PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: BUSH/QUAYLE '92 VETERANS COALITION
PHOENIX, ARIZONA
THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1992

Thank you, Senator McCain. Great to see Everett Alvarez; [additional acknowledgements to come]. And let me thank all of you here today who represent our nation's veterans -- more than 26 million strong. First, it's great to be back in one of my favorite cities. ((I was sorry last year that Phoenix got passed over for a major-league baseball team. Of course, someone in Cleveland told me he feels the same way about his city.)) //

An old saying goes, "Save the best for last." Today, we're saving the best for first: The first campaign coalition to be announced for our campaign. / Barry Goldwater is its Honorary Chairman -- John McCain and Everett Alvarez its National Chairmen. I am proud to present the Bush/Quayle '92 National Veterans Coalition. ///

All of you know why I insisted the Veterans be first to be unveiled. You know how service has preserved the values that make -- and keep -- us strong. / You know how veterans have given of themselves, and often of their lives, in places named Argonne / Normandy / Da Nang / and the Persian Gulf.

Think of our kids and grandkids. They have inherited your bequest of faith in country / family / in democracy / in God.
They can never repay you for all you've done for freedom. From the time the torch of liberty was first lit in America, you have shed your blood to make sure it will never go out. //

That is what this campaign must be about -- what we must fight for / enlist our hearts and minds for. / To ensure for people, choice; for society, pluralism; for God's children, the freedom to go about their daily lives free from fear. //

Freedom can let us vote as we want, and pray as we choose. Freedom can ensure the legacies for our kids of family, peace, and jobs. Above all, freedom can secure what we fought for at Guadalcanal and Inchon -- at Hue City and Kuwait City: A world where liberty's tide is running in -- just as tyranny's is running out. // I renew my pledge to do all that's humanly possible to account for our comrades missing from past wars. As long as I am President, we will never forget our POWs and MIAs. /

Let us also pledge that as we move to a post-cold war defense force, we won't forget to take care of our military and civilian men and women who worked and fought so hard to ensure that freedom and democracy would prevail. // For them, we will continue to work together to make sure American veterans receive quality health care that is second to none. //

One clear benefit of the end of the cold war is the substantial defense savings possible in this new environment. However, this transition must be managed in a rational manner. First, we must achieve an orderly reduction in our forces of about 25 percent over the next five years. Some have called for far deeper cuts. I reject this approach. As I told the graduating Midshipmen yesterday, "never in the history of man has the world been a benign place. There is no substitute for America's strength and sense of purpose." //

Next, Secretary Cheney and I are mindful of our obligation to treat defense and uniform employees and their communities fairly. Our plan already includes spending more than 7.1 billion dollars to address defense transition over the next two years. // Today, I am proposing a number of additional programs, including new G.I. Bill benefits and an expansion of job training, employment and educational opportunities. We will dedicate more than one billion additional dollars through 1996 on these vital defense transition activities. Whether working as a teacher in an elementary school, or as an environmental engineer, I am committed to ensuring that the vast talents of former defense personnel can be put to productive use in private life.//

With us today are talented and capable men and women who believe in the new world of freedom. No one needs to tell them about the inhumanity of war. Instead, they know that only a strong America can preserve the humanity of peace. / I am proud of these men -- and proud that they have agreed to help me. I thank you for your support. I hope to be worthy of your prayers.

Thirty years ago, Douglas MacArthur said it best. Returning to the Plain at West Point, he gave a speech to the cadets. "The soldier," he told them, "above all other people, prays for peace for he must bear the deepest wounds and scars of war."

You have all been soldiers in the crusade for freedom. This year, I ask you to re-enlist -- and help keep America what Lincoln called "this last best hope of earth." / For 200 years our veterans have fought for what is right, and good. For joining me this year to defend those values -- I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

God bless you, and God bless America.

- PROPOSED DRAFT -

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE FORMATION OF
"VETERANS FOR BUSH/QUAYLE '92"

Lisa Battaglia where from?

"America's freedom and way of life are a direct tribute to the men and women who have kept the faith in selfless service to our nation. Veterans are first in the hearts and minds of Americans. For this reason I have chosen "Veterans for Bush/Quayle '92" to be my first campaign coalition to lead the way to victory in November," President Bush stated today.

The President named the Honorable Everett Alvarez and Senator John McCain as National Chairmen of the Veterans Coalition and reiterated his strong support for American veterans by saying, "I am committed to the care and well-being of my fellow veterans. They were there when our nation needed them. We should also be there for them. I am asking this, my first coalition, to join me in the effort to serve America's 27 million veterans in meeting the challenges of the 90s. Sound veterans programs are sound programs for America. Quality health care and job opportunities for veterans will be the foundation we will build on together."

Senator McCain echoed his support by saying, "I am a veteran and, like George Bush, a Navy pilot. My admiration for the President begins there. We both treasure our wartime experiences as the defining events of our lives which kindled in us a lifelong love of the military and the veterans who served so gallantly."

"As former Deputy Administrator of the Veterans Administration, I know the President has a commitment to a strong adequate defense, as well as a sense of obligation to those who gave us a freer world. I have equal faith in his commitment to provide quality health care second to none," said Alvarez.

*we will work together to make sure Am.
veterans receive health care 2nd to none*

The Veterans Coalition will be supported by four steering committees: Honorary Chairmen; Former National Commanders Council; Veterans Leadership Council; and Veterans Executive Council.

"We won the cold war thanks to the men and women who served in uniform and I will seek their counsel as we address the continuing need for a strong military. My veterans team will lead the way in this effort as they have always done," declared the President.

NOTES FOR REMARKS

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR "VETERANS FOR BUSH-QUAYLE '92"

MAY 28, 1992

- Continue on the theme "We shall not forget our MIAs" which was articulated on Memorial Day.

- While elevating the VA to Cabinet-level status and increasing funding for VA health care, I have instituted good government and management controls.

(Message: VA became a Cabinet department on his watch. He instituted better management and made it a more efficient provider of services to Veterans.)

- Under Bush administration, the national healing process that began with the end of the Vietnam War was finally completed with the victory in Desert Storm.

- During Bush administration, the Agent Orange controversy was put to rest. The government accepted responsibility for Agent Orange victims.

- Strong final message: I want all of you to know I am one of you, and will never forsake what it means to be a veteran.

~~And as we transition~~ to a post cold war defense force, we also won't forget to take care of our military -- and civilian -- men and women who worked and fought so hard to ensure that freedom and democracy would prevail. //

One clear benefit of the end of the cold war is the substantial defense savings possible in this new environment. But, this transition must be managed in a rational manner. First, we must achieve an orderly reduction in our forces of about 25% over the next five years. Some have called for far deeper cuts. I reject this approach. As I told the graduating Midshipmen yesterday, "never in the history of man has the world been a benign place. There is no substitute for America's strength and sense of purpose." //

Next, Secretary Cheney and I are mindful of our obligation to treat defense and uniform employees and their communities fairly. Our plan already includes spending over $7.1 Billion to address defense transition over the next two years. / Today, I am proposing a number of additional programs, including new GI Bill benefits and an expansion of job training, employment and educational opportunities. We will dedicate over $1 Billion additional dollars through 1996 on these vital defense transition activities. Whether working as a teacher in an elementary school, or as an environmental engineer, I am committed to ensuring that the vast talents of former defense personnel can be used productively in private life. //

DEFENSE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE

The President today announced additional steps to assist the people and communities affected by the transition to a post-cold war defense force. The new initiatives supplement existing efforts funded at $7.1 billion over the next two years, that assist military and civilian employees and affected communities.

These initiatives build on a comprehensive and effective set of existing programs to help in the transition. The $7.1 billion in spending on existing programs for FY 1992 and FY 1993 includes the following:

- o Department of Defense programs for severance payments, employment assistance, job training, and other benefits for separating personnel, and for planning grants to affected communities totaling $2.4 billion.
- o Department of Labor programs for job training, transition assistance, enhanced unemployment compensation, and employment services for workers affected by the drawdown totaling $4.3 billion.
- o Department of Veterans Affairs programs for education and insurance benefits, and other veterans programs for separating military personnel totaling $120 million.
- o Department of Commerce programs for assistance to affected communities totaling $50 million.
- o Department of Education grants and loans utilized by separating personnel totaling $200 million.
- o Department of Energy job programs to retrain personnel for environmental cleanup work and other new programs totaling $10 million.
- o Office of Personnel Management programs to help displaced defense civilians find employment in other Federal agencies.

The new measures announced by the President will result in additional spending of more than $1 billion through FY 1996 for the following:

- o New programs to promote careers in education for former military, civilian, and contractor employees. About $60 million would be allocated to new programs to help qualified people get into the classroom more readily by obtaining alternative State teacher certification. This will help attract these highly trained people to math and science teaching, an important priority in improving U.S. education.

- Expanded GI bill education opportunities for military personnel. Education benefits will be expanded for personnel in the service for more than six years who leave voluntarily. Those who did not have the opportunity to enroll in the current Montgomery GI Bill could choose to enroll when they leave the military. This would give access to up to $12,600 in education and training funds to thousands of departing military service personnel. The five year cost of the program is about $200 million.
- Expanded civilian utilization of dual use Department of Energy technology. About $250 million will fund an expanded Department of Energy effort to transfer dual use technologies to civilian use. These funds will be used primarily to support Cooperative Research and Development Agreements (CRADA) between DOE laboratories and private sector partners.
- Expanded job training and placement assistance programs. DOD and DOE will expand job training and placement assistance programs. The Office of Personnel Management will issue new regulations allowing training and job placement assistance to workers up to six months prior to a likely separation date.
- Expanded assistance in communities affected by Defense reductions. In communities significantly affected by declining defense expenditures, Defense's Office of Economic Adjustment (OEA) will award planning grants and work with other Federal agencies and communities to create economic adjustment programs. Additional community planning grants from the Office of Economic Adjustment would total about $50 million.
- New efforts to increase the use of Defense personnel and facilities to further education, job training and other community objectives. The Departments of Defense and Education will work with selected school districts to establish career academies that offer enhanced technical training coordinated with a Junior ROTC program. In addition, the Department of Defense will work with local communities and Private Industry Councils to identify opportunities for using excess capacity at defense facilities for training programs and for other community uses.
- Expanded early retirement for civilian employees. The Office of Personnel Management will permit early retirement at certain locations throughout DOD during this period. This will allow for a more orderly reduction in Defense civilian personnel while minimizing involuntary separations.

Individuals and communities affected by the Defense reductions also will benefit from Administration initiatives to increase domestic research and development. This new R&D will help ensure that the nation maintains its preeminence in technology development:

- o Proposed FY93 increases of almost $2 billion (11 percent) in NASA and DOE that will advance the frontiers of technology and provide expanded job opportunities to those affected by Defense reductions.
- o Increases totaling $60 million (24 percent) to support civilian applied research and development, competitive grants to businesses to develop generic technologies, and dissemination of technologies to small business proposed for the Department of Commerce for FY 93.
- o The National Technology Initiative, a multi-agency effort now underway to identify technologies developed in federal laboratories that can be transferred to the private sector, where they will promote economic growth and employment opportunities.

The initiatives the President announced today, combined with the assistance programs already in place and domestic research and development expansions, will facilitate an orderly transition to the post-cold war economy.

- PROPOSED DRAFT -

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE FORMATION OF
"VETERANS FOR BUSH/QUAYLE '92"

"America's freedom and way of life are a direct tribute to the men and women who have kept the faith in selfless service to our nation. Veterans are first in the hearts and minds of Americans. For this reason I have chosen "Veterans for Bush/Quayle '92" to be my first campaign coalition to lead the way to victory in November," President Bush stated today.

The President named the Honorable Everett Alvarez and Senator John McCain as National Chairmen of the Veterans Coalition and reiterated his strong support for American veterans by saying, "I am committed to the care and well-being of my fellow veterans. They were there when our nation needed them. We should also be there for them. I am asking this, my first coalition, to join me in the effort to serve America's 27 million veterans in meeting the challenges of the 90s. Sound veterans programs are sound programs for America. Quality health care and job opportunities for veterans will be the foundation we will build on together."

Senator McCain echoed his support by saying, "I am a veteran and, like George Bush, a Navy pilot. My admiration for the President begins there. We both treasure our wartime experiences as the defining events of our lives which kindled in us a lifelong love of the military and the veterans who served so gallantly."

"As former Deputy Administrator of the Veterans Administration, I know the President has a commitment to a strong adequate defense, as well as a sense of obligation to those who gave us a freer world. I have equal faith in his commitment to provide quality health care second to none," said Alvarez.

The Veterans Coalition will be supported by four steering committees: Honorary Chairmen; Former National Commanders Council; Veterans Leadership Council; and Veterans Executive Council.

"We won the cold war thanks to the men and women who served in uniform and I will seek their counsel as we address the continuing need for a strong military. My veterans team will lead the way in this effort as they have always done," declared the President.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: BUSH/QUAYLE VETERANS COALITION
PHOENIX, ARIZONA
THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1992

Barry Goldwater. Senator McCain. Everett Alvarez. As a veteran, I want to thank __ for that introduction. / And let me thank all of you who represent our nation's veterans -- more than 27 million strong. //

I want to bring special greetings from the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, our good friend, Ed Derwinski. / His Department is intent on serving you -- as you have served your country. //

Next, a special word about one of the million retired veterans living in the Phoenix area. I'm talking about Barry Goldwater. / Barry once ran for President: His message -- "In your heart, you know he's right." / Right then -- he's even more right today. We salute a true American hero. //

An old saying goes, "Save the best for last." Today, we're saving the best for first: The first campaign coalition to be announced for our campaign. / Barry is its Honorary Chairman -- John McCain and Everett Alvarez its National Chairmen. I am proud to present the Bush/Quayle '92 National Veterans Coalition.

All of you know why I insisted the Veterans be first to be unveiled. You know how service has preserved the values that make -- and keep -- us strong. / You know how veterans have given of themselves, and often of their lives, in places named Argonne / Normandy / Da Nang / and the Persian Gulf.

Think of our kids and grandkids. They have inherited your bequest of faith in country / family / in liberty / in God. / So have millions like the "boat people" of Southeast Asia who love what America means. // I'll never forget what they shouted as an American carrier approached. Many were crying. All were waving. Calling out in broken English, "Hello American sailor! Hello freedom man!" //

That is what this Campaign must be about -- what we must fight for / enlist our hearts and minds for. / To ensure for people, choice; for society, pluralism; for God's children, the freedom to go about their daily lives free from fear. //

Freedom can let us vote as we want, and pray as we choose. Freedom can ensure the legacies for our kids of family, peace, and jobs. Above all, freedom can secure what we fought for at Guadalcanal and Monte Cassino -- at Bastogne and Bataan: A world where liberty's tide is running in -- just as tyranny's is running out. //

With us today are men who believe in that new world of freedom. No one needs to tell them about the inhumanity of war. Instead, they know that only a strong America can preserve the humanity of peace. / I am proud of these men -- and proud that they have agreed to help me. I thank you for your support. I hope to be worthy of your prayers. //

Thirty-seven years ago, Douglas MacArthur said it best. Returning to the Plain at West Point, he gave a speech to the cadets. "The soldier," he told them, "above all other people, prays for peace -- for he must suffer and bear the deepest wounds and scars of war." //

You have all been soldiers in the crusade for freedom. This year, I ask you to re-enlist -- and help keep America the last best hope of earth. / For 200 years our veterans have fought for what is right, and good. For joining me this year to defend those values -- I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

God bless you, and God bless America.

Barry Goldwater. Senator McCain. Everett Alvarez. As a veteran, I want to thank ___ for that introduction. / And let me thank all of you who represent our nation's veterans -- more than 27 million strong. //

I want to bring special greetings from the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, our good friend, Ed Derwinski. / His Department is intent on serving you -- as you have served your country. //

Next, a special word about one of the million retired veterans living in the Phoenix area. I'm talking about Barry Goldwater. / Barry once ran for President: His message -- "In your heart, you know he's right." / Right then -- he's even more right today. We salute a true American hero. //

An old saying goes, "Save the best for last." Today, we're saving the best for first: The first campaign coalition to be announced for our campaign. / Barry is its Honorary Chairman -- John McCain and Everett Alvarez its National Chairmen. I am proud to present the Bush/Quayle '92 National Veterans Coalition.

All of you know why I insisted the Veterans be first to be unveiled. You know how service has preserved the values that make -- and keep -- us strong. / You know how veterans have given of themselves, and often of their lives, in places named Argonne / Normandy / Da Nang / and the Persian Gulf.

Think of our kids and grandkids. They have inherited your bequest of faith in country / family / in liberty / in God. / So have millions like the "boat people" of Southeast Asia who love what America means. // I'll never forget what they shouted as an American carrier approached. Many were crying. All were waving. Calling out in broken English, "Hello American sailor! Hello freedom man!" //

That is what this Campaign must be about -- what we must fight for / enlist our hearts and minds for. / ~~To ensure for people, choice; for society, pluralism; for God's children, the freedom to go about their daily lives free from fear.~~ //

Freedom ~~can~~ let us vote as we want, and pray as we choose. Freedom ~~can~~ ensure the legacies for our kids of family, peace, and jobs. Above all, freedom ~~can secure~~ ^{protects} what we fought for at Guadalcanal and Monte Cassino -- at Bastogne and Bataan: A world where liberty's tide is running in -- just as tyranny's is running out. //

With us today are men who believe in that new world of freedom. No one needs to tell them about the inhumanity of war. Instead, they know that only a strong America can preserve the humanity of peace. / I am proud of these men -- and proud that they have agreed to help me. I thank you for your support. I hope to be worthy of your prayers. //

Strong families in a free society, parental choice in the education of children, a growing economy that creates good jobs.

Thirty-seven years ago, Douglas MacArthur said it best. Returning to the Plain at West Point, he gave a speech to the cadets. "The soldier," he told them, "above all other people, prays for peace -- for he must suffer and bear the deepest wounds and scars of war." //

You have all been soldiers in the crusade for freedom. This year, I ask you to re-enlist -- and help keep America the last best hope of earth. / For 200 years our veterans have fought for what is right, and good. For joining me this year to defend those values -- I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

God bless you, and God bless America.

MEMORANDUM FOR DANIEL MCGROARTY

FROM: STEPHEN G. RADEMAKER
ASSOCIATE COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Presidential Remarks: Bush/Quayle Veterans Coalition

Pursuant to Phil Brady's request, Counsel's Office has reviewed the above-referenced matter. We suggest that all but the first two sentences of the first full paragraph on page 2 be deleted so as not to prompt unfavorable comparisons of U.S. policy toward Haitian and Southeast Asian "boat people." Subject to this comment, we have no objection to the draft remarks.

Barry Goldwater. Senator McCain. Everett Alvarez. As a veteran, I want to thank for that introduction. / And let me thank all of you who represent our nation's veterans -- more than 27 million strong. //

(Derwinski) Actually a little more than 26 million

~~In each of the last three years he has helped secure 1 billion dollars in veterans health care.~~

I want to bring special greetings from the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, our good friend, Ed Derwinski. / His Department is intent on serving you -- as you have served your country. //

(Derwinski) There are only 400,000 in Arizona alone. More like 250,000 in Phoenix area.

Next, a special word about one of the million retired veterans living in the Phoenix area. I'm talking about Barry Goldwater. / Barry once ran for President: His message -- "In your heart, you know he's right." / Right then -- he's even more right today. We salute a true American hero. //

That is what this Campaign must be about -- what we must fight for / enlist our hearts and minds for. / To ensure for people, choice; for society, pluralism; for God's children, the freedom to go about their daily lives free from fear. //

Freedom can let us vote as we want, and pray as we choose. Freedom can ensure the legacies for our kids of family, peace, and jobs. Above all, freedom can secure what we fought for at Guadalcanal and Monte Cassino -- at Bastogne and Bataan: A world where liberty's tide is running in -- just as tyranny's is running out. //

PHOENIX, ARIZONA
THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1992

Barry Goldwater. Senator McCain. Everett Alvarez. As a veteran, I want to thank ___ for that introduction. / And let me thank all of you who represent our nation's veterans -- more than 27 million strong. //

I want to bring special greetings from the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, our good friend, Ed Derwinski. / His Department is intent on serving you -- as you have served your country. //

Next, a special word about one of the million retired veterans living in the Phoenix area. I'm talking about Barry Goldwater. / Barry once ran for President: His message -- "In your heart, you know he's right." / Right then -- he's even more right today. We salute a true American hero. //

An old saying goes, "Save the best for last." Today, we're saving the best for first: The first campaign coalition to be announced for our campaign. / Barry is its Honorary Chairman -- John McCain and Everett Alvarez its National Chairmen. I am proud to present the Bush/Quayle '92 National Veterans Coalition.

All of you know why I insisted the Veterans be first to be unveiled. You know how service has preserved the values that make -- and keep -- us strong. / You know how veterans have
