

Originally Processed With FOIA(s):

S

FOIA Number:

S

FOIA MARKER

This is not a textual record. This is used as an administrative marker by the George Bush Presidential Library Staff.

Record Group/Collection: George H.W. Bush Presidential Records Collection/Office of Origin: Speechwriting, White House Office of Series: Speech File Draft Files
Subseries: Chron File, 1989-1993

OA/ID Number: 13598
Folder ID Number: 13598-008

Folder Title:
President's Drug Advisory Council Forum 1/10/92 [OA 6095]

Stack:	Row:	Section:	Shelf:	Position:
G	26	17	5	6

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

January 10, 1992

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
TO THE DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL

The J.W. Marriott Hotel
Washington, D.C.

11:41 A.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you all very much for that welcome, and thank you Bill Moss, especially, and thank you for the job you did as chairman in launching the Drug Advisory Council.

I'm delighted to be home. And you've got to admit -- when I get the flu, I do it in a very dramatic -- (laughter) -- way. But it was so embarrassing. (Laughter.) But I do feel well. A little bit jet-lagged. We just flew 12 straight hours from Tokyo. In fact, we got here before we took off, if you look at the International Dateline. (Laughter.) So you will excuse me if I'm a little bit tired. But my health is good, and I am so grateful to so many across our wonderful country, and then also in Japan, who, I think, thinking I was a little more seriously sick than I was, expressed their concerns. And I just want to say thanks to everybody who did that.

I am delighted to be here. I did not want to go off to Camp David without stopping by this very, very important meeting. And I'm glad to be here with so many hard workers. I want to single out, of course, Bob Martinez, the former Governor of Florida who is in charge of the fiercely-committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You heard from one of these earlier when David Kearns, representing Lamar Alexander -- David, our outstanding executive there at the Department of Education. And in addition, we are very fortunate in a government sense to have the leadership of Attorney General Bill Barr, who is working closely with Bob Martinez, with Lou Sullivan, our very able Secretary of HHS -- intimately involved in all of this. And we are trying as a government to meet this scourge head-on

But I believe that the answer lies right here. I know it lies with the leadership from Jim Burke, who is sitting here at my left. As many of you are aware, Jim has done an outstanding job unleashing the power of the media through this Partnership for a Drug-Free America. There is no way that government itself could do what this individual has done in getting the message -- anti-drug message out across this country. We are very, very grateful to him.

I also am sitting next to another tireless worker, a very successful man, Alvah Chapman, who organized -- just took this on to organize this meeting, organize this crusade all across the country, providing all of us with the vision and leadership that this whole coalition movement represents. So my thanks to him.

I was told by Jim coming in here of the many successful efforts going in the communities represented here, and then some that aren't even represented. And so I want to thank all who have come from all across this land to explore this idea of community coalitions gathering momentum. And if you needed any inspiration, I didn't get to hear her -- maybe she hadn't sung yet, but I've heard her many times. She's been our guest up at Camp David. If you need a little momentum-gathering, try Sandy Patti on for size, because she is magnificent. (Applause.)

MORE

Well, let me just say, it is a pleasure to be back, and it was a great trip. Ten fascinating days in the Far East talking and listening and learning -- working hard for the objectives that we all share of trying to get this country moving through expanding our exports markets. Assuring our friends also that we are going to stay actively involved in the Pacific. You know, given all the changes in Eastern Europe and the hope that is about now because of people that had hated each other over the years, been ancient enemies, now talking in the Middle East. Some in the Pacific area thought that we've just foregone our interests in that part of the world. So I wanted to convince those leaders there that we will fulfill our security responsibilities to that critical area, and we will stay actively involved with that area -- our largest trading partner, incidentally.

But I came here today because I really believe that what you do is vitally important to the well-being of our country. And I wanted to just say this to you. Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions, and your nation is very, very grateful to each and every one of you.

We are working hard -- all of us, all of you -- to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our anti-drug effort is one of the highest priorities of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In 1992, our budget proposal called for $11.7 billion for the drug war -- an increase of 82 percent since the beginning of our administration, and an 11 percent increase since the previous year -- one of the largest in the entire overall budget.

In our war, you know the answer, and I understand and think I know the answer -- we are seeing results. I'm not sure the entire country understands this yet, Jim and Alvah, but I believe we are seeing results. For 1990, we exceeded our goal for reducing overall drug use. We'd hoped for a decrease of 10 percent between '88 and '90 -- and it fell by more than that. I believe the figure was 11 percent. Occasional cocaine use went down 29 percent when we'd set a goal -- I think again, just trying to think positively, I think the goal we had set in our minds was 10 percent. For 1991, figures show we've even more dramatically exceeded many of our goals, particularly in areas like adolescent cocaine use. You know and I know, there is a problem. It's a horrible thing to think about adolescent cocaine use. But it's out there, and it's tough. And we are making headway. We'd hoped to reduce that by 30 percent since 1988, and it has fallen more than 60 percent. So what you're doing is working. What you're doing is having an effect and saving the lives of children.

But let's face it, much remains to be done. More than 12.5 million -- 12.5 million Americans currently still use drugs: 1.9 million of them currently use cocaine. And adolescent drug use has fallen, but still more than 1.3 million of our kids currently abuse drugs.

We're also committed to toughening the drug laws. We devote more effort to fighting drugs than to any other single area of crime. But we cannot do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. We need a bipartisan effort to help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future. As I said two years ago, when we announced the drug strategy, with this drug problem we face the toughest challenge in decades. We face the challenge not as partisans, but as a nation.

As we've said time and time again, we cannot win the drug war through law enforcement alone. I'm convinced we can do better on law enforcement. And I salute those who are out there enforcing our laws. But we can't win it through law enforcement alone. We've got to have effective treatment programs, and we need national action.

More than two years ago we established this President's Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky -- very, very fortunate to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who share our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give very special thanks today to our Council members who work tirelessly to mobilize the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. Look at this head table, look around, look at those names of the people -- the men and women who are serving, and you'll see we've got very busy, successful people giving of themselves to help others.

In addition, every one of you here today are front-line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the work place, schools and neighborhoods. We've got a good program. I was briefed by Al Casey and others not so long ago, and Jim was up there at Camp David on this drug-free work place concept. And we're making headway. Still a ways to go, but a very fundamental and important part of our work.

You organize your communities into coalitions. The key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level, being what I call a "Point of Light" -- holding your hand out to a neighbor. And this audience today certainly exemplifies in the finest sense the willingness of one American to reach out and help another.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize that there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Brad Gates, the sheriff in Orange County, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, he launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. And the program works because it changes people's attitudes -- gets to the fundamental attitude change towards drugs.

And so does Tad Foote's. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Alvah Chapman and others -- the busiest, the most successful, and they formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization. And it was dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug program -- divided it into eight task forces. They've convinced over one-third of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free work place policies and employee assistance programs; and they have closed down 1500 crack houses. Now that is success, and that is due to the voluntary effort all the way.

The point is simple: no community -- none at all -- has to accept drug abuse. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to reach out and try.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when tens of thousands of drug-affected babies are born each year. Therein is the real tragedy. Hold in your arms one of those babies, and you just can't help but have a broken heart. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens dies by his own hand or at someone else's, and too often drugs play a part -- a fundamental part -- in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of this great nation of ours.

Well, you have set an example, summed up by the anti-drug banners created by citizens in Albuquerque that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult." With that kind of tough-minded dedication, we will win. We will make a difference.

Each and every one of you is making a difference, and may God bless you all for that.

Thank you very, very much. And thanks for that warm welcome. (Applause.)

END

11:55 A.M. EST

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

January 10, 1992

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
TO THE DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL

The J.W. Marriott Hotel
Washington, D.C.

11:41 A.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you all very much for that welcome, and thank you Bill Moss, especially, and thank you for the job you did as chairman in launching the Drug Advisory Council.

I'm delighted to be home. And you've got to admit -- when I get the flu, I do it in a very dramatic -- (laughter) -- way. But it was so embarrassing. (Laughter.) But I do feel well. A little bit jet-lagged. We just flew 12 straight hours from Tokyo. In fact, we got here before we took off, if you look at the International Dateline. (Laughter.) So you will excuse me if I'm a little bit tired. But my health is good, and I am so grateful to so many across our wonderful country, and then also in Japan, who, I think, thinking I was a little more seriously sick than I was, expressed their concerns. And I just want to say thanks to everybody who did that.

I am delighted to be here. I did not want to go off to Camp David without stopping by this very, very important meeting. And I'm glad to be here with so many hard workers. I want to single out, of course, Bob Martinez, the former Governor of Florida who is in charge of the fiercely-committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You heard from one of these earlier when David Kearns, representing Lamar Alexander -- David, our outstanding executive there at the Department of Education. And in addition, we are very fortunate in a government sense to have the leadership of Attorney General Bill Barr, who is working closely with Bob Martinez, with Lou Sullivan, our very able Secretary of HHS -- intimately involved in all of this. And we are trying as a government to meet this scourge head-on

But I believe that the answer lies right here. I know it lies with the leadership from Jim Burke, who is sitting here at my left. As many of you are aware, Jim has done an outstanding job unleashing the power of the media through this Partnership for a Drug-Free America. There is no way that government itself could do what this individual has done in getting the message -- anti-drug message out across this country. We are very, very grateful to him.

I also am sitting next to another tireless worker, a very successful man, Alvah Chapman, who organized -- just took this on to organize this meeting, organize this crusade all across the country, providing all of us with the vision and leadership that this whole coalition movement represents. So my thanks to him.

I was told by Jim coming in here of the many successful efforts going in the communities represented here, and then some that aren't even represented. And so I want to thank all who have come from all across this land to explore this idea of community coalitions gathering momentum. And if you needed any inspiration, I didn't get to hear her -- maybe she hadn't sung yet, but I've heard her many times. She's been our guest up at Camp David. If you need a little momentum-gathering, try Sandy Patti on for size, because she is magnificent. (Applause.)

MORE

Well, let me just say, it is a pleasure to be back, and it was a great trip. Ten fascinating days in the Far East talking and listening and learning -- working hard for the objectives that we all share of trying to get this country moving through expanding our exports markets. Assuring our friends also that we are going to stay actively involved in the Pacific. You know, given all the changes in Eastern Europe and the hope that is about now because of people that had hated each other over the years, been ancient enemies, now talking in the Middle East. Some in the Pacific area thought that we've just foregone our interests in that part of the world. So I wanted to convince those leaders there that we will fulfill our security responsibilities to that critical area, and we will stay actively involved with that area -- our largest trading partner, incidentally.

But I came here today because I really believe that what you do is vitally important to the well-being of our country. And I wanted to just say this to you. Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions, and your nation is very, very grateful to each and every one of you.

We are working hard -- all of us, all of you -- to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our anti-drug effort is one of the highest priorities of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In 1992, our budget proposal called for $11.7 billion for the drug war -- an increase of 82 percent since the beginning of our administration, and an 11 percent increase since the previous year -- one of the largest in the entire overall budget.

In our war, you know the answer, and I understand and think I know the answer -- we are seeing results. I'm not sure the entire country understands this yet, Jim and Alvah, but I believe we are seeing results. For 1990, we exceeded our goal for reducing overall drug use. We'd hoped for a decrease of 10 percent between '88 and '90 -- and it fell by more than that. I believe the figure was 11 percent. Occasional cocaine use went down 29 percent when we'd set a goal -- I think again, just trying to think positively, I think the goal we had set in our minds was 10 percent. For 1991, figures show we've even more dramatically exceeded many of our goals, particularly in areas like adolescent cocaine use. You know and I know, there is a problem. It's a horrible thing to think about adolescent cocaine use. But it's out there, and it's tough. And we are making headway. We'd hoped to reduce that by 30 percent since 1988, and it has fallen more than 60 percent. So what you're doing is working. What you're doing is having an effect and saving the lives of children.

But let's face it, much remains to be done. More than 12.5 million -- 12.5 million Americans currently still use drugs: 1.9 million of them currently use cocaine. And adolescent drug use has fallen, but still more than 1.3 million of our kids currently abuse drugs.

We're also committed to toughening the drug laws. We devote more effort to fighting drugs than to any other single area of crime. But we cannot do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. We need a bipartisan effort to help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future. As I said two years ago, when we announced the drug strategy, with this drug problem we face the toughest challenge in decades. We face the challenge not as partisans, but as a nation.

As we've said time and time again, we cannot win the drug war through law enforcement alone. I'm convinced we can do better on law enforcement. And I salute those who are out there enforcing our laws. But we can't win it through law enforcement alone. We've got to have effective treatment programs, and we need national action.

MORE

More than two years ago we established this President's Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky -- very, very fortunate to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who share our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give very special thanks today to our Council members who work tirelessly to mobilize the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. Look at this head table, look around, look at those names of the people -- the men and women who are serving, and you'll see we've got very busy, successful people giving of themselves to help others.

In addition, every one of you here today are front-line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the work place, schools and neighborhoods. We've got a good program. I was briefed by Al Casey and others not so long ago, and Jim was up there at Camp David on this drug-free work place concept. And we're making headway. Still a ways to go, but a very fundamental and important part of our work.

You organize your communities into coalitions. The key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level, being what I call a "Point of Light" -- holding your hand out to a neighbor. And this audience today certainly exemplifies in the finest sense the willingness of one American to reach out and help another.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize that there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Brad Gates, the sheriff in Orange County, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, he launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. And the program works because it changes people's attitudes -- gets to the fundamental attitude change towards drugs.

And so does Tad Foote's. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Alvan Chapman and others -- the busiest, the most successful, and they formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization. And it was dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug program -- divided it into eight task forces. They've convinced over one-third of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free work place policies and employee assistance programs; and they have closed down 1500 crack houses. Now that is success, and that is due to the voluntary effort all the way.

The point is simple: no community -- none at all -- has to accept drug abuse. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to reach out and try.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when tens of thousands of drug-affected babies are born each year. Therein is the real tragedy. Hold in your arms one of those babies, and you just can't help but have a broken heart. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens dies by his own hand or at someone else's, and too often drugs play a part -- a fundamental part -- in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of this great nation of ours.

Well, you have set an example, summed up by the anti-drug banners created by citizens in Albuquerque that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult." With that kind of tough-minded dedication, we will win. We will make a difference.

Each and every one of you is making a difference, and may God bless you all for that.

Thank you very, very much. And thanks for that warm welcome. (Applause.)

END

11:55 A.M. EST

DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
GRAND BALLROOM \ J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992 \ 11:35 P.M.

THANKS, BILL [MOSS] -- YOU DID A GREAT JOB AS CHAIRMAN IN LAUNCHING THE PRESIDENT'S DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL, AND I'M PLEASED YOU AGREED TO CONTINUE ON AS VICE-CHAIRMAN. IT'S GOOD TO BE HERE WITH SO MANY HARD WORKERS, LED BY BOB MARTINEZ, WHO'S IN CHARGE OF THE FIERCELY COMMITTED FIGHTERS IN OUR BATTLE TO LEAD AMERICA AWAY FROM DRUGS.

- 2 -

YOU'VE HEARD FROM ONE OF THESE FIGHTERS, DAVID KEARNS, REPRESENTING EDUCATION SECRETARY LAMAR ALEXANDER. IN ADDITION, THIS COUNTRY IS FORTUNATE TO HAVE THE STRONG LEADERSHIP OF OUR ATTORNEY GENERAL, BILL BARR -- AND OUR HHS SECRETARY, LOUIS SULLIVAN. TOGETHER, THEY'RE MEETING THIS SCOURGE HEAD-ON.

I ALSO WANT TO RECOGNIZE THE NEW CHAIRMAN, JIM BURKE. AS MANY OF YOU ARE AWARE, JIM'S DONE AN OUTSTANDING JOB UNLEASHING THE POWER OF THE MEDIA
THROUGH THE PARTNERSHIP FOR A DRUG-FREE AMERICA.

AND I SEE MY FRIEND ALVAH CHAPMAN, WHO ORGANIZED THIS GREAT MEETING AND WHO'S PROVIDED THE VISION AND LEADERSHIP IN THE COALITION MOVEMENT. WELCOME, ALSO, TO THE OTHER GUESTS HERE, AND TO ALL OF YOU WHO'VE COME FROM ACROSS THIS LAND TO EXPLORE THE IDEA OF "COMMUNITY COALITIONS: GATHERING MOMENTUM".

I WAS AFRAID I'D BE LATE, SINCE I HAD TO FILL OUT ALL THOSE FREQUENT FLYER FORMS.

IT WAS A GREAT TRIP: ALMOST 10 FASCINATING DAYS IN THE FAR EAST TALKING, LISTENING, LEARNING -- FIGHTING FOR AMERICA AND FOR AMERICAN JOBS -- AND ASSURING OUR FRIENDS THERE THAT WE WILL STAY ACTIVELY INVOLVED IN THE PACIFIC -- FULFILLING OUR SECURITY RESPONSIBILITIES TO THAT CRITICAL AREA.

I CAME HERE TODAY BECAUSE WHAT YOU DO IS SO IMPORTANT THAT I WANTED TO TELL YOU SOMETHING IN PERSON -- YOUR NATION RECOGNIZES THE CRITICALLY IMPORTANT WORK OF YOUR COMMUNITY ANTI-DRUG COALITIONS; AND YOUR NATION THANKS YOU.

WE'RE WORKING HARD TO BLAST THE CURSE OF DRUGS OFF THE FACE OF OUR MAP. OUR ANTI-DRUG EFFORT IS ONE OF THE HIGHEST PRIORITIES OF ANY DOMESTIC INITIATIVE IN THE FEDERAL BUDGET.

IN OUR 1992 BUDGET PROPOSAL WE CALLED FOR $11.7 BILLION FOR THE DRUG WAR: AN INCREASE OF 82% SINCE THE BEGINNING OF OUR ADMINISTRATION, AND AN 11% INCREASE SINCE THE PREVIOUS YEAR, ONE OF THE LARGEST IN THE ENTIRE OVERALL BUDGET.

IN OUR WAR, WE'RE SEEING RESULTS. FOR 1990, WE EXCEEDED OUR GOAL FOR REDUCING OVERALL DRUG USE. WE'D HOPED FOR A DECREASE OF 10% BETWEEN 1988 AND 1990 -- AND IT FELL 11%.

OCCASIONAL COCAINE USE WENT DOWN 29%, WHEN WE'D SET A GOAL OF 10%. FOR 1991, FIGURES SHOW WE'VE EVEN MORE DRAMATICALLY EXCEEDED MANY OF OUR GOALS, PARTICULARLY IN AREAS LIKE ADOLESCENT COCAINE USE. WE'D HOPED TO REDUCE IT BY 30% SINCE 1988 -- IT'S FALLEN MORE THAN 60%.

BUT MUCH REMAINS TO BE DONE. MORE THAN 12.5 MILLION AMERICANS CURRENTLY STILL USE DRUGS: 1.9 MILLION OF THEM CURRENTLY USE COCAINE.

ADOLESCENT DRUG USE HAS FALLEN, BUT STILL MORE THAN 1.3 MILLION OF OUR KIDS CURRENTLY ABUSE DRUGS.

WE'RE ALSO COMMITTED TO TOUGHENING DRUG LAWS. WE DEVOTE MORE EFFORT TO FIGHTING DRUGS THAN TO ANY OTHER SINGLE AREA OF CRIME. BUT WE CAN'T DO IT ALONE. WE NEED FEDERAL DRUG LAWS THAT ARE ON THE SIDE OF THE PEOPLE. WE NEED A BIPARTISAN EFFORT TO HELP LAW ENFORCEMENT PROTECT OUR PRESENT AND ENSURE OUR CHILDREN'S FUTURE.

AS I SAID TWO YEARS AGO, WHEN WE ANNOUNCED THE DRUG STRATEGY, WITH THIS DRUG PROBLEM WE FACE THE TOUGHEST CHALLENGE IN DECADES. WE FACE THAT CHALLENGE NOT AS PARTISANS, BUT AS A NATION.

BUT, AS WE'VE SAID TIME AND TIME AGAIN, WE CAN'T WIN THE DRUG WAR THROUGH LAW ENFORCEMENT ALONE. WE NEED EFFECTIVE TREATMENT PROGRAMS TOO. AND WE NEED NATIONAL ACTION.

MORE THAN TWO YEARS AGO WE ESTABLISHED THE PRESIDENT'S DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL. AMERICA WAS LUCKY TO GAIN THE WISDOM AND VISION OF THESE DISTINGUISHED AMERICAN LEADERS WHO SHARE OUR GOAL OF RIDDING THIS NATION OF THE DEVASTATION CAUSED BY ILLEGAL DRUGS. I WANT TO GIVE A VERY SPECIAL THANKS TODAY TO OUR COUNCIL MEMBERS WHO WORK TIRELESSLY TO MOBILIZE THE ENORMOUS POWER THE PRIVATE SECTOR CAN WIELD IN THE WAR AGAINST DRUGS.

IN ADDITION, EVERY ONE OF YOU HERE TODAY ARE FRONT-LINE SOLDIERS IN OUR WAR. YOU LEAD THIS COUNTRY'S LOCAL EFFORTS TO REDUCE DRUG USE IN THE WORKPLACE, SCHOOLS AND NEIGHBORHOODS. YOU ORGANIZE YOUR COMMUNITIES INTO COALITIONS. THE KEY TO HEALING THIS NATION IS FOUND AT THE GRASS-ROOTS LEVEL, BEING WHAT I CALL A "POINT OF LIGHT" -- HOLDING YOUR HAND OUT TO A NEIGHBOR.

AS AMERICANS HEAR YOUR STORIES, THEY REALIZE THERE IS AN ALTERNATIVE TO DRUGS -- AND ITS NAME IS HOPE. THEY HEAR STORIES OF PEOPLE LIKE ORANGE COUNTY SHERIFF BRAD GATES, WHO WAS SO CONCERNED ABOUT DRUG DEATHS THAT HE CREATED THE "DRUG USE IS LIFE ABUSE" PROGRAM. WITH THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY HE LAUNCHED A MASSIVE DRUG EDUCATION EFFORT TARGETED AT AREA YOUTH. THIS PROGRAM WORKS BECAUSE IT CHANGES PEOPLE'S ATTITUDES TOWARDS DRUGS.

SO DOES TAD FOOTE'S. WHEN HE SAW HOW DRUGS WERE DESTROYING HIS COMMUNITY HE GATHERED TOP BUSINESS LEADERS LIKE ALVAH. THEY FORMED THE MIAMI COALITION, A BROAD-BASED COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION DEDICATED TO TACKLING EVERY ASPECT OF THE DRUG PROBLEM THROUGH EIGHT TASK FORCES. THEY'VE CONVINCED OVER 1/3 OF ALL MIAMI BUSINESSES TO ADOPT DRUG-FREE WORKPLACE POLICIES AND EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS; AND HAVE CLOSED DOWN 1500 CRACK HOUSES. \\\

THE POINT IS SIMPLE: NO COMMUNITY HAS TO ACCEPT DRUG ABUSE. AMERICANS DON'T HAVE TO LIVE IN FEAR. DRUGS AND SO MANY OTHER SOCIAL PROBLEMS CAN BE DRIVEN FROM EVERY COMMUNITY -- IF EVERY COMMUNITY CARES ENOUGH TO TRY.

AMERICANS DESERVE A LOT OF CREDIT FOR THEIR INDIVIDUAL AND COLLECTIVE EFFORTS. BUT WE STILL HAVE MUCH TO DO. THERE ARE CASUALTIES IN THIS WAR. WE LIVE IN AN AGE WHEN TENS OF THOUSANDS OF DRUG-AFFECTED BABIES ARE BORN EACH YEAR.

WE LIVE IN AN AGE WHEN ONE OUT OF EVERY 4,000 AMERICAN TEENS DIES BY HIS OWN HAND OR AT SOMEONE ELSE'S: AND TOO OFTEN DRUGS PLAY A PART IN THESE TRAGEDIES. WE LIVE IN AN AGE WHEN THE SCOURGE OF DRUGS HAS CHEAPENED LIFE AND THREATENS TO ERODE THE MORAL FABRIC OF OUR NATION.

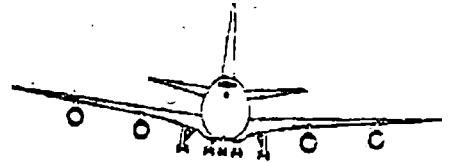

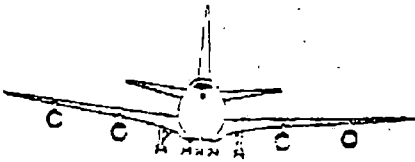

YOU SET AN EXAMPLE SUMMED UP BY THE ANTI-DRUG BANNERS CREATED BY CITIZENS IN ALBUQUERQUE: THAT READ: "IT'S EASIER TO BUILD A CHILD THAN REPAIR AN ADULT."

WITH THAT KIND OF TOUGH-MINDED DEDICATION, WE WILL WIN. WE WILL MAKE A DIFFERENCE. GOD BLESS ALL OF YOU, AND THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

#

UNCLAS

CLASSIFICATION

AIR FORCE 1 FAX # 04

HEADQUARTERS 89TH MILITARY AIRLIFT WING
AIR FORCE ONE

ANDREWS AFB, MD 20331-7004

WHCA COMMUNICATIONS CENTER

TELEFAX SECURE # (202) 395-1206/07

TELEFAX ADMIN # (202) 395-5521/22

DATE/TIME: 10115Z

FROM: CHRISTINA MARTIN

TO: TONY SNOW

REMARKS: TONY SNOW RM 122 OEOB

6 PAGES

UNCLAS

CLASSIFICATION

PLEASE FAX TO TONY SENDU

ROOM 122 OEDRB

FROM: CHRISTINA MARTIN

* POTUS COMMENTS

CALLED BETH PER P2 LATE
LAST NIGHT

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

32 JAN 9 10:33

January 9, 1992

MEMORANDUM TO THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST
TONY SNOW

FROM: BETH HINCHLIFFE BH

SUBJECT: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM REMARKS

On Friday, January 10, 1992, at ^{11:20}~~10:30~~ p.m., you will address a President's Drug Advisory Council Forum held at the J.W. Marriott Hotel. In attendance will be members of your council and 600 representatives of anti-drug coalitions from across the nation.

Your remarks (8 minutes, cards) focus on the importance of grass-roots work they do in supplementing the accomplishments

GEORGE BUSH

Date -

OK with slight changes

p. 1

slight addition p. 2

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 9, 1992 3 p.m.
DRUGS Draft Four

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992/12:15 p.m.
Grand Ballroom/J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks, Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman in launching the President's Drug Advisory Council, and I'm pleased you agreed to continue on as vice-chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez, who's in charge of the fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from one of these fighters, David Kearns, representing Education Secretary Lamar Alexander. In addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr -- and our HHS Secretary, Louis Sullivan. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

I also want to recognize the new Chairman, Jim Burke. As many of you are aware, Jim's done an outstanding job unleashing the power of the media through Partnership for a Drug-Free America. And I see my friend Alvah Chapman, who organized this great meeting and who's provided the vision and leadership in the coalition movement. Welcome, also, to the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. It was a great trip: ~~almost~~ ^{fun} fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs, ^{and assuring our friends here that we will stay actively involved in the Pacific} I came here today because what you ^{responsibly} do is so important that I wanted to tell you something in ^{our security} response to ^{the} ^{threat}

-- Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our anti-drug effort is one of the highest priorities of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7 billion for the drug war: an increase of 81% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of the largest in the entire overall budget.

In our war, we're seeing results. For 1990, we exceeded our goal for reducing overall drug use. We'd hoped for a decrease of 10% between 1988 and 1990 -- and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. For 1991, figures show we've even more dramatically exceeded many of our goals, particularly in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% since 1988 -- it's fallen over 60%.

We're also committed to toughening drug laws. We devote more effort to fighting drugs than to any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. We need a bipartisan effort to help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future. As I said two years ago, when we announced the drug strategy, with this drug problem we face the toughest challenge in decades. We face that challenge not as partisans, but as a nation.

But, as we've said time and time again, we can't win the drug war through law enforcement alone. We need effective

But much remains to be done (then cite more problem area)

3 treatment programs too. And we need national action.

More than two years ago we established the President's Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who share our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our Council members who work tirelessly to mobilize the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs.

In addition, every one of you here today are front-line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. The key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level, being what I call a "Point of Light" -- holding your hand out to a neighbor.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community he launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does Tad Foote's. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community he gathered top business leaders like Alvan. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/2 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs; and have closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

4

The point is simple: no community has to accept drug abuse. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when tens of thousands of drug-affected babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens dies by his own hand or at someone else's; and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

You set an example summed up by the anti-drug banners created by citizens in Albuquerque: that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult." With that kind of tough-minded dedication, we will win. We will make a difference. God bless all of you, and the United States of America.

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

DATE: 01/09/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: ----

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM-Jan. 10th
(01/09/92 3:00 p.m. draft)

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	_____	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	_____	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

The attached has been forwarded to the President.

RESPONSE:

PHILLIP D. BRADY
Assistant to the President
and Staff Secretary
Ext. 2702

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

32 JAN 9 P8:33

January 9, 1992

MEMORANDUM TO THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DAVID DEMAREST
 TONY SNOW

FROM: BETH HINCHLIFFE BH

SUBJECT: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM REMARKS

On Friday, January 10, 1992, at 11:30 a.m., you will address a President's Drug Advisory Council Forum held at the J.W. Marriott Hotel. In attendance will be members of your council and 600 representatives of anti-drug coalitions from across the nation.

Your remarks (8 minutes, cards) focus on the importance of grass-roots coalitions and the work they do in supplementing the accomplishments of the administration.

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 9, 1992 3 p.m.
DRUGS Draft Four

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992/12:15 p.m.
Grand Ballroom/J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks, Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman in launching the President's Drug Advisory Council, and I'm pleased you agreed to continue on as vice-chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez, who's in charge of the fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from one of these fighters, David Kearns, representing Education Secretary Lamar Alexander. In addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr -- and our HHS Secretary, Louis Sullivan. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

I also want to recognize the new Chairman, Jim Burke. As many of you are aware, Jim's done an outstanding job unleashing the power of the media through Partnership for a Drug-Free America. And I see my friend Alvah Chapman, who organized this great meeting and who's provided the vision and leadership in the coalition movement. Welcome, also, to the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. It was a great trip: almost 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. I came here today because what you do is so important that I wanted to tell you something in person

-- Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our anti-drug effort is one of the highest priorities of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7 billion for the drug war: an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of the largest in the entire overall budget.

In our war, we're seeing results. For 1990, we exceeded our goal for reducing overall drug use. We'd hoped for a decrease of 10% between 1988 and 1990 -- and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. For 1991, figures show we've even more dramatically exceeded many of our goals, particularly in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% since 1988 -- it's fallen over 60%.

We're also committed to toughening drug laws. We devote more effort to fighting drugs than to any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. We need a bipartisan effort to help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future. As I said two years ago, when we announced the drug strategy, with this drug problem we face the toughest challenge in decades. We face that challenge not as partisans, but as a nation.

But, as we've said time and time again, we can't win the drug war through law enforcement alone. We need effective treatment programs too. And we need national action.

More than two years ago we established the President's Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who share our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our Council members who work tirelessly to mobilize the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs.

In addition, every one of you here today are front-line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. The key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level, being what I call a "Point of Light" -- holding your hand out to a neighbor.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community he launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does Tad Foote's. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community he gathered top business leaders like Alvah. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs; and have closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

The point is simple: no community has to accept drug abuse. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when tens of thousands of drug-affected babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens dies by his own hand or at someone else's: and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

You set an example summed up by the anti-drug banners created by citizens in Albuquerque: that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult." With that kind of tough-minded dedication, we will win. We will make a difference. God bless all of you, and the United States of America.

#

January 9, 1992

TO: TONY
FROM: BETH
RE: RECONCILING OF DRUG ADVSIOY COUNCIL FORUM REMARKS

Hi. This is a copy of the reconciled version (all changes written on master copy). The only suggestion I didn't take was from the Drug Advisory Council -- they wanted the sections on the Council and on Congress switched. I tried it, but it seemed to make the transitions read awkwardly.

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 9, 1992 3 p.m.
DRUGS Draft Four

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992/12:15 p.m.
Grand Ballroom/J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman in launching the President's Drug Advisory Council, and I'm pleased you agreed to continue on as vice-chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez, who's in charge of the fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from one of these fighters, David Kearns, representing Education Secretary Lamar Alexander. In addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr -- and our HHS Secretary, Louis Sullivan. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

I also want to recognize the new Chairman, Jim Burke. As many of you are aware, Jim's done an outstanding job unleashing the power of the media through Partnership for a Drug-Free America. And I see my friend Alvah Chapman, who organized this great meeting and who's provided the vision and leadership in the coalition movement. Welcome, also, to the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. I know you'll excuse me for not joining you for lunch -- I think now you've all seen my reaction to finding broccoli on the menu. \\ I'm feeling good now, and it was a great trip -- almost 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. I came here today straight from the plane because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving us the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses.

So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our people and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will keep pushing these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But, as we've said time and time again, the drug war can't be won by law enforcement alone. We need effective treatment programs too. This is especially critical now that we've reduced casual drug use. Two years ago, anticipating that we'd need to target Federal treatment resources to those areas where addictive drug use is most concentrated, we asked Congress to enact the Capacity Expansion Program -- and provide $100 million to target new treatment slots for the seriously addicted. If Congress had acted, we'd have been able to treat an additional 234,000 people. Sadly, Congress simply doesn't take this problem seriously.

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. Over two years ago we established the President's Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who share our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our Council members who work tirelessly to mobilize the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

And every one of you here today are front-line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level, being what I call a "Point of Light" -- holding your hand out to a neighbor.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community he launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does Tad Foote's. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community he gathered top business leaders like Alvah. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs; and have closed down 1500 crack houses. \\

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, organizations, businesses, individuals and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort is one of the highest priorities of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7 billion for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of the largest in the entire overall budget. I'm pleased to be able to tell you we'll see a significant increase in the 1993 budget, too. \\\

We're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for reducing overall drug use. We'd hoped for a decrease of 10% -- it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year figures show we've even more dramatically exceeded many of our goals, particularly in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But, as all of you know too personally, too painfully: we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when tens of thousands of drug-affected babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens dies by his own hand or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MANDUM

31 DEC 8 P 1: 30

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> n/c		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

PHILLIP D. BRADY
Assistant to the President
and Staff Secretary
Ext. 2702

*& Friend of Recovery
The new council Chairman -
Jim Burke. As may be you are aware Jim Randell is an asset. July power of the media has
P.D.F.A. I also went to...*

January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

02 JAN 8 All: 55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

*in (am) the Pres's Drug
Advisory Council
(D.A.C.)*

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - who's in charge (DNDCEP) the ~~one of a triumvirate~~ of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from of these fighters, David Kearns, Dep. Sec. of State, Louis Calabrese another one, ~~Lamar Alexander~~; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Don Sec. of HHS, Louis Sullivan.

(DNDCEP)

Bill Barr, Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

(HHS)

~~Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke],~~ the other guests single out my dad here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to who has organized this grand march & has promised America leaving in the corner movement.

explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. ~~It~~ We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone.
We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people.
Sadly, some fall far short in giving ^{US} the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect ~~our present~~ ^{the American people (Justice)} and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will ~~re-submit~~ ^{(McClellan) keep pushing} these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \ \ \

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, ~~as part of our National Drug Control Strategy~~, we established ~~our~~ ^{(JNS.A) (JNS.A.) (JGA) (SNDP)} Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared ~~our~~ ^{the President's (DAC)} goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to ~~our panel members~~ ^{the} ~~of the Council~~ who work tirelessly ^P mobilizing ^E the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

(moved up front - DCA)

But every one of you are front-line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- ~~not looking for a handout from~~ Washington.

being what I call "Points of Contact" (Robinson)

(Justice)

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, ~~they~~ ^{he (Justice)} launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. (DRA)

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses (Restaurants) and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget. (ONDCP) I'm pleased to be able to tell you we will see a significant increase in the 1993 budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals (many of particular) in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%. (ONDCP)

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 (hundreds of thousands of) drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die (his or her) by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

A

ONDCP

INSERT "A"

(Note: It is important that we don't emphasize law enforcement to the exclusion of treatment to this group -- which is primarily composed of demand-side people. This insert calls attention to the President's strong treatment proposal that Congress has so far failed to enact.)

"As we have said time and time again, the drug war can't be won by law enforcement alone. We need effective treatment programs too. This is especially critical now that we have reduced casual drug use. We anticipated two years ago that we would need to begin to target Federal treatment resources to those areas where addictive drug use is most concentrated. That's why we asked Congress to enact the Capacity Expansion Program and provide $100 million to target new treatment slots for the seriously addicted. If Congress had acted, we would have been able to treat an additional 234,000 individuals. Sadly, Congress simply doesn't take this problem seriously."

WHITE HOUSE STAFF MEMORANDUM

31 DEC 9 12:16

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

Comments from Cabinet Affairs are attached. Also note two pages of general comments from Education attached to the end of the speech. A redraft of the speech submitted by the President's Drug Advisory Council is also attached.

Thanks, ew

Elizabeth Luttig

PHILLIP D. BRADY
Assistant to the President
and Staff Secretary
Ext. 2702

I am pleased you have agreed to continue to serve as vice chairman (ONDCP)

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

32 JAN 8 All: 55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez -

~~who is in charge of our fight~~ - ~~one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our~~ (ONDCP)

~~battle~~ to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from (ONDCP)

another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving ^{US} the weapons of law we need

Note:
Deputy Secretary David Keating will be replacing Secretary Alexander during the breakfast portion (he has a family emergency in Texas)

to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect ^{(the American people) (Justice)} ~~our present~~ and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them.

→ insert "A" - attached. ^{|||} ~~above: Admin. Strategy support of community drug prevention efforts~~ (GCM)

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly ^{to} mobilizing ^{the} the enormous power the private ^(NADCP) sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front-line soldiers in our war. (ONDCP)
 You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor ^(Justice) -- ~~not looking for a handout from Washington.~~

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, ^{he (Justice)} they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \ \ \

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

(ONDCP) I'm pleased to be able to tell you we will be seeing a significant increase in the 1993 budget, to
 A And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more (ONDCP) dramatically exceeded many of our goals particularly in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

PRESIDENT'S DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL
EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
Washington, D.C. 20503

Urgent

DATE: Jan. 10, 1992

TO: Ely. Ludwig

FAX NUMBER: 456- 2223

NUMBER OF PAGES: _____

SUBJECT: Redraft

FROM: _____

FAX NUMBER: (202) 523-0280

TELEPHONE NUMBER: (202) 466-3100

for Michele Ruy too

Changes highlighted - essentially just switched order of Congress section & PDAC section

DRAFT

REDRAFT OF PRESIDENT SPEECH
FOR President's Drug Advisory Council MEETING January 10, 1992

move up

Thanks Bill (Moss) -- you did a great job as chairman in launching the President's Drug Advisory Council. And I want to recognize the new Council Chairman -- Jim Burke. As many of you are aware, Jim has done an outstanding job unleashing the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug Free America. I also want to single out my friend Alvah Chapman who has organized this great meeting and has provided the vision and leadership in the coalition movement.

I was afraid I'd be late, [Probably should say something about how he's feeling]//

I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person. Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

move about section further down ->

Over two years ago, we established the President's Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to benefit from the wisdom and vision of these distinguished Americans who share our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give very special thanks today to the members of the Council who worked tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector wields in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

DRAFT

2

Every one of you here today is a front-line soldier in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, in your schools and in your neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to your neighbor.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County, California's Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education efforts targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads in Miami. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he worked with top business leaders like Alvah Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to taking every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs, as well as closing down 1500 crack houses.

DRAFT

3

\\

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites neighborhoods and communities, schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land, we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. Our 1992 budget proposal called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of the largest in the entire overall budget.

We have devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins.

*Section 8605
Federal Drug Laws*

DRAFT

4

These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. This fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. \\\

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this way. We live in an age when thousands of drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teenagers dies by their own hand or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

DRAFT

5

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. An God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

Please note comments on pp. 1-2 re the tone of the speech. The Congress - bashing seems to me to be inappropriate for this audience.

PHILLIP D. BRADY
 Assistant to the President
 and Staff Secretary
 Ext. 2702
-Can [Signature]

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

02 JAN 8 11:55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez -- one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people.

Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need

This seems out of place here in a speech to an advisory council.

The focus should be on the success that state & locals, and communities have had in "demand reduction".

Combined with Burke's comment

to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

~~But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress.~~ As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFF MEMORANDUM

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

See comment

PHILLIP D. BRADY
Assistant to the President
and Staff Secretary
Ext. 2702

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

92 JAN 8 All: 55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many ^{dedicated} hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr, ^{and Secretary Louis Sullivan.} Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Halp
43120

Halp
43120

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

If the Pres. is on Gov't. Travel, this would be illegal. Strike this.
Halp
43120

~~I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms.~~ We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- ~~I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public~~ and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \ \ \

Not sure a decision has been made to retransmit

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

The bill doesn't have to be retransmitted

I don't know what other is going to be added

Not 43121

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \ \ \

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. ^{For 1990,} Last year, we exceeded our goal for ^a drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% ^{between} and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. ^{For 1991,} This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen ^{over 60%.} _{since 1988} 63%.

1988 and 1990

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when ^{tens of thousands of} ~~300,000~~ drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every [4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live

Hale
X3120

Cannot confirm this #
Hale
X3120

// conflicting estimated. Some estimates are much lower (less than 100,000). Better to be cautious.
Hale
X3120

in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFF MEMORANDUM

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992
J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

SUBJECT: _____

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9.
 Thank you.

RESPONSE:

No Comment
Maura P. Shul

PHILLIP D. BRADY
 Assistant to the President
 and Staff Secretary
 Ext. 2702

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

32 JAN 8 11:55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - - one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

91 DEC 9 P3:14

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9. Thank you.

RESPONSE:

OK - one thought p. 3
Bo for SR

PHILLIP D. BRADY
Assistant to the President
and Staff Secretary
Ext. 2702

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

02 JAN 8 All: 55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez -- one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war.

You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

And I improved that I was able to film a commercial for the Partnership last year.

Q

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

Document No. 29736885

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MORANDUM

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9. Thank you.

Comment p52

RESPONSE:

JR Copy to Dyer + Howard

 Attention to pgs 1+2 - re: Congressional Actions*

PHILLIP D. BRADY Assistant to the President and Staff Secretary Ext. 2702

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

32 JAN 8 11:55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

2

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will ~~re-submit~~ these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

Keep Pushing

3

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burka, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. ///

4

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

5

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MEMORANDUM

31 DEC 9 12:16

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	HORNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SKINNER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	MCCLURE	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
SCOWCROFT	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PETERSMEYER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
DARMAN	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	PORTER	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BRADY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	ROGICH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
BROMLEY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	SMITH	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
CARD	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	FINDLAY	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
DEMAREST	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	MARTINEZ	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
FITZWATER	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	SNOW	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
GRAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
HOLIDAY	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>		<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9.
Thank you.

RESPONSE

Please see comments. Page 3 suggestion is important. Thank you [Signature]

PHILLIP D. BRADY
Assistant to the President
and Staff Secretary
Ext. 2702

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

02 JAN 8 11:55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - - one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington ^{to combat drugs} ~~to blast the curse of drugs~~ ~~off the face of our map.~~ Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

(Washington will never be able to blast the curse...)

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

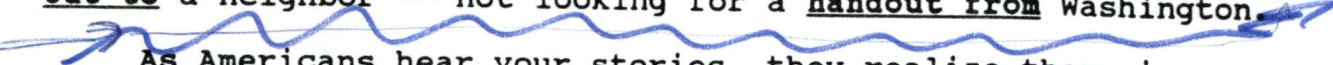

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even

Important
X

Being what I call a Point of Light

Being what I call Points of Light --

more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \ \ \

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government, ^{and individuals} While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens dies by ^{his or her} ~~their~~ own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

91 DEC 9 P1: 36 January 9, 1992

MEMORANDUM FOR TONY SNOW

FROM: CHARLES E. M. KOLB CEMK

SUBJECT: Presidential Remarks: Drug Advisory Council
Forum

We have reviewed the attached draft presidential remarks and have noted one suggested change on page three of the draft.

If you have any questions or we can be of further assistance, please don't hesitate to contact us.

cc: Phillip D. Brady

WHITE HOUSE STAFFING MORANDUM

DATE: 1/8/92 ACTION/CONCURRENCE/COMMENT DUE BY: NOON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1992

SUBJECT: J.W. MARRIOTT HOTEL

	ACTION	FYI		ACTION	FYI
VICE PRESIDENT	—	✓	HORNER	—	—
SKINNER	—	✓	MCCLURE	✓	—
SCOWCROFT	—	—	PETERSMEYER	✓	—
DARMAN	✓	—	PORTER	✓	—
BRADY	—	✓	ROGICH	✓	—
BROMLEY	—	—	SMITH	✓	—
CARD	—	✓	FINDLAY	—	✓
DEMAREST	✓	—	MARTINEZ	✓	—
FITZWATER	—	✓	SNOW	—	✓
GRAY	✓	—		—	—
HOLIDAY	✓	—		—	—

REMARKS:

Please provide comments on the attached directly to Tony Snow, Rm. 122, x2930, with a copy to this office NO LATER THAN NOON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9.
 Thank you.

RESPONSE:

PHILLIP D. BRADY
 Assistant to the President
 and Staff Secretary
 Ext. 2702

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

02 JAN 8 11:55

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - - one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level, ~~holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.~~

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even

SUGGEST
DELETING
A NUMBER
OF
AUDIENCE
MEMBERS ARE REPORTED
TO BE
HHS (OSAP)
GRANTEES

more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#

(Hinchliffe/Nix)
January 8, 1992 11 a.m.
DRUGS Draft Three

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL FORUM
Friday, January 10, 1992 12 p.m.
J.W. Marriott Hotel

Thanks Bill [Moss] -- you did a great job as chairman. It's good to be here with so many hard workers, led by Bob Martinez - - one of a triumvirate of fiercely committed fighters in our battle to lead America away from drugs. You've heard from another one, Lamar Alexander; in addition, this country is fortunate to have the strong leadership of our Attorney General, Bill Barr. Together, they're meeting this scourge head-on.

Thanks also to Al [Chapman], Jim [Burke], the other guests here, and to all of you who've come from across this land to explore the idea of "Community Coalitions: Gathering Momentum".

I was afraid I'd be late, since I had to fill out all those frequent flyer forms. We spent 12 fascinating days in the Far East talking, listening, learning -- fighting for America and for American jobs. \\ I came here today because what you do is so important I wanted to tell you something in person: Your nation recognizes the critically important work of your community anti-drug coalitions; and your nation thanks you.

We're working hard in Washington to blast the curse of drugs off the face of our map. Our first order of business is to toughen drug laws. We've devoted more effort to fighting drugs than any other single area of crime. But we can't do it alone. We need federal drug laws that are on the side of the people. Sadly, some fall far short in giving the weapons of law we need to fight drugs. The drug traffickers benefit. The public loses. So last year we sent Congress a new set of proposals to fight drugs and violent crime. We proposed a mandatory five-year prison term for possession of a firearm during a drug-trafficking crime. We proposed changes in the exclusionary rule to end the pattern of freeing drug offenders because of technicalities. And we urged the death penalty for certain heinous offenses committed by drug kingpins. These measures make sense. They would help law enforcement protect our present and ensure our children's future.

But they're still not law. Why has Congress failed to enact these proposals as part of an effective, focused bill to fight drugs and violent crime? I tell you now -- I will re-submit these and other measures to protect the public -- and I'll keep fighting until Congress approves them. \\\

But this fight is far too important to waste time waiting for Congress. As you know, over two years ago, as part of our National Drug Control Strategy, we established our Drug Advisory Council. America was lucky to gain the wisdom and vision of these distinguished American leaders who shared our goal of ridding this nation of the devastation caused by illegal drugs. I want to give a very special thanks today to our panel members who work tirelessly mobilizing the enormous power the private sector can wield in the war against drugs. They're not people who look the other way in passive resignation. They're out there building awareness, fighting back, practicing aggressive

intolerance for this unacceptable blight on America's future.

They're people like Jim Burke, who unleashes the power of the media through the Partnership for a Drug-Free America -- the largest volunteer, private-sector ad campaign since the WWII bond drives. He's energized and he's doing a superb job organizing a billion dollars worth of hard-hitting ads to discourage drug use.

But every one of you are front line soldiers in our war. You lead this country's local efforts to reduce drug use in the workplace, schools and neighborhoods. You organize your communities into coalitions. You show us that the key to healing this nation is found at the grass-roots level: holding your hand out to a neighbor -- not looking for a handout from Washington.

As Americans hear your stories, they realize there is an alternative to drugs -- and its name is hope. They hear stories of people like Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, who was so concerned about drug deaths that he created the "Drug Use is Life Abuse" program. With the business community, they launched a massive drug education effort targeted at area youth. This program works because it changes people's attitudes towards drugs.

So does the one Tad Foote leads. When he saw how drugs were destroying his community, he gathered top business leaders like Al Chapman to find a new approach. They formed The Miami Coalition, a broad-based community organization dedicated to tackling every aspect of the drug problem through eight task forces. They've convinced over 1/3 of all Miami businesses to adopt drug-free workplace policies and employee assistance programs. Even more importantly, they've closed down 1500 crack houses. \\\

These are some of the stories that prove that no community has to accept things as they are. Americans don't have to live in fear. Drugs and so many other social problems can be driven from every community -- if every community cares enough to try.

We're allies in a partnership that unites schools, churches, individuals, organizations, businesses and government. While you do your work across this land -- we do ours in Washington. Our anti-drug effort receives the highest priority of any domestic initiative in the federal budget. In our 1992 budget proposal we called for $11.7b for the drug war -- an increase of 82% since the beginning of our administration, and an 11% increase since the previous year, one of largest in the entire overall budget.

And we're seeing results. Last year, we exceeded our goal for drop in overall drug use -- we'd hoped for a decrease of 10% and it fell 11%. Occasional cocaine use went down 29%, when we'd set a goal of 10%. This year, figures show that we've even more dramatically exceeded our goals in areas like adolescent cocaine use. We'd hoped to reduce it by 30% -- it's fallen 63%.

Americans deserve a lot of credit for their individual and collective efforts. But -- as all of you know too personally, too painfully -- we still have much to do. There are casualties in this war. We live in an age when 300,000 drug-addicted babies are born each year. We live in an age when one out of every 4,000 American teens die by their own hands or at someone else's -- and too often drugs play a part in these tragedies. We live in an age when the scourge of drugs has cheapened life and threatens to erode the moral fabric of our nation.

Your example and your successes will reinvigorate our national commitment -- inspired by the attitude of citizens like those in Albuquerque who have created anti-drug banners that read: "It's easier to build a child than repair an adult."

So today let me simply say: Keep up your work. Continue to navigate by the beacon of your brilliant dedication. We celebrate more than your communities' freedom from the oppression of drugs -- we celebrate your hope, your determination, your spirit. And God bless the United States of America. Thank you all.

#