PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR II
ROOM 459
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1991

Fifty years ago, on December 7th, the peace of a Sunday morning was shattered and America was at war. World War II stands as a dividing line in our history. In some ways, it still defines who we are, and what we stand for as a Nation.

Over the next four years, Americans will gather to observe the various anniversaries of the war. I've asked the Secretary of Defense to help coordinate these events and I urge all civic and veterans groups to join in the remembrances.

We will honor the military giants who mobilized the forces and led them across the battlefields of Europe and the Pacific. But most of all, we will honor the courageous citizen-soldiers from every race, creed, and walk of life, who defended liberty in its hour of peril. And we will remember those on the homefront -- the workers who turned America into the "arsenal of democracy." Fifty years later, the memorial to World War II veterans is all around us: an America strong and free, her proud example lighting the way to liberty.

Those of us who remember World War II must pass on what we learned to our grandchildren. Never again will America be unprepared. Never again will we appease an aggressor who threatens our vital interests. Never again will we isolate ourselves and pretend the rest of the world's problems don't affect us. America must continue to lead. Our most important strength is not military or economic. It's moral -- and the world needs our moral leadership now more than ever.

The United States will always be a force for peace. But the peace we seek is a real peace -- not merely the absence of war, but the triumph of freedom. - During these four years of commemoration, let us rededicate ourselves to the principles for which our veterans so valiantly fought. Let us extend gratitude to those whose suffering and sacrifice made victory certain. And let us resolve that when the final history is written, the Second World War will become known \ as the Last World War.

It's tempting to echo Churchill and say World War II was America's "finest hour." \ But we know -- just as we knew in the darkest days of the war -- that America's best days lie ahead of us. And may God continue to bless America -- freedom's home.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: USIA INTERNATIONAL VISITORS

I speak to you today as someone who has a true appreciation for the efforts of our International Visitors Program volunteers. I recognize the crucial role this program plays in promoting international understanding. And I know what it means to share America's most valuable national treasure -- its hospitality, its friendship, its spirit of giving.

You see, way back in 1967, Barbara and I were proud participants in this wonderful program, hosting then future Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in our Houston home. The "Iron Lady" has said of that visit, "I saw and felt the vitality and generosity of the American way of life...Forevermore, I shall be a true friend of the United States." Who could have known that a bond begun almost a quarter century ago would one day help win the Gulf War -- and cement the ties of international friendship.

Margaret Thatcher is one of the more than 130 international visitors who are current or former chiefs of state -- former Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, Hungarian Prime Minister Jozsef Antall, former Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, and former Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

But the program offers more than just an opportunity to host tomorrow's world leaders. \ For our visitors, it offers a glimpse into the heart of America. For our government, it offers a chance for people-to-people diplomacy without pomp and circumstance. For our volunteers, it allows us to share the real reason why America is the greatest nation on earth.

Herman Melville once wrote, "America has been settled by people of all nations. All nations may claim her for their own...We are not a nation so much as a world." Thank you for serving as envoys to the leaders of tomorrow. God Bless the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: THANKSGIVING DAY POINT OF LIGHT

On this Thanksgiving Day, I want to express my gratitude for a group of volunteers who have given their community -- and our nation -- an extraordinary example of courage and love.

In Bloomfield, East Hartford, and Windsor, Connecticut, the Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program serves men and women who are profoundly disabled. All of them either suffer from visual impairment or must overcome physical, mental or emotional limitations. But thanks to the imagination and inner strength of these Americans and the staff that supports them, these disabled citizens have not allowed themselves to be limited at all in their ability to reach out and bring light and warmth to the lives of others in need.

Five days a week, three groups of disabled adults from the program deliver "Meals on Wheels" to elderly citizens in nine Connecticut towns served by the Visiting Nurse and Home Care Corporation. These homebound senior citizens have adopted their volunteer visitors, and both enjoy developing special relationships with their newfound friends.

This volunteer program offers a lesson for all Americans: These remarkable and courageous volunteers prove there is no barrier, no prejudice, no disability that the human spirit cannot overcome. On this Thanksgiving Day, Barbara and I salute the volunteers of the Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program as the 627th Daily Point of Light. You give our whole nation ever more reason to be thankful for the boundless capacity of the human spirit. May God bless you.

Fifty years ago, in a moment frozen in the memory of all who were alive, the peace of a Sunday morning was shattered and America was at war. World War II stands as a dividing line in our history. In some ways, it still defines who <sup>we</sup> are, and what we stand for as a Nation. ✓

Over the next four years, Americans will observe various anniversaries involving World War II. We will honor the military giants who mobilized the forces -- Marshall, King, Arnold -- and the commanders who led our warriors across the battlefields of Europe and the Pacific: Eisenhower, Patton, Nimitz, Doolittle, Halsey, MacArthur.

But most of all, we will honor the courageous citizen-soldiers ~~from race, creed, and walk of life~~ who defended freedom in its hour of peril: the sailor firing an anti-aircraft gun at Pearl Harbor, the marine splashing ashore onto the bloody sands of Guadalcanal, the airborne rifleman who dropped into the night sky over Normandy, the airman who braved the skies plunging deep into enemy territory, the Coast Guardsmen and merchant seamen who kept the vital cargo moving through dangerous sea-lanes, and the defense workers who pounded out the products that made America the "arsenal of democracy." Fifty years later, the memorial to World War II veterans is all around us: an America strong and free, her proud example lighting the way to liberty. ✓

America has always held a special place in history. In fighting to preserve our own democracy, we've sought to extend the blessings of liberty throughout the world. Never in human history have freedom, democracy, and basic human rights been so widely enjoyed. In perhaps our most stirring achievement, even our enemies in World War II have adopted these ideals and now number among our staunchest allies. That proud legacy is shared by all Americans.

Those of us who remember World War II must pass on what we learned to our grandchildren. Never again will America be unprepared. Never again will we appease an aggressor who threatens our vital interests. Never again will we isolate ourselves and pretend the rest of the world's problems don't affect us. America must continue to lead. Our most important strength is not military or economic. It's moral power -- and the world needs our moral leadership now more than ever.

The United States will always be a force for peace. But the peace we seek is a real peace -- not merely the absence of war, but the triumph of freedom. During these four years of commemoration, let us rededicate ourselves to the principles for which our veterans so valiantly fought. Let us extend the hand of gratitude to those whose suffering and sacrifice made victory certain. And let us resolve that when the final history is written, the Second World War will become known \ as the Last World War.

It's tempting to echo Churchill and say World War II was

America's "finest hour." \ But we know, just as we knew during the darkest days of 1942, that America's best days lie ahead of us. And may God continue to bless America -- freedom's home.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: USIA INTERNATIONAL VISITORS
Room 459

I speak to you today as someone who has a true appreciation for the efforts of our International Visitors Program volunteers. I recognize the crucial role this program plays in promoting international understanding. And I know what it means to share America's most valuable national treasure -- its hospitality, its friendship, and its giving spirit.

You see, way back in 1967, Barbara and I were proud participants in this wonderful program, hosting then future Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher <sup>in</sup> our Houston home. The "Iron Lady" has said of that visit, "I saw and felt the vitality and generosity of the American way of life...Forevermore, I shall be a true friend of the United States." Who could have known that a bond begun almost a quarter century ago would one day help win the Gulf War -- and cement the ties of international friendship.

Margaret Thatcher is one of the more than 130 international visitors who are current or former chiefs of state -- Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, Hungarian Prime Minister Jozsef Antall, former Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, and former Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

But the program offers more than just an opportunity to host and hobnob with tomorrow's world leaders. \ For our visitors, it offers a glimpse into the real heart of America. For our government, it offers a chance for people-to-people diplomacy without pomp and circumstance. For our volunteers, it allows us to share and show the real reason why America is the greatest nation on earth.

~~Herman Melville once wrote, "America has been settled by people of all nations. All nations may claim her for their own...We are not a nation so much as a world."~~ Thank you for -serving as envoys to the leaders of tomorrow's world. God Bless you and the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: THANKSGIVING DAY POINT OF LIGHT

On this Thanksgiving Day, I want to express my gratitude to a group of volunteers who have given their community -- and our nation -- an extraordinary gift of courage and love.

The Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program of Oak Hill School operates in Bloomfield, East Hartford, and Windsor, Connecticut. The program serves severely handicapped men and women. All of them suffer visual impairment, and some also are limited physically, mentally and emotionally. But thanks to the imagination and inner strength of these handicapped Americans and the staff that supports them, handicapped citizens in this program now are helping others as community volunteers.

Five days a week, three groups of handicapped adults from the program deliver "Meals on Wheels" to elderly citizens in nine Connecticut towns served by the Visiting Nurse and Home Care Corporation. The homebound senior citizens and their handicapped volunteer visitors offer one another warm new companionship.

This volunteer program offers a remarkable lesson for all Americans: These courageous volunteers prove there is no barrier, no prejudice, no handicap that the human spirit cannot overcome. Barbara and I salute the volunteers of the Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program as the 627th Daily Point of Light. You give the whole nation a marvellous example.

Thank you for all that you do. And may God bless each and every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: THANKSGIVING DAY POINT OF LIGHT

On this Thanksgiving Day, I want to express my gratitude to a group of volunteers who have given their community -- and our nation -- an extraordinary gift of courage and love.

The Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program of Oak Hill School operates in Bloomfield, East Hartford, and Windsor, Connecticut. The program serves severely handicapped men and women. All of them suffer visual impairment, and some also are limited physically, mentally and emotionally. But thanks to the imagination and inner strength of these handicapped Americans and the staff that supports them, handicapped citizens in this program now are helping others as community volunteers.

Five days a week, three groups of handicapped adults from the program deliver "Meals on Wheels" to elderly citizens in nine Connecticut towns served by the Visiting Nurse and Home Care Corporation. The homebound senior citizens and their handicapped volunteer visitors offer one another warm new companionship.

This volunteer program offers a remarkable lesson for all Americans: These courageous volunteers prove there is no barrier, no prejudice, no handicap that the human spirit cannot overcome. Barbara and I salute the volunteers of the Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program as the 627th Daily Point of Light. You give the whole nation a marvellous example.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR II
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1991

Fifty years ago, in a moment frozen in the memory of all who were alive, the peace of a Sunday morning was shattered and America was at war. World War II stands as a dividing line in our history. In some ways, it still defines who are, and what we stand for as a Nation.

Over the next four years, Americans will observe various anniversaries involving World War II. We will honor the military giants who mobilized the forces -- Marshall, King, Arnold -- and the commanders who led our warriors across the battlefields of Europe and the Pacific: Eisenhower, Patton, Nimitz, Doolittle, Halsey, MacArthur.

But most of all, we will honor the courageous citizen-soldiers from <sup>every</sup> race, creed, and walk of life who defended freedom in its hour of peril: the sailor firing an anti-aircraft gun at Pearl Harbor, the marine splashing ashore onto the bloody sands of Guadalcanal, the airborne rifleman who dropped into the night sky over Normandy, the airman who braved the skies plunging deep into enemy territory, the Coast Guardsmen and merchant seamen who kept the vital cargo moving through dangerous sea-lanes, and the defense workers who pounded out the products that made America the "arsenal of democracy." Fifty years later, the memorial to World War II veterans is all around us: an America strong and free, her proud example lighting the way to liberty.

America has always held a special place in history. In fighting to preserve our own democracy, we've sought to extend the blessings of liberty throughout the world. Never in human history have freedom, democracy, and basic human rights been so widely enjoyed. In perhaps our most stirring achievement, even our enemies in World War II have adopted these ideals and now number among our staunchest allies. That proud legacy is shared by all Americans.

Those of us who remember World War II must pass on what we learned to our grandchildren. Never again will America be unprepared. Never again will we appease an aggressor who threatens our vital interests. Never again will we isolate ourselves and pretend the rest of the world's problems don't affect us. America must continue to lead. Our most important strength is not military or economic. It's moral power -- and the world needs our moral leadership now more than ever.

The United States will always be a force for peace. But the peace we seek is a real peace -- not merely the absence of war, but the triumph of freedom. During these four years of commemoration, let us rededicate ourselves to the principles for which our veterans so valiantly fought. Let us extend the hand of gratitude to those whose suffering and sacrifice made victory certain. And let us resolve that when the final history is written, the Second World War will become known \ as the Last World War.

It's tempting to echo Churchill and say World War II was America's "finest hour." \ But we know, just as we knew during the darkest days of 1942, that America's best days lie ahead of us. And may God continue to bless America -- freedom's home.

Fifty years ago, on December 7th, the peace of a Sunday morning was shattered and America was at war. World War II stands as a dividing line in our history. In some ways, it still defines who we are, and what we stand for as a Nation.

And I know what it means to share America's most valuable national treasure -- its hospitality, its friendship, its spirit of giving.

You see, way back in 1967, Barbara and I were proud participants in this wonderful program, hosting then future Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in our Houston home. The "Iron Lady" has said of that visit, "I saw and felt the vitality and generosity of the American way of life...Forevermore, I shall be a true friend of the United States." Who could have known that a bond begun almost a quarter century ago would one day help win the Gulf War -- and cement the ties of international friendship.

Margaret Thatcher is one of the more than 130 international visitors who are current or former chiefs of state -- former Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, Hungarian Prime Minister Jozsef Antall, former Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, and former Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

But the program offers more than just an opportunity to host tomorrow's world leaders. \ For our visitors, it offers a glimpse into the heart of America. For our government, it offers a chance for people-to-people diplomacy without pomp and circumstance. For our volunteers, it allows us to share the real reason why America is the greatest nation on earth.

Herman Melville once wrote, "America has been settled by people of all nations. All nations may claim her for their own...We are not a nation so much as a world." Thank you for serving as envoys to the leaders of tomorrow. God Bless the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: THANKSGIVING DAY POINT OF LIGHT

On this Thanksgiving Day, I want to express my gratitude for a group of volunteers who have given their community -- and our nation -- an extraordinary example of courage and love.

In Bloomfield, East Hartford, and Windsor, Connecticut, the Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program serves men and women who are profoundly disabled. All of them either suffer from visual impairment or must overcome physical, mental or emotional limitations. But thanks to the imagination and inner strength of these Americans and the staff that supports them, these disabled citizens have not allowed themselves to be limited at all in their ability to reach out and bring light and warmth to the lives of others in need.

Five days a week, three groups of disabled adults from the program deliver "Meals on Wheels" to elderly citizens in nine Connecticut towns served by the Visiting Nurse and Home Care Corporation. These homebound senior citizens have adopted their volunteer visitors, and both enjoy developing special relationships with their newfound friends.

This volunteer program offers a lesson for all Americans: These remarkable and courageous volunteers prove there is no barrier, no prejudice, no disability that the human spirit cannot overcome. On this Thanksgiving Day, Barbara and I salute the volunteers of the Connecticut Institute for the Blind Adult Day Care Program as the 627th Daily Point of Light. You give our whole nation ever more reason to be thankful for the boundless capacity of the human spirit. May God bless you.
