MEMORANDUM FOR THE VICE PRESIDENT

FROM: ZELDA J. NOVAK ZM
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE VICE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

BARBARA J. SCHLEIBAUM mp
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE VICE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: NEW JERSEY VICTORY '92 ROUNDTABLE

Date of Event: Monday, June 15, 1992
Location: Stark and Stark Law Offices
Lawrenceville, New Jersey
Time: 6:35 p.m.

I. Purpose

To participate in a fundraising roundtable and photo opportunity (23 people @ $1,000 per person) for the New Jersey Republican State Committee's Victory '92 program.

II. Background

Albert Stark, Chairman of the Board of Stark and Stark Law Offices, is a Democrat, but is allowing the use of his firm's offices for the event. The Co-Chairman of the event Chris Florio and Allen Silk are Republican attorneys at Stark and Stark. Silk's biography is attached.

New Jersey Republican State Committee Chairman Robert Franks will attend the event. Congressman Chris Smith (R-4) will be in attendance, as will Senate Republican Leader Don DiFrancesco, and Assembly Leader Chuck Haytaian.

NEW JERSEY POLITICAL UPDATE:

NEW JERSEY BUSH/QUAYLE '92:

The Honorary Chairman of the New Jersey Bush/Quayle '92 campaign is former Governor Tom Kean. Co-Chairmen include Joseph "Bo" Sullivan, Senate President Don DiFrancesco, Assembly Speaker Chuck Haytaian, State Senator Leanna Brown, and Congressman Dean Gallo (R-11).

The New Jersey Presidential primary results were as follows:

Bush/Quayle	83%
Buchanan	17%
(Delegates:	Bush/Quayle 60)

Clinton	53%
Brown	24%
Tsongas	11%
Uncommitted	7%
(Delegates:	Clinton 79
	Tsongas 2)

A statewide Record Poll taken in the first week of June showed the following results:

Bush/Quayle	39%
Clinton	24%
Perot	24%

In the 1988 Presidential election, the Bush/Quayle ticket defeated Dukakis/Bentsen by a margin of 51-48 percent.

No Republican candidate for the Presidency has lost New Jersey since 1964.

STATE PARTY UPDATE:

The New Jersey GOP's top priorities are carrying the state for the Bush/Quayle ticket, and taking control of the congressional delegation in 1992. The State GOP is nearly $300,000 in debt following the 1991 legislative campaigns, but had a very successful year of fundraising with visits by President Bush, Vice President Quayle, and several Cabinet members. The debt is being slowly eliminated.

STATE LEGISLATURE:

Elections:

The 1991 Legislative races in New Jersey were a tremendous success for the GOP. Republicans picked up 21 seats in the Assembly to take control of the chamber by a 58-37 margin, and gained 10 seats in the Senate to take control of that chamber by a 27-13 margin. Republicans now have a veto-proof majority in both houses of the Legislature.

State Budget:

The State Legislature is in the midst of completing work on the state's budget. New Jersey must abide by a balanced budget amendment. Governor Jim Florio has proposed a $15 billion budget which would not raise taxes, but would not cut taxes or spending. The Republicans yet to release their budget, but have pledged to shave $1 billion off the budget to make the budget less than it was last year. During the 1991 elections, Republican legislative candidates promised to get spending under control, get rid of the state's budgetary gimmicks, and lower the tax burden. The state's oversized mass transit bureaucracy and human services programs are likely to be targets of Republican budget cuts.

Florio's budget counts on $450 million worth of Medicaid reimbursement funds from the federal government which may be denied. There are rumors circulating among the New Jersey press corps that you will come to New Jersey "carrying a check." Please see Dave Juday's issue briefing for a complete analysis of the situation.

Republicans voted to roll back the state's sales tax from 7% to 6% (worth $600 million in revenue). Florio vetoed the bill, but the Legislature was able to override the veto.

GOVERNOR JIM FLORIO:

Governor Jim Florio remains unpopular in the state. The results of a recent poll taken by WKYW are as follows:

Reelect Florio	28%
Consider Other Candidate	27%
Vote to Replace Florio	39%
Note Sure	6%

1990 Senatorial candidate Christine Todd Whitman has organized a PAC, the Committee for an Affordable New Jersey, and has not ruled out a run for governor in 1993. Other possible candidates include: State Senator Bill Gormley; Cary Edwards, a former attorney general from Burger County and candidate for governor in the 1989 GOP primary; and State GOP Chairman Bob Franks.

In a recent head-to-head poll between Whitman and Florio, 35% of voters chose Whitman to Florio's 33%.

CONGRESSIONAL RACES:

According to the State GOP, all Republican incumbents are expected to hold on to their seats. The GOP is confident that they will win a majority of the Republican House seats. The hot congressional races are as follows:

8th Congressional District:

Democrat Rep. Robert Roe announced his retirement in March. The Republican candidate State Senator Joseph Bubba won the June 2nd primary with 57% of the vote. He is expected to win a general election battle with Democrat former Assemblyman Herbert Klein.

9th Congressional District:

This will be a hotly contested battle between Republican Assemblyman Patrick Roma and Democrat incumbent Rep. Robert Torricelli. Torricelli has raised over $1.25 million for the race, but is troubled by bounced checks, unpaid House restaurant bills, and election account abuses. Torricelli is a likely challenger to Florio.

6th Congressional District:

Republican State Senator Joseph Kyrillos is expected to have a good chance at beating incumbent Democrat Frank Pallone. Pallone is weakened following a tough primary battle, and a redistricting plan that placed him in the same district as Rep. Bernard Dwyer (D-6) who has since announced his retirement.

REDISTRICTING:

New Congressional lines were approved by a non-partisan redistricting commission in March. New Jersey lost one congressional seat.

New legislative lines were approved April 1, 1991, by the 11-member redistricting commission comprised of 5 Republicans and 5 Democrats, appointed by their respective state party chairmen, and one non-partisan member. The new districts favor Republicans.

NOTE: This event will take place in Rep. Chris Smith's (R-4) congressional district. The Mayor of Lawrenceville is Gloria Teti (non-partisan).

WASHINGTON

June 15, 1992

BRIEFING MEMORANDUM FOR THE VICE PRESIDENT

FROM: DAVE JUDAY DJ
SUBJECT: BACKGROUND INFORMATION FOR NEW JERSEY

o The March unemployment rate for New Jersey was 7.5; the rate for Trenton was 5.8. The national rate for April was 7.2 percent, down slightly from March's 7.3 percent rate.

STATE/LOCAL

o The Republican legislature will release its budget plan on Thursday -- Governor Florio released his more than $15 billion budget in late January. Florio's budget was the state's biggest ever. Last year Florio's budget raised taxes $2.8 billion including an increase in the sales tax from 6 to 7 percent. The Legislature this year rolled back the sales tax to 6 percent (and overrode Florio's veto.) The roll-back will go into effect on July first. The state faces a budget short fall of $600 million.

o New Jersey has a 19% sales tax on hospital services to fund an "uncompensated care trust fund" for those without health insurance. Though the plan is HCFA approved, it also in effect preempts the ERISA laws, and therefore the state is under court order to eliminate the tax. A new financing plan must be in place by November. The state is appealing the ruling.

FEDERAL

o Much as Massachusetts had successfully done previously, New Jersey is seeking a retroactive Medicaid reimbursement going back to 1988 of their state plan. To date, $74 million has been denied -- $412 million is still being reviewed. Subsequent to a meeting with HCFA officials in Baltimore on Thursday June 11, the State Treasurer wrote a letter to the Chairman of the Assembly budget committee that concluded: "at this time, it would be prudent to plan a budget that assumes a denial or further deferral of our claim." In a letter to the General Assembly Speaker, Sam Skinner stated that "there are regulatory requirements that the Florio Administration did not meet that resulted in the recent decision by the Health Care Financing Administration." The budget is on the forefront and resolution of this issue is timely -- the federal government will work to resolve the matter (one way or another) as soon as possible.

REFORM AGENDA STATE FACTS

o Wetlands development is a concern in the north New Jersey suburbs: The Army Corp of Engineers issued a permit to fill 76 acres of wetlands in Secaucus New Jersey for construction of residential housing. The EPA initiated an action (under the "section 404" process) that has stalled the development and that will require further assessment. EPA has been meeting with developer and is near agreement on an alternative plan -- an announcement is expected late this month. In the Hakensack Meadowlands area, EPA and the Corp are working to develop a process to identify environmentally valuable wetlands and to streamline the permit process.

o New Jersey has 915,960 acres of wetlands comprising 18.3 percent of the state's surface area.

CJR: According to the American Tort Reform Association, civil justice reform is on a "go slow" approach this year.

NEW JERSEY EXPORTS: New Jersey ranks 13th among the 50 states in value of exports -- the state exports to 175 countries. Canada is New Jersey's biggest market, followed by Japan and the U.K. Exports to Mexico have grown 120 percent since 1987. An estimated 184,400 employees in New Jersey owe their jobs to exports.

EDUCATION: New Jersey has no statewide choice plan or initiative, but various jurisdictions do offer magnet schools. No significant choice legislation was offered until this year, when Assemblyman Joe Doria (D-Bayonne), the Democrat leader (and former Speaker when in the majority) offered a comprehensive interdistrict choice plan and voucher-type program to facilitate non-public school attendance. The bill is in the education committee with no action to date and none scheduled.

JTPA: There are 17 SDA's in New Jersey. The State Job Training Coordinating Council Chairman is John Heldrich, the Trenton area PIC President is Ms. Melva Harris. New Jersey received $61,705,566 in JTPA funds this year. Last year, 25,449 people were served.

SCHEDULE: You were last in New Jersey on October 9, 1991 in Newark for a fundraiser.

STATISTICS: No statistics will be released while you are travelling. On Tuesday, however, housing figures for May will be announced -- housing starts plummeted in April by 17 percent; some improvement for May is expected.

June 10, 1992

BRIEFING MEMORANDUM FOR THE VICE PRESIDENT

FROM: DAVE JUDAY
SUBJECT: BACKGROUND MATERIAL FOR NEW YORK

o The unemployment rate for March in the state of New York is 8.5 percent; for New York City it is 10.3 percent; in New Jersey it is 7.6 percent. The national unemployment rate for April is 7.2 percent.

FEDERAL ISSUES

o EPA has recently proposed changes to the New York City nonattainment area under the Clean Air Act to include several suburban counties. Last year, New York was the first Northeastern state to adopt a California-like package of auto emission control regulations that is more stringent than the federal requirements.

o New Yorkers average five-to-six pounds of solid waste per person, compared to a 4 pound national average. That represents 8,000,000 millions tons of garbage per year in the City. On March 30, Mayor Dinkins announced plans to triple the amount of waste that is incinerated and triple the amount that is recycled. This announcement foresees the construction of an incinerator in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. There is considerable community opposition to this project. EPA has issued a permit for the construction of this incinerator.

REFORM AGENDA STATE FACTS

DRUGS AND CRIME: New York City has about 555,000 drug abusers; at present there are about 44,000 slots for treatment programs. City health officials estimate the 10 percent of the babies born in 1992 will be born to drug addicted mothers.

o Since 1989 (when President Bush began the Office of National Drug Control Policy) federal drug grants to New York have more than doubled from $53.7 million to $108.1 million project for 1992.

EDUCATION: There is no statewide school choice plan in New York, nor is there any major legislation pending.

CJR: Prospects for civil justice reform are dim; last year a product liability reform measure passed the Republican-controlled State Senate, but died in the Democrat-controlled Assembly.

NEW YORK JTPA: 31 SDA's; State Job Training Coordinating Council Chairwoman is Jewell Jackson. The NYC PIC Chairman is Ron McGowan (whom you have met). Total funds for this program year - $190,480,855; 104,871 participants were served last year.

EXPORT FACTS: New York ranks third among the 50 states and DC in total value of exports by selling products to 193 markets; Canada is New York's biggest customer, followed by Japan and the U.K. Exports to Mexico grew by more than 56 percent since 1987 ranking Mexico as New York's eighth largest customer. About 391,700 workers in the State of New York are employed by exports; in New York City, about 158,600 workers are employed by exports.

WETLANDS: The Fish and Wildlife Service is working cooperatively with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, and private landowners to restore and enhance wetlands in upstate New York.

A Service biologist, stationed in Canton, New York, is coordinating the wetland restoration program. Since 1989 1,886 acres of wetland habitat have been restored on private lands and 850 acres are scheduled for restoration work in 1992.

STATISTICS: No statistics will be released while you are travelling. On Tuesday, however, housing figures for May will be announced -- housing starts plummeted in April by 17 percent; some improvement for May is expected.

TIME: 9:50 - 10:20 A.M.
LOCATION: Cardinal's Residence
452 Madison Avenue NYC
FROM: Bill Gribbin

I. PURPOSE

To discuss matters of mutual interest with the Cardinal --
"His Eminence."

Goal of event: To call public attention to the commonality of interests, in advancing the good society, between the Bush/Quayle Administration and the Catholic Church.

II. BACKGROUND

The Vice President met Cardinal O'Connor at the Rally for Life on the Mall in 1990. The Cardinal is proud of the photo of the two of them, taken on that occasion, inscribed by the Vice President, "We make a great team."

It is IMPORTANT to note that the Cardinal and the VP have many interests in common other than the abortion issue. For example, the economic survival of New York City.

By coincidence, two days before this meeting, the Cardinal will lead his first public pro-life vigil: a non-violent - - and non-obstructionist -- march of 1,000 or more people to a local abortion clinic. This is sure to be big news in NYC.

The VP might want to publicly give credit to the Cardinal for his efforts to help the victims of contemporary social tragedies: AIDS patients (the Archdiocese has been in the forefront of providing care), single moms, foster care kids, etc.

To really impress the Cardinal with inside info about church/public affairs, the VP should:

- * Thank the Cardinal for the upsurge in grassroots activity, through the Knights of Columbus, in support of Bush's abortion vetoes.

- * Mention that the VP is looking forward to the Pope's encyclical on human life. (This is not common knowledge.)

- * Mention the Pope's intention to visit Denver next year as part of an International Youth Rally there.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The Vice President

John Cardinal O'Connor

NOTE: John Howard of OVP will be in charge of the event. John is close to Hugh Ward, the Cardinal's nephew, who is not only like a son to the Cardinal but is also a Republican campaign activist.

IV. PRESS PLAN

Closed. But we should at least get a press photo of the VP and the Cardinal shaking hands.

OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON

MEETING WITH LEADERS OF THE RIGHT TO LIFE PARTY

DATE: June 15, 1992
TIME: 10:40 - 11:00
LOCATION: The Waldorf Astoria
FROM: Bill Gribbin

I. PURPOSE

To discuss matters of mutual interest with the leaders of the independent Right to Life Party of New York.

Goal of event: To convince the Party leaders to give the Bush/Quayle ticket the Right to Life Party's line on the New York State ballot this November.

II. BACKGROUND

These are tough folks. Dealing with them is no tea party.

Over the years, they have been lied to and exploited by various political interests. So they tend not to trust anyone. And with good reason. They view the New York State GOP as unreliable and Rockefellerite. Hard to argue with that.

The Party is not big -- its strength is concentrated on Long Island -- but its line can make the difference in a close election.

PLEASE SEE ATTACHED MATERIAL FOR SUGGESTIONS ABOUT HOW TO HANDLE SPECIFIC ISSUES OF INTEREST TO THE VP'S VISITORS.

ANSWERS TO THE NY RIGHT TO LIFE PARTY

QUESTIONNAIRE

1. Do you support passage in Congress of an amendment to the Constitution reversing Roe v Wade.

Yes, I always have.

2. Do you support passage in the NY State legislature of a resolution pursuant to Article V of the Constitution calling for a (national) Constitutional Convention to consider the Right to Life issue?

First, I can't be telling the State legislatures what to call for in this regard. Considering the fact that most of the State legislatures are controlled by the Democrats, you don't want to interject the Republican Vice President into their decisions on this matter.

Second -- and perhaps more important -- I'm not sure that, right at this moment, you would want a national Constitutional Convention proposing a constitutional amendment on abortion. I don't think such a convention would turn out as you -- and as I! -- would like.

There's an additional problem. We have to keep our pro-life troops together. There are too few of us to splinter the Movement. Back in the late 1970s, when Jim McFadden and others launched the idea of a "con con" (Constitutional Convention), they ran into bitter opposition, not just from the pro-abortion the pro-abortion forces, but from pro-life conservatives like Phyllis Schlafly. Our own people had to spend their time and money fighting one another over this, while the abortion lobby laughed.

IMPORTANT: Please do not use the term "pro-choice."

So for myself, I'm not going to talk about a con con until the situation is much clearer as to how it would turn out. We don't want it giving us an amendment so flawed that we would then have to spend the next five years fighting its ratification by the States.

3. Do you support ratification of a Human Life Amendment, once it is proposed, either in the State legislature or by a State ratifying convention?

Absolutely. And that's why, taking a long-range view, we have to keep working, not just at the national level, but at the local level as well.

Local elections are going to become more important than ever if, as we expect, the Supreme Court gives States leeway to restrict abortions.

I know that "restricting" is not our ultimate goal. But as I said last week in one of my speeches, when we're asked how many children we want to save, we should reply:

As many as we can right now.
And more later.
And eventually all.

4. Do you support, prior to the enactment of a Human Life Amendment, legislation that will restrict and regulate abortions?

Yes.

5. Do you oppose all efforts to legalize euthanasia in New York State, as defined by the Right to Life Party?

The trend toward legalized euthanasia has, I hope, been turned around with its defeat in the State of Washington. I felt so strongly about the ballot initiative there last year that I publicly opposed it, with a letter to the pro-life forces that were fighting it.

I would make one suggestion about the way the Right to Life Party defines the issue, however. You have to be careful about opening a loophole when you talk about "excessive expense, pain, or other inconvenience." You might want to drop "excessive expense" and "other inconvenience" as reasons for withholding treatment or care. That opens doors that are best kept closed.

TOUGH QUESTIONS THAT MIGHT COME FROM THE NY RIGHT TO LIFE PARTY

Q. What has your Administration done to deserve our endorsement?

A. George Bush has done more than any other President for the cause. He voted the D.C. appropriations bill because of abortion funding. He vetoed the whole Department of Defense appropriation bill because of abortion funding. He vetoed the HHS appropriation.

And he will do it again.

FOCA -- The Freedom of Choice Act -- will never become law while he is in the White House.

He's stood his ground and won on issues that most people -- including a lot of pro-lifers -- thought were impossible. Like the Title X (family planning) reforms. And like the ban on federal funding of experiments on aborted babies. We'll have that veto soon, and we're going to hold it in the House of Representatives.

And I know I don't have to remind you whom he has appointed to the Supreme Court.

When, not if, when Roe is overturned, it will be George Bush's accomplishment.

In addition to all that, of course, I've been speaking out on the issue. I've visited pro-life pregnancy counselling centers to focus attention on their wonderful work. And I want to assure you I won't hesitate to take on Clinton and Perot on this issue in the fall.

Q. Do you make exceptions to your pro-life position?

A. Throughout my congressional career, I endorsed legislation that would make exception only when the mother's life was in danger. Ideally, of course, every effort should be made to save both lives. And I think that's what we have to stress: saving both lives, rather than allow our opponents to define the terms of the debate.

The President's position has been to oppose public funding of abortion in all cases except the life of the mother. In terms of restricting abortion, his position is to bar it in all cases except life of the mother, rape and incest.

I know that, for the Right to Life Party, that's not a perfect position. But I believe that, someday, a far higher judge than any of us is going to look at George Bush's heroic stand for life, in all those legislative and court battles, and say, "Well done."

TOUGH QUESTIONS -- continued

- Q. Will you be campaigning for pro-abortion candidates this call?
- A. I will be campaigning for Republican candidates this fall. That's part of staying in the fight, winning allies, and moving closer toward our pro-life goals.

The best way I can sum it up is just this: When push came to shove, in the most important pro-life vote ever, 11 Republicans who do not agree with us on this issue voted FOR Clarence Thomas.

You just have to take a long-range view, fight by fight, to judge what is best for the ultimate success of the pro-life movement.

But I should mention that, when I do campaign with someone who doesn't agree with us on this issue, I make clear, when the issue comes up with the press or public, where I stand.

BRIEFING MEMORANDUM

TO: VICE PRESIDENT DAN QUAYLE
FROM: PAUL J. ANIBOLI, RNC RPD
RE: STRATEGY FOR VICTORY IN NEW YORK AND IMPORTANCE OF RIGHT TO LIFE AND CONSERVATIVE LINES

POLITICAL ENVIRONMENT

Primarily because of the political impact of New York City and its huge Democratic registration advantage, New York has traditionally been placed in the "gimme" column for Democratic Presidential candidates. However, a number of factors have emerged in the 1992 Presidential race to challenge the conventional wisdom. Establishing New York as a battleground accomplishes two critical goals: potentially collecting its wealth of electors and forcing the Democrats to drain sorely needed funds from other states.

GENERAL FACTORS

1. MANY NEW YORKERS DO NOT LIKE BILL CLINTON

As evidenced by the results of the New York Democratic Primary, Bill Clinton is not well-liked in that state. In the Primary he received only 41% with Tsongas receiving 20% and Brown 26%. (Tsongas was already out of the race. The fundamental distrust that New Yorkers have for Clinton, together with his moderate politics and southern accent, combine to alienate him from the liberal New York City Democratic base. His problems are further compounded by the fact he is intensely disliked by New York's Governor Cuomo. Cuomo has been meeting with Ross Perot over the last few weeks and has required his Democratically controlled State Assembly to pass legislation to facilitate Perot's effort to get on the state's ballot. Cuomo's enormous ego demands that he be the standard bearer of his party, even if he is not the Presidential Nominee. I am firmly convinced that Mario Cuomo has devoted himself to a Clinton loss in this state. Remember the beating that Clinton took at the hands of the New York press. In fact, on Long Island, Paul Tsongas came out on top of the three candidates on the ballot. This was accomplished after he announced that he had dropped out of the race. Many Democratic leaders on Long Island have continued to publicly express their distaste for Clinton. Clearly, Clinton does not have the support of the Democratic organization or rank and file in this state.

2. THE PEROT ALTERNATIVE

Voters in New York City have been conditioned over the years to not vote Republican. However, as evidenced by the 1989 race for Mayor of New York City, if the Democratic voters are displeased with a Democratic candidate and they are provided with an alternative line upon which to vote, they will not vote for the Democratic Nominee. (See the appendix chart reflecting the 1989 New York Mayoral Election).

Recently, it was announced by Liberal leadership in that state that if Ross Perot does become a Presidential Candidate, he will receive the Liberal endorsement. Since New York City's Democrats are comfortable with voting in the liberal line, Perot will be certain to act as a safety valve for the disenchanted New York Democratic voters to turn to. Even if Perot's strength wanes in the months to come, a single digit performance on the Liberal and/or an independent line will provide the siphon effect we need. We should recall that it was Jacob Javits' presence on the Liberal line that catapulted Alfonse D'Amato to the United States Senate. In 1980, D'Amato received 45.1% of the vote compared to 43.8% for Holtzman and Javits picking up most of the remaining 11.1%. Since Michael Dukakis only received 51% of the vote in 1988, it is clear that the liberal line can be the difference.

3. THE IDEOLOGICAL AND GEOGRAPHICAL BREAKDOWN

New York is a rather unique state in that the geographic boundaries serve in most instances as ideological boundaries. While the Long Island suburbs and the upstate New York communities are overwhelmingly Republican, New York City is overwhelmingly Democratic. As a result, we can effectively focus our resources. For example:

1986 D'Amato

Suffolk	63.9%	New York (Manhattan)	27.9%
Nassau	62.8%	Kings (Brooklyn)	40.3%

1988 Bush/Quayle

Suffolk	60.8%	New York	23.1%
Nassau	57.2%	Kings	32.9%

4. THE D'AMATO FACTOR

Alfonse D'Amato is in the fight of his political life. It appears that he will be running against Geraldine Ferraro. This may well be the most expensive Senatorial campaign in history. D'Amato already has $8 million in the bank and is likely to raise from $10 million to $12 million. D'Amato knows that in order for him to win, he must drive out the Republican, Conservative and Right to Life base vote in the suburbs of Long Island and upstate New York. D'AMATO HAS WORKED LONG AND HARD TO SECURE BOTH THE CONSERVATIVE AND RIGHT TO LIFE LINES. ON JUNE 6, 1992, HE RECEIVED BOTH ENDORSEMENTS. Even though a portion of D'Amato's coalition is not the same as the President's, he needs all the same people that President Bush needs to win. Accordingly, he will be spending his $10 to $12 million on getting out the same voters that we are. Obviously, if the D'Amato resources are properly coordinated with our Victory '92 effort, the combined effect will be dramatic.

5. THE BUSH/QUAYLE TICKET ON THREE LINES

New York is very unique in that there will be five party lines on the ballot, all of which have a substantial institutionalized base vote. Democrat, Republican, Conservative, Right to Life and Liberal lines will all draw a base vote, irrespective of who the candidate is. NEW YORK IS THE ONLY STATE IN THE COUNTRY WHICH HAS A RIGHT TO LIFE LINE ON THE BALLOT. In addition to the Republican line, the President should be running on the Conservative and Right to Life lines. The likelihood is that Bill Clinton will be running on only the Democratic line. History has shown us that the institutional base produced by these three lines can translate into victory with just a little effort. In 1988, despite the fact the campaign put almost no resources into the state, Mike Dukakis was able to win with only slightly more than 51% of the vote. THE PRESIDENT WAS NOT ON THE RIGHT TO LIFE LINE IN 1988.

Following are the results from the 1988 Presidential Election:

U.S. PRESIDENT	VOTES	PCT.
Dem Michael S. Dukakis	3,255,487	50.19
Rep George H.W. Bush	2,838,414	43.76
Con George H.W. Bush	243,457	3.75
Lib Michael S. Dukakis	92,395	1.42
RTL William A. Marra	20,497	0.32
NAP Lenora B. Fulani	15,845	0.24
Lbt Ron Paul	12,109	0.19
WW Larry Holmes	4,179	0.06
SW James MacWarren	3,287	0.05

Page Four

WL	Ed Winn	10	0.00
SOC	Willa Kenoyer	3	0.00

Totals this race: (6,485,683)

Our negotiations have gone very well with the Conservative Party, and we believe that the President and Vice President will receive their endorsement. Traditionally, the Right to Life line produces about 20% of what the Conservative line produces, even more in key Republican areas, which we will be targeting in the Victory '92 Program. However, because no major party candidates were on the Right to Life line in 1988, it only received the "hard core" support indicated above. We project that having the President and Vice President on that line may increase the output on that line to as much as .75% of the vote. Clearly, in a race that will be this close, that figure could be the difference.

THE JUNE 15TH RIGHT TO LIFE PARTY MEETING

The New York State Right to Life Party held its convention on June 6, 1992, at which point it designated Senator Alfonse D'Amato as their candidate on the Right to Life line. As I indicated previously, Senator D'Amato feels that running on all three lines is critical to his success and has worked very hard to secure all three endorsements. The Right to Life Party will convene again on a date to be determined, subsequent to the Republican National Convention, to declare its Presidential designee. The Party leadership has indicated that a decision cannot be formally made until that time. However, our meetings with the Party leadership will result in an understanding of what the Party intends to do at its August convention.

Procedurally, the Party normally requires a questionnaire to be filled out by all potential candidates. I have annexed a copy of their standard questionnaire. The State Chairwoman, has agreed to waive that requirement in the context of a Presidential race. However, questions that are listed on that questionnaire will be the subject of the meeting with the Vice President. Those are their concerns, and to some extent they are rigid in what responses they will accept. The Vice President should be aware of all five questions, because in one context or another, he will be queried on all of them during our meeting. I expect the meeting to be respectful and polite, however these are passionately ideological people, and they are firm in their commitment to their cause. Accordingly, they will press the Vice President on these issues.

As I indicated previously, New York is the only state in the country which actually has a Right to Life line. Thus, the Right to Life Party within the state becomes far more significant than the Right to Life National Committee. In fact, there is a great deal of friction between the Right to Life Committee and the Right to Life Party because the Right to Life Party is very protective of its autonomy. The Right to Life Party, which controls the endorsement and the line, did not want the National Committee to attend the meeting.

Accordingly, the Vice President will be meeting with the following people:

FROM: ZELDA J. NOVAK

BARBARA J. SCHLEIBAUM
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE VICE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: RNC EAGLES/TEAM 100 ROUNDTABLE

Date of Event: Monday, June 15, 1992
Location: The Waldorf Astoria
New York, New York
Time: 11:00 a.m.

I. Purpose

To participate in a photo opportunity and roundtable discussion with 30 Eagles/Team 100 members.

II. Background

George Klein, Founder and President of Park Tower Realty Corporation will host the event. Park Tower Realty Corp. is one of the country's leading development companies. He also serves as the Director of the United Nations Development Corporation, and is a co-chairman of the National Republican Jewish Coalition. His biography is attached.

Note: Chris Burnham will be in attendance as the guest of Eagle Scott Fossil. Chris Burnham is one of three Republican candidates running for U.S. Senate in Connecticut against incumbent Democrat Senator Chris Dodd. Burnham will face Bob Jaekle, who according to Connecticut GOP will drop out of the race next week, and Brook Johnson, who is alltogether a more formidable candidate in that he is capable of funding his own campaign to the tune of four million dollars. Johnson has spent, in two and one half weeks, more money than Burnham has raised in his entire campaign. Burnham is a Captain in the Marine Corps Reserves and strongly endorses the line item veto and term limitations. He is also in favor of urban enterprise zones and vouchers for education and health care. Scott Fossel is Chris Burnham's campaign manager and an Eagle. Burnham's biography is attached.

NEW YORK BUSH/QUAYLE '92:

The Republican Presidential primary in New York was scheduled for April 7. The petition filing deadline was February 6. Pat Buchanan did not submit the required number of petition names of registered Republicans to qualify a delegate slate in any of the 34 Congressional districts. This eliminated the need for the April 7 primary and has committed all 100 state delegates to Bush/Quayle. State GOP Chairman Bill Powers is being credited with this "upset" of Buchanan. Powers moved the primary date from June to April 1 and moved the filing date to February 6 to prevent Buchanan from making it onto the ballot. While all of Powers' actions were legal, the developments have caused controversy and the call for New York election law reform.

The New York Bush/Quayle campaign is being chaired by H. Douglas Barclay, CEO of Hicock and Barclay. He will not be in attendance. The Finance Chairman is Jack Hennessy of 1st Boston Corporation. Hennessy and his wife Margarita will attend the event.

H. Ross Perot's campaign has offices in New York City, Syracuse, Albany, Buffalo and Binghamton.

The Bush/Quayle campaign is hopeful that the Liberal Party will endorse Perot's candidacy. This could split the vote, and ensure victory for the Bush/Quayle ticket. The group supported John Anderson in 1980. As a legally recognized party, the Liberal Party endorsement would guarantee Perot a place on the ballot.

Discussions remain active with Conservative Party Chairman, Mike Long relative to their endorsement of a candidate. Long has said it is unlikely that they would support Perot but may run their own candidate. In 1980, the Reagan/Bush ticket secured more than 250,000 New York votes from the Conservative Party. In the 1988 election, the Bush/Quayle ticket secured over 240,000 votes from the Conservative Party.

A recent statewide poll indicated the following results:

Bush/Quayle	34%
Clinton	27%
Perot	20%

The Bush/Quayle ticket lost New York to Dukakis/Bentsen in 1988 by a 49 - 51 percent margin. New York has 33 electoral votes.

The Democrat primary was held on April 7. The results were as follows:

Clinton	41%
Tsongas	29%
Brown	26%

NEW YORK POLITICAL BRIEFING:

State Party Status:

Bill Powers, Chairman of the New York Republican State Committee, will not be in attendance. He is attending a GOP event in Queens County. Powers was elected in January of 1991 after the resignation of Pat Barrett. He is a former top aide to U.S. Senator Alfonse D'Amato and the chairman of the Rensselaer County Republican Committee. In addition, Powers was a consultant to the New York State Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

According to the WH, Powers recently was able to have the New York Republican leadership agree to a "no new taxes" pledge. The State Party was approximately $1.3 million in debt at the beginning of 1991. Powers has reduced the debt to less than $300,000.

Senate '92:

In 1992 Senator Alfonse D'Amato (an early Dole supporter) will face a tough bid for a third term. He is viewed as vulnerable as a result of a 20-month investigation into his dealings with HUD contracts. D'Amato was cleared of the allegations of misconduct by the Senate Ethics Committee. However, D'Amato's brother was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of fraudulently billing a defense contractor. D'Amato received the party's designation at the State Convention on May 31, 1992.

Former Vice Presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro is a candidate for the Senate seat. Recent polls show that she retains good name identification and high approval ratings. However, one third of those polled say they have an unfavorable view of Ferraro.

Four-term Attorney General Robert Abrams is also a candidate for D'Amato's seat. Abrams spent $2 million in his 1990 AG race. Abrams faces criticism for his statement that he "did not have enough information" to decide whether he supported U.S. intervention in the Gulf conflict.

New York Comptroller Liz Holtzman has also entered the race for the Democrat nomination to the U.S. Senate. In an effort to galvanize female voters, she has made sexual harassment and the Thomas hearings a campaign issue.

Reverend Al Sharpton, a controversial civil rights activist, has also entered the Democrat primary. The Democrat State Party recently drew fire for allowing Sharpton to participate in a candidate forum. Sharpton is facing felony tax evasion charges and has consistently exacerbated racial tensions in the state. GOP State Chairman Bill Powers has referred to Sharpton as "New York's own David Duke."

Congressman Bob Mrazek (D-3) withdrew from the Senate race on April 9, following the disclosure that he wrote 972 bad checks from the House bank, maintaining a negative balance in his account for more than 23 months. He held a fundraising advantage over the other Democrat candidates, and was the favorite of the Western New York regional convention in January. According to the RNC, Mrazek has initially agreed to release his banking records, but reneged on that promise and instead released a report from his attorneys stating that his overdrafts were nothing more than salary advances. Mrazek is not expected to run for a Congressional seat.

According to the New York Post (4/27), key Democrat insiders say Abrams and Ferraro are now "running neck and neck to be the state Democrat Party's officially designated candidate. Mrazek's upstate New York support now appears to be going to Ferraro, according to party insiders. New York's Liberal Party has endorsed Abrams's candidacy. Democrats fear that a likely scenario will be that Abrams will lose the Democrat primary, but still run on the Liberal line, guaranteeing a split vote that could assure D'Amato's re-election. In 1980, when NYC Comptroller Liz Holtzman (D) won the Democrat primary and D'Amato beat then-Senator Jacob Javitz (R) in the Republican primary, Javitz ran on the Liberal line in November, drawing enough votes from Holtzman to let D'Amato win by a 45%-44% margin.

A poll conducted March 27-29, 1992 showed Ferraro leading the Democrats with Abrams in second:

Ferraro	37%
Abrams	30%
Holtzman	14%
Sharpton	3%
Mrazek	2%

CHRISTOPHER BURNHAM

Christopher B. Burnham, (b) (6) is a businessman, a legislator, and a Captain in the Marine Corps Reserve. A lifelong Stamford resident, he attended the University of Connecticut and earned his B.A. from Washington & Lee University, and a Masters of Public Administration from Harvard University. Chris has worked as a construction foreman in Alaska, started a small trading company on the floor of the New York Futures Exchange, and in addition to his legislative duties has held down a full-time job as a public finance banker with the First Boston Corporation in New York. He spent a year working in the U.S. Congress with the House Armed Services Committee as legislative director to Jack Davis (R-IL).

In 1987 he won the state house seat formerly held by Congressman Chris Shays. He has been reelected with margins of up to 80%. After only one and one-half terms in the General Assembly, Chris was elected Assistant Minority Leader and has been at the forefront of the efforts to cut waste and "pork" in government, and to reform spending and streamline government. His legislative duties were interrupted in November of 1990 when he was called to active duty with the Marine Corp, and he led an infantry platoon in the liberation of Kuwait.

On October 15, 1991, Chris took a leave of absence from the First Boston Corporation to dedicate himself to a non-stop effort to unseat Chris Dodd.

LUNCHEON AND ADDRESS FOR THE MANHATTAN INSTITUTE

Date: Monday, June 15, 1992
Time: 12:15 p.m.
Location: Jade Room, The Waldorf Astoria Hotel

From: Anne Hathaway AH
Assistant to the Vice President
Director of Scheduling and Public
Liaison

I. PURPOSE

For you to address the Manhattan Institute.

II. BACKGROUND

The Manhattan Institute is a non-profit, non-partisan research based organization that was established in 1978. The Institute has published several books dealing with public policy issues and has sponsored conferences in many cities throughout the country and around the world. A thirty-member Board of Trustees comprised of leading academic and business people govern the Institute which is supported entirely by private U.S. sources, several dozen foundations, and over one hundred corporations and individuals.

This research and educational organization is dedicated to the mission of promoting sound public policy. Some of its programs include the Center for Educational Innovation, the Judicial Studies Program and the Center for Urban Governance.

The Center for Urban Governance deals with the challenge of developing proposals for fundamental structural change in government functions. It explores how government structures can go back to providing basic services and returning power to the people.

Currently, the Center is working on issues of privatization, systematic school reform and producing a Quality of Life Survey. The survey will ask New Yorkers, for the first time, what they think about government services for which they are paying. Thus attempting to show public sector leaders the direction government ought to go in order to move beyond special interests.

The Center for Educational Innovation (CEI) is working towards making schools more responsive and effective. Within school districts, CEI works to create an institutional environment in which risk-taking and entrepreneurial thought become the norm rather than the exception. For example, the Manhattan Institute has invited to the Institute key players in New York's District 4 who have helped raise the reading "at grade" level of children from 17% in 1973 to 67% in 1987. By learning about the programs used to advance District 4, they hope to achieve the same success in other districts as well.

You may recall a roundtable meeting with District 4 and Manhattan Institute representatives on November 29, 1990.

Center for Educational Innovation: Applying Lessons Learned in the Inner City

THE MANHATTAN Institute's Center for Educational Innovation (CEI), comprised of a first-rate team of visionary educators, has been making great strides toward its goal of making schools more responsive and effective. The Center's program of hands-on assistance to entrepreneurial educators is unique among policy research organizations and has drawn the attention and commendation of national leaders such as Vice President Quayle and Assistant Secretary of Education David Kearns, as well as leading foundation and corporate officers.

The work of the Center is based upon the experience of its professional team: Sy Fliegel, Colman Genn, and Carlos Medina, who as administrators in East Harlem's District 4 oversaw one of the true success stories in American public education. Under their tutelage, the East Harlem schools were transformed from places of despair into centers of learning and hope. Success in East Harlem was due to a total restructuring of the district to foster innovation, risk-taking, and the establishment of high academic standards. Programs were not designed centrally and imposed on schools. Rather, the district's leadership focused on creating an entrepreneurial environment through the discipline of choice, an approach that can become the path to reform for all of our nation's schools. Bringing this lesson to America's school system is the Center's mission.

The Center's program is also based on the experience that the Institute has gained from its research in other policy areas. CEI staff work to overcome the stupefying effects of bureaucratic control and to free students, teachers, parents, and administrators to build the kind of schools they truly want: schools that put learning first. In order to respond to the needs of their consumers, schools must be small, autonomous and diverse. ~~The Center works in school districts to create the institutional environment in which risk-taking and entrepreneurial thought become the norm rather than the exception.~~

In New York School District 3, on Manhattan's Upper West Side, the Center has worked with teachers, parents and administrators over the past year with spectacular results. The district has adopted magnet schools. Parents in Franklin Township can now select from among six exciting schools, ranging from traditional academic to fine and performing arts programs.

In the South Bronx's District Twelve, the Center's restructuring approach began by working with two elementary schools on the design of unique and innovative improvement efforts. Through these initiatives the Center has helped local educators to demonstrate to their peers that successful education is possible in this most troubled community. With the Center's assistance, the Mohegan School is developing a curriculum for grades kindergarten through six based upon E.D. Hirsch's concept of cultural literacy. Public School 92 opened two mini-schools in September 1991, with CEI assistance. Both are teacher-initiated, in line with CEI's philosophy of empowering teachers to pursue their vision of schooling. The school is also developing a parent resource center to encourage greater parental involvement.

Richard Gilder, Chairman of the Manhattan Institute, has established the Innovative Schools Fund, which allows the Center to support exemplary efforts within public schools with modest grants. The philosophy of the fund is to support innovative risk-takers within the system, to help them get their programs established and then to assist them in building institutional support for their efforts.

In addition to hands-on restructuring, the Center informs the debate on parental choice and acts as a catalyst for change by holding conferences, roundtables and workshops for professional educators and others toiling in the vineyard of education reform.

ed parental choice for all of its middle schools and is currently helping parents to choose among twenty-four options open to their children for the school year beginning in September 1992.

In Franklin Township, New Jersey, CEI Adjunct Fellow Frank Esposito helped guide the school district through the introduction of a district-wide parental choice system based

Tell us about your work with the city's schools.

SALINS: In 1973 only 17% of the students in District 4, East Harlem, were reading at grade level. By 1987, after an energetic and visionary team of teachers had created a network of alternative schools in the District and allowed parents and children to choose among them, that number had risen to 67%. District 4 is one of the greatest success stories in the history of education and remains the most comprehensive experience of public school choice yet. We have now brought three of the key players in District 4's transformation to the Manhattan Institute in hopes that they can achieve the same incredible success elsewhere.

...we have never really looked at the services the City provides from the point of view of the consumer of those services.

We believe the key to success lies in creating an entrepreneurial spirit so that teachers and administrators feel free to take risks. We are supporting alternative schools and programs of public school choice in New York City and other school districts around the country. For example, in District 3, on the Upper West Side, we are supporting the District as it introduces districtwide choice for the first time. Thus the concept of permitting students and parents to choose their own schools has moved from District 4 across town, and we are confident that it will soon be a mainstay of New York City schools.

What role does The City Journal play in all this?

COSTIKYAN: The City Journal is one of the most important things we're doing. It has already become and will continue to be a major factor in changing the direction of City government. The Center for Urban Governance is working hard on a whole range of issues, but in addition to hard work we need to have a means to reach the widest possible audience. The City Journal is putting our thinking on critical urban issues into public play. Articles on City and State finances, rent regulation, the public schools and the subways have already attracted enormous attention in political and business circles.

New York has always been low on acreage and high on talent. It is still an intellectual magnet, and The City Journal will take advantage of the academic and journalistic talent available here to promote a lively, informed and sustained discussion about the future of New York.

EDWARD COSTIKYAN was appointed a Senior Fellow of the Manhattan Institute in 1991. He is a partner in a New York law firm and has been involved in New York City political reform for over thirty years. He is the author of numerous works including a milestone study of government, Behind Closed Doors: Politics in the Public Interest.

PETER SALINS was appointed a Senior Fellow of the Manhattan Institute in 1978. He is Chairman of the Department of Urban Affairs and Planning at Hunter College. He has authored New York Unbound: The City and the Politics of the Future, The Ecology of Housing Destruction: Economic Effects of Public Intervention in the Housing Market, and Scarcity By Design: The Failure of New York's Housing Policy.

The City Journal is putting our thinking on critical urban issues into public play.

1991 Citicorp Wriston Fellow Tackles New York Spending Priorities

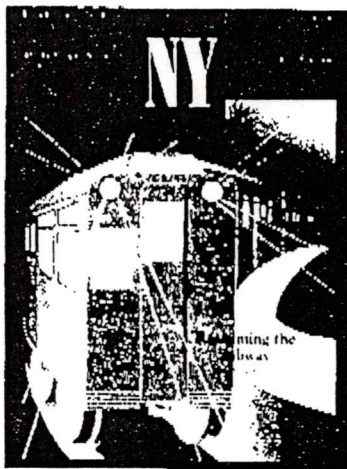

PROFESSOR STEVEN CRAIG of Hunter College has been awarded the Institute's 1991 Citicorp Wriston Fellowship, which carries a $10,000 stipend and is awarded annually to a promising young scholar. Craig's research involved an exacting analysis of the budgets of 11 major cities. His finding: New York City has far more resources at its disposal than any other major city, and its financial troubles are the result of conscious policy choices that could be remedied. Making such comparisons is a daunting task, since the responsibility for government functions varies from city to city. But Craig's methodology adjusted for most such problems and provided a clear picture of the differences between New York and other cities.

Professor Craig found that New York's government spent roughly $3,000 per resident in 1986 (the last year for which comparable data were available). The next highest was Los Angeles, at nearly $2,000 per capita. The average for the ten cities was $1,700—roughly 40 percent less than New York. Interestingly, Craig found that New York's spending on what are considered traditional municipal services, such as police, education, and parks, was little more, or even slightly less, than other cities. The reason, according to Craig: "Alone among the cities studied, New York has undertaken to run its own welfare state."

New York's per capita spending on welfare (including Medicaid) is nearly ten times as high as that of other cities, he found, partly because Albany burdens localities with much of the responsibility for these programs. New York also spends four times as much on hospitals and nearly three times as much on housing programs as other cities. The net

Brunie Fund Writers Examine Medicaid, Public Safety, and Schools

THE BRUNIE FUND for New York Journalism, launched in 1990 with donations from the Institute's Board of Trustees and friends of Charles H. Brunie, provided funding for five significant articles in its first year. Each of these initial articles was published in the Institute's new quarterly, NY: The City Journal.

"Reclaiming the Subway," by criminologist George Kelling, appeared in the Winter 1991 issue. This award-winning article (honorable mention in the Citizens Housing and Planning Council's annual journalism awards) explained the tenets of community-based policing by showing the connection between public disorder and serious crime. Transit Police Chief William Bratton ordered several dozen copies for distribution throughout his department.

The Spring 1991 issue carried an article by economist Edwin Rubenstein titled "Emergency Surgery for Medicaid" which examined New York's Medicaid crisis and ways to resolve it. Another article by Rubenstein supported by the Brunie Fund appeared in the Summer issue under the title "Albany Passes the Check." It pointed to the tremendous burdens placed on localities by state-mandated regulations, such as the Wicks Law, calling for separate contracts for all public works projects; according to some estimates, this law costs local governments over $400 million annually.

A second Brunie Fund article in The City Journal last summer was New York University Law Professor James Jacobs's survey of New York State court decisions that have created enormous loopholes for white-collar and organized criminals. Stephanie Gutmann's "Is School-Based Management Working?" appeared in the Fall issue of The Journal. This Brunie Fund-sponsored article takes a critical look at the results of the city's latest experiment in school reform and finds them disappointing. For school-based management to succeed, Gutmann concluded, it has to be coupled with the kind of parental choice programs that have been adopted in Manhattan's Districts 3 and 4.

The Brunie Fund provides modest grants of from one to five thousand dollars to underwrite research about issues vital to the city's future. Its backers believe such encouragement will improve the caliber and depth of New York journalism and thereby improve the tenor of political debate.

Charles Brunie, a Wall Street executive, served as Chairman of the Manhattan Institute's Board of Trustees from 1980 to 1990, and his fellow trustees felt that such a program named in his honor would be a fitting acknowledgement for his years of service to the organization. Writers wishing to apply for assistance should send a brief outline of their proposed article, along with samples of their work, to the Institute's research director, Lawrence Mone. Writers will maintain complete freedom with regard to publishing outlets for their finished articles.

Four New Manhattan Institute Books Signed by Publishers

FOUR MANUSCRIPTS from the Manhattan Institute's research program have been accepted by leading publishing houses.

Second Thoughts: Myths and Morals of Economic History will be published in May by Oxford University Press. A collection of two dozen short essays by leading economic historians, it was edited by Donald McCloskey, Professor of Economic History at the University of Iowa. Among the essay topics: black economic progress since the Civil War; the hidden costs of government subsidies; the effects of war on the economy; and government-enforced monopolies in the golden age of steamboating. McCloskey's introductory essay compares today's apprehension over the trade deficit with Japan with similar reactions in the nineteenth century to trade imbalances with England and Germany. The book will be directed at opinion leaders, including policymakers and journalists, in the hope of providing an historical perspective to what is too often a frenzied debate about the great issues of the day.

Scarcity by Design is an account of New York City's long history of intervention in the housing market written by Institute Senior Fellows Gerard Mildner and Peter Salins. It examines the relationship between New York's housing shortage and the city's rent regulations, zoning laws, property tax structure, and public housing programs. New York's housing crisis, the authors contend, is the result of this extensive web of regulation. The city's attempt to "cheat the market," they write, has created a "world of adversaries" in which tenants are pitted against landlords and each other, with a result unsatisfactory to all. The book, which will conclude with a detailed reform proposal, is scheduled for release in late Spring through Harvard University Press.

Times Books, an imprint of Random House, has accepted Sy Fliegel's and James MacGuire's account of the alternative school movement in New York's District Four and the emergence of the most comprehensive parental choice system in American public education. The book tells the story of how Fliegel, now a fellow at the Institute's Center for Educational Innovation, helped build a network of schools of choice which transformed the East Harlem school district from the worst in the city to an internationally acclaimed success story. Times Books editor Paul Golob commented on signing the book: "Fliegel and MacGuire's book not only is a thorough discussion of the choice issue, it is one of the great human interest stories of our time. We are proud to be publishing it." Publication is scheduled for late 1992.

The MIT Press recently signed on to publish Phantom Risks: Scientific Inference and the Law, a book of essays by leading scientists and medical authorities compiled and edited by Peter Huber. A more scholarly version of Huber's Galileo's Revenge, it is scheduled for fall publication.

The ideas for these books originated with the Manhattan Institute, which provided the funding necessary for their completion. Commissioning a work, supporting it, and finding a publishing outlet are only part of what the Institute does, however; making sure a book reaches as wide an audience as possible is perhaps the most important service we provide. With important books like these to look forward to, the coming year promises to be an eventful one on the publishing front.

the work force, and aging. It was also the first foundation to make a substantial grant for the publication of the Institute's City Journal.

Issues concerning quality of life go directly to the heart of governance, and New Yorkers aren't alone in questioning the priorities of their elected officials; already efforts are under way to replicate the survey in other cities. result is not only a financial squeeze, but a declining quality of life, as basic services are cut to balance the budget. "Our leaders must ask—or be asked—whether the city's long-term prospects would be improved if the city gave a higher priority to the essential services that improve the quality of life for all New Yorkers," he concluded. Craig's analysis was published in the Fall 1991 issue of The City Journal.

The Citicorp Wriston Fellowship was established in 1988 with grants to the Institute from Citicorp in honor of its former chairman Walter Wriston. Past recipients include former Harvard professor Lawrence Lindsey, who wrote The Growth Experiment: How the New Tax Policy Is Transforming the U.S. Economy under its auspices; Randall Filer (1989), another Hunter College economist, whose study of homelessness in New York has been widely cited; and University of California economist Thomas Hazlett (1990) whose article on deregulation of the broadcast industry published in the Journal of Law and Economics may be expanded into a book. Lindsey is now a member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve, while Tom Hazlett is visiting Chief Economist at the Federal Communications Commission. ■

NO WHITE LIES, NOW BLACK LIES--ONLY THE TRUTH!

TONY BROWN

At the height of the rioting following the Rodney King verdict, Tony Brown was one of 12 Blacks invited to the White House to offer advice to President Bush.

Brown's status as a specialist on urban policies, cultural diversity and economic development has now matched his standing as one of America's premiere journalists.

Recently, he signed on as a commentator for "All Things Considered" on the National Public Radio Network where six million listeners hear his views.

Tony Brown is a man of action who challenges Black America to take the leadership role in perpetuating his own course. For this reason, he was chosen as the keynote speaker for a summit conference of the nation's leading Black organizations.

This television commentator, syndicated newspaper columnist and movie director lives by his motto of self-help. He established the Buy Freedom 900 Network, a high-tech information service and self-help network that will recycle consumer resources and create small businesses for the needy sectors of our national community. The profits from the calls to this national directory bringing consumers, businesses, professionals, churches and community organizations together will be redistributed as loan guarantees to create and expand local businesses.

Brown also financed, wrote, directed and distributed his first feature motion picture, a $2 million movie with a message about drug use and self-respect, called The White Girl -- which is the street name for cocaine. The movie is now available on videocassette. He is currently writing his first book, entitled No White Lies No Black Lies--Only The Truth! to be published in 1993.

This media entrepreneur has been an innovator in many areas. He was the first and founding dean, as well as professor, of the School of Communications at Howard University, where he established a highly distinguished academic and professional record. Concerned with the shortage of Blacks in the communications industry, he initiated an annual Careers Conference at Howard, which was highly successful in securing jobs for qualified Blacks in the field of communications.

Brown also founded the annually-held Black College Day in 1980 and, as the honorary chairperson of the National Organization of Black College Alumni, Inc., spearheads a movement to preserve Black colleges. The U. S. Congress has since officially designated Brown's choice, the last Monday in September, as a national observance.

His community activities include: member of the Board of Associates of the Harvard Foundation; Board of Directors of the National Business League and the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History. He also heads a scholarship committee for Black American students at the American University of Paris.

Called "Television's Civil Rights Crusader" in a cover story by Black Enterprise magazine, this educator and lecturer coordinated a march in Detroit which featured Martin Luther King, Jr. and drew over 500,000, believed to be the largest civil rights march in America. It is also be-

(over)

...d to be the first time Dr. King delivered his famous "I Have A Dream" speech.

But it is for his work as a journalist that he is best known. He has distinguished himself as a writer, film director and producer of the nationally broadcast PBS television series, "Tony Brown Journal," the nation's longest-running and top-ranked Black-Affairs series.

Brown's television series was selected in the New York Daily News as one of the top 10 television shows of all time that presents positive Black images. "Tony Brown's Journal" was the only current program ranked in the top 10.

On the heels of this historic honor, Brown was given the prestigious Image award by the NAACP in Hollywood for presenting positive images of African-Americans in film, television, theater and music. The TV series was nominated for the 1991 NAACP Image Awards for "Outstanding News, Talk or Information Series/Special."

The American Psychiatric Association's Committee of Black Psychiatrists gave him its annual Solomon Carter Fuller Award for his pioneering efforts in education, broadcasting and movie distribution.

At a recent Black Emmy Awards, he was cited for distinguished and outstanding achievement in the television industry.

Harvard University also honored Tony Brown at a special three-day celebration commemorating his 20 years on television, as did the American University of Paris.

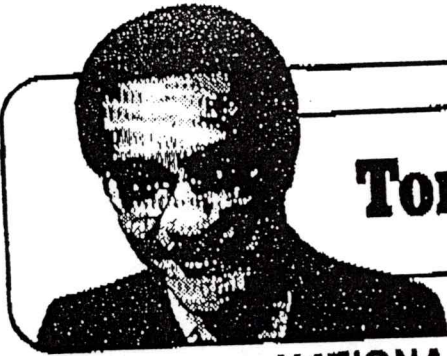

In addition, he received The Economic Empowerment Award from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (S.C.L.C.) for "his vision of economic parity."

Tony Brown Productions, Inc. in New York, in addition to producing movies, television programs and a magazine, also markets videotapes from a collection called "The Library of Black History" and offers a videotape duplication service to businesses and corporations.

Mr. Brown was born in Charleston, West Virginia, where he graduated from Garnet High School. He received his Bachelor's degree in Sociology and his Master's degree in Psychiatric Social Work at Wayne State University in Detroit. He has received numerous honorary doctorate degrees for his achievements in civil rights, education and journalism.

His motto is "Self Help." His call to action is very explicit: No White Lies, No Black Lies -- Only The Truth!

ROSS PEROT AND RACISM

Exit polls from last week's primaries show that the American public is flirting with the idea of making Ross Perot the next president of the United States.

Nearly half of the Republicans and one-third of the Democrats in California would have voted for the Texas billionaire had he been on the ballot. In Ohio and New Jersey, also key electoral college states, the stories were similar.

In poll after poll, Perot leads President Bush and Bill Clinton, both of whom are forced to examine new campaign strategies to fit a three-man race.

Perot's appeal -- clearly seen at his almost all-White satellite rally in six states -- is essentially "none of the above" in an anti-politics-as-usual climate.

Although he ambiguously refuses to spell-out his positions, over the years, Ross Perot has left some footprints on the sands of social issues.

For example, "he outraged the Black community in Dallas when he opposed a panel to review complaints against police" in 1988, the New York Post reported in April.

"Then he proposed reducing crime by cordoning off minority neighborhoods and conducting door-to-door

Hispanics to their homes and systematically searching them -- as Hitler did the Jews.

Time magazine did report, however, that a Perot backer in Virginia, "says he was ousted, partly over his desire to include more Blacks in the campaign."

None of this really makes Perot that different. Ignoring Blacks has become mainstream politics. Even Democrat Bill Clinton "who likes to boast about his progressive civil rights record as Arkansas governor," according to Time, and the man who inweapons and drug searches," Jane Furse wrote in the Post.

"THE MEDIA HAS IGNORED PEROT'S ALLEGED PROPOSAL THAT POLICE DO HOUSE-TO-HOUSE SEARCHES FOR DRUGS AND GUNS IN BLACK NEIGHBORHOODS -- AS HITLER DID THE JEWS."

The fact that the major media has ignored those allegations in its reporting of Perot makes one suspect that it doesn't matter whether a potential president intends to solve the crime and drug problems by confining Blacks and and irritated by Clinton's neo-Republican policies, will now be openly courted by Clinton because Perot has driven him back to the basics of a Democratic coalition. That's why Clinton will soon stop talking ing bloc if he can get his share of the White vote. Blacks can expect, therefore, to be re-discovered by the Democrats.

I also predict a shift in Republican politics because of Perot's erosion of the party's base among the Democrats and independents. There is no better place to compensate for this loss, and at the same time hurt Clinton, than with another 10% of the Black vote. For every Black vote the Republicans get, the Democrats lose two.

A three-way race returns the '92 elections to the drawing board and breathes new potential into a politically exhausted and ignored Black community.

cused from political accountability to Blacks because Blacks almost unanimously oppose him and the Republican Party and the GOP has learned to win without the Black vote. At least, that was true in a two-way race.

But in a three-way race, each candidate must stick to his base of support. That means Blacks, Jews and unions for the Democrats; better educated, higher-income Whites in the South and West for the Republicans; and all of the above, with the exception of Blacks, for Perot.

Therefore, Perot's base depends on his ability to erode the other bases: Reagan Democrats and independents, including loyal Republicans, from Bush and White Southerners, older men, the pro-choice, Anita Hill feminists and disgruntled Democrats from Clinton.

with the gay vote with what many homosexuals feel is bigotry on Perot's part because he would bar gays from cabinet-level jobs. However vague Perot is about other issues, he knows exactly where he stands on gays and Blacks -- keep the former out and lock the latter up.

Where does all of this leave Blacks -- rejected all-around?

In a two-way race, the voting pattern of 90% Democrat renders them politically impotent. But in a three-way race, Clinton could win a plurality with that big a vot-

And with a war chest of $300 million for his campaign, Perot may even hire a few Blacks for window dressing.
