PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL RIGHT TO LIFE CONVENTION

I'm proud to salute all of you fine men and women who are our frontline soldiers in this battle for America's soul. For those who are vulnerable -- you are their strength. For those who are silent -- you are their voice. For those who are imperiled -- you are their hope.

I join you in your reverence for life -- and for the human heart, the universal symbol of life itself, which starts beating only three weeks after conception. I believe in the sanctity of new life -- and I will always stand on the side of choosing life.

I support reversal of Roe v. Wade -- and my Administration has taken our arguments to the Supreme Court. I support a Human Life Amendment to protect unborn children. I have consistently opposed attempts to provide federal funding of abortion, except where the mother's life is in danger. I will veto a current proposal which would fund research using aborted fetuses. And if Congress passes the so-called "Freedom of Choice Act," I will veto it -- as I have stated before, it will not become law as long as I am President.

A people -- a nation -- a world is measured not by the power of its greatest, but of its compassion for its weakest. That's why the most important passion Americans must have is not for position or success or material goods. No, our guiding principle must be to live our lives by an inner moral compass based on respect for the dignity and right to life of each of our brothers and sisters.

The greatest responsibility of a humane society is to care for its most defenseless members. Let us continue to work together -- let us pledge our fervor, our intensity and our prayers -- to make sure that future generations know us by our legacy of fierce devotion to "Life: The First Right."

God bless you and everything you do.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL EXPORT INITIATIVE

It's a pleasure to greet the many participants in our National Export Initiative conference. Your program title says it all: "Exports -- Generating Jobs for Americans." We're at the dawn of a new era in the world economy -- presenting exciting opportunities for American business.

Now more than ever, if we want to thrive at home, we have to compete and lead abroad. Increasing exports is one of the pillars on which we're building our economic future. Remember, every billion dollars of U.S. merchandise exports supports on average about 20,000 good jobs for Americans. Exports remain one of the strongest forces fueling our economy: Last year, U.S. exports soared to a record high of $422 billion while our trade deficit fell to its lowest level in almost a decade.

Our Administration is working hard to open up markets and help American firms compete abroad. Two years ago, for instance, we created the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee, bringing together all the expertise of the federal government in a "one-stop shop" for firms interested in exports. NEI conferences such as this have helped hundreds of companies of all sizes get a handle on new export opportunities. And I have my trade negotiators working around the clock to conclude two historic trade agreements -- the North American Free Trade Agreement linking the United States, Mexico and Canada; and a new GATT agreement to eliminate barriers to global trade.

Trade is one of the most important issues of our time -- clearly for exporters such as yourselves, but no less vital to consumers the world over who want a better quality of life. That's why I am fighting to open markets. Free trade means more exports, more investment, more choices, and more jobs for Americans. So I'm asking you to intensify your support as we approach the end game in the GATT and the North American Free Trade talks. We need trade policies to keep growth up now and in the future. With these, and with your proven ingenuity, we'll keep America the leader that she is -- the number one exporter in the world. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ROTARY INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

I'm delighted to greet the thousands of women and men of Rotary International. It's a pleasure to welcome to the United States so many Rotarians visiting from other nations. The Rotarian credo -- Service above Self -- exemplifies the volunteer spirit that gives strength to free societies everywhere. This year we mark the continued growth of Rotary, and it is a special joy to note that Rotary is gaining new members and organizing new clubs in the newly liberated countries of Eastern Europe.

Let me assure you, I'll keep working to extend this progress. The new world we want to build is one where no government will attempt to deny such fundamental rights as the freedom for voluntary associations to meet and organize. People will build better societies throughout the world when they're burdened by less bureaucracy and government control -- and when they're enlivened by more constructive action based on the spirit of voluntary service. It should come as no surprise that Rotarians figure prominently among the Daily Points of Light I have recognized for selfless service to American communities.

Rotary International is a shining example to all the world of the values that make life worth living -- family, community, faith, and work. Please keep up your important work. During this era of change, our nation and our world need the spirit and the efforts of Rotarians more than ever. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ONE TO ONE AWARDS BANQUET

I am honored to say a few words to all of you gathered together this evening to celebrate both the mission of One to One and the many individuals who, in their own ways, are changing the lives of a number of young Americans through mentoring.

At a time when it seems everyone is talking about America's problems, One to One is about a solution. Since its inception, One to One has been moving down a singular and affirmative path, helping to put and keep young people on the right track. You are successfully mobilizing mentors. You are also creating real economic opportunities for kids. As a result, when the next generation takes over leading this great country, these young people will be among those who help America to become an even better and more productive place.

Every one of you who is a mentor is one of those Points of Light about which I often speak. And with so many of you gathered in one place this evening, the room must be filled with wonderful light. Barbara joins me in wishing you the very best. From the White House, and on behalf of all Americans, I send you a heartfelt thank you. May God bless you all.

100TH ANNIVERSARY

The St. Louis Cardinals were once baseball's southern- and western-most team. Today, they are still America's Team -- with some of baseball's greatest fans and most glorious traditions. /

Think of it: Fifteen pennants / nine world championships / and all those outstanding Hall of Famers and All-Stars who've worn the Redbird uniform. /

Legends like "Country" Slaughter, Bob Gibson, Lou Brock, and Orlando Cepeda. / Household words like "Red" Schoendienst [SHANE deenst], Bill White -- and of course, "The Man" himself, Stan Musial. / Not to mention the immortal Dizzy Dean -- who often said, "It ain't braggin' if you can back it up." //

For years, Cardinal players have "backed it up." And so have people off-the-field who've helped build the Cardinal tradition -- legendary names like Branch Rickey and August Busch -- plus those millions of fans who've made the Cardinals a Midwest institution. /

To all the players, members of the Cardinals organization, and fans gathered tonight in Busch Stadium -- to all those who've rooted for the Gas House Gang of the thirties, and the championship teams of the forties, sixties, and eighties -- right down to the "Cardiac Cards" of 1992 -- my best wishes on this 100th anniversary. //

It's a special night -- looking back on a great tradition.
And yet -- ask any Cardinal fan: As good as the past 100 years have been, the best is yet to come. / God bless you, and the United States of America.

Gathering of Eagles

Distinguished Aviation Greats, Air Command, and Staff College Class of '92, and Ladies and Gentlemen, good evening. I wish I could be there in person tonight to help commemorate the critical and exciting role of aviation in our nation's history. I consider it a great honor to be selected as an Eagle and to be associated with such illustrious aviation pioneers and leaders from around the world. As a young avenger pilot in World War II, I would have never dreamed I'd someday join a list of aviation greats like Jimmy Doolittle, Curtis Lemay, Matthew Ridgeway, and Frank Borman. Thank you so very much.

I am sure it has been an inspirational week for the Class of '92 -- a week of "living history". This gathering of Eagles is an excellent way for those who have met the challenges of the past and shaped today's world to share their experiences and prepare you for the challenges of the future. For more than a decade, some 170 eagles from fifteen countries have passed on to students here at Maxwell, invaluable lessons learned in times of war and in times of peace -- from helping to design forces to being at the very tip of the arrow in combat. Their knowledge, their insights and their inspiration form a "living history" you cannot find in the pages of any book.

In the course of their week with you, these aviators, some of whom were on opposing sides, forge new and lasting bonds of friendship. To those of you about to graduate, as your year of study at A-S-C draws to a close, I hope that you, like the Eagles, have made similar bonds that can sustain and enrich your career. For as any Veteran knows, friends made in the military are friends for life.

As we saw again in Desert Storm, the security and freedom of our nation and our allies ultimately will depend on your skill, your courage, and leadership. I am confident that you will continue to display the integrity, enthusiasm and dedication needed to carry on the legacy of service and sacrifice that the Eagles have left you. \\ \\ Thank you again for the honor, aim high, good luck, -- and may God bless the United States of America.

I wish I could be there in person tonight to help commemorate the critical and exciting role of aviation in our nation's history. I consider it a great honor to be selected as an Eagle and to be associated with such illustrious aviation pioneers and leaders from around the world. As a young avenger pilot in World War II, I would have never dreamed I'd someday join a list of aviation greats like Jimmy Doolittle, Curtis Lemay, Matthew Ridgeway, and Frank Borman. Thank you so very much.

I am sure it has been an inspirational week for the Class of '92 -- a week of "living history". This gathering of Eagles is an excellent way for those who have met the challenges of the past and shaped today's world to share their experiences and prepare you for the challenges of the future. For more than a decade, some 170 eagles from fifteen countries have passed on to students here at Maxwell, invaluable lessons learned in times of war and in times of peace -- from helping to design forces to being at the very tip of the arrow in combat. Their knowledge, their insights and their inspiration form a "living history" you cannot find in the pages of any book.

In the course of their week with you, these aviators, some of whom were on opposing sides, forge new and lasting bonds of friendship. To those of you about to graduate, as your year of study at A-S-C draws to a close, I hope that you, like the Eagles, have made similar bonds that can sustain and enrich your career. For as any Veteran knows, friends made in the military are friends for life.

As we saw again in Desert Storm, the security and freedom of our nation and our allies ultimately will depend on your skill, your courage, and leadership. I am confident that you will continue to display the integrity, enthusiasm and dedication needed to carry on the legacy of service and sacrifice that the Eagles have left you. \\ \\ Thank you again for the honor, aim high, good luck, -- and may God bless the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL RIGHT TO LIFE CONVENTION

I'm proud to salute all of you fine, brave men and women who are our frontline soldiers in this battle for America's soul. For those who are vulnerable -- you are their strength. For those who are silent -- you are their voice. For those who are imperiled -- you are their hope.

I join you in your reverence for life -- and for the human heart, the universal symbol of life itself, which starts beating only three weeks after conception. I believe in the meaning of that beating heart -- in the sanctity of that new life -- and I will always stand on the side of choosing life.

I support reversal of Roe v. Wade. I support a Human Life Amendment to protect unborn children. I oppose federal funding of abortion, except where the mother's life is in danger. I will veto the bill for experiments on aborted fetuses. And if Congress passes the so-called "Freedom of Choice Act," I will veto it once -- I will veto it again -- and it will not become law as long as I am President of the United States of America.

A people -- a nation -- a world is measured not by the power of its greatest, but by its compassion for its weakest. That's why the most important drive Americans must have is not for position or success or material goods. No, our guiding principle must be to live our lives by an inner moral compass based on respect for the dignity and right to life of each of our brothers and sisters -- no matter how medically dependent -- no matter how disabled -- no matter how elderly -- no matter how unformed -- no matter what stage they're at in the miracle of life.

The greatest responsibility of a humane society is to care for its most defenseless members. Let us continue to work together -- let us pledge our fervor, our intensity and our prayers -- to make sure that future generations know us by our legacy of fierce devotion to "Life: The First Right."

God bless you and everything you do.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL EXPORT INITIATIVE

It's a pleasure to greet the many participants in our National Export Initiative conference. Your program title says it all: "Exports -- Generating Jobs for Americans." We're at the dawn of a new era in the world economy -- presenting exciting opportunities for American business. The Free World has triumphed over Communism, and nations in every corner of the globe are turning anew to free markets.

Now more than ever, if we want to thrive at home, we have to compete and lead abroad. Our prosperity hinges on our ability to develop quality products, identify new markets, and go the extra mile to make sales around the world. Exports create good jobs for Americans, and robust trade improves our standard of living. Every billion dollars of U.S. manufactured exports creates more than 20,000 American jobs. And exports continue as one of the strongest forces fueling our economy today: Last year, U.S. exports soared to a record high of $422 billion while our trade deficit declined to its lowest level in almost a decade.

Our Administration is working hard to open up markets and help American firms compete abroad. Two years ago, for instance, we created the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee, bringing together all the expertise of the federal government in a "one-stop shop" for firms interested in exports. And I have my trade negotiators working around the clock to conclude two historic trade agreements -- the North American Free Trade Agreement linking the United States, Mexico and Canada; and a new global GATT agreement to curb wasteful agricultural subsidies.

Trade is one of the most important issues of our time -- clearly for exporters such as yourselves, but no less vital to consumers the world over who want a better quality of life. That's why I am fighting to open markets. Free trade means more exports, more investment, more choices, and more jobs for Americans. So I'm asking you to intensify your support as we approach the end game in the North American Free Trade talks and the GATT talks. We need trade policies to keep growth up now and in the future. With these, and with your proven ingenuity, we'll keep America the leader that she is -- the number one exporter in the world. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ROTARY INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

I'm delighted to greet the thousands of women and men of Rotary International. It's a pleasure to welcome to the United States so many Rotarians visiting from other nations. The Rotarian credo -- Service above Self -- exemplifies the volunteer spirit that gives strength to free societies everywhere. This year we mark the continued growth of Rotary, and it is a special joy to note that Rotary is gaining new members and organizing new clubs in the newly liberated countries of Eastern Europe.

Let me assure you, I'll keep working to extend this progress. The new world we want to build is one where no government will attempt to deny such fundamental rights as the freedom for voluntary associations to meet and organize. People will build better societies throughout the world when they're burdened by less bureaucracy and government control -- and when they're enlivened by more constructive action based on the spirit of voluntary service. It should come as no surprise that Rotarians figure prominently among the Daily Points of Light I have recognized for selfless service to American communities.

Rotary International is a shining example to all the world of the values that make life worth living -- family, community, faith, and work. Please keep up your important work. During this era of change, our nation and our world need the spirit and the efforts of Rotarians more than ever. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ONE TO ONE AWARDS BANQUET

I am honored to say a few words to all of you gathered together this evening to celebrate both the mission of One to One and the many individuals who, in their own ways, are changing the lives of a number of young Americans through mentoring.

Mentoring isn't just quizzing kids before a spelling test, or helping with multiplication tables. It's much more than that. Mentors provide leadership, emotional support, and friendship. At a time when it seems everyone is talking about America's problems, it is inspiring to see a group of fine volunteers, like the mentors of One to One, who are offering solutions.

Since its inception, One to One has been moving down a singular and affirmative path, successfully helping get kids who've gotten into trouble get back on track. You have a lot to be proud of, because when the next generation takes over leading this great country, they will remember your kind words and the kind hand that was offered when they needed help. In turn, they will be among those who help America to become a more caring and productive place.

All my life, I have believed that education opens the door to opportunity in America. And when the door of opportunity is flung wide open, so much good can happen. Barbara joins me in wishing you the very best. From the White House, and on behalf of all Americans, I send you a heartfelt thank you. May God bless you all.

100TH ANNIVERSARY

The St. Louis Cardinals were once baseball's southern- and western-most team. Today, they are still America's Team -- with some of baseball's greatest fans and most glorious traditions. /

Think of it: Fifteen pennants / nine world championships / and all those outstanding Hall of Famers and All-Stars who've worn the Redbird uniform. /

Legends like "Country" Slaughter, Bob Gibson, Lou Brock, and Orlando Cepeda. / Household words like "Red" Schoendienst [SHANE deenst], Bill White -- and of course, "The Man" himself, Stan Musial. / Not to mention the immortal Dizzy Dean -- who often said, "It ain't braggin' if you can back it up." //

For years, Cardinal players have "backed it up." And so have people off-the-field who've helped build the Cardinal tradition -- legendary names like Branch Rickey and August Busch -- plus those millions of fans who've made the Cardinals a Midwest institution. /

To all the players, members of the Cardinals organization, and fans gathered tonight in Busch Stadium -- to all those who've rooted for the Gas House Gang of the thirties, and the championship teams of the forties, sixties, and eighties -- right down to the "Cardiac Cards" of 1992 -- my best wishes on this 100th anniversary. //

It's a special night -- looking back on a great tradition.

This year we mark the continued growth of Rotary, and it is a special joy to note that Rotary is gaining new members and organizing new clubs in the newly liberated countries of Eastern Europe.

Let me assure you, I'll keep working to extend this progress. The new world we want to build is one where no government will attempt to deny such fundamental rights as the freedom for voluntary associations to meet and organize. People will build better societies throughout the world when they're burdened by less bureaucracy and government control -- and when they're enlivened by more constructive action based on the spirit of voluntary service. It should come as no surprise that Rotarians figure prominently among the Daily Points of Light I have recognized for selfless service to American communities.

Rotary International is a shining example to all the world of the values that make life worth living -- family, community, faith, and work. Please keep up your important work. During this era of change, our nation and our world need the spirit and the efforts of Rotarians more than ever. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ONE TO ONE AWARDS BANQUET

I am honored to say a few words to all of you gathered together this evening to celebrate both the mission of One to One and the many individuals who, in their own ways, are changing the lives of a number of young Americans through mentoring.

Mentoring isn't just quizzing kids before a spelling test, or helping with multiplication tables. It's much more than that. Mentors provide leadership, emotional support, and friendship. At a time when it seems everyone is talking about America's problems, it is inspiring to see a group of fine volunteers, like the mentors of One to One, who are offering solutions.

Since its inception, One to One has been moving down a singular and affirmative path, successfully helping get kids who've gotten into trouble get back on track. You have a lot to be proud of, because when the next generation takes over leading this great country, they will remember your kind words and the kind hand that was offered when they needed help. In turn, they will be among those who help America to become a more caring and productive place.

All my life, I have believed that education opens the door to opportunity in America. And when the door of opportunity is flung wide open, so much good can happen. Barbara joins me in wishing you the very best. From the White House, and on behalf

bless you all.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL EXPORT INITIATIVE

It's a pleasure to greet the many participants in our National Export Initiative conference. Your program title says it all: "Exports -- Generating Jobs for Americans." We're at the dawn of a new era in the world economy -- presenting exciting opportunities for American business.

Now more than ever, if we want to thrive at home, we have to compete and lead abroad. Our prosperity hinges on our ability to develop quality products, identify new markets, and go the extra mile to make sales around the world. Remember, every billion dollars of U.S. merchandise exports supports on average about 20,000 good jobs for Americans. Exports remain one of the strongest forces fueling our economy: Last year, U.S. exports soared to a record high of $422 billion while our trade deficit fell to its lowest level in almost a decade.

Our Administration is working hard to open up markets and help American firms compete abroad. Two years ago, for instance, we created the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee, bringing together all the expertise of the federal government in a "one-stop shop" for firms interested in exports. NEI conferences such as this have helped hundreds of companies of all sizes get a handle on new export opportunities. And I have my trade negotiators working around the clock to conclude two historic trade agreements -- the North American Free Trade Agreement linking the United States, Mexico and Canada; and a new GATT agreement to eliminate barriers to global trade.

Trade is one of the most important issues of our time -- clearly for exporters such as yourselves, but no less vital to consumers the world over who want a better quality of life. That's why I am fighting to open markets. Free trade means more exports, more investment, more choices, and more jobs for Americans. So I'm asking you to intensify your support as we approach the end game in the GATT and the North American Free Trade talks. We need trade policies to keep growth up now and in the future. With these, and with your proven ingenuity, we'll keep America the leader that she is -- the number one exporter in the world. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

INSERT A

A tremendous export potential exists in America today--and much of it lies with small to medium-sized companies. The overlooked fact is that, while the United States is the world's largest exporter, just 15 percent of our exporters account for over 60 percent of the value of goods shipped across our borders.

There are many good reasons why U.S. firms should look to overseas markets:

- o The world market is more than four times larger than the U.S. market
- o Many overseas markets are growing at a faster rate than the U.S. market
- o Exporting can help companies discover new ideas that can lead to new products, applications, or markets.

INSERT B

I encourage both the new-to-export company and the seasoned exporter to use the valuable information and services provided here today to aggressively pursue overseas markets.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL RIGHT TO LIFE CONVENTION

I'm proud to salute all of you fine, brave men and women who are our frontline soldiers in this battle for America's soul. For those who are vulnerable -- you are their strength. For those who are silent -- you are their voice. For those who are imperiled -- you are their hope.

I join you in your reverence for life -- and for the human heart, the universal symbol of life itself, which starts beating only three weeks after conception. I believe in the meaning of that beating heart -- in the sanctity of that new life -- and I will always stand on the side of choosing life.

I support reversal of Roe v. Wade. I support a Human Life Amendment to protect unborn children. I oppose federal funding of abortion, except where the mother's life is in danger. I will veto the bill for experiments on aborted fetuses. And if Congress passes the so-called "Freedom of Choice Act," I will veto it [?] once -- I will veto it again ^{and again} -- and it will not become law as long as I am President of the United States of America.

A people -- a nation -- a world is measured not by the power of its greatest, but by its compassion for its weakest. That's why the most important drive Americans must have is not for position or success or material goods. No, our guiding principle must be to live our lives by an inner moral compass based on respect for the dignity and right to life of each of our brothers and sisters -- no matter how medically dependent -- no matter how disabled -- no matter how elderly -- no matter how unformed -- no matter what stage they're at in the miracle of life.

The greatest responsibility of a humane society is to care for its most defenseless members. Let us continue to work together -- let us pledge our fervor, our intensity and our prayers -- to make sure that future generations know us by our legacy of fierce devotion to "Life: The First Right."

God bless you and everything you do.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL RIGHT TO LIFE CONVENTION

I'm proud to salute all of you fine, brave men and women who are our frontline soldiers in this battle for America's soul. For those who are vulnerable -- you are their strength. For those who are silent -- you are their voice. For those who are imperiled -- you are their hope.

I join you in your reverence for life -- and for the human heart, the universal symbol of life itself, which starts beating only three weeks after conception. I believe in the meaning of that beating heart -- in the sanctity of that new life -- and I will always stand on the side of choosing life.

I support reversal of Roe v. Wade. I support a Human Life Amendment to protect unborn children. I oppose federal funding of abortion, except where the mother's life is in danger. I will veto the bill for experiments on aborted fetuses. And if Congress passes the so-called "Freedom of Choice Act," I will veto it once -- I will veto it again -- and it will not become law as long as I am President of the United States of America.

A people -- a nation -- a world is measured not by the power of its greatest, but by its compassion for its weakest. That's why the most important drive Americans must have is not for position or success or material goods. No, our guiding principle must be to live our lives by an inner moral compass based on respect for the dignity and right to life of each of our brothers and sisters -- no matter how medically dependent -- no matter how disabled -- no matter how elderly -- no matter how unformed -- no matter what stage they're at in the miracle of life.

The greatest responsibility of a humane society is to care for its most defenseless members. Let us continue to work together -- let us pledge our fervor, our intensity and our prayers -- to make sure that future generations know us by our legacy of fierce devotion to "Life: The First Right."

God bless you and everything you do.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: NATIONAL EXPORT INITIATIVE

It's a pleasure to greet the many participants in our National Export Initiative conference. Your program title says it all: "Exports -- Generating Jobs for Americans." We're at the dawn of a new era in the world economy -- presenting exciting opportunities for American business. The Free World has triumphed over Communism, and nations in every corner of the globe are turning anew to free markets.

Now more than ever, if we want to thrive at home, we have to compete and lead abroad. Our prosperity hinges on our ability to develop quality products, identify new markets, and go the extra mile to make sales around the world. Exports create good jobs for Americans, and robust trade improves our standard of living. Every billion dollars of U.S. manufactured exports creates more than 20,000 American jobs. And exports continue as one of the strongest forces fueling our economy today: Last year, U.S. exports soared to a record high of $422 billion while our trade deficit declined to its lowest level in almost a decade.

Our Administration is working hard to open up markets and help American firms compete abroad. Two years ago, for instance, we created the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee, bringing together all the expertise of the federal government in a "one-stop shop" for firms interested in exports. And I have my trade negotiators working around the clock to conclude two historic trade agreements -- the North American Free Trade Agreement linking the United States, Mexico and Canada; and a new global GATT agreement to curb wasteful agricultural subsidies.

Trade is one of the most important issues of our time -- clearly for exporters such as yourselves, but no less vital to consumers the world over who want a better quality of life. That's why I am fighting to open markets. Free trade means more exports, more investment, more choices, and more jobs for Americans. So I'm asking you to intensify your support as we approach the end game in the North American Free Trade talks and the GATT talks. We need trade policies to keep growth up now and in the future. With these, and with your proven ingenuity, we'll keep America the leader that she is -- the number one exporter in the world. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ROTARY INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

I'm delighted to greet the thousands of women and men of Rotary International. It's a pleasure to welcome to the United States so many Rotarians visiting from other nations. The Rotarian credo -- Service above Self -- exemplifies the volunteer spirit that gives strength to free societies everywhere. This year we mark the continued growth of Rotary, and it is a special joy to note that Rotary is gaining new members and organizing new clubs in the newly liberated countries of Eastern Europe.

Let me assure you, I'll keep working to extend this progress. The new world we want to build is one where no government will attempt to deny such fundamental rights as the freedom for voluntary associations to meet and organize. People will build better societies throughout the world when they're burdened by less bureaucracy and government control -- and when they're enlivened by more constructive action based on the spirit of voluntary service. It should come as no surprise that Rotarians figure prominently among the Daily Points of Light I have recognized for selfless service to American communities.

Rotary International is a shining example to all the world of the values that make life worth living -- family, community, faith, and work. Please keep up your important work. PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ONE TO ONE AWARDS BANQUET

I am honored to say a few words to all of you gathered together this evening to celebrate both the mission of One to One and the many individuals who, in their own ways, are changing the lives of a number of young Americans through mentoring.

Mentoring isn't just quizzing kids before a spelling test, or helping with multiplication tables. It's much more than that. Mentors provide leadership, emotional support, and friendship. At a time when it seems everyone is talking about America's problems, it is inspiring to see a group of fine volunteers, like the mentors of One to One, who are offering solutions.

Since its inception, One to One has been moving down a singular and affirmative path, successfully helping get kids who've gotten into trouble get back on track. You have a lot to be proud of, because when the next generation takes over leading this great country, they will remember your kind words and the kind hand that was offered when they needed help. In turn, they will be among those who help America to become a more caring and productive place.

All my life, I have believed that education opens the door to opportunity in America. And when the door of opportunity is flung wide open, so much good can happen. Barbara joins me in wishing you the very best. From the White House, and on behalf

bless you all.

100TH ANNIVERSARY

The St. Louis Cardinals were once baseball's southern- and western-most team. Today, they are still America's Team -- with some of baseball's greatest fans and most glorious traditions. /

Think of it: Fifteen pennants / nine world championships / and all those outstanding Hall of Famers and All-Stars who've worn the Redbird uniform. /

Legends like "Country" Slaughter, Bob Gibson, Lou Brock, and Orlando Cepeda. / Household words like "Red" Schoendienst [SHANE deenst], Bill White -- and of course, "The Man" himself, Stan Musial. / Not to mention the immortal Dizzy Dean -- who often said, "It ain't braggin' if you can back it up." //

For years, Cardinal players have "backed it up." And so have people off-the-field who've helped build the Cardinal tradition -- legendary names like Branch Rickey and August Busch -- plus those millions of fans who've made the Cardinals a Midwest institution. /

To all the players, members of the Cardinals organization, and fans gathered tonight in Busch Stadium -- to all those who've rooted for the Gas House Gang of the thirties, and the championship teams of the forties, sixties, and eighties -- right down to the "Cardiac Cards" of 1992 -- my best wishes on this 100th anniversary. //

DISTINGUISHED AVIATION GREATS, AIR COMMAND AND STAFF COLLEGE CLASS OF '92, AND LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, GOOD EVENING. I WISH I COULD BE THERE IN PERSON TONIGHT TO HELP COMMEMORATE THE CRITICAL AND EXCITING ROLE OF AVIATION IN OUR NATION'S HISTORY. I CONSIDER IT A GREAT HONOR TO BE SELECTED AS AN EAGLE AND TO BE ASSOCIATED WITH SUCH ILLUSTRIOUS AVIATION PIONEERS AND LEADERS FROM AROUND THE WORLD. AS A YOUNG AVENGER PILOT IN WORLD WAR II, I WOULD HAVE NEVER DREAMED I'D SOMEDAY JOIN A LIST OF AVIATION GREATS LIKE JIMMY DOOLITTLE, CURTIS LEMAY, MATTHEW RIDGEWAY AND FRANK BORMAN. THANK YOU SO VERY MUCH.

I AM SURE IT HAS BEEN AN INSPIRATIONAL WEEK FOR THE CLASS OF '92 -- A WEEK OF "LIVING HISTORY". THIS GATHERING OF EAGLES IS AN EXCELLENT WAY FOR THOSE WHO HAVE MET THE CHALLENGES OF THE PAST AND SHAPED TODAY'S WORLD TO SHARE THEIR EXPERIENCES AND

PREPARE YOU FOR THE CHALLENGES OF THE FUTURE. FOR MORE THAN A DECADE, SOME 170 EAGLES FROM 15

COUNTRIES HAVE PASSED ON TO STUDENTS HERE AT MAXWELL INVALUABLE LESSONS GAINED IN ~~BOTH WARTIME~~ AND IN

~~PEACE~~ -- FROM HELPING TO DESIGN FORCES TO BEING AT

THE VERY TIP OF THE ARROW IN COMBAT. THE KNOWLEDGE,

THE INSIGHTS AND THE INSPIRATION ~~YOU HAVE GAINED~~

~~FROM THESE AVIATION GREATS COULD NEVER BE LEARNED~~

~~FROM BOOKS OR ACADEMIC LECTURES!~~

Learned 9 TIMES OF WAR

TIMES OF PEACE

FROM A "LIVING HISTORY"

IN THE COURSE OF THEIR WEEK WITH YOU, THESE AVIATORS, SOME OF WHOM WERE ON OPPOSING SIDES, FORGE NEW AND LASTING BONDS OF FRIENDSHIP. TO THOSE OF YOU ABOUT TO GRADUATE, AS YOUR YEAR OF STUDY AT A-C-S-C DRAWS TO A CLOSE, I HOPE THAT YOU, LIKE THE EAGLES, HAVE MADE SIMILAR BONDS THAT CAN SUSTAIN AND ENRICH YOUR CAREER. FOR AS ANY VETERAN KNOWS, FRIENDS MADE IN THE MILITARY ARE FRIENDS FOR LIFE.

LEADERSHIP. I AM CONFIDENT THAT YOU WILL CONTINUE TO DISPLAY THE INTEGRITY, ENTHUSIASM AND DEDICATION NEEDED TO CARRY ON THE LEGACY OF SERVICE AND SACRIFICE THAT THE EAGLES HAVE LEFT YOU. \\ \\ THANK YOU AGAIN FOR THE HONOR, AIM HIGH, GOOD LUCK, -- AND MAY GOD BLESS THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

It should come as no surprise that Rotarians figure prominently among the Daily Points of Light I have recognized for selfless service to American communities.

Rotary International is a shining example to all the world of the values that make life worth living -- family, community, faith, and work. Please keep up your important work. During this era of change, our nation and our world need the spirit and the efforts of Rotarians more than ever. Thank you, and may God bless every one of you.

PRESIDENTIAL VIDEO: ONE TO ONE AWARDS BANQUET

I am honored to say a few words to all of you gathered together this evening to celebrate both the mission of One to One and the many individuals who, in their own ways, are changing the lives of a number of young Americans through mentoring.

Mentoring isn't just quizzing kids before a spelling test, or helping with multiplication tables. It's much more than that. Mentors provide leadership, emotional support, and friendship. At a time when it seems everyone is talking about America's problems, it is inspiring to see a group of fine volunteers, like the mentors of One to One, who are offering solutions.

Since its inception, One to One has been moving down a singular and affirmative path, successfully helping get kids who've gotten into trouble get back on track. You have a lot to be proud of, because when the next generation takes over leading this great country, they will remember your kind words and the kind hand that was offered when they needed help. In turn, they will be among those who help America to become a more caring and productive place.

All my life, I have believed that education opens the door to opportunity in America. And when the door of opportunity is flung wide open, so much good can happen. Barbara joins me in wishing you the very best. From the White House, and on behalf

bless you all.

CARDINALS

100TH ANNIVERSARY

The St. Louis Cardinals were once baseball's southern- and western-most team. Today, they are still America's Team -- with some of baseball's greatest fans and most glorious traditions. /

Think of it: Fifteen pennants / nine world championships / and all those outstanding Hall of Famers and All-Stars who've worn the Redbird uniform. /

Legends like "Country" Slaughter, Bob Gibson, Lou Brock, and Orlando Cepeda. / Household words like "Red" Schoendienst [SHANE deenst], Bill White -- and of course, "The Man" himself, Stan Musial. / Not to mention the immortal Dizzy Dean -- who often said, "It ain't braggin' if you can back it up." //

For years, Cardinal players have "backed it up." And so have people off-the-field who've helped build the Cardinal tradition -- legendary names like Branch Rickey and August Busch -- plus those millions of fans who've made the Cardinals a Midwest institution. /

To all the players, members of the Cardinals organization, and fans gathered tonight in Busch Stadium -- to all those who've rooted for the Gas House Gang of the thirties, and the championship teams of the forties, sixties, and eighties -- right down to the "Cardiac Cards" of 1992 -- my best wishes on this 100th anniversary. //

It's a special night -- looking back on a great tradition.
And yet -- ask any Cardinal fan: As good as the past 100 years have been, the best is yet to come. / God bless you, and the United States of America.
