Remarks to Religious and Ethnic Groups in Garfield, New Jersey
July 21, 1992

May I thank you, Governor Kean, for that warm welcome back. May I salute our assemblyman, Chuck Haytaian, our senate president, Don DiFrancesco, and our House candidate, Pat Roma. I'm delighted to see you all. May I ask that we pay our respects to His Beatitude, Metropolitan Theodosius, the Archbishop of Washington, the Primate of the Church; and Archbishop Peter, Bishop Paul, Father Alex, and members of the Three Saints Parish. Thank you for welcoming me and so many thousands of your neighbors in New Jersey. Good afternoon to Congresswoman Marge Roukema that's out there somewhere, and the wonderful people in this audience that represent the rich diversity of New Jersey.

Your heritage is Cuban and Vietnamese and Jewish and Christian and Irish and African and Polish and Chinese and Armenian and so many, many others, and you're Americans all. You are Americans. Your spirit enriches our country, and it fuels the flame of freedom all over the world.

These gleaming church domes remind me of the skyline of a great city. Since my last trip to Moscow, the Russian people have toppled the idols of Soviet communism. They have begun renewing the Russian nation. And just consider the signs of the times: In Red Square this Easter, the gigantic picture of Lenin was gone, and in its place was a massive icon of the Risen Lord, a powerful symbol of the new birth of freedom for believers all around the world.

Today Germany is free and united. Ukraine is free and democratic. Poland is free. And the roll call of freedom includes Hungary and Armenia, the Czech and Slovak Republic, Bulgaria, Byelarus, Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia, and many, many more. At long last, the captive nations of the old Soviet empire are free.

But our work is not finished. In Asia, in Latin America, in other regions, some nations still suffer oppression. Some people are still struggling to be free. That's why, one of the reasons, I want your support to serve 4 more years as President, to complete the job of freedom around the world. We've got to use our energy, we've got to use our experience to solidify the historic changes that have given birth to these new democracies abroad and made us secure at home.

These events benefit every American. The free world's triumph in the cold war, brought about by the steadfast efforts of America, of the American people, of her allies, gives us a chance to establish for these kids here a lasting peace. The momentous arms agreement that I reached last month with President Yeltsin, this reduction with its sweeping cuts in nuclear weapons, will make us more secure than at any time since the dawn of the nuclear age. These kids can go to sleep without worrying about nuclear war because of the changes we have brought to this country.

Little more than 2 years ago, I welcomed to the White House Poland's then—the first non-Communist prime minister since Stalin's conquest of Eastern Europe. This brave man, Tadeusz Mazowiecki, spoke some of the clearest and wisest words about the times we live in. He said, "History is accelerating." And with those words, he foretold the fall of the Soviet empire.

This wave of history, this surge of hope is not confined to Europe. The Afghan people have won back their homeland. In Angola and in other African countries, people are digging out from under the rubble of tyranny. Mark my words: During my second term as President, the probability is high, it is very high that greater freedom will come to more than a billion people in Vietnam, in North Korea, and in China.

Closer to home, we also have more victories for freedom. The Castro dictatorship is on its last legs. Here's what I envision: Within the next 4 years, I will be the first President of the United States to set foot on the soil of a free and democratic Cuba, and that's good for all of us. I am determined to keep America the leader in the struggle for world freedom.

I am every bit as determined to protect the sources of our strength right here at home in the good old U.S.A. During the next 4 years, I'll keep helping American workers and entrepreneurs carry us to new heights of achievement. I will fight for the rights of American parents and American families. We must restore respect for the American family. The family is under siege. The choices in this election are clear: On one side, the advocates of the liberal agenda; on the other side are you and I and those values of family that we share.

They want to tighten the monopoly on our kids' education. I am fighting on your side, as Tom said, for parents' rights to choose their children's schools, public, private or religious. And our "GI bill" for children gives middle- and low-income families more of the same choices of all schools that people with a lot of money already have. Two years ago, they tried to create a new bureaucracy, this one for child care. I won my fight to let parents choose their children's care, including church-based care. I will keep on fighting for that kind of choice for the American family.

They want public schools to hand out birth control pills and devices to teenaged kids. They believe it's no business of the parents and that it's strictly a matter between our children and the Government. They even encourage kids to hire lawyers and haul their parents into court. I believe kids need mothers and fathers, not Big Brother bureaucracy. The bond between the parent and the child is sacred, and it is fundamental.

The big government, liberal approach to welfare has failed. That's why, just yesterday, I enthusiastically approved New Jersey's request to try a new approach to make parents in the welfare system more responsible, to put parents back to work.

And I'm ready to fight 4 more years to protect the traditional rights of parents and families. Families are central to any civilization. More than a century ago, Dostoyevsky imagined a nightmare world, a place where an all-powerful state crushed the natural rights of individuals and families. "And if God is dead," he wrote, "then everything is permitted."

Well, looking out over this magnificent audience I can feel it. I know that your faith is alive, and family is the most important thing we have here on this Earth. And we take to heart the words of America the Beautiful, "Confirm thy soul in self-control." We know that the America we love, the America that's such a powerful beacon to the entire world will not stay strong if the culture and the Government teach our kids that anything goes.

Think about it. If we can tear down the Berlin Wall, we can build a strong economy. If we can lift that Iron Curtain, we can bring the curtain down on immorality and indifference and lawlessness. If we can help people walk free through the streets of Europe, there's no reason we cannot take back our streets right here in our neighborhoods in the United States of America.

You know, being here reminds me that next month marks the first anniversary of that attempted coup in Moscow, of those fateful days in August when Russia's democratic future was laid on the line, when world peace hung in the balance. I'm sure each one of us has indelible memories of those days. I certainly do, and I am proud that we had the courage and the leadership to stand by Russia's democrats in their hour of need. I am grateful for what Boris Yeltsin said about American leadership and making it possible for democracy to come to Russia.

You know, earlier this year, I had the privilege of hearing Slava Rostropovich recount his memories at the National Prayer Breakfast in Washington. He'd flown to Moscow at the first news of the coup, and he stood 3 days and nights with President Yeltsin and the defenders of freedom and democracy, protecting what the Russians call their White House. He told us that deep in the night the only sound was from the movement of the tank treads. And he said, "The aura of faith was almost palpable. In that moment the salvation of us all and of the future of the country came only from God."

My fellow Americans, we have the good fortune not to live in the shadow of machine guns and tanks. America will be safe so long as the United States of America stays strong, so long as we continue to lead around the world.

Let me repeat it: Barbara and I count it a great blessing that when your kids and our grandchildren go to bed at night they don't have the fear, that same kind of fear, that fear of nuclear threat that we faced until just a few months ago. This is momentous. This is important to the entire world. I am proud that our leadership brought it about.

Of course, we've got hard work ahead. We've got to keep our national security second to none. We've got to prove the pessimists wrong about America's ability to compete and to create jobs and to expand America, to expand opportunity for all. We must protect and renew our most precious resource, America's families.

Now, to meet these challenges, to lead the Nation, to fight on your side of the values we share—put party politics aside—but to fight on your share for these values, on your side, that's why I'm asking you to help me win another 4 years as President of the United States of America. I will not let you down. I will fight for the faith. I will fight for the American families. We are one nation under God, and never forget it. We can overcome any problems we face.

Thank you. And may God bless this great country, the freest, the fairest, the greatest country on the face of the Earth. Thank you all. Thank you very, very much.

Statement on New Jersey Welfare Reform

July 21, 1992

In my State of the Union Address, I pledged to help any State to reform its welfare system by making it easier to obtain waivers of Federal law and regulation. I am pleased that we have approved Federal waivers that will allow New Jersey to implement its welfare reforms. These waivers will allow New Jersey to try a new approach to helping welfare dependent families become independent.

New Jersey's approach, called "The Family Development Program," will encourage responsible behavior by parents receiving welfare. It will also offer incentives for such parents to work.

New ideas for reforming welfare abound in the States. I am pleased New Jersey will be one of the "laboratories of democracy" for welfare reform. Careful efforts to try new ideas and evaluate how well they work can help us create a better welfare system. New Jersey's efforts today will make for smarter policy tomorrow.

Message to the Congress Transmitting the Luxembourg-United States Agreement on Social Security

July 21, 1992

To the Congress of the United States:

Pursuant to section 233(e)(1) of the Social Security Act, as amended by the Social Security Amendments of 1977 (Public Law 95-216, 42 U.S.C. 433(e)(1)), I transmit herewith the Agreement between the United States of America and the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg on Social Security, which consists of two separate instruments—a principal agreement and an administrative arrangement. The agreement was signed at Luxembourg on February 12, 1992.

The United States-Luxembourg agreement is similar in objective to the social security agreements already in force with Austria, Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom. Such bilateral agreements provide for limited coordination between the United States and foreign social security systems to eliminate dual social security coverage and taxation, and to help prevent the loss of benefit protection that can occur when workers divide their careers between two countries.

I also transmit for the information of the Congress a report prepared by the Department of Health and Human Services, explaining the key points of the agreement, along with a paragraph-by-paragraph explanation of the provisions of the principal agreement and the related administrative arrangement. In addition, as required by section 233(e)(1) of the Social Security Act, a [Acknowledgments] Father Golubov and members of Three Saints parish, thank you for welcoming me and so many thousands of your New Jersey neighbors. The wonderful people in this audience represent the rich diversity of New Jersey. Your heritage is Cuban and Vietnamese, Jewish and Christian, African and Polish, Chinese and Armenian -- and so many others. You're Americans all. \\ Your spirit enriches our country and fuels the flame of freedom all over our world.

These gleaming church domes remind me of the skyline of a great city. Since my last trip to Moscow, the Russian people have toppled the idols of Soviet Communism. They've begun renewing the Russian nation. Just consider the signs of the times: In Red Square this Easter, the gigantic picture of Lenin was gone: In its place was a massive icon of the risen Lord. It was a powerful symbol of the new birth of freedom for believers around the world.

Today Germany is free and united. Ukraine is free. Poland is free. The roll call of freedom includes Hungary \ Armenia \ the Czech and Slovak Republic \ Bulgaria \ Belarus \ Lithuania \ Estonia \ Latvia \ and more. \\ At long last, the captive nations of the old Soviet Empire are free. \\

But our work is not finished. In Asia, in Latin America, in other regions, some nations still suffer oppression. Some peoples are still struggling to be free. That is why, with your support, I want to serve four more years as your President. \\

I want to use my energy and experience to solidify the historic changes that have given birth to new democracies abroad and made us more secure at home.

These events benefit every American. The Free World's triumph in the Cold War -- brought about by the steadfast efforts of America and her allies -- gives us a chance to establish a lasting peace. The momentous arms reduction agreement I signed last month with President Yeltsin -- with its sweeping cuts in nuclear weapons -- will make us more secure than at any time since the dawn of the nuclear age.

Little more than two years ago, I welcomed to the White House Poland's first non-communist prime minister since Stalin's conquest of Eastern Europe. This brave man, Tadeusz Mazowiecki, spoke some of the clearest and wisest words I have heard about the times we live in. He said: "History is accelerating."

With those words, he foretold the fall of the Soviet Empire. This wave of history, this surge of hope, is not confined to Europe. The Afghan people have won back their homeland. In Angola and in other African countries, people are digging out from under the rubble of tyranny.

And mark my words: During my second term as President, the probability is high -- it's very high -- that greater freedom will come to more than a billion people in Vietnam, in North

Korea, and in China. \\

Closer to home, we'll also have more victories for freedom. The Castro dictatorship in Cuba is on its last legs. Here's what I envision: Within the next four years, I will be the first President of the United States to set foot on the soil of a free and democratic Cuba. \\

I'm determined to keep America the leader in the struggle for world freedom. And I'm every bit as determined to protect the sources of our strength at home. During the next four years, I'll keep helping American workers and entrepreneurs carry us to new heights of achievement. And I will fight for the rights of American parents and families.

The American family is under siege. The choices in this election are clear: On one side are the advocates of the liberal agenda. On the other are you and I and the values we share.

They want to tighten the government monopoly on our kids' education. I'm fighting on your side -- for parents' rights to choose their children's schools -- public, private or religious.

Two years ago, they tried to create a new bureaucracy -- this one for child care. I won my fight to let parents choose their children's care -- including church-based child care.

They want public schools to hand out birth control pills and devices to teenage kids. They believe this is no business of parents -- that it's strictly a matter between our children and the government. They even encourage kids to hire lawyers and haul their parents into court.

I believe kids need Moms and Dads -- not Big Brother bureaucracy. The bond between parent and child is sacred; it's fundamental. The big-government liberal approach to welfare has failed -- that's why just yesterday I enthusiastically approved New Jersey's request to try a new approach to make parents in the welfare system more responsible, to put more parents back to work. And I'm ready to fight four more years to protect the traditional rights of parents and families. \ \

Families are central to any civilization. More than a century ago, Dostoyevsky imagined a nightmare world -- a place where an all-powerful state crushed the natural rights of individuals and families. "If God is dead," he wrote, "then everything is permitted."

Well, looking out over this magnificent audience, I know your faith is alive. And family is the most important thing we have here on this earth. We take to heart the words of "America the Beautiful" -- "confirm thy soul in self-control." We know that the America we love -- the America that's such a powerful beacon to the world -- will not stay strong if the culture and the government teach our kids that "anything goes."

Think about it: If we can tear down the Berlin Wall, we can build a strong economy. If we can lift the Iron Curtain, we can bring the curtain down on immorality and indifference. If we can help people walk free through the streets of Europe, there's no reason we can't take back our streets here in America.

Being here reminds me that next month marks the first anniversary of the attempted coup in Moscow, of those fateful days in August, when Russia's democratic future was on the line - when world peace hung in the balance. I'm sure each one of us has indelible memories of those days. I certainly do. I'm proud we had the courage to stand by Russia's democrats in their hour of need.

Earlier this year, I had the privilege to hear Slava Rostropovich recount his memories at the National Prayer Breakfast in Washington. Slava had flown to Moscow at first news of the coup, and he stood for three days and nights with President Yeltsin and the defenders of freedom and democracy, protecting the Russian White House.

He told us that deep in the night, the only sound was from the movement of tank treads. He said: "the aura of faith was almost palpable. That moment, and the salvation of all of us -- and of the future of the country -- came only from God."

My fellow Americans, we have the good fortune not to live in the shadow of machine guns and tanks. America will be safe so long as America stays strong. Barbara and I count it a great blessing that when your kids and our grandchildren go to bed each night, they don't have to fear the kind of nuclear threat that we faced until just a few months ago.

Still we face tests. We have hard work ahead. We must keep our national security second to none. We must prove the pessimists wrong about America's ability to compete \ to create jobs \ to expand opportunity. And we must protect and renew our most precious resource -- America's families.

To meet these challenges, to lead the nation, to fight on your side for the values we share: That's why I'm asking your help to win another term as President. \\

Thank you, and may God bless the freest, greatest, most generous country on earth -- the United States of America.

MEMORANDUM FOR DAN MCGROARTY

FROM: RONALD C. KAUFMAN RC
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT
FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: B/Q RALLY - GARFIELD, N.J.

These are reactions to the draft version staffed on 7/17/92:

1) The reference to Cuba is a good one. This is an important issue in the state.

2) The second reference to Russia on pages four to five is not necessary. The large majority of the audience will be from countries representing eastern Europe and will not welcome more talk of Russia.

Rather, I suggest saying that being at a Russian Orthodox church reminds me that religious freedom now exists, not only in Russia, but in a united Germany, Poland and throughout Eastern Europe.

3) We need a larger reference to the state of New Jersey. As you know, New Jersey is a largely ethnic state. The speech seems to be struck on the fact that the President is at a Russian Church, when in fact he is in the heart of ethnic New Jersey.

For example, the Speaker of the NJ Assembly is Armenian (Chuck Haytaian) and the Senate President is Italian (Don DiFrancesco).

I suggest the President say that he's come to Garfield because it represents New Jersey diversity and values. The President should make reference to the fact that most of these hard-working and middle-class families share his view of family values.

4) The reference to China on pages two and three may be unnecessary. For your information, very few members of the audience will be Chinese.

Dan/Joe --

Nick and I spoke about this. Much of the new material was good (not the Czech and Slovak stuff, which is extremely sensitive at the moment; Havel delayed his resignation so he could accept Adrian Basora's credentials as US Ambassador).

NSC wants to give the President and his leadership more credit and more play throughout the speech. I think this (which Nick Burns approves for NSC) splits the division as neatly as possible.

I'd be happy to discuss further if you like.

Little more than two years ago, I welcomed to the White House Poland's first non-communist prime minister since Stalin's conquest of Eastern Europe. This brave man, Tadeusz Mazowiecki, spoke some of the clearest and wisest words I have heard about the times we live in. He said: "History is accelerating."

With those words, he foretold the fall of the Soviet Empire. This wave of history, this surge of hope, is not confined to Europe. The Afghan people have won back their homeland. In Angola and in other African countries, people are digging out from under the rubble of tyranny.

And mark my words: During my second term as President, the probability is high -- it's very high -- that greater freedom will come to more than a billion people in Vietnam, in North Korea, and in China. \\

→ [If our leadership is wise, we have the chance to create a new world of hope for our children. [NSC wants to make the point; maybe after # 3]]

Closer to home, we'll also have more victories for freedom. The Castro dictatorship in Cuba is on its last legs. Here's what I envision: Within the next four years, I will be the first President of the United States to set foot on the soil of a free and democratic Cuba. \\

I'm determined to keep America the leader in the struggle for world freedom. ~~*~~ And I'm every bit as determined to protect the sources of our strength at home. During the next four years, I'll keep helping American workers and entrepreneurs carry us to new heights of achievement. And I will fight for the rights of American parents and families.

The American family is under siege. The choices in this election are clear: On one side are the advocates of the liberal agenda. On the other are you and I and the values we share.

They want to tighten the government monopoly on our kids' education. I'm fighting on your side -- for parents' rights to choose their children's schools -- public, private or religious.

Two years ago, they tried to create a new bureaucracy -- this one for child care. I won my fight to let parents choose their children's care -- including church-based child care.

They want public schools to hand out birth control pills and devices to teenage kids. They believe this is no business of parents -- that it's strictly a matter between our children and the government. They even encourage kids to hire lawyers and haul their parents into court.

I believe kids need Moms and Dads -- not Big Brother bureaucracy. The bond between parent and child is sacred; it's fundamental. The big-government liberal approach to welfare has failed -- that's why just yesterday I enthusiastically approved New Jersey's request to try a new approach to make parents in the welfare system more responsible, to put more parents back to work. And I'm ready to fight four more years to protect the traditional rights of parents and families. \\\

Families are central to any civilization. More than a century ago, Dostoyevsky imagined a nightmare world -- a place where an all-powerful state crushed the natural rights of individuals and families. "If God is dead," he wrote, "then everything is permitted."

Well, looking out over this magnificent audience, I know your faith is alive. And family is the most important thing we have here on this earth. We take to heart the words of "America the Beautiful" -- "confirm thy soul in self-control." We know that the America we love -- the America that's such a powerful beacon to the world -- will not stay strong if the culture and the government teach our kids that "anything goes."

Think about it: If we can tear down the Berlin Wall, we can build a strong economy. If we can lift the Iron Curtain, we can bring the curtain down on immorality and indifference. If we can help people walk free through the streets of Europe, there's no reason we can't take back our streets here in America.

Being here reminds me that next month marks the first anniversary of the attempted coup in Moscow, of those fateful days in August, when ~~freedom's~~ future was on the line -- when world peace hung in the balance. I'm sure each one of us has indelible memories of those days. I certainly do. I'm proud we had the courage to stand by Russia's democrats in their hour of need. ↳ foresight and

Earlier this year, I had the privilege to hear Slava Rostropovich recount his memories at the National Prayer Breakfast in Washington. Slava had flown to Moscow at first news of the coup, and he stood for three days and nights with President Yeltsin and the defenders of freedom and democracy, protecting the Russian White House.

He told us that deep in the night, the only sound was from the movement of tank treads. He said: "the aura of faith was almost palpable. That moment, and the salvation of all of us -- and of the future of the country -- came only from God."

My fellow Americans, we have the good fortune not to live in the shadow of machine guns and tanks. Barbara and I count it a great blessing that when your kids and our grandchildren go to bed each night, they don't have to fear the kind of nuclear threat that we faced until just a few months ago.

Still we face tests. We have hard work ahead. We must keep our national security second to none. We must prove the pessimists wrong about America's ability to compete \ to create jobs \ to expand opportunity. And we must protect and renew our most precious resource -- America's families.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: BUSH-QUAYLE RALLY
THREE SAINTS RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH
GARFIELD, NEW JERSEY
TUESDAY, JULY 21, 1992
2:30 p.m.

[Acknowledgments] Father Golubov and members of Three Saints parish, thank you for welcoming me and so many thousands of your New Jersey neighbors. You represent a rich array of heritage: Russian and Cuban, Jewish and Christian, African and Polish, Chinese and Ukrainian, and so many others. You're Americans all. \\ Your spirit enriches our country and fuels the flame of freedom all over our world.

These gleaming church domes remind me of the skyline of a great city ^{in Russia.} Since my last trip to Moscow, the Russian people have toppled ^(Gray) ~~the idols of~~ Soviet Communism. They've begun renewing the Russian nation. ~~Just consider the signs of the~~ ^(Gray) ~~times:~~ In Red Square this Easter, the gigantic picture of Lenin was gone: In its place was a massive icon of the risen Lord.

~~[Soon I'll see the changes with my own eyes. Later this year I'll make my first state visit to a free and democratic Russia.] \\~~

Yes, Russia once again is free to be Russia. Ukraine is free to be Ukraine, ^{Armenia to be Armenia} Poland to be Poland. The roll call of freedom now includes Hungary \ the Czech and Slovak Republics \ Bulgaria \ Lithuania \ Estonia \ Latvia \ and still more. \\

But our work is not finished. That is why, with your support, I want to serve four more years as your President. \\

I want to use my energy and experience to consolidate the

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

July XX, 1992

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I am pleased that Federal waivers required to implement New Jersey's welfare reform have been approved. These waivers will allow New Jersey to try a new approach to moving families from dependence on welfare to independence.

New Jersey's approach, called "The Family Development Program," will encourage responsible behavior by parents receiving welfare. It will also offer incentives for such parents to work.

New ideas for reforming welfare abound in the states. I am pleased New Jersey will add to the growing effort at welfare reform being done in the states, the "laboratories of democracy." Without careful efforts to try new ideas and evaluate how well they work, we will have no better a welfare system in the future than we have today. New Jersey's efforts today will make for smarter policy tomorrow.

I want to use my energy and experience to consolidate the

We need to speak ~~more~~ of change and how we are the aspects for change (Holiday)

Presidential Remarks
Bush-Quayle Rally
Provo, Utah
18 July 1992
Draft

2 JUL 16 P3:26

Good morning everybody. It's great to be out West ... and to visit this outstanding university ... and to be here where the Cougars have devoured so many victims.

"The West is where we all go someday" ... a famous writer once wrote. "It's where we go when we hear there is 'gold in them thar hills.' Where we go to grow with the country. Where we chase our young dreams ... or spend our old age."

And today I can add ... with complete authority ... that the West also isn't all that bad a place to be ... when your personality ^(Petersen) ~~is~~ ^{fundamental beliefs} ~~is~~ ^(Smith) is being pummelled ... your character questioned ... and your administration verbally assassinated ... 2,000 miles away (Smith)

I spent the past couple days away from a television set ... up in Wyoming trout fishing with Secretary of State Jim Baker ... and our sons, Jamie and Jeb.

But ^(PORTER) ~~I am aware that~~ something else was going on in America this week. Something ~~real~~ ^(PORTER) important.

The tone of this is overtaken by the Revof went's (Smith)

This is the week when all across America ... crowds of panting, sweating people overran their neighborhood video stores. From Tallahassee to Tempe ... Americans turned on their TV and decided they'd rather rent "Action Jackson" than listen to: Well, never mind.

Now ... please don't get the idea that this is some kind of partisan attack. Stop by Rich's Video down on Freedom Boulevard ... and I'm sure Rich'll tell it to you straight. Sales aren't all that bad during the Republican Convention either.

* GRAY SAID TO USE "NEUTRAL/LOCAL" TERM TO AVOID COMMERCIAL ENDORSEMENT OF RICH'S VIDEO.

I know you have a lot on your minds beside politics. And I hate to poison the air with partisan talk. But let me respond just a little to ~~what went on~~ ^{SOME OF THE ASSERTIONS MADE (PORTER)} in Manhattan.

If you're one of those who prefer video renting to politicians venting ... I'll put it simple. You can sum up all you need to know about the Manhattan meeting with the title of a 1965 Cliff Robertson comedy: "Masquerade."

*Porter
"this doesn't work"*

OR THE ANDREW LLOYD WEBER SONG "MASQUERADE" IS MORE CURRENT REFERENCE (SMITH)

From what I heard about the convention ... I wonder if the Democrats are donning a disguise.

They're saying the right things. Pride in America's strength. Support for entrepreneurs. Respect for law and order.

In fact ... if it weren't for the $9,000 stuffed ponies at the toy store on the corner ... and the bullet proof vests being sold on street corners ... you could close your eyes and think they were at this "home on the range" in Provo ... not the "home of the hockey Rangers" in New York City.

But you know ... I couldn't help but wonder ... do they really mean what they say? Or is this new costume something the Democrats plan on discarding ... maybe sometime right after Halloween?

The Democrats (PORTER)

Think about it. If ~~they~~ celebrate the end of the Cold War ... how come they never supported the strength that won it?

SUPPORT (PORTER) ✓ Small (Petersmyer)

If they claim to ~~be buddies~~ with business people ... how come they want to load 'em down with new taxes?

If they are really the party of new ideas and open ears ... why not allow just one speaker to talk about the rights of the unborn?

And if they start their convention with a prayer ... how come you can read all 10,000 words in their party platform ... and never run across three simple letters: G-O-D.

Now ... don't take my word that the Democrats may not be what they appear to be. I'm a little biased.

Listen instead ... to a party elder. A guy named McGovern. First name George. He called this year's Democratic Party ... "a Trojan Horse."

(Holiday)

he said not the party
the ticket (Holiday)

He said ... and I quote ... "they're much more liberal underneath ... and will prove it when they're elected."

I know I've never said this publicly. But that McGovern. He's an incredibly insightful man!

As compared to who? (Smith)

~~Now ... let me be straight with you.~~ This election isn't going to be decided on what we say about the other side ... or what they say about us ... for that matter.

What matters ... is what we have to offer the American people.

My view of America is a little different than what you may have heard this week. ~~I'd like to explain it.~~ (Smith)

I know at BYU you like to say ... that the world is your campus. Let me say ... that campus has been through incredible change in four years. Because of our leadership ... because of your sacrifice and commitment ... millions of people breathe free today.

That poses challenges ... and opportunities.

The question is this ... can we compete ... now that so many other nations are playing our game?

We need to understand something. If we can win this competition ... and we will ... to the victors will go bigger spoils than ever before in human history.

Today ... far more people are eager for the fruit of our labors. That means more jobs ... more prosperity for our kids ... and their kids.

Now ... that's the opportunity I see today. But how do we take advantage of it?

Our first priority ... is to create and protect jobs.

the news from (Porter)

Listening to Madison Square Garden this week ... you probably got the impression that our economy was second rate ... second class.

But keep in mind a few facts.

^(Porter)
We are ~~still~~ the world's largest and most vibrant economy.
Second to no one.

We've tamed inflation ... the last time interest rates stayed this low ... the Brady Bunch hadn't started re-runs.

Our factories produce a higher percentage of the world's manufactured goods than we did 20 years ago.

What a Japanese worker can produce in five days ... an American can make in four.

Today ... we have emerged as the world's export champion.

Last year ... the Japanese government ^{Completed a study of (Porter)} asked who leads the world in 143 critical technology industries. Japanese firms led in 33.
The United States, in 43. ^{It found that (Porter)}
^{is the leader (Porter)}

And I wouldn't be suprised to learn ... if that report was put together on WordPerfect software ... made right here in Provo.

GRAY: DELETE TO AVOID EXPLICIT COMMERCIAL ENDORSEMENT

Our economy is growing today. But not fast enough. OUR WORK IS NOT FINISHED. THE MISSION IS NOT COMPLETED. (SMITH)

GEN. SCONCROFT SAYS DELETE GRAPH: WHILE TOTAL U.S. PRODUCTIVITY (INCLUDING AGRICULTURE) IS HIGHER, MANUFACTURING PRODUCTIVITY IS LOWER. THE STATEMENT APPEARS TO RELATE TO MANUFACTURING PRODUCTIVITY AND THEREFORE IS MISLEADING. IT SHOULD BE DELETED.

Too many people have worked for a company for twenty years ... only to fear that the next mail run will bring a pink slip. And many of you young people ^(Porter) are working your way through Brigham Young ... you deserve to be able to find a job on graduation day.

I used to run a business ... meet a payroll. I learned the only way that government can create jobs ... is to support the people who create jobs.

This is the creed Governor Norm Bangerter follows. He understands that the only surefire way to give people unlimited ~~dreams~~ ... is by limiting the size of government.
opportunities (Porter)

We're going to bring some of Norm's attitude to Washington.

Like your Governor ... we need a line-item veto ... ^{we're (Holickay)} and I'm going to get it.

Like your Governor ... we need a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution ... ^{we're (Holickay)} and I'm going to get it.

And despite 31 vetoes in three years ... we need even more discipline on the Potomac.

^(Petersmeyer also said this)
With the help of Senator Jake Garn and Senator Orrin Hatch ... a new Congressman named Richard Harrington ... we're going to treat

Garn is retiring this year - how can he help? [Cline/IGA] wasteful government spending the way Karl Malone will treat a jump shot in Barcelona. We're going to swat it back into the front row!

Here's my second priority. A moral revolution in America.

Americans need to understand something you all know very well.

"No success can compensate for failure in the home."

David O. McKay said those words many years ago ... and they harken back to a different age in America.

Today we can fly from Paris to New York and arrive earlier than we left ... but do we too often leave behind the difference between right and wrong?

We can explore a world beyond the stars ... but do we too often ignore a neighbor down the street?

We can turn natural ingredients into miracle medicines ... but why do we feel the need to turn every argument into a lawsuit?

America won't get better until we start suing each other less ... and serving each other more.

Moral Revival

We learn these values in our living rooms and around our kitchen tables. But while families help keep our lives together ... government can help keep our families together.

(Porter) whether they are public, private, or religious
By giving parents the freedom to choose their kid's schools. By reforming welfare ... so that we reward work and families can stick together ... not fall apart.

Only then ... can our nation find its way back to our foundation.

My third priority. Quite simple. Restore respect for the law.

Elderly women in this country ... watch the Berlin Wall fall on television ... but are afraid to walk to their neighborhood grocery store.

There are kids in our cities ... who hear of the Russians reducing nuclear weapons ... but then have to walk through a metal detector at school every morning.

What do you say to these Americans? You say enough is enough.

~~Let's put an end to the lawlessness. Let's put an end to the~~
I'M FIGHTING TO PUT AN END TO LAWLESSNESS. (SMITH) illegal behavior.

These are my principles ... the things in which I believe. I hope you agree ... because they are the key to our future.

Those of you in the BYU summer school program ... are here to be prepared to "go forth to serve." But you might be wondering where America is going forth.

The question on your minds ... is one that's been asked for generations. Can I do better than my mom and dad? Will the dream still be alive for me and my kids. (?)

Well ... I've been around for a couple years. If you'll excuse some advice ~~from an elder~~ ... I really do believe America's best days are ahead.

(Porter)
↳ "Elder" is a title used by Mormon church leaders ~~and~~ and is probably inappropriate here. (Porter)

Yes ... we face challenges today ... but I've seen this nation climb much taller mountains.

If we can topple the Berlin Wall ... we ~~can~~ ^{will (Smith)} build a strong economy. If we can lift the iron curtain ... we ~~can~~ ^{will (Smith)} bring the curtain down on immorality and indifference. If we can help people walk free in Eastern Europe ... we ~~can~~ ^{will (Smith)} take back the streets of America.

This is our mission. Together we'll accomplish it.

(Smith)

God bless you and God bless America.
