Presidential Remarks: Norcross Whistle Stop
Norcross, Georgia
October 20, 1992
12:25 p.m.

Thank you all for this warm Georgia welcome.

I want to salute your great Congressman, Newt Gingrich. And a special salute to the students, staff and faculty of Norcross High.

Let me just say -- it's good to be in Georgia, the land of the free -- and the home of the Braves.//

You know, there is an old tradition in politics. It says that when the American League team wins the World Series -- the Republican candidate wins the Presidency. But you know, I'm so confident we're going to win this thing -- that I'm cheering for the Braves anyway.//

Because believe me, baseball is exactly like politics. So forget the polls. Ignore the know-it-alls in the media. On election day we'll show America -- it ain't over till Cabrera (Cah-BRARE-ah) swings.//

Anyone see the debate last night? We laid out the choice before the American people -- a vast difference in experience, a vast difference in philosophy, a vast difference in character.

Bill Clinton says he wants to do for America what he has done for Arkansas. And that's exactly what worries me.

Let me just give you a few facts about Bill Clinton's twelve years in office, and what he did to the good people of Arkansas.

Today, Arkansas is 50th in quality of environmental initiatives, next to last in students with high school diplomas, 45th in overall well-being of children. Under Bill Clinton -- growth in income, jobs and wages all lagged the nation. In the Clinton years -- Arkansas' economy had a simple motto -- "from here to the curb is up." I say -- America deserves better.//

Last night, Ross Perot said that just because you've run a corner grocery, doesn't mean you should try to run WalMart. I agree -- and I'd go even a step further. Just because you managed a last-place Little League team -- doesn't mean you're ready to take over the Atlanta Braves.//

For all our challenges, America is still the world's beacon. And what really scares me about Governor Clinton -- is not just his inexperience, but the ideas he has to offer America.

Governor Clinton says the economy is the number one issue - - and I agree. And Americans face a choice between two vastly different strategies -- to win the global economic competition.

Governor Clinton and his friends in the media want you to believe that the U.S. economy is second-rate.

They won't tell you that we have that inflation is down and the family budget goes further -- that interest rates are the lowest in 30 years -- saving the average family $1,500 a year in mortgage payments. Let's hear Dan Rather ruminate about that tonight.//

We are in the midst of a global slowdown, but our growth is stronger than Germany and Japan, our standard of living is the highest in the world, and our workers are the most productive. Let's see Peter Jennings jawbone those facts tonight.//

And the media won't remind you what happened the last time we put a big-spending Congress together with a big-spending Democratic President. How skyrocketing inflation wiped out family budgets. How 20 percent interest rates made the average seem like an impossibility. Let's see Tom Brokaw break that down for you this evening.

No, the media won't tell you the truth, because they agree with Governor Clinton -- the solution to all our problems is to send more of your money to Washington. They believe that the way to increase jobs -- is to increase government. I say -- there must be a better way.

Over the past four years -- I've stood up to the big spenders in Congress, because somebody has to protect the American taxpayer. But now listen to what Teddy Kennedy says -- and I quote -- "with a stroke of a pen, President Clinton will achieve what President Bush has blocked for four years." When you hear those words -- you ought to hold on to your wallet and nail your pocketbook to the floor.//

Here are the facts. The big-spenders in Congress have already introduced $800 billion in new spending programs -- awaiting the next President. And in this campaign, Governor

Clinton already proposes $150 billion dollars in new taxes -- plus at least $220 billion in new spending. Just to start.

Who is going to pay the bill? Well, last night Bill Clinton admitted that his plan may come up short. He still says he'll raise all his money from the rich -- those over $200,000. But his comes up $77 billion dollars short.

You've of the $64,000 question, well, here's the $77 billion answer. Governor Clinton is going to take it out of the hide of the middle-class. Governor Clinton will go after all the cab drivers and the nurses and the teachers. And I say -- the middle class already pays enough.//

I will work with the new Congress -- to approve new incentives for home ownership -- to get the real estate industry moving. New incentives for small business -- to create new jobs.

Bill Clinton's trickle-down government philosophy will cost America almost 3 million jobs. My philosophy of incentives and investment -- will get this economy moving -- and create almost a million new jobs.//

That's the short-term -- but this election is also about the long-term -- how we will compete in the global economy.

I'm proud that on my watch, exports have risen 40 percent -- And today, more of the goods sold in the world are labelled -- "Made In The USA." If we want the sons and daughters of steelworkers to earn good wages, we must fight for free and fair trade.//

I'm proud that my administration has negotiated the North American Free Trade Treaty -- creating 175,000 American jobs.

Governor Clinton says he is for free and fair trade -- "but." I will fight to create new jobs for American workers -- no ifs, ands or buts.//

As compete in a global economy, two-thirds of our jobs will be created by small business. Small businessmen and women need relief -- from taxation, regulation and litigation.

Today, Americans spend almost $200 billion a year on direct costs to lawyers. Japan doesn't spend this, neither does Germany. Governor Clinton doesn't think this is a problem, I want to reform the system.

As a nation, we must sue each other less -- and care for each other more.//

As we promote and encourage business, we will create new jobs -- with higher wages. But these jobs will require new skills -- so we change our system of education.

I said I would be the Education President -- and I delivered. Never before has America had national education goals -- today we do. Never before have communities pulled together to literally reinvent our schools -- today they are.

Governor Clinton says he wants parents to choose their kids schools -- but he doesn't want to offend the teacher's unions. Wealthy parents can choose their kids schools, why can't every parent? I will fight to give every parent the right to choose their best school for their kids -- public, private or religious.//

Americans need economic security -- that means better health care.

I have a plan -- investment in prevention -- lower costs for small business -- malpractice reform -- and credits and vouchers so that you can not only get health care -- you can afford it.//

Governor Clinton has a new plan every day of the week. First he wants to tax small business to pay for health care. Then he was doesn't. Then he does. He has more stories -- than Dr. Zeuss.

Step number five of my agenda -- is to take back the streets of America. Governor Clinton talks tough, but in Arkansas, the average criminal serves just 20 percent of his sentence -- before he's back out on the street. Federal inmates serve 85 percent of our sentences. I don't want to turn our prisons into a drive through window for felons.

Ask the police of Little Rock, they know that if Bill Clinton is tough on crime -- Barney Fife is "Conan the Barbarian." They've endorsed me to be President of the United States.

The last part of my agenda -- is to cut the size of government -- because it's too big, and spends too much of your money.

Governor Clinton says that raising taxes will reduce the deficit -- and I say he is dead wrong. If you give Congress more money, they will spend it.

I'm fighting for a balanced budget amendment -- and a line-item veto -- and a check-off on your tax return, so that if Congress won't cut spending -- you can do it for them.//

Governor Clinton is afraid to stand up to the kingpins of Congress -- and endorse term limits. I say it's time to limit the terms of members of Congress -- and give government back to the people.//

Now I must tell you -- Governor Clinton wasn't always against term limits. Once upon a time he was for them. Once upon a time he said he was never drafted -- then he said he was. Once upon a time he was in favor of right to work laws -- now he wants to repeal them. For it. Against it. For it. Against it.

Governor Clinton has a pattern over his career -- first on one side, then on the other. But in the Oval Office, there's no such thing as both sides. You have to take a stand.

Governor Clinton says he doesn't care about the character of the President -- he's interested in the character of the Presidency.

I say -- you can't separate the character of the Presidency -- from the character of the President.//

You cannot lead the American people -- by misleading them.//

8

People all around the world judge America by the character of the President -- when they decide if America can be counted on to keep its word.

I hesitate to think how the world will judge us -- if we have a President with all the conviction of a weathervane.

Our world is smaller -- the next crises around the corner. And leadership abroad -- translates into jobs -- right here at home.

If his pattern of failure in Arkansas is any indication -- Bill Clinton is not ready for the job. If his pattern of deception is any guide, Bill Clinton is not right for the job.

Only one leader in the race has led in a time of crisis -- has demonstrated the integrity, the character, the maturity, the ideas -- to lead America and the world.

I need your support, I ask for your vote. God bless the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NORCROSS WHISTLE STOP
NORCROSS, GEORGIA
OCTOBER 20, 1992
12:00 noon

Thank you all for this warm Georgia welcome.

[Acknowledgements.] I want to salute your great Congressman, and his wife, Marianne.
Newt Gingrich, And finally, a special hello to the students, staff and faculty of Norcross High.

If you want to know why I'm here today -- why I'm bringing this campaign to the people -- the name of this train says it all. We call it the Spirit of America -- and it's named for the kind of small-town spirit that makes Norcross such a special place to live and raise a family. //

Two weeks from now, you will make a choice that will shape how you live here in Norcross -- how America leads in the world.
This election -- like every election -- is a referendum on the future. You face a real choice -- between two different candidates, two different directions to take this country.

<sup>error</sup>
Gov Clinton seems to have a pretty strong cheerleading section in the national media. For weeks now, you've been hearing on the news that this election is all over -- that the vote you cast November 3rd is just a formality. You know the story: They're telling you it's bottom of the ninth, two out -- so you might as well just flip off the set. //

I think you know down here in Braves' country -- that's just when the game gets interesting. //

You know that old saying, "It ain't over<sup>c</sup> til the fat lady sings?" Well, here's my updated Atlanta version: "It ain't over<sup>c</sup> til <sup>Cabrera</sup> ~~Cabrerra~~ swings." //

I know you get alot of free advice, expert opinion about what matters in this election -- what issues you care about -- what issues are off-limits. I say, let the voters speak for themselves.

Governor Clinton says this this election is about the economy. So here's my challenge: Put our ideas side by side.
Look at his economic plan, then look at my Agenda for American Renewal. I believe with all my heart that you'll decide <sup>my</sup> ~~our~~ Agenda is the right way to create jobs and prosperity <sup>for</sup> ~~and~~ our kids -- right for economic growth -- right for America.

Yes, we've been through tough times. But you can't solve a problem unless you look at it honestly.

Governor Clinton tells you that the American economy is flat on its back -- that we face what our grandparents faced in the Great Depression. And his cheerleading squad in the national media echoes every word of his gloom-and-doom message.

But here's the fact: they aren't telling you the truth.

They don't tell you that there's been a slowdown world-wide
-- and America has come through better than our economic competitors <sup>because of strong leadership.</sup>

They don't tell you that <sup>earlier this year</sup> ~~for the last three months~~ -- <sup>Japan's</sup> ~~the~~ <sup>economy stagnated, and Germany's economy</sup> ~~economies in Germany and Japan~~ actually got smaller -- they <sup>actually contracted.</sup>

While our economy grew.

They don't tell you that American workers are the most productive in the world. They don't tell you that we have the lowest interest rates, the lowest inflation rates in <sup>a generation</sup> ~~30 years~~ -- and <sup>interest</sup> ~~together~~ those lower rates save the average family <sup>up to</sup> ~~more than~~ <sup>$1,500</sup> ~~$2,000~~ a year in mortgage payments.

JD Foster
CEA
+ in Agenda

Governor Clinton and his friends in the media don't tell you that almost one million more Americans are employed than ten months ago. They don't tell you that our industries are stronger and more competitive than four years ago.

For all the pain in America today, the Europeans would swap places with us in a minute. We have kept our economy afloat while most other <sup>nations</sup> ~~economies~~ are drowning. I am proud of that leadership.

Now, there's a reason Governor Clinton won't tell you the truth. If he can convince that you the economy is on its deathbed -- maybe he can convince you to <sup>take his medicine</sup> ~~go for his prescription~~ of bigger government and higher taxes.

Look at what Governor Clinton has planned. # He says he's a new kind of Democrat -- but his economic ideas are the same old liberal game of bigger government and higher taxes. But the American people will pay more than higher taxes -- they will pay with their jobs.

A new payroll tax, new taxes on business, new taxes on investment, more regulations, gutting the defense budget -- add it up and Governor Clinton's economic plan will cost Americans more than 2 million jobs.

That's the most basic difference between us: Governor Clinton wants higher taxes so much, he's willing to destroy jobs in the process. My Agenda for American Renewal <sup>will</sup> ~~wants to~~ create jobs -- by cutting your taxes.

With the new Congress in January, we <sup>will</sup> ~~can~~ get to work on a short-term agenda to spur economic growth. We'll pass our new agreement to open Mexican markets to American products -- give first-time homebuyers a $5,000 tax credit to buy that first home -- cut taxes on investment to create jobs -- and give more Americans the chance to use their IRA savings accounts to buy a new home, or send their kids to school.

Add that up -- and our short-term growth agenda will <sup>jump</sup>start this economy and create more than <sup>set</sup> ~~one~~ million new jobs.

But we won't stop there. My Agenda for American Renewal looks beyond this year, beyond the next four years -- to prepare America for the next century -- to compete in the new economy and win.

That's what my Agenda for American Renewal is all about: Taking the greatest country in the world and making it stronger, more secure than ever.

I want to win this election because I know my Agenda is right for America. Here's what I'm fighting for.

I want to open ~~foreign~~ markets -- so we can sell American products in every corner of the world. In the next decade, the jobs with the highest wages, the best careers, are going to be tied to the world economy.

It's fine that <sup>Georgian</sup> ~~the~~ <sup>textiles, auto parts, and soybeans</sup> [products] from Georgia are sold in Detroit and Boston and Los Angeles. But that's not good enough. I want to sell those ~~in~~ <sup>products</sup> in Moscow and Mexico City and Yokohama.

When it comes to opening markets, I won't waffle, I won't fudge. I want the best jobs to be right here in the USA. Because I know something you know: ~~if you~~ give American workers a fair shake, and they can <sup>out</sup>work, <sup>out</sup>think, <sup>out</sup>compete <sup>anywhere</sup> ~~anywhere~~ in the world.

And we have to make sure we stay that way.

That means we have to give our kids the finest schools in the world. Our kids deserve the best, and I want to make sure they get it.

Competition made America great, and competition can make our schools great. That's why I want to give all parents -- not just the wealthy -- give all parents the right to choose the best schools for their kids -- whether it's the public school down the street or the Baptist school across town.

But the best schools won't help our kids if ~~we~~ they can't find good jobs when they graduate. And the way Americans have always created jobs is through small business<sup>es</sup>. They're the backbone of our economy. But ~~they're~~ <sup>small businesses are</sup> being strangled by high taxes, arrogant ~~government~~ regulators and ambulance-chasing lawyers.

STET

That's why my Agenda will give small businesses relief from taxation, regulation, and ~~yes~~ litigation. We'd be a lot better off if we had fewer lawyers in sharkskin suits and a lot more small businessmen and women creating jobs.

As a nation we must sue each other less and care for each other more.

That's the next part of our Agenda for American Renewal -- caring for each other, reaching out to each other -- so that no one is left behind. We need the talents of every American for the global economic competition.

That means letting people walk ~~through~~ their neighborhoods without fear -- ~~it means~~ taking back our streets from the thugs and criminals. And that's why I've appointed strong judges -- who have ~~no~~ respect for the criminal and a lot more concern for the criminal's victims. And that's the kind of judges I'll appoint for the next four years.

Here's the last part of my Agenda: getting government off your back and out of your pocketbooks.

The fact is: government is too big and it spends too much.

That's why I'm fighting for a line-item veto and a balanced budget amendment. (~~explain these in a little more detail, please, for the audience~~)

And that's why I want you to have the power to designate ~~10~~ ten percent of your tax dollars to cutting the federal deficit. I say if Congress won't help me cut the deficit -- then give the American people the power, and they'll do it for you.

And that's why I've proposed that we cut taxes across the board.

That's my Agenda for American Renewal. It promises an America where "Made in the USA" is read in every marketplace of the world; where our kids go to the finest schools in the world; where the government knows its place, and you keep more of your paycheck, not less.

Whatever my opponent and his friends in the media may say, America is still the envy of the world. But America's not great because its government is great -- America is great because its people are good. //

Let me end today with a story -- a story about a family many of you know -- <sup>Carl</sup> Charles Johnson, his wife Sherry and their two daughters. They run the pharmacy here in town -- a family business since 1885.

For the Johnsons, Norcross isn't just the place they run their business -- it's home. And the people who come through their door aren't just customers -- they're neighbors, friends, family.

You saw that during Desert Storm, when <sup>Carl</sup> Charles Johnson realized one day he could send messages out to the ~~submarine~~ Gulf using his pharmacy computer. So each night, after he closed up shop, <sup>Carl</sup> Charles sat down at his computer, <sup>and</sup> he spent hours typing out people's letters -- and sending them on to their loved ones.

And half a world away, <sup>Carl</sup> Charles Johnson helped bring a little bit of home to our proud sons and daughters of Desert Storm.

Now, <sup>Carl</sup> Charles Johnson may say what he did was a small thing -- I say: small things carry big truths. It's the small things that show us the spirit of America. //

Yes, our world is changing. /

Yes we face new challenges. /

But as I look out at you today, I know: there is no change I can think of -- no challenge we face -- that is bigger than America's heart or brighter than our dreams. /

America is ready. And so am I. //

Barbara and I thank you for this warm Georgia welcome. And may God bless this great country, the United States of America.

MEMORANDUM FOR CHRISTINA MARTIN

FROM: J. BUNTON

SUBJECT: FACTS AND ACKS FOR GAINESVILLE AND BURLINGTON

GAINESVILLE:

FACT CHANGES: p. 4 -- 4th graph, "Not far from here is your veterans' memorial -- the Eternal Flame". (It's not a statue.)

p. 5, 2nd graph -- "And I'm glad to say your Chamber of Commerce has endorsed our America 2000 education plan." (Chamber endorsed plan -- but Clifton McDuffie at the Chamber said we should not say the chamber endorsed singularly the choice component of the plan. Be safe he said and mention only the plan.)

BURLINGTON:

ACKS: POTUS INTRO - Sen. Helms
11 high school bands.

also -> Newton Hardware? Giliam and Sons Farm and Garden Supplies for helping out with the visit.
FACT CHANGES: p. 1; 2nd graph: the place near where more than 220 years ago, a group opposed to corruption and unfair taxation fought the Battle of Alamance." (They didn't win).

P. 1, 4th graph -- delete Spartanburg.

P. 2, 1 graph -- This morning in Gastonia (not Spartanburg) (The lead said these businesses are building the staying and closing down for day - using parking lot etc.)

P. 4, 5th graph -- Marvin Aldridge was in the first tank in the 11th Armored Division to cross the Rhine River...

P. 4, 6th graph -- That's why North Carolina sent 75,000 to the Persian Gulf... more than any other state in the Nation.

P. 5, 6th graph -- Burlington Industries (not textiles), exporting goods for nearly 70 years (they were founded in 1923 - however the guy at Burlington could not confirm that they've been exporting since day one -- he went on to say he didn't know POTUS was visiting and that "exports is a small portion of total sales".)

Huge banner POTUS right reads: Bill you're just blowin' smoke!
// after POTUS says: We're going to blow the whistle on Bill" the trains will blow their whistles -- people in audience will blow whistles and air horns.

GASTONIA COLOR INSERTS FOR SPEECH

Page 1, 3rd graph: Take Gastonia mayor mention out. He is a Democrat and "friendly," but he hasn't endorsed us. Advance isn't sure yet what his status is or whether he'll be at the event. Mayor Joe Lawling (a Republican) will be there. He is the mayor from Ranlo -- which is where POTUS will be. The stage where he speaks is actually about 20 feet from the border of Gastonia.

Page 1, graph 2: How they get the jockeys to stay on those fish -- I'll never know. // (plural)

Page 5, 1rst graph: "It's fine that textiles, auto parts and apparel from North Carolina are sold in Detroit and Boston and Los Angeles. But that's not good enough. I want to sell those products in Moscow and Mexico City and Yokohama."

Last page: The "Whatever my opponent and his friends . . ." graph is repeated. I'd delete the first reference.

We are not doing a Gastonia and new American schools insert. Delete.

For fact check changes re stump section, Carol has incorporated those on the Norcross master. Those apply to Kannapolis and Gastonia as well.

IMPORTANT: Remember, do not refer to "free trade" in NC. These people are not supporters of free trade. You can say "we want to open markets," but do not use "free trade."

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NORCROSS WHISTLE STOP
NORCROSS, GEORGIA
OCTOBER 20, 1992
12:00 noon

Thank you all for this warm Georgia welcome.

[Acknowledgements.] I want to salute your great Congressman, Newt Gingrich. And finally, a special hello to the students, staff and faculty of Norcross High.

If you want to know why I'm here today -- why I'm bringing this campaign to the people -- the name of this train says it all. We call it the Spirit of America -- and it's named for the kind of small-town spirit that makes Norcross such a special place to live and raise a family. //

Two weeks from now, you will make a choice that will shape how you live here in Norcross -- how America leads in the world. This election -- like every election -- is a referendum on the future. You face a real choice -- between two different candidates, two different directions to take this country.

Gov. Clinton seems to have a pretty strong cheerleading section in the national media. For weeks now, you've been hearing on the news that this election is all over -- that the vote you cast November 3rd is just a formality. You know the story: They're telling you it's bottom of the ninth, two out -- so you might as well just flip off the set. //

I think you know down here in Braves' country -- that's just when the game gets interesting. //

You know that old saying, "It ain't over til the fat lady sings?" Well, here's my updated Atlanta version: "It ain't over til Cabrerro swings." //

I know you get alot of free advice, expert opinion about what matters in this election -- what issues you care about -- what issues are off-limits. I say, let the voters speak for themselves.

Governor Clinton says this this election is about the economy. So here's my challenge: Put our ideas side by side. Look at his economic plan, then look at my Agenda for American Renewal. I believe with all my heart that you'll decide our Agenda is the right way to create jobs and prosperity and our kids -- right for economic growth -- right for America.

Yes, we've been through tough times. But you can't solve a problem unless you look at it honestly.

Governor Clinton tells you that the American economy is flat on its back -- that we face what our grandparents faced in the Great Depression. And his cheerleading squad in the national media echoes every word of his gloom-and-doom message.

But here's the fact: they aren't telling you the truth.

They don't tell you that there's been a slowdown world-wide -- and America has come through better than our economic competitors.

They don't tell you that for the last three months -- the economies in Germany and Japan actually got smaller -- they actually contracted.

While our economy grew.

They don't tell you that American workers are the most productive in the world. They don't tell you that we have the lowest interest rates, the lowest inflation rates in 30 years -- and together those lower rates save the average family more than $2,000 a year in mortgage payments.

Governor Clinton and his friends in the media don't tell you that almost one million more Americans are employed than ten months ago. They don't tell you that our industries are stronger and more competitive than four years ago.

For all the pain in America today, the Europeans would swap places with us in a minute. We have kept our economy afloat while most other economies are drowning. I am proud of that leadership.

Now, there's a reason Governor Clinton won't tell you the truth. If he can convince that you the economy is on its deathbed -- maybe he can convince you to go for his prescription of bigger government and higher taxes.

Look at what Governor Clinton has planned. He says he's a new kind of Democrat -- but his economic ideas are the same old liberal game of bigger government and higher taxes. But the American people will pay more than higher taxes -- they will pay with their jobs.

A new payroll tax, new taxes on business, new taxes on investment, more regulations, gutting the defense budget -- add it up and Governor Clinton's economic plan will cost Americans more than 2 million jobs.

That's the most basic difference between us: Governor Clinton wants higher taxes so much he's willing to destroy jobs in the process. My Agenda for American Renewal wants to create jobs -- by cutting your taxes.

With the new Congress in January, we can get to work on a short-term agenda to spur economic growth. We'll pass our new agreement to open Mexican markets to American products -- give first-time homebuyers a $5,000 tax credit to buy that first home -- cut taxes on investment to create jobs -- and give more Americans the chance to use their IRA savings accounts to buy a new home, or send their kids to school.

Add that up -- and our short-term growth agenda will jumpstart this economy and create more than one million new jobs.

But we won't stop there. My Agenda for American Renewal looks beyond this year, beyond the next four years -- to prepare America for the next century -- to compete in the new economy and win.

That's what my Agenda for American Renewal is all about: Taking the greatest country in the world and making it stronger, more secure than ever.

I want to win this election because I know my Agenda is right for America. Here's what I'm fighting for.

I want to open markets -- so we can sell American products in every corner of the world. In the next decade, the jobs with the highest wages, the best careers, are going to be tied to the world economy.

It's fine that the [products] from [Georgia] are sold in Detroit and Boston and Los Angeles. But that's not good enough. I want to sell those xx in Moscow and Mexico City and Yokohama.

When it comes to opening markets, I won't waffle, I won't fudge. I want the best jobs to be right here in the USA. Because I know something you know: give American workers a fair shake, and they can outwork, outthink, outcompete anywhere in the world.

And we have to make sure we stay that way.

That means we have to give our kids the finest schools in the world. Our kids deserve the best, and I want to make sure they get it.

Competition made America great, and competition can make our schools great. That's why I want to give all parents -- not just the wealthy -- give all parents the right to choose the best schools for their kids -- whether it's the public school down the street or the Baptist school across town.

But the best schools won't help our kids if we they can't find good jobs when they graduate. And the way Americans have always created jobs is through small business. They're the backbone of our economy. But they're being strangled by high taxes, arrogant regulators and ambulance-chasing lawyers.

That's why my Agenda will give small businesses relief from taxation, regulation, and -- yes -- litigation. We'd be a lot better off if we had fewer lawyers in sharkskin suits and a lot more small businessmen and women creating jobs.

As a nation we must sue each other less and care for each other more.

That's the next part of our Agenda for American Renewal -- caring for each other, reaching out to each other -- so that no one is left behind. We need the talents of every American for the global economic competition.

That means letting people walk their neighborhoods without fear -- taking back our streets from the thugs and criminals. And that's why I've appointed strong judges -- who have no respect for the criminal and a lot more concern for the criminal's victims. And that's the kind of judges I'll appoint for the next four years.

Here's the last part of my Agenda: getting government off your back and out of your pocketbooks.

The fact is: government is too big and it spends too much.

That's why I'm fighting for a line-item veto and a balanced budget amendment.

And that's why I want you to have the power to designate 10 percent of your tax dollars to cutting the federal deficit. I say if Congress won't help me cut the deficit -- then give the American people the power, and they'll do it for you.

And that's why I've proposed that we cut taxes across the board.

That's my Agenda for American Renewal. It promises an America where "Made in the USA" is read in every marketplace of the world; where our kids go to the finest schools in the world; where the government knows its place, and you keep more of your paycheck, not less.

Whatever my opponent and his friends in the media may say, America is still the envy of the world. But America's not great because its government is great -- America is great because its people are good. //

Let me end today with a story -- a story about a family many of you know -- Charles Johnson, his wife Sherry and their two daughters. They run the pharmacy here in town -- a family business since 1885.

For the Johnsons, Norcross isn't just the place they run their business -- it's home. And the people who come through their door aren't just customers -- they're neighbors, friends, family.

You saw that during Desert Storm, when Charles Johnson realized one day he could send messages out to the Gulf using his pharmacy computer. So each night, after he closed up shop, Charles sat down at his computer. He spent hours typing out people's letters -- and sending them on to their loved ones.

And half a world away, Charles Johnson helped bring a little bit of home to our proud sons and daughters of Desert Storm.

Now, Charles Johnson may say what he did was a small thing - - I say: small things carry big truths. It's the small things that show us the spirit of America. //

Yes, our world is changing. /

Yes we face new challenges. /

But as I look out at you today, I know: there is no change
I can think of -- no challenge we face -- that is bigger than America's heart or brighter than our dreams. /

America is ready. And so am I. //

Barbara and I thank you for this warm Georgia welcome. And may God bless this great country, the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NORCROSS WHISTLE STOP
NORCROSS, GEORGIA
OCTOBER 20, 1992
12:00 noon

Thank you all for this warm Georgia welcome.

[Acknowledgements.] I want to salute your great Congressman, Newt Gingrich. And finally, a special hello to the students, staff and faculty of Norcross High.

If you want to know why I'm here today -- why I'm bringing this campaign to the people -- the name of this train says it all. We call it the Spirit of America -- and it's named for the kind of small-town spirit that makes Norcross such a special place to live and raise a family. //

Two weeks from now, you will make a choice that will shape how you live here in Norcross -- how America leads in the world. This election -- like every election -- is a referendum on the future. You face a real choice -- between two different candidates, two different directions to take this country.

Gov. Clinton seems to have a pretty strong cheerleading section in the national media. For weeks now, you've been hearing on the news that this election is all over -- that the vote you cast November 3rd is just a formality. You know the story: They're telling you it's bottom of the ninth, two out -- so you might as well just flip off the set. //

You know that old saying, "It ain't over til the fat lady sings?" Well, here's my updated Atlanta version: "It ain't over til Cabrerro swings." //

I know you get (#) alot of free advice, expert opinion about what matters in this election -- what issues you care about -- what issues are off-limits. I say, let the voters speak for themselves.

Governor Clinton says <sup>AT</sup> this this election is about the economy. So here's my challenge: Put our ideas side by side. Look at his economic plan, then look at my Agenda for American Renewal. I believe with all my heart that you'll decide our Agenda is the right way to create jobs and prosperity <sup>FOR</sup> ~~and~~ our kids -- right for economic growth -- right for America.

Yes, we've been through tough times. But you can't solve a problem unless you look at it honestly.

Governor Clinton tells you that the American economy is flat on its back -- that we face what our grandparents faced in the Great Depression. And his cheerleading squad in the national media echoes every word of his gloom-and-doom message.

But here's the fact: they aren't telling you the truth.

They don't tell you that there's been a slowdown world-wide -- and America has come through better than our economic competitors.

They don't tell you that for the last three months -- the economies in Germany and Japan actually got smaller -- they actually contracted,

While our economy grew.

They don't tell you that American workers are the most productive in the world. They don't tell you that we have the lowest interest rates, the lowest inflation rates <sup>9</sup> in <sup>20</sup> 30 years -- and together those lower rates save the average family more than $2,000 a year in mortgage payments. ✓

Governor Clinton and his friends in the media don't tell you that almost one million more Americans are employed than ten months ago. They don't tell you that our industries are stronger and more competitive than four years ago.

For all the pain in America today, the Europeans would swap places with us in a minute. We have kept our economy afloat while most other economies are drowning. I am proud of that leadership.

Now, there's a reason Governor Clinton won't tell you the truth. If he can convince that you the economy is on its deathbed -- maybe he can convince you to go for his prescription of bigger government and higher taxes.

Look at what Governor Clinton has planned. He says he's a new kind of Democrat -- but his economic ideas are the same old liberal game of bigger government and higher taxes. But the American people will pay more than higher taxes -- they will pay with their jobs.

A new payroll tax, new taxes on business, new taxes on investment, more regulations, gutting the defense budget -- add it up and Governor Clinton's economic plan will cost Americans more than 2 million jobs.

That's the most basic difference between us: Governor Clinton wants <sup>TO INCREASE</sup> ~~higher~~ taxes so <sup>BADLY</sup> ~~much~~ he's willing to destroy jobs in the process. My Agenda for American Renewal wants to create jobs -- by cutting your taxes.

With <sup>A</sup> ~~the~~ new Congress in January, we can get to work on a short-term agenda to spur economic growth. We'll pass our new agreement to open Mexican markets to American products -- give first-time homebuyers a $5,000 tax credit to buy that first home -- cut taxes on investment to create jobs -- and give more Americans the chance to use their IRA savings accounts to buy a new home, or send their kids to school.

Add that up -- and our short-term growth agenda will jumpstart this economy and create more than one million new jobs.

But we won't stop there. My Agenda for American Renewal looks beyond this year, beyond the next four years -- to prepare America for the next century -- to compete in the new economy and win.

That's what my Agenda for American Renewal is all about: Taking the greatest country in the world and making it stronger, more secure than ever.

I want to win this election because I know my Agenda is right for America. Here's what I'm fighting for.

I want to open markets -- so we can sell American products in every corner of the world. In the next decade, the jobs with the highest wages, the best careers, are going to be tied to the world economy.

It's fine that the [products] from [Georgia] are sold in Detroit and Boston and Los Angeles. But that's not good enough. I want to sell those xx in Moscow and Mexico City and Yokohama.

When it comes to opening markets, I won't waffle, I won't fudge. I want the best jobs to be right here in the USA. Because I know something you know: give American workers a fair shake, and they can outwork, outthink, outcompete <sup>ONE</sup> ~~where~~ in the world.

And we have to make sure we stay that way.

That means we have to give our kids the finest schools in the world. Our kids deserve the best, and I want to make sure they get it.

Competition made America great, and competition can make our schools great. That's why I want to give all parents -- not just the wealthy -- ~~give all parents~~ <sup>J</sup> the right to choose the best schools for their kids -- whether it's the public school down the street or the Baptist school across town.

But the best schools won't help our kids if ~~we~~ <sup>J</sup> they can't find good jobs when they graduate. And the way Americans have always created jobs is through small business<sup>ES</sup>. They're the backbone of our economy. But they're being strangled by high taxes, arrogant regulators and ambulance-chasing lawyers.

That's why my Agenda will give small businesses relief from taxation, regulation, and -- yes -- litigation. We'd be a lot better off if we had fewer lawyers <sup>ENGAGED IN LITIGATION</sup> in ~~sharkskin suits~~ and a lot more small businessmen and women creating jobs. <sup>NEEDLESS</sup>

As a nation we must sue each other less and care for each other more.

That's the next part of our Agenda for American Renewal -- caring for each other, reaching out to each other -- so that no one is left behind. We need the talents of every American ~~for~~ <sup>TO COMPETE</sup> the global economic ~~competition~~.

That means letting people walk their neighborhoods without fear -- taking back our streets from the thugs and criminals. And that's why I've appointed strong judges -- who have no respect for the criminal and a lot more concern for the criminal's victims. And that's the kind of judges I'll appoint for the next four years.

Here's the last part of my Agenda: getting government off your back and out of your pocketbooks.

The fact is: government is too big and it spends too much.

That's why I'm fighting for a line-item veto and a balanced budget amendment.

And that's why I want you to have the power to designate 10 percent of your tax dollars to cutting the federal deficit. I say if Congress won't help me cut the deficit -- then give the American people the power, <sup>TO REDUCE FEDERAL SPENDING</sup> ~~and they'll do it for you.~~

And that's why I've proposed that we cut taxes across the board.

That's my Agenda for American Renewal. It promises an America where "Made in the USA" is read in every marketplace of the world; where our kids go to the finest schools in the world; where the government knows its place, and you keep more of your paycheck, not less.

Whatever my opponent and his friends in the media may say, America is still the envy of the world. But America's not great because its government is great -- America is great because its people are good. //

Let me end today with a story -- a story about a family many of you know -- Charles Johnson, his wife Sherry and their two daughters. They run the pharmacy here in town -- a family business since 1885.

For the Johnsons, Norcross isn't just the place they run their business -- it's home. And the people who come through their door aren't just customers -- they're neighbors, friends, family.

You saw that during Desert Storm, when Charles Johnson realized one day he could send messages out to the Gulf using his pharmacy computer. So each night, after he closed up shop, Charles sat down at his computer. He spent hours typing out people's letters -- and sending them on to their loved ones.

And half a world away, Charles Johnson helped bring a little bit of home to our proud sons and daughters of Desert Storm.

Now, Charles Johnson may say what he did was a small thing -
- I say: small things carry big truths. It's the small things that show us the spirit of America. //

Yes, our world is changing. /

Yes we face new challenges. /

But as I look out at you today, I know: there is no change
I can think of -- no challenge we face -- that is bigger than
America's heart or brighter than our dreams. /

America is ready. And so am I. //

Barbara and I thank you for this warm Georgia welcome. And may God bless this great country, the United States of America.

I think you know down here in Braves' country -- that's just when the game gets interesting. //

You know that old saying, "It ain't over til the fat lady sings?" Well, here's my updated Atlanta version: "It ain't over til Cabrerro swings." //

I know you get alot of free advice, expert opinion about what matters in this election -- what issues you care about -- what issues are off-limits. I say, let the voters speak for themselves.

Governor Clinton says this this election is about the economy. So here's my challenge: Put our ideas side by side. Look at his economic plan, then look at my Agenda for American Renewal. I believe with all my heart that you'll decide our Agenda is the right way to create jobs and prosperity and our kids -- right for economic growth -- right for America.

Yes, we've been through tough times. But you can't solve a problem unless you look at it honestly.

Governor Clinton tells you that the American economy is flat on its back -- that we face what our grandparents faced in the Great Depression. And his cheerleading squad in the national media echoes every word of his gloom-and-doom message.

But here's the fact: they aren't telling you the truth.

They don't tell you that there's been a slowdown world-wide -- and America has come through better than our economic competitors.

They don't tell you that for the last three months -- the economies in Germany and Japan actually got smaller -- they actually contracted.

While our economy grew.

They don't tell you that American workers are the most productive in the world. They don't tell you that we have the lowest interest rates, the lowest inflation rates in 30 years -- and together those lower rates save the average family more than $2,000 a year in mortgage payments.

Governor Clinton and his friends in the media don't tell you that almost one million more Americans are employed than ten months ago. They don't tell you that our industries are stronger and more competitive than four years ago.

For all the pain in America today, the <sup>international</sup> ~~Europeans~~ <sup>our competitors</sup> would swap places with us in a minute. We have kept our economy afloat while most other economies are drowning. I am proud of that leadership.

Now, there's a reason Governor Clinton won't tell you the truth. If he can convince that you the economy is on its deathbed -- maybe he can convince you to go for his prescription of bigger government and higher taxes.

Look at what Governor Clinton has planned. He says he's a new kind of Democrat -- but his economic ideas are the same old liberal game of bigger government and higher taxes. But the American people will pay more than higher taxes -- they will pay with their jobs.

A new payroll tax, new taxes on business, new taxes on investment, more regulations, gutting the defense budget -- add it up and Governor Clinton's economic plan will cost Americans more than 2 million jobs.

That's the most basic difference between us: Governor Clinton wants higher taxes so much he's willing to destroy jobs in the process. My Agenda for American Renewal wants to create jobs -- by cutting your taxes.

With the new Congress in January, we can get to work on a short-term agenda to spur economic growth. We'll pass our new agreement to open Mexican markets to American products -- give first-time homebuyers a $5,000 tax credit to buy <sup>their</sup> ~~that~~ first home -- cut taxes on investment to create jobs -- and give more Americans the chance to use their IRA savings accounts to buy a new home, or send their kids to school.

Add that up -- and our short-term growth agenda will jumpstart this economy and create more than one million new jobs.

But we won't stop there. My Agenda for American Renewal looks beyond this year, beyond the next four years -- to prepare America for the next century -- to compete in the new economy and win.

That's what my Agenda for American Renewal is all about: Taking the greatest country in the world and making it stronger, more secure than ever.

I want to win this election because I know my Agenda is right for America. Here's what I'm fighting for.

I want to open markets -- so we can sell American products in every corner of the world. In the next decade, the jobs with the highest wages, the best careers, are going to be tied to the world economy.

It's fine that the [products] from [Georgia] are sold in Detroit and Boston and Los Angeles. But that's not good enough. I want to sell those xx in Moscow and Mexico City and Yokohama.

When it comes to opening markets, I won't waffle, I won't fudge. I want the best jobs to be right here in the USA. Because I know something you know: give American workers a fair shake, and they can outwork, outthink, outcompete anywhere in the world.

And we have to make sure we stay that way.

That means we have to give our kids the finest schools in the world. Our kids deserve the best, and I want to make sure they get it.

Competition made America great, and competition can make our schools great. That's why I want to give all parents -- not just the wealthy -- give all parents the right to choose the best schools for their kids -- whether it's the public school down the street or the Baptist school across town.

But the best schools won't help our kids if we they can't find good jobs when they graduate. And the way Americans have always created jobs is through small business. They're the backbone of our economy. But they're being strangled by high taxes, arrogant regulators and ambulance-chasing lawyers.

That's why my Agenda will give small businesses relief from taxation, regulation, and -- yes -- litigation. Our small businessmen ~~We'd be a lot better off if we had fewer lawyers in sharkskin suits and a lot more small businessmen and women~~ and women could create more jobs if we freed them from government red-tape and senseless litigation. creating jobs.

As a nation we must sue each other less and care for each other more.

That's the next part of our Agenda for American Renewal -- caring for each other, reaching out to each other -- so that no one is left behind. We need the talents of every American for the global economic competition.

That means letting people walk their neighborhoods without fear -- taking back our streets from the thugs and criminals. And that's why I've appointed strong judges -- who have no respect for the criminal and a lot more concern for the criminal's victims. And that's the kind of judges I'll appoint for the next four years.

Here's the last part of my Agenda: getting government off your back and out of your pocketbooks.

The fact is: government is too big and it spends too much.

That's why I'm fighting for a line-item veto and a balanced budget amendment.

And that's why I want you to have the power to designate 10 percent of your tax dollars to cutting the federal deficit. I say if Congress won't help me cut the deficit -- then give the American people the power, and they'll do it for you.

And that's why I've proposed that we cut taxes across the board.

That's my Agenda for American Renewal. It promises an America where "Made in the USA" is read in every marketplace of the world; where our kids go to the finest schools in the world; where the government knows its place, and you keep more of your paycheck, not less.

Whatever my opponent and his friends in the media may say, America is still the envy of the world. But America's not great because its government is great -- America is great because its people are good. //

Let me end today with a story -- a story about a family many of you know -- Charles Johnson, his wife Sherry and their two daughters. They run the pharmacy here in town -- a family business since 1885.

For the Johnsons, Norcross isn't just the place they run their business -- it's home. And the people who come through their door aren't just customers -- they're neighbors, friends, family.

You saw that during Desert Storm, when Charles Johnson realized one day he could send messages out to the Gulf using his pharmacy computer. So each night, after he closed up shop, Charles sat down at his computer. He spent hours typing out people's letters -- and sending them on to their loved ones.

And half a world away, Charles Johnson helped bring a little bit of home to our proud sons and daughters of Desert Storm.

Now, Charles Johnson may say what he did was a small thing - - I say: small things carry big truths. It's the small things that show us the spirit of America. //

Yes, our world is changing. /

Yes we face new challenges. /

But as I look out at you today, I know: there is no change
I can think of -- no challenge we face -- that is bigger than
America's heart or brighter than our dreams. /

America is ready. And so am I. //

Barbara and I thank you for this warm Georgia welcome. And may God bless this great country, the United States of America.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NORCROSS WHISTLE STOP
NORCROSS, GEORGIA
OCTOBER 20, 1992
12:00 noon

Thank you all for this warm Georgia welcome.

[Acknowledgements.] I want to salute your great Congressman, Newt Gingrich. And finally, a special hello to the students, staff and faculty of Norcross High.

If you want to know why I'm here today -- why I'm bringing this campaign to the people -- the name of this train says it all. We call it the Spirit of America -- and it's named for the kind of small-town spirit that makes Norcross such a special place to live and raise a family. //

Two weeks from now, you will make a choice that will shape how you live here in Norcross -- how America leads in the world. This election -- like every election -- is a referendum on the future. You face a real choice -- between two different candidates, two different directions to take this country.

Gov. Clinton seems to have a pretty strong cheerleading section in the national media. For weeks now, you've been hearing on the news that this election is all over -- that the vote you cast November 3rd is just a formality. You know the story: They're telling you it's bottom of the ninth, two out -- so you might as well just flip off the set. //

I think you know down here in Braves' country -- that's just when the game gets interesting. //

You know that old saying, "It ain't over til the fat lady sings?" Well, here's my updated Atlanta version: "It ain't over til Cabrerro swings." //

As a nation we must sue each other less and care for each other more.

That's the next part of our Agenda for American Renewal -- caring for each other, reaching out to each other -- so that no one is left behind. We need the talents of every American for the global economic competition.

That means letting people walk their neighborhoods without fear -- taking back our streets from the thugs and criminals. And that's why I've appointed strong judges -- who have no respect for the criminal and a lot more concern for the criminal's victims. And that's the kind of judges I'll appoint for the next four years.

Here's the last part of my Agenda: getting government off your back and out of your pocketbooks.

The fact is: government is too big and it spends too much.

That's why I'm fighting for a line-item veto and a balanced budget amendment.

And that's why I want you to have the power to designate 10 percent of your tax dollars to cutting the federal deficit. I say if Congress won't help me cut the deficit -- then give the American people the power, and they'll do it for you.

And that's why I've proposed that we cut taxes across the board.

That's my Agenda for American Renewal. It promises an America where "Made in the USA" is read in every marketplace of the world; where our kids go to the finest schools in the world; where the government knows its place, and you keep more of your paycheck, not less.

Whatever my opponent and his friends in the media may say, America is still the envy of the world. But America's not great because its government is great -- America is great because its people are good. //

Let me end today with a story -- a story about a family many of you know -- Charles Johnson, his wife Sherry and their two daughters. They run the pharmacy here in town -- a family business since 1885.

For the Johnsons, Norcross isn't just the place they run their business -- it's home. And the people who come through their door aren't just customers -- they're neighbors, friends, family.

You saw that during Desert Storm, when Charles Johnson realized one day he could send messages out to the Gulf using his pharmacy computer. So each night, after he closed up shop, Charles sat down at his computer. He spent hours typing out people's letters -- and sending them on to their loved ones.

And half a world away, Charles Johnson helped bring a little bit of home to our proud sons and daughters of Desert Storm.

Now, Charles Johnson may say what he did was a small thing - - I say: small things carry big truths. It's the small things that show us the spirit of America. //

Yes, our world is changing. /

Yes we face new challenges. /

But as I look out at you today, I know: there is no change
I can think of -- no challenge we face -- that is bigger than
America's heart or brighter than our dreams. /

America is ready. And so am I. //

Barbara and I thank you for this warm Georgia welcome. And may God bless this great country, the United States of America.
