. // THEY WILL SEE HOW EACH PRESIDENT IS LIKE A FINELY-CUT PRISM WITH MANY FACETS. THEIR ACHIEVEMENTS, AND THEIR PHILOSOPHY. THEIR FAMILY, AND THEIR HUMANITY. //

70 miles
FOR INSTANCE, NOT FAR FROM HERE VISITORS WILL SOON
SEE THE LIBRARY OF MY DISTINGUISHED PREDECESSOR, THE 40TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AND MRS. REAGAN.
PRESIDENT REAGAN, "WE WILL NOT SOON FORGET HOW YOU TRULY BLESSED AMERICA." //

LOOK, NEXT, TO MICHIGAN -- WHERE A MUSEUM AND LIBRARY HONOR THE 38TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, GERALD FORD, AND MRS. FORD. AN ENTIRE NATION IS GRATEFUL FOR YOUR LEADERSHIP AND LOVE OF COUNTRY. //

TOMORROW MORNING, THE FIRST VISITORS WILL ENTER
OUR NEWEST PRESIDENTIAL LIBRARY. THEY WILL NOTE THAT ONLY FDR RAN AS MANY TIMES AS RICHARD NIXON -- FIVE -- FOR NATIONAL OFFICE: EACH WINNING FOUR ELECTIONS. AND THAT MORE PEOPLE VOTED FOR RICHARD NIXON AS PRESIDENT THAN ANY OTHER MAN IN HISTORY. // THEY WILL HEAR OF HORATIO ALGER AND ALGER HISS. OF THE BOOK, SIX CRISES, AND THE SEVENTH CRISIS, WATERGATE. // THEY WILL THINK OF CHECKERS -- MILLIE'S ROLE MODEL. // AND, YES, MR.
PRESIDENT, THEY WILL HEAR AGAIN YOUR ANSWER TO MY "VISION THING" -- "LET ME MAKE THIS PERFECTLY CLEAR."
//

MANY OF THESE VISITORS WILL KNOW OF YOUR TIMES AS PRESIDENT: PERHAPS AS TUMULTUOUS AS ANY SINCE LINCOLN'S. AND OF YOUR GOAL AS PRESIDENT: A WORLD WHERE PEACE WOULD LINK THE COMMUNITY OF NATIONS. YET OTHER YOUNG VISITORS WILL NOT REMEMBER THE YEARS 1969-74. THEY HAD NOT EVEN BEEN BORN WHEN RICHARD NIXON BECAME PRESIDENT. SO TO HELP THEM UNDERSTAND OUR 37TH PRESIDENT, HERE IS WHAT I WOULD TELL THOSE WHO JOURNEY TO YORBA LINDA. //

I WOULD SAY, FIRST: LOOK AT PERHAPS THE TRUEST INDEX OF ANY MAN -- HIS FAMILY. THINK OF HIS MOTHER -- A GENTLE QUAKER -- AND HIS FATHER, WHO BUILT THEIR SMALL FRAME HOUSE LESS THAN 100 YARDS FROM HERE. AND HIS DAUGHTERS, TRICIA AND JULIE. ANY PARENT WOULD BE PROUD OF CHILDREN WITH THE LOYALTY AND LOVE OF THESE TWO WOMEN. // THINK, FINALLY, OF A GRACIOUS FIRST LADY WHO RANKS AMONG THE MOST ADMIRERD WOMEN OF POST-WAR AMERICA. THE WOMAN WE KNOW, AND LOVE, AS PAT. //

AS FIRST LADY, PAT NIXON CHAMPIONED THE RIGHT TO READ PROGRAM, AND HELPED BRING THE "PARKS TO PEOPLE" PROGRAM TO THE DISADVANTAGED. SHE REFURBISHED THE WHITE HOUSE AND OPENED IT TO MORE PEOPLE THAN EVER BEFORE. SHE WAS OUR MOST WIDELY TRAVELED FIRST LADY -- VISITING FIVE CONTINENTS AND 22 NATIONS. OVERCOMING THE POVERTY AND TRAGEDY OF HER CHILDHOOD TO BECOME A MIRROR OF AMERICA'S HEART, AND LOVE. // WHEN, IN 1958, FOREIGN MOBS STONED THE NIXONS' CAR, SHE WAS, AN OBSERVER SAID, "STRONGER THAN ANY MAN." YET IT WAS ALSO PAT WHO MOVED PIANIST DUKE ELLINGTON, AT A WHITE HOUSE DINNER, TO IMPROVISE A MELODY. "I SHALL PICK A NAME," HE SAID, "GENTLE, GRACEFUL -- LIKE PATRICIA." // MRS. NIXON, THE SECRET SERVICE CALLED YOU "STARLIGHT." YOUR HUSBAND HAS SAID IT BEST: YOU "FIT THAT NAME TO A T." // PAT, WHY DON'T YOU STAND UP AND LET US SHOW OUR APPRECIATION FOR THE GRACE AND BEAUTY YOU BROUGHT TO THE WHITE HOUSE. ///

NEXT, I WOULD SAY TO VISITORS HERE: LOOK AT
RICHARD NIXON THE MAN. // HE HAD AN INTELLECTUAL'S COMPLEXITY. ((KNOWING HOW YOU FEEL ABOUT SOME INTELLECTUALS, MR. PRESIDENT, I DON'T MEAN TO OFFEND.))
// HE WAS AN AUTHOR / EIGHT BOOKS // EACH COMPOSED ON HIS FAMOUS YELLOW LEGAL PADS // WHO, LIKE HIS FAVORITE
AUTHOR, TOLSTOY, ADMIRED THE DIGNITY OF MANUAL LABOR.
HE WORKED IN THE MOST PRAGMATIC OF ARENAS -- YET INSISTED THAT "POLITICS IS POETRY, NOT PROSE." // HE BELIEVED IN LOVE OF COUNTRY, AND IN GOD -- IN LOYALTY TO FRIENDS, AND PROTECTING LOVED ONES. HE WAS ALSO A SOFT TOUCH WHEN IT CAME TO KIDS. // BELIEVE ME, I CAN EMPATHIZE. //

((LET ME REPEAT A STORY WHICH PRESIDENT NIXON HIMSELF ENJOYS. // ONE DAY, GREETING AN AIRPORT CROWD, HE HEARD A YOUNG GIRL SHOUTING, "HOW IS SMOKEY THE BEAR?" // AT THAT TIME, LIVING IN THE WASHINGTON ZOO. THE GIRL KEPT REPEATING THE QUESTION. NOT UNDERSTANDING HER WORDS, THE PRESIDENT TURNED TO AN AIDE FOR TRANSLATION. // "SMOKEY THE BEAR," THE AIDE MUMBLED, POINTING TO THE GIRL. "WASHINGTON NATIONAL ZOO." // TRIUMPHANT, PRESIDENT NIXON WALKED OVER, EXTENDED HIS HAND, AND SAID: "HOW DO YOU DO / MISS BEAR?")) ///

NOW, I'M NOT ONE TO CRITICIZE VERBAL CONFUSION. AFTER ALL, SOME SAY ENGLISH IS MY ONLY FOREIGN LANGUAGE. // PRESIDENT NIXON WAS MERELY BEING KIND. JUST AS HE MAILED HAND-WRITTEN LETTERS TO DEFEATED RIVALS LIKE HIS FRIEND HUBERT HUMPHREY. OR SAW THAT WHEN THE POWS RETURNED HOME IN EARLY '73 TO A WHITE HOUSE DINNER, EACH WIFE RECEIVED A CORSAGE. // JUST AS RICHARD NIXON WAS EXTRAORDINARILY CONTROVERSIAL, HE COULD ALSO BE UNCOMMONLY SENSITIVE TO THE FEELINGS OF OTHER PEOPLE. //

THIS BRINGS ME TO WHAT I WOULD NEXT TELL THOSE WHO TRAVEL TO YORBA LINDA. WHAT PRESIDENT NIXON SAID OF DWIGHT EISENHOWER IN A 1969 EULOGY WAS TRUE, ALSO, OF HIMSELF: HE "CAME FROM THE HEART OF AMERICA." NOT GEOGRAPHICALLY, PERHAPS, BUT CULTURALLY. //

RICHARD NIXON WAS THE QUINTESSENCE OF MIDDLE AMERICA, AND TOUCHED DEEP CHORDS OF RESPONSE IN MILLIONS OF HER CITIZENS. AS PRESIDENT, UPHOLDING WHAT HE TERMED THE "SILENT MAJORITY" FROM DALLAS TO DAVENPORT, SYRACUSE TO SILER CITY. // HE LOVED AMERICA'S GOOD, QUIET, DECENT PEOPLE; HE SPOKE FOR THEM; HE FELT, DEEPLY, ON THEIR BEHALF. // THEODORE WHITE WOULD SAY: "MIDDLE AMERICA HAD BEEN WITHOUT A GREAT LEADER FOR GENERATIONS, AND IN RICHARD NIXON IT . . . ELEVATED A MAN OF TALENT AND ABILITY." // FOR MILLIONS OF AMERICANS, THIS PRESIDENT BECAME SOMETHING THEY HAD RARELY KNOWN: A VOICE -- SPEAKING LOUDLY, AND ELOQUENTLY, FOR THEIR VALUES AND THEIR DREAMS. //

FINALLY, AND MOST IMPORTANTLY, I WOULD SAY TO VISITORS: RICHARD NIXON HELPED CHANGE THE COURSE NOT ONLY OF AMERICA BUT OF THE ENTIRE WORLD. HE BELIEVED IN RETURNING POWER TO THE PEOPLE. SO HE CREATED REVENUE SHARING. // AND THAT YOUNG PEOPLE SHOULD BE FREE TO CHOOSE THEIR FUTURES. SO RICHARD NIXON ENDED THE DRAFT. // HE HELPED THE UNITED STATES REACH NEW HORIZONS IN SPACE AND TECHNOLOGY. BEGAN A PIONEERING CANCER INITIATIVE THAT GAVE HOPE AND LIFE TO MILLIONS. // HE KNEW THAT THE GREAT OUTDOORS IS PRECIOUS, BUT FRAGILE. SO HE CREATED THE ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY -- AN HISTORIC STEP TO HELP PRESERVE, AND WISELY USE, OUR NATURAL RESOURCES. //

ALL OF THIS RICHARD NIXON DID. YET FUTURE GENERATIONS WILL REMEMBER HIM MOST FOR DEDICATING HIS LIFE TO THE GREATEST CAUSE OFFERED ANY PRESIDENT -- THE CAUSE OF PEACE AMONG NATIONS. //

RICHARD NIXON ENDURED MUCH IN HIS QUEST FOR "PEACE WITH HONOR" IN VIET NAM. HE KNEW THAT TRUE PEACE MEANS THE TRIUMPH OF FREEDOM -- NOT MERELY THE ABSENCE OF WAR. // AS PRESIDENT, HE SERVED THIS COUNTRY'S SPECIAL MISSION TO HELP THOSE AROUND THE WORLD FOR WHOM AMERICA HAS ALWAYS BEEN A "MORNING STAR OF LIBERTY." ENGAGING IN DIPLOMATIC SUMMITRY -- AND HELPING CHANGE THE POST-WAR BI-POLAR GLOBE. //

WHO CAN FORGET HOW IN MOSCOW, RICHARD NIXON SIGNED THE FIRST AGREEMENT TO LIMIT STRATEGIC NUCLEAR ARMS -- GIVING NEW HOPE TO THE WORLD FOR LASTING PEACE? // OR HOW HE PLANTED THE FIRST FRAGILE SEEDS OF PEACE IN THE MIDDLE EAST: GOLDA MEIR CREDITED HIM WITH SAVING ISRAEL DURING THE YOM KIPPUR WAR. // EVEN NOW, MEMORIES RESOUND OF PRESIDENT NIXON'S TRIP TO CHINA -- THE WEEK THAT REVOLUTIONIZED THE WORLD. NO AMERICAN PRESIDENT HAD EVER STOOD ON THE SOIL OF THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA. AS RICHARD NIXON STEPPED FROM AIR FORCE ONE AND EXTENDED HIS HAND TO CHOU EN-LAI, HIS VISION ENDED MORE THAN TWO DECADES OF ISOLATION. // "BEING PRESIDENT," HE OFTEN SAID, "IS NOTHING COMPARED WITH WHAT YOU CAN DO AS PRESIDENT." MR. PRESIDENT, YOU WORKED WITH EVERY FIBER OF YOUR BEING TO HELP ACHIEVE "A GENERATION OF PEACE." // TODAY, AS THE MOVEMENT TOWARD DEMOCRACY SWEEPS OUR GLOBE, YOU CAN TAKE GREAT PRIDE THAT HISTORY WILL SAY OF YOU: "HERE WAS A TRUE ARCHITECT OF PEACE."
//

THERE HAVE BEEN, LITERALLY, MILLIONS OF WORDS WRITTEN ABOUT RICHARD NIXON. BUT LET ME CLOSE WITH A PASSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT HIMSELF. IT COMES FROM HIS FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS -- JANUARY 20, 1969 -- WHERE THE NEW PRESIDENT SPOKE OF HOW "THE GREATEST HONOR HISTORY CAN BESTOW IS THE TITLE OF PEACEMAKER."//

HE BEGAN BY NOTING THAT WITHIN THE LIFETIME OF MOST PRESENT, MANKIND WOULD CELEBRATE A NEW YEAR WHICH OCCURS ONLY ONCE IN A THOUSAND YEARS -- THE START OF A NEW MILLENNIUM. AND THAT AMERICA HAD THE CHANCE TO "LEAD THE WORLD ONTO THAT HIGH GROUND OF PEACE THAT MAN HAS DREAMED OF SINCE THE DAWN OF CIVILIZATION."

FINALLY, RICHARD NIXON CONCLUDED: "IF WE SUCCEED, GENERATIONS TO COME WILL SAY OF US THAT WE HELPED MAKE THE WORLD SAFE FOR MANKIND. I BELIEVE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE READY TO ANSWER THIS CALL." //

MR. PRESIDENT, YOU HELPED AMERICA ANSWER ITS
"SUMMONS TO GREATNESS." THANK YOU FOR SERVING THE CAUSE OF PEACE. GOD BLESS YOU AND YOUR FAMILY. AND NOW, IT IS MY DISTINCT PLEASURE AND HONOR TO INTRODUCE THE 37TH PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

#

CLOSE HOLD

Document No.

5694

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

90 JUL 17 P2:25

DATE: 7/16/90 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: 7/17/90 NOON

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NIXON LIBRARY DEDICATION

	ACTION FYI			ACTION FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	☐	☒	MCCLURE	☐	☐
SUNUNU	☐	☒	NEWMAN	☐	☐
SCOWCROFT	☒	☐	PORTER	☒	☐
DARMAN	☐	☐	ROGICH	☐	☒
CARD	☒	☐	UNTERMEYER	☐	☐
CICCONI	☐	☒	ROGERS	☐	☒
DEMAREST	☐	☐	WINSTON	☐	☒
FITZWATER	☒	☐		☐	☐
GRAY	☐	☐		☐	☐
HAGIN	☐	☐		☐	☐
HOLIDAY	☐	☐		☐	☐

REMARKS:

Please forward any comments directly to Chriss Winston, Rm. 122, x2930, no later than NOON, Tuesday, July 17, with a copy to my office. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

July 17, 1990

TO: Chriss Winston

CLOSE HOLD

The NSC staff concurs in the attached statement, with changes as indicated.

Brent Scowcroft

cc: Jim Cicconi

James W. Cicconi
Assistant to the President and Deputy to the Chief of Staff
Ext. 2702

The Presidency is a special office for all Americans. It is the ~~only~~ office for which all the people vote. And all Presidents draw their strength from the people whom they serve and lead, and represent. For Lincoln, this service and leadership meant playing

(Smith/Garmey)
July 16, 1990
9 A.M.
NIX

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NIXON LIBRARY
YORBA LINDA, CALIFORNIA
THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1990
10:30 A.M.

President and Mrs. Nixon. ~~How pleased~~ ^{delighted} I am to see you. President and Mrs. Reagan, President and Mrs. Ford. Secretary Mosbacher. Reverend Graham, Senior Members of the Nixon Administration, Governor Deukmejian, Senator Wilson, Chief Justice Burger, Vicky Carr. Those great American heroes -- our Viet Nam Prisoners of War. Ladies and gentlemen. Thank you, ~~Mr. President~~ ^{Mr. sig}, for that introduction. And to all of you, for the privilege of helping to dedicate this beautiful Library of the 37th President of the United States.

To Lincoln, the Presidency helped play -- as he put it -- America's "mystic chords of memory." To TR, ^{the Presidency} it meant the "bully pulpit," ^{calling on} ~~reflecting~~ ^{boundless vitality} America's ~~at her most vital~~. And it was Dwight Eisenhower -- beloved Ike -- who described its power "to proclaim anew our faith," and summon "lightness against the dark."

To occupy this office is to feel a kinship with ^{such Presidents as} these, and ~~other Presidents~~. Each ~~of whom~~, in his own way, sought to do right -- and thus achieve good. // Each felt a sacred obligation to serve the idea we call America. And each wondered, I suspect, how they could be worthy of God, and man. //

This year, an estimated 1.5 million people will visit Presidential museums and libraries. Exploring the lives of these

Each summoned the ~~people's~~ best of our people.

only the sitting President
as "Mr.
President"

Presidents passed ^{down} -- like oral history -- from one generation to another. // They will see how each President is like a finely-cut prism with many facets. ^{Visitors will relive} Their achievements, and their ^{come to know} philosophy. ^{ies} Their family, and their humanity. //

In Santa Barbara, for instance, visitors will soon see the library of my distinguished predecessor, the 40th President of the United States, and Mrs. Reagan. To Ronald Reagan, I say: "We will not soon forget how you truly blessed America." //

Look, next, to Michigan -- where a museum and library honors the 38th President of the United States, Gerald Ford, and Mrs. Ford. An entire Nation is grateful for your leadership and love of country. //

Tomorrow morning, the first visitors will enter our newest Presidential Library. They will note that only FDR ran as many times as Richard Nixon -- five -- for national office: Each winning four elections. And that more people voted for Richard Nixon as President than ^{other} any man in history. // They will hear of Horatio Alger and Alger Hiss. Of the book, Six Crises, and the seventh crisis, Watergate. // They will think of Checkers -- Millie's role model. // And, ^{so, they will hear again} ~~yes, Mr. President~~, your answer to my "Vision thing" -- "Let me make this perfectly clear." //

Many of these visitors will know of your times as President: Perhaps as tumultuous as any since Lincoln's. And of your goal as President: A world where peace would link the community of nations. Yet other young visitors will not remember the years 1969-74. They had not even been born when Richard Nixon became President. So to help them understand our 37th President, here is what I would tell those who journey to Yorba Linda. //

I would say, first: Look at perhaps the truest index of any man -- his family. Think of his mother -- a gentle Quaker -- and his father, who built their small frame house less than 100 yards from here. And his daughters, Tricia and Julie. Any parent would be proud of children with the loyalty and love of these two women. // Think, finally, of a gracious First Lady who ranks among the most admired women of post-World War ~~II~~ America. The woman we know, and love, as Pat. //

As First Lady, Pat Nixon championed the Right to Read program, and brought the "Parks to People" program to the disabled and disadvantaged. She refurbished the White House and opened it to more Americans than ever before. She was our most widely traveled First Lady -- visiting five continents and 22 Nations. Overcoming the poverty and tragedy of her childhood to become a mirror of America's heart, and love. // When, in 1958, foreign mobs stoned the Nixons' car, she was, a reporter said, "stronger than any man." Yet it was also Pat who moved pianist Duke Ellington, at a White House dinner, to improvise a melody. "I shall pick a name," he said, "gentle, graceful -- like Patricia." // Mrs. Nixon, the Secret Service called you "Starlight." Your husband has said it best: You "fit that name to a T." //

Next, I would say to visitors here: Look at Richard Nixon the man. // He had an intellectual's complexity. He was an

I would substitute something like this:

His sensitivity to others is reflected in his reaching out letters, to friends, to defeated political rivals, and to the wives of American POWs who had suffered so much for their husband's selfless service.

4

author / eight books // each composed on his famous yellow legal pads // who, like his favorite author, Tolstoy, admired the dignity of manual labor. He worked in the most pragmatic of arenas -- yet insisted that "politics is poetry, not prose." // He believed in love of country, and ⁱⁿ God -- in loyalty to friends, and protecting loved ones. He was also a soft touch when it came to kids. // ~~Believe me, I can empathize.~~ //

((Let me repeat a story which President Nixon himself enjoys. // One day, greeting an airport crowd, he heard a young girl shouting, "How is Smokey the Bear?" // at that time, living in the Washington Zoo. The girl kept repeating the question. Not understanding her words, the President turned to an aide for translation. // "Smokey the Bear," the aide mumbled, pointing to the girl. "Washington National Zoo." // Triumphant, President Nixon walked over, extended his hand, and said: "How do you do / Miss Bear?")) ///

Now, I'm not one to criticize verbal confusion. ~~After all, some say English is my only foreign language.~~ // President Nixon's point was kindness to the young, reaching out. ~~was merely being kind.~~

Just as he mailed hand-written letters to defeated rivals like his ~~dear~~ [?] friend Hubert Humphrey. Or saw that when the POWs returned home in early '73 to a White House Dinner, each wife received a corsage. // Just as Richard Nixon was extraordinarily controversial, he could also be uncommonly sensitive to the feelings of other people. //

This brings me to what I would next tell those who travel to Yorba Linda. What President Nixon said of Dwight Eisenhower in a

1969 eulogy was true, also, of himself: He "came from the heart of America." Not geographically, perhaps, but culturally. //

Richard Nixon was the quintessence of Middle America, and touched deep chords of response in millions of her citizens. As President, upholding what he termed the "Silent Majority" from Dallas to Davenport, Syracuse to Siler City. // He loved America's good, quiet, decent people; he spoke for them; he felt, deeply, on their behalf. // Theodore White would say: "Middle America had been without a great leader for generations, and in Richard Nixon it . . . elevated a man of talent and ability." // For millions of Americans, this President became something they had rarely known: A voice -- speaking loudly, and eloquently, for their values and their dreams. //

Finally, and most importantly, I would say to visitors: Richard Nixon helped change the course not only of America but of the entire world. He believed in returning power to the people. So he created revenue sharing. // And that young people should be free to choose their futures. So Richard Nixon ended the draft. // He helped the United States reach new horizons in space and technology. Began a pioneering cancer initiative that gave hope and life to millions. // He knew that the great outdoors is precious, but fragile. So he created the Environmental Protection Agency -- an historic step to help preserve, and wisely use, our natural resources. //

Like all modern Presidents, Richard Nixon knew he represented a world-wide, non-voting constituency of free peoples dependent on American strength and of people yearning to be free for whom America gleams like a beacon.

All of this Richard Nixon did. Yet future generations will remember him most for dedicating his life to the greatest cause offered any President -- the cause of peace among Nations. //

Richard Nixon believed that true peace means the triumph of freedom -- not merely the absence of war. So he endured much in his quest for "Peace With Honor" in Viet Nam. // Yet he also understood America's special mission to ~~end the brutality of war~~ bring real peace, the peace that can bring freedom. So he engaged in diplomatic summitry -- and helped change the post-war bi-polar globe. //

Who can forget how in Moscow, President Nixon ^{-- the first President to visit the Soviet Union.} signed the first agreement ^{??} ~~of the nuclear age~~ to ~~protect our environment and~~ thus giving hope to all the world. that another terrible arms race might end and that cold war limit strategic nuclear arms. // Or how he planted the first fragile seeds of peace in the Middle East: Golda Meir credited him with saving Israel during the Yom Kippur War. // Even now, memories resound of President Nixon's trip to China -- the week that revolutionized the world. No American President had ever stood on the soil of the People's Republic of China. As Richard Nixon stepped from Air Force One and extended his hand to Chou En-lai, his vision ended more than two decades of isolation. // "Being President," he often said, "is nothing compared with what you can do as President." ~~Mr. President,~~ you worked with every fiber of your being to help achieve "A Generation of Peace." // Today, as the movement toward democracy sweeps our globe, you can take great pride that history will say of you: "Here was a true architect of peace."

There have been, literally, millions of words written about Richard Nixon. But let me close with a passage from the President himself. It comes from his first Inaugural Address -- January 20, 1969 -- where the new President spoke of how "the greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker."//

He began by noting that within the lifetime of most present, mankind would celebrate a new year which occurs only once in a thousand years -- the start of a new millennium. And that America had the chance to "lead the world onto that high ground of peace that man has dreamed of since the dawn of civilization."

~~Finally, Richard Nixon concluded:~~ "If we succeed, generations to come will say of us that we helped make the world safe for mankind. I believe the American people are ready to answer this call." //

~~Mr. President, you helped America answer its "summons to greatness." Thank you for serving the cause of peace. God bless you and your family.~~ And now, it is my distinct pleasure and honor to introduce the 37th President of the United States.

#

President Nixon, your deeds as President served the cause of world peace and freedom as few other Presidents' have done. Your words since leaving office have helped teach a generation that peace does not just happen. We must work hard to achieve it and protect it. The same is true of freedom. In helping America answer its "summons to greatness," you helped others, all over the world, answer their call to be free and to be at peace. For that we all thank you and wish God's blessings on you and your family.

Egg Comments
7/17

✓
(Smith/Garmey)
July 16, 1990
9 A.M.
NIX

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NIXON LIBRARY
YORBA LINDA, CALIFORNIA
THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1990
10:30 A.M.

DONE

what about Barbara and I - no other reference to BB in no marks

President and Mrs. Nixon. How pleased I am to see you.
President and Mrs. Reagan, President and Mrs. Ford. Secretary
Mosbacher. Reverend Graham, Senior Members of the Nixon Administration, Governor Deukmejian, Senator Wilson, Chief Justice Burger, Vicky Carr. Those great American heroes -- our Viet Nam Prisoners of War. Ladies and gentlemen. Thank you, Mr.
President, for that introduction. And to all of you, for the privilege of helping to dedicate this beautiful Library of the 37th President of the United States.

To Lincoln, the Presidency helped play -- as he put it -- America's "mystic chords of memory." To TR, it meant the "bully pulpit," reflecting America at her most vital. And it was Dwight Eisenhower -- beloved Ike -- who described its power "to proclaim anew our faith," and summon "lightness against the dark."

To occupy this office is to feel a kinship with these and other Presidents. Each of whom, in his own way, sought to do right -- and thus achieve good. // Each felt a sacred obligation to serve the idea we call America. And each wondered, I suspect, how they could be worthy of God, and man. //

This year, an estimated 1.5 million people will visit Presidential museums and libraries. Exploring the lives of these *already changed by

C.S. 2*

Presidents passed -- like oral history -- from one generation to another. // They will see how each President is like a finely-cut prism with many facets. Their achievements, and their philosophy. Their family, and their humanity. //

In Santa Barbara, for instance, visitors will soon see the library of my distinguished predecessor, the 40th President of the United States, and Mrs. Reagan. To Ronald Reagan, I say: "We will not soon forget how you truly blessed America." //

Look, next, to Michigan -- where a museum and library honors the 38th President of the United States, Gerald Ford, and Mrs. Ford. An entire Nation is grateful for your leadership and love of country. //

Tomorrow morning, the first visitors will enter our newest Presidential Library. They will note that only FDR ran as many times as Richard Nixon -- five -- for national office: Each winning four elections. And that more people voted for Richard Nixon as President than any man in history. // They will hear of Horatio Alger and Alger Hiss. Of the book, Six Crises, and the seventh crisis, Watergate. // They will think of Checkers -- Millie's role model. // And, yes, Mr. President, your answer to my "Vision thing" -- "Let me make this perfectly clear." //

In fact, this is not the 9th Presidential Library. It is not affiliated with Nat. Archives. This phrase is not a technical phrase but a little misquote.

Many of these visitors will know of your times as President: Perhaps as tumultuous as any since Lincoln's. And of your goal as President: A world where peace would link the community of nations. Yet other young visitors will not remember the years 1969-74. They had not even been born when Richard Nixon became President. So to help them understand our 37th President, here is what I would tell those who journey to Yorba Linda. //

I would say, first: Look at perhaps the truest index of any man -- his family. Think of his mother -- a gentle Quaker - - and his father, who built their small frame house less than 100 yards from here. And his daughters, Tricia and Julie. Any parent would be proud of children with the loyalty and love of these two women. // Think, finally, of a gracious First Lady who ranks among the most admired women of post-World War II America. The woman we know, and love, as Pat. //

As First Lady, Pat Nixon championed the Right to Read program, and brought the "Parks to People" program to the disabled and disadvantaged. She refurbished the White House and opened it to more Americans than ever before. She was our most widely traveled First Lady -- visiting five continents and 22 Nations. Overcoming the poverty and tragedy of her childhood to become a mirror of America's heart, and love. // When, in 1958, foreign mobs stoned the Nixons' car, she was, a reporter said, "stronger than any man." Yet it was also Pat who moved pianist Duke Ellington, at a White House dinner, to improvise a melody. "I shall pick a name," he said, "gentle, graceful -- like Patricia." // Mrs. Nixon, the Secret Service called you "Starlight." Your husband has said it best: You "fit that name to a T." //

10% chance of refute of some disagreement on this point

This is certainly true, but there are no records to back up here.

Next, I would say to visitors here: Look at Richard Nixon the man. // He had an intellectual's complexity. He was an author / eight books // each composed on his famous yellow legal pads // who, like his favorite author, Tolstoy, admired the dignity of manual labor. He worked in the most pragmatic of arenas -- yet insisted that "politics is poetry, not prose." // He believed in love of country, and God -- in loyalty to friends, and protecting loved ones. He was also a soft touch when it came to kids. // Believe me, I can empathize. //

((Let me repeat a story which President Nixon himself enjoys. // One day, greeting an airport crowd, he heard a young girl shouting, "How is Smokey the Bear?" // at that time, living in the Washington Zoo. The girl kept repeating the question. Not understanding her words, the President turned to an aide for translation. // "Smokey the Bear," the aide mumbled, pointing to the girl. "Washington National Zoo." // Triumphant, President Nixon walked over, extended his hand, and said: "How do you do / Miss Bear?")) ///

Now, I'm not one to criticize verbal confusion. After all, some say English is my only foreign language. // President Nixon was merely being kind. Just as he mailed hand-written letters to defeated rivals like his dear friend Hubert Humphrey. Or saw that when the POWS returned home in early '73 to a White House Dinner, each wife received a corsage. // Just as Richard Nixon was extraordinarily controversial, he could also be uncommonly sensitive to the feelings of other people. //

This brings me to what I would next tell those who travel to Yorba Linda. What President Nixon said of Dwight Eisenhower in a

1969 eulogy was true, also, of himself: He "came from the heart of America." Not geographically, perhaps, but culturally. //

Richard Nixon was the quintessence of Middle America, and touched deep chords of response in millions of her citizens. As President, upholding what he termed the "Silent Majority" from Dallas to Davenport, Syracuse to Siler City. // He loved America's good, quiet, decent people; he spoke for them; he felt, deeply, on their behalf. // Theodore White would say: "Middle America had been without a great leader for generations, and in Richard Nixon it . . . elevated a man of talent and ability." // For millions of Americans, this President became something they had rarely known: A voice -- speaking loudly, and eloquently, for their values and their dreams. //

Finally, and most importantly, I would say to visitors: Richard Nixon helped change the course not only of America but of the entire world. He believed in returning power to the people. So he created revenue sharing. // And that young people should be free to choose their futures. So Richard Nixon ended the draft. // He helped the United States reach new horizons in space and technology. Began a pioneering cancer initiative that gave hope and life to millions. // He knew that the great outdoors is precious, but fragile. So he created the Environmental Protection Agency -- an historic step to help preserve, and wisely use, our natural resources. //

*German critical nature of T.W. book, an ambiguous reference must be heart not to upset
R.N.*

All of this Richard Nixon did. Yet future generations will remember him most for dedicating his life to the greatest cause offered any President -- the cause of peace among Nations. //

Richard Nixon believed that true peace means the triumph of freedom -- not merely the absence of war. So he endured much in his quest for "Peace With Honor" in Viet Nam. // Yet he also understood America's special mission to end the brutality of war. So he engaged in diplomatic summitry -- and helped change the post-war bi-polar globe. //

Who can forget how in Moscow, President Nixon signed the first agreement of the nuclear age to protect our environment and limit strategic nuclear arms? // Or how he planted the first fragile seeds of peace in the Middle East: Golda Meir credited him with saving Israel during the Yom Kippur War. // Even now, memories resound of President Nixon's trip to China -- the week that revolutionized the world. No American President had ever stood on the soil of the People's Republic of China. As Richard Nixon stepped from Air Force One and extended his hand to Chou En-lai, his vision ended more than two decades of isolation. // "Being President," he often said, "is nothing compared with what you can do as President." Mr. President, you worked with every fiber of your being to help achieve "A Generation of Peace." // Today, as the movement toward democracy sweeps our globe, you can take great pride that history will say of you: "Here was a true architect of peace."

There have been, literally, millions of words written about Richard Nixon. But let me close with a passage from the President himself. It comes from his first Inaugural Address -- January 20, 1969 -- where the new President spoke of how "the greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker."//

He began by noting that within the lifetime of most present, mankind would celebrate a new year which occurs only once in a thousand years -- the start of a new millennium. And that America had the chance to "lead the world onto that high ground of peace that man has dreamed of since the dawn of civilization."

Finally, Richard Nixon concluded: "If we succeed, generations to come will say of us that we helped make the world safe for mankind. I believe the American people are ready to answer this call." //

Mr. President, you helped America answer its "summons to greatness." Thank you for serving the cause of peace. God bless you and your family. And now, it is my distinct pleasure and honor to introduce the 37th President of the United States.

#